WORDS OF WISDOM TO GRADUATING CLASS

Sunday night the class of 1925 listened to the Baccalaureate address by Rev. F. McQuillan, pastor of St. Mary's church.

The church auditorium was filled to capacity when the class marched in, taking seats in front. The address was a powerful sermon on the subject, "Success." From the speaker's viewpoint there are three requisites for success—ambition, courage and common sense. Success does not mean only the accumulation of dollars and the acquisition of power—these may come with ambition and courage—but the highest pinnacle of success is only reached when respect of fellow men has been attained.

To those in the large audience who had never had an opportunity to hear one of Rev. McQuillan's sermons, this occasion was greatly enjoyed as the pastor of St. Mary's proved to be a pulpit orator of unusual ability and power.

It was befitting that the beautiful and impressive service of the Benediction should be conducted by Rev. J. A. Crowe, of Howell, former pastor of St. Mary's. Under his spiritual guidance many of the class have developed onward and always upward from childhood.

The special music for the occasion was another outstanding feature. The solos were by Mr. Dan Noeker of Hamburg, baritone, accompanied by Prof. Kellerman, organist of St. Aloysius church, Detroit. Mr. and Mrs. Noeker and Mr. and Mrs. Kellerman comprised the quartet.

DROWNED AT BASE LAKE

Bertram Hoey, 14, son of John Hoey of Dexter was drowned at Base Lake last Sunday. He was bathing near the shore and stepped off the channel bank and was unable to swim to shallow water.

First attempts to recover the body were fruitless, so a professional diver from Detroit was sent for. He soon found the drowned boy in a depth of 25 feet.

HOWELL

Burglars seem to have things their own way at Howell. The latest was Monday night when the Howlett Clothing Store was entered and goods to the amount of $5000 were taken, including 165 suits and other wearing apparel.

THE JUNIOR RECEPTION

Tuesday the Juniors entertained the graduating class at a reception in the Congregational parlors.

A delightful repast was first enjoyed and then a fine program of speaking and music was in order.

The Juniors have shown by their efforts to make this reception a success that they are well equipped to be the coming Seniors.

HAMBURG VILLAGE TO HAVE ELECTRIC LIGHTS

Hamburg having outgrown kerosene and gasoline illumination has decided to adopt electricity for lighting purposes. At a special election of the voters of the township, called some time ago for the purpose, the modern method of lighting was unanimously accepted. Everyone has cheerfully subscribed his share of the $5,500 bonus required by the Detroit Edison Co. to run lines over Whitmore Lake, the local I. O. O. F. pledging $1,000. Half of the amount subscribed being already paid, the Detroit Edison is already on the job and residences and business places are being wired so as to be in readiness. Service has been promised by the Fourth of July. It is expected that the lines will be extended to Lakeland later.—Brighton Argus.

NEWS and GOSSIP of WASHINGTON

Congress May Impose a Gasoline Tax

WASHINGTON.—Taxation of gasoline by the states is spreading so rapidly as to threaten to become almost universal throughout the country.

The figures of the bureau of public roads show that the gross receipts from state gasoline taxes in 1924 amounted to $79,734,490.

The largest amount collected by any state was $11,933,222 by California with an impost of 2 cents per gallon.

Next came Pennsylvania with $9,089,541, also from a 2 cent tax. Indiana collected $4,925,372 with a 2-cent tax; North Carolina took in $4,529,048 at the rate of 3 cents per gallon; Georgia collected $4,527,471 with a 3-cent tax, and Texas raised $3,892,769 with a 1-cent tax.

Among the eleven states which are still holding out against the plan are some of those with larger industrial cities, including New Jersey, Illinois, Massachusetts and Ohio.

A suggestion for a gasoline tax as a substitute for some of the taxes which have been considered obnoxious was before congress during consideration

Other Lansing pastors assisted. Church work in the district was started in a school house four years ago. Later the Methodists incorporated and a result just completed their $5,000 structure.

