MEMORIAM

In loving remembrance of our dear husband and father who died May 7, 1921.

A precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is stilled;
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled.
God in his wisdom has recalled
The boon his love had given,
And though the body slumbers here,
The soul is safe in heaven.

MRS. W. B. DARROW,
AND FAMILY.

Possibly So.

A lady writer in one of the magazines announces that men are failures. Maybe she's right. We've never known a man who quite came up to all his wife thought he ought to be.

Compare Motor Car Values

THINK of a Ford Sedan with starter and demountable rims—a really high-class car having all the comforts and conveniences that go along with an enclosed job—selling for $600.

Compare it with any other car either open or enclosed, point for point, without even considering the hundreds of thousands now in use or the extensive Service Organization back of your purchase, and you will agree that the Ford Sedan represents a motor car value that cannot be equalled anywhere.

Let us take you for a ride in one.

FORMER SENATOR TAKEN BY DEATH

A. J. GRONNA, OF NORTH DAKOTA, WAS AN AUTHORITY ON FARM PROBLEMS.

AUTHOR OF FARM LOAN BILL

Had Re-Entered Political Ring As An Independent Candidate for G. O. P. Nomination for Senate.

Lakota, N. D.—Asie J. Gronna, former United States senator from North Dakota, died suddenly at his home here on the night of May 4. He was 64 years old. Mr. Gronna recently underwent an operation.

At the time of his death, Mr. Gronna, who had been ill for some time, was an independent candidate for the Republican nomination for the United States senate.

Mr. Gronna was regarded as an authority on farm problems during the years he served in the United States senate. He was author of several important bills, including the Federal Farm Loan and the Guaranty Bank Deposits Acts. He was chairman of the senate agricultural committee.

The former senator was born on December 10, 1858, in Elkader, Iowa. His parents brought him to Houston county, Minn., where he attended public school and the Caledonia academy. He taught school for two years in Wilmington, Minn., and moved to Dakota territory in 1879. Going to Duxton in 1881, he became clerk in a general store and postoffice.

In 1904 he was nominated for congressman and elected on the Republican ticket.

Mr. Gronna continued as congressman until February, 1911, when he resigned to enter the senate. In a triangular race for the Republican nomination in 1914 he defeated Andrew Miller, present United States district judge for North Dakota, and John Worst, then president of the state agricultural college. Another president of the college, E. F. Ladd, defeated Mr. Gronna for the Republican nomination in 1920. Several weeks ago Mr. Gronna announced himself as a candidate for the senatorial nomination. His announcement outlined a program in sympathy with the farm bloc movement in congress.

Mr. Gronna is survived by a widow, three daughters and two sons.

If American girls will take up religion as seriously as they have dress and business, religion will have the greatest revival of its history."

SAYS DETECTIVES KIDNAPPED HIM

BRITISH WAR HERO DECLARES TEXAS SENATOR PUT MEN ON HIS TRAIL.

EMBASSY WILL SIFT CHARGES

Love Affair Between Senator's Daughter and Youth Given as Cause for Attempted Deportation.

Bloomfield, N. J.—Alec Robertson, the young English war hero who says Burns detectives "kidnaped" him because the daughter of United States Senator Culberson, of Texas, returned his love, prepared to go to Washington and tell his story to officials of the British embassy.

Robertson has pledged himself not to involve 21-year-old Mary Culberson in any litigation which may be attended by publicity, but he says he feels it his duty as a British subject, to do as the embassy staff wishes. He has received a letter asking him to present himself in Washington immediately.

The letter from the British embassy also asks an explanation of why he did not respond to communications addressed to him by mail and wire during the time he says he spent in Boston with three Burns detectives, awaiting the departure of a vessel aboard which he had agreed to sail for South America.

These communications, Robertson says, he never received. In his first story, he told of being transferred to much more modest quarters in the New Richwood hotel after a night in the exclusive Adams house, one of Boston's finest hostels, and he now believes the switch was made to keep letters and wires from Washington out of his hands.

