SOUTH AMERICAN STOCK MARKET

American purebred animals to the value of $400,000 were sold in South America during the first six months of this year, and live stock commissioners sent to South America to develop the American purebred industry in that country report that the field is very promising. Even in out of the way places where transportation facilities are poor purebred hogs and high-grade and purebred bulls have been found by the commissioners. At Lavras, a town about 250 miles northwest of Rio de Janeiro, there is an American mission college whose farm contains purebred Duroc-Jersey hogs and Brown Swiss and Holstein cattle, the foundation stock of which was imported from the United States.

Most of the cattle in the State of Minas Geraes, one of the most important stock-raising sections of Brazil, are dairy stock showing considerable Holstein blood. The cows are milked once a day and produce on an average about three quarts of milk. The commissioners are of the opinion that this production could be materially increased

To the Voters:

As a candidate for Judge of Probate on the Republican ticket, I wish to say that for the last eight years I have served the People of this County as Prosecuting Attorney; during that time has occurred the period of the War and the new liquor law troubles. There have been handled over 1000 criminal cases in court and many cases and matters handled without their getting into court. There have been but eight acquittals and they were for misdemeanors only. The offences have been for Assault, Robbery, Burglary, Larceny, Local Option Violations, Manufacture of Liquor, and nearly every crime listed in the statutes. Not a single case has been lost by a mistake in papers. Not a dollar has been paid by the county for an assistant Prosecuting Attorney. The County's civil affairs and advice to its Officers and Boards is a part of my work as you all know.

I speak of these things so that you may consider them when the question of qualifications for the office of Judge of

According to reports received by the Bureau of Markets, the outlook for the future marketing of American purebred live stock in South America would seem to be particularly good, if it is properly developed, and the commissioners are doing everything possible to encourage the business.

CLOVER SEED

East Lansing.—Clover seed can now be purchased at a relatively cheap price, for the first time in the past four years, according to J. F. Cox, head of the farm crops department at the Michigan Agricultural College. The Michigan crop is in good condition, and an excellent yield is reported in most sections of the state.

"If this seed is allowed to follow the usual market channels, much of it will move outside the state", says Professor Cox, "and Michigan farmers who desire to purchase seed next spring may have difficulty in buying Michigan grown seed."

"Many farmers, who have been forced to seed thinly for the past few years, recognize the importance of securing good clover crops and are buying seed from neighbors and local seed dealers this fall. This practice is one which the Farm Crop Department at M. A. C. considers an excellent one, provided the clover is well cleaned, since Michigan grown clover seed of good condition and purity is best for planting in Michigan.

STATE REPRESENTATIVE

On November 2nd the voters of Livingston County will elect a man to represent their interests in the legislature for the ensuing two years. That man should be a man of unquestioned integrity, sound judgment, progressive without being radical, and with the broadest possible experience in the business life of our community. We need such a man and we should be content with nothing less.

John Wriggelsworth has been nominated for that office by the democrat party and possesses all the qualifications necessary for the faithful and intelligent discharge of its varied and important duties. He has been successful as a farmer as a school teacher, as a produce dealer and as a banker. He would be successful, if elected, as a legislator. He has been faithful to every business interest entrusted to his care and people of Livingston County will make no mistake in selecting him to represent their interests in the legislature. Please put an [X] before his name November 2nd.

COUNTRY'S FIRST CORN MILL

Recent Discoveries Establish Its Site at a Point on the St. Croix River, Eastport, Me.

COMMON ERROR IN GRAMMAR

Words "Began" and "Began" Are Wrongly Used by Those Careless in Their Speech.

The site of what undoubtedly was the first mill has been discovered at Eastport, Me.

It is quite common to hear some one say, "The battle began yesterday." "The battle began yesterday."

empties into the St. Croix river at a point nearly opposite the southern end of Dochet's Island, where De Monts and his men settled in the year 1604, three years before the settlement of Jamestown. In excavating for a fish pond near his summer home, R. S. McCarter of Cambridge, Mass., unearthed the unmistakable remains of an ancient dam of stone and timbers. Comparing the site with the original map of the island, authorities agreed that it must have been the site of the water mill mentioned in the old records as employed by Sieur De Monts and his men to grind their corn, being the largest stream within an area of several miles on either side of the river.

