OBITUARY

In the death of Mrs. Susan Martin at her home in Putnam, Nov. 1, a noble life was ended.

Susan Speers was born Oct. 5, 1838, in Smithboro, Monohan County, Ireland.

At the age of five years she came to this country with her parents and lived in Dixboro, Washtenaw County, until her marriage to John Martin in the early fifties. Coming as a bird to a forested home, she patiently endured the trials of pioneer life, helping to clear the homestead when an oxen team was the only means of travel. In the rearing of a large family and the hardships shared with her husband, she found her labors lessened from the use of the sickle to the cradle, the reaper, and to the present binder.

Mrs. Martin's personality attracted friends wherever she went, and her home life was filled with love, labor, and sacrifice for her husband and children. She kept in touch with the Higher Life and as her husband and children slipped from her she felt more closely drawn above.

Of the ten children only three remain: Mrs. Wm. Mullholland of Ypsilanti, Mrs. Phebe Bennett of Lansing, and John R., who cared for her in her declining years. Also a sister Mrs. Mary Lewis of Iosco, eleven grandchildren, four great grandchildren, and many, many friends.

The funeral services were held Thursday afternoon in the M. E. Church at Pinckney, conducted by Rev. Golden of Galesburg assisted by Rev. Cook of Pinckney.

SCHOOL NOTES

The percentage of attendance in high school for the past week was as follows: Edward Tiplady 90, Beatrice Martin 0, Georgia Fitzsimmons 85.

The following people received either A or B in all subjects carried during the month of October: Cynthia Haynes, Bessie Swarthout, Edna Darrow, Irene Richardson, Gerald McCluskey, Merlin Shehan, Stanley Hall, Olah Docking, Drusilla Murphy, Francis Kraft, Florence Murphy, Erma Read, Marjorie Smith, Pauline Reason, Grace Tupper.

A literary society has been formed with the following officers: Irene Uamer pres., Olah Docking sec., and Bessie Swarthout treas.

The Physics class is studying motion. All agree that motion will keep them moving, mentally as well as physically.

Report cards were given out last week. A little red ink was used. This should be eliminated.

The debate last week was a decided success. The Juniors firmly believe they can beat any team, either in or out of school, discussing any topic of the day, from politics to philosophy.

Percentage of attendance in the Intermediate room was as follows: Norman Cook 90, Mildred Harris 60, Helen Baginski 60, Harold Doody 20, all others 100.

Mildred Haines who underwent an operation at the Sanitarium some time ago has returned to school.

The Children,

MCCLUSKY---BURNS

Tuesday morning at St. Joseph's church Rev. Fr. McDace officiating, united in marriage Marguerite McCluskey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. McCluskey of Putnam, and Raymond Burns of this city. They were attended by Miss Ella Fitch and Mr. Leo McCluskey.

The bride wore a beautiful tweed suit of blue and black, with hat and gloves of contrasting colors.

After the ceremony immediate relatives and friends were served a delightful four course breakfast, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Fohey, with whom Miss McCluskey has boarded for the past two years.

Mr. and Mrs. Burns are going to Southern Canada and from there to Eastern points of interest. Their many friends extend hearty congratulations.—Livingston Democrat.

Miss McCluskey was a graduate of the Pinckney High School and her many friends here extend their best wishes for her future.

Special Feed for Poultry

East Lansing.—Profitable disposition of "runts" and birds that are slow to mature is one of the biggest problems facing farmers and poultry men at this time of the year. A number of culls and cockerels are withdrawn from the flock during October and November, and these also must be put into market condition.

To meet the problem of the poultry man who must fatten fowls for market, we offer the following rations to be fed in closed rooms or crates:—100 lbs. Corn Meal; 100 lbs. Middlings; 100 lbs. Bran; 100 lbs. Rolled Oats (fine ground oats); 100 lbs. Meat Scrap.

The above amount of feed will fatten 200 fowls in fourteen days. Mix the above named mill stuff with buttermilk or sour milk to which there has been added a tablespoonful of molasses. Mix to about a pancake batter consistency. Feed in troughs twice daily. During the first week feed sparingly. During the second week add all the fowls will eat in twenty minutes."

neither absent nor tardy during October.

Attendance for last week in the Primary room: Vera Bennett 90, Almira Bennett 80, Phyllis Plummer, 90, Stanley Dinkle 80, Drusilla Maebon 90, Gertrude Spears 80, Lyman Battle 70, Susie Brita, 60, Loren Maebon 80, Edward Spears 80, Marjorie Smith 90, Mary Nagy and Elizabeth Spears spelled down their class Monday.

Loren Maebon was absent Thursday afternoon. He fell into the mill race at noon.

On a written review in Latin 9 Anna Clark received 98, and Drusilla Murphy Dean Reason, and Viola Shipley each received 96.

Francis Kraft received 100 on a written test in English 9. The following received 98: Viola Shipley, Anna Clark, Dean Reason and Drusilla Murphy.

After a written test had been given in Algebra 9 the records show eighteen of the class drawing 100. Good work Freshmen, your records point toward hard work accomplished.

"WE SHALL SEE."

Synopsis.—Writing long after the events described, Jack Calder, Scot farmer of West Inch, tells how, in his childhood, the fear of invasion by Napoleon, at that time complete master of Europe, had gripped the British nation. Following a false alarm that the French had landed, Jim Horcroft, the doctor's son, a youth of fifteen, quarrels with his father over joining the army, and from that incident a lifelong friendship begins between the boys. They go to school together at Berwick, where Jim is cock boy from the first. After two years Jim goes to Edinburgh to study medicine. Jack stays five years more at Berwick, becoming cock boy in his turn. When Jack is eighteen his cousin Edie comes to live at West Inch and Jack falls in love at first sight with his attractive, romantic, selfish and autocratic cousin of seventeen. They watch from the cliffs the victory of an English merchantman over two French privateers. Reproached by Edie for staying at home, Jack starts to go. Edie tells him to stay. Jack promises to stay and marry her. She acquiesces. Jim comes home. Jack sees Jim kissing Edie. Jack and Jim compare notes and force Edie to choose between them. She chooses Jim. Jack gives up Edie to Jim. The downfall of Napoleon is celebrated. A half-dead shipwrecked foreigner drifts ashore at West Inch. He says he is Bonaventure de Lapp, a soldier of fortune. He goes to live with the Caldera. A man of mystery, and evidently of high position, he wins all hearts.

went back to Edinburgh again for the winter session, and as he intended to work very hard, and get his degree next spring if he could, he said that he would blide up there for the Christmas. So there was a great leave-taking between him and Cousin Edie, and he was to put up his plate and to marry her as soon as he had the right to practice. I never knew a man love a woman more fondly than he did her, and she liked him well enough in a way, for indeed in the whole of Scotland she would not find a finer-looking man; but when it came to marriage I think she winced a little at the thought that all her wonderful dreams should end in nothing more than in being the wife of a country surgeon. I was never very sure at that time whether Edie cared for De Lapp or not. When Jim was at home they took little notice of each other. After he was gone they were thrown more together, which was natural enough, as he had taken up so much of her time before.

