TWO HEAVY RAINS SCHOOL TO BEGIN SEPT. 6

Vicinity Deluged. Heavy Loss by Lightning

The rain storm that visited Pinckney Saturday night is said by some of our oldest citizens to have been the heaviest rain in their remembrance. In about two and one-half hours 8 1/2 inches of water is reported to have fallen.

Tuesday night's storm was another severe one, although not lasting as long probably fully as much water fell. This storm was accompanied by sharp thunder and lightning. The barn on the John Beasiah farm, 1 1/2 miles west of town was struck by lightning and burned to the ground. The horses were taken out but the hay crop was destroyed. On account of the interrupted telephone service word of the fire did not reach the Pinckney fire department promptly but an appeal for help was responded to as soon as possible, and the fire engine was rushed to the fire. By the time it arrived the barn was beyond saving but an adjoining building was thoroughly soaked by the firemen and was not burned.

Telephone and electric light poles were struck and Pinckney was in darkness until the Edison Company could rush linemen to fix the trouble.

The barn on the George Backus farm, now occupied by Orla Backus, east of Gregory and the barn on the Harvey White farm in Marion township were also burned.

As a result of the two storms the roads have been washed out and gullied so that many are in bad condition.

Mrs. Lulu Darrow Takes Miss Curlett's Place in High School

The Pinckney School opens Tuesday Sept. 6. Several improvements have been made in the school in order to carry out the suggestion of the Supt. of Public Instruction. The school has been placed on the accredited list of the state department and of the University, for a period of three years. This arrangement affects the class of last year as well as the class of 1922 and 1923.

The corps of teachers remains practically the same as last year. Mrs. Doyle becomes Principal of the High School. Mrs. Darrow has been engaged to teach History and Latin. Miss Harris will continue as the instructor in English, while Miss Green and Miss Roche will handle the work in the lower grades.

Mr. Doyle, the Superintendent has already been in Pinckney in that capacity eight years and Mrs. Doyle seven years. As they have signed contracts to remain here two years longer the people of this vicinity are assured that the Pinckney School will be kept up to its present high standard. Pinckney has the only school in a town of its size in the state on the U of M accredited list for three years.

was so much improved that he took second place in the first heat of the race in which he sustained his accident. In the second heat he was going strong but in some way he either struck his leg or stumbled and fell on the first turn throwing his driver, Mr. Roche, violently to the ground. It was deemed advisable to end the horse's suffering so he was shot.

made on a half-mile track. He was a game race horse, and showed great promise for the future. Mr. Roche valued him at $5000 and was offered $4000 for him last spring.

OBITUARY

Eastman Griffith Carpenter was born in Genoa, Livingston County, and died at his home in Hamburg Aug. 28th, 1921, being 81 years, 7 months, and 6 days of age. He was a man of integrity and at the age of 21 enlisted to serve his country under the call of President for three months. At the expiration of that time he enlisted for three years or during the war.

He was in many battles with the 4th Michigan under Grant and at the close of the war was mustered out of service with an honorable discharge.

On Oct. 28, 1874 he was married to Miss Celinda Bennett of Hamburg, who survives him. To this union five children were born, Garner W. of Hamburg, Osta May Rose of Ann Arbor, Edna E. Reason of Pinckney, Dencie P. Eddy of Fowlerville, and Fred E. of Pontiac. He also had sixteen grand-children of whom 14 survive him, and a host of friends who hold him in memory as a loving husband and father and friend to everyone, always aiding those in trouble as far as possible.

The relatives from away to attend the funeral were F. H. Carpenter of Otsego, M. and Mrs. Frank Walker and family of Dansville, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Smith, and Mrs. Bert Robbins of Howell, and Mrs. Wm. Voohees of Lake Odessa.

Friends from away who attended the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Foss of Richmond, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Rose and son Everett of Ann Arbor, Mrs. Elizabeth Clark of Holly and Mrs. Kate Wigard of Detroit.

Nine close companions of the deceased who were with him in the war, who also attended in a body were Edgar Noble, Ira Holt, Asa Parshall, Henry Sweet, Ira Cook, Geo. Barnes, and E. Woodruff of Howell, Willard Hendricks of Hamburg, and Alden Carpen-

BRIGHTON—One of the streets of Brighton is being renovated and renovated properly. The state is busy repairing Grand River street thru the village and for a distance of two miles east of town. Just now the gravel is all torn up making the street pretty rough for use, but it is the storm before the calm, and very soon Brighton will have just as nice a street there as possible without pavement. One of the best items in connection with the improvement is that the little strip just south of the bridge across the mill pond is being widened, (and perhaps a fence will go up on the sides). This strip has been the scene of a great many auto accidents, as both sides were open to the swamps. The village is also at work improving the other streets. Another application of sodium chloride was given Main street last week, and several helpful loads of gravel have been dumped into some of the worst of the holes. After the rains last week all of the principal streets were scraped. The result is that right now the streets are in better condition than they have been all summer.—Argus.

NEIGHBORING NEWS

Friday afternoon while cutting fodder corn M. J. Mantel was bitten on his foot by a rattlesnake. In half an hour he was in Dr. Lamereaux's office in South Lyon and the foot was swollen full. He came home after being treated and suffered untold agony for hours. The foot is packed in ice. He is as well as can be expected with the abscess that is forming in the wound and the effects of the poison through his system.—Washtenaw Post.

SOUTH LYON—On Saturday, while attempting to pass, two trucks—the drivers of which insisted on taking their half of the road out of the middle—ran into the ditch and overturned. A broken windshield and minor damages was the result of what could easily have been a serious affair. Have a heart, boys, have a heart.—South Lyon Herald.

HOWELL—As Allen D. Fishbeck was crossing Grand River Ave. at the intersection of Walnut St., about 8 o'clock Wednesday morning, a ladder which he was carrying on his shoulder was struck by a Ford light truck, driven by Roy R. Smith of Lansing. Mr. Fishbeck was thrown to the pavement and badly bruised, but no bones were broken. He was taken into the drugstore of F. K. Johnson and Sons, and a physician called, and later returned to his home, and it is thought no serious results will follow.

Mr. Smith, however, drove rapidly on eastward and was overtaken by Sheriff Fred J. Teeple near the Ann Arbor railroad crossing just east of town and brought back and arrested for leaving the scene of the accident and also for not having a driver's license. He was taken before R. D. Roche in justice court, who fined him $10 and costs on the above charges.

He claimed he had an operator's license, but had left it at home. The windshield of the Ford car was smashed and the radiator cap broken. It is possible Mr. Fishbeck may take some action pending the result of his injuries.—State Journal.

MERCHANT TELLS OF A REMARKABLE CASE

Writing from Maxey's, Ga., A. J. Gillen, proprietor of a large department store at that place, says:

"I have a customer here who was in bed for three years and did not go to a meal at any time. She had five physicians and they gave her out. One bottle of Tanlac got her up, on the second bottle she commenced keeping house and on the third she did all the cooking and housework for a family of eight."

This sounds really incredible, but it comes unsolicited from a highly creditable source and is copied verbatim from the letter.

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.—Advertisement.

ILLITERACY OF AMERICA WAS REVEALED IN THE WORK OF MAKING OUR BIG ARMY.

CONDITION WAS A SURPRISE

Utterances of General Pershing and Commissioner Tigert Arouse Answ Efforts to Have Federal Department of Education Created.

By EDWARD B. CLARK, Washington.—Recent words uttered by Gen. John J. Pershing and by Dr. I. Tigert, United States commissioner of education, have roused interest again in the proposal to create a department of education with a cabinet officer at its head to be added to the other departments of government.

President Harding is committed to a department of welfare. One of the stumbling blocks in the way of securing the legislation to create such a department was the efforts of some of the educators to prevent the inclusion of education in the field of the department of welfare activities. Many of the educators wanted and still want a separate department of education.

Gen. Leonard Wood, for several years made a campaign for better teachers, better pay for teachers, and better teaching facilities a general companion piece to his campaign for proper military preparedness. Hardly a speech that he delivered for two years but contained some reference to this matter. General Wood trained two divisions of American soldiers for service in France, and he had learned at first hand some of the startling conditions of illiteracy which existed in the ranks of young America.