Richard Grant White, in "Words and Their Uses," a high authority, criticizes and condemns the use of "began" instead of "began" to express the past.

Making It Easy.

To facilitate the scheme for taking the finger-prints of infants in America, it is proposed to make the impressions in jam.—The Passing Show (London).

Of course, it is incorrect beyond any doubt to say, "I have began" to express the perfect tense of "begin." Say, "I have begun," never "I have began."—Columbus Dispatch.

An Objection. "Are you in favor of a front porch campaign?" "Not me," replied Farmer Coratesel. "Miranda would never stand for having the grass all trampled out in the front yard."

GEORGIE'S PATIENCE GONE

And the Youngster Signified the Fact With Slang Phrase Much to the Point.

"Slang and children are the two most prominent paths by which colloquial and technical terms come into everyday use," remarked Professor Jorgan. "Only the other day I overheard two small boys talking together.

Water Power in China.

China's great commercial water highway, the Yang-tse Kiang, is to be put to work. To keep the river always at flood level, and, incidentally, to get rid of rapids which interfere with navigation, seven dams will be constructed. The project contemplates the development of 31,000,000 electric horsepower, and will cost $4,000,000.

This is the first important water power development undertaken in China, whose industrial future has a wonderful outlook in that direction. For, thanks to its lofty mountain ranges, the Flowery land has far greater water power available than any other country in the world.

Seat of the Trouble.

Herbert often complained about the peculiar disposition of his small cousin, with whom he could not get along well. After a recent disagreement he came into the house out of patience and exclaimed: "Well, mother, James and I might just as well quit trying to be friends if he is my cousin. We just can't agree. He's too full of human nature."

The Autocrat.
"Do you and your wife talk politics at home."
"Never," replied Mr. Meekton. "We have a perfectly good cook."
"What has that to do with it?"
"We are afraid she might get into the conversation and tell us both how we'll have to vote to keep her from leaving."

Buffalo Roam in Australia.

When Australians refer to their empty north, they do not always recall the fine herds of buffalo which roam in the northern territory. The buffalo has prospered greatly since the first animals were imported, and his hide and horns offer a fairly easy source of revenue. In the hot, wide territory over which the "mud buffalo" roams, it is not feasible to use him as a new source of food supply, and attempts at yarding have shown that the buffalo is a true Australian, as he resents being driven and expresses this resentment vigorously. It is stated that the mud buffalo has four stomachs and does not chew the cud.

105,683,108, NOW U. S. POPULATION

NATION GAINS 13,710,842 INHABITANTS SINCE 1910, AN INCREASE OF 14.9%.

MICHIGAN INCREASED 857,049

State Passes Missouri and Takes Seventh Place Among States With Total of 3,667,222.

Washington.—The total population of continental United States is 105,683,108, an increase of 13,710,842, or 14.9 per cent. Michigan, with a population of 3,667,222, increased 857,049, or 23.5 per cent, almost doubling its previous record growth made in the decade ended with 1890. The state passed Missouri, which was seventh in the 1910 census.

Revised figures of Detroit's population show that at the time of taking the census the city contained 993,678 inhabitants, an increase of 527,912, or 53.1 per cent over the figures for 1910. Figures previously announced gave the city a population of 993,739.

There are in the United States 6,459,998 farms, an increase of 98,492, or 1.5 per cent, over the number recorded in 1910, the census bureau announced.

The figure given as the total population of the United States does not include approximately 12,250,000 people living in the country's outlying possessions. The population of Alaska and the total classed under the military and naval service abroad are yet to be announced.

