THE COMMUNITY ENTERTAINMENT

The Second Community Program given last Friday evening by the Literary Society of the Pinckney High was even more of a success than the first one, if that were possible.

The High School Auditorium was well crowded, and standing room was in demand long before time for the entertainment to begin.

Selectious by the High School Chorus, readings by Morgan Harris, Marjorie Smith, and Myron Wilcox, and a humorous dialogue by Neita Wilcox, Ruth Galligan, Reatha Cook, Myra Graves, Margaret Driver, Bonita Ahrens, and Lloyd Teeple made up the first part program. Needless to say, this part of the entertainment was carried out in a way that bespoke ability and thorough preparation. That it was received with favor was shown by the applause of the appreciative audience.

The second part of the program was a debate—Resolved—That Woman Suffrage Should Be Abolished.

On the affirmative side were Margaret Driver, Helen Mercer, Gerald McCuskey, Lillian Wasson, Dorothy Darrow, Bessie Swarthout, and Olah Docking.

On the negative side Blanche Frost, Vera Shipley, Gilbert Campbell, Irene Warner, Edna Darrow, Cynthia Hanes and Eleanor Chambers.

From start to finish the debate was actively contested, and so closely matched were the two sides that the decision was always in doubt until it

The judges were Mrs. M. E. Darrow, W. E. Weeks, and Alger Hall.

FAREWELL PARTY FOR EX-SHERIFF AT HOWELL

Citizens of Howell and vicinity to the number of a hundred or more met at the Victory Club rooms Thursday night to pay their respects and say goodby to Sheriff W. C. Miller. Mr. Miller was taken sick on the way back from Jackson and unfortunately was not able to be present. The party went on just the same and all present seemed to enjoy themselves. After a social hour refreshments were served and no one seemed to take a back seat in this part of the performance.

After the eats were over the company was called to order by R. D. Roche, who acted as toastmaster. He made a few remarks as to his association with Sheriff Miller in a business way. The toastmaster then called on a number of those present who responded with a few pleasant remarks.

Prosecuting attorney Willis Lyons was the first speaker and he spoke in the highest terms as to Mr. Miller's work as sheriff of Livingston County, for four years and of course he knew Mr. Miller's official life better than any other living man as the sheriff and prosecutor, must work together and in harmony for the best results. Mr. Lyons was followed by George Barnes, Hugh A. McPherson, A. Garland, Geo. Wimbles, and the sheriff elect, Fred Teeple.

A handsome polished copper tea set was left by the visitors as a reminder of the high esteem in which Mr. and Mrs. Miller are held by their constituents.—Republican.

FARM NOTES

Uniform cream grading for all Michigan, and a better quality of butter as a result, are aims of state creamery men who will gather at the Michigan Agricultural College from January 18 to 21 for a short course on Cream Improvement. Difficulty in disposing of cheaper quality butter, and general uncertainty of market conditions led to the establishment of the school or conference which is planned especially for creamery field agents and managers.

It is hoped that a uniform system of grading in Michigan may be adopted, and better results obtained generally, after creamery men have made this special study of grades and methods of grading says O. T. Goodwin, Associate Professor of Dairy Manufactures at M. A. C. who is planning the course. Testing, Cream Grading, Care of Cream on the Farm, Washing and Sterilizing Utensils, Sanitary Conditions, and Care of Equipment are among the special subjects which will be taken up.

Prof. F. W. Bouska, formerly of the Ames Dairy Department, will handle the cream grading work all during the school, while W. B. Liverance, of the W. B. Liverance Co. New York, will talk to the state creamery men on Present Butter Market Conditions, on January 19.

AROUND THE WORLD

Winona, Minn.—"A few years ago I had a severe attack of ptomain poisoning which left my blood in very bad condition. I tried a great many so-called 'tonics' but felt no better until a friend suggested my trying a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which gave me immediate relief. It is surely an excellent tonic, does not purge, and is not objectionable to the taste. I was living in England when I first took the 'Discovery' and have since been around the world and always carried a bottle of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' right with me. I would not be without it and am only too pleased to be able to recommend it."—WALTER H. DUNSTON, Willow Farm.

PROMINENT WOMEN
 Kennebec, S. Dak.—"A few years ago during expectancy I got all run-down and felt that I needed something to strengthen me. I took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it soon had me feeling fine. I did not suffer and my baby was a strong healthy child and always has been the picture of health which I think I owe to this medicine. We also use Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets and they have always given perfect satisfaction. I have Dr. Pierce's Medical Book, the Common Sense Medical Advisor, which has been a wonderful help to me and my family. I think there is no better medicine made than Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and can highly recommend it to all."—MRS. G. W. COX.