Well, the summer and the autumn and the best part of the winter passed away, and we were still all very happy together. We got well into the year 1815, and the great emperor was still eating his heart out at Elba, and all the ambassadors were wrangling together at Vienna as to what they should do with the Hon's skin, now that they had so fairly hunted him down. We never thought that what all these high and mighty people were doing could have any bearing upon us, and as to war—why, everybody was agreed that the great shadow was lifted from us forever, and that, unless the allies quarreled among themselves there would not be a shot fired in Europe for another fifty years.

There was one incident, however, that stands out very clearly in my memory—I think that it must have happened about the February of this year—and I will tell it to you before I go any further.

You know what the Border peel castles are like. I have no doubt, they were just square keeps, built every here and there along the line, so that the folk might have some place of protection against raiders and moss troopers. When Percy and his men were over the Marches, then the people would drive some of their cattle into the yard of the tower, shut up the big gate, and light a fire in the brazier at the top, which would be answered by all the other peel towers, until the lights would go twinkling up to the Linn-muir hills, and so carry the news on to the Pentlands and to Edinburgh. But now, of course, all these old keeps were warped and crumbling, and made fine nesting places for the wild birds.

One day I had been on a very long walk, away over to leave a message at the Laidlaw Armstrongs, who live two miles on this side of Aytou. About five o'clock, just before the sunset, I found myself on the brae path, with the gable end of West Inch peeping up in front of me, and the old peel tower lying on my left. And as I stared I suddenly saw the face of a man twinkle for a moment in one of the holes in the wall.

It was so queer that I was determined to come to the bottom of it; so, tired as I was, I turned my shoulder on home, and walked swiftly toward the tower. The grass stretches right up to the very base of the wall, and my feet made little noise until I reached the crumbling arch where the old gate used to be. I peeped through and there was Bonaventure de Lapp standing inside the keep, and peeping out through the very hole at which I had seen his face. He was turned half away from me, and it was clear that he had not seen me at all, for he was staring with all his eyes over in the direction of West Inch. As I advanced my foot rattled the rubble that lay in the gateway, and he turned round with a start and faced me.

"Hallo!" said I, "what are you doing here?"

"I may ask you that," said he. "I came up because I saw your face at the window."

"And I because, as you may well have observed, I have very much interest for all that has to do with the military, and of course castles are among them. You will excuse me for one moment, my dear Jack," and he stepped out suddenly through the hole in the wall, so as to be out of my sight. But I was very much too curious to excuse him so easily. I shifted my ground swiftly, to see what it was that he was after. He was standing outside, and waving his hand frantically as in a signal.

across the moors to see whom he was beckoning to.

"You go too far, sir," said he angrily; "I didn't thought you would have gone so far. A gentleman has the freedom to act as he chooses, without your being the spy upon him. If we are to be friends, you must not interfere in my affairs."

"I don't like these secret doings," said I, "and my father would not like them, either."

"Your father can speak for himself, and there is no secret," said he curtly. "It is you, with your imaginations, that make a secret. Ta, ta, ta! I have no patience with such foolishness." And, without so much as a nod, he turned his back upon me and started walking swiftly to West Inch.

Well, I followed him, and in the worst of tempers, for I had a feeling that there was some mischief in the wind, and yet I could not for the life of me think what it all meant. What could there be to spy about in Berwickshire. And besides, Major Elliott knew all about him, and he would not show him such respect if there was anything amiss.

I had just got as far as this in my thoughts when I heard a cheery halloo, and there was the major himself, coming down the hill from his house, with his big bulldog, Bounder, held in leash. This dog was a savage creature, and had caused more than one accident on the countryside, but the major was very fond of it, and would never go out without it, though he kept it tied with a good, thick thong of leather. Well, just as I was looking at the major, waiting for him to come up, he stumbled with his lame leg over a branch of gorse, and in recovering himself he let go his hold of the leash, and in an instant there was the beast of a dog flying down the hillside in my direction.

I did not like it, I can tell you, for there was neither stick nor stone about, and I knew that the brute was dangerous. As it came at me with bristling hair and its nose screwed back between its two red eyes, I cried out, "Bounder! Bounder!" at the pitch of my lungs. It had its effect, for the beast passed me with a snarl, and flew along the path on the traces of Bonaventure de Lapp.

He turned at the shouting, and seemed to take in the whole thing at a glance, but he strolled along as slowly as ever. My heart was in my mouth for him, for the dog had never seen him before, and I ran as fast as my feet would carry me to drag it away from him. But somehow, as it bounded up and saw the twittering finger and thumb which De Lapp held out behind him, its fury died suddenly away, and we saw it wagging its thumb of a tail and clawing at his knee.

"Your dog, then, major?" said he, as its owner came hobbling up. "Ah, it is a fine beast—a fine, pretty thing." The major was blowing hard, for he had covered the ground nearly as fast as I had.

"I was afraid lest he might have hurt you," he panted.

"Ta, ta, ta!" cried De Lapp. "He is a pretty, gentle thing. I always love the dogs. But I am glad that I have met you, major, for there is this young gentleman, to whom I owe very much, who has begun to think that I am a spy. Is it not so, Jack?"

I was so taken aback by his words that I could not lay my tongue to an answer, but colored up and looked askance, like the awkward country lad that I was.

"You know me, major," said De Lapp; "and I am sure that you will tell him that this could not be."

"No, no, Jack! Certainly not! Certainly not!" cried the major.

"Thank you," said De Lapp. "You know me, and you do me justice. And yourself, I hope that you will soon have your regiment given you."

"I am well enough," answered the major; "but they will never give me a place unless there is war, and there will be no more war in my time." "Oh! you think that?" said De Lapp, with a smile. "Well, nous verrons. We shall see, my friend!" He whisked off his hat, and turning briskly, he walked off in the direction of West Inch. The major stood looking after him with thoughtful eyes, and then asked me what it was that had me think that he was a spy. When I told him he said nothing, but he shook his head, and looked like a man who was ill at ease in his mind.

CHAPTER VIII.

The Coming of the Cutter

lodger after that little business at the peel-tower. It was always in my mind that he was holding a secret from me; indeed, that he was all a secret together, seeing that he always hung a veil over his past.