Now General Pershing has said that one man in every four who entered the American army was unable to read or write. He added that the officers of the service had their hard work much increased by the fact that many of their men could not read and that, lacking the development of even a primary education, they were not quickly susceptible to instruction.

like a preliminary conference. If there had been substance on a preliminary conference the United States would not have been that no conference at all would be held.

There are constant streams of communications between the foreign offices of the various governments and the State department of this country. These streams will continue to flow until a short time before the gatherings of the chiefs of the clans which now definitely has been fixed for November 11, Armistice day.

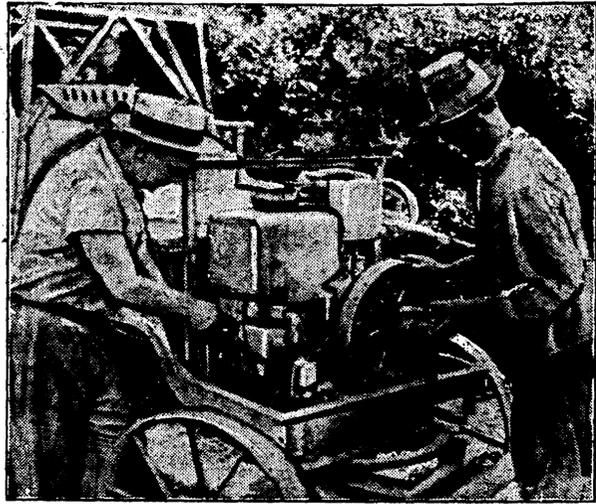

It is pretty generally believed now that a fair understanding of just what subjects will be discussed will be reached before the conference begins. There also is a belief that in a general way the State department will know in advance what the results of the conference are to be. The words which have come from Japan show pretty clearly what the attitude of the Japanese is, and in a fairly specific way one can judge of the attitude of Great Britain and France by what already has been made public concerning their "needs and desires in the case."

Word has come from Great Britain that it has no intention further to urge a preliminary conference on matters pertaining to the Far East. It was known that the various premiers of the British dominions desired particularly to have some definite understanding in advance concerning the Pacific questions which are to be brought before the conference, but apparently the premiers have yielded.

Objections to Preliminary Meet. It would have been impossible for all of the nations to have sent representatives to the preliminary conference. The United States government was wise enough to know that the unrepresented nations would object strongly to having the other countries arrange a program in advance to which the unrepresented ones might not agree. Furthermore, if representatives of some of the nations were given an opportunity to pass on certain questions in advance, a country like Japan or Italy, not being represented at the preliminary conference, would have some reason to say that the other countries which were represented at it had stacked the cards against it.

The State department now is calling together a large body of experts on foreign affairs. Some of them are coming from the Far East, some of them from Europe, and some of them

GAS ENGINES REQUIRE PROPER MANAGEMENT TO BE EFFICIENT

A Knowledge of Gasoline Engines Saves Time on Repairs.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Thousands of farmers in all parts of the country use gasoline engines as a source of at least part of their power. The number in every branch of farming is increasing rapidly. From the production of crops to their harvest and preparation for sale, and even their transportation to market, the gasoline engine facilitates the business of farming. Tractors, gas engines to run belt machinery and motor trucks are enabling farmers to increase their operations. It is, therefore, good business on the part of the farmer to use them whenever time, labor and costs can be reduced.

Though the gas engine, whether the stationary type, tractor, truck or automobile, is a great labor saver when operated efficiently, it is also at times the cause of a great labor waste. Often large crews hired to help with threshing, hay baling, cutting ensilage, etc., draw full wages for hours spent in idleness owing to inefficient handling of the engine. A man will sometimes spend much more time and energy in starting a gas engine to pump water for stock, run a milking machine or for some other similar purpose, than gasoline line—the pipe connection from the gasoline tank—should be drained to remove not only any water which may be present but particles of dirt. It sometimes happens that the needle valve in the carburetor is closed or stopped with dirt and the gasoline cannot pass. If the engine has a petcock leading into the combustion chamber, by opening this and cranking the engine a few times one can tell by smelling the escaping air whether gasoline is entering the chamber. If it is not, open the needle valve, first being careful to note the original position so that it will be possible to adjust it. It is sometimes necessary to remove this valve in order to clean it properly. When the engine is running the valve may be opened or closed slightly in order to get the proper mixture of fuel and air with which the engine runs best.

SPINACH FURNISHES DELECTABLE GREENS

Crop May Be Planted in Fall as

Sowing Dates Vary From August 1 in Northern New England States to September 10 or 15 in Vicinity of Washington.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Spinach is one of the most important crops for a home garden and in many sections will furnish delectable greens a good part of the year. In addition to the spring crop sown from the middle of February to the first of May, according to locality, it permits fall sowing at dates varying from August 1 in northern New England states to September 10 or 15 in the vicinity of Washington.

Three or four ounces of seed planted in the autumn, after a summer crop has been harvested from the land, will produce an abundance of greens for the average family during the late autumn and early spring. Sow the seeds of spinach in drills 1 foot apart at the rate of one ounce to 100 feet of row. To produce good spinach, a rich loam, which will give the plants a quick growth, is required. As ordinarily grown, spinach occupies the land during the autumn and winter only and does not interfere with summer cultivation.

To carry the plants over winter it is advisable to cover the bed with a thin mulch of straw or leaves. In gathering spinach the entire plant is usually removed and not the leaves. The larger plants are selected first, and the smaller or later ones are thus given room to develop. No thinning is required if this plan of harvesting is practiced. The Bloomsdale Savoy is the variety most commonly grown.

CLEAN POTATO STORAGE BINS

Farmer Who Has Been Troubled With Dry Rot is Warned to Disinfect Thoroughly.

Every grower who experienced trouble with dry rot in his potato storage house or cellar the past season—and there was trouble of this kind because of the comparatively warm winter—is warned by A. G. Tolosa of University Farm, St. Paul, chief inspector of the potato seed certification department, to disinfect thoroughly all bins before using them again. Either a solution of formaldehyde, consisting of one pint of commercial formaldehyde in ten gallons of water, or a solution of bleustone (copper sulphate) consisting of one pound of the bleustone dissolved in ten gallons of water, should be used for this purpose.

WOMAN AVOIDS AN OPERATION

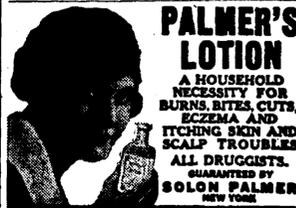

Hope Nearly Gone, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Saved Her

Star, N. C.—"My monthly spells gave me so much trouble, sometimes they would last two weeks. I was treated by two doctors without relief and they both said I would have to have an operation. I had my trouble four years and was unfit to do anything, and had given up all hope of ever getting any better. I read about your medicine in the 'Primitive Baptist' paper and decided to try it. I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills for about seven months and now I am able to do my work. I shall never forget your medicine and you may publish this if you want to as it is true."—Mrs. J. F. HUNTER, Star, N. C.

Here is another woman who adds her testimony to the many whose letters we have already published, proving that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound often restores health to suffering women after they have gone so far that an operation is deemed advisable. Therefore it will surely pay any woman who suffers from ailments peculiar to her sex to give this good old fashioned remedy a fair trial.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It

Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected.

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview on the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected, is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper. Advertisement.

been buttressed by the words of Doctor Tigert, who, among other things, has said this:

"It has been declared that America, like Rome, will be destroyed by vandals from within, and not from without, through the forces of illiteracy. "One man out of every four in the American army could neither read nor write, but there was only one illiterate in 5,000 in the German army. No one can realize without seeing the seemingly impenetrable terrain of the Argonne forest what we owe to our soldiers, but it was a crime to send them in as they were against men of such literacy. I hope that there will never be another war, but if there is it will be a disgrace to the nation if our men are not better prepared, and it is the task of the schools to prepare them."

Today Washington is told that before the war the United States spent more than any other nation on education, and that every state in the Union had laws requiring at least an education of an elementary kind, but it is said that the laws are not enforced and that only half of the children which the statutes require shall attend school actually are there.

It is said now that during the war 16,000 teachers gave up teaching because the American people were unwilling to pay them enough to live on the average salary being $500 a year, while in one state it was only $234. It is said to be increasingly difficult to get young women to enter the teaching profession. The other day it was said that the churches were having hard work to get young men to enter the ministry.