YOUNG WOMANHOOD
 Cedar Rapids, Iowa.—"A relative took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription when she was a young girl and has taken it several times since with wonderful results. I have taken it off and on since I was a young girl; it has helped me every time I have taken it. I consider it a wonderful medicine for young girls just entering womanhood. Nothing equals it. It restores one's health quickly and is pleasant to take. I recommend it to everyone needing such medicine."—MRS. CLARA JONES, 1329 2d Ave., E.

And He Didn't See the Joke.
 The subway train was saying from side to side and the passenger who hadn't got a strap to hang onto was suffering as a consequence.

Three times he landed on the lap of a stout matron, who finally lost her temper and inquired:

"You call yourself a lap-lander?"

"Well, I am," said the man, "but I think I must now describe myself as a lap-lander."

The joke appealed to the matron, who not only forgave him, but decided to retain his humor. She tried it first on her husband. "Yes, dear," she said, "three times he landed on my lap, and when I asked him what he was he said he was an Eskimo."

Visitor's Inquiry Did Seem Unreasonable in View of Statement He Had Previously Made.

A well known physician of New York tells why he does not know whence his ancestors came.

Now, he had always understood that his ancestors were Scotch-Irish, and on the strength of that belief had prided himself on their royal blood.

Once it occurred to him to go and have a look at the old place whence they were supposed to have come. When he arrived at what he believed was the right district he appealed to an old Irishman to tell him the exact

Improved Gunnery in the Navy.

Analysis of the gunnery exercises of the American navy during the past year shows that the greatest progress toward efficiency was made by vessels of the battleship class, due to the large number of men aboard such ships and the comparative stability of the personnel. The Navy department considers that battleship gunnery is at present about equal to that of foreign battleships. It is believed that next year vessels of other classes will be brought up as regards gunnery to the level of our battleships.—Scientific American.

The Reason.
The other day a corpulent woman kept her daughter home from school to help with the work. Indignantly the teacher wrote a note to the father and demanded a written excuse for the child's absence. Now, he was henpecked, but his note was worthy of a genius. He wrote: "Dear teacher—I let Geraldine be absent for ample reasons. See her mother."—Exchange.

LAXATIVE for Aged People

THE BANE of old age is constipation. The bowels become weak and unable to perform their functions without aid. For this purpose only the mildest and gentlest laxative should be used. The use of harsh cathartics aggravates the trouble and makes the constipation worse. Chamberlain's Tablets are a favorite with people of middle age and older on account of their gentle action.

HAD QUEER MENTAL STREAK

Stories Told of Oliver Cromwell Would Lead One to Doubt His Complete Sanity.

If Oliver Cromwell had lived in these days a committee of alienists doubtless would have investigated his sanity before now. For the Protector had a most abnormal streak in his mental make-up. Fancy a man that could sign the death warrant of a king and then turn and spatter the ink from his pen into the face of a friend. In his youth taverns were the chief resort of Cromwell. His rascals and boisterous behavior early estranged him from his equals and he came to associate with a class beneath him. For he could brook no interference or contradiction. The matter of the score at the Inns where he caroused concerned him very little; the bills frequently went unpaid and he became extremely unpopular with the alewives of Huntingdon who, when they saw him coming, would lock the doors to keep out the noisy bully. So Oliver turned out to be a wild and dissipated youth. The same incorrigible spirit ran throughout his life. It led him to encourage his soldiers to play practical jokes upon each other, such as putting hot coals in the other fellow's boots. At the marriage of his daughter in 1657 to Rich, the Protector threw sack posset among the ladies to soil their rich clothes, which they took as a favor from him, strange as it may seem. And he put sticky candy

OBJECT TO MENIAL DUTIES

Reason That is Assigned for the Present Scarcity of Trained Nurses in Hospitals.

The full utility of many hospitals is now impaired by a lack of nurses writes "Girard" in the Philadelphia Press.

Howard Butler, Jr. is trustee of an important hospital here and he tells me they need 30 per cent more nurses than they can get.

"Why are nurses so scarce?" I asked.

"I presume," answered Mr. Butler, whose business, as you know, is that of a banker and broker, "it is because girls think they can earn more money in an easier way in some other occupation."