And when by chance that veil was for an instant whisked away we always caught just a glimpse of something bloody and violent and dreadful upon the other side. The very look of his body was terrible. I bathed with him once in the summer, and I saw then that he was haggled with wounds all over. Besides seven or eight slashes his ribs on one side were twisted out of shape and a part of one of his calves had been torn away. He laughed in his merry way when he saw my face of wonder.

"Cossacks! Cossacks!" said he, running his hand over his scars. "And the ribs were broke by an artillery tumbrell. It is very bad to have the guns pass over one. Now with cavalry it is nothing. A horse will peck its steps, however fast it may go. I have been ridden over by fifteen hundred cuirassiers and by the Russian hussars of Grodno, and I had no harm from that. But guns are very bad."

"And the calf?" I asked.

"Pooh! It is only a wolf bite," said he. "You would not think how I came by it! You will understand that my horse and I had been struck, the horse killed, and I with my ribs broken by the tumbrell. Well, it was cold—oh, bitter, bitter!—the ground like iron, and no one to help the wounded, so that they froze into such shapes as would make you smile. I, too, felt that I was freezing, so what did I do? I took my sword and I opened my dead horse, so well as I could, and I made space in him for me to lie, with one

ANNAPOLIS FOUNDED IN 1604

Nova Scotia Earliest Colonized Land in North America, With Exception of St. Augustine.

Nova Scotia may lay claim to being the earliest colonized land in North America, with the exception of St. Augustine, Fla., where the Spanish establishment was made as early as 1565. Port Royal, now the little town of Annapolis, was founded in 1604, three years before the English settled at Jamestown. The brave French pioneers found it necessary to suspend their colony for three years, but the settlement was re-established in 1610 by a group of Acadians.

The Acadians were in almost constant conflict with the English. The colony fell into the hands of the English twice, and was each time returned to the French before the English finally captured it in 1710. The Acadians remained steadfast in their hopes that French rule would some day return, but their hope was destined never to be realized. They, however, persisted in maintaining their identity even against the English insistence that they abandon their allegiance to their mother little hole for my mouth. Supriest! It was warm enough there. But there was not room for the entire of me, so my feet and part of my legs stuck out. Then in the night, when I slept, there came the wolves to eat the horse, and they had a little pinch of me also, as you can see; but after that I was on guard with my pistols, and they had no more of me. There I lived, very warm and nice, for ten days.

"Ten days!" I cried. "What did you eat?"

"Why, I ate the horse. It was what you call board and lodging to me. But of course I have sense to eat the legs and live in the body. There were many dead about who had their water bottles, so I had all I could wish. And on the eleventh day there came a patrol of light cavalry, and all was well."

It was by such chance chats as these—hardly worth repeating in themselves and his past. But the day was coming when we should know all, and how it came I shall try now to tell you.

The winter had been a dreary one, but with March came the first signs of spring, and for a week on end we had sunshine and winds from the south. On the seventh Jim Horcroft was to come back from Edinburgh, for though the session ended with the first, his examination would take him a week. Edie and I were out walking on the sea beach on the sixth, and I could talk of nothing but my old friend, for, indeed, he was the only friend of my own age that I had at that time. Edie was very silent, which was a rare thing with her, but she listened, smiling, to all that I had to say.

"Poor old Jim!" said she, once or twice, under her breath. "Poor old Jim!"

"He is my husband."

Strange Draughts Boards.

Probably the most extraordinary discovered at St. Leonard, England, in 1891. It was made of solid blocks of concrete, three feet thick, and its surface covered an area of 625 square feet. A draught board, which at one time belonged to Bismarck, is estimated to have cost more than $90,000. The squares are made of solid gold and silver. This draught board was declared by experts to be the most valuable in existence. A set of draughtsmen, 12 of gold and 12 of silver, were presented to the prince. In the center of each golden draught was a beautiful ruby, while inlaid in the center of each silver one was a peerless diamond. A quaint old draught board is still to be seen hanging as a sign outside the Chequers Inn, Osterley. Its interest lies in the fact that neither the original painter of the sign, nor the landlord of the inn, was a draughts player. The board has 58 squares, whereas a real draught board contains 64.

Humming Bird's Nest.

Burroughs, in his charming little book, "Wake Robin," says it is an event in one's life to find a humming bird's nest. The event happened to me without any effort on my part. Looking up from a seat in the grove, I saw the ruby-throat drop down on its nest, like a shining emerald from the clouds; it did not pause upon the edge of the nest, but dropped immediately upon it. The nest was situated upon an oak twig, and was about the size of a black-walnut, and from where I sat it looked more like an excrescence than a nest. It was situated in the fork of two twigs, and firmly glued at the base to the lower, but was not fastened to the upper twig.—Mary Treat in "Home Studies in Nature."

Cleaning Treasury Notes.

The process by which soiled bank bills are cleaned and the treasury department enabled to make a large saving in paper, ink and labor annually, is perhaps not generally known to the public. In the government's laundry the notes are placed on endless bands which pass in and out between a series of heavy copper rollers. These rollers revolve in a special kind of soap, and as the bills pass backward and forward they are washed and rubbed clean. They next pass between rollers running in clean water, and thus are thoroughly rinsed. Lastly they go through heated rollers which dry and iron them, leaving them almost as crisp and clean as when first printed.

Help That Aching Back!

Back giving out? Tortured with dull, nagging backaches and stabbing pains? Does the least exertion leave you "all played out?" Likely your kidneys are to blame. Overwork, colds, insufficient rest and the hurry and worry of present-day living tend to weaken the kidneys. Backache is often the first warning. Headaches and dizziness may come, too, and perhaps annoying kidney irregularities. Help the overworked kidneys with Doan's Kidney Pills. Doan's have helped thousands. They should help you. Ask your neighbor!

THE KITCHEN CABINET

(© 1920, Western Newspaper Union.)

There is no age limit. Many people do not learn how to live until they are past fifty. Gladstone, at eighty-six, was brilliant. Goethe, at eighty-four, found life full of interest. You are never old until you think you are.

CARROTS IN VARIOUS WAYS.

Carrots contain iron and other mineral matters especially good for the blood, and because of this mineral content are a vegetable which should be served often, especially in families with growing children.

The common way of serving them is creamed or cooked and served in a white sauce. We tire of having any food served in the same way time after time, so the following recipes may be suggestive of different ways of serving this wholesome vegetable:

Cream of Carrot Soup.—Cook until tender a pint of diced carrots, drain and mash; put through a ricer. Scald a quart of milk with a slice of onion and a pinch of nutmeg; remove the onion after 15 minutes, add the carrot pulp, salt, sugar and a few dashes of cayenne. Melt a tablespoonful of butter in a saucepan, add a tablespoonful of flour and cook until smooth; add by thinning with a little of the milk to the hot soup. Cook until well blended, stirring occasionally. Serve hot with croutons.