Grand Rapids—Mrs. Benjamin St. Clair, balloonist at Ramona Amusement Park here, owed her life and freedom from injury to her pluck and tenacity, and the agility of a member of her troupe. HOW TO SOLVE A CROSS-WORD PUZZLE

When the correct letters are placed in the white spaces this puzzle will spell words both vertically and horizontally. The first letter in each word is indicated by a number, which refers to the definition listed below the puzzle.

If Economy Is Wealth, Skinner Will Prosper

President Arthur Williams of the American Museum of Safety, said to a New York reporter: "One and a half billions a year are lost in America through disabled help. This vast loss is due to parsimony—stupid unwillingness to install safety devices. Such parsimony is more shameless than Skinner's."

Points of Interest in Bequest to Doctor

The layman is inclined to wonder if the bequest of £1,000 by a man who died recently to the doctor who should discover that he was not really dead but only in a trance, might not be void as against public policy, observes the London Morning Post in a recent issue.

Bedlam

Bedlam is the old synonym in England for a lunatic asylum. The word is a corruption of Bethlehem, due to the British custom of shortening proper names arbitrarily, as in Boston, for St. Botolph's town, Hadden for Hawarden, etc. The hospital of St. Mary of Bethlehem in London, originally a priory founded about 1245, was afterwards used for the detention of lunatics, and gave rise to the popular use of the name.

Why Spring Cleaning

The idea of spring cleaning came to the moderns by way of the Dutch people, who borrowed it from the ancient Jews. Cleaning up was a custom associated with the celebration of the Passover, which falls about the same time as Easter. The first mention of spring cleaning in the English language appears to have been in the writings of Sir Thomas More, the famous lord chancellor, who was headed by Henry VIII.

Origin of Chapels

The word chapel comes from capa, a chest. The word was originally applied to the chest in which the relics of a saint were deposited, afterwards to the apartment in a church or cathedral in which the chest was kept. These chapels were dedicated separately, but were known by the name of the saint whose relics they contained.

No Argument at All

The attorney was setting up illiteracy as a defense for his client, accused of forgery. "Why, your honor," he argued, "this man could not have been guilty of this crime; he cannot write his own name." "Your argument is worthless," said the judge. "The prisoner is not charged with writing his own name, but that of someone else."

Precisely

Said an Irishman at a conference in London: "Gentlemen, this is a most insidious proposal. If you accept it, you will find it to be neither more nor less than the thin edge of a white elephant."—London Tit-Bits.

Three Major Problems of Next Congress

THREE major problems will occupy the attention of the next congress, in the opinion of Senator Frank B. Willis of Ohio, the first of these problems, Senator Willis said, is tax reduction; the second, such amendment of the rules as will facilitate public business and still preserve the right of legitimate debate, and the third, the world court.

The most important of these three questions, the Buckeye senator believes, is tax reduction. "Lightening of the tax burdens of the people is made possible by the very satisfactory returns from the tax laws now in force and by the substantial economies that have been effected," Senator Willis said. "The $100,000,000 surplus this year and the estimated surplus next year of $300,000,000 make certain important tax reduction. 'A million a day of tax cut away,' will be the slogan of the next congress."

"The ways and means committee of the house will begin preparation of the new tax bill early in October, so that the measure will be ready for prompt action when congress meets. This plan will make unnecessary any special session of congress. General revision of the tariff is not desirable and will not be undertaken."

Senator Willis declared in favor of changing the senate rules to facilitate the business of the senate and at the same time permit debate. "Vice President Dawes is not proposing any specific change in the rules, as I understand," Senator Willis said, "but he is calling the attention of the country to the need of revision to eliminate filibusters and prevent abuse of power by individual members. In so doing, General Dawes is rendering valuable public service."

The world court problem is to be taken up early in December for final decision, and Senator Willis said he will press for consideration of a resolution he introduced in the last regular session of congress and reintroduced at the special session of the senate in March, which embodies the reservations proposed by President Harding, Secretary Hughes and President Coolidge.

Changes in Departments at the Capital

FURTHER changes in the organization of the government departments are looked for following the transfer of the patent office from the interior department to the Department of Commerce. The transfer affected 1,246 employes.