I have talked with doctors of wide hospital experience about it and they say that the old practice of making girls in training for nurses do drudgery for a year or so has prevented many young women from entering the profession.

"What good," said one great surgeon, "did it do to a nurse's skill to make her scrub floors or wash windows? As well make medical students polish shoes, keep up the furnace fires and sweep out the lecture rooms."

Another physician of long experience and who is connected with a big hospital, added:

"The hospitals will be obliged to cut out the manual labor for training nurses and will probably reduce the years of training, or the country will go back to the conditions when it had few or no trained nurses."

Egg-Hatching Periods.

Birds such as the catbird and other perching species, which have altricial young needing care in the nest for some time, do not incubate their eggs as long as those like the shorebirds and ducks which have precocial young. says the American Forestry Magazine. The eggs of most common small birds require incubation for from ten days to two weeks. Those of the fowl-like birds such as the ruffed grouse about three weeks, those of the ducks about four weeks, and the eggs of the emu, which hatch in Australia.

DIALECTS MANY AND VARIED

Genesis of the Traveling American May Be Pretty Well Recognized by His Speech.

A survey just completed shows that 33 languages are in daily use in New York, not including three or four kinds of English. There is highbrow English, lowbrow English and the R-less variety, besides the strange, inexplicable cockney kind, which gives all "er" sounds the sound of "ol." We say inexplicable, for we have never seen explained why in certain New York vernacular third is "thoid," bird is "bird" and curse is "coise."

Sometime, somewhere, that enunciation must have begun--whether on the Bowery or in Harlem or even in Broadway, nobody seems to know. Was it in some of that era does not seem to indicate. The converse of the blacks and juvenile street sweepers of the mild and innocuous fiction of those days reveal almost a Sunday school diction. The "coise" has swept over Manhattan since then. It came with the melting pot and may be part of it, for all we know.

The United States is large enough to contain a number of dialects and already it does contain them, so that one's genesis is pretty well distinguished by his speech. We know New England by its "lofling" laugh and they know us by our "larling" one. "Ask" in some parts of the South is as flattened out almost as the "a" in "bake," while still remaining "ask" in Massachusetts.

Our pluribus unum language is truly that kind, and likely to become more pluribus as the country grows older.--St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

TOMBS THAT ARE INDIVIDUAL

Resting Places of Chinese Rulers So Constructed as to Reveal Character of Occupants.

At the Tung Ling, or Eastern Tombs of the Manchus, nature has worked hand in hand with man to produce a harmonious whole, writes Roy Chapman Andrews in Asia Magazine. Most of the trees about the tombs have been planted, but they have been so cleverly chosen and placed that they look as if they had grown just where, in nature's scheme of things, they ought to be. There is nothing glaringly artificial in the appearance of the park.

Although the tombs are alike in general plan, they are at the same time as individual as were the emperors themselves. Each is a subtle expression of the character of the one who sleeps beneath the yellow roof. The tomb of Ch'ien-Lung, the artist emperor, lies not far away from that of the empress dowager. Stately, beautiful in its simplicity, it is an indication of his life and deeds. In striking contrast is the palace built by the empress, for her eternal dwelling. Extravagantly decorated, vaingloriously declaring to the world the millions spent upon it, it represents admirably the personality of the iron-willed ruler who in life held her place by force and intrigue and lavish expenditure and who was determined to be known, even in death as the greatest of the great. But a hundred years from now when Ch'ien-Lung's mausoleum, like the painting of an old master, has been made even more beautiful by the touch of age, that of the empress will be worn and tarnished.

CAMP NO. 1.

Synopsis.—Dissatisfied because of the seemingly barren outlook of his position as a school teacher in a Canadian town, John Harris determines to leave it, take up land in Manitoba and become a "homesteader." Mary, the girl whom he loves, declares she will accompany him. They are married and set out for the unknown country.

CHAPTER I—Continued.

Harris left his wife with a company of other women in the government immigration building while he set out to find, if possible, lodgings where she might live until he was ready to take her to the homestead country. He must first make a trip of exploration himself, and as this might require several weeks his present consideration was to place her in proper surroundings before he left. He inquired at many doors for lodgings for himself and wife, or for his wife alone. The response ranged from curt announcements that the inmates "ain't takin' boarders" to sympathetic assurances that if it were possible to find room for another it would be done, but the house was already crowded to suffocation. In two hours Harris, notwithstanding his stout frame and his young enthusiasm, dragged himself somewhat disconsolately back to the immigration building with the information that his search had been fruitless.