Poor Chance for Department. From the present outlook it seems probable that no department of education will be established by act of congress, and that the bureau of education will be included in the department of welfare, if it shall be created. Of course there is today a bureau of education, and it is doing its work with limited appropriations in the best way it can. There is no lack of heart effort, nor of physical hard work.

It can be said that the disclosures made by the war that such a high percentage of illiteracy exists in the United States came as a shock to the law makers. The thing was impossible to believe, and yet the records proved the point. Prior to the war there was a general belief that the United States had a lower rate of illiteracy than any other great nation in the world. This was due, it was said, to misleading reports from the states in the Union, reports which were made on inadequate information.

The 4,000,000 men who went into the service are called the flower of our youth, and yet it is a flower without education as one of its crowning beauties. It is held in Washington that if the war has done no other good, it probably accomplished something worth while because it forced Americans to know the true condition concerning the rate of illiteracy among the young men of the land.

and some of the economic problems of the countries in which they have been residing, and where in many cases they have been representing Uncle Sam's interests.

Herrick Can't Find a Residence. The ambassador of the United States to France, Myron T. Herrick, is having a time of it trying to find a place in the French capital to lay his head. There are no residences to let. If the United States had a residence for its ambassador or its minister in each capital of the world, the appointee could go directly to it knowing that at least he would have a place to live. The United States government does not do things this way.

Mr. Herrick, generally is accounted a rich man, but the riches of men frequently are exaggerated. Mr. Herrick unquestionably is well to do. If he were not, the United States government might have wanted to send him to France as its ambassador, but he could not have taken the job although qualified for it, and beloved of the French people as unquestionably he is.

Paris is overcrowded today because there were no building operations during the war. There is not a vacant place at this writing which Mr. Herrick can find to turn into his abode. The ambassador has to live, and moreover he is absolutely compelled to entertain. If today he wishes to give a reception he will have to hire a salon in a hotel, or else ask the municipal authorities' permission to hold an outdoor hand-shaking party in the Place de la Concorde.

Congress Will Not Remedy It. No session of congress has been held in many years at which there was not some senator or member to propose in bill form that the United States provide at least lodging houses for its ministers and ambassadors to foreign countries. Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, one-time member of the house of representatives and recently governor of his home state, tried during the entire time that he was in congress to get action upon this matter. He failed where others failed before his time, and where several have failed since his time.

It is perhaps happy for Myron T. Herrick that he is an optimist. Mr. Herrick probably would be cheerful if he were compelled to seek lodging in the morgue on the Seine bank of the Cathedral of Notre Dame. He unquestionably is taking the situation philosophically, and when he finds a place that he can hire to live in, he probably will pay the big sum necessary out of his own pocket without so much as a grimace.

Every other minister and ambassador of the United States is in the same fix that Mr. Herrick is in, so far as paying for his own roof tree is concerned, and some of them probably do not take the self-compelled payment thereof with as good grace as does this philosopher of Cleveland.

Would Appeal to Youngsters. Jud Tunkins says every boy would be keen for the classics if Hector and Achilles had put on the gloves and had the kind of a mixup that could be described on the sport page.

tent preventable. Gas engines are not difficult to operate, and delays from engine trouble are usually due to the operator's lack of knowledge of some of the details essential to proficient operation, say specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Keep Engines in Repair. The first essential in gasoline engine operation is to keep it in good repair, say the specialists. All catalogues and directions furnished by the manufacturer should be studied carefully. Most manufacturers publish instructions on the care and operation of the engines they manufacture, and in order to get the most satisfactory results from an engine the owner should study and put into practice these instructions.

Every one who operates a gas engine should learn first to stop and reason as to the probable cause of any trouble which develops. In tracing trouble a definite system should be followed. When an engine refuses to start the trouble will, with a very few exceptions, be due to some interruption of the supply or the proper mixture of gas and air, or to the failure of the electrical system which furnishes the spark to fire the compressed mixture. Every system to locate trouble should take these two points into consideration.

Testing the Ignition System. With all engines using spark plugs it is comparatively easy to ascertain whether electrical or ignition system is working properly. Remove the plug and by taking it apart see if the porcelain is not broken. See that the points are properly spaced and remove the deposit of carbon. A space of about one thirty-second of an inch—the thickness of a worn dime—is the proper distance between the points.

To test the spark connect the wire with the plug and place the latter so that the metal base touches the engine casting, then crank the engine and note whether a spark jumps the space between the points. This spark should be a heavy blue, a bluish-white, or a "fat" yellow one looking like a small flame. But if it is thin and greenish, or showing red, the chances are it is too weak to fire the charge of gasoline. In such case, or if there is no spark, trouble may be in the wire connections, or the magnet, or if dry cells are used, they may be too weak. See that all the wire is properly insulated and not soaked with oil, and that all connections are tight and clean. If there is no trouble in the wiring and dry cells are used, the latter may be tested by attaching the wires direct to the points of the cells. Though magnetos seldom give trouble, if there is every reason to believe that it is not functioning properly, it should be taken to an expert for repairs.

See That Fuel is Supplied. When an examination shows that a good spark is being obtained at the right time, the next step is to see whether the engine is receiving the proper mixture of fuel and air. Examine the carburetor and make sure that the gasoline reaches it properly. Sometimes water gets into the carburetor and gives considerable trouble. For this reason the carburetor and London, Aug. 26.—The great dirigible ZR-2, which began a trial flight on Tuesday morning, was wrecked by an explosion and fell into the Humber river on Wednesday evening. The airship was valued at $2,000,000. Eighteen of the twenty-one Americans who were to pilot her across the Atlantic to the United States, are believed to have perished.

Of the 39 officers and enlisted men in the dirigible's crew, 23 of whom were British, all but six lost their lives when the ship exploded over the city of Hull at six o'clock in the evening.

Twelve bodies have been recovered, among them that of Commander Louis H. Maxfield of Washington, D. C., who was in command of the ZR-2.

Cause of Blast Unknown. Air Commodore Maitland of the British air forces, who piloted the dirigible and was Britain's foremost pilot, also was killed.

None of the six survivors has been able to advance a theory of the cause of the disaster. The ZR-2 had been in the air 35 hours on her trial flight. The dirigible was floating easily over Hull in plain sight of thousands of people on the streets, when suddenly the crowds saw a flash and heard a tremendous explosion.

Ship Plunges into River. The concussion shook buildings and broke windows in Hull. The airship burst into flames and appeared to break in two. While the panic-stricken populace rushed to and fro to escape the debris, the 700-foot bag, laden with heavy engines, great gasoline tanks and cabin equipment, plunged, burning, into the river.

As it touched the water, another explosion occurred. Many of the vic-least four men leap in paratroopers. The six rescued were all delirious.

Describes Disaster. A description of the ZR-2 disaster was given by James Phipson of Birmingham, an eyewitness.

"I was just opposite Victoria pier when it happened," said Phipson. "I could see the propellers turning slowly as the ship disappeared into a cloud bank. After two or three moments she emerged again and I was almost struck dumb to see the airship break in two places.

Airship Breaks in Two. "The airship seemed to stand still for a second or two as the two pieces gradually broke apart, descending slowly, the nose portion at first seemingly under control.

"Then I saw portions of the gondolas falling away. The nose portion fell on a mud bank in the Humber, which was at low tide. After burying its nose in the sand that portion of the ship continued to burn fiercely.

"There was no sign of any one on that part of the ship.

"The tail end fell in the middle of the river half a mile away and was also blazing.

Three Drop in Parachute. "When the nose landed there were two further explosions. The gasoline tanks burst with the impact.

"I saw three parachutes leave the front part of the ship as it broke. It looked to me as if three men were hanging to one of the parachutes, but I could not see where they landed.

"As far as I know only two men survived. They were Mechanic Bateman and Lieut. A. H. Wann, who commanded the ship. I saw Lieutenant Esterly's body taken away. It was all burned and charred. Wann was terribly injured, but Bateman was able to walk. Both Wann and Bateman were rescued from the wreckage in the Humber."

Planned Flight to U. S. The ZR-2 was to have left Pulham for the United States within ten or twelve days.

The dirigible cost $2,000,000. In addition the United States government expended $4,000,000 in the construction of a huge hangar near Lakehurst, N. J., and in sending a crew to England to bring the dirigible home.