Mrs. Mary T. Andrews, in whose home here Robertson is visiting, is the person who took the initiative in halting the deportation-by-agreement of the youthful ex-Tommy.

Robertson already has told of having stopped in Washington to see Mary Culberson while on the way from Texas, where he had met her, to start on a new job he secured in Syracuse, N. Y. It now develops, according to Robertson's friends, that the youthful "ineligible" was trailed by private detectives from the moment he started north from Dallas. Presumably Miss Culberson's parents knew of the meeting of the young people within a very short time after they had greeted each other.

Charlie Hunt, a Negro porter in the yard office, was reproached by the white men for working for the road during the strike, police asserted and when he answered impudently the rock battle resulted.

Man Steals Home in Paris. Pasadena, Calif.—Somewhere in Pasadena is a thief who loves a home so much that he is stealing to get one. For weeks he has been collecting the component parts. For some time hardly a night went by that some small quantity of building material—a door, a window or a bath tub—was not stolen from some building under construction. Then—indicating, he was putting in his sidewalk—came thefts of cement. And then shrubs and plants were stolen.

NEIGHBORING NEWS

PONTIAC—Acquittal on the ground of insanity Friday night concluded the trial of David Luft, New Hudson farmer, who was accused of first degree murder for killing Jack Triggs, motion picture camera man and guard, whom he accused of having been intimate with Mrs. Luft. The jury was out about four and a half hours.

Statements of jurors revealed that there was no possibility of convicting Luft of the first degree charge after the first ballot was taken. It revealed the jury sentiment to be 11 to 1 against conviction on that charge. After several ballots the sentiment had swung to 11 to 1 for acquittal and within a few minutes afterward the verdict was reached.

Luft went at once to his home near New Hudson and said he will probably leave this section of the country.

Luft had authorized a sale of all his farm equipment as auction some time ago to provide money for his defense, and is unable to resume farming. A brother will take him to Hudson, Mich. for a visit and meantime his family is living with friends near Milford.

HOWELL—The Family Restaurant in the Culver block was formally opened to the public Thursday evening by the giving of a radio concert, the place being filled to its capacity from 7 until 10 o'clock.

Sidney Willetts, formerly with the public safety department of the State of Michigan, and Patrick Murningham, Howell restaurateur, are the proprietors of this new eating place, and have leased the store building owned and formerly occupied by Claude B. Culver, cigar manufacturer, lunch and soft drink counter, for a period of 24 years.

The new tenants will cater to both ladies and gentlemen and will be open night and day, serving regular meals and short orders. A special chicken dinner will be served Sunday.

CHELSEA—A veteran of the world war, who was both gassed and had lost both legs while in the U. S. army overseas, left the last electric car Sunday night and wandered about the street until morning. He claimed that he was a member of the American Legion, and that he was running away from the hospital where he had been and was on his way to his sister who resides in Chicago. He said that the artificial legs he was wearing were but temporary affairs and that the physicians told him that he had but a short time to live. He had a small amount of cash with him.—Standard.

BRIGHTON—The Grand River Sand and Gravel company has just completed the sinking of a six-inch flowing well, which has a pumping capacity of 500 gallons of water a minute. The force of the water brought up stones as large as the pipe. This well brings the company's pumping capacity up to 1,500 gallons of water a minute.

CHELSEA—The Lewis Spring & Axle Co. spring shop department has been taken over by the C. G. Spring Co. whose principle offices and shops are located in Kalamazoo, and the Chelsea branch is one of several other plants that are operated by this company. The Kalamazoo plant at present is being operated 24 hours per day and they are flooded with orders. Their plant is one of the oldest in the country.

The Chelsea branch is in charge of Mr. O. Duott, who has been with the company for several years. He has a number of Chelsea residents at work getting the shops in shape and the plant will be in full operation in a few days. Workmen will be added to the present force as soon as possible.—Standard.

Revival meetings are being held at the Methodist church in Hamburg. The meetings are in charge of the Free Methodist pastor, Jessie E. Ragats of Silver Lake. Rev. N. C. Beskin of Lansing, a converted Jew, is the evangelist. He is the son of a Jewish priest and was ordained a Rabbi at the Woleszye Rabbinical seminary in Russia.