Director Rogers, of the census bureau, in making the announcement of the country's population, said that while the figures were preliminary and subject to correction, the final official population as transmitted to congress in December, for apportionment purposes, was not likely to be

HARDWICK NOMINATED FOR GEORGIA GOVERNOR

THOMAS W. HARDWICK

Atlanta, Ga.—Complete unofficial returns received by the Atlanta Constitution showed that Thomas W. Hardwick, former United States senator, had been nominated for governor of Georgia in the Democratic primary. On the face of the Constitution's returns, Hardwick carried 100 counties, with a total of 236 county unit votes, while his opponent, Clifford L. Walker, former state attorney general, carried 54 counties, with 143 votes. One hundred and ninety-four votes were needed for nomination. Hardwick long has been an outspoken foe of the League of Nations.

STATE TAX OVER 17 MILLIONS

Decrease of Only $52,527 From The Total 1919 Tax Total.

1920, just apportioned to the counties by O. B. Fuller, auditor-general, is $17,278,328, a decrease of only $52,527 from last year. The state tax the second year after a legislative session is usually much lower than the fall following the session.

This year's tax is based on the same equalization as that of 1919, the Legislature having failed to provide machinery for carrying out its mandate that there be an equalization each year. This equalization, made in August of 1919, values the taxable property in the state at $4,500,000,000.

In arriving at the total tax, 103 separate appropriation bills had to be taken into consideration, all except five of them having been passed by the 1919 Legislature. Wayne's share of the total state tax this year is $6,137,639. Kent is to pay $958,897.

BAN ON LIQUOR WITHDRAWAL

Illicit Sales in New York Reduced 75 Per Cent, Say Officials.

Washington.—In an effort to check illegal liquor sales Prohibition Commissioner Kramer has ordered withdrawal of whisky from bond temporarily suspended in New York city and parts of Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Kramer disclosed that the ban had been on for a month and that he had received a request from A. L. Delyryple, district prohibition agent at Chicago, for an order of similar nature to be placed in effect in the Chicago district.

Officials in the prohibition office estimated that illicit sale of whisky had been reduced about 75 per cent in New York. They were without definite reports as to its effect in Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

WOODEN FLEET GOING TO ROT

More Than 300 Ships in James River Abandoned and Partly Dismantled.

Washington.—One hundred and sixty wooden ships, having a total dead-weight tonnage of approximately 600,000 tons, are anchored in the James river, near Clarendon, Va.

Those which have not already been stripped of their nautical instruments and other valuable parts are being dismantled.

They can neither be sold nor operated at a profit. United States shipping board employees in charge of them believe the James river is their graveyard.

Through alleged negligence, two of the ships, the Okesa and the Chimo, have been destroyed by fire. Two others, the Saris and the Fort Leavenworth were badly damaged by flames.

UNUSUAL HAPPENINGS AND OTHER BRIEF NEWS

Didn't Profit, Coal Co. Says.

X-Ray For Finger Prints.

Paris.—An improved method of taking criminals' finger prints by X-rays has been invented by Dr. Henry Bedere. The process consists of rubbing the ends of the fingers with red lead, which is opaque to X-rays. On being X-rayed, a photograph of the finger tip looks like an ink thumb, but it is much more accurate.

Macaroni Ends Hunger Strike.

Ancona, Italy.—The Ancona hunger strike is over. A plate of delicious macaroni was set before the hunger strikers and they could not resist the temptation to devour it immediately. The hunger strike was started by persons charged with being involved in Quits G. O. P.; Runs As Independent.

Watson, Democratic nominee. He acted because a negro was made Republican national committee man.

Quarrel Over Loan Fatal.

Kalamazoo.—Stung by epithets hurled at him by William Stewart, to whom he had just refused a small loan, Spencer Brown went home from his club, cleaned and loaded his revolver, and, meeting Stewart on the street, shot him dead. The two had been friends until Stewart asked the loan. Brown walked to the police station and surrendered himself.

Waltham Cross, Eng.—Here's a family so large it has an orchestra of 45 pieces within its circle! Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Between them they play 45 instruments, seven granddaughters playing the organ, pianoforte and violin, and two great-grandchildren the organ.

Soldiers Hurt in Race Riots.