Browned Carrots.—Take uniform-sized carrots, scrape and cut in halves. Parboil for 15 minutes, then arrange around a roast of mutton and baste with the fat to brown. Serve around the roast when it is served on the platter.

There are many meat sauces and soups which would lack in flavor if it were not for carrot, even in small quantities, which gives a most appetizing flavor.

which every mother in the ranks... the cause an army is restless: when each mason lays his stone as though the walls cannot stand except through his skill; when every woman bleeds at the wall of grief and the moan of hunger, convinced that her hand alone can ease and her loaf alone succor, then and only then shall our mastery endure.—Herbert Kaufman.

A CHAPTER ON POTATOES.

One of the best practical substitutes for a slice of bread is a potato. The salts of a potato are valuable in building body tissues. When baked it is one of the most easily digested vegetables.

Potato Puffs.—Add one-half cupful of milk to two cupfuls of mashed potato and beat until thoroughly blended. Add two beaten eggs, a teaspoonful of salt, and gradually one cupful of grated cheese. Bake in a buttered baking dish in a slow oven.

Shepherd's Pie.—Put flaked fish in a baking dish. Add a sauce made of a tablespoonful each of flour and fat, one-half teaspoonful of salt, a dash of pepper and a cupful of broth. Cover with two cupfuls of mashed potato, brush with cream or fat and brown in a hot oven.

Potato O'Brien.—Make a sauce of one tablespoonful each of fat and flour, one-half cupful of skimmed milk, one teaspoonful of salt and a dash of pepper. Mix two cupfuls of diced cooked potato with one green pepper cooked and chopped and one-half cupful of grated cheese. Mix with the white sauce and put into a baking dish and brown in a hot oven. Canned red pepper may be used in place of the green when that cannot be obtained.

Potato and Lima Bean Loaf.—Take one and one-third cupfuls of lima beans cooked and put through a sieve; add two tablespoonfuls of fat, one-fourth of a cupful of milk one teaspoonful of salt, one-third teaspoonful of sage, two cupfuls of rice potato. Add to it one-fourth of a cupful of milk, salt and butter to season. Put the first five ingredients into a buttered baking dish, cover with the potato blended with the milk and seasonings. Bake in a quick oven. Serve with tomato sauce.

Potato Peanut Loaf.—Take one pint of mashed potato, one cupful of ground peanuts, or one-half cupful of peanut butter, two teaspoonfuls of salt, one-half teaspoonful of paprika, one-half cupful of milk, two tablespoonfuls of melted fat and two well-beaten eggs. Beat the entire mixture together and place in a greased baking dish; set in a second pan containing hot water and bake in a hot oven until firm. Serve with tomato sauce.

Women of Middle Age

Owing to modern methods of living not one woman in a thousand approaches this perfectly natural change in her life without experiencing a train of very annoying and sometimes painful symptoms. Those dreadful hot flashes, smothering spells, fainting spells, nervous troubles and irregularities are symptoms that should have prompt attention. These two letters prove what a successful remedy Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is for women at this time of life.

These Two Women Helped During Change of Life.

Taunton, Mass.—"I could not eat or sleep for six months, had fainting spells and could not walk without help for three months, caused by female trouble. My cousin, who was a doctor, told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it helped me greatly. Then during the Change of Life I used the same remedy. I am seventy years old now and am able to do my own housework and walk one mile to church every Sunday morning and evening. I am recommending the Vegetable Compound to my friends having the same troubles as I had. Your remedy is the best on earth. I cannot find words to express my gratitude for it."—Mrs. SUSAN C. STAPLES, 157 B School St., Taunton, Mass.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I want to let you know what good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me. I had organic troubles and am going through the Change of Life. I was taken with a pain in my side and a bad headache. I could not lie down, could not eat or sleep. I suffered something terrible and the doctor's medicine did me no good at all—my pains got worse instead of better. I began taking the Vegetable Compound and felt a change from the first. Now I feel fine and advise any one going through the Change of Life to try it, for it cured me after I had given up all hopes of getting better. I will tell any one who writes to me the good it has done me."—Mrs. MARGARET DANZ, 748 N. 26th St., Philadelphia, Pa.

MICH. EXHIBITS AT CHICAGO

East Lansing. With more than 10 entries from over the State already in, more arriving daily, Michigan farmers are confident of winning a generous share of the $10,000 prizes which will put the International Hay and Grain show in Chicago from Nov. 27 until Dec. 1. The show, which will be held in conjunction with the famous International Cattle Exposition, is the biggest exhibit of its kind put on anywhere and attracts entries from all over the United States and Canada. Many prizes in their classes were won by Michigan growers last year, and the display of the exhibits sent in already in full seems to insure an even better showing at the coming meeting. Entries for this year's show close on Nov. 20, and farmers who wish to send exhibits should get their samples to the Secretary of the Michigan Crop Improvement Association, at East Lansing, before that date. Samples are to be put in final form and forwarded to Chicago by the Association, which is insuring the Michigan exhibits.

Oldest Living Artist.
Abington, Mass., claims the oldest living artist in New England. She is Mary Delliha Porter, who is now 86 years old. While holding a position of high standing among painters, the woman, peculiarly, did not take up painting until she was more than 50 years old. At that time, happening to be in Abington on a visit, she became acquainted with a woman who gave lessons in painting. She at once took up the art and immediately made great progress. In a comparatively short time she was giving lessons herself. In her home there are numerous excellent pictures, and during the last five years she has painted five pictures, considered a good number under the circumstances. Mrs. Porter was born in Cornwall, N. H., coming to Abington at the age of 6 years. She is the mother of six children, and at present lives with her son, Lysander, and two grandchildren in Abington Post.

AN APPEAL!

To the People
of this Vicinity,
Men and Women:

When the representative of this paper called on the People Hardware Company to see what they had to say about advertising this week Mr. John J. Temple said they were too busy to attend to the matter and requested us to write an advertisement on our own judgment about what to say.

You all know what this firm is up against right now

THEY NEED MONEY

Just imagine yourself in their predicament and ask yourself if you too, would not need it. And we are sure, knowing the community as well as we do, that every man or woman who owes this concern—the oldest mercantile firm in this part of the county—will come down this week and pay their accounts in full if possible. If this is not possible, give them what you can on account, and if you are not just at present in a position to do either, you surely can come down and give them a hearty, sympathetic handshake and tell them you will do the best you can as quickly as possible.

The future of this concern is largely in your hands at the present critical time. What are you going to do about it?

They are at home under the opera house with a small stock of hardware. The stock of implements was not destroyed, and they will be glad to see their many friends at all times.

MONKS BROS.

WAS BADLY RUN-DOWN FROM PNEUMONIA

Mrs. Washburn quickly regained her strength and flesh.