EQUAL TO ALL DEMANDS

When your thoughts turn to spring wraps and you are distracted in trying to choose between the practicability of a coat and the graceful smartness of a cape, remember that it is easy to make a compromise. Some one has foreseen your difficulty in the choice of a wrap for all-round wear and solved it for you. The cape-coat is here in several delightful variations, one of them shown in the illustration.

Wool jersey or any of the soft, lightweight wool coatings, make wraps of this kind. Their capes are lined with crepe or satin, usually in a quiet contrasting color. The model pictured is equal to all weather emergencies. It is fastened with two large buttons and they make, with buttonholes, a smart decorative feature on the cape portion.

"Gringo."

The word "gringo," Mexican nickname for an American, is in Spanish dictionaries of many years ago. The word was first brought into the Spanish language from griego and the use of the French phrase "to speak in Greek," which was generally applied to persons who spoke in a tongue unintelligible to them. It is not, as has been stated, of Mexican war origin.—Dearborn Independent.

Stories of GREAT INDIANS
By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

Copyright, 1922, Western Newspaper Union
SHABBONA, A POTTAWATOMIE, "WHITE MAN'S FRIEND"

MANY Indians have shunned the name of "white man's friend" but to one it was a proud title. Shabbona, chief of the Pottawatomies, curiously enough, was neither a chief nor a member of that tribe by birth. He was an Ottawa, nephew of the great Pontiac. Having married a Pottawatomie woman, he was adopted into the tribe, given the name of Shabbona, "Built Like a Bear," and eventually was made peace chief.

Shabbona's first service to the whites occurred on the day of the Fort Dearborn massacre when he and Chief Sauganash saved John Kluzie, the trader, and his family from the blood-mad Pottawatomie warriors. During the Winnebago war of 1827 he won first the title of "the white man's friend" by persuading his people not to join the Winnebagos on the war-path.

But it was during the Black Hawk war that the Pottawatomie chieftain proved himself the white man's friend indeed. In February, 1832, Black Hawk attempted to form a confederation of the Sacs and Foxes, Pottawatomies and Winnebagos to fight the whites. White Cloud, the Winnebago chief, favored the union and declared that "if all the tribes will join us our warriors will be like the trees of the forest." "Yes," replied Shabbona. "But the soldiers of the whites will outnumber the leaves on the trees." The Pottawatomies did not join.

Shabbona was not content with holding his own warriors quiet. After Stillman's defeat had left the whole northern frontier of Illinois unprotected, he set out to warn the whites that the hostiles were coming. A few farmers persisted in staying and a second time the chief, facing death at the hands of Black Hawk's warriors, curried the alarm. The settlers who refused to heed this warning died in the dreadful massacre on Indian creek.

Shabbona served General Atkinson faithfully and well as a scout during the remainder of the campaign and for once in history a friendly Indian was rewarded by the whites. The government exempted Shabbona and his family from the order removing all the Pottawatomies to a reservation in Kansas and gave him a pension. But land speculators took possession of his tract while he was visiting his tribe. However, citizens who appreciated the value of his services raised money to buy land on the Illinois river and gave the old chief a home for the rest of his days.

He died there July 17, 1859, and is buried in Morris, Ill.

OSCEOLA, THE SEMINOLE, THE INDIAN HAMLET

AMONG all great Indians Osceola (Asi-yaholo—"Black Drink Halber") is the most romantic. A picturesquely dressed figure, his dark gloomy eyes gleaming beneath a turban decorated with three drooping ostrich plumes, he moves across the stage of Indian history—a red Hamlet.

Osceola was the principal leader in the Seminole war of 1835, which originated in a treaty made in 1821. It provided for the immediate cession of the Seminoles' best lands in Florida and their removal west of the Mississippi at the end of twenty years. When trouble over its execution developed in 1832 the Seminoles were offered another treaty requiring their removal within three years.

True Detective Stories THE FINAL DETAIL

Copyright by The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.