Leavenworth, Kas.—Three men were severely injured in a fight between about 3,500 white and negro soldiers stationed at Fort Leavenworth. The fight is said to have started when a negro soldier pushed a white one off the sidewalk of a downtown street. Later the disturbance became general and continued until the provost guard was summoned from Fort Leavenworth.

Lake Michigan Resort Planned.

Holland.—A resort that may become the most exclusive one on the western shore of Lake Michigan, is being developed by Chicago capitalists. It is about eight miles from Holland and will be named Gibson. C. B. Bolles and D. E. Felt, two of the Chicago men interested in the place, are building a road to connect the place with the West Michigan pike and are preparing to construct a large amusement hall.

Likes New Ambulance; Gets Ride.

Hornell, N. Y.—E. B. Cook, for many years a justice of the peace of the town of Hornellville, is dying in Bethesda Hospital as a result of injuries received when he fell from an apple tree on his farm. Judge Cook has been known as somewhat of a wag. Recently when the city received a new motor ambulance he saw it at a local garage. "I'm just dying to ride in it," he commented. He was the first man to ride in it.

BIG INCREASE IN AMERICA'S TAX

BILL MOUNTS BILLION AND A HALF DOLLARS OVER PREVIOUS YEAR.

BIG JUMP IN TOBACCO REVENUE

Cost Bureau of Internal Revenue 80 Cents Per $100 Or One Per Cent to Collect.

Washington.—America's tax bill on the fiscal year ending June 30, amounted to $5,408,075.68, approximately a billion and a half dollars more than was paid into the federal treasury in the previous 12 months.

Final figures for the year were contained in the preliminary report of the commissioner of internal revenue. It shows that from income and profits taxes the government received approximately three-fourths of all its revenue. In these two items there was an increase of $1,356,000,000 over the fiscal year of 1919, receipts for the two years being: 1920, $3,957,701,000; 1919, $2,600,000,000.

From multifarious sources of "miscellaneous" taxation, the levy produced $1,450,374,000, an increase over the previous year of $201,000,000.

In the first year of prohibition era, there was a net reduction of $343,000,000 in taxes on distilled and fermented liquors, the report shows. From distilled spirits the government received $97,907,000 in the last fiscal year, while the taxes from the same source in 1919 were $365,211,000. Taxes on fermented liquors for the last fiscal year aggregated $41,965,000 and for the fiscal year of 1919, $117,339,000.

Although there was a big decrease in taxes on liquors between the two years shown, there was a correspondingly greater increase in the revenue from tobacco in all of its forms. In

A PROFESSOR OF CHEMISTRY SAYS HYPO-COD IS O. K.

Best Reconstructive Tonic Ever Produced, Says This Authority.

"I have been in the medical profession for quite a number of years as Pharmacist and Professor of Chemistry (Tennessee Medical College) and the truly wonderful results obtained by so many people through the use of Earle's Hypo-Cod caused me to decide to make an exhaustive research and I find it is one of the most extremely well balanced combinations of tonic, alterative and nutritive principles ever produced.

"It can be used with impunity without the least digestive disturbance owing to the complete elimination of the fishy taste of Cod Liver oil, while still retaining all the extractive elements so useful as a tonic and tissue builder.

"The extract of Malt, containing carbohydrates and Nitrogenous matter, cannot be surpassed as a nutrient and fat producing agent; Wild Cherry Bark, as everyone knows, has an extremely beneficial effect upon the mucous membranes, and with the small amount of strychnine present, acts as a stomach stimulating element.

"The Hypophosphites of Lime, Soda, Potassium, Manganese, Quinine and Strychnine are too well known for the powerful influence they exert upon the wasted nerve tissues and upon the lungs for me to dwell upon their efficiency. The iron so necessary to enrich the blood is also present in soluble form readily assimilated and the Sherry wine not only acts as a base to hold it in solution, but acts as a mild stimulant and appetizer.

"I consider Earle's Hypo-Cod a most

BLAST KILLS 5 IN N. Y. HARBOR

Score Injured As British Tanker Is Damaged By Explosion.

