THIRTEEN IN 16 YEARS

Sixteen years ago Dr. C. L. Sigler bought his first Ford car. Those who recall this car will remember it as a "one lugger" whose approach was heralded by the loud staccato exhaust of the large single cylinder.

This week he is the owner of a new Ford coupe which does not make so much noise but covers the ground, and certainly is a beautiful car. He has no doubt driven his Fords further and over worse roads during that period than any other Pinckney automobile owner and still sticks to the Ford.

DOWAGIAC CASE Baffles Officers

NAIL-STUDED WEAPON USED TO KILL FATHER, MOTHER, GIRL IN DOWAGIAC.

ONE DAUGHTER WILL RECOVER

Testimony At Inquest Develops New Sensations; Physicians Say Victims Were Assaulted.

Dowagiac, Mich.—Robbery now looms up stronger than ever as a possible motive for the triple murder over one week ago of Mr. and Mrs. William Monroe and their 19-year-old daughter, Neva, whose heads were battered in with a club as they slept in their beds in their little one-story frame shack on the outskirts of the city.

The hunt for the slayer gained added impetus when an augmented force of detectives, employed with a fund raised by popular subscription, took up investigation, and when it was announced the supervisors would offer a $5,000 reward for his capture.

The crime was committed at the farm home of the Monroes, on the outskirts of the city, possibly during the night of September 17, but was not discovered until Tuesday of last week. The murderer battered the heads of his victims with a nail-studded club as they slept in their beds. Little 12-year-old Ardith Monroe, also badly beaten about the head, and in a partial stupor, was still alive when found and physicians at the hospital where she was taken say she will recover but will be scarred for life. She was unable to tell the officers anything about the attack, having been apparently struck on the head with the club before awakening; the same way the other three victims had been disposed of by the slayer. The blood-stained club, matted with hair, was found in the room. There was no indication of robbery.

William Kinney was arrested by Sheriff Sherman P. Wyman at Temple and was brought back here for questioning. At a preliminary examination held at Cadillac the accused claimed a complete alibi, which he later established and was released. Officers had claimed that Kinney had been friend-that Kinney was in Dowagiac on the night the murder is believed to have taken place. He will be asked to explain his presence here, and also of alleged relations with Neva Monroe, the 19-year-old daughter who was murdered. Officers claim the two were quite friendly in 1920 and also that there was some friction between him and Neva's father.

An outstanding feature of the coroner's inquest was the development in physicians' testimony that an attempt had been made to assault Neva either before or after death, and that a similar attack had been made upon Ardith and possibly upon the mother. It also developed at the inquest that Neva was the unwed mother of a child now in an orphan asylum at St. Joseph.

CUT FREIGHT RATES ON COKE

20 Per Cent Reduction Now Effective on State Railroads.

Lansing—Every railroad entering the state of Michigan has reduced its freight rates on coke approximately 20 per cent. This announcement was made through the interstate commerce commission late last week and followed a similar announcement made previously by the Pere Marquette railroad.

The reduction was effective in Michigan on all the railroads September 20. It will be effective in several other states directly connected with the coal and coke situation, as well as in Ontario on October 10. The 20 per cent decrease effective in Michigan now intrastate business reduces the Michigan Central rate on coke 41 cents on a ton, the old rate being $1.96 a ton and the new one $1.55.

BLAST WRECKS GERMAN TOWN

French Soldiers Aid in Clearing Away Ruins and Bodies.

Mannheim, Germany.—Desolation and ruins alone remain of what was once the flourishing town of Oppau. Judge Spanks Boys With Shoe.

Kansas City, Mo.—Judge E. E. Porterfield, presiding over the juvenile court, stopped a session of that court, removed one of his low shoes and spanked four juvenile delinquents with it. The four boys, in court for truancy, told the judge they would not go to school. The judge sent out for a suitable stick, but none could be found. He then used his shoe. "What about school now," he asked when he had replaced the shoe. The four agreed to return to school.

UNION TO AID POTATO SALES

State Labor Federation Adopts Baker's Marketing Plan.

Grand Rapids—Senator Herbert I. Baker of Weadock, addressing the Michigan Federation of Labor, said that if labor unions and farmers worked in harmony they could form one of the most formidable agencies in the world.

The federation adopted Baker's proposed marketing plan, by which labor and farmers will form a closer selling and buying alliance.

The convention voted to place with Baker the names of 1,500 delegates who will aid in marketing farmers' potatoes this fall.

The Michigan Potato Growers' exchange will furnish price lists, and a real campaign for marketing the potato crop at a price fair to both

MRS. LONG BARES ADVANCES OF BROTHER-IN-LAW, HELD ON MURDER CHARGE.

BLOOD STAIN ON ADAM'S COAT

Police Also Allege That Bullet Found in Long's Body Fits Prisoner's Revolver.

Caro, Mich.—Positive identification by George Masten, a farmer living near here, of Clarence L. Adams, Saginaw contractor, as the man he saw hurrying away August 26 from the swamp thicket where the body of his brother-in-law, Howard Long of Saginaw, was found, features a series of revelations in the investigation of Long's murder, with which Adams is charged.

Masten first identified Adams in the Tuscola county jail here Saturday afternoon and affirmed this identification a short time later when authorities took him and Adams to the place where Masten claims he saw Adams the day Long disappeared.

Other developments during the day were numerous and included the following:

Mrs. Adams, wife of the prisoner, identified the galvanized iron pan found near the swamp in which Long's body was hidden, as belonging to her.

Officers discovered what they believe are blood stains on the inner lining of the left side and left sleeve of Adams's coat.

A Saginaw girl, whose name is withheld, made a statement purporting to relate to an incriminating conversation between Adams and his wife the night after Long disappeared, and also quoted alleged statements made to her by Adams the next day.

One of the bullets found in Long's body was found to fit the rifling in the barrel of the revolver found in Adams's home. Authorities reported they had statements from the widow of the slain man showing she had had relations with Adams for five years preceding her marriage to Long.

Adams's advances after the marriage, these statements are said to have indicated, were repulsed, fur-have Long out of the way.