At the door he met Tom Morrison and another, whom he recognized as the teller of Indian stories which had

"And what luck have ye had?" asked Harris. "Little, I'll be thinkin' by the smile ye're forcin' up. But what am I thinkin' of? Mr. McCrae is from Wapota in the Wapota county, and a old timer on the prairie."

"Alec McCrae," said the big man. "We leave our misters' east of the Great Lakes. An Ah'm not from Wapota, unless you give that name to all the country from Pembina crossing to Turtle mountain. Ah'm doing business all through there, an no more partial to one place than another."

"What is your line of business, Mr. McCrae?" asked Harris.

"Alec, I said, an' Alec it is."

"All right," said the other, laughing. "What is your business, Alec?"

"My business is assisting settlers to get located on suitable land, an' eking out my own living by the process. Tom here tells me you're hunting a house for the wife. Ah know Emerson too well to suppose you have found one."

"I haven't, for a fact," said Harris, reminded of the urgency of his mission.

"It's out of the question," said McCrae. "Besides, it's not so necessary as you think. What with the bad time our train made, an' the good time the stock train made, an' the fact that they started ahead of us they're in the yards now. That's a piece of luck, to start with."

"But I can't put my wife in a stock car!" protested Harris.

"There's worse places," McCrae answered, calmly worrying a considerable section from a plug of black chewing tobacco. "Worse places, Ah should say. Ah've seen times when a good warm stock car would have passed for heaven. But that ain't what Ah have in mind. We'll all turn in an' get the stock unloaded, hitch up the horses, pack a load, an' get away. Ah've been making a canvass, an' Ah find we have six or seven families who can be ready to pull out this afternoon. My team will go along, with a good tent an' some cooking outfit. Everyone has bedding, so we're all right for that. Now, if we all hustle we can be started by 4 o'clock, an' out ten or 12 miles before we pitch camp. How does it suit you?"

"What do you say, Mr. Morrison?"

"I think Alec's plan is best. I've my wife and the two girls, and there's no roof for their heads here. It suits me."

"If it's all settled," continued McCrae, who had the leader's knack of suppressing indecision at the psychological moment, "we'll all turn in with the unloading of the stock."

Harris ran to tell his wife that they were to join a party for "the front" that very afternoon. She received the news joyously.

In a few minutes all hands, both men and women, were busy at the cars. Many hands made the work light, and by mid-afternoon six sleighs were loaded for the journey. All the women and children were to go with the party; Morrison and one or two hired men would remain in Emerson, complete the unloading, and take charge of the effects until the teams should return from their long journey. McCrae, on account of his knowledge of the town and of the needs of the journey, was chosen to secure the supplies.

Each settler's sleigh carried that which seemed most indispensable. First came the settler's family, which, large or small, was crowded into the deep box. McCrae made them pack hay in the bottom of the sleigh boxes, and over this were laid robes and blankets, on which the immigrants sat, as thickly as they could be placed. More robes and blankets were laid on top, and sacks stuffed very full of hay served the double purpose of cushioning their backs and conveying fodder for the animals.

Morrison came up to Harris' sleigh, and gave it an approving inspection.

"You will all be fine," he said, "and a great deal better than wearyin' about here. Besides, you're just as well to be away," he added, in a somewhat lower voice. "McCrae tells me if this sun keeps up the roads will be gone before we know it, and that means a delay of two or three weeks."

At this moment McCrae himself joined the group. "There's only two in your party, Harris," he said, "an' while Ah don't want to interrupt your honeymoon, there's another passenger to be taken care of. Dr. Blain is going with us, and Ah'm going to put him in your charge. He's a bit peculiar, but Ah don't think he'll give you any trouble. It's best, I reckon, thing Ah know—he's a doctor. Ah'm going up town for him now; you can shift your stuff a little an' make room."

The whole party were ready for the road and waiting before McCrae appeared again. When he came a companion staggered somewhat uncertainly by his side.

"I'm aw'right, McCrae," he was saying. "I'm aw'right. Shay, what's that? Shildren's Ishru?"

"Come now, Doctor, straighten up. Ah want to introduce you."

Half leading and half pulling McCrae brought the doctor to Harris' sleigh. "This is Mr. Harris, who you will travel with—Jack Harris. An' Mrs. Harris."