More than a month ago a girder of the ZR-2 buckled on a trial trip, and the ship was laid up for repairs.

Frequent delays since then have interfered with intended flights.

A New Romance of the Storm Country

"YOU, YOU HUZZY!"
Synopsis.—Lonely and friendless, Tonnibel Devon, living on a canal boat with a brutal father and a worn-out, discouraged mother, wanders into a Salvation army hall at Ithaca, N. Y. There she meets a young Salvation army captain, Philip MacCauley. Uriah Devon, Tony's father, announces he has arranged for Tony to marry Reginald Brown, a worthless companion. Mrs. Devon objects, and Uriah beats her. Their quarrel reveals that there is a secret between them in which Tony is the central figure. Tony refuses to marry Reginald and escapes a beating by jumping into the lake. She finds a baby's picture with offer of reward for its delivery to a Doctor Pendlehaven. With the Pendlehavens, a family of wealth, live Mrs. Curtis, a cousin, her daughter and son, Katherine Curtis and Reginald Brown. Katherine is in love with Philip MacCauley. Tonnibel returns the picture to Doctor John, and learns it belongs to his brother, Dr. Paul Pendlehaven. It is a portrait of Doctor Paul's daughter, stolen in infancy. Doctor John goes with Tony to the canal boat. Mrs. Devon is deeply agitated and makes Tony swear she will never tell of Devon's brutality. The older Devons disappear and Tony is taken into the Pendlehaven home as a companion to Doctor Paul. Philip fights with Reginald on the boat and saves Tony. Uriah appears, orders Philip off and locks up Tony. Philip again rescues her. They exchange love vows. Doctor Paul proves and the Curtises are furious over her presence. Philip and Tony unexpectedly meet in the Pendlehaven home.

She went extremely pale and put out her hand to grasp something for support as if she were going to fall. She also saw a slow expression little smile it was and how full of pleading, as if she were silently begging him to forgive her for some deed she'd done.

John Pendlehaven gazed at the two young people, and then he too got to his feet.

"Philip," he said abruptly, "this is Tonnibel Devon. She's Paul's companion. We have—"

Philip interrupted the speaker by his sudden bound around the table. "Tony Devon, little Tony," he cried.

"I thought, oh, I thought you were dead. I thought I'd lost you forever."

A noise fell from Katherine's lips, and Mrs. Curtis stumbled to her feet.

"So you know her too, Philip," she snarled with a hasty glance at her pallid daughter. "I thought we'd kept her well out of your way. So you've played the sneak while eating bread and butter in my house, miss," she blurted at Tony. "Well, it's what one might have expected of you—you huzzy."

"Mother!" gasped Katherine, as Tonnibel snatched her hands from Philip.

"Kathie, you needn't 'mother' me," cried Mrs. Curtis, blind with rage. "Either she goes away or I do. I won't stay in the house with a common sneak—a common—"

"Sarah, sit down," thundered John Pendlehaven. "Don't speak another such word or—"

Tony was at the doctor's side before he could finish his threat.

"I didn't sneak," she said, looking up at him. "Oh, please—please believe me."

"That she didn't," cried Philip, coming to her side. "Cousin John, I've known Tony Devon ages, and I didn't even know she was in this house." He turned his flashing eyes upon Mrs. Curtis, who was weeping hysterically.

"You ought to be ashamed of yourself, Cousin Sarah," he went on, "to use such language to a perfectly nice little girl. Why, you've just about broken her heart."

His voice had sunk to a passionate whisper. His eyes misted in a youthful struggle to control his joy, and—at the sight of him, Katherine lost her wits entirely.

"Who and what have we been harboring in this house, Cousin John?" she shrieked in a high thin voice, struggling to her feet. "A gutter rat, a little snake, a toose girl—"

Each word, brought out with greater vehemence and passion than the one before, struck the listeners dumb. In shame-faced misery, Tonnibel sank to the floor, dropping her head into her hands.

"Oh, no, I'm not that," she wailed. "My mummy never lived in the gutter; she never did. I was poor, awful poor—"

"Poor!" exclaimed Katherine. "You're worse than poor. I suppose you've whored Philip the same way you have Cousin Paul."

"Katherine, I command you to be silent," shouted Pendlehaven. "If you say another word, I shall ask you to leave my house."

"Well, I never!" screamed Mrs. Curtis. "And you too, Sarah," thrust in the difference to me. But it's true, just the same.

"Wait here for me, Philip," said the doctor, in a low tone. "I'll be back in a moment."

Then he took Tony by the hand and they went out together.

For several tense moments a silence too dreadful to describe settled down upon the dining room. Katherine twisted her fork sulkily and Mrs. Curtis still sniffed in her handkerchief.

Philip looked from one to the other, wishing with all his heart he could say something that would clear the atmosphere.

In Shame-Faced Misery Tonnibel Sank to the Floor.

"Cousin John," he murmured. "You won't let any one—"

"Indeed not," interrupted the doctor, anticipating the lad's plea. "Tony Devon is here to stay, Phil."

"Could I—could I see her, Cousin John, just a minute?" the boy faltered.

"Not tonight, old fellow," replied the doctor, kindly. "Tomorrow, perhaps."

And Philip had to be content. That evening Katherine spent with her mother in hopeless misery.

"He acted just as if he loved her," she wailed at one time in their conversation. "I'd give anything to find out how long he's known her."

"So would I," said Mrs. Curtis. "Katherine, we've got to get her away by some means. She's bewitched John—she's brought Paul up from his grave—and there's no telling, she may usurp your place in their wills."

"And now she's hoodwinked Philip," gulped Katherine. "Can't you think of some plan? Can't we claim she steals or something like that?"

"John wouldn't believe it, especially now that Reggie is coming home," was the answer. "His letter today said he'd be here very soon. Everything that happens in this house out of the ordinary is blamed on my poor boy."

And she began again to cry.

"Great Heavens, mother, don't do that," screamed Katherine. "Can't you see weeping doesn't do any good? You make me so nervous I could fly. We've got to make some plan to get her out of here. While you're sniveling all the time, you can't think."

Mrs. Curtis rose and walked to her bedroom door.

"My children have no sympathy for me at all," she shot back. "But you say I can't think while I cry? Well, watch me! I'll bet you five dollars Tony Devon is out of this house before another week is over."

The next morning when Reggie Brown came home, he went directly to his mother. Of course, as usual, she wept at the sight of him and began to upbraid him for his thoughtlessness. Why hadn't he let her know where he was? Why had he been gone so long?

Reggie laughed insolently.

"Do I ever let you know where I go, mater?" he demanded, dropping into an easy chair. "No, I don't, and I won't! I've come for five hundred dollars I have to have. Now cough it up."

"I haven't that much money in the world," sobbed Mrs. Curtis.

"Then wheedle it out of Cousin John," he commanded. "I've simply got to have it!"

Paying no heed to his gruff command, Mrs. Curtis rocked to and fro in excess of agony.

"How do you know?" was Reggie's quick query.

"Because I know how his will's made," explained his mother, "and unless his Caroline is found, your Cousin John and I get all his money."

Reginald's eyes blazed into a flame of interest. Money was the only thing that attracted him.

"Why doesn't he die, then?" he asked, dropping back sullenly. "He's old enough and sick enough, isn't he?"

"Because he's getting well," replied his mother. "That girl—"

"What girl?" Reggie's voice asked the question in monotone.

"Some huzzy John picked up not long ago," was the reply. "She's brought Paul to life, and John is wild about her, and now—"

"Where is she?" interjected Reginald.

"With your Cousin Paul. And, Reggie, I'd give five hundred to get her out of the house."

The boy rose and stood gazing down at the tips of his highly polished boots.

"I'd give more than that," he replied solemnly, "to know Cousin Paul was in his grave."

"Then rid us of the girl, and he'll soon keel over," said the mother.

But Reginald wasn't interested in Cousin Paul's new companion. He wanted money and that was all, now that Tony Devon was dead.

"How about the five hundred for me?" he questioned, looking at her keenly.

"I've said I hadn't it, my son," said she. "Now run away and don't bother me any more."

