OBITUARY

Francis A. Farmington was born in the town of Dec. 1876, near Plainfield where he grew to manhood. He had remained at home until the death of his father. After the death he attended school at Adrian a few years. Then he took a trip to northwest Canada where he spent a few months after which he returned to his childhood home.

In 1912 he was united in marriage to Miss Lessie Ramsdell of Stockbridge township. To this union four children were born, Lyle H., Ila Bell, Francis W. and Helen. These children with the mother are left to mourn the loss of a dear father and husband. He also leaves one sister, Mrs. Geo. Bland of Pinckney, a nephew, Robert Burns of Jackson and one niece Mrs. L. A. Bentley of Corunna, and a host of friends. Life to Frank meant a work for his loved ones. He was a loyal neighbor and a good Christian man.

His sudden death on Dec. 17 has cast a gloom over the entire community and everyone realizes keenly the loss of a strictly honest and upright neighbor and friend.

Funeral services were held in the Plainfield M. E. church, Rev. Van Doren officiating. Interment in Plainfield cemetery.

A CLOSE CALL

Another one of those narrow escapes from serious injury or worse happened one day last week when Mrs. W. H. Meyers' car became unmanageable on account of a defective steering gear.

The car was swerving from one side of the road to the other, when Mrs. Meyer finally drove it up an eight feet embankment, crashing through a barbed wire fence and finally coming to a standstill in a field.

Mrs. Meyer was somewhat dazed when reached by passersby but except for the nervous shock and lameness from being jammed against the steering wheel, was not injured.

Timber Uninjured by Fire. Investigations made by the United States Forest products laboratory indicate that timber cut from insect or fire-killed trees is just as good for any structural purpose as that cut from live trees of similar quality, provided the wood has not been subsequently injured by decay or further insect attack.

Paper for Car Wheels.

The bureau of standards says the only case it knows of where wheels are made out of paper-mache is in Pullman cars. Pullman car wheels have been made very successfully by gluing together a large number of plates of cardboard with two outside plates of thin metal and surrounded by steel tire.

Easy Deduction.

"Now, Archibald, tell me what an engineer is," said the teacher. "He is a man who works an engine," replied Archibald. "Correct," said the teacher. "Now, William, can you tell me what a pioneer is?" "Yes, sir," answered William, "he's a man who works a plow."

Different Types of Bee Bees.

There are 40 different types of bees used at sea, each of which has a meaning of its own. That of a green color, for instance, marks a wreck, while others similarly distinctive show where rocks, shoals, sandbars and deep-water channels occur.

MICHIGAN SEED SPUDS OUTYIELD ALL RIVALS

Tests in Neighboring States Show Production Superiority of Local Potatoes

Outyielding native potatoes by wide margins, certified seed potatoes from Michigan have made a name for themselves in many neighboring states during the past season, according to reports just given out by H. C. Moran, secretary of the Michigan Potato Producers Association and extension specialist at the Michigan Agricultural College.

In Pennsylvania, Michigan certified seed potatoes grown on 64 farms in Butler county, outyielded home-grown seed stocks by 33.3 per cent. Two thousand acres planted in Michigan seed in various parts of the same state showed increase of 30 per cent above the average home-grown seed.

Reports from Ohio and Delaware show similar results. Six growers in the Buckeye state averaged an increase of 77.5 bushels to the acre with Michigan seed, while demonstrations in Maryland brought 18.5 bushels to the acre of increase.

Even in Michigan the certified seed produced by members of the Potato Producers Association under inspection service by M. A. C. specialists, has resulted in greatly increased production. Twenty-five state growers, according to Moore, report yields which average an increase of 73.8 bushels.

Another report from Ohio comes from the Ohio State University news service: "Having bought a car and a half of Michigan seed potatoes last year, 80 members of the Morrow county (Ohio) farm bureau decided to check up to see if it had paid them. The first seven farmers to report give an average yield of 112 bushels to the acre for the Michigan seed, compared with 102 bushels for home-grown seed. Ninety per cent of the Michigan seeded crop and 69 per cent of the crop from Ohio seed were salable."

STATE NOW RAISES OWN ALFALFA SEED

Monroe County Takes Rank As Leading Production Center For Alfalfa Seed

With the production of a dozen carloads of alfalfa seed during the past season, Monroe county has taken rank as one of the leading alfalfa seed producing counties of the country, according to Prof. J. F. Cox, head of the farm crops department at the Michigan Agricultural College, who has just completed a survey of seed production in this section of the state.

Demand for hardy, adapted strains of alfalfa for planting in the state makes the Monroe county source of more than 8,000 bushels of home-grown seed of importance to Michigan farmers generally, and points to development of the alfalfa seed producing industry in the state.

As more is understood of alfalfa seed production in Michigan it is likely that this industry will increase. When the state produces a large percentage of her own good seed, the alfalfa crop will be on a much safer basis. The achievement of the Monroe county farmers this year indicates the possibilities along this line.

The seed being produced in this section practically all traces back to an original strain grown by Clemeat Le Beau more than 37 years ago. For three years the farmers of the territory, mostly in three townships in the northeastern part of the county, have been producing seed in considerable quantities for commercial sale, and the favorable 1921 market resulted in a very large crop this season.

Much of the seed will be available for Michigan farmers, the State Farm Bureau Seed Department and several large Michigan seed companies having secured several thousand bushels for distribution in the state.