Long disappeared August 28 last, when he went on a berry picking trip with Adams. The prisoner was subjected to a severe grilling Saturday, but failed to change his original story, which insists upon his innocence of the crime. He paled when shown Long's body, but remained firm in his claim of innocence.

A vote of thanks to citizens of Detroit and Michigan, concluded what was termed the most successful national convention of the organization.

The father fixed a gun in such a manner that if the door of the poultry house were to be opened the gun would be discharged. Unaware of his father's scheme, Sherman attempted to enter the poultry house. The charge struck him in the face and neck and he is in a critical condition.

Kalamazoo—Paul A. Martin, of Battle Creek, was unanimously chosen as state commander of the Michigan division of the American Legion, at the third annual convention held in this city last week.

The other officers follow: Wilbur Brucker, Saginaw, first vice-commander; Werner G. Larson, Ironwood, second vice-commander; Edward Winegar, Grand Rapids, third vice-commander; Clarence R. SAYS PROHIBITION IS FAILURE

New Jersey Governor Declares It Makes Nation of Liars.

Atlantic City, N. J.—Governor Edwards, New Jersey, issued a statement here attacking prohibition as a "fat failure."

"Hardly more than a dozen men in congress," he said, "have empty hip pockets or empty cellars."

"Prohibition only prohibits those who have not the price. It is making a nation of liars and criminals."

The statement is taken as proof that Edwards intends to oppose Senator Freylinghuysen for re-election to the United States senate on a straight wet issue.

$100,000 FOR F. K. LANE ESTATE

Friends of Former Cabinet Officer Provide for Memorial.

New York.—A fund of $100,000 has been raised among friends of the late Franklin K. Lane, secretary of the interior in former President Wilson's cabinet, the income of which will be paid to Mrs. Lane for life. He died last May at Rochester, Minn., and left practically no estate. At Mrs. Lane's death, the principal of the fund will be used as a memorial to her husband, probably an educational institution.

Professional Bombers Captured.

Chicago.—Four alleged professional bombers, one of whom has confessed that the gang has blown up 60 or more buildings in recent labor wars, were captured red-handed. In a subsequent raid of their headquarters, the police found one trunk were 100 sticks of T. N. T. enough to blow up the city of Chicago.

Instead, he will be given a job when he is discharged from a hospital, says W. C. Burmeister of Evanston, owner of the plane. "I like his nerve," explained Burmeister.

Bootleggers Sixed After Battle.

Halifax, N. S.—The Royal Mail steam packet liner Chignecto was seized by customs officials following a battle during a rum search. When government agents attempted to search the quarters of the colored crew for contraband liquor, the seamen drew revolvers and attempted to drive the raiders away.

Too Much Booze; Operators Quit.

Danville, Va.—The economic law of supply and demand has accomplished what that sponsored by Mr. Volstead failed to do, say reports from the hill sections of Carroll and Patrick counties. With the price of moonshine down to $2 per gallon, as compared with $15 a few months ago, many operators have put aside their stills and have taken a new interest in the crops of bright leaf and sorghum.

Jay Leeds, Jr., in Orphanage.

New York.—"Little Jay Leeds, Jr.," one of the two pitiful juvenile figures in the Stillman divorce case, has been placed in an orphan asylum in the city of New York. Miss Florence Leeds, the mother, has found it necessary to separate herself from her son. There must be a haven for the boy while detectives are watching her every moment while process servers form a part of the daily routine.

Crew Sentenced for Smuggling.

New York.—Two officers and seven members of the crew of the Greek steamer King Alexander pleaded guilty to smuggling liquor and drugs into America. Federal Judge E. L. Garvin sentenced the officers to a year and a day each in the Atlanta penitentiary. NOT EASY TASK FOR GEN. WOOD

ADMINISTRATION OF THE PHILIPPINES WILL REQUIRE HIS EMINENT ABILITIES.

AMERICAN RULE TO CONTINUE

Governor General Must Reconcile the Islanders to This—Some Political Gossip Started in Washington by the Appointment.

By EDWARD B. CLARK.

Washington.—Leonard Wood, major general of the United States army, has accepted the presidential appointment as governor general of the Philippine islands.

Wood will have no easy job in the Philippines. There are many Filipinos who hold that Uncle Sam should give instant freedom to the islands. The feeling in Washington among the adherents of the present administration is that the islands are not yet ready for self-rule.

General Wood has been an army officer for thirty-five years, but a large part of his work has been administrative. He is credited generally with having resurrected Cuba from the virtually dead state to which Spain had reduced her.

Arouses Political Gossip.

There is some political gossip in Washington about this appointment of General Wood to the Philippines post. Some men think the American people designedly were led to believe that the general had solicited the place.

He was willing to do his duty by his country, and to forego his personal preference which led him to desire to come back to the United States to take the position of provost of the University of Pennsylvania.

The general has asked the War department to assign to him as assistants several army officers who labored with him in other administrative positions and of whose capabilities he has satisfied himself.

Some general information has come to Washington from the Philippines concerning conditions there. It seems that there no longer is any likelihood of troubles which might lead to a resort to arms.

No Danger of Insurrection. Some general information has come to Washington from the Philippines concerning conditions there. It seems that there no longer is any likelihood of troubles which might lead to a resort to arms.

The writer of this, it happens, has known General Wood personally and closely for some time. The general is the proverbial glutton for work. Despite a slight lameness he probably is physically the most powerful man in the United States army.

Washington today is politically as well as legislatively active. The fact that congress is on recess has not stopped some of the legislative processes for several committees are at work paving the way for proposed legislation.

through its operating forces, in the field of the fighting early. As it has been put, the outlook is that the present dominant Republican party must go through three years of campaigning under daily mustard shell attacks from the Democrats.

The Republican national committee has a lot of other kind of work on its hands, but it is also making preparations to meet and repulse, if it can, the attacks of the Democratic forces.

So far as one can determine from reading the frequent bulletins issued by the Democratic national committee, there is not one act of Republican legislation, suggested or accomplished, or one Presidential pronouncement on economic or other matters which has met with the approval of the occupants of the enemy watch tower.