Reggie did leave the room, but not the house. His mind was filled with many plans to get hold of the cash he needed. There were two things had to be done. Whoever the girl with Cousin Paul was, she had to go. It was enough that his mother didn't want her in the house. Reggie could abuse his own women folks; he could make them cry all he wanted to, but that any one, and a stranger too, could force his mother into a spell of hysterics, he wouldn't tolerate.

Then the other thing to which he had made up his mind almost brought his hair on end when he contemplated it. The world had to be relieved of Cousin Paul.

A little drop of something—Reggie rose to his feet and walked nervously up and down the room. 'Twould be easy enough to get hold of, for Dr. John always had plenty of drugs on hand.

"I'd like to kill her."

TEACHERS TRAINING CLASS FOR LIVINGSTON COUNTY

Announcement was made in the Howell papers a few weeks ago that a County Normal training class would be started in the Howell school this next year for the purpose of training teachers for the rural schools of the county. The expenses of this class was borne jointly by the state, the County at large and the City of Howell. The following letter was sent to prospective teachers in the county last week:

Dear Miss: It is our desire to call the attention of everyone in the county who may be interested, to the County Normal Training Class that is being started in Livingston County for those who are desirous of securing training for teaching.

It is the purpose of the County Normal Training Class to train teachers for the rural schools. The class is handled by two well trained and skilled teachers. One teacher who is the principal of the Training class gives instructions in teachers' courses in the county branches, in the methods of teaching and pedagogy. The other teacher who is called the critic teacher, directs the observation of its class of actual teaching and supervises practice teaching by the members of the class. The work of the class is completed in one school year of 38 weeks. Upon graduation the members of the class receive a County Normal certificate which entitles them to teach in any of the rural schools of the state for a period of three years. This certificate may be renewed at the end of that time.

Work done in the County Normal classes is credited at State Normal schools on the life certificate course. Anyone may thus do in this class about two thirds of the first year's work at a fraction of the expense. There is no tuition charge to this class and no fees. The only expense is the expense of the texts used by the class, and the cost of room and board to those who live too far away in the county to go home each day.

In view of the fact that teacher's salaries must be based upon experience and training, teachers who graduate from this class will be in demand by the districts that are paying good salaries for competent teachers. Also in view of the action by the last legislature that by 1925 every teacher in the state must have a minimum of one year's training for teaching, it behooves everyone who contemplates teaching as a profession to consider seriously the matter of securing training.

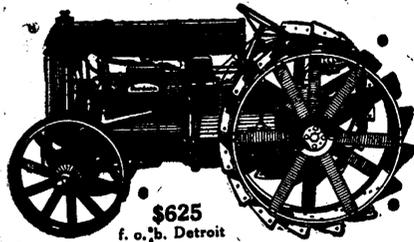

The class will be housed in the new school at Howell. The work of the class will begin Monday Sept. 12. Registration may be made any time up to and including Sept. 12 at either County Commissioner Sharp's office in the Court House or at Supt. Courter's office in the new school. Very truly yours,
The County Normal Board

Fordson

"Yes, I've more time for myself since I got a FORDSON"

The Fordson Tractor is taking much of the drudgery out of farm life; it is reducing the cost of preparing land by almost one half of what it was with horses; and it is saving one third to one half of the farmer's time; and making farm life more attractive.

The Fordson will run your threshing machine—and at the most opportune time for you. It will operate the milking machines, saw your wood, fill your silo, pump the water, and take care of every kind of belt work—

And don't get—it will plow six to eight acres in a ten hour day, handling two plows with ease.

Thus the Fordson is the ideal year-round tractor. It will pay for its fall and winter keep in many ways.

There's a big story to tell you about the Fordson—and a true one—come in and get the facts. Or if you prefer, telephone or drop us a card and we will bring them to you.

There will be no Washtenaw county fair this year. This is the decision of Washtenaw County Fair Association, as it is impossible to hold a fair on the new fair grounds because of the condition they are in and it would make too great expense to equip the grounds at Burns Park. But work will soon be started on the new fair grounds which will include all modern features of spacious picnic grounds, baseball diamond, gridiron and other playground equipment. Washtenaw county will be one of the two counties in the state in which no fair will be held this year.—Washtenaw Post.

PROBES CAUSE OF ADRIAN ESCAPES

GOVERNOR TOLD GIRLS HEARD RUMOR THAT HAIR CUTTING WOULD BE RESTORED.

26 RUNAWAYS IN SIXTY DAYS

Average Before Abolition of Severe Punishment Said to Have Been Two Each Month.

Lansing.—Governor Alex J. Groesbeck has begun a thorough investigation of the reported collapse of discipline at the Adrian School for Girls, 26 escaping within 60 days.

The reason assigned for the inmates leaving the home was that the board had forbidden hair-clipping as one form of punishment for infractions of the rules.

The governor will confer with Marl T. Murray, secretary of the board of corrections and charities, and, if necessary, with the board of control.

It was said that the school authorities had uncovered a plot whereby 25 girls had planned to leave the school.

Many of those who escaped during the last month were apprehended.

"The acting superintendent of the school denies that the abolition of hair-clipping as a means of punishment was the reason for the wholesale escapes," said the governor.

"I have been told that the superintendent has the situation well in hand. This does not mean there will be no investigation. I shall confer with Mr. Murray as to conditions at the school and will also take the matter up with the board."

The governor said he had been informed that the girls escaped because they feared that with the leaving of Miss Hazel Bailey this month, as superintendent, the old forms of punishment would be restored.

The order forbidding the superintendent to clip the hair of returned runaways was made July 24. Before the time the regulation was abandoned, the average number of escapes from the institution was two per month. This week's runaways brought the average for the last two months to 13 a month.

Under the present ruling, which was taken on May 15, the

HOMAGE PAID TO RED ARROW DEAD

TRAFFIC ON DETROIT STREETS HALTED IN MEMORY OF DEEDS OF 32ND.

BLAINE ADDRESSES REUNION

Wisconsin Governor Recalls Opening of First Offensive Move By "Les Terribles."

Detroit—To their sleeping friends in France, the men who they marched beside and called buddies, veterans of the Thirty-second division, paid the homage of a three-minute silence here last Sunday.

It was a voluble silence, though that may be a paradox. Men stared into vacancy as memories retraced the months; there was the slow tolling of bells; a woman here and there dabbed at her eyes with handkerchief. A new atmosphere seemed to fall upon Washington boulevard as the division offered its tribute to those of its number who gave for freedom the youth in their hearts.

At the first bomb announcing that the Red Arrows had begun their service, traffic in the downtown district came to a standstill, and the scene was like a Christmas show-window of immovable toy people. The heavy motor throng halted in Grand boulevard, as if the echoing bomb had been a signal from the crow's nest.

Exactly three years ago Sunday, Governor John J. Blaine, of Wisconsin, recalled in the principal address of the memorial services, General Haan took command of the sector at Vimy and began five days of hell for the Thirty-second. Exactly three years ago the sixty-third brigade, composed of Michigan men, was placed in the line and went over the top, with the sixty-fourth brigade, composed of Wisconsin men, in support.

"This morning and the night previous," said Governor Blaine; "under cover of darkness the Wisconsin men of the thirty-second have moved up to Detroit to support the Michigan men in this national peace reunion and jubilee of the thirty-second."

Anent the fact that the division was largely a formation of Michigan and Wisconsin national guardsmen, Governor Blaine said he considdivisions were not organized along the same lines and permitted to do battle together.

Lansing—At a conference between city officials and representatives of the Michigan United Traction here John F. Collins, vice-president and manager of the Lansing division, declared that unless fare increases are granted street car service in Lansing will be suspended. He delivered an ultimatum to the city officials providing that the cash fare be fixed at 10 cents or four tickets for 25 cents. The rates at present are 6 cents cash or same tickets for 50 cents. The city council will answer the ultimatum in a few days, officials said.

country this summer to wed his sweet heart. He was forced into the army, word says, as he and his bride were at the railroad station to return to America.

Saginaw—Indemnity bonds of jitney bus operators were fixed at $5,000 per passenger with a maximum of $25,000 of liability for one accident by the city council. This decision was reached over the opposition of Mayor B. N. Mercer, who held out for $10,000 for each passenger with a maximum of $50,000.

Clawson—Because its treasury is low, the village of Clawson has been obliged to do without fire protection, at least for the present. A campaign to bring about purchase of adequate equipment was launched some time ago, but the village council decided against the expenditure on the ground it hasn't enough money.