New York.—Five men were killed, five others are missing and believed to be dead and more than a score injured in an explosion which wrecked a forward compartment of the British tanker, G. R. Crowe of Toronto.

The blast, which endangered the lives of more than 200 workmen employed on the ship's deck, is believed to have been caused when gases from an empty oil tank were ignited by a blow torch.

The majority of the wounded were burned and lacerated, but all are expected to live, it was stated at the hospitals.

During the war the Crowe was used as a fuel replenishing ship for the British battle fleets.

MRS. MOTTI GETS LIFE TERM

Jury Returns Verdict of Guilty Against Accused Poisoner.

Ludington.—Mrs. Blanch Motti was convicted in the Mason County Circuit Court of the charge of murdering her husband, Amel Motti, wealthy farmer, and sentenced by Judge Hal. C. Cutler to life imprisonment in the Detroit House of Correction.

When asked by the Court if she had anything to say before sentence, she regained her composure and replied calmly.

"All I have to say is before God I am innocent, and I forgive all for what they have said against me."

Mrs. Motti, 30 years old, was alleged to have poisoned her husband. Her attorneys will ask for a new trial.

DOWNWARD TREND TO CONTINUE

Dun and Bradstreet Reports Show No Sign of Checking

New York.—Downward trend of prices continues, according to Bradstreet's monthly average of commodity prices, and R. G. Dun & Co.'s review of commodity prices for last week.

A decline of nearly six per cent during September and of 19 per cent from the high level of the early part of the year was shown by Bradstreet's.

The review of R. G. Dun & Co. said:

"There was no check, as a whole, to the downward trend of prices in the primary markets, there being 23 recessions in the list of quotations compiled, against 15 advances."

NOV. 14 AS MEMORIAL SUNDAY

President Orders That It Be Observed Thruout Nation

Washington.—President Wilson directed that on Sunday, Nov. 14, the American flag be displayed at half-mast on all public buildings and military and navy posts, as "a token of the nation's participation in the memorial services held for the heroic American soldiers, sailors, marines and others who gave their lives to their country in the world war."

In connection with the order, the President's statement says:

"The selection of a formal day, which shall annually be set aside to commemorate our participation in the world war will some day doubtless be effected through legislation, and already Memorial day, rich in heroic memories, has acquired additional significance as being appropriate also to the commemoration of the heroes of the world war. I am, however, so heartily in favor of the suggestion that has been made that I take this occasion to express publicly my approval of the idea."

20 HURT BY RUNAWAY HORSE

Near Panic Caused by Dash of Crazy Animal Into Fair Crowd

Paw Paw.—About 20 persons were injured and scores were knocked down when a bay mare, driven by D. B. Jones of Muskegon, ran away following a collision on the Van Buren county race track.

The animal made a wild dash through the grounds with a portion of the wrecked sulky clinging by shreds of the harness. The most serious accidents occurred when the runaway horse dashed into the floral hall, which was crowded with visitors and ran the full length of the building. A near panic ensued. The injured horse gyrated around the buildings until it came to the stables, where it entered its stall and was locked in by Mrs. Jones, wife of the owner.

"SILLY BOY."

Synopsis.—Writing long after the events described, Jack Calder, Scot farmer of West Inch, tells how, in his childhood, the fear of invasion by Napoleon, at that time complete master of Europe, had gripped the British nation. Following a false alarm that the French had landed, Jim Horcroft, the doctor's son, a youth of fifteen, quarrels with his father over joining the army, and from that incident a lifelong friendship begins between the boys. They go together to school at Berwick, where Jim is cock boy from the first. After two years Jim goes to Edinburgh to study medicine. Jack stays five years more at Berwick, becoming cock boy in his turn. A visit from Cousin Edie of Eyemouth to West Inch gives no hint of the part she is to play in the lives of the two friends. When Jack is eighteen Edie comes to live at West Inch and Jack falls in love at first sight with his attractive, romantic, selfish and autocratic cousin of seventeen. They watch from the cliffs the victory of an English merchantman over two French privateers.