THE annals of crime disclose a surprisingly large percentage of cases in which the criminal, having spent months or even years in building up the superstructure of his scheme, makes a fatal blunder in connection with some apparently unimportant detail—a blunder which wrecks his entire plan and brings his operations to the attention of the authorities.

For example, the chances were more than a thousand to one that William Brockway, counterfeiter, being desirous of securing a proof of a plate on which he was working, would select a printer who was not a personal friend of a prominent detective. But chance, which so often plays a leading role even in true detective stories, directed him to a man who knew A. L. Drummond, of the United States Secret Service, well enough to call him by his first name.

"This man came into my place yesterday afternoon," reported the printer, "and wanted some proofs pulled of a plate which he had with him. I took one look at the plate and told him to come back today—said my machinery was out of order. He didn't leave the plate, but he didn't have to. I saw what it was—the figure $1,000, surrounded by a lot of scroll work.

"If he returns today," directed Drummond, "pull his proofs for him and hold one of them for me. A couple of my men will be outside your shop, so signal them and they will follow your customer."

The plan worked according to schedule and, shortly after receiving a proof of the mysterious plate, Drummond got word from his operatives that they had trailed the suspect to a house on Greenwich street. In addition, one of the government agents had recognized him as William F. Brockway known to be the most expert counterfeiter in the country and the man who had achieved fame by manufacturing $100,000 worth of bonds which the Treasury department had accepted as genuine—only to reverse its opinion some weeks later.

Drummond accordingly made a report of the entire matter to Washington, and forwarded a proof of the plate which Brockway had in his possession. To his amazement, the treasury officials stated that the figures and the scroll did not form a part of any government currency or bond issue and that, as federal funds could not be used except in the search for counterfeiters of money or government bonds, Drummond could not be permitted to handle the case.

Accordingly, all the data was turned over to the New York police, and Brockway dropped out of sight for nearly a year, until a rumor was passed along from Washington that the master counterfeiter was working on some coup which would be the biggest of his career.

Drummond knew where to find Brockway, but the secret service men had to work under a handicap, because the ex-convict appeared to have an uncanny way of knowing just when he was being followed. Then he would slip and twist and turn and lose himself, no matter how many men were trailing him.

As a last resort Drummond enlisted the services of his son, a boy of ten, whom he sent to the elevated station at Twenty-eighth and Sixth avenue, with instruction to play around there until he received a signal from two of the operatives. Brockway, not dreaming that the secret service had begun to use children as detectives, was unsuspecting and the boy followed him until he entered the St. James hotel, at the corner of Twenty-sixth and Broadway. With that much of the trail already blazed, it was easy to pick up the rest, and within a few days Drummond was notified that the counterfeiter divided his time between the St. James and a house on Lexington avenue. His associates were two men of about his own age, men whom Drummond recognized as Lewis Martin and Nathan Foster, both of them proficient in all branches of the work connected with the manufacture and passing of counterfeit money.

But even then, Chief Brookes of the secret service, declined to allow Drummond to handle the case officially, because all the indications pointed to a plot to counterfeit railroad bonds, rather than United States currency. It was only when Inspector Byrnes of the New York police force, asked permission to use Drummond as a private agent that Washington permitted him to continue with the case.

Using the proof of the "$1,000 scroll" as a foundation, Drummond searched through all the prominent bond issues listed on Wall street, until he found its counterpart—the central portion of the bonds of the Central Pacific railroad. Armed with this information, which was essential to the securing of a definite and specific warrant, Drummond raided the house on Lexington avenue and Martin's room at the St. James hotel. There, in addition to dies, seals and tracing paper, he found fifty-seven counterfeit $1,000 Central Pacific bonds, all of which were so perfectly executed that one of the officers of the company said he would not have had the least hesitation of cashing the coupons. Brockway had slipped up on only one detail, the choice of a printer to pull the proofs, but this slip cost him five years in the penitentiary.

HAS FIRST WELL DAY IN 6 YEARS

Huntington Citizen Could Neither Sleep Nor Eat With Any Satisfaction Before He Got Tanlac.