"I had grippe, followed by pneumonia. It left me with a terrible soreness in my chest, constant pain in my throat and so weak and nervous I could neither eat nor sleep. I had a chill every morning.

"One day a young man told me how Milk's Emulsion had got him out of bed and built him up after he had been reduced to a skeleton and given up by the doctors. So I tried it. I have gained in strength, appetite and flesh, sleep better than I have for years, am doing all my own work again and feel like a new person.

"The beauty about Milk's Emulsion is that it doesn't wear out like most things, and is so pleasant to take. It is a food as well as a medicine and builds up the blood and tissues. It surely put new blood in my veins and I have the healthiest color I ever had."—Mrs. M. Washburn, El Centro, Cal.

It costs nothing to try Milk's Emulsion. It will build you up more quickly, more surely than anything else.

Milk's Emulsion is a pleasant, nutritive food and a corrective medicine. It restores healthy, natural bowel action, promotes appetite and puts the digestive organs in shape to assimilate food. Chronic stomach trouble and constipation are usually relieved in one day.

This is the only solid emulsion made, and so palatable that it is eaten with a spoon like ice cream.

No matter how severe your case, you are urged to try Milk's Emulsion under this guarantee—Take six bottles home with you, use it according to directions, and if not satisfied with the results your money will be promptly refunded. Price 50c and $1.20 per bottle. The Milk's Emulsion Co., Terre Haute, Ind. Sold by druggists everywhere.—Adv.

Street Trees in the City Beautiful

TOO MUCH PAVEMENT; TOO LITTLE PARKING SPACE

IMAGINE THIS STREET WITHOUT THE TREES

SIMPLE and practical information with which the ideal of "the city beautiful" may be brought nearer realization is contained in a bulletin, "Street Trees," of the United States department of agriculture. Following are some of the points brought out:

Providing shade on city streets is a municipal function. Probably the most satisfactory supervision is through an unpaid commission of three or five members appointed to long terms. Funds may be provided by appropriation from the general tax fund or by direct assessment against the property owners. It is probably best to assess the cost of tree planting against property owners on a frontage basis, while maintenance may be provided out of general funds.

An almost universal fault is to plant trees too near together. A common practice is to set street trees 25 feet apart. If public opinion will permit the removal of one-half of the trees at the proper time, this is a good arrangement. In general, a better rule for the eastern half of the United States and on the Pacific coast is to set trees 50 feet apart in the case of most varieties. For larger-growing trees, 60 to 70 feet is even better.

Some of the more obvious obstacles with which a city tree has to contend are water-tight pavements, the removal of top soil in street paving, careless digging for public service utilities, saturation of the soil with gas from defective pipes, the pouring of salt water from ice cream freezers into gutters, the gnawing of trunks by horses and the slashing of tops by linemen and tree trimmers. A common mistake in young, growing cities is to provide wider street pavements than is likely ever to be needed. By reducing the roadway and making the remainder into parking spaces, much is added to the attractiveness and comfort of the city.

Destructive Trees

The number of kinds of trees suitable for street planting is comparatively small. A street tree must have a fairly abundant foliage that will withstand dust and smoke and a root system not easily affected by unusual soil conditions, by restricted feeding areas, or by root pruning resulting from street digging. The tops should be in proportion to the street's width. Narrow thoroughfares should be planted with columnar trees such as Lombardy poplars, or with trees that do not attain great size. Broad streets may be planted with spreading trees. As a rule, native trees that have been successfully grown in other cities should be given the preference in making selections. The bulletin contains data regarding more than a score of different kinds of trees, stating the time in which they leaf, their geographic distribution, etc. This list includes many varieties of elms, oaks and other trees, as well as certain foreign trees, such as the Ginkgo, a native of Japan, that thrives in either a cool or hot climate.

Nursery-grown trees should be used for street planting. They should be transplanted at least every two years while in the nursery to insure a thorough root pruning and an abundance of fibrous roots close to the trunk. If woodland trees are wanted, most kinds should be grown for a few years in a nursery before being planted on a street. A tree should have a straight trunk with a good set of branches, the lower ones being 7 to 9 feet above the ground. Opinions differ as to the sizes to plant, but for average conditions trees 10 to 12 feet high with trunks 2 to 2½ inches in diameter are satisfactory for most street purposes. With elms and sycamores and some southern oaks, trees somewhat larger can be used, while in the regions of limited rainfall, smaller trees are preferable.

An important detail of street planting is the preparation of the hole. From 2 to 3 cubic yards of top soil from land that has been producing good crops should be provided for each street. Well enriched with rotted manure—one part of manure to four of soil. Eighteen square feet of opening in the pavement should be provided, especially if the latter is impervious to water. The soil should be from 2½ to 3 feet deep. If the soil in which the hole is dug is so impervious as to hold water, artificial drainage must be provided. Under no circumstances should the depth of available feeding ground be less than 2 feet. The deeper the roots can go, the less injury is likely to result from drought. If trees are to be shipped in from a distance and are not to be planted at once, they should be taken on arrival to some well-drained spot not too exposed, where the roots can be carefully covered or heeled in. In doing this the tops may be left erect or laid almost parallel to the ground. Not a moment of exposure of the roots should be permitted in transferring them to the soil. If the roots appear dry, they may be dipped in a tub of water or in thin mud a few minutes before heeling in. When taking trees out of this temporary protection, care should again be exercised to prevent exposure of roots to sun or wind. They should be kept closely covered with moist burlap or canvas until planted.

In climates where newly planted trees may secure sufficient soil water to replace losses resulting from drying, fall planting is best. Where they secure insufficient moisture, planting would better be done only in the spring. Where the soil freezes to a level below the roots, a supply of water is cut off from the latter and the tree may be killed because of the evaporation.

Soil that is too dry will show no tendency to cling to the roots when thrown about them during planting. In the case of such dryness it may be well to water the soil a day or two in advance, or if the excess of dryness does not make the soil difficult to handle the tree may be planted and then thoroughly watered. After watering 3 or 4 inches of the loose soil should be spread over the wet ground to prevent undue evaporation. It should not be tramped or pounded in any way after the water is applied. If trees planted in moist, retentive soil are watered after planting, they should be provided with a mulch of similar earth. East of the Missouri river, trees planted in soil that is in good condition usually do not need watering at the time of planting.

Pruning Directions.

At planting time the tree should be so pruned as to remove half to three-fourths of the leaf buds. Specific directions with regard to pruning are difficult, because different species of trees differ materially in the character of their growth. In addition to pruning the tops, broken ends of roots should be removed with a clean, sharp knife, as new rootlets put out more readily from cleanly cut, fresh surfaces than from ragged breaks. Under certain conditions young trees usually need the support of a strong stake and often some well constructed guard to a height of 6 or 7 feet.

