MILK STATION FOR PINCKNEY

Percy Swarthout has sold the building on West Main street, now used as an undertaking establishment, to Morton and Pagel of Detroit, who will rearrange the building as soon as possible for a milk receiving station.

Morton and Pagel are in the baking business in Detroit in a large scale and bake millions of loaves of bread every year. They use large quantities of milk and have several receiving stations. They propose to buy milk here from producers and expect to pay prices agreed upon by the Farm Bureau and milk producers. The milk will be prepared for shipment here and sent to the city on trucks. It is claimed that milk producers on farms near Pinckney will receive more money for their milk than now as the prices for hauling milk will be decreased on account of shorter distance of transportation. Farmers now sending milk to Howell will appreciate the change.

The building they have purchased here was originally built for a creamery. It was later the Pinckney post-office, with Michael Fohey postmaster during the Cleveland administration. Later R. Clinto had a hardware stock there, after which Charles Plimpton used it for undertaking establishments.

Earl Day then used the building for a creamery and many farmers lost money through his mismanagement. He was convicted of fraud and served a sentence for this offense.

For some years Percy Swarthout has had undertaking parlors in the building and now again it is to be used as a milk house—for which it was originally constructed.

Guy F. Haney, residence, Flint, for the last eight years, who passed away October 31, following a month's illness from a broken leg, causing the death of one who we all esteemed as a worthy fellow companion, a kind and loving husband, father, son, and brother who was taken from them in his early manhood. He leaves to mourn, a bereaved wife, Mrs. Margaret Haney, two sons, Warren and J. C., of Flint; a mother, Mrs. Mary Haney and two sisters, Mrs. Geo. Divine of Dexter, Mich., and Mrs. J. L. WAR SAVING STAMPS

Although 1918 War Savings Stamps do not mature until January 1st, 1923, Postmaster W. E. Murphy announces that he will accept them on and after November 15th in exchange for the new 4 per cent Treasury Savings Certificates.

Every 1918 Stamp presented now will be accepted at its maturity value of five dollars if used as part payment for one or more new Certificates, dated January 1, 1923.

This opportunity should appeal to everyone who holds War Savings Stamps bought in 1918—whether he holds one Stamp or two hundred.

Postmaster Murphy is anxious to handle the bulk of these exchanges before the usual Christmas rush begins at the postoffice. All owners of 1918 War Savings Stamps should take notice and govern themselves accordingly.

MICHIGAN COW NEARS WORLD RECORD MARK

Holstein-Friesian Owned by Loeb Farms of Charlevoix Produces 35,000 Pounds Milk in a Year.

East Lansing, Nov.—Producing 35,339.5 pounds of milk in one year, a Michigan cow has just broken all previous state records and is said to have taken rank as the second highest producer in the world.

The new record holder is Kolrain Marion Findorne, a Holstein-Friesian owned and developed by the Loeb Farms of Charlevoix. She was seven years old last September, a month before completing her great record, Marion had already made very creditable figures at an earlier age, the recently announced yearly record mark being the culmination of her outstanding production achievements.

Supervision of the record made by the Charlevoix cow was handled by inspectors under the staff of the dairy division at the Michigan Agricultural College, and the official figures on her record were released this week by M. A. Gardner, of Delavan, Wisconsin, Superintendent of Advanced Registry for the United States.

Fat contained in the 35,339.5 pounds of milk produced in 365 days ending on October 26, 1922, totals 1,022.83 pounds. She freshened at the age of six years one month, and eight days, at the beginning of the test. Twelve supervisors were employed in the conduct of the test, 275 days of which were "strictly official," with a supervisor constantly in attendance.

The record of Kolrain Marion Findorne ranks her as one of the greatest milk cows of all time, and is considered as a distinct achievement for Michigan dairy interests.