"Before taking Tanlac I had not seen a well day in six years," said W. R. Peoples, 3228 22nd St., Huntington, W. Va.

"It seemed like I had lost my health for good. I could neither sleep nor eat with satisfaction. I was badly run down, nervous, had no appetite and had to force down every mouthful I ate. Even then my food soured. I would fill up with gas until I had intense pains in my stomach and chest. Headache almost drove me mad, rheumatism in my arms, shoulder and hips kept me in pain all the time, and I had to force myself to work.

"Tanlac went right after my troubles. On four bottles I gained ten pounds and the rheumatism and stomach trouble soon left me. My wife has given a statement about the good Tanlac did her, and I am glad to add my endorsement of this wonderful medicine."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

BIBLE ASCRIBED TO SATAN
Evil One Declared to Have Assisted Monk to Perform Work for a Fearful Price.

One of the most famous copies of the Scriptures in existence is the one which bears the curious title, "The Devil's Bible." It is an exquisite piece of workmanship, inscribed on 300 asses' skins, and was taken to Stockholm at the conclusion of the Thirty Years' war.

According to tradition this Bible was the work of a poor monk who was condemned to death for some defect, but was told that the sentence would be commuted if he would copy out on asses' skins the entire Bible in a single night. He agreed to try to do it but, finding the task too great, made a compact with the devil to exchange his soul for the required transcript. The devil kept his part of the bargain, and the work was finished on time. The monk's life was spared by his marvelous judges, but tradition is silent as to how he kept his end of the agreement.

"Private property! Why, that is one of our most ineradicable instincts. A Southern planter once gave an old top hat of his to one of his slaves. He saw the slave returning from church the next Sunday in a rain-storm. The slave's head was bare. Rain beat on it and dripped from it in torrents. As for the top hat, he carried it carefully sheltered under his coat.

"Washington" called the planter, 'why don't you protect your head from the rain instead of protecting that worthless old hat?'

SUPERIORITY OF PUREBRED LIVE STOCK SHOWN BY RECENT INQUIRY

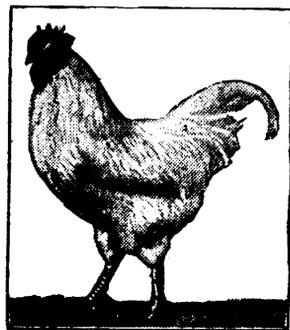

In Breeding for Dairy Cows it is important to Have a Purebred Sire—He Represents Half the Value of the Herd From a Breeding Standpoint.

(By D. S. Burch, Bureau of Animal Industry, United States Department of Agriculture.)

Purebred live stock has about 40 per cent greater earning power (apart from its breeding or sale value) than scrub stock.

The superiority of purebreds on a utility basis is due principally to: Better conformation and quality, increased production, more economical production, and earlier maturity.

When purebred sires are used to improve farm live stock the offspring is more salable than that of non-purebred sires and brings nearly 50 per cent greater returns.

The foregoing are a few results of a recent inquiry conducted by the bureau of animal industry, United States Department of Agriculture. The figures are based on about 25,000 head of breeding stock owned by 525 experienced live-stock owners. Besides, the same persons own 30,000 fowls on which the poultry results are based. All of these stockmen have for several years—an average of nine—used purebred sires to head their herds and flocks.

Figures Are Conservative.

The figures mentioned were obtained during the last part of 1921 in a period of marked depression in the live-stock industry. Partly for that reason they are considered conservative even though pointing to an unusually high value of purebreds over common stock.

The purpose of obtaining this new information was to supply an increasing demand for facts of greater scope than single short-time observations. With the development of the Federal-State campaign for "Better Sires—Better Stock" the Department has received an unusually large number of requests asking what purebreds can do for the man who does not aspire to become a specialized breeder. "What can I expect from purebred sires, or from both purebred sires and dams, as a utility proposition? That is essentially what scores of thoughtful people want to know.

Superiority of Purebreds.

