BIRD'S GARAGE

BURGLARIZED

Last Friday night R. Day Birds Ford Service Station was entered by thieves and tires valued at $150.00 were taken. The entrance was made through the cellar.

It has been customary for several months past to have one of the employees stay at the garage all night and sleeping quarters were arranged for that purpose, but on that particular night the watchman was in Pontiac. This was the only night for several months that he was not there. Several of a local gang suspected of thievery were around town that night and as it was known the watchman was absent they are suspected of knowing about the burglary.

Since election there has been more activity in the thieving line in this vicinity and it would seem that as the terms of Sheriff Hoff and Prosecutor Van Winkle are nearly expired, that the guilty ones are relying on less activity on the part of the county peace officers.

KATHRYN McGRAW

Was born in Plainville, Oswego county, N. Y., June 1, 1854 and died at her home in Pinckney, Nov. 29, 1924.

She was the first child born to Peter and Margaret McGraw after their arrival from Ireland, two others having been born in the home country.

At the age of 18, she was united in marriage to Richard Mitchell of Pinckney. To this union were born eight children, six of whom survive: George of Dansville; Dell and Fred of Boyne City; Mrs. John Roberts and Arthur Mitchell of Gregory, and Will of Kern, Oregon.

In 1888 Mr. Mitchell died leaving his wife with the care of seven children. Later she was united in marriage to McClure Hinchey. One son survives this union, McClure Hinchey, Jr., of Howell.

About two years after this union Mr. Hinchey died and in 1894 the widow became the wife of Wm. Bullis, to which union one daughter was born, Mrs. Alta Meyer of this place. Mr. Bullis died in 1911.

Besides the children Mrs. Bullis leaves 20 grandchildren and 2 sisters, residing in Howell.

Her three score and ten years of industrious activity, until late in September, when she became the victim of a fatal illness. Her two month struggle against disease was marked by a courageous determination to recover, a struggle which was aided by the best of loving care, her children remaining in almost constant attendance upon her, and one daughter-in-law, Mrs. Hannah Mitchell, of Boyne City, devoting her whole time to the care of the stricken one.

Funeral services were held at Pinckney, Saturday afternoon at 1:30.

KING'S DAUGHTERS MEET

Mrs. S. Harger entertained the King's Daughters at her home last Thursday afternoon. The regular devotional and business meetings were held, including a report of the State Convention at St. Johns by Mrs. Milo Kettler, and the reading of a letter from the National headquarters of the King's Daughters' organization, requesting a general observance of the Golden Rule Sunday in behalf of the Near East Relief. Mrs. L. C. Rogers favored with two excellent vocal solos, with Miss Blanche Martin as accompanist, and Mrs. R. Day Bird gave a pleasing instrumental number. A luncheon was served.

SUNDAY SCHOOL NOTES

The Wobelo Girls were very pleasantly entertained last Friday evening at the home of Mary Brown. Games were enjoyed and a dainty luncheon served.

Reports of the Older Boys' Conference at Muskegon were given Sunday by Alonzo Van Slambrook, Stacey Hall, and Andrew Campbell.

STORE AT PARKER'S CORNERS BURGLARIZED

Monday night the store at Parker's Corners, owned by George Allen, was entered by thieves and goods valued at about $150.00 were taken.

The burglary was not noticed until morning when the store was opened up for business as usual. Sheriff Hoff was at once notified and steps were immediately taken to ferret out the burglary if possible. The stolen goods consisted chiefly of men's wearing apparel.

WASHINGTON SIDELIGHTS

Farmer Has a Friend in White House

WASHINGTON.—In his first address after the national election, President Coolidge assured delegates attending the meeting here of the Association of Land Grant Colleges that the government would omit no effort to prevent repetition of recent difficulties encountered in agriculture.

Speaking of the immediate future, Mr. Coolidge warned that more attention must be given by farmers to the marketing problem so that the "abnormal and war-stimulated surpluses" may be disposed of. He then pointed to a period he said was "fast approaching" when this nation would be one of the greatest agricultural buying countries and the problem would be the maintenance of a "prosperous, self-reliant, confident agriculture in a country preponderantly commercial and industrial."

Education by the land grant colleges looking to "wise and intelligent farming co-operation in all business operations which affect the farmer," Mr. Coolidge declared, would be one of the main agencies for protection of this industry. He also stressed the value of organizations and methods seeking economies and greater efficiency in producing and distributing.

The President urged that the educators and farm leaders turn their attention to scientific marketing. The agriculture problem of today, he insisted, was not on the side of production but on the side of distribution. Too little thought had been given to this phase, he added.

"Up to the present time," Mr. Coolidge continued, "the main emphasis of our agricultural education has been placed upon production. I believe that was right, because unless there is economy and efficiency in production there is no need for thought in any other direction. But our experience of the last few years has demonstrated that it is by no means enough. The farmer is not only a producer, he is likewise a merchant. It does him no good to get quantity production, in fact it may do him harm, unless he can likewise have scientific marketing."