The patent-office transfer carried out one of the two recommendations with regard to changes in the lineup of the interior department bureaus recommended by the joint congressional committee on reorganization of the executive departments. The other recommendation involved transfer of the bureau of mines to the Commerce department.

Secretary of the Interior Work and Secretary of Commerce Hoover, who are represented to be in complete accord with the recommendations of the joint committee, discussed the transfer for several months before it was made. Doctor Work secured an opinion from the attorney general as to whether the act of 1903 authorizing the President to transfer bureaus from one department to another without specific authorization of congress was a continuing act. He was assured it was with regard to scientific bureaus, and it was then left to the President to decide whether the patent office was to be classified as a scientific bureau.

The present intention of government heads with regard to the bureau of mines has not been stated, although officials give it as their opinion that the transfer of the bureau from the interior department to the Commerce department would need specific authorization from congress, inasmuch as the bureau was placed in the interior department by congress.

Extensive changes in the personnel of the patent office are not contemplated, Secretary Hoover said, adding that better organization of the government, to secure economy and efficiency, requires that functions of similar major purpose shall be grouped together.

Change in the procedure, with respect to protection of rights of American patentees in foreign countries is forecast by Mr. Hoover. Integration in the Department of Commerce of bureaus dealing with commerce and industry are regarded by the joint congressional committee as proper and advisable.

GREGORY CHURCH NEWS

Milton W. Dressel, Pastor

Next Sunday at 10:30 the subject will be "Living Gems From God's Wonderful Jewel Casket." The verse
"By grace are ye saved through faith"
is one of these Gems of Scripture Truth.

Profitable and helpful is a study of the Bible for any person. How about a large attendance at our Sunday School at the 11:30 hour next Sunday?
Your presence will help.

You have heard of Elijah the prophet that went to Heaven in a fiery chariot. For the next few Sunday nights you will have an opportunity to hear more about this miracle performing prophet of Old Testament times. Then make it a point to be present and hear all three messages. Next Sunday night the subject will be "Halting Between Two Opinions."

The church that moves forward on her knees is irresistible. Attendance, interest and the manifest presence of God are plainly evident in our prayer meetings. You are invited to come to every one each Thursday at 8 p. m.

STAGE PLAYER IN

"SCHOOL FOR WIVES"

The cast of Vitagraph's "School for Wives," which will be shown at the Opera House, Saturday June 20, produced by Victor Hugo Halperin, has no lack of actors from the spoken drama.
Orlando Daly, Gerald Oliver Smith, and Brian Dunlevy were all at the time of production, playing on Broadway. Dr. Daly was appearing in the "Fake" with Conway Tearle's brother, and as Conway Tearle plays the lead in this he thought himself very well acquainted with the Tearle family.

Brian Dunlevy was playing in "What Price Glory?" the play that has enjoyed a remarkable Broadway run, and Gerald Oliver Smith received very favorable comments from the critics on his work in "Lady Be Good," the musical comedy hit.

Why not a School for Wives, indeed, and a School for Husbands also?
We are trained to be taxi drivers, shoe-makers, blacksmiths, almost everything in the world except husbands and wives, practitioners in the most important profession in life.

The coming of this unique picture is waited with eager interest, therefore, not only because it is chockful of entertainment, but because also it considers impressively this important question. "School for Wives" is a faithful picture of Leonard Mer-rick's great novel, "The House of Lynch," one of the best sellers of recent years.

I live on a farm and have five in the family so am busy most of the time. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to my friends and hope my letter will help some one to take your medicine." — Mrs. WALTER E. ANDERSON, Box 270, Rangley, Maine.

Over 200,000 women have so far replied to our question, "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?" 58 out of every 100 of the replies say, "yes," and because the Vegetable Compound has been helping other women it should help you. For sale by druggists everywhere.

"Old Rough and Ready"

Neglected Grave of Gen. Zachary Taylor Is to be Restored

By JOHN DICKINSON SHERMAN

THE United States is about to take over the care of the burial ground of Gen. Zachary Taylor, twelfth President. He died in the White House July 9, 1850, after giving his country more than forty years of service. If it is admitted that it is the duty of the nation to see that the burial places of its Presidents are cared for, congress has long neglected this duty in the case of "Old Rough and Ready."