Choleric Writer.
 The late Edgar Saltus, a popular novelist some thirty years ago, is said to have been one of those unfortunate ones who take a rejection as personal. When anything of his was returned by the Atlantic he insisted on reasons, and when T. B. Aldrich, then editor, gave them Saltus flew into a temper. An inflammatory letter from him left Aldrich undisturbed. He smiled at it, but never answered it.—Indianapolis Star.

THANKSGIVING DAY PROCLAMATION

"Enter into His gates with thanksgiving, and into His courts with praises be thankful unto Him and bless His name."

We have come again to the season of the year when, in accordance with the devout custom established by our fathers more than three centuries ago, we formally set apart a day of thanksgiving and praise to Almighty God for all His mercies and blessings.

We have every reason for thankfulness. Our fields and orchards and vineyards have yielded richly of their products. Our people have been sober, industrious and steadfast. Industry and enterprise have translated the varied and unlimited resources of our commonwealth into wealth and happiness for all who have had the initiative and the capacity to do and achieve. While we face a new day big with many perplexing problems, may our faith in the integrity of American institutions be rededicated to the government which has always symbolized the best that has been achieved since the struggle for representative government began. Therefore, by virtue of the authority vested in me as Governor of the State of Michigan, I hereby join the President of the United States in designating Thursday, November 30th, 1922, as a day of Thanksgiving and prayer.

SERIOUSLY INJURED BY CAB DRIVER

Miss Irene Clark, 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Clark who live on a farm about six miles east of here on the Grand River road, sustained severe bruises and it is feared internal injuries when she jumped from one of the Detroit-Lansing busses in front of her home Friday evening while the bus was traveling at the rate of at least 30 miles per hour.

Miss Clark had been employed in the family of Kyle Pinney, Brighton aviator, and desiring to return to her home, a distance of about four miles out of Brighton village took one of the through auto usses operating on the Grand River road between Detroit and Lansing, but making any local stops desired.

She was the only passenger and occupied the front seat with the driver, the rear of the car seemingly to be full of baggage.

After going a short distance the driver offered her a cigarette, and upon her refusal pulled a bottle of liquor from the back of the car and invited her to drink with him. Resenting his advances Miss Clark asked him to stop the car and when he refused she opened the door and made several attempts to jump out, but each time he held her back and when Benjamin's corners was reached, where there is a sharp turn in the Grand River road, he attempted to drive straight ahead.

Miss Clark, who drives a car herself, turned the steering wheel and also states that several times during the trip she had to guide the car to prevent it going into the ditch.

The Clark residence is on the peak of a rather steep hill and the frightened girl thought she would make another attempt to jump while making the incline, but the driver increased his speed when she told him she lived on top of the hill and she jumped regardless of consequences.

She was thrown against an embankment and her arm, shoulder and hip badly bruised and has had no use of her right arm since the accident although the bone apparently is not broken. Rushing into her parents' home, Miss Clark swooned and it was some time before she was able to clearly state what had happened. Her father immediately telephoned to Howell and all other stations to stop all incoming busses but the driver was not apprehended.

It is thought he was transporting liquor and he will be sought on that charge and also on the charge of driving while intoxicated.

The girl left a valuable traveling bag in the car when she made her perilous plunge and it has not yet been recovered.

The driver is said to be a young married man residing in Detroit. The injured girl was brought to Howell Saturday and swore out a warrant for the man's arrest.

The man is known at both the Howell and Brighton hotels where he makes his stops for passengers, he having been on the line for some time and his identification will be easy as the girl is able to give a detailed description of him.

The passengers in another of the Detroit-Lansing busses left the car at Howell the same evening on account of the driver being intoxicated, so the passengers allege.

Howell, Nov. 14.—The case against Claud St. Denis, driver for the National Auto Transit Co., for whom a warrant was issued charging reckless driving and intoxication by the parents of Miss Irene Clarke, has been discontinued, according to announcement Tuesday at the prosecutor's office.

The warrant against St. Denis, who operates a Studebaker car between Detroit and Lansing was withdrawn following settlement for damages and for a traveling bag which was lost when Miss Clarke jumped from the car Saturday night.