The doctor had glanced only casually at Harris, but at the mention of the woman's name he straightened up and stood alone.

"Glad to meet you, madam," he said. "And it's only proper that the pleasure should be all mine." There was a little bitterness in his voice that did not escape her ear.

"But indeed I am glad to meet you," she answered. "Mr. McCrae has been telling us something of your work among the settlers. We are very fortunate to have you with us."

He shot a keen look into her face. She returned his gaze frankly, and he found sarcasm neither in her eyes nor her voice.

"Help me in, McCrae," he said. "I'm a bit unsteady. * * * There now, my bug. Don't move, Mrs. Harris. * * * I think we are quite ready now, are we not?"

"Most remarkable man," whispered McCrae to Harris. "Wonderful how he can pull himself together."

McCrae hurried to his own sleigh, called a cheery "All ready!" and the party at once proceeded to get under way.

Harris' thoughts were on his team, on the two cows trudging behind, and on the multiplicity of arrangements which his new life would present for decision and settlement. But his wife gazed silently out over the ocean of snow. The rays of the sun fell gratefully on her cheeks, pale and somewhat wan with her long journey. But the sun went down, and the western sky, cloudless and measureless, faded from gold to copper, and from copper to silver, and from silver to lead. It was her first sight of the prairie, and a strange mixture of emotions, of awe, and loneliness, and a certain indifference to personal consequences, welled up within her. Once or twice she thought of home—a home so far away that it might have been in another planet. But she would not let her mind dwell on it for long. She was going to be brave. For the sake of the brave man who sat at her side, guiding his team in the deepening darkness; for the sake of the new home that they two should build somewhere over the horizon; for the sake of the civilization that was to be planted, of the nation that must arise, of the manhood and womanhood of tomorrow—she would be brave.

A bright star shone down from the west; one by one they appeared in the heavens. * * * It grew colder. The snow no longer caked on the horses' feet; the sleigh runners creaked and whined uncannily.

The team came to a sudden stop. The sleigh in front was obstructing the road, and the party closed up to solid formation.

"Camp No. 1," called Alec McCrae, from the head sleigh. "Run these sleighs up in two rows," and he indicated where he wanted them placed. "It's hard on the horses an' cattle, after the warm cars, but they'll stand it tonight if they're well blanketed. Tomorrow night we'll be among the Mennonites, with a chance of getting a stable room."

Under Alec's direction the sleighs were run up in two rows, about 20 feet apart, facing the north. Two sleighs were then run across the opening at the north end, so that altogether they formed a three-sided court. Men with shovels quickly cleared the snow from the northerly portions of the court, and there the tent was pitched. The ground was covered with blankets, robes and bedding. Pots and pans were produced; women eager to be of service swarmed about the stove, and children, free at last of their muffling wraps, romped in high-laughered glee among the robes or danced back and forward with the swinging shadows.

Savory smells soon were coming from hot frying pans, as sliced ham with bread and gravy, was served up in tin plates and passed about the

CHAPTER II.

Prairie Land.

The afternoon that has just been described was typical of the days that were to follow as the immigrant party labored its slow pilgrimage into the further west. True, they entered on the very next day a district having some pretense of settlement where it was sometimes possible to secure shelter for the women and children under hospitable Mennonite roofs. They soon emerged from the Red River valley, left the vast, level, treeless plain behind them, and plunged into the rolling and lightly wooded Pembina region.

After numerous consultations with McCrae, Harris had arranged that his immediate destination should be in a district where the scrub country melted into open prairie on the western side of the Pembina. The Arthurses, who were also of the party, had homesteaded there, and Fred Arthurs had built a little house on the land the year before. Arthurs was now bringing his young wife to share with him the privations and the privileges of their new home. A friendship had already sprung up between Mrs. Arthurs and Mrs. Harris, and nothing seemed more appropriate than that the two women should occupy the house together while Harris sought out new homestead land and Arthurs proceeded with the development of his farm.

After the crossing of the Pembina the party began to scatter—some to homesteads already located; others to friends who would billet them until their arrangements were completed. At length came the trail, almost lost in the disappearing snow, that led to Arthurs' homestead. A quick handshake with McCrae, Ned Bacon, and the doctor, and a few others who had grown upon them in the journey, and the two young couples turned out to break their way over the little-used route that now lay before them.

NEXT JOB IS WHAT COUNTS

Good Thing to Forget What One Has Done, and Look Forward to Something Else.