But not an inch of canvas did she lower, floundering on in her stolid fashion, while a little black ball ran up her peak and the rare old flag streamed suddenly out from the halliard. Then again came the rap-rap of her little guns and the boom-boom of the big carronades in the bows of the lugger. An instant later the three ships met, and the merchantman staggered on like a stag with two wolves hanging to its haunches. For a stricken hour the hell-cloud moved with a hiss, and then ran to my room to pack my bundle. It was already growing dark, and I had a long walk before me; so I thrust a few things together and hastened out. As I came through the side door someone touched my shoulder, and there was Edie in the gloaming.

"Silly boy!" said she. "You are not really going? I don't want you to go, Jack."

"You said that the folk in the country were fit for nothing better. You always speak like that. You think no more of me than of those doves in the cote. You think I'm nobody at all. I'll show you different." All my troubles came out in hot little spurts of speech. She colored up as I spoke and looked at me in her queer, half-mocking, half-petting fashion.

"Oh, I think so little of you as that," said she. "And that is the reason why you are going away. Well, then, Jack, will you stay if I am—if I am kind to you?"

We were face to face and close together, and in an instant the thing was done. My arms were round her, and I was kissing her, and kissing her, and kissing her, on her mouth, her cheeks, her eyes, and pressing her to my heart, and whispering to her that she was all, all to me, and that I could not be without her. She said nothing, but it was long before she turned her face aside, and when she pushed me back it was not very hard.

"Why, you are quite your rude, old, impudent self," said she, patting her hair with her two hands. "You have tossed me, Jack. I had no idea that you would be so forward."

But all my fear of her was gone, and a love tenfold hotter than ever was

"Do you often take walks before breakfast, Mr. Horcroft?" she asked, still with that roguish smile.

"Yes," said he, staring at her with all his eyes.

"So do I, and generally over yonder," said she; "but you are not very hospitable to your friend, Jack. If you do not do the honors I shall have to take your place for the credit of West Inch."

Well, in another minute we were in with the old folk, and Jim had his plate of porridge ladled out for him, but hardly a word would he speak, but sat, with his spoon in his hand, staring at Cousin Edie. She shot little twinkling glances across at him all the time, and it seemed to me that she was amused at his backwardness, and that she tried by what she said to give him heart.

"Jack was telling me that you were studying to be a doctor," said she. "But oh! how hard it must be, and how long it must take before one can gather so much learning as that."

"It takes me long enough," Jim answered, ruefully, "but I'll beat it yet."

"How candid and truthful you are!" she cried, and so they went on, she decking him with every virtue and twisting his words to make him play the part, in the way that I knew so well. Before she was done I could see that his head was buzzing with her beauty and her kindly words. I thrilled with pride to think he should think so well of my kin.

"Isn't she fine, Jim?" I could not help saying when we stood alone outside the door, he lighting his pipe before he set off home.

"Fine!" he cried. "I never saw her match."

slashed at the whin bushes on either side of the path.

"Why, Jim?" said I.

But he looked at me in the way that I had often seen at school when the devil was strong in him, and when he knew that he was in the wrong, and yet set his will to brazen it out. Not a word did he say, but he brushed past me on the narrow path, and swaggered on, still brandishing his stick and cutting at the bushes.

Ah well, I was not angry with him. I was sorry, very sorry, and that was all. Of course I was not so blind but that I could see how the matter stood. He was in love with Edie, and he could not bear to think that I should have her. Poor devil! how could he help it? Maybe I should have been the same. There was a time when I should have wondered that a girl could have turned a strong man's head like that, but I knew more about it now.

For a fortnight I saw nothing of Jim Horcroft, and then came the Thursday which was to change the whole current of my life.

I had woken early that day, and, with a little thrill of joy, which is a rare thing to feel when a man first opens his eyes. Edie had been kinder than usual the night before, and I had fallen asleep with the thought that maybe at last I had caught the rainbow, and that, without any imaginings or make-believes, she was learning to love plain Jack Calder of West Inch. It was this thought, still at my heart, which had given me that little morning chirrup of joy. And then I remembered that if I hastened I might be in time for her, for it was her custom to go out with the sunrise.