Paw Paw—A wave of crime has suddenly broken out in Van Buren county. Among the places entered have been the homes of Fred Smith and Mrs. William Jacobs, of Arlington township. There were taken from the former a suit of clothes, a watch, and pocketbook. At the Jacobs home the thieves stole a gold watch and chain.

Flint—J. C. Harvey, a farmer near Crago Crossing, claims to have the most patriotic hog in the United States. The animal is a two-year-old freak. It is red, white and blue and has no ears. The hog now weighs 383 pounds and through its national emblematic colors and earless head has attracted much attention throughout the country.

Cheboygan—J. G. Richards, justice of the peace and county auditor, residing alone in Mackinaw City, was stricken with apoplexy on his return from a chautauqua entertainment. His body was found by Representative Samuel J. Smith, a close friend, who forced a rear door and discovered Richards' body on the floor of his bedroom where it had laid at least 15 hours.

Owosso—Five thousand dollars in Liberty bonds and certificates of deposit, which disappeared mysteriously from the home of E. E. Bunting, retired farmer of Hedderson, three months ago, re-appeared just as mysteriously. Bunting found them lying on a bag of grain in his granary when he went to feed his chickens. He at first paid no attention to the package but later the corner of a yellow bond caught his eye and he investigated.

Charlotte—Sheriff Glenn Dilley, of Eaton County, is beyond the law unless a circuit judge appoints someone to arrest him, it has been discovered following an effort to serve summons on him in a civil suit growing out of the sale of a threshing machine. Sheriff Dilley waived his right to refuse to appear as a witness because no summons had been served on him. He declared that under the law the only officer authorized to serve summons on a sheriff or to arrest him are coroners and Eaton County has no coroners.

of escaped inmates. The girls, after their return, are placed in what is known as the "demoted cottage" but this carries no especial terrors as the girls there are not deprived of regular recreation and they get the same food as is served at other cottages.

Officers say the girls know no punishment is in store for them in the event of their capture and three returned runaways, who were gone from the institution two days before their capture, brazenly defied the officers, upon their return to "do anything." Since the order became effective the "demoted cottage" has been filled to capacity.

ERIN PROPOSES SECOND PARLEY

Rejects Britain's Proposal But Would Negotiate Principle.

London.—The British government's peace proposals were laid before the Dail Eireann, which rejected them unanimously, but it is willing to negotiate on the principle of government by consent of the governed, Eamonn De Valera says in his reply to Mr. Lloyd George, the British prime minister.

The letter proposes that Great Britain and Ireland appoint representatives with plenary powers to negotiate details on this principle. "We have not sought war, nor do we seek war, but if war be made upon us we must defend ourselves, and we shall do so," said Mr. De Valera's letter. "We long to end the conflict between Great Britain and Ireland," he adds.

DAWES TELLS OF BUDGET PLANS

Announces New System to Coordinate Executive Control.

Washington.—Virtual completion of the co-ordinating machinery under which executive control will be exercised over the ordinary business transactions of the Government in the interest of economy has been announced by Director of the Budget Dawes.

Executive orders were issued by President Harding, Gen. Dawes said, creating a Federal purchasing board and a Federal liquidation board which, with the system of corps area co-ordinators of purchase and supply and a surveyor general of real estate already created, would constitute the new machinery.

K. of C. to Reward Patriotism.

New York.—The Knights of Columbus announced that the organization would make an annual award for patriotism, similar to the Nobel prizes in science and humanities. It will be bestowed upon a person in the United States, not necessarily a citizen, who in the judgment of a committee "shall have done the deed or spoken or written the word that will stand out as the greatest contribution of the year to the promotion of the American spirit of patriotism."

Would Extend Coolidge's Duties. Washington.—The Vice-President would take over all duties of the President when the latter is away from Washington for more than 14 hours under a bill introduced by Rep. Kissel (Rep.), New York. In event both the President and Vice-President were out of town the Speaker of the House would assume powers of the President. The bill would make it unlawful for the President at any time to absent himself from the territorial jurisdiction of the United States.

economic clauses, the disarmament provisions and other essential obligations insofar as they affect the United States, which were specified in the Versailles treaty as approved by the Allied and associated powers other than the United States.

The treaty must be ratified by the senate before diplomatic relations are resumed.

Washington.—Beer, as a medicine, was doomed by the treasury unless congress after recess should fail to enact the Willis-Campbell anti-beer bill.

In conference with internal Revenue Commissioner Blair, Secretary Mellon decided that the regulations already drawn which would permit physicians to prescribe a case of beer at a time with no limit on the number of prescriptions, should be held up by the treasury pending determination of the medicinal beer question by congress.

PANAMA MOURNS U. S. RULING

Republic's Flag to Be Flown at Half Mast for 30 Days.

Panama.—President Porras signed a decree, which declares the republic of Panama in mourning for one month. He ordered that the flag be displayed at half mast on all public buildings. This action was taken in consequence of the award to Costa Rica of disputed territory along the frontier and the decision of the United States not to delay Costa Rican occupation of the district.

CUT RATES TO HELP BUILDERS

Freight Reduction on Materials May Provide Work for Idle.

Richmond, Va.—Railroads in this state have been ordered to reduce and put into effect a reduction of 25 per cent in the rates for building materials of all sorts, including highways, in order to increase business and to provide employment for the hundreds of laborers and others now out of work. The railroads acted in full co-operation with the project.

Some Pet, This Cub Bear.

Escanaba.—Upper peninsula girls "go" the New York society maidens "one better." The Wolverines have bears for pets, not monkeys. The fad started when Miss Nellie Weisert of Ford River trapped a cub bear as he stole apples in her father's orchard. Now bears are the rage. Miss Weisert says she intends to take her pet bear on her next trip to New York. And, she is willing, if it comes to a test, to pit her bear against the New York monkeys.

Fear Miners Hold Official.

Charleston, W. Va.—When Magistrate W. H. Spurlock failed to show up at his court, attaches expressed fear he might have suffered harm from miners encamped near Marmet. Telephone wires have been cut beyond Marmet and efforts to get in touch with Justice Spurlock's home were unsuccessful. Armed miners patrolled the streets of Marmet for the announced purpose of keeping their own men from engaging in disorders.

Chaulmoogra Oil: Cure for Leprosy?

By JOHN DICKINSON SHERMAN.

DR. J. F. ROCK has returned to Washington from Siam with specimens and seeds of the tree, Taraktogenos kurzil, which the world has hailed literally as the Tree of Life for the leper.

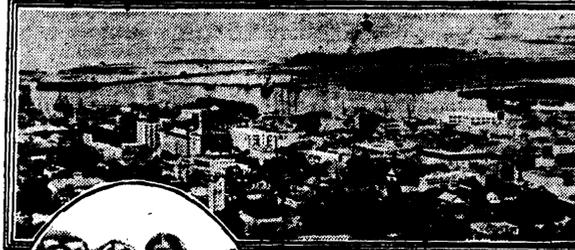

Is chaulmoogra oil, derived from the seeds of this Siamese jungle tree, a cure for leprosy? It is too soon to say, since there is no test on which a positive utterance in the affirmative can be given. But this much has been shown conclusively:

Chaulmoogra oil contains one or more agents which exert a marked therapeutic action in many cases of leprosy. There have been many apparent cures. Are they real and permanent? That remains to be seen. But it is evident that modern medicine now has an agent at its disposal which gives promise for the control of the dreaded disease.

Professor Rock, formerly of the University of Hawaii, made the trip to the Siamese jungles for the United States Department of Agriculture. It is supposed to provide a permanent supply of the oil for the treatment of

In the Hawaiian Islands, which has conducted intensive studies in the disease," said Dr. Schereschewsky. "In the course of this work the action of chaulmoogra oil in the treatment of leprosy has been very closely studied. Chaulmoogra oil, which is an oil from the seeds of an oriental tree (Taraktogenos kurzil) has been reputed for a good many years to have a beneficial action in leprosy.

The difficulty in its use, however, lay in the fact that when given by

Sport Coat Has Call in France

Paris Dressmakers Are Busy on Garments Which Are Done in Bold Designs.