"It has been attested by all experience that agriculture tends to discouragement and decadence whenever the predominant interests of the country turn to manufacture and trade. We must prevent that in America. I believe the land grant college is the main great agency for its prevention. It has added a new element to the equation which has never before been in it. You must make that element decisive."

Women May Be Enlisted in U. S. Army, if—

A STUDY of the part women played in the World War, with a view to "the utilization of women in all branches of the military service in case of future emergency involving a maximum of effort" has been undertaken by the War department. A questionnaire has been sent to all commanding generals of corps areas and department chiefs, asking for information, and the move has stirred up no little interest in military circles.

The War department's action is the result of recommendations from committees of the Army War college and from officers of the general staff that a study should be made of the advisability of organizing a Women's Army corps, in which the women would be regularly enlisted and uniformed.

So far the movement is in the nature of a historical study and nothing definite has been determined regarding an organization. Some of the department officials believe, however, that if a women's army service corps were organized as a result of the investigation, it would be advisable to place a woman in command, assigning her to the general staff.

While the advisability of using women in "all branches of the military service" will be considered by the survey, it was said today that there was no idea of using them in combatant organizations.

In describing the purpose of the investigation the letter sent to commanding officers says that during the World War 250,000 women were in military service with the British army. The lowest estimate of women serving with the United States army overseas and in this country is 90,000; this includes welfare workers, clerks, telegraph and telephone operators, dietitians, cooks, waitresses, laundresses, matrons, tailors, post exchange workers and women employed in the Reclamation service.

It will be necessary to utilize women in the military service in time of war; to promote the efficiency of the army; because women will not be satisfied if they are not permitted to serve in an emergency.

A study is being made to consider: The needs of the various branches of the army; the advisability of employing these women as civilians under military control; or of organizing a Women's Service corps similar to Queen Mary's Army Auxiliary corps; to form the basis of a plan for the War department general mobilization plan.

Uncle Sam Het Up Over Muscle Shoals

SENATORS who favored the Ford bid for Muscle Shoals are seeking the aid of Western senators for a compromise government plan of operation for the properties to be submitted to congress.

At the same time Secretary Weeks is taking steps to ascertain the scope of his authority to contract for the temporary disposition of power generated at the plant, should congress fail to make final disposition of the properties prior to completion of Wilson dam next July.

Should congress fail to dispose of the question and should the secretary find himself without authority to lease the output of the plants, they would lie idle.

Senator Norris (Rep., Neb.) has submitted a government operation plan, and leasing advocates of the Ford bid, convinced that Mr. Ford has withdrawn from the competition, are seeking a plan having features of the Norris proposal, but considerably amended.

Secretary Weeks asked Major General Hull, judge advocate general of the army, to furnish him with an opinion as to his powers in handling the properties. General Hull advised Secretary Weeks it was his opinion that the federal government has ample authority to sell to private and commercial enterprises power generated by the Wilson dam.

While there may be some difficulty in finding companies willing to make short term leases for all the power developed, nearby power companies are known to be prepared to take a large part of it.

Secretary Weeks conferred with Elton H. Hooker of New York, who has been at work for some time on a proposal for the creation of a gigantic chemical and industrial plant at Muscle Shoals. The conference was one of a series which have been held by the two during the last year. It was said that Mr. Hooker hoped to have his proposal in shape for submission to congress at the forthcoming session.

Nearly 200 members of the Illinois Manufacturers' association recently made a two days' inspection of the Muscle Shoals power project. The Illinois Manufacturers want to get a first hand idea of the power situation in order to know how to swing their united strength when congress takes up the Muscle Shoals problem in December.

"Look to the West for Office-Holders!"

ALTHOUGH President Coolidge made it known that he contemplates no changes to speak of in his cabinet and in the corps of appointive officials generally, the politicians think otherwise and already have begun the scramble for the places now held by the appointees of the late President Harding.

The politicians are convinced that even if there are no wholesale changes here will be a gradual and steady readjustment of patronage to conform to the views of Mr. Coolidge and that before many months the roll of appointive officials will bear the Coolidge stamp quite as unmistakably as it now bears the Harding stamp.

If the President takes the advice of some Republican leaders who have his political welfare closely at heart he will look to the West for a greater number of important office holders than has been customary in the past.

In the late election the West was extremely important territory to the Republican candidate. There were more close states in the West than in the East and it was in the West that the most serious Republican defections were encountered, defections which under different circumstances, such as may prevail in 1923, might prove fatal to Republican success.

A greater distribution of patronage to the West in the view of the practical politicians, would go far toward strengthening the Republican party in a quarter where it needs to be strengthened without delay.

In the cabinet as it existed up to the time of the death of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace there were five Eastern and five Western members if Secretary of Commerce Hoover be credited to California instead of New York, where he really has lived in recent years. But when you take the appointive service as a whole you find more than three times as many important offices held by Eastern as by Western men.