While the Democratic committee is engaged in its verbal assaults, the Republican leaders in congress are retorting in kind. Mr. Mondell, the leader of the dominant party's house force, has declared publicly that the present congress has been as constructive a congress as any that ever sat in Washington.

The solid fact is that the Democratic national committee is doing what it can today by way of preliminaries in an attempt to oust the Republicans in the fall of next year. The Democrats seem to be sanguine, but naturally the Republicans say the enemy's optimism is unsound and unwarranted.

It is unusual for Washington thus early to be engaged in the game of active politics. Of course politics is always in evidence here, but never prior to this time have national committees been so determinedly on the job.

At this moment or writing it seems possible that Ellis Loring Dresel is to be appointed American ambassador to Germany. In one capacity or another Mr. Dresel has been in touch with German affairs for some time, and has made particular study of political and economic conditions in that country.

Whether or not eventually the appointment is to go to Mr. Dresel, it is certain that it is to be given to a man who, like him, has a thorough understanding of conditions in the land with which the United States recently was at war.

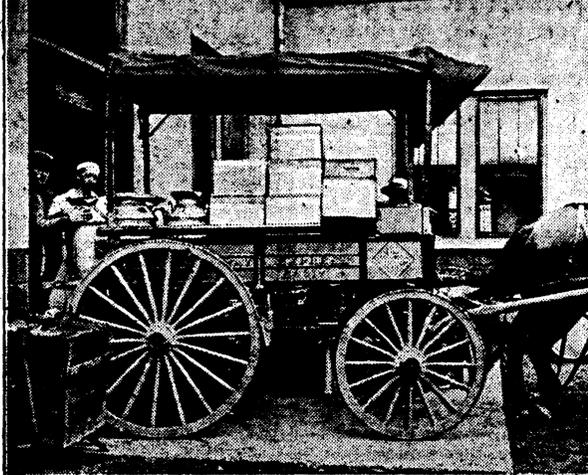

Washington, not at all strangely, seems to be more interested in the subject of the next German ambassador to the United States than it is in the appointment to Germany in our own behalf.

Our Ambassadors Not Linguists. The government of the United States never has been insistent that its ambassadors to foreign countries should know the tongue of the lands to which they were accredited.

It always has seemed, however, as if the United States government, although restricted in its appointments to rich men, could find qualified ones who can speak the European languages. We have had ambassadors to Italy who did not know what "yes" and "no" were in the Italian tongue.

Washington today is politically as well as legislatively active. The fact that congress is on recess has not stopped some of the legislative processes for several committees are at work paving the way for proposed legislation.

CO-OPERATIVE PRINCIPLES MUST BE FOLLOWED IN ORGANIZATION

A Creamery Which Gathers the Milk or Cream of Many Producers, to Manufacture into Uniform High-Grade Dairy Products, is One of the Best Examples of Successful Co-operation.

Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture. Specialists in the United States Department of Agriculture urge constantly the establishing of uniform standards for farm products, and declare that if these standards are maintained, once they have been adopted, the confidence of the public will be established.

"Co-operative principles," said a co-operative specialist of the bureau of markets, "must be adhered to in the organization and operation of farmers' marketing associations. The farmers themselves cannot be expected to have a vital interest in a marketing organization operated for the profit of and controlled by a few persons."

Men who have traveled in every part of the United States observing the work of co-operative organizations of various kinds, believe that the success of widespread co-operative marketing may be endangered through a poorly conceived hope or expectation that a hard and fast organization of producers will make it possible to sell anything and everything at a predetermined price without regard to quality or conditions.

Men who have given close attention to the subject declare that there is a widespread feeling that it is possible to revolutionize completely the entire system of marketing and attain success from the outset. This, of course, is impossible because it is necessary to build upon a solid foundation and to work out the many problems involved carefully.

age, that is, the amount of business transacted with the organization. Loyalty is Essential. "The membership should be open to producers only who desire to avail themselves of its facilities, and there should be safeguards to prevent the ownership and control of the enterprise from falling into the hands of a few persons."

"The manager, of course, is the keystone supporting the business. The salary offered him should attract high-class ability as in any business looking to success, and he should have authority to support his work. An enterprise business can be ruined by an incompetent manager at its head."

"A co-operative marketing association may be likened to a typewriter, which is a very efficient machine, but useless until you have some one competent to operate it. The success of co-operative marketing depends almost entirely upon obtaining a sufficient volume of business, observing true co-operative principles, employing capable management, having thoroughly modern business methods, and finally, loyal membership."

Plant Pests Cause Big Loss of Wheat. Possible to Reduce Toll Much Below Present Figures. Bureau of Plant Industry Working Out Preventive and Control Measures for Diseases of Different Cereal Crops.

If all the wheat now destroyed annually by pests could be saved and made into flour the United States Department of Agriculture says it would add approximately 29,463,700 barrels to the yearly output to the nation. The annual production of wheat in this country for the four-year period, 1916 to 1919, inclusive, was 783,940,500 bushels. The annual loss from disease during this period was 147,315,500 bushels.

While it is not possible entirely to eliminate wheat diseases, it is possible to reduce the toll much below what it has been in recent years, says the department. One branch of the work of the office of cereal investigations in the bureau of plant industry is to work out the preventive and control measures for the diseases of all cereal crops.

POULTRY AND DAIRY PROFITS. One of Very Best Ways Farmer Can Dispose of Surplus Milk is to Feed it to Fowls. The dairyman (or the farmer who runs a small dairy in connection with his farm) is in an enviable position to make the biggest proportionate profits from a flock of poultry.

WIFE TAKES HUSBANDS ADVICE

And Is Made Well Again by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Springfield, Mass.—"The doctor told my husband that I had to have an operation, otherwise I would be a sickly woman and could not have any more children on account of my weakened condition. I refused to have the operation. My husband asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to see if it would not help me. For the first four months I could do but little work, had to lie down most of the time, was nervous and could eat hardly anything, but my husband was always reminding me to take the Vegetable Compound, which I did. Of my eight children this last one was the easiest birth of all and I am thankful for your Vegetable Compound. I recommend it to my friends when I hear them complaining about their ill health."