Upon the death of President Taylor his remains were interred in the congressional burial ground (Christ Church cemetery), Washington. In accordance with his wish, they were transferred to the old Taylor home, near Louisville, Ky. The State of Kentucky erected, years ago, a handsome memorial near the burial vault. But no provision has ever been made for the adequate and permanent care of the grounds. Long ago the homestead passed from the hands of the Taylor family. The State of Kentucky now holds title, with some private interest, in five acres about the burial vault.

The grounds lie near the Brownboro road, an important thoroughfare of Jefferson county. A half-mile road leads to them; it has been recently improved by the county. The Louisville Outdoor league proposes to plant this roadway and make it a "Zachary Taylor Memorial lane."

The last congress passed a resolution appropriating $10,000 for the care, maintenance and improvement of the burial grounds and directing the secretary of war to establish thereon a national cemetery. The precedent for the latter is the Andrew Johnson National cemetery of fifteen acres, established by congress in 1900. So we shall have the Zachary Taylor National cemetery, maintained by the United States government.

Zachary Taylor deserved well of his country. He was born in Orange county, Va. His father was Col. Richard Taylor, an officer in the Revolution. He was a descendant of Elder William Brewster of Mayflower and Plymouth fame. The Taylors moved to Kentucky in 1785. In 1808 at the age of twenty-four Zachary was commissioned a first lieutenant in the Seventh Infantry, a new regiment. In 1812, as major, he defended Fort Harrison (near Terre Haute, Ind.) against Indians and was breveted major. In 1815, when the army was reduced to 10,000 men, he resigned.

Major Taylor was, however, induced to return to the army as lieutenant colonel in command of Fort Snelling. The Black Hawk Indian war of 1832 found him in command of Fort Crawford at Prairie du Chien, Wis. Incidentally, it was to Colonel Taylor that Black Hawk surrendered after the second campaign.

The Black Hawk war was only a so-called war, but it has an interest all its own in that it brought together historic personages. Gen. Winfield Scott took command. At Fort Crawford with Colonel Taylor was Lieut. Jefferson Davis. And in Col. Samuel

PLAZA, CITY OF MEXICO

Thompson's regiment of Illinois volunteers was Capt. Abraham Lincoln.

Jefferson Davis (1808-89) was a West Point graduate of 1828. After the close of the Black Hawk hostilities he eloped from Fort Crawford with Sarah, the oldest daughter of Colonel Taylor. A little later he, as an engineer, made a survey of the Chicago and Calumet rivers, the federal government having decided to establish a harbor on the west shore for the fast-growing schooner traffic of Lake Michigan. Davis recommended Calumet, his chief reason being that Lake Calumet could be made a landlocked harbor for the maintenance of a fleet to be used against Canada. No, you will not find this in the histories. And the trick by which Chicago finally won over Calumet is still another story.

Davis left the army in 1835 to become a cotton planter in Mississippi. In 1845 he was elected to congress, but resigned to go into the Mexican war as colonel of a Mississippi regiment. He fought under General Taylor at Monterey at Buena Vista; in the latter battle he displayed great gallantry and was wounded. From 1847 to 1851 Davis was in the senate. Then he served as secretary of war under President Pierce. The year 1857 found him back in the senate and in 1861 he resigned to go with the South and to become president of the Confederacy.

Abraham Lincoln was twenty-three when the Black Hawk war broke out. He responded to the call for volunteers by the governor of Illinois. The "boys" insisted upon electing him captain and away he marched. You have, of course, read of his amusing experiences. But did you know that once he was under arrest for firing off his pistol, contrary to regulations? And did you know that he had to wear a wooden sword for two days, while under arrest because some of his men stole whiskey and got drunk. And did you know that he saved the life of an old Indian, who surrendered, from a crowd of bloodthirsty soldiers? And did you know that he demanded the same food for his men that the regulars got and bluffed the army officers into giving it?