One reason that the East receives by far the larger share of appointments to important offices is that under Republican administrations the Eastern states generally possess greater influence at the White House because they keep their senators and representatives for longer periods than do the Western states as a rule.

POULTRY

POULTRY MANURE IS RICHEST PRODUCED

Poultry manure is the richest of any produced on the farm, says the New York State College of Agriculture at Ithaca, yet it receives from the farmer the least attention of any of the animal excrements. Average mixed horse and cattle manure carries ten pounds of nitrogen, five pounds of phosphoric acid and twelve pounds of potash a ton.

Poultry manure contains in comparison 32 pounds of nitrogen, 35 pounds of phosphoric acid, and 18 pounds of potash. Where ordinary farm manure has a fertilizer value of $1.50 a ton, poultry manure is worth $5.00 a ton. Even when produced in small amounts, such material, says the college, is well worthy of careful preservation.

Poultry manure should be allowed to dry as quickly as possible and be kept dry. In this condition it will lose but little of its valuable constituents. Like ordinary manure it ferments rapidly when moist and will lose thereby a large percentage of its nitrogen, worth on the market 25 or 30 cents a pound. Since much of its potash, phosphoric acid, and nitrogen is soluble, this manure may suffer greatly from leaching.

Caustic lime should never be mixed directly with poultry manure as it tends to liberate nitrogen as ammonia.

Poultry manure is rich in nitrogen and low in phosphorus. These two conditions may be corrected by diluting and reinforcing the manure as follows: To ten pounds of the manure add six pounds of sawdust (or some similar dry material) and four pounds of acid phosphate. This gives a fertilizer carrying 8 per cent of nitrogen, 3.6 per cent of phosphoric acid and .45 per cent of potash or about the same proportion of plant food elements that are found in a 3-12-2 mixture but only one-fourth as concentrated.

Chicken Pox Is Common Among Poultry Flocks

Chicken pox (sorehead) is a very common contagious poultry disease. It is usually found during the changeable seasons, and not much during the summer. Sometimes chicken pox and roup are present in the same flock. Chicken pox can be very easily recognized from the small nodules on the comb and about the face of the bird, which at first closely resemble small pimples. The pimples gradually enlarge, the tops slough off, and then they become small ulcers.

Treatment: The same sanitary precautions recommended for other infections and contagious diseases should be taken, namely, separating the birds and disinfecting the pens. A laxative of one-quarter pound of epsom salts to 25 or 30 birds, mixed in a bran mash or with milk, should be given. When given with the mash, dissolve first in water, and then mix with the feed. This can be given them after the birds have been fasting for 24 hours. The sores on the head can be treated with zinc oxide ointment, using a match or a toothpick to apply the remedy.

Vitamines in Bran Good Feed for Poultry Flock

Bran is a standby foodstuff for the poultry keeper. It is not as digestible as some other feeds which enter into the rations of chickens, but it is rich in mineral and vitamin elements. When only concentrated food is given to hens their vitality is quickly sapped. Bulk is required to ensure the proper assimilation of the food, and this is obtained in large part when a proportion of bran enters into the ration.

Some poultrymen advise the feeding of middlings in place of bran, but to do this is to do away with one important "roughage" food necessary to keep the birds in good trim. It is not a question of whether we should use wheat middlings or wheat bran. Both should be used in nearly equal proportions, the two together, constituting nearly 50 per cent of the entire grain ration.

Poultry Facts

- Feed the pullets to produce winter eggs.
- Close the poultry house so as to prevent draughts.
- If combs freeze, get more air into the henhouse. It's a sign of dampness.
- Cod liver oil is not only good for children but it puts strength into the legs of little chicks as well.
- Skim milk is an exceedingly valuable poultry food, and can be profitably used every day in the year.
- A damp poultry house is an abomination and is just as certain to cause mischief as anything possibly can.
- Milk is the best protein for chickens as well as for folks. One of the best ways to market part of your milk is through the egg basket.
- The hen has not yet been invented that can make eggs without shell material to work on. Oyster shell or broken bits of limestone will supply the need.

Palace Becomes Hotel

The "Dolma Bagtche," which was the palace of the former Sultan Mohammed V. at Constantinople, probably will be converted into a fashionable hotel and amusement resort. The plan, practically accepted by the nationalist Turkish government, is looked upon as part of the program of sacrificing the ancient landmarks of the Turkish empire to raise funds to keep the new nationalist government going until a more stable financial system is developed.

75% of disease avoided through internal cleanliness

WHEN you are constipated, poisoned food waste, and reach all parts of the body. The first results, headaches, biliousness, a feeling of "heaviness", etc., serve as warnings of graver diseases to follow if this intestinal poisoning continues unchecked.

This is why intestinal specialists state that constipation is the primary cause of three-quarters of all illness, including the gravest diseases of life.