The superiority, based on utility, of purebred over common stock is evident from the following figures:

Table with 2 columns: Class and Superior Earning Power. Rows include Dairy Cattle, Poultry, Swine, Sheep, Horses, Beef Cattle, and Goats.

The relatively high percentages representing the earning power of well-bred dairy cattle and poultry over scrubs are explained doubtless by the greater facilities for keeping production records of these classes of live stock, thereby contributing to their improvement.

A Profitable Investment.

The average reported increase in financial returns from live-stock operations, traceable to the use of purebred sires, was 48.0 per cent. This result includes the returns from both the sale of breeding stock and of animals and products for market. The data appear to show exclusively that well-bred animals are good property not simply for the experienced breeder but for every farmer willing to give them the proper care and opportunity to prove their worth.

The bureau has abundant evidence corroborating this belief. One farmer relates that the impelling force which prompted him to acquire purebreds was the need for more income. He reasoned that ownership of purebreds was not the proverbial wealthy man's diversion, but the poor man's necessity. He obtained the best foundation stock within his means and gave it good care; it increased his returns 100 per cent.

The inquiry shows that for the most part purebred animals of good type are readily obtainable. But special requirements or a desire for the less common breeds generally involve some difficulties and higher prices.

About 98 per cent of the purebred live-stock owners reporting to the Department were satisfied both with the purebreds themselves and the progeny, except when they expressed the desire for still better stock. As one breeder explained, the desire for improvement is necessary for progress. A few had unfortunate experience with purebreds of inferior quality and pointed out the need for making selections with great care. Practically all reports agreed on the principle that superior quality among purebreds themselves is invariably worth a higher cost.

Numerous sidelights on the raising of improved live stock under practical farm conditions and through different periods, including last year's period of depression, have been obtained from the reports. Following is a brief summary.

Character, Soundness and Good Conformation.

mary of the study to be dealt with more fully in a circular which the Department is preparing for publication.

Summary.

1. Based on utility alone (entirely apart from breeding or sales value) purebred live stock has an earning power from a third to one-half greater than scrub stock. The average superiority of purebreds over scrubs for all classes of farm animals is about 40 per cent.

2. Of the principal points in which purebreds excel other stock, the most prominent are: Superiority and uniformity in conformation and type, greater sale value, greater and more economical production, and earlier maturity.

3. Surplus purebreds are readily salable at satisfactory prices in a majority of cases; but sales and prices depend largely on the quality of stock as shown by breeding and production records, also on the business ability of the breeder.

4. With rare exceptions, purebred-sire users are satisfied with the quality of the offspring obtained, except that the desire is created in many cases to further improve the quality.

5. The progeny of purebred sires has practically a 50 per cent greater sale value than the progeny of non-purebreds.

6. Purebred sires of good quality are readily obtainable in the experience of three-fourths of the breeders reporting. The principal difficulties are: Paying the price and finding the desirable type, but there is practically unanimous agreement that the results justify the cost.

7. The average increase in financial returns, from live-stock raising, traceable to the use of purebred sires is 48 per cent.

8. Each breeder of purebred live stock influences, on an average, about nine other persons to raise superior animals.

9. Of the chief influences which cause farmers to become breeders of purebred live stock, the three foremost are: Reading agricultural periodicals and bulletins, general observation, and county agents.

10. The principal methods by which breeders expect to continue to improve their stock are: Use of superior sires, careful selection and mating, and use of superior females.

WITHOUT STREET ADDRESS
YOUR MAIL IS DELAYED
AT OFFICE OF DELIVERY

The Dead Letter Office has been in existence ever since Ben Franklin started our postal service. Even then people addressed mail to Mr. Ezekiel Smithers, "Atlantic Coast," and expected Ben to know just where Zeke lived.

Perhaps they had Zeke's address in letters up in the garret, maybe a chest full of 'em, but then it was easier to let Ben hunt Zeke. Today people are addressing letters to John Smith, New York, N. Y., or Chicago, Ill., thinking Uncle Sam can locate him, which is just as incomplete as was Zeke's address of yore. The Postoffice Department asks you to put the number and street in the address. It helps you.