James J. Hill, who possessed a phenomenal memory, said it is easy to remember things you are interested in.

What to do, therefore, is to discern what things are useful, what things one ought to be interested in, and then forget the others.

That sounds easy, but it isn't easy, as we all know. However, if we try, we may accomplish something. If we don't, we won't.

Let's see, therefore, what are some of the things we ought to forget.

First, and most important of all, forget that brilliant record you made at school or that wonderful sale you made which caused all the boys to talk, or that remarkable piece of work you did which won your raise of pay and promotion.

Forget the big things you did yesterday or last year.

Forget all about the time you topped the list and were made a fuss over.

Forget that you are (in your own eyes) a wonder, a world beater.

Water that has gone over the mill-wheel can grind no more corn.

Forget what you have already done and address all your mind and strength and talent to the next job.—Forbes Magazine (New York).

Ventilation.

Through persistent education the why and wherefore of this great health necessity has been explained; still in the many, air is air, and that is all there is to it.

Ventilation does not simply mean "open wide the windows," but it should be done scientifically, especially in a sick room. To properly ventilate, the air must be kept in motion. The entrance opening for fresh air should be larger than the one for exit. If these openings are directly opposite, the motion will take place without doing the room any good. If there are two windows in the room, one should be opened from the top and the other from the bottom. For the general daytime room the temperature should be 68 degrees and at night 65. A bathroom should be kept at 70. For the sick room of pneumonia patients and several other diseases, of course, the temperature should be kept as low as possible without having the patient in a draught.

One Good Innovation.

Jud Tunkins says one of the best helps to production is the change in political customs that prevents a man to neglect work in order to go around and get bids for his vote.

Franklin's Court Harmonica.

One of the first musical instruments made by an American was a mouth harmonica, made by Benjamin Franklin at the time when he was minister at the court of Louis in France, where he played it with considerable skill before Marie Antoinette and her court ladies.

The queen was so delighted and interested that Franklin presented the little instrument to her. After Marie Antoinette was beheaded in the great French revolution, this mouth harmonica had many sensational experiences till finally it came into the possession of a wealthy musical amateur and collector in this country, who has it, I believe, to this day.—Musical America.

Troublesome Spiders.

A spider in Buenos Aires spun its web near a telephone cable. The wind caught the web and wrapped it around the wires. The web soon became damp and caused several short circuits. Other spiders in the neighborhood followed the adventurous one's example, and now it has become necessary for the telephone company to send a man out every few days to clear the wires of webs.—Popular Science Monthly.

FELT TIRED AND WORN-OUT ALL OF THE TIME

Was Extremely Nervous. Could Not Sleep at Night. Appetite Had Also Gone.

SHE TOOK HYPO-COD

"I was working so hard with very little rest I became all rundown, and felt tired and worn out all the time. My nerves were simply gone to pieces, and I didn't want to eat and I couldn't sleep at night, so after hearing so much about Earle's Hypo-Cod I decided to try it.

"I only had to take a couple bottles before I was feeling good again. That tired feeling left me and I felt better than I had in years, and it fixed my nerves good too and eat—I couldn't get enough to eat and I rested fine at night, so my husband, being in about the same condition as I was, decided he would try it and now we both think there is nothing like Hypo-Cod for a general tonic and nerve tonic. We can't say enough for it, for we would like everyone needing a genuine tonic and health builder to try Hypo-Cod before anything else, for I know they will save time and money, for it certainly doesn't take this tonic long to do the work," declared Mrs. Minnie Smith, 554 Second Ave., Detroit, Mich.

It only takes a few days for a good tonic to drive out that tired feeling, to steady the nerves and increase the appetite and make one feel like doing a real day's work, as a rule. Thousands of people have taken Hypo-Cod and say that it is just wonderful the way it quickly does the work and puts you back on your feet feeling fine. It is not a secret patent medicine. The formula appears on each bottle and being made by the nationally known reconstructive tonic of its kind made.

Take home a bottle today, you will be delighted with its pleasant taste and how nicely it does the work.

Earle's Hypo-Cod is sold by all good druggists.—Adv.

A Feeling of Security

You naturally feel secure when you know that the medicine you are about to take is absolutely pure and contains no harmful or habit producing drugs.

Such a medicine is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, kidney, liver and bladder remedy. The same standard of purity, strength and excellence is maintained in every bottle of Swamp-Root.