Proper care of mature trees involves a thorough understanding of tree growth. The removal of dead or undesirable limbs should be done by cutting them off at the crotch so that the wound is parallel with the remaining branch. The closer this cut is made to the remaining branch or trunk the better. There should be no stubs left to harbor decay and prevent healing.

It is difficult to stimulate artificially the growth of street trees. Sometimes trees can be benefited by dissolving one-half to one pound of nitrate of soda in 50 gallons of water and applying 1 to 25 gallons of the liquid at a time, the amount depending on the size of the tree. Unless this soil is damp, water should be applied immediately afterwards. This solution should be used only when the tree is in full leaf and growing.

Care of Street Trees.

Water, of course, is one of the great needs of city trees, as the ground is frequently covered with water-tight paving. Street trees are subject to attacks by insects and several varieties have their destructive enemies and diseases. Hence, every municipality needs the services of a trained man, who is provided with an efficient spraying outfit. It is estimated that 95 per cent of the attacking insects can be killed by insecticides carefully applied with a machine that delivers a stream under high pressure.

Whitewashing the trunks of trees is useless and unsightly. Bandaging with cotton or various preparations may occasionally be useful, but should not be resorted to except on recommendation of an expert.

FIND THE CAUSE!

It isn't right to drag along feeling miserable—half sick—find out what is making you feel so badly and try to correct it. Perhaps your kidneys are causing that throbbing backache or those sharp, stabbing pains. You may have morning lameness, too, headaches, dizzy spells and irregular kidney action. Use Doan's Kidney Pills. They have helped thousands of ailing folks. Ask your neighbor!

A Michigan Case

Mrs. John McDonald, 1119 Fourth St., Escanaba, Mich., says: "Some years ago kidney trouble made my life miserable. My back was so sore that I couldn't straighten up to save my life and my whole body ached. My kidneys were weak and irregular in action and caused annoyance. My hands and feet were swollen and if I pressed my fingers into the flesh a dent remained for quite some time. Six boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills soon cured me."

Logic in Her Assertion.

Mabel, age seven, led off after the Sunday blessing with a story she had heard on the way home from Sunday school. "A little boy," said Mabel, "who went to ball games said Sunday school wasn't much different from ball games, because at the Sunday school they sang, 'Stand Up for Jesus,' and at the ball game they said—"

"Mabel!" cried the horrified family in unison. "Don't tell that story!"

"Why?" asked Mabel. "Have you all heard it?"

"Of course, and it's—"

"Well, then," proceeded Mabel calmly, "it won't hurt you to hear me tell it."—Kansas City Star.

HARDING WINS GREAT VICTORY

Republican Avalanche Sweeps Every Northern State.

BREAKS INTO SOLID SOUTH

G. O. P. Gets 404 Electoral Votes in 37 States; Democrats Capture but 127 in 11 States—Tennessee, Oklahoma, Arizona and New Mexico Fail to Turn to Cox—Great Gains in Senate and House—Features of the Tremendous Vote.

By JOHN DICKINSON SHERMAN. Harding has won a tremendous victory. Here's the story in brief: Harding carried 37 states with 404 electoral votes; Cox carried 11 with 127 votes. Republicans have margin of 22 in senate and 150 in house. In comment, the household word avalanche seems the handiest. The Republican avalanche began at the Canadian border, from Maine to Washington, and swept the country clean clear to Mason and Dixon's line and broke the Solid South. The Republican avalanche swept Tennessee, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Arizona. In Kentucky Richard J. Ernst, Republican, is elected to the senate over J. C. W. Beckham. For the first time in history several counties in Alabama went Republican, and several precincts in the sixth Mississippi district did the same almost unbelievable thing. Harding carried St. Petersburg, Orlando, Daytona and other towns in Florida; nine counties in northern Georgia and a dozen parishes in the sugar belt of Louisiana. The G. O. P. picked up a congressman in Texas; Harry M. Wurzbach defeated Carlos Bee, brother-in-law of Postmaster General Burleson. President-elect Harding, whatever else he does, is going to take a rest.

ANNUAL TAX OF 4 BILLION FACED

SECY HOUSTON MAY PROPOSE ABOLISHMENT OF EXCESS PROFITS TAX.

WAR LOAN NOTES SOON DUE

Eight Billion Payable in Next Three Years; Strictest Economy to Be Recommended.

Washington.—The nation will face a continuation of the annual tax of $4,000,000,000 for a period of at least three years if congress adopts recommendations drafted by treasury officials and which have been laid before Secretary Houston for approval. Houston, it was stated, probably will include such recommendations in the form of an analysis of the government's financial condition in his forthcoming annual report to congress. The analysis will show, and accompanying recommendations will suggest, it was said, that a three-year program for tax revision is required in order to meet maturing government obligations and to cover current federal expenses. Approximately $8,000,000,000 in victory notes, war savings securities and treasury certificates of indebtedness will be due for payment within the next three years, treasury figures show. Retention of the present aggregate level of taxes, or maintenance of the annual revenue of the government at about $4,000,000,000 then is held to be unavoidable on the face of average expenditures, estimated for the period. Recommendations to be made by Houston, it is understood, will propose abolishment of the excess profits taxes in their entirety and the substitution thereof of a graduated income tax of a substantially deeper cut than under present revenue laws. It was believed the new income taxes would apply only to incomes above

Biscuits and Cinnamon Buns

From the NEW ROYAL COOK BOOK

BISCUIT! So tender they fairly melt in the mouth, and of such glorious flavor that the appetite is never satisfied. These biscuits anyone can make with Royal Baking Powder and these unusual recipes.

Biscuits
 2 cups flour
 4 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1 tablespoon shortening
 1/2 cup milk or half milk and half water

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt, add shortening and rub in very lightly; add liquid slowly; roll or pat on floured board to about one inch in thickness (handle as little as possible); cut with biscuit cutter. Bake in hot oven 15 to 20 minutes.

Royal Cinnamon Buns
 2 1/2 cups flour
 1 teaspoon salt
 4 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder
 5 tablespoons shortening
 1 egg
 1/2 cup water
 1/2 cup sugar
 1 teaspoon cinnamon
 4 tablespoons seeded raisins

Sift 2 tablespoons of measured sugar with flour, salt and baking powder; rub shortening in lightly; add beaten egg to water and add slowly. Roll out 1/8-inch thick on floured board; brush with melted butter; sprinkle with sugar, cinnamon and raisins. Roll as for jelly roll; cut into 1 1/4-inch pieces, place with cut edges up on well-greased pan; sprinkle with a little sugar and cinnamon. Bake in moderate oven 30 to 35 minutes; remove from pan at once.