BLACK AND RED COMBINATION

Bright and Dark Shades Are Among the Favorites—Somber Linings Are Used by Way of Contrast.

All of the Paris dressmakers are now very busy on automobile and sport coats, writes a fashion correspondent. The Parisienne is going in for sports as never before. Golf clubs near Paris are the center of great social activity. La Boule, which is near Versailles, and St. Cloud, so near Paris, are daily rendezvous for the smart set. Chantilly and Fontainebleau, both of which have interesting golf courses, are favorite resorts for week-ends, and thus the sport coat has come to be an essential part of the Frenchwoman's wardrobe. Consequently designers have given it much attention. Dressmakers who had the forethought to anticipate this demand are now reaping a harvest.

Madeleine et Madeleine are going especially well with their models, "Dans le Train" and "Sport." Both of these are eminently suitable for the uses which their names imply. Both are developed in very smart-looking tissues from Rodier, who has the best novelties woven in the loudest of patterns and yet conforming to good taste and refinement. They are most characteristic of this great French manufacturer.

Vivid Colorings in Sport Coats. The features of these new coats which impress one most forcibly are the colors and bold designs of the fabrics. The materials themselves make such a strong appeal and are so suggestive of out-of-doors that few women can resist them. The colors are very gay. There is a strong tendency toward black and red combinations—the dull, rusty reds enlivened here and there with a brighter shade of the same color, sometimes running in fringes used, although they are applied in new ways, being in little patches or clusters rather than in rows.

Originates Continental Manteau. Patou, the man tailor who is enjoying a great following in Paris, is selling very successfully at the present time his model called "Tipperary," English as to its name, although made of a French fabric interwoven with all the soul-stirring bars of the Scottish clans. The model hangs straight front and back, with what little fullness there is massed on the hips just at the point where the sleeves join the body of the coat. The collar is straight and muffled. The sleeves are bell shaped.

Agnes has a successful model called Paillassa, also developed in a plaid wool tissue. It is in Russian blouse style and also has the high collar and large bell sleeves. A fancy Rodier material woven and embroidered in green and yellow plaid was chosen for it.

The same maker has brought out a coat of a slightly more dressy type made of blue repp and trimmed with

MARKET REPORT

FURNISHED BY U. S. BUREAU OF MARKETS, WASHINGTON, D. C.

Heavier receipts have caused a $2.00 decline in timothy prices at principal central western markets. Stock yards buying at Chicago has cleared up surplus. Light country loading reported. Eastern markets dull and about 50 cents lower. Alfalfa and prairie prices have also declined about 50¢ per ton during the week.

Quote: No. 1 timothy: New York $20.50, Philadelphia $24, Cincinnati $15.50, Chicago $22, Atlanta $25, St. Louis $23.50. No. 1 alfalfa: Memphis $22, Minneapolis $20, Kansas City $22. No. 1 Prairie: Minneapolis $14.50, Chicago $17, Kansas City $12.

Wheat feeds, especially bran, continue weak. The demand for feed stuffs of all kinds remains light. Prices lower. Stocks at dealers' hands light to fair. Corn feed fairly steady. Alfalfa meal unchanged.

Quoted, August 25th: Bran $12.25, middlings $17, Minneapolis: white hominy feed $22; No. 1 alfalfa meal $17.50, Kansas City: gluten feed $30.50, Chicago, $35.21 Philadelphia.

Following lower prices the first three days of week under liquidation by long and lack of support, sentiment turned bullish on good export and milling demand and Chicago September wheat closed at $1.20 1-8, showing a net advance of 3 1-2 cents for the week. Chicago September corn rose 1 1-2 cents, closed at 54 1-4 cents. The market closed with undertone strong, due in part to passage of legislation to aid exports. Export demand at seaboard only fair on the 25th and sales smaller on account of inability to obtain cash grain. Country receipts small; offerings to arrive limited. Industrial corn demand good, but export demand less active. Country corn offerings liberal.

In Chicago cash market No. 2 red winter wheat $1.22, No. 2 hard $1.22; No. 2 mixed corn 55¢; No. 2 yellow 56¢; No. 3 white oats 32 3-4¢. For the week Minneapolis September wheat up 1-4¢ to $1.30; Kansas City Sept. up 4¢ to $1.10 3-4; Winnipeg October up 1-4¢ to $1.45. Chicago December wheat closed $1.21 1-2; Chicago December corn 54 1-2¢; Minneapolis December wheat $1.29 1-4; Kansas City Dec. $1.13 1-4.

After a week of unsettled trading butter markets have again taken on a firm tone. August 25th prices show advances but are still about 1¢ 1-2¢ under those of a week ago. Weather has been favorable for production and receipts are slightly heavier but there has been a revival of trading on account of buyers letting stocks get low on a falling market.

Closing prices 22 score: New York 41 1-2¢; Chicago 37 1-2¢; Philadelphia 41 1-2¢; Boston 42 cents.

New York sacked Irish Cobble potatoes declined 15¢ per 100 lbs. in eastern consuming markets the past week, closing $2.85. Giants range $2.45¢, New York and Massachusetts Yellow Globe onions range $2.50¢ per 100 lbs. in New York; $3.25¢ to $3.50¢ Boston. Mid-western yellow varieties range $2.00¢ to $2.25¢ per 100 lbs. in New York. Washington yellow stock $3.25¢ to $3.50¢ in Kansas City.

Among various experiments conducted notably in Florida, Maryland and California.

Professor Rock says that with one exception he is, so far as is known, the first white man to penetrate the region of Siam where he obtained the specimens. Of the other white men nothing seems to be known except that he is an amateur botanist named Kerr. The Siamese, however, visit the jungles where grow the taraktogenos trees once every three years to secure the seeds for chaulmoogra oil. It is a wild country, full of dangerous animals. The natives have known of the beneficial properties of the oil in leprosy for hundreds of years, but handle the oil in such a crude way that they do not get its full effect.

"Unclean!" is the pitiful cry of the leper that has been heard in all parts of the world since biblical times. The dread disease gets its name from the Greek word "lepros," which means "scaly." It is caused by the bacillus Lepra. It has always been believed contagious and until recent years incurable. It has been considered a particularly dread disease because of the terrible disfigurements it causes.

Probably the origin and home of leprosy is the Far East, but at one time it was widespread in Europe. It is still found in quantity in France, Spain, Norway, Turkey and Portugal. It is estimated that there are 1,500 lepers in the United States, most of whom are undetected and therefore segregated. It is only the other day that the wife of a well-known officer of the United States army was found to be suffering from a mild form of leprosy and was sent for treatment to the government leprosy hospital in Louisiana. Recently the British government requisitioned the United States for chaulmoogra oil for the treatment of several hundred sufferers on the island of Trinidad.

Portugal probably possesses the largest number of lepers of any European country. Foreigners are shocked by the sight of disfigured lepers of both sexes begging in the streets and selling toys and sweets. But Portugal seldom gets excited over her lepers. About once a generation somebody insists that something ought to be done for them—or with them. If leprosy can be cured or controlled, the result is due to work done by the United States public health service. This work has been going on for the last fifteen years, principally in the Kailhi hospital, Hawaii. The Kalauapa leper colony is situated on a promontory of the island of Molokai, connected with the main portion of the island only by a single pass through precipitous cliffs. Life there is anything but what might be expected. Patients observe all public holidays, their Fourth of July celebrations are jubilant, and they have orchestras and bands, movies and amateur theatricals.

Sixty-five per cent of the patients at the Kalauapa leper settlement will be discharged on parole within two years. In the opinion of Dr. W. J. Goodhue, for nineteen years resident physician there. This estimate is based on results already obtained with the chaulmoogra oil, prepared in the laboratories of the University of Hawaii.

From a recent joint report by Dr. J. T. McDonald of the leprosy investigation station in Hawaii and Dr. A. L. Dean, president of the University of Hawaii, the following concise conclusions may be drawn as to what the experimentation by the United States public health service in the treatment of leprosy has shown:

The intramuscular injection of the ethyl esters of the fatty acids of chaulmoogra oil usually leads to a rapid improvement in the clinical symptoms of leprosy. In many cases the lesions disappear, except for scars and permanent injuries, and the leprosy bacillus can no longer be demonstrated.