BRIGHTON—Every piece of wood that didn't fall into the water was burned up of the Hillside Beach Pavilion, Island Lake, belonging to Geo. J. Williams early Wednesday morning. Sam Genn, who lived in the pavilion, lost everything he owned except a pair of trousers and a shirt.

The loss will amount to $10,000, but most of it was covered by insurance. Nothing was saved as the smoke was too dense when it was discovered. The cause is unknown.

Sam Genn was awakened about three o'clock in the morning by the smoke and he immediately called Mr. Williams who was in his cottage across the street. A call was put in for the Brighton fire department and the operator was just gotten when the wires were severed. The department did not respond because of the trouble which arose in March when the department left town. Tom Leith and the boys from his school came and helped save the cottage. That was all the help that arrived.

Mr. Williams is hard struck by the fire, but he declares that he will begin immediately to build a new pavilion; this time of fire proof material.

It hardly seems right that the village fire department could not respond to such a call, especially when nearly all of the money spent in construction of the pavilion was spent in Brighton. —Argus.

CHELSEA—Local officers at 2 o'clock Wednesday morning secured a search warrant and about 3 o'clock they raided the residence of John Greiza on West Middle street. When they arrived at the home they were refused admittance and the officers were obliged to force a door open.

Upon their gaining admission, they found Mrs. Greiza and Andrew Holdwick engaged in operating a still. Mrs. Greiza seized the outfit on the stove and threw the boiling hot mash on the floor and cast the worm out of the door and also tipped over a gallon of the home brew but the officers succeeded in saving about half of the contents, and they also secured a full two gallon jug of the home brew.

After the raid, Andrew Holdwick, who is employed at the cement plant, and the distillery outfit with the jugs of home brew were taken to the village jail. When Holdwick was searched, over $200 in cash was found on his person.

The home brewers had two kinds of the illicit liquor in hand. One kind was made from corn and rye and the other from hops, lemons, and other decoctions.

Mrs. Greiza and two children and Holdwick were taken to Ann Arbor, Wednesday forenoon, and placed in the county jail.—Standard.

FARM AND GARDEN

A state wide campaign to increase the acreage of alfalfa and other leguminous crops in Michigan is to be launched in the near future, according to announcement of Prof. J. F. Cox, head of the farm crops department at the Michigan Agricultural College.

All other agricultural agencies in the state will be called upon to aid in the campaign, which is expected to be of far reaching influence to Michigan agriculture. Importance of legumes in good farming systems is apparent, and an effort will be made to acquaint the entire state with their value.

"The time is ripe to make Michigan a leading alfalfa state," says Professor Cox. "After twenty-five years of effort, alfalfa has arrived. With dollar wheat and fifty cent corn staring them in the face, farmers are regarding alfalfa as a mighty good money crop. In fact it is one of the best in the state this year. With timothy and clover hay a failure in most sections, alfalfa fields showed up like oases.

"Like good clover, alfalfa is the foundation of successful farming. Good stands are of great benefit to future cultivated and grain crops. A man cannot grow this crop without becoming a better soils man, better crop grower, and a better feeder of live stock. Increased acreages of alfalfa, sweet clover, clover, vetch, and soy beans will be sought in the state."

The State Farm Bureau will be in a position to supply northwestern grown alfalfa seed, and to aid in securing adequate supplies of lime and marl, and phosphate and other commercial fertilizers. Development bureaus, railroad agricultural departments, and local business organizations will also cooperate in the campaign.

WONDERFUL GAIN IN WEIGHT REPORTED

Young Woman Only Weighed 76 Pounds—Now Weighs Over 100 and is Gaining Every Day.

"Before I began taking Tanlac I only weighed 76 pounds. I now weigh over one hundred and am gaining every day," said Miss Laitue Davis of Chattanooga, Tenn.

"I bought my first bottle of Tanlac at Gas City, Ind., and it helped me so much that I continued using it. I have always been very delicate and suffered a great deal from stomach trouble and rheumatism. I rarely ever had any appetite and simply could not relish anything. I fell off until I only weighed 76 pounds and was so thin I looked perfectly awful. This is the condition I was in when I began taking Tanlac.

"Oh, I feel so different now. Even my complexion is improved. My appetite is good and I can hardly get enough to eat. Tanlac is simply grand and I can truthfully say it is the only medicine that has ever done me any good."

The Shadow of the Sheltering Pines

by GRACE MILLER WHITE

A New Romance of the Storm Country

When he got upstairs, he looked at himself in the glass. How white and thin he had grown! He looked as if he had died and was trying to come to life again. He was frightened almost out of his wits too. Then Tonibell Devon really was in the house. It hadn't been her ghost that had thrown him bodily from the window sill after all. Uriah, knowing that, had come and made a demand for his daughter and had been arrested. Perhaps he would be arrested also, and for a crime worse than stealing. Had the girl mentioned the fact of his trying to poison Paul Pendlehaven? If she hadn't, would she? When Mrs. Curtis came in to ask how he felt, he was crumpled in a big chair, shaking as if he had been attacked with ague.

"My goodness, Reggie, you look awful," she said, coming to his side. "Tell me, child, what's the matter?"

"There's matter enough," faltered the boy. "If you don't want me arrested like that man today, then give me some money to get out with."

He dropped his head, and for a moment she stood staring at him. Then her mother-heart relaxed, and she sank beside his chair.

"Darling," she crooned, "darling boy, go to your Cousin John and tell him all about it. He will forgive you and help you."

The boy bounded up, maddened beyond endurance.

"Great God," he cried, "he'd box me up for ten years! No, no, you've got to help me get away from Ithaca. I must have money!"

"Wait," said Mrs. Curtis, and she hurried from the room.

When she returned, before Doctor

"No one but that girl is allowed near him," flashed back Katherine.

"By John's orders," supplemented Mrs. Curtis.

Katherine's lip curled.

"Then why not appeal to her, mamma? Perhaps she'd reach the ears of his majesty, the Lord Almighty," said she.