Physicians Advise Lubrication for Internal Cleanliness

Medical science has found at last in Lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste, and thus hastens its passage through and out of the body. Thus, Nujol brings internal cleanliness.

Nujol is not a medicine or laxative and cannot gripe. Like pure water, it is harmless. Take Nujol regularly and adopt this habit of internal cleanliness. For sale by all druggists.

THIS WOMAN RELIEVED FROM SUFFERING

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. A Remarkable Story

Dover, Del.—"I wish every woman would take your wonderful medicine as it has done so much good to me. I had cramps and faint spells and very bad pain. One day I was over to my neighbor's house and she told me I ought to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. So I went to the store on my way home and got a bottle, and took the first dose before supper. I have been taking it ever since, and you can hardly believe how different I feel. I had just wanted to lie in bed all the time, and when I started to brush up I would give out in about ten minutes. So you know how badly I felt. I used to go to bed at eight and get up at seven, still tired. Now I can work all day and stay up until eleven, and feel all right all the time. My housework is all I do in summer, but in winter I work in a factory. I have told a good many of my friends, and I have had three come to me and tell me they wouldn't do without the Vegetable Compound."

CHICAGO AUTOMOBILE SPEEDERS WARNED

Some of the most ardent workers in Chicago's safety drive to reduce the number of deaths due to reckless driving, are the boy scouts, and one of their latest plans is to post large signs, "One Was Killed Here," at the different places throughout the city where someone has been killed by a speeding car or carelessly driven car.

FEW HEADLIGHTS KEPT IN ORDER

Woman's Face Powder Is Best Possible Lamp Polish.

(By ERWIN GREER, President Greer College of Automotive Engineering, Chicago.)

The average motor car owner does not get half the proper volume of light from his car's lamps that he should. Few headlights are properly adjusted or cleaned. To polish the silver plated reflectors is simple enough, though wise men usually get a bawling out from friend wife before the job is completed. Why? Because they know that wife's face rouge is the best possible polish for lamp reflectors. Just moisten it with alcohol and you will find that it is a wonderful cleaning and polishing agent. But don't pass the buck to me when your wife discovers that I tipped you off.

Reflectors Are Important.

The reflectors are the most important part of the headlights. Without them the lamp bulbs are of little value and the lens do nothing but direct the rays. A lamp of 20-candle-power, with proper reflector and lens, will give all the light any driver needs. Higher candle-power bulbs will only serve to run down the battery because they consume too much current. Miniature bulbs vary greatly in the volume of candle power delivered and their length of life. The high grade standard bulbs give more satisfaction than the cheaper kinds, for great care is necessary in the manufacture of the miniature bulb.

If the reflectors on your car are bent, rusted, fogged or scratched they must be repaired, polished or resilvered until the light emanating therefrom will admit of the correct observations being made. And how does one adjust headlights? Here is the way:

How to Adjust Lights.

Stand the car on level ground 25 feet from and facing a wall. Draw a horizontal line on the wall at the height of the lamp center. Draw two perpendicular lines at the same distance apart as the two lamp centers. Adjust the focus of each light until the top of the bright part of the beam is flush with the horizontal line; and so that the area of the bright part is divided evenly by the corresponding perpendicular.

When headlights glare they are not only dangerous to the approaching car but they fall to give the best illumination to the man driving that car.

If you cannot adjust the headlights yourself, why go to some service station that can.

Cure for Intake Leakage

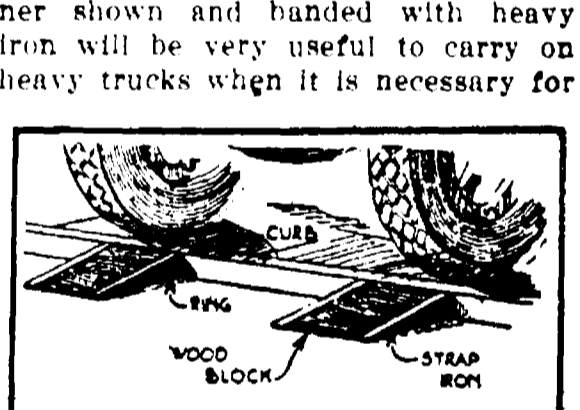

Leakage around the stems of the intake valves usually manifests itself in a falling off in power, difficult starting and misfiring at small throttle openings. A makeshift remedy lies in fitting the valve-stem guides with some form of lubricant-retaining means. This may be either a series of narrow grooves cut in the valve stem and into which a graphite and oil paste has been rubbed so as to fill them, or stuffing boxes may be fitted at the outer ends of the guides. The latter is the more permanent and satisfactory job, in that about the guide wear considerably the nut may be drawn down upon the packing, thereby preventing leakage.