And here's another thing that you will not find in all the histories. After Captain Lincoln's company had been disbanded at Ottawa, Ill., Lincoln enlisted as a private in the "Independent Spy company." Just what services he rendered as a spy is unknown to this writer. He was, however, discharged at White Water, Wis. A thief stole his horse. He had to make an inglorious return to New Salem by foot, by canoe and by timber raft.

Colonel Taylor, after the Black Hawk war, took command of our forces in Florida, where the Seminole war was on. He wound up that war by defeating the Indians at the Battle of Okeechobee. In 1840 he was put in command of the southern division of the army and moved his home to Baton Rouge, La.

In 1846, upon the breaking out of the Mexican war, Brigadier General Taylor was ordered to the Rio Grande. On two successive days, he fought and won the battles of Palo Alto and Resaca de la Palma and cleared the lower valley of the Rio Grande. Next he marched to Nueve Leon and fought a series of battles, ending, in the same year, with the capture of Monterey. Notwithstanding the fact that, under orders from his government, he had sent his best troops to reinforce General Scott, who was invading Mexico by the way of Vera Cruz, he pursued Santa Ana and, with a much inferior force, defeated that Mexican commander at the Battle of Buena Vista May 23, 1847. This important victory was followed by the Mexican campaign of General Scott which ended with the capture of the City of Mexico September 14, 1847, which virtually ended the war. Peace between the two countries was declared February 2, 1848. This war confirmed the annexation of Texas and also brought into the United States California and Nevada, most of Arizona, New Mexico and Utah and a part of Colorado.

General Taylor's way of "treatin' 'em rough" and his readiness to fight the Mexicans under any and all conditions earned him the title of "Old Rough and Ready." His brilliant victories made him a popular hero. There was an insistent demand for him for the Presidency. Taylor himself was not enthusiastic. He said: "If the people want me to be President, I shall serve, but I shall do nothing to get the office." He was elected by the Whigs over the Democrat, Lewis Cass of Michigan.

Taylor married Margaret Smith in 1810 when he was a young captain. She was ever his companion and helpmeet wherever he was stationed. When he was elected President she said it was "a plot to deprive her of her husband's society and to shorten his life by unnecessary care." She had no social aspirations. She refused to take any part in the social life of the White House and turned the duties of hostess over to her youngest daughter, the wife of Maj. W. W. S. Bliss. "Miss Betty" was the youngest hostess the White House ever saw. As for Mrs. Taylor, she put gas in the White House and kept everything spick and span. She reserved for herself a few rooms out of the way, where she could knit and smoke her corn-cob pipe in peace and think up things for the comfort of her husband.

GOLF

OF P. J. GAUDIN

SKOKIE COUNTRY CLUB & UNION LEAGUE CLUB

(In 1928, Western Newspaper Union)

Balance.

Almost the first knowledge gained by the beginner in golf should be regarding the balance of his body during the swing. That balance must be perfect in order that the other parts of the swing may be made correctly. It is exactly as necessary to the tuning of the swing as the foundation is for a house.

Perhaps the best way to learn this balance is to make the golf swing with the arms and let the movements of the shoulders, hips and legs be only such as will let the arms go through their movements correctly. All during this movement—one can go through with it as readily without a club as with one—the sole effort should be to keep the balance perfectly. Be sure the heels are down in the beginning and do not do a particle of extra foot work. Simply let the heel come up with the back swing and the right heel on the forward swing as much as they will come naturally. Take your natural stance, swing the arms as in the golf stroke and concentrate on keeping a perfect balance all through the movement.

Beginning this movement slowly and without a club, one can accelerate the speed gradually and still retain a perfect balance. Care must be taken to go through the same procedure with the club in the hands or the same old fault of lack of balance will appear. Keep in mind that you are not practicing a golf swing solely. Put the swing entirely out of mind if it interferes with concentrating on the balance. Best of all, try out the whole thing before a mirror. Keep your eyes on your reflection and note that the head stays in the same place. It must not bob up or down, or forward or backward. It turns with the swing but that must be the only motion. Least of all must there be a backward and forward movement of the head, following the motions of the arms.

Imagine yourself with your feet flat, feeling the weight on the heels, and the forehead against a spot on a wall. With all the other movement the forehead remains against that spot, with the head twisting as noted. That idea, carried out, will give the sense of balance.