"Oh, Kathie, don't be horrid," sobbed her mother. "You know very well I couldn't ask him through her."

"Then what will you do?" demanded the girl. "You say Cousin John won't help Rege, and you refuse to ask the girl to ask Cousin Paul. Then what will you do?"

"You ask her, Kathie," said Mrs. Curtis, in coaxing tones.

Katherine tossed her head.

"You've got a nerve to send me to her for anything," she shot back. "I will not!"

Mrs. Curtis came forward with trembling footsteps.

"Not for your brother's sake? Oh, Kathie, do!"

"No, I won't," said the girl. "So just don't ask me. Reggie's not my son, and I haven't any sympathy for him." With that she made for the door and was gone.

For over an hour the anguished mother walked up and down. Then as if she had at last reached a conclusion, she went to the servants' quarters. There she sent the maid to ask Tonibell to come out to Doctor Paul's conservatory for a minute.

Tony silently stared at the white woman when they came face to face. Mrs. Curtis swallowed her pride, gulping at the lumps that rose in her throat.

"I'm sorry about this afternoon, Miss Devon," she said, "I really didn't asked.

"John," she entreated, forgetting to raise her handkerchief to wipe away her tears. "I must have some money tonight. A lot of it!"

"For Reggie?" boomed forth Pendlehaven.

"Yes, he's sick, and I want to send him away, John. Oh! You can't refuse me this, you simply can't."

"Going away doesn't seem to help your son any, as I see," answered the doctor. "He might better stay home. Wait till I tell you something, Sarah," he went on with a wave of his hand to stop her plea. "You are ruining that boy. Three-quarters of the time you don't know where he is, and he drinks like a fish."

The woman knew what her cousin said was true; but the money she had to have. Yet she dared not confess what made it necessary.

"But this time, John," she wept brokenly, "he'll go to a place I send him. He's promised he would. John, you must help me."

Pendlehaven sat down and took up the book he had been reading.

"I refuse to hand out any more money for that boy," said he. "Let him stay awhile, Sarah, and see how that works out. . . . No, no, there's no use of your begging me. I refuse absolutely."

Mrs. Curtis fled away almost distracted. If she should see her son taken to prison like Devon had been that afternoon, it would kill her. And how could she face him without a means to help him escape! If she could only gain admission to Cousin Paul! He had always been the more tender hearted of the two.

For a while she walked up and down her room, wringing her hands. She was in a state of terrible anxiety when Katherine came in.

"He's got to go," repeated Mrs. Curtis, after she had told the whole story to her daughter. "He says he'll be arrested if he doesn't. Oh, if I could only get to Paul!"

Mrs. Curtis must have gotten religion; nothing but a softening of heart could account for the apology.

"Never mind," she choked. "I'm awfully sorry about my daddy, but if he will be bad, then I suppose he must go to jail."

This statement renewed the dread in Mrs. Curtis' heart about her son.

"Could you take a message to my Cousin Paul for me?" she ventured.

"What is it?" asked Tonibell, thickly.

"My son is ill," Mrs. Curtis explained tearfully, "and he must go away. I haven't any money, but if Paul knew about it he'd help me. Will you ask him?"

Tony thought a minute.

"Not tonight," she replied. "Mebbe Doctor John—"

"No, he hates my son," the other cried passionately. "Oh, you mustn't say anything to him about it."

Tonibell Devon was awfully tempted to refuse the haughty woman who had pulled her around by the hair only that afternoon. But she remembered Phillip, remembered his love for her, and relented.

"Come along back tomorrow morning, and mebbe I can get you some," she answered, walking away. Then over her shoulder she flung back, "I'll try, anyhow."

With this last statement Mrs. Curtis had to be satisfied. Reggie suffered dreadfully the night through, his mother sitting at his bedside. Tony Devon also had been awake most of the night. In the morning after breakfast, she set about gathering courage to approach Doctor Paul.

With Guselle Piglet in her arms, she sat down beside him, and now the minute was there to speak. Tony didn't know how to begin. But to begin meant to begin, Tony had learned, so she coughed and blurted:

"Your cousin, Mrs. Curtis, is kind of pretty, ain't she?"

"She would be if she didn't cry so much," responded Doctor Paul.

This gave Tony the opening she wanted.

"Her boy's awful sick, so she says," she broke out, "that's why she cries. If he don't go away, he'll die, mebbe."

The lovely gray eyes grew darker as they searched his, and Doctor Paul leaned over and looked keenly at her.

"Did Cousin Sarah ask you to come to me, little girl?" he questioned in a kindly tone.

Tonibell nodded.

"She says Doctor John don't like her boy, and mebbe you'd help her," said the girl, blushing.

The man considered the red face a moment.

"Would it please you to have me help her and him?" he then queried. "I should think you'd be the last person to ask that. My brother told me she's always very unkind to you."

"She don't know any better," replied Tony. "She's never learned what lovin' awful hard means, and mebbe she's so worried over her boy she's got to be horrid to some one."

Paul Pendlehaven laughed, then he grew grave. "Perhaps that's it. Now do you think you could find my cousin and bring her here?"

"She might make you nervous," said she dubiously.

"I don't think so," replied the doctor, smiling. "I'm so much better. We won't speak of this to John, and I won't get nervous." He made the last promise because the girl's face was troubled and anxious.

Tonibell nodded and hurried out. She knew which room Mrs. Curtis occupied and sought the other wing of the house. When she knocked at the door, a woman's voice called a low "Come in."

Tony stepped inside and, turning, shut the door before she took a survey of the room. When she did, she almost fainted. Reggie Brown, the awful man she had known in the capabcat days, the man who had dropped the poison into Paul Pendlehaven's medicine, was seated very near Mrs. Curtis, and Katherine was by the window, wearing a very bored expression.

An exclamation came from each one of the three as the girl faced them, looking as if she were ready to collapse.

"You didn't get the money then, girl," demanded Mrs. Curtis, sharply. "Reggie dear, I didn't tell you last night, but your Cousin John refused me when I asked him for help, and I had to reach Paul through—"

Tony's eyes were on Reginald, who was crouching lower in his chair. Her forward, staggering step broke off the speaker's explanation.