Interesting Points on Parking a Motor

Contrary to many a driver's experience, it is easier to park a car on a hill than on the level—if you know how. On a hill it is not necessary to shift from low to reverse, or vice versa, for the forward and backing movements. The car will coast in one direction, depending upon the hill. It will be necessary to use the brakes, but then that is necessary in most parking anyway.

"No parking" signs are frequently used to mark the boundaries of forbidden ground. It may be quite all right to leave your car a foot from such a sign if you are on the safe side. Don't take a "No parking" sign too literally until you learn what it really means.

Curb-Blocks Will Help Trucks to Mount Curbs

Every Motortruck Should Carry Two of These Curb-Blocks.

Two heavy blocks cut in the manner shown and banded with heavy iron will be very useful to carry on heavy trucks when it is necessary for them to go up a curbstone. A ring is attached to each one of the blocks so they may be hung on the truck when not in use.

The illustration showing the blocks and their use is self explanatory.—G. Bender, in Popular Science Monthly.

Make Sure Spring Clips Are Put Together Tight

If any proof be required of the necessity of keeping spring clips tight it may be found in the fact that neither dealers nor manufacturers will replace a spring that is broken through the center bolt hole—the place where most springs give way, observes a contributor to the American Motorist, who goes on to say: "Breakage of this nature is taken as evidence that the spring clips were not kept tight. The spring clips are subject to bending in two directions, with the result that excessive strains are imposed at the weakest point, which in this case is at the bolt hole. "The spring clips should be seated perfectly tight by drawing the nuts up as close as possible with a wrench of such size that there is no question of their being tight. It is well also to bear in mind that even a nut secured by a lock washer will ultimately work loose; hence the necessity for looking over your spring clips now and then."

Shift Gears at Crossings

More than one motorist has been killed by stalling his motor on the tracks in front of an oncoming train. The driver slows down when approaching the tracks, believes he has time to get across, and then fails to start his motor up sufficiently to negotiate the rougher going across the tracks. The safest thing to do is to shift into second or low before starting across the tracks, and you can then be sure of keeping going when going ahead may be all-important.

FROM GRANDMOTHER'S BOOK

Is there anyone who does not enjoy a nicely made, well-seasoned and baked pumpkin pie? Old-Fashioned Pumpkin Pie.—Take one and one-half cupfuls of well-stewed and browned pumpkin which has been sifted to remove all stringy portions, two-thirds of a cupful of brown sugar or the same of white, with two tablespoonfuls of molasses, one teaspoonful of ginger, one teaspoonful of salt, a quarter of a teaspoonful of lemon extract, two slightly beaten eggs and a pint of rich milk. Combine the ingredients and turn into rich pastry-lined pie plate and bake in a moderate oven until when a knife is thrust into the center it comes out clean. If desired for an especially festive occasion, sprinkle with nuts or grated cheese and top with roses of whipped cream.

Golden Chips.—Slice pumpkin into strips one-half inch thick, take an equal weight of sugar, adding one-half cupful of lemon juice for each two pounds of sugar. Place the pumpkin and sugar in the preserving kettle in alternate layers. Pour the lemon juice over the whole and let stand twenty-four hours. Add one cupful of water for each three pounds of sugar and an ounce each of ginger root and lemon peel for each pound of fruit. Cook until the slices are tender, pack in an earthen jar, boil down the sirup until thick and pour over the fruit boiling hot. Seal.

A few peas cooked with finely diced carrots will make a good vegetable dish when served with drawn butter sauce or a white sauce.

COLD WEATHER SOUPS

With a can of claims one may have a most nourishing chowder with the following ingredients:

Clam Chowder.—Take a three-inch-square bit of salt pork; cut it into half-inch dice and fry in the chowder kettle until crisp and brown; add three small onions, sliced; cook them in the hot fat until a light yellow, then add half a dozen medium-sized potatoes, sliced; cover with boiling water and cook until the vegetables are well done. Add a can of claims, liquor and all, with one quart of rich milk; bring to the boiling point; season well and serve with crackers.

Paranip Chowder.—Dice one-quarter pound of fat salt pork and place in a chowder kettle. Add one onion, thinly sliced and fried to a golden brown. Add two cupfuls of diced potatoes and two cupfuls of parsnips, also diced, both uncooked; two and one-half teaspoonfuls of salt, one-quarter teaspoonful each of paprika and celery salt, one-eighth of a teaspoonful of pepper, three cupfuls of boiling water. Simmer until the parsnips are tender; add three tablespoonfuls of butter and one quart of scalding hot milk. Serve with toasted crackers.

Red Beet Soup.—Take three pounds of the shin of beef. Wipe the meat and cut the lean part into cubes. Place in a soup kettle together with three quarts of boiling water, three onions, sliced thin, one teaspoonful of salt, one-quarter teaspoonful of pepper, one teaspoonful of whole allspice, one-half cupful of vinegar, one-half cupful of sugar and six medium-sized beets that have been boiled ten minutes, then skinned and grated. Cook for two and one-half hours, adding more water, if necessary. Strain and serve hot with boiled potatoes.