No golf ball is hit correctly except with a crisp flirting forward of the club head. This crispness comes mainly from the action of the wrists. There must be nothing of slackness in this action. It is a distinct flick that urges the club head forward to do its work. The feeling is perceptible in all shots with the possible exception of the putter on a short putt. On the longer putts the feeling returns.

The center of this whole movement is in the left wrist. The left hand grasps and controls the club and the flir of the club head comes naturally. Try it with a light club or cane. Better still, take a putter but hold it just above the head, the top of the head toward you. Take your stance as if using a wooden club, which of course will let the end of the club clear the floor by many inches. Go clear back on the back swing and then bring the club down without bending the wrist. About half way down the club will point nearly straight up. This is the place where the practicing begins. Complete the swing with a crisp flir of the wrist. Don't even try this with both hands. This is solely for the left hand. Be sure the action of the wrist is correct; that you can see all the knuckles and that the flir of the wrist is accomplished without any aid from the forearm, that part of the body simply keeping out of the way by moving forward.

That description was used by a group of beginners and each seemed to grasp the idea at once. The importance of the flirred wrist may be seen in the fact that it gives distance, loft, back-spin and accuracy to the ball. When there is the full sense of getting the left wrist working properly in order to make the club head do its work, comes the time when it is necessary to realize this feeling must be present in every golf stroke. Never yield to the feeling that there must be less crispness to the stroke because the shot is of only twenty yards instead of a hundred. Instantly that feeling is uppermost comes the relaxation of the wrist and the flaccid action that spells disaster to the shot. Play boldly. Never baby the ball.

Epigram Explained

During a discussion of Oscar Wilde's interesting posthumous work, "De Profundis," an editor said: "I had the honor of meeting Wilde in London on the opening night of his amusing comedy, 'The Importance of Being Earnest.' A little group of us sat supper at the Carlton, and during the supper the subject of epigrams came up. To Wilde, as the foremost living epigrammatist, the duty of defining an epigram was assigned. He thought a moment, smiled slightly, and then, in his low and pleasant voice, he said: "An epigram is a commonplace couched so adroitly that only clever people can tell what it means."

Hearing With the Hands?

To teach the totally deaf to hear through the palms of their hands is the purpose of an instrument invented by Dr. Robert Gault.

The instrument resembles a telephone receiver and operates on a similar principle to the telephone, except that, instead of carrying sound vibrations to the ear, it causes them to reach the hand or some other sensitive part of the body.

It is necessary for the person using the apparatus to recognize what speech sounds caused the particular vibration he detects through his sense of touch. With the aid of the instrument Doctor Gault has succeeded in teaching five deaf persons to identify 15 sentences containing 91-syllable words.

Hints on How to Make Own Dresses

The pathway of the home dress-maker has been strewn with roses ever since the day that the chemise frock took its place in the sacred circles of the mode, and its partial eclipse this season, observes a fashion writer in the New York Herald-Tribune, has occasioned many reproaches and dubious glances on the part of this thrifflily inclined lady.

The first maxim of the French home dressmaker is this: Always eliminate unnecessary trimming, think first of your line, study your figure, look at yourself in a long glass—if possible one with wings, so that you can examine your outline from every viewpoint.

Making Plumpness a Virtue.
If an unkind fate has endowed you with a little more than the necessary plumpness, your problem is more difficult and calls for more selective discretion.

A printed voile model recently seen is particularly adapted to the average embonpoint figure, as its flower design runs up and down, giving a perpendicular striped effect.

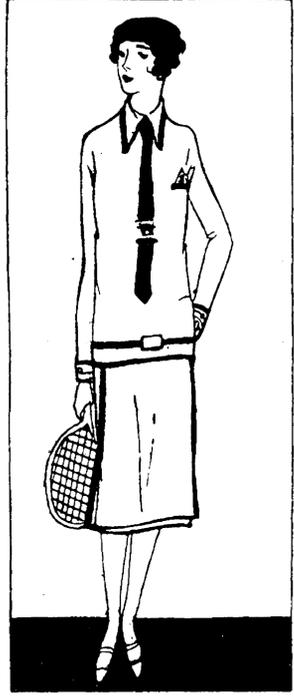

Method of Trimming Plain Materials With Two-Color Border.

a two-piece effect in front and show a straight, unbroken line at the back—so many dresses in Paris carry this deceptive appearance this season.