Trinidad Col.

How do you expect the Postal Clerk to know whether you mean Trinidad, California, or Trinidad, Colorado?
ALWAYS SPELL OUT THE NAME OF THE STATE IN FULL IN THE ADDRESS.

MORE BUSINESS IN GOVERNMENT

This apt phrase was used in President Harding's first message to Congress and applies particularly in postal management where postmasters are being impressed with the fact that they are managers of local branches of the biggest business in the world.

HERE COMES A STRANGER!

Let's make our post office look neat, Mr. Postmaster. Straighten up the rural letter box, Mr. Farmer. Tidy up some, Mr. Rural Carrier. First impressions are lasting. Maybe Mr. Stranger, taking notice of these improvements, will come back, bringing you benefits. Start these with "POSTAL IMPROVEMENT WEEK" May 1-8.

HUMANIZING THE POSTAL SERVICE

"There is no unimportant person or part of our service. It is a total of human units and their co-operation is the key to its success. In its last analysis, postal duties are accommodations performed for our neighbors and friends and should be so regarded, rather than as a hired service performed for an absentee employer."—Postmaster General Hubert Work.

LEGION HOSPITAL FOR TB'S IS LIKE A FINE BIG CLUB

AN EVENING FIRE-SIDE SESSION AT LEGION TUBERCULAR HOSPITAL

"More like a club than a hospital" is the frequent remark of visitors at the American Legion hospital for tubercular patients near Battle Creek.

Every effort is made by the hospital staff, all of whom are American Legion members, to keep the surroundings cheerful so that the recovery of patients may be hastened.

The veterans who are now in the hospital are suffering from varying degrees of infection. Some are very ill indeed. Others need simply rest and skilful watching and diet. For these men especially, the Legion has made efforts to keep the hospital even brighter and more interesting at home.

This Legion hospital is the only one of its kind in the United States—a hospital for veteran tubercular patients only, and conducted entirely by ex-service men.

One of the hospital's warmest admirers is Senator Townsend of Michigan. He helped in the move to send many government cases there.

Before the end of the summer the hospital will have a capacity of 400 men.

TOO MUCH FOR SMALL MINDS

Childish Messengers Have Hard Time Remembering Names of Books They Are Sent For.

"I want 'Resurrection in the Parks,'" demanded a little chap of the librarian at the West Indianapolis branch library. "My brother said for me to get it for him."

The librarian did not wish to let the little chap know she was puzzled. She knew it was something that went on in the parks that the boy wished. The "resurrection," she decided, might be "recreation," and that was what she suggested. "That's it," smiled the little chap. "I knew I had that word wrong."

Librarians often deal with little brothers and sisters who are running errands for big brothers and sisters in high school. When one of the tots asked the librarian at the West Indianapolis branch for "Europe's Fables," the librarian smiled, for that was simple to translate into "Aesop's Fables." It was different when another asked for "Out of the Twist," the librarian then had to inquire diligently before she found that the child patron meant "Oliver Twist."—Indianapolis News.

Explanation Briefly Made.

Harold Knutson, Republican whip of the house, tells a yarn about an old fellow up in his country who has a job carrying the mail from the depot to the postoffice, "for all of which he gets $1 a trip."

Some of the boys around the grocery store the other night got to kidding the old chap about his job and, eventually, they asked him how much he made out of it.

"I make $1 a trip, three trips a day, $125 a month, or $3,000 a year," he said.

These figures not sounding just right, one of the boys sought to pin him down on his calculations.

"How do you make the $3,000 a year?" he asked.

"A-carryin' the mail," responded the carrier, and with "hose few words he departed."

OF PERCALE AND DIMITY

Polka dotted percale and white checked dimity make this pretty dress for little missy. It is in two pieces. The blouse of the dimity has a Peter Pan collar and turn-back cuffs adorned with feather stitching of silk floss. A white silk cord ending in small tassels is laced across the front of the bodice and a patch pocket at one side maintains that practical things can be pretty.