EMPEROR FRIEND OF LOWLY

Napoleon III Declared to Have Had Genuine Regard for the Humbler of His Subjects.

The friendly feeling of Napoleon III for the toilers is dwelt upon by Agnes Carey in her "An Empress in Exile," in the Century magazine, and she gives as her authority Empress Eugenie, wife of the last of the emperors. "Whatever his failings toward her had been," the author says, "she professed a warm admiration of his love of hard work, his pluck and his great kindness of heart and thoughtfulness for every one. The emperor genuinely loved the poor and humble among his subjects, with no thought of policy. He was too good and generous for his people's understanding. Had he been tyrannical and made use of them and trampled them down like some other sovereigns, they would have behaved better toward him, she (Eugenie) said. "Napoleon was a dreamer and spent much of his time to the serious thinking out of schemes for the benefit of his people, and all mankind. His life's ambition was to better their lot. He had great magnetism, especially with the working classes. The empress charmed every stranger, but the emperor was really more personally and deeply loved by his entourage than was his consort."

BEADS PREFERRED TO BREAD

People of the Levant Set Great Stock on Colored Glass of Every Description.

Beads are more necessary than bread to the Levant. Men, women and children wear and carry beads to ward off ill luck. Even the horses and donkeys have strands of beads about their necks "to baffle the evil eye," and the long horns of the work oxen are decorated with blue-and-white beads to keep them from falling prey to diseases. In Athens, Constantinople, Tiflis, Smyrna and other cities of the Levant men of all classes carry short strands of fidget beads, which they play with while walking in the street, riding in street cars and trains just as nervous men in the West finger their watch-chains. Bead shops abound everywhere in the larger cities and general stores and market stalls sell them in the smaller places. Peddlers hawk them in the streets everywhere. Light-colored amber beads of large size are the latest thing in beads for women. Meerschmum beads are also popular, and for the moment plain beads of all sorts have displaced highly ornate carved beads of the type which Syrians produce in great quantities for exportation.—Washington Post.

increase even on the additional tax as the amount of income grows larger. The secretary is expected to advise congress that the strictest economy in federal appropriations is necessary if the program outlined on the basis of a $4,000,000,000 tax bill is to be accomplished.

LONDONDERRY IS TERRORIZED

Five Policemen Shot and Shops Burned to Ground in Fray.

Belfast.—Wild scenes were witnessed in Londonderry as a sequel to a sudden attack on policemen there. Five policemen were shot, two of them so seriously that they are not expected to recover; two shops were burned to the ground and several others were wrecked. All the property attacked belonged to Sinn Feiners. The attack on the policemen was directed against the officers who were guarding the customs house, and a brisk exchange of shots followed. The fray so terrified the crowds of shoppers that they fled homeward in a panic. Afterwards the police and the military raided a large section of the city, holding up and searching everyone they found out of doors and invading and searching numerous houses.

POPE AIDS CENTRAL EUROPE

Gives 500,000 Lire For Relief Work Among Children.

Rome.—Pope Benedict in the course of a farewell audience given to Monsignor Karl Joseph Schulte, archbishop of Cologne, handed the archbishop a half million lire for relief work among the children of central Europe. It is confirmed that Monsignor Schulte will be made a cardinal at next month's consistory, when Monsignor Francisco Ragonessi, apostolic nuncio at Madrid, will also receive the red hat. According to authoritative vatican sources no American cardinals will be created at the coming consistory.

9 SHIPS LACK CARGOES, QUIT

Shortage of Cargoes Due to Completion of Sugar Shipments.

San Francisco.—Nine United States shipping board freight steamers, representing approximately 65,000 tons, are to be retired because of lack of cargoes, the San Francisco headquarters of the board announced here. Completion of sugar shipments was given as one cause for shortage of cargoes.

is Point Isabel, Tex., via San Antonio and Brownsville. Point Isabel is on the Gulf, 20 miles from Brownsville and six miles from the Mexican line. It has a population of 100 whites and 150 Mexicans. There golf, bathing, fishing and hunting are right at hand. Col. F. E. Scobey, now of San Antonio and formerly sheriff of Marion county, Ohio, made him promise to go, win or lose, the night he was nominated. R. B. Creager, a San Antonio banker, who seconded his nomination at Chicago, has turned over his cottage. Of course, the poor man will be guarded by secret service operatives and pestered by newspaper men and photographers, but he will have a goodly company of golf buddies and other intimate friends along. And politics and visitors will be barred.

Mr. Harding is planning to go to the Canal Zone, after a fortnight at Point Isabel. He has been preaching that the new American merchant marine should pass free through the Panama canal and he wants first-hand information on conditions. Return is set for December 6. He plans to resign his seat as senator January 10, when Governor-elect Davis of Ohio will be inaugurated and Senator-elect Willis will be appointed Mr. Harding's successor.

Alfred E. Smith, Democratic governor of New York, earned a new title in the election—"Miracle Man of American Politics." Why, he almost re-elected himself in the face of a Harding majority of more than a million. The presidential vote was about this: Harding, 1,842,222; Cox, 782,693. The gubernatorial vote was about this: Miller, 1,319,586; Smith, 1,256,311. Republicans and Democrats alike say the feat is unprecedented. "Al," as everybody calls him, has come from an orphan newsboy. Now he is spoken of as the logical candidate for the presidency in 1924.

By-products of the election are many and interesting. Harding shatters a tradition that no sitting senator can be elevated to the White House. Coolidge, who violates every principle of politics laid down by the practical politician, wins his seventeenth successive candidacy.

Oklahoma elects Alice M. Robertson of Muskogee, Republican, aged sixty-six, to congress; she went to Indian Territory by prairie schooner, has taught in Indian schools most of her life, would let no soldier or sailor pay in her cafeteria and is a heaven-born cook.

California overwhelmingly indorses the anti-alien land law recently adopted by the state legislature. Massachusetts approves the act to legalize the manufacture and sale of beer and wines of 2.75 alcoholic content. Wisconsin approves 2.5 per cent beer. New York approves a bonus for soldiers by 32 of 60 not to exceed $45,000.

IS FAVORED LAND

Western Canada Country of Great Possibilities.

Soil, Climate, and Weather Conditions All Factors in the Production of Unrivaled Fruit, Vegetables and Flowers as Well as Grain.