Settlement was made Monday by Mrs. St. Denis. Her husband is 47 years old, and for some time has been operating an independent line between Detroit and Lansing. Recently he joined the National Transit line.—State Journal.

Folklore of High Importance.
 Inestimable value may be derived from the study of folklore in all its branches, and principally from its music and poetry. Where history relates deeds of extraordinary import, folklore with its songs enables us to analyze the elements that were responsible for them and uncovers the causes for these deeds. While history deals with the outward actions of men, folklore deals with their thoughts.

Tommy Smiles

Tommy is by turns the delight and the bane of his teacher's life; but even when he has pulled Frances Mary's pigtail and "lost" three marbles down the centre aisle, she wouldn't trade him, not for fifty straight-spined little boys.

It isn't quite an ordinary school-room where Tommy goes. Sometimes there are twenty boys and girls there; sometimes almost twice as many; but afterwards, half of them, perhaps, must rest on their cots; and never do any of them miss taking "temp" twice a day.

They are all pupils in the school at the state tuberculosis sanatorium at Howell, and each of them must fight months or years for his chance of life and strength and future usefulness.

Tommy, for instance, has bone tuberculosis, and his head is sunken between his shoulders, and his twisted little body crooked for all time. Nine years old, he is scarcely the size of a well-developed youngster of six.

But sympathy? Not for Tommy, who smiles at the world all day long! He hasn't a home, hasn't had one for years, but since he has come to Howell, he has made friends in every department of the sanatorium. He is happiest of all in the school-room, for he has never before been able to go to a real school with desks and black-boards, and classmates to play with, and a teacher to love and torment.

Sympathy for Tommy, who must pay in suffering and deformity for the ignorance and neglect of the grown-up world?

They do not ask for sympathy, Tommy and his schoolfellows, and the less fortunate youngsters in Michigan, for whom tuberculosis though they are, room cannot be made in the overcrowded sanatoria. All of them front disease and deformity with a smile. But can you and I and the rest of us comfortable people, who let them contract a cruel and preventable malady, smile too?

CLOTHES FOR VERY YOUNG MIMIC THOSE OF GROWN-UPS

A REVIEW of the display of clothes for little girls reveals many style points already familiar in modes for their elders. Designers have apparently concluded to appropriate as many features of the mode as possible in miniatures that promise to sell readily, but they have supplemented these with other things distinctly childish. In fabrics they have given much attention to velveteen, and it is shown in frocks for little girls, decorated with cross-stitch embroidery in colored yarns, with fancy narrow silk braid or with other fabrics, as black and white wool checks, or plain angora cloth. For dressup frocks and party dresses, crepe de chine, georgette and taffeta silk, trimmed with narrow metal-edged ribbons and gay little bunches of ribbon flowers, or tiny fruits, are prominent. The heavier crepes are also used and frocks of these crepes in bright red, sometimes with strap trimmings in black, are made much of. Bright red is liked for party frocks of georgette or light crepe de chine and petal trimmings are used on them, the petals of the same material and having pleated edges. One color and one material is a safe guide to follow in making party frocks, especially in vivid shades, and georgette or crepe de chine make tiny roses, circles and petals that are artfully used in straight-hanging, short-sleeved dresses. In outfitting the little girl, from four to fourteen, knicker suits are not to be overlooked. Plain and checked wool fabrics are attractively combined in them, one suit in beige and blue showing knickers of plain blue, gathered in to bands below the knees in blue and beige check. The long blouse, in the middie style, is of the checked goods, and a blue leather belt with metal links makes the smartest kind of finish. A good example of the velveteen frock is pictured here. Brown, black and blue are favorite colors, with gay colors, usually, in the embroidery.