But I was too late. When I came to her door it was half open and the room empty. Well, thought I, at least I may meet her and have the homeward walk with her. I zigzagged up the steep pathway, breathing in the thin, keen morning air, and humming a lilt as I went, until I came out, a little short of breath, among the whins upon the top. Looking down the long slope of the farther side, I saw Cousin Edie as I had expected, and I saw Jim Horcroft walking by her side.

"See here, Jack, this woman is feeling us both."

"You are my very own now," I cried. "I shall not go to Berwick, but I'll stay and marry you."

But she laughed when I spoke of marriage. "Silly boy! Silly boy!" said she, with her forefinger up, and then when I tried to lay hands on her again she gave a little dainty courtesy and was off into the house.

CHAPTER IV.

The Choosing of Jim.

And then there came ten weeks which were like a dream, and are so now to look back upon. I would weary you were I to tell you what passed between us, but oh! how earnest and fateful and all-important it was at the time. Her waywardness, her ever-varying moods, now bright, now dark like a meadow under drifting clouds, her causeless angers, her sudden repentances, each in turn filling me with joy or sorrow—these were my life, and all the rest was but emptiness. But ever deep down behind all my other feelings was a vague disquiet—a fear that I was like the man who set forth to lay hands upon the rainbow, and that the real Edie Calder, however near she might seem, was in truth forever beyond my reach.

It was after Christmas, but the winter had been mild, with just frost enough to make it safe walking over the peat bogs. One fresh morning Edie had been out early, and she came back to breakfast with a fleck of color on her cheeks.

"Has your friend, the doctor's son come home, Jack?" says she.

"I heard that he was expected."

"Ah, then it must have been him that I met on the muir."

"What? You met Jim Horcroft?"

"I am sure it must be he. A splendid-looking man, a hero, with curly black hair, a short, straight nose, and gray eyes. He was dressed in gray, and he has a grand, deep, strong voice."

"Ho, ho, you spoke to him?" said I. She colored a little, as if she had said more than she meant. "I was going where the ground was a little soft, and he warned me of it," she said.

"Ah, it must have been dear old Jim," said I. "Why, heart alive! here is the very man himself!" I had seen him through the kitchen window, and now I rushed out with my half-eaten bannock in my hand to greet him. He ran forward, too, with his great hand out and his eye shining.

"Ah, Jock!" he cried. "It's good to see you again. There are no friends like the old ones." Then suddenly he stuck in his speech and stared, with his mouth open, over my shoulder. I turned, and there was Edie, with such a merry, roguish smile, standing in the door. How proud I felt of her, and of myself too, as I looked at her.

"This is my cousin, Miss Edie Calder, Jim," said I.

The pipe fell out of his mouth, and he picked it up and walked off without a word. I thought that he would likely come back, but he never did, and I saw him far off walking up the brae with his chin on his chest.

But I was not to forget him, for Cousin Edie had a hundred questions to ask me about his boyhood, about his strength, about the women that he was likely to know; there was no satisfying her. And then again, later in the day, I heard of him, but in a less pleasant fashion.

It was my father who came home in the evening with his mouth full of poor Jim. He had been dead drunk since midday, had been down to West-house Links to fight the gypsy champion, and it was not certain that the man would live through the night. My father had met Jim on the highroad, dour as a thunder cloud, and with an insult in his eye for every man that passed him. "Guld sakes!" said the old man. "He'll make a fine practice for himself! If breaking bones will do it." Cousin Edie laughed at all this, and I laughed because she did, but I was not so sure that it was funny.

On the third day afterward I was going up Corriemuir by the sheep track, when who should I see striding down but Jim himself. But he was another man from the big, kindly fellow who had supped his porridge with us the other morning. He had no collar nor tie, his vest was open, his hair matted, and his face mottled like a man who has drunk heavily overnight. He carried an oak stick, and he

"CAVEMAN" STUFF ALL RIGHT

At Least, One Indiana Man is Satisfied With the Way It Worked in His Particular Case.