It is scientifically compounded from vegetable herbs.

It is not a stimulant and is taken in teaspoonful doses.

It is not recommended for everything. It is nature's great helper in relieving and overcoming kidney, liver and bladder troubles.

A sworn statement of purity is with every bottle of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root.

If you need a medicine, you should have the best. On sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to try this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

Hall's Catarrh Medicine

Those who are in a "run down" condition will notice that Catarrh bothers them much more than when they are in good health. This fact proves that while Catarrh is a local disease, it is greatly influenced by constitutional conditions. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is a Tonic and Blood Purifier, and acts through the blood upon the mucous surfaces of the body, thus reducing the inflammation and restoring normal conditions. All druggists. WOMAN AVOIDS AN OPERATION

Hope Nearly Gone, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Saved Her

Star, N. C.—"My monthly spells gave me so much trouble, sometimes they would last two weeks. I was treated by two doctors without relief and they both said I would have to have an operation. I had my trouble four years and was unfit to do anything, and had given up all hope of ever getting any better. I read about your medicine in the 'Primitive Baptist' paper and decided to try it. I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills for about seven months and now I am able to do my work. I shall never forget your medicine and you may publish this if you want to as it is true."—Mrs. J. F. HURSEY, Star, N. C.

Here is another woman who adds her testimony to the many whose letters we have already published, proving that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound often restores health to suffering women even after they have gone so far that an operation is deemed advisable. Therefore it will surely pay any woman who suffers from ailments peculiar to her sex to give this good old fashioned remedy a fair trial.

G. O. P. CONVENTION HELD IN DETROIT

FEBRUARY 17 MEETING WILL CHOOSE CANDIDATES FOR STATE OFFICES.

DATE SET FOR COUNTY MEETS

One Delegate Allowed Each County For Every 500 Votes Cast at Last Election.

Lansing—The Republican state convention will be held in Detroit on Feb. 17. Arrangements for the convention were completed at a meeting of the state central committee held here last week. Burt D. Cady, chairman of the state committee, was unable to attend and for the first time since her election as vice-chairman of the state central committee, Miss Bina West of Port Huron, presided.

Two candidates for seats on the state supreme bench, two regents of the University of Michigan, superintendent of public instruction, member of the state board of education, two members of the board of agriculture, state highway commissioner and chairman of the state central committee will be chosen at the Feb. 17 meeting. Detroit gets the convention for the first time in eight years.

The county conventions will be held on Monday Feb. 7, and at that time delegates to the state convention will be named. Because of the heavy vote cast at the last election, the central committee found it necessary to reapportion the county representation and it was decided to allow one delegate for each of the 500 votes cast for secretary of state at the last election. Previously one delegate was allowed for each 200 votes cast.

The number entitled to seats is placed at 1,504, of which Wayne county will furnish 438.

A resolution drawn by Chairman Warren, Detroit, for a position in President-elect Harding's cabinet was adopted by the central committee.

EIGHT FAIR DIRECTORS RESIGN

Secretary Dickinson Denies $10,000 Bonus is Cause of Break.

Detroit—Eight directors of the Michigan State Fair association resigned last week, giving as the reason the granting of a $10,000 bonus to George M. Dickinson, secretary-manager of the association, in addition to his $15,000 yearly salary.

In a statement Mr. Dickinson denies that the bonus is the cause of the resignations, stating that it was granted by unanimous action of the board at its Dec. 15 meeting.

"It will be a pleasure to get my under-the-cover critics in a position where they must either show the facts or keep their silence," says Mr. Dickinson.

A meeting of the board will be held in Detroit on January 17 at which time the matter will be taken up.

CATLIN MARQUETTE WARDEN

Appointments to Prison Board Also Announced Last Week.

Lansing—Theodore B. Catlin, deputy warden of the State House of Correction and Branch Prison at Marquette for 18 years and acting warden since the death of James Russell, was made warden of the prison at a meeting of the prison board with Gov. Groesbeck.

Catlin's selection followed the appointment by Gov. Groesbeck of two members of the board to fill vacancies. John H. Lewis, of Marquette, was appointed to succeed E. C. Anthony, of Negaunee, who retired several months ago, and J. P. Kirkpatrick, of Escanaba, to succeed John P. Petermann, of Marquette, who resigned Jan. 1.

FORD ACQUIRES MINING LANDS

Upper Peninsula Property Valued at $381,000; 65,860 Acres.