"You want the money for him?" she cried, pointing a finger toward the cringing boy.

Mrs. Curtis nodded.

"Yes, he's my son," she answered.

Tony drew a long breath, letting it hiss out through her teeth.

"If he's your son, ma'am," she said falteringly, "then you got a murderer for a son. He tried—he tried to poison Doctor Paul."

Mrs. Curtis got up slowly, a cold rage rising in her pale eyes. Katherine came forward to her mother's side, but Reginald remained silent.

"You lie," snarled Mrs. Curtis.

"I don't lie," cried Tony, hoarsely. "I don't lie, either. Look at him, and see if he ain't guilty. He did put poison in Doctor Phil's medicine, and I pushed him off the window. But I didn't know he was your son."

"You Want the Money for Him?" She Cried.

By forcing her eyes around, the mother caught sight of her boy.

"Reggie," she screamed, "for God's love, don't look that way. Why don't you tell the huzzy she lies! Tell her you'll go to your cousins and let them know of her accusations. I'll go myself!"

She darted across the room, but Reginald's husky voice called her back.

"Don't do that," he warned. "Don't do it, mater! What she says is true. I did exactly that thing. I— I tried to kill Cousin Paul."

Mrs. Curtis sank down with a groan, and Katherine uttered a cry.

"I thought you wanted me, to mater," went on the boy, wearily. "I thought you said, if he died, we'd get money—"

"But, my God, I didn't want you to kill him," moaned Mrs. Curtis.

"I didn't," said Reggie. "But you tried," thrust in Tonibell. "And you've told my cousins, eh? He asked hopelessly."

"No, I didn't," denied Tony. "I s'pose mebbe I would have, but I didn't know you belonged here. I knew you used to steal with my daddy and do all sorts of wicked things—"

Mrs. Curtis cried out again.

"But I didn't know you'd try to kill a poor sick man," Tony went on, "and then send your ma to get money of him."

"You'll tell him, I know you will, you terrible girl," screamed Katherine, no longer able to restrain herself.

Tonibell thought quickly. Cousin Paul Pendlehaven lived in the house with an enemy who had tried to take his life. This same enemy had tried to destroy her, too.

"You said he was going away?" she questioned Mrs. Curtis presently.

"Didn't you?"

"If I get money," put a Reggie drearily, "I will."

"Doctor Paul wants to see you, ma'am," said Tonibell, her dark gray eyes fixed on the woman. "and if he goes," she pointed at Reginald, "and stays a long time, I'll keep mum see?"

Completely overlooking Katherine Tony ran out of the room. The next day she didn't look up when she heard Doctor John tell Doctor Paul that Reginald had left Ithaca. What she peeped at Doctor Paul, she said at her.

SPIDER ATTRACTED BY MUSIC

According to Organist, He Was Always Sure of One Listener Whenever He Played.

An organist, telling of his experiences while playing the great instrument in a Boston hall, relates a pretty story of his most regular listener—a spider that had taken up his abode in the organ case over the performer's head. It remained there for about a year.

It was a musical little fellow, and when the man began to play it would spin down almost to a level with his shoulder and gently swing to and fro and listen. When he had finished a piece it would draw itself up to its nest, and when he began another, down it would come again and resume its position as an interested listener.

It had six legs. Two it put out in the air as a balance pole, two it handled the web with, and the third pair it used in pulling itself up hand over hand, as sailors climb a rope.

The organist came at last to watch for the little fellow, and it was always faithful, so that he was sure of at least one attentive and appreciative listener.

WAX MUST FIRST BE MELTED

Impossible to Get Light From Wax Candle Without the Presence of Necessary Gases.

A wax candle really is a gastorch. You will find that when you apply a lighted match to the wick of a candle it will not light readily. You have to hold the match to the wick until the wick burns sufficiently to heat the wax hot enough to turn it into gases which, on mixing with the oxygen in the air, produce the fire in the form of light.

The candle will continue to be lighted and to burn as long as the wax continues not enough to give off the gases or until the candle is entirely consumed. Any interruption to this process of transforming the wax into gas will result in the extinguishing of the light.

The reason the candle goes out when you blow on the flame is that the gases which feed the flame at the end of the wick are blown away, the process of turning the hot wax into gas is interrupted and with the gas supply shut off the flame is extinguished.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The hoatzin, one of the strangest birds of South America, is notorious for its bad odor. Some authorities say it is so frightful that the bird can only be skinned under water. These stories are denied by Dr. C. W. Beebe of New York, who has not only skinned hoatzins, but also eaten them.

Pontoon Bridge Across the Hudson?

By JOHN DICKINSON SHERMAN.

A PONTON bridge across the Hudson! It sounds odd, but it seems likely. A year or so from now a pontoon bridge between Youkers and Alpine, a roadway for automobiles and a footway for pedestrians strung across forty or fifty large ships for nearly a mile, is apt to be the latest new thing of the nation. It will be a new thing only in the United States. For the pontoon bridge is centuries old and is in common use now in Europe.

This pontoon bridge across the Hudson is proposed for these reasons: It is badly needed to relieve congestion; it is entirely feasible; it can be built in a year; it will cost only $2,000,000; ships that can serve as pontoons are already in existence.

There is no question as to the need of the bridge. The automobile congestion is notorious; the New York ferries are inadequate to handle the traffic. One of the great sufferers is the Palisades Interstate park. So it is natural that the first suggestion of the pontoon bridge came from Maj. W. A. Welch, engineer of the park commission.