Spareribs and Kraut.—Wrap a small-sized sparerib around a quart or more of good sauer kraut. Place in a hot oven for twenty minutes, then reduce the heat and bake for several hours or until the kraut is tender. Serve on a hot platter with the ribs rolled around the kraut.

WHY DRUGGISTS RECOMMEND SWAMP-ROOT

For many years druggists have watched with much interest the remarkable record maintained by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine.

It is a physician's prescription. Swamp-Root is a strengthening medicine. It helps the kidneys, liver and bladder do the work nature intended they should do.

Swamp-Root has stood the test of years. It is sold by all druggists on its merit and it should help you. No other kidney medicine has so many friends.

Be sure to get Swamp-Root and start treatment at once.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation, send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing, be sure and mention this paper.—Advertisement.

Are You Nervous?

Portsmouth, Ohio—"About twenty years ago I was clear down and out physically, my nerves were completely gone and I could not sleep or eat. I was able to sit up only about an hour at a time. I doctored for six months but instead of getting better I grew worse. A neighbor persuaded me to take Dr. Pierce's medicines. I took his 'Favorite Prescription,' 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Pellets,' and in three months I was back to normal health, my nerves were good, I could eat and sleep well and do all my own work."—Mrs. Edward Pollitt, 844 Front Street. THE LAST OF THE GOOSE

The goose mystery, which has been a principal topic of discussion for the past three weeks, has finally been solved.

It will be remembered by Dispatch readers that Norman Reason won a goose at a recent feather party and that the goose turned up missing from Norman's yard one morning. It now transpires that the descendant of the feathered ones that once saved Rome was taken more as a joke than for actual gain. It became a battle of wits between the owner of the goose and the purloiners. But finally, Norman gave up the chase and at a recent stag party at Mel Chalker's country house the goose in question was served as the feature of the feast.

Norm, as one of the guests, had the pleasure of partaking of the much discussed goose and laughingly partook of the last of his own goose.

One Mother's Tribute to Daughter-in-Law

When I first saw my son Tyler's angelic manner under his wife's regime I held my breath, because in the old days Tyler in a beatific state of mind meant Tyler getting ready to break out in a new place.

But as time goes on and the serenity remains unbroken, I repeat to myself that perfect line from the "Just So Stories"—"Not always was the Kangaroo as now we behold him"—a text that I recommended to all mothers who have seen their brisk sons neatly trained by well-selected wives.

Indeed, the longer I live the more ready I am to believe that a young man's wife may be better acquainted with his actual current present day self than his mother can possibly be. My daughter-in-law sees in her husband a forceful man of affairs on whose judgment she implicitly relies. I respect his judgment, too, in a way, but I cannot help knowing that he is the same Tyler who, at the age of four, howled himself into a high fever one day because I would not let him lead a bloodhound in the parade when "Uncle Tom's Cabin" came to town.

Mothers view their sons with what psychologists might call an "associative fringe." We are handicapped by assorted memories. We cannot estimate our sons exactly as their wives estimate them. They came upon us at a different stage—"A Maternal Philosopher" in the Atlantic Monthly.

Observation Relieved Monotony of Illness

It has often been my feeling that perhaps the happiest man is the healthy bookworm who, by laying out a quarter for a second-hand volume, can get as much pleasure in a week as the other fellow, more dependent upon expensive entertainments and indulgences that draw on his wad. The former is among that happy class that can say with the poet, "My mind to me a kingdom is; such pleasant toys therein I find."

But I discovered his equal the other day when visiting a sick friend in Outremont whose house adjoins a vacant lot, says the Montreal Herald. I found him sitting comfortably on the veranda overlooking that lot and studying it through a pair of field glasses.

He asked me: "How many kinds of plants would you suppose there is in that field?"

"About half a dozen," I replied. "I have already found 77," he assured me, and went on to name them. Confinement to a veranda did not worry him much.

Grapes Valuable Food

Eat grapes and fight anemia. Grapes are particularly valuable in the health diet because of the iron they contain, which helps to build up the red corpuscles of the blood. There is no need of a medical motive to persuade us to eat this delicious fruit, but to know that while we are eating grapes we are building up our circulation is surely not displeasing.

In addition to the iron the grape contains other highly valuable minerals, which it carries into grape juice and other preparations to which this abundant fruit so readily lends itself.

ARE YOU DRIFTING?

Are you simply drifting with the current? Are you waiting for some one to land you safely? Far better strike out for yourself.

Don't wait for something to "turn up." In these days it is useless to idly wait for your "ship to come in" You are only fooling you self.

Here's the real way: Come in and start a savings account at our Bank, no matter how small. The saving habit alone may lead you to financial independence.