Marquette—Two deeds were filed in Marquette county conveying property and mineral rights valued at $381,000 to Henry Ford, of Detroit.

A total of 65,860 acres is involved in the transaction.

The land and mineral rights were previously held by the Michigan Land & Iron Co., of Marquette.

The land transferred is mainly in Crystal Falls and Mastodon townships, on which are big bodies of iron ore.

BEASTS MAKE GOOD ON FILMS

Eastern Journal Makes Unkind Comparison Between Four-Footed and Human Actors.

It was said at a recent meeting of the London Zoological society that the plan of making, and keeping on record, films of rare animals had been entered upon with considerable success, the natural movements of the beasts having been reproduced on the screen in a most interesting and instructive manner. It is indeed reasonable to suppose that the four-legged film actors may even be more successful, from an artistic standpoint, than their human colleagues; first, because their motions are naturally intelligible without the accompaniment of spoken language; and second, because they cannot be trained, as "movie" performers apparently are, to chop up their movements into a limited number of stereotyped gestures, in more or less regular sequence, which audiences presumably know by heart and may anticipate well in advance.—Christian Science Monitor.

ORDERS PACKER DISBANDMENT

Court Gives "Big Five" 30 Days to Complete Plans.

Washington—All proposals thus far advocated by the "big five" meat packers for divesting themselves of their stockyard interests were rejected by Justice Stafford in the district supreme court. The companies were given 30 days in which to submit new plans.

At the same time the court warned that unless the defendants proposed plans that would meet requirements outlined, it would "feel obliged to appoint officers to take title to the stockyards in question and to hold the same subject to the order of the court until suitable agreements can be made to have it disposed of in accordance with the terms and purposes of the decree."

Ottawa—Elimination of strikes and labor disputes in the building industry of Canada is contemplated in a plan to be considered by the Association of Canadian Building and Construction Industries.

The plan will be discussed in the annual session in Winnipeg, beginning Jan. 19.

Under the scheme wages would be standardized by sections throughout the dominion, and a standard contract form used.

Young Author Falls Down.

A young author sends me the manuscript of a story. He claims he has a new idea. His "new idea" is this: A young man and woman are married in the usual way, and, during their honeymoon, love each other with great devotion.

But in a year the young man finds he has tired of his wife, from seeing her so much; from too close association. He supposes, of course, that she has not tired of him; such a possibility does not enter his mind. However, he resolves to be a square man and confess to his wife just how he feels. She also talks frankly, and it develops that the wife is as tired of the husband as the husband is of the wife.

I am compelled to report to the young author that this is no development of a new fact in life.—E. W. Howe's Monthly.

From Flying to Flying.

Aviation is occupying a great deal of attention in Canada these days. It is highly probable that the helium gas rising out of the ground in Alberta and other parts of western Canada and used in parts of the country for family cooking will one day be carrying English lighter-than-air flying machines, says Motor Life. It has been reported that there is enough of this gas to supply the entire British empire for many years. It lacks only 10 per cent of the weight-supporting ability of the highly inflammable hydrogen and is equally satisfactory.

Sweets Losing Popularity In France.

France has lost its sweet tooth. Recent official statistics show that, because sugar was unobtainable during the war, children born between 1914 and 1919 have been educated by their parents not to require sugar in their drinks and food.

As a result the consumption of sugar in France has fallen to one-eighth the pre-war mark.

THURSDAY, FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

W. J. DANCER & CO.

Stockbridge,

Mich.

An Appeal! To the People Of this Vicinity, Men and Women:

When the representative of this paper called on the Teeple Hardware Company to see what they had to say about advertising this week Mr. John J. Teeple said they were too busy to attend to the matter and requested us to write an ad. using our own judgment about what to say

You all know what this firm is up against right now

THEY NEED MONE

Just imagine yourself in their predicament and ask yourself if you too, would not need it. And we are sure, knowing the community as well as we do, that every man or woman who owes this concern—the oldest mercantile firm in this part of the county—will come down this week and pay their accounts in full if possible. If this is not possible, give them what you can on account, and if you are not just at present in a position to do either, you surely can come down and give them a hearty, sympathetic handshake and tell them you will do the best you can as quickly as possible.

The future of this concern is largely in your hands at the present critical time. What are you going to do about it?

They are at home under the opera house with a small stock of hardware. The stock of implements was not destroyed, and they will be glad to see their many friends at all times.