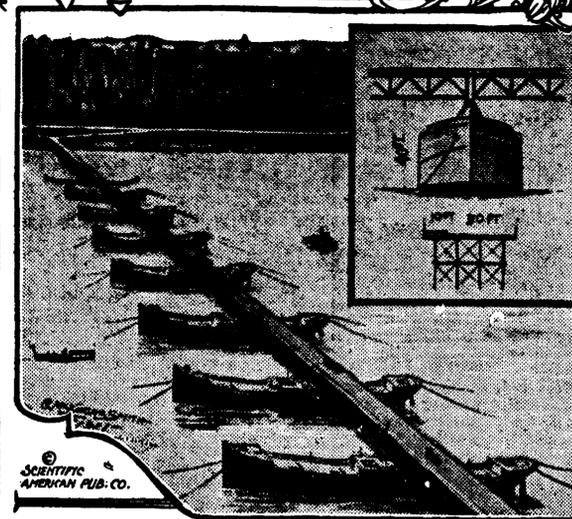

This Palisades Interstate park it should be noted, is one of the great public playgrounds of the United States. The original park was established by New York and New Jersey to save the Palisades of the Hudson from quarrymen who were blasting them for stone. Curiously enough it two states who succeeded in getting the park established. After all efforts by men had failed they induced the legislatures of the two states to take the necessary action and to make appropriations. The park was opened in 1909. Mrs. E. H. Harriman extended the area to 10,000 acres in 1910 by gift of land. That year there were a few thousand visitors, many of them campers. The possibilities of the park were seen. Since then everything that money and good management can do has been done for this park. More than $8,000,000 have been expended on it. Of this large sum 55 per cent has come from gifts by public-spirited citizens. It now contains about 30,000 acres, with improvements to all every need. The bulk of the attendance comes from New York city. Children are sent by thousands on river boats. Boy scouts, Camp Fire girls and hundreds of organizations camp there. Thousands drive there. There are restaurants for every purse; facilities for every kind of recreation. The aggregate of the summer's attendance is enormous.

Moreover, this park enjoys the position of an object lesson of efficiency in public playgrounds. A capable engineer with a free hand has secured his money's worth in the improvements. The management is pointed out as a model. The management is vested in a permanent commission of five members from each state. They serve without pay and the post is one of honor. The late George W. Perkins, who was for many years a leading spirit of the commission, once said that the biggest thing the commission had accomplished was to keep politics out of the park.

As to the ships that can serve as pontoons, they're ready. As everyone knows, the shipping board slightly overplayed its hand in the matter of building wooden ships during the World war. There were 671 of these wooden ships constructed. Only 296 have been sold. It has been costing the government $50,000 a month to take care of the other 275. These ships cost on an average $500,000 each. For a time it seemed impossible to sell them at any price. Indeed, Representative Wood of Indiana recently said on the floor of the house:

"We have 275 of these wooden vessels down here in the mouth of the James river, tied up in units of seven each, with 40 men to the unit, each of them receiving $100 a month and his keep, costing the government $50,000 a month, or $800,000 a year, for a lot of boats that are not worth sinking.

The government paid $200,000 to tow them in there, and it would be cheaper to pay $200,000 to tow them out and sink them rather than continue this expense for another six months.

Well, the United States shipping board finally agreed to sell 205 of its wooden vessels to the Ship Construction and Trading corporation of New York, for $2,100 each, or a total of $4,305,000, which is less than the estimated average cost of one of the

to give temporary relief to the unimagined crowding of automobiles, which is heavy in any day of the week and unbelievably bad (by those who have not witnessed it) on Sundays and holidays. It is nothing unusual to find one's self on the western side of the river, or on the eastern side for that matter, with a string of automobiles miles in length between one's machine and the ferry; and a wait of several

The board, as will be noted, held out 70 ships. It conditionally reserved from the sale 50 vessels for use as pontoons to be used in building the proposed new bridge across the Hudson river. It announced that if the pontoon bridge company wanted them it could have them for $2,100 each, or $1,050,000 for the fifty, otherwise they, too, would go to the bidder for the fleet, to which the 205 vessels are to be sold. The bidder for the whole fleet also assented to the elimination of 20 ships, to be sold at higher prices.

The Scientific American has published an illustrated article on this proposed pontoon bridge which contains the following interesting information: It is now proposed to utilize the pontoon method of bridge building on a very extensive scale by a crossing of the Hudson river from Youkers to Alpine. The width from shore to shore is 5,700 feet, and the length of the pontoon bridge between the trestle approaches will be about 4,800 feet. Provision will be made for the passage of Hudson river steamers by building some form of drawbridge, probably of the lift type, across the main channel of the river. There will be enough clearance between the water and the under side of the bridge to permit of the passage of river tows and the smaller craft, without opening the drawspan.

The proposal to build a pontoon bridge at this point came first from Major W. A. Welch, engineer of the Palisades Interstate park commission. At present, because of the utterly inadequate facilities for getting across the river, the park is comparatively inaccessible to millions of New York city people. The matter was suggested to the major by the application of the shipping board for anchorage privileges, for idle wooden ships, in the Hudson river waters adjacent to the park. Major Welch suggested the use of the ships for a pontoon bridge to Mr. Otis H. Cutler, who is chairman of the Hudson River Bridge corporation, and he submitted the idea to Mr. Gustav Lindenthal, the designer of the Hudson river bridge. The undertaking was found to be entirely practical; in fact, Mr. Lindenthal had proposed the construction of a pontoon bridge across the Delaware at Philadelphia to assist the movement of military supplies during the war. This bridge would have been built but for the intervention of the armistice.

The bridge at Youkers will, of course, be an emergency bridge, built

SOME MORE EVERYDAY GOOD THINGS.

When one has a little leftover veal the following dish will be one worth considering.

Veal Stew.—Cut the remains of roast or cutlets into small morsels. Cover with cold water and cook over the simmering burner till very tender; add any remnants of gravy or of forcemeat and more seasonings if needed and bring to the boiling point. Thicken with a tablespoonful of flour or less of corn starch and cook ten minutes after adding.

Dumplings.—Take one cupful of flour, one teaspoonful of baking powder, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of salt and buttermilk to make a drop batter. Fresh milk may be used, adding a tablespoonful of butter to the flour mixture.