MAKING GOOD IN A SMALL TOWN

Real Stories About Real Girls

By MRS. HARLAND H. ALLEN

"SIDE LINES"

"SIDE LINES," to the small-town girl or woman, sometimes seem as alluring and as unattainable as the proverbial fruit that is just out of reach.

"But they're not!" insists one girl who manages to turn out numerous little painted cards, after a full day's work behind the counter. "It really rests me, after standing all day, to sit and make the little flub-dubberies; I think any girl can have a 'paying hobby'."

Every girl who spends a stated number of hours every day at her typewriter, or behind her teacher's desk, or who has her life job taking care of a house, should have, if possible, an avocation that she can enjoy. Living in a small town is not a handicap. It is easier to make "pin money," in connection with one's regular duties, in a small place than in a larger one. There is less competition in a small town, and more leisure.

The small-town girl who doesn't know what she can make her "paying hobby" should take an inventory of her abilities. Can she make hats, do hemstitching, make buttons, paint postcards, make paper flowers, ribbon rosettes, silk lamp shades, quilts, house slippers, fancy handkerchiefs, or garters, lingerie pins, vases, beaded bags, door stops, wooden string holders, desk sets, directory covers, bird shelters and feed cups, toys?

One girl raised money making a new theater curtain for the village opera house, collecting the money for the advertisements painted on it from the town business men. Another embroiders collars and blouses. Still another makes a steady income planning and managing parties in her spare hours. There is money in butterfly gathering and mounting, making of soaps and toilet articles, making hair switches, poultry raising, gardening, running a rental library, and even in such a simple feat as advertising and selling one's old clothes.

In general, the article upon which the girl decides as her side line should be low in wholesale cost and simple in construction. It should be as nearly professional in appearance as possible. Lastly, where it is to be displayed or delivered in boxes, it should be carefully packed—for taking care of the article gives the subtle impression that it is worth taking care of, and that the hobby of making it is a real "paying" one.

Active Volcanoes

Between 600 and 700 volcanoes have been counted in various parts of the world, and of these 270 are still on the active list. Vesuvius was suddenly woke up and in a few hours destroyed Pompeii. Etna is known to have been active as far back as 500 B. C. In 1168 it destroyed 15,000 people, since when at varying intervals it has been the scene of a number of disasters.

Christmas Pillows

Handsome and comfort-giving cushions are among the Christmas gifts that always delight either men or women. These cushions are very practical when made of black satin or satin and decorated with a band of wide figured ribbon in brilliant patterns.

These black cushions are decorated on one side, sometimes with bow knots or other motifs made of narrow gold ribbon and small silk flowers, stitched down at the edges.

Man's Feathered Friends

Birds are closely allied to the British farmer, shepherd and sportsman and those who are wise in bird lore, rely on their feathered friends for information and warning. The woodcock is the woodman's bird, its hawklike cry in April giving the signal for the stripping of oak trees' bark. The yellow wagtail is a farmer's bird, ushering in the time of spring sowings. As the sun-piper is the angler's companion, the wheatear keeps the shepherd company on lonely downs. Even the miller has his bird in the redwing, called "windmill thrush," since the working of its wings suggests the revolving of a windmill's sails, while it is supposed to seek shelter by windmills in hard weather. Redwings now arrive in force; the pity is that few windmills are left to keep up the traditional association.—London Mail.

Expert Shingle Weavers

In spite of the multiplication of efficient machines to lighten and simplify labor, shingles are still woven (or packed) by hand. No machinery has yet been invented capable of eliminating the expert shingle weaver. Examining a bunch of shingles as the carpenter takes them apart for shingling the roof, and you will see the unique process by which the compact bunch has been woven. Now a wide shingle, now a narrow one, makes the bunch the exact width, and all day long the weaver stands and seizes shingle after shingle thrown out from the sawing machine, and without any false moves weaves them into compact bunches. The term shingle-weaver has been extended by custom, till it now applies to anyone who works in any department of a shingle mill.

Esparto Grass Used for Many Purposes

The route to Gafsa is constantly traversed by trains of camels with esparto grass. This grass is very plentiful in the central uplands of Tunisia, but as a depot is sometimes a six days' journey and 60 centimes is the price of a load, there is not much of a fortune in it for the collectors, remarks the Christian Science Monitor.

At the depots it is pressed into bales with primitive presses and then exported. Esparto is of very tough texture and great flexibility, and for centuries it has been used for making ropes, sandals, mats and baskets. In the Spanish navy cables made of esparto are used.

Gafsa is an Arab town with no European buildings except the barracks. Two Arab houses, at a little distance apart, constitute the only hotel. The oasis here is specially beautiful, particularly the apricot trees which are of immense size and apparent age and laden with very small fruit. Arabs never prune their trees; when the fruit becomes too woody to eat, down comes the tree.