RED CROSS NOTES

Lansing, Mich., Nov.—The Great World's War is only over in so far as actual fighting is concerned. The great problems of reconstruction and rehabilitation which have been left as a result of the conflict are still with us and must be met. There are literally thousands of ex-soldiers who will yet need hospital care and are still dependent on the offices of the Red Cross during the process of the adjustment of their claims with the government. These facts are being emphasized not only by officers and directors of the organization but are also endorsed by organized ex-service men as vital reasons why the public should lend its earnest aid to the success of the Annual Roll Call of the Red Cross which is now in progress.

At the recent national convention of the American Legion in New Orleans, resolutions were adopted strongly endorsing the Red Cross and the work that it was doing for the ex-soldiers, but also urging the service men to enroll in the membership drive.

A telegram received at the headquarters for Michigan says: "The strength of the American Red Cross is in its membership. It is hoped that every ex-service man who remembers the favors of service days, appreciated the help constantly given to his less fortunate comrades, and who realizes the value of a great, willing and efficient organization prepared to alleviate distress without regard to numbers, race or creed, will let no minor consideration prevent his showing in the most practical way at hand, that is by enrolling as a member of the American Red Cross, the high place which that body holds in the estimation of the American Legion."

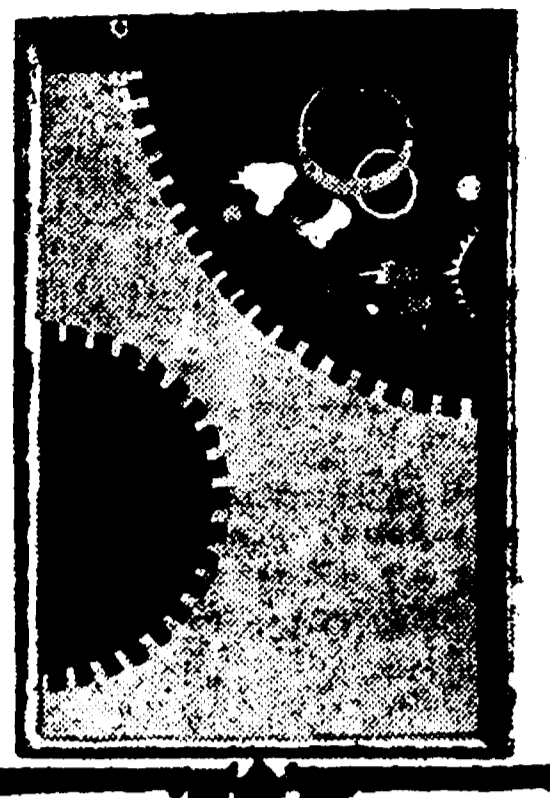

In addition to these hearty endorsement from ex-soldiers, the state headquarters are now receiving assurances from practically all parts of the state that there is a growing realization of the work of the Red Cross, and that hundreds of former members again desire to be enrolled in the ranks. An imposing array of figures is on file in the office of the state director, showing the work that has been done by the organization during the past year. In some counties the aid given to ex-soldiers and their families has numbered into the thousands when measured in dollars, and in the state at large more than two hundred thousand dollars have been used in this work.

During the recent outbreak between the Greek and Turks, the American Red Cross was literally the only organization offering relief to distressed victims. During the Chinese famine of the past few months, the Red Cross was the foremost agency of relief, which was also true in the case of numerous disasters in this country. For these reasons Herbert C. Hoover declares that a membership of ten million is necessary in order that the Red Cross may adequately fulfill its charter obligations and meet the demands that will be placed upon it.

Live Chicks Shipped Afar.

Through Ohio, Indiana and Iowa hundreds of thousands of live chicks, but a few days out of their shells, are shipped to Manitoba, Canada, every spring. The seasons are so late up there, says Consul General Britain, in a statement to the Department of Commerce, that it is difficult to procure fertile eggs in sufficient quantities early enough to supply the demand for young chickens and to produce birds for breeding purposes. The snow remains on the ground until April and the chickens cannot get out on their runs until late, and in order to obtain young chicks at an early date, large quantities are imported from this country as early as March. Heated cars keep the youngsters warm, and, generally speaking, the loss in consequence of the long haul and bad weather is insignificant.