Now, she is a very sarcastic young woman, and the man who wishes to marry her is often much tormented with her ability to say things which make him distinctly uncomfortable. One night one of his friends and he decided to go to a picture house and there they saw a play in which the caveman stuff was exceedingly strong. Evidently that gave the young man an inspiration, for the next cutting remark the young woman made he resented.

He had come to take her for a drive. After getting her safely settled in his car and having placed a large box of candy in her lap he settled down for a pleasant evening. But not long. The young woman could not stand his case. She deliberately opened her box, took out a bombon, nibbled at it a minute and then said in icy tones: "Why, this candy is stale."

At first the young man felt inclined to writhe, but the next minute the caveman stuff of the movie darted into his mind. He did what he

Ancient H. C. L.
The H. C. L. is no brand new phenomenon of our own day. It was old as far back as the second year of King Darius, about 520 B. C.

"Ye have sown much," Haggai, an orator of his time, taunted his townsmen, "and bring in little; ye eat, but ye have not enough; ye drink, but ye are not filled with drink; ye clothe you, but there is none warm; and be that earneth wages earneth wages to put it into a bag with holes."

Haggai's platform, his scheme for reducing that H. C. L., was the building of a new temple.

Home Versus House.
Home cannot be given us. We may be given a house, a place to eat and sleep. This is not a home. A home is a place of love and rest and peace. Love and rest and peace must be deserved, must be earned. Nobody can hand them to you as so many packages. They are matters of reciprocity. If you have none to give there will be but little for you to receive.—West-ern Methodist.

thought was a real rough act. He seized that beautiful box of candy and threw it as far as he could.

For a long time there was silence. Then the girl began the conversation. And this time she spoke meekly and in "honed" tones. She is still speaking in the same way whenever she is with him.—Indianapolis News.

Alpine Wonderland.
The Graisons, Switzerland's largest canton, may readily be described as an Alpine wonderland. It is broken by no fewer than 150 valleys, varying greatly in size, traversed by wild rushing torrents and streams and animated by roaring waterfalls and transparent mountain lakes. Dark green fir woods and velvety pastures cover the slopes and form the transition from the region of the hills to the realm of the high Alps. And in this radiant paradise of vales and mountains there stands on almost every height a little place of worship, an emblem of peace and good will, sending greetings far and wide.

Forty-four per cent of the world's doctors are said to die of heart disease 20 per cent of nervous affections, 20 per cent of morphine poison and 7 per cent of tuberculosis.

LIFE WAS A MISERY TO HER

Says this Woman Until Relieved by Lydia E. Finkham's Vegetable Compound.

Carrollton, Ky.—"I suffered almost two years with female weakness. I could not walk any distance, ride or take any exercise at all without resting. If I swept the floor or did any kind of work it would bring my sickness on. I was weak and languid, had no energy, and life was a misery to me. I was under the care of a good physician for several months and tried other remedies. I had read of Lydia E. Finkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it. After taking twelve bottles I found myself much improved and I took six more. I have never had any more trouble in that respect since. I have done all kinds of work and at present am an attendant at a state hospital and am feeling fine. I have recommended your Vegetable Compound to dozens of my friends and shall always recommend it."—LILLIAN TRAMP, 225 E. 6th St., Carrollton, Ky.

Over fifty years ago a young physician practiced widely in a rural district and became famous for his uniform success in the curing of disease. This was Dr. Pierce, who afterwards established himself in Buffalo, N. Y., and placed one of his prescriptions, which he called "Golden Medical Discovery," in the drug stores of the United States so that the public could easily obtain this very remarkable tonic, corrective and blood-maker. Dr. Pierce manufactured this "Discovery" from roots and barks—a corrective remedy, the ingredients of which nature had put in the fields and forests, for keeping us healthy. Few folks or families now living have not at sometime or other used this "Golden Medical Discovery" for the stomach, liver and heart. Over twenty-four million bottles of this tonic and blood remedy have been sold in this country.