Postal Service Growth

The United States postal service really began in 1639 when an office was set up in Boston tavern to receive letters from Europe. The growth has been steady ever since. High lights in its course were the appointment of Benjamin Franklin as first postmaster general in 1775, adoption of gummed stamps in 1847, free city delivery in 1863, railway post office service in 1864, rural service in 1896, postal savings banks in 1911, parcel post in 1913, airplane mail service in 1918, and daily trans-continental air-mail service in 1924.

New Breakfast Caps

Don't forget that breakfast caps are among the lovely things that women expect at Christmas. Of the two shown here, the one at the top is of lace and ribbon, with frills of pink, plaited chiffon over the ears. The other is of net and lace with a frill of lace over the nape of the neck, a facing of ribbon at the front and knot and ends of it at the sides.

Unhappy Moment for Wearer of Crinoline

Mrs. E. M. Ward has a host of good yarns in her remarkable "Memories of Ninety Years." There is, for instance, the terrible story of the punctured crinoline:

This unusual incident happened to a Mrs. Tooke, wife of the then vicar of Lupton. After a confirmation service in the church the friends of the vicar were invited to meet the bishop of Oxford, Samuel Wilberforce—known as "Soapy Sam"—at the vicarage.

Mrs. Tooke was a woman who always dressed well. On this occasion she wore a black velvet crinoline, trimmed with old lace, which set off her remarkable complexion. After lunch, as she talked to the bishop, a curious sound like an angry serpent hissing penetrated the drawing-room.

While the guests paused in astonishment, "Soapy Sam" looked mystified. Then a grumbling noise was heard, a decided squeak, a shriek, and loud report, followed by profound silence. When a little later Mrs. Tooke rose to bid her guests farewell, her dress hung in heavy folds all round her.

Afterward she explained what had happened. Her dressmaker had persuaded her to have a special fixture to her crinoline which consisted of tubing, inflated with air, fastened tightly with a screw. This uncanny contrivance made the skirt flow out, but Mrs. Tooke struck her foot against the screw and the whole structure collapsed as the air escaped.—San Francisco Argonaut.

Historic Gray's Inn Linked With America

Gray's Inn, in London, has long been the mecca of the Baconian. Those people who believe that Francis Bacon wrote Shakespeare's plays visit the Inn to see the hall in which Bacon for many years presided as treasurer, and the gardens, which he planned, says the Detroit News. There are links between the Inn and the United States.

There was a Lawrence Washington, admitted a student in 1607, whose brother Robert was a direct ancestor of George Washington. There is an entry in the admission register of the Inn recording the membership of Thomas Yale. This was an ancestor of Elihu Yale, whose piety helped to found a great American university.

Andrew Hamilton was a member of the Inn. His admission is recorded in 1714: "Andrew Hamilton, of Maryland, America, gent." Hamilton designed the state house of Philadelphia, the building which was the birthplace of the American republic.

Youth and Old Age

To know what you like is the beginning of wisdom and of old age. Youth is wholly experimental. The essence and charm of that unquiet and delightful epoch is ignorance of self, as well as ignorance of life. These two unknowns the young man brings together again and again, now in the driest touch, now with a bitter but now with exquisite pleasure, now with cutting pain; but never with indifference, to which he is a total stranger, and never with that near kinship of indifference, contentment. If he be a youth of dainty senses or a brain easily heated, the interest of this series of experiments grows upon him out of all proportion to the pleasure he receives. It is not beauty that he loves, nor pleasure that he seeks, though he may think so; his design and his sufficient reward is to verify his own existence and taste the variety of human fate.—Robert Louis Stevenson.

Wrestling Is Old Sport

Wrestling took a most important place in the early Olympic games. It was also considered a necessary accomplishment of the athletes of the days of chivalry. The county of Cornwall, England, led the van in wrestling, so that to give a Cornish hut has passed into a proverb. The summer season is associated with wrestling matches at St. Ives, provided for by a worthy citizen who bequeathed an income for games to be held every fifth year for ever around his mausoleum which was set up on a high rock near the town in 1782. The game meant as much to St. Ives, Penzance, Helston and Truro as the Olympic games to the ancients.

No Smocks Worn in England

It is only in American films, which are not distinguished by fidelity to fact, that English agricultural laborers still wear smocks. Once only in my life have I seen a man in a smock, an old shepherd in Gloucestershire, who was so aged that he probably imagined that William the Fourth was still on the throne.

When a workman wears "jeans" or an overall, he does so, not as a trademark, but as a protection from the defilement of his trade. He will not let himself be catalogued. The class war will not break out in England, because no one here, least of all a workman, will admit that he is in a class.—St. John Ervine in the Observer (London).

Souvenir Hunters Fooled

Craze for souvenirs is likely to be carried rather far at times. In the church of St. Andrew Undershaft, in the city of London, is a monument to the author, John Stow, his figure being seated at a table, writing a book. In his right hand is a quill pen, which is renewed annually. Until recent years, this pen was continually being stolen, the souvenir hunters having the impression that it was the original pen with which Stow wrote his works.