It has been sufficiently established that chaulmoogra oil contains one or more agents which exert a marked therapeutic action in many cases of leprosy. It cannot be said yet that the disease is cured, since there is no test adequate to establish such a verdict. Whether or not the apparent cures are real and permanent, it is evident that there is a valuable agent for the control of the disease.

The chaulmoogra oil treatment has been for the last fifteen years the subject of experimentation by the United States public health service. What has thus far been accomplished has justified the high expectation of Surgeon General Hugh S. Cumming of the public health service and his corps of assistants. Prominent among those having an active hand in the experiments are Dr. J. W. Schereschewsky, the assistant surgeon general; Dr. George W. McCoy, the director of the hygiene laboratory; Dr. J. T. McDonald of the leprosy investigation station in Hawaii, and Dr. A. L. Dean, president of the University of Hawaii in Honolulu.

"Since 1906 the service has maintained a leprosy investigation station tramularily was extremely painful and very slowly absorbed. Various modifications of chaulmoogra oil were studied by the public health service, among them a mixture suggested by Dr. Heiser of the service containing chaulmoogra oil, camphorated oil and resorcin; later olive oil was added and guaiacol was substituted for the resorcin. Results obtained by the latter mixture were so favorable that Professor Dean, president and professor of chemistry in the University of Hawaii, was led to the belief that chaulmoogra oil might contain certain active principles which could be isolated and might be administered with more favorable results.

"The work of Dr. Power of the welcome research laboratory on the constitution of chaulmoogra oil and its congeners gave some hope of this, for they showed that in this oil there was a new series of fatty acids (chaulmoogric acid and hydrocarpic acid) which differed from other known fatty acids by having the property of rotating a beam of polarized light.

"These acids, however, are solids and hence unsuited to hypodermic administration. As a result of a series of experiments, Professor Dean determined that the ethyl esters of these acids are thin fluid oils which lend themselves readily to intramuscular injection and are readily absorbed. These ethyl ester derivatives of chaulmoogra oil have now been in use at the United States public health service leprosy investigation station at Kailhi in the Hawaiian Islands for some three years and the results have been very encouraging. During that period some 140 lepers have been paroled and returned to their families, the disease apparently arrested.

"The effect of this treatment has been so encouraging that now many persons afflicted with leprosy have voluntarily presented themselves for treatment to the public health service in Hawaii, whereas in past years, since the laws of the territorial board of health provided for the segregation of lepers, all persons who were suffering with the disease endeavored to hide from the authorities in order that they might not be separated from their families."

Besides the investigation station at Kailhi, the public health service also operates a national leprosyarium at Carville, La., which at present houses some 112 lepers. The accommodations are being increased so as to provide for 75 additional beds. The treatment with chaulmoogra oil derivatives has been begun at this institution.

effect. The clever manner in which dressmakers and tailors are handling these bold-patterned novelties plays no small part in the successful vogue of coats made from them.

In outline the coats show little that is new. They are all very slender, unusually so for this type of wrap. There are many capes but even these are of the straight variety and not all ample. The Russian blouse style is in evidence, although a bit unusual for a motor or traveling coat.

New Neckline Treatment in Coats. Since the outside is so gay, linings, by way of contrast, are somewhat somber. Black crepe de chine frequently is used for this purpose, or the dullest shade of the plaid is selected.

In most instances sleeves are long and flowing. Bell sleeves may in turn have bell cuffs, perhaps double cuffs of this sort.

Madeleine et Madeleine cannot resist introducing their very low waistline even in coats. In the model "Dans le Train" inverted box plaits are the method by which this pronouncedly low waistline is defined.

Collars are high, although the shallow collar also is used. The high collars all spring from a low base. That is, the neckline is considerably cut out so that the collar starts far out on the shoulders and comes up in a muffling sort of way about the ears.

With materials showing so much action in the way of design little trimming is needed, but we still see elaborate embroideries, facings of white broadcloth and a black silk fringe, which latter falls from the sleeve motifs and edges the ends of the girde.

Another popular model of this latter type from Agnes is developed from black crepe Marocain with collar and cuffs of white taffeta. The embroidered motifs are in black, and suspended from these, at well spaced intervals, are bands of black silk fringe.

Plaids and Profuse Patterns. Black and black and white combinations are still very popular, although no longer exclusive. Heavy crepe Marocain continues to be much in evidence for the wrap and the craze for the cape coat or mantle, usually in black, made on the simplest possible lines, often with embroidery in self-tone, still continues. There is also a continued use of black monkey fur as a trimming. These silk and lightweight cloth coats, although simple enough for the daytime, are sufficiently dressy for informal evening wear.

Any number of capes of Rodier plaids made on the order of the English traveling cloak have been imported to this country. An unusually smart one by Fremet is of gray, black and bright red plaid wool. Brick color and bright red are an unusual combination. One might judge from reading about it that the cloth has an extremely bizarre appearance. But not so. The brick and gray are merely brightened here and there with touches of bright red blended in a well-thought-out way to make a fabric very much out of the ordinary.

The cape is straight with slit armholes and a long, straight collar which crosses to one side and fastens with a large composition button showing the same artistic blending of gray, red and brick color.

There is a fad of the moment for a tiny automobile parasol to accompany the motor coat. The silk top of these sunshades is not over twelve inches deep. The handles show life-like heads of the Normandy peasants, hand carved in wood and painted in colors. White-faced Pierrot with his big back ruff, too, is here.

Care of Finger Nails.

If your finger nails are rounded you should file your nails so that they are just a trifle more curved than your finger tips. This will tend to make them look graceful. The claw-like nail, although fashionable with many women who prefer following general fashion tendencies without regard to the individual shape of their fingers, is far from beautiful. Very often when this style is affected the nail is filed so closely down the sides of the finger tip that the underneath cuticle is quite apparent. This type of nail cutting should be reserved exclusively for the woman who has a triangularly-pointed finger.

The Compass Plant.

On the prairies and plains of Utah, Texas and southern Minnesota there grows a wonderful plant which has proved useful to travelers wandering over these vast tracts of country. It is called the compass plant, or pilot plant, because of a peculiarity in the growth of the leaves, which grow alternately along the stalk, and point north and south! The leaves followed the direction given them by these pointing leaves, and told the white men about it. This plant belongs to the family of the Compositae, and looks very much like the sunflower. It has a strong, resinous odor, somewhat like turpentine, and sometimes goes by the name, "turpentine plant."

Huguenot Exodus. During the reign of Louis XIV the Edict of Nantes, which had conferred upon the Huguenots liberty of conscience and admission to all offices of honor and emolument, was revoked, largely through the influence of Madame de Maintenon. This was followed by a terrible persecution, over 100,000 Huguenots being driven out, to carry their industry, wealth and skill to other countries. They went to England, Germany, Switzerland and other parts of Europe. One band emigrated from France to America, settling at Port Royal, S. C., in 1670. Others followed to New York, Massachusetts and other North American colonies.

Through the Soul's Eyes.
 Physical eyes may measure the possibilities that return effort in terms of dividends, but it takes vision of the soul to become a benefactor to your fellows. Effort for personal gain must be selfish beyond measure if it does not benefit more than the first actor. When it does not seem to be a help to anyone there are reflexes that are sure to reach men in various walks of life. But the world needs the work of the greater man. He may seem mediocre to his fellows. They may even oppide themselves into imagining their own superiority. What he does will show the difference. Intuitively he will sense the need of the times and without seeming to patronize he will make people appreciate him as friend and exchange.

SECOND BIRTH FOR JAPANESE

Burial of Nails, Teeth and Hair, and Change of Name Made Official Another Person.

The following item from the Japan Advertiser reveals one of the interesting peculiarities of national ideas and customs which continue to lend variety and interest to world civilization. "Burying themselves to escape death, and then being born again by the simple process of changing their names, Baron and Baroness Ban held full funeral services for themselves at the Gyokurinsai temple in Nagoya recently, erecting a fully engraved tombstone over their nails, teeth and hair. The baron now calls himself Mr. Kogogureno Otou.

"When Baron Ban was first born he was far from healthy, and 40 years was predicted as the extreme limit of his life. However, he recently celebrated his sixty-sixth birthday, which brought to his mind that his father had died at that age, and that he could probably best avoid his fate at an early death by bowing to that date and officially 'burying' as much of himself as possible without interfering with any of the vital processes."