Taker of First Whale Honored.
Among the Eskimo communities great honor is paid to the boat which catches the first whale of the season.

Cheerfulness Goes Far.

Marvelous Work of Nature.
The fly's wing is one of the most perfect and delicate pieces of mechanism Nature has ever produced.

Food is Food to Him.
The Indian of the Brazilian wilds appeases his hunger with rats, snakes, alligators and parrots.

TAX REVISION TO RECEIVE ATTENTION

LEGISLATURE CONVENING JAN. 3 MAY GIVE FIRST ATTENTION TO STATE TAX PROBLEM.

DRASTIC PROPOSALS EXPECTED

Inquiry Commission's Recommendations Are Aimed to End Inequalities Now Known to Exist Lansing—With battle lines already forming over some of the expected recommendations of the legislature's tax inquiry commission, revision of the state tax laws will be a fruitful source of milling in the 1923 session which opens January 3.

Drastic proposals are looked for in the commission's report, which likely will be incorporated into Governor Alex J. Groesbeck's annual message and because the co-related bills are understood to be ready, taxation probably will be one of the first issues taken up.

Although Governor Groesbeck and Attorney General Merwin Wiley, as executive members of the commission, took scant interest in the public hearings, they were in frequent conference with the commission members, and it can be depended upon the report expresses the governor's wishes. Chairman George Lord prepared it and other members concurred unanimously.

Contents of the commission's report are being carefully guarded but developments in the commission's hearings make it appear likely these are some of the matters to be covered:

Removal of tax exemptions on bonds. Move to secure declaration of intangible property, with spreading of ad valorem taxes, at a rate considerably lower than the general ad valorem rate, against its assessed valuation.

Proposed enactment of a gasoline tax of one cent per gallon. Adjustment of the present corporation tax rate so as to remove inequalities in the minimum and maximum limitations.

Application of primary school fund money, in a limited number of extreme cases, to general fund uses. (This recommendation would seek to equalize the present excessive burden on general property in communities where railroad property, subject only to specific primary school fund taxes, makes up an unusual part of the aggregate assessed valuation.)

to the Cross Rip lightship on their way across the sound, bound from Oak Bluffs, Martha's Vineyard, to Nantucket.

The daily papers are delivered on the outward bound trip, which begins at New Bedford. When the island steamer is almost half way across the sound and nearly abeam of the lightship members of the crew roll up small bundles of papers, tying them securely with twine and line themselves along the rail. The helmsman of the steamer brings his vessel as close as possible to the lightship, sometimes within 15 feet, and the news paper deliveries let go their volley.

It is a poor day when half a dozen rolls of paper do not land aboard for the men so far from land and otherwise newsless. Sometimes the bundles drop alongside and are fished up with long-handled nets.

The tuberculosis clinic with its bare chest examinations, is of first and last importance in combating consumption. Through the clinic doubtful cases are diagnosed early enough to permit the successful treatment of the disease, and convalescent patients are guarded against the danger of a hidden relapse.

Loss of appetite and decrease in weight are symptoms which call for a thorough chest examination, for a deranged stomach is often one of the first signs of tuberculosis. Just at this period, when the patient believes himself only the victim of "stomach trouble" or "overwork", the clinic can render invaluable service by diagnosing the disease so early that there is every chance for its permanent arrest.

The safest course for the man in doubt is to have a chest examination. The examination certainly will not give him tuberculosis, if he is free from the disease; and if he really has it, early discovery of the fact may be his salvation.

At the other end of the story is the convalescent, the discharged sanatorium patient. A return examination is a safeguard for him which should under no circumstances be neglected.

Age of Trees.

The Tortworth chestnut, in England, figures upon a charter dated 1135, and so is probably well on toward its tenth century, and there is an oak at Tilford, near Farnham, which was there in the year 1250.

SINCE the mode calls for long knitted wool gloves, no longer will wintry winds send shivers of discomfort up one's loose flowing coat sleeves. Who of us has not experienced that feeling of chilled wrists and cold hands, just because our otherwise protecting coat or fur wrap has an open cuff or flare? Especially is there discomfort in the long cape when one is forced to reach out from beneath its comfortable folds. Thanks to the new knitted gloves, some of which reach almost to the elbow, this exposure of arms and hands is in the past.

With all due respect to the comfort-giving qualities of the knitted gloves, it is in handsome appearance that they make their greatest appeal. They add a decidedly up-to-the-moment touch to one's street or sports costume.

School girls delight in wearing these long knitted gloves with their slip-on sweaters. They are popular not only for sports wear, but pulled up over the snug cloth sleeve of one's tailored suit, the knitted glove presents the chic of a Parisian mosquitoire.

Various styles are represented in these knitted gloves from gauntlet to long close-fitting types. They range from plain-knitted stitch, perfect fitting, to exquisite types in brush wool which have in their fine fineness no trace of clumsiness.

A few knitted glove suggestions are represented in the accompanying illustration including: pair of brown gauntlet knitted gloves with buff border; knitted brush wool gauntlet gloves in brown heather with green and brown-striped top; also a pair in purple heather tones, with brown and buff-checked top. One finds a broad assortment of heather mixtures in any color combination desired.

In choosing a pair of these jaunty gloves here are some interesting details which go to make up the most desirable styles, namely: fine ribbed-stitch fingers; rack-stitch palms; pliable ribbed-stitch wrist piece, and those with three ribs on the back of the glove as illustrated here.