Potato Turnovers.—To one pint of hot mashed potato, seasoned well with salt, butter, cream and beaten egg, add one tablespoonful of flour and shape into round cakes rather thin. Place one tablespoonful of finely minced meat on top and fold over, pressing the edges together. Brush the top with egg and milk. Bake in a hot oven until well browned. Serve piping hot with Brown Sauce.—Put one tablespoonful of butter in a saucepan and when brown add one tablespoonful of flour, mix and then add one cupful of hot stock with salt and pepper with onion juice if desired for seasoning. A half cupful of finely minced mushrooms will be an addition.

Cream Scones.—Take one cupful of flour, one teaspoonful of baking powder, two tablespoonfuls of butter well rubbed into the flour, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, one well beaten egg and thin cream to make a mixture that will roll out, keeping it as moist as possible. Cut in diamond shapes, brush with egg, sprinkle with sugar and bake in a hot oven.

Coffee Creams.—Take one cupful each of strong coffee and thin cream, one-half cupful of milk, four eggs beaten, one-half cupful of sugar and a pinch of salt. Cook in cups set in hot water, baked in a moderate oven. Serve cold. Nice with scones.

DELICIOUS FRUIT.

We enjoy the delicate flavor as well as the beautiful color and aroma of our early fall fruits, but do we appreciate the wonderful color possibilities in the fruits we take as a matter of course? Try some of these when something dainty is needed to make an especial appeal to the appetite:

Muskmelon With Cream.—Scrub small melons of a deep orange meat and dry well; then cut in halves, removing the seeds. Cut nearly to the center with a sharp knife, making six or eight sharp-pointed petals, which will look like a golden lily. Place in the center a ball of any ice or cream, dust with cocoa or sprinkle with nuts, as desired.

When serving a half of a musk melon, select good ripe ones, wash them and chill well before serving. Serve on a bed of cracked ice. Do not put ice in the melon cavity. It dilutes the juice and destroys the delicate flavor.

Muskmelon Surprise.—Prepare muskmelons as above, cut in halves, scoop out the seeds and fill with watermelon balls. Use a good-sized potato cutter and scoop out the balls in the heart of the melon.

Strawberries a la Francaise.—Place a mound of powdered sugar in the center of a small glass or china plate and arrange around it a border of washed and drained, but unhulled strawberries. Serve for a luncheon beginning or for breakfast. The mound of sugar is made by pressing the sugar into a small glass or mold and unmolding on the plate.

Orange Salad.—Peel the oranges, freeing them from the white bitter principle lining the peel. Slice each orange into thin slices, arrange them in overlapping slices, garnish with candied cherries and serve with roast wild duck.

Muskmelon Cocktail.—Cut the melon in cubes or balls with a potato scoop, arrange in glasses, and pour over a heavy sirup, cooled, made by boiling a cupful of sugar and one-fourth of a cupful of water until smooth and thick. Then grate a generous sprinkling of nutmeg over the melon and serve.

Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Those who are in a "run down" condition will notice that Catarrh bothers them much more than when they are in good health. This fact proves that while Catarrh is a local disease, it is greatly influenced by constitutional conditions. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is a Tonic and acts through the blood upon the mucous surfaces of the body, thus reducing the inflammation and assisting Nature in restoring normal conditions. All Druggists. Circulars free. F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio.

Rotation of Venus. Observations of certain dark spots on Venus by Prof. W. H. Pickering appear to indicate a rotation period of 68 hours. He states that the motion of the spots was not from west to east, but from north to south, implying that the axis of the planet lies very nearly in the plane of its orbit.—Scientific American.

FOX SCARFS POPULAR

Mary had a little lamb, but that was in the distant past. Now she has a little fox—for everywhere that Fashion goes the fox is sure to go. Fox scarfs have proven themselves the most beloved of furs, and they are universally worn. There is a considerable range of color in them and a very great range of prices. In any case, the fur is soft, silky and becoming.

WITH THE FUNNY MEN

A HUMANE CONSTABLE.

The constable of a little country village was a man of exceeding good nature. One day, however, he found it necessary to lock up three tramps who had strayed into his jurisdiction.

Shortly after the arrest he was met by the mayor of the village, who, observing the constable hurrying down the main street, asked:

"Where are you going, constable?" "Oh," explained P. C. 49, "the three tramps I've just locked up want to play whist, and I'm out hunting for a fourth."—London Answers.

"You are a fortunate man," said the automobile tourist.

"How's that?" asked the farmer. "You are monarch of all you survey."

"I guess you are wrong, stranger. I still owe nine installments on that tractor you see, my hired man won't pay any attention to what I say, and there's a mortgage on the old home place."

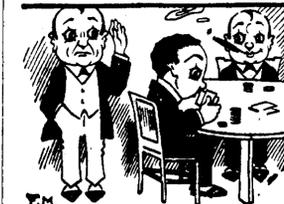

Misunderstood.

"Have you stove-lifters?" asked the little woman in the department store. "You'll find the derrick department in the basement, madam," replied the polite floorwalker.

Accommodating.

Her Father—The fact is that I cannot give my daughter a dowry just at present.

Suitor—That's all right. I can love her for herself in the meantime.

MEASURING THE CHANCES
Neverwed: C'mon. Just another round of jacks. If you go now your wife will have all the more time for a long jawfast.

Longweds: Nope. If I beat it now I'll catch her before she's had time to rehearse a long sustained effort.

Secret of Genius.

To win success with tongue or pen, the best plan seems to be To say the old things over again But say them differently.

Natural Phenomenon.

"Is there much activity in improved real estate around here?" "Yep, a little," said the native on the Arkansas shore.

"Sales?" "Nope, slides. 'Bout forty acres an' Pink Tolton's ginhouse slipped into the old Mississippi yistiddy."

Wants Him Busy.

Redd—That new chauffeur of yours is all right, I suppose? Greene—My wife don't think so. "What's wrong? He looks competent."

"Well, you see, wife thinks he ought to help out with Monday's washing!"

Irrepressible.

Guide (in historical section)—This handkerchief belonged to William Penn.

Waggish Tourist—Ah! The original Penn-wiper.—Boston Transcript.

At a Coast Resort.

"A dead calm today. But the motor is working all right."

"Why do they keep the sail up?" "For the benefit of people who think they're sailing."