Ingenious Trimming Effects.
If your flower design is printed on a beige or pink ground you will make your center panel about three inches wide, of beige or pink, cut on the straight of the material.

can add a six-inch-wide sash of the printed material, with a picot edge or finely bordered with a bias band. If you like, but it is not necessary, as the beltless dress shows to greater advantage on the stout figure.

The Insertion of Godets.
The nimble-fingered lady who is able to essay something a little more complicated can insert godets to give a little variety to her summer skirts.

A Dress of Pink Crepe de Chine Is Piped With Deep Rose.

straight line of the skirt itself. You can either have a godet inlet on each side or one in front as well. In the latter case it is better to make the front godet higher and put in the side ones on a lower level.

No article on home dressmaking can be complete this season without reference to an important part in every woman's wardrobe. There are long jumpers that are almost tunics, and these you may embroider with a large motif or a complicated monogram.

The short jumper that reaches the hips is an even more useful model, but it ought not to be made to wear with any old skirt. The jumper of today has its own skirt to match and is worn with no other. It forms a petite robe complete.

There are infinite ways of introducing variety into the short jumper, and the greatest of these is the collar. The most practical and usual is the straight coat collar with small turn-back revers.

For the Over-Slender Miss.
As for the girl who really is a little too thin—she does exist, even in these days of narrow lines—fluffy frills and flounces are their salvation.

As for the girl who really is a little too thin—she does exist, even in these days of narrow lines—fluffy frills and flounces are their salvation. Her corsage can be made with the lines of the material going round the figure, and she should always be careful to put in a few gathers on the shoulder seam in front.

POINTS ON KEEPING WELL

DR. FREDERICK R. GREEN Editor of "HEALTH"

SCIATICA

EVERYBODY knows what sciatica is. Those who are unfortunate enough to suffer from it, will agree in testifying that there are few ills of the human body which are as painful, chronic and wearing.

In a recent article in the Journal of the American Medical Association, Doctors Rosenheck and Finkelstein give the results of a careful study which they have carried on for years on this much neglected subject.

The second class, which they call orthopedic sciatica, is caused by some disease or displacement of one of the joints of the pelvis, such as the hip joint, the joints between the different parts of the pelvis, between the spinal column and the pelvis, etc.

The cases of the first class in which the pain is caused by disease conditions elsewhere and in which the sciatica is simply the manifestation of this condition—the "place where it hurts" rather than the place where the disease is located—must naturally be treated by removing the cause, whether bad teeth, diseased tonsils, infected gall bladder or abscess around the appendix, be responsible.

On its removal or treatment, the sciatica disappears with all the other symptoms. In the second class, especially the chronic cases caused by a dislocation of one of the joints of the pelvis, stretching of the leg, followed by plaster jacket, was found to give permanent relief in a large number of cases.

DIPHTHERIA IN OUR CITIES

THE amount of typhoid fever in any large American city has come to be recognized as an indication of that city's standing. A modern, up-to-date, progressive city does not give its citizens dirty water or dirty milk to drink.

In the same way, the amount of diphtheria in any city is a measure of the care given the city's children. Diphtheria, like typhoid, is now an entirely preventable disease. We know what causes it, how it is carried from the sick child to the well, how it can be prevented.

The amount of diphtheria last year in all cities of the United States over 100,000 population is shown in a recent article in the Journal of the American Medical Association. In 89 cities the death rate ranges from Nashville, Tenn., with only 1.8 deaths per 100,000 population, to Worcester, Mass., with 23 deaths per 100,000.

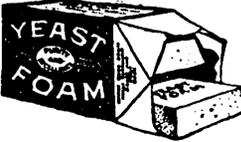

That's a saving of 538 children in one year. Good! But how about the 3,285 children who died last year of a disease which is preventable and should be prevented in every case?