As recently as last month—to be correct, it was the 18th of October, a time of year when one naturally looks for the "frost upon the punkin," and is inclined to wander through the woods in search of the ripened nuts, and admire the beautiful colorings that the autumn atmosphere has bestowed upon the leaves; when one goes to his closet, or maybe his pawnbroker, to find his heavy clothing—it was that I found myself the guest of a Western Canada housewife in her beautiful home on the outskirts of the pretty little town of Moosomin, Saskatchewan. The dinner! That's what Mrs. Wilde called it. I should have termed it a banquet. There were mallard duck, cooked to a turn, baked potatoes—and such big, mealy fellows they were, too—cauliflower—and say, did you ever taste one of those Western Canada cauliflower?—then dessert. What was the dessert? I can see it now. Strawberries, strawberries that had been picked that morning. Help yourself to the cream—and it was cream that is cream. But what I wanted to write about was the strawberries picked on the 18th of October. As I ate, and turned my back while a second helping was placed in front of me, I could not but think how this goes to refute the once accepted idea that the climate of Western Canada is such that the ripening of strawberries at any season is one of the things that might be looked upon as next to impossible. Fortunately it is rapidly giving place to one which acknowledges that our sister nation to the north possesses a climate that makes it quite possible to develop and ripen strawberries even

A. B. Smith, near the same town, plucked a splendid mess of green corn from his garden. Near Rocauville, Saskatchewan, wild raspberries were picked during the same week. The fact of ripening fruit at this date may seem of little moment, but when you are told that corn did not suffer from any vagaries of weather, more attention may be paid to it. The question of Western Canada's climate is no longer the bugaboo it once was, and not so very long ago, either, when it caused thinking people to think, and unquestionably prevented many from going to Canada who under other conditions would have gone.

In various parts of this country, at different state and county fairs, the government of the Dominion of Canada, during the past few weeks, installed exhibits of the grains and grasses grown in Western Canada, and at the same time showed fruits and vegetables that were grown there. None of these was placed in competition with the home-grown article. But to judges and others there came the full understanding of what it would mean to the local exhibitor if they were. The Western Canadian—and many of the exhibits were grown by former Americans—does not lay claim to any special dispensation of intelligence in the matter of the culture of the articles placed on exhibition, but willingly gives credit to the soil, the climate, and such other indigenous conditions as the country as a whole possesses, as being factors that bring about the largest yields of the best of wheat, oats, barley, flax and rye, as well as vegetables. As is pointed out by the gentlemen in charge of these exhibits, and quite evident to all, the possibilities of growing vegetables and grain such as are shown can only exist where conditions such as have been mentioned exist.

In speaking of eating fresh strawberries and green corn in the middle of October I should not fail to refer to the beautiful bouquets that adorned the table, the sideboard, the window sills, and almost every other available vacant place in the room. Flowers!—there were asters, phlox, gladioli, peonies, poppies and I can't remember the names of them all, but they were there. Taken right from the garden, having a fragrance that gave the room tropical colors, and filled it with marvellously delightful perfumes. It was a very pretty sight. Then I went out into the garden, and took a photo of it. It was simply wonderful. I asked the good lady how she managed it. She said she had always been fond of flowers. In her old home, in one of the central states, she carried on garden horticulture, and had been acknowledged successful. "But my!" she said, "I never got such bloom, and such a variety as I do here." She admitted it was a lot of work, the watering, the weeding, the hoeing, but such work was a pleasure.

Well, such is some of the life in Western Canada, and as I left the farm home I concluded that much of our surroundings are as we ourselves make them.—Advertisement.

"Do they still use the time-honored shell game?" "Yes, they find it attracts the nuts."

DETROIT LADY SAYS HYPO-COD IS GREAT

Made Me Feel Twenty Years Younger—I Feel Fine Now.

STOPPED NERVOUSNESS

"For about eighteen months I was in a rundown, nervous condition and tried about everything on earth with no results until I took Earle's Hypo-Cod. No wonder I gladly endorse this tonic when I can. I felt drowsy, sleepy and bad and yet after getting into bed I couldn't get to sleep. I'd toss and roll half the night. My appetite was poor. My strength had vanished and I was in poor health all around. Lots of things would upset my stomach and I was right much discouraged. A friend had taken it with good results so I started and now—Well to make a long story short—I think it is great. I feel twenty years younger. Eat great big meals and sleep nights as well as I ever did in my life. I never dreamed anything in the world could do so much good in such a short time. I recommend Earle's Hypo-Cod all over the neighborhood," declared Mrs. Ida Wright, 11 Manson Ave., Detroit, Mich.

Weak, frail, nervous people should not go through the winter in that condition if it is possible for them to build themselves up with a good tonic. They are almost sure to have colds, coughs and winter ills even if they do not really become sick abed.

Drop in at the drug store tonight and ask your druggist about this new tonic. Read the formula on bottle.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It

Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected.

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview on the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease. It is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

STATE ROADS IN WINTER

For two or three months each winter the northern State highways have been made impassible, or nearly so, by drifted snow, and the hundreds of millions of dollars invested in them bring no return to the taxpayers during the time the roads can not be used. With a view to remedying this condition, the Bureau of Public Roads of the United States Department of Agriculture has been making this summer a study of the situation with regard to snow removal in the States east of the Mississippi and north of the Potomac. An engineer of the bureau has conferred with the highway commissioners in the States in this territory, and reports that definite plans have been made in New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Indiana, and Illinois which will result in the main trunk lines being kept open all winter. In some other States, notably Ohio, snow removal is the duty of the counties, and while the State highway department is prepared to assist the counties in every

In some of the States snow fences will be placed for the winter 50 feet from the highway, to stop the snow before it reaches the road. These "fences" which are made of slats, are tipped backwards until they form a decided angle and then are braced like billboards. In the spring the sections are unbolted from the stakes and stored by the State highway commissioner until winter. This type of fence has been used by many railroads in the past during the months of snow, and has proved very effective as a snow guard to the roadbed.

In other localities snow plows, either horse or motor drawn, will keep the State highway clear. One of the most efficient type of highway snow plow has a broad blade, which removes the snow, attached to the front of a motor truck. A second truck chained to the first pulls while the first pulls the blade.

Red and White Flag.
The Roman signal for battle was the unfurling of a red flag. The white flag is a token of peace in every part of the world.

Troublesome Weeds.
The hawkweed, introduced from Europe into Canada and the New England states, has become one of the most troublesome weeds in grass lands.

Stiff? Sore?

A lame back, a sore muscle or a stiff joint often is considered too lightly by the sufferer. It should be remembered that backache, rheumatic pains, stiffness, soreness, scallow skin and puffiness under the eyes are symptoms of kidney and bladder trouble—and these certainly should not be neglected.

Foley Kidney Pills

help the kidneys eliminate from the system the poisonous waste and acids that cause these aches and pains. They act promptly and effectively to restore weak, overworked or diseased kidneys and bladder to healthy, normal condition.

J. B. Weeks, 400 E. 30th St., Portland, Ore., writes: "I was troubled with backache and rheumatic pains. I tried Foley Kidney Pills and found that they highly recommended them to any one who was troubled in that way, as they are excellent."
