KING'S DAUGHTERS MEET

The King's Daughters were very pleasantly entertained last Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. S. E. Darwin. Four prominent workers from Washtenaw county were guests of Mrs. Darwin on this occasion and added much to the interest and enjoyment of the meeting. Mrs. Albert R. Crittenden, former County president, gave a very instructive talk on the work in the new University Hospital at Ann Arbor, emphasizing the fact that the great increase in the number of patients now being cared for in this institution necessitated a corresponding increase in the number of garments, toys, books, etc., which the King's Daughters organizations aim to provide. Mrs. Crittenden also favored with two much appreciated piano solos.

Mrs. Gertrude Dames, also from Ann Arbor, gave several very enjoyable readings, mostly humorous.

Mrs. W. P. Moore, Washtenaw county president and Mrs. J. J. Kelly, president of the Ann Arbor Presbyterian Circle were also present.

The usual business and devotional services were held and a tasty luncheon was served.

SCHOOL NOTES

The 1925 football team began playing in real earnest when they played Byron, Friday, Oct. 2. The first game of the season which was played at Fowlerville was really only a tryout, but they showed their real ability at Byron. The opposing team had a much heavier line but, on the other hand, their men were very slow in comparison to the Pinckney men, which resulted in Pinckney winning with a score of 20 to 0. Pinckney completed four forward passes. Walter Graves, one of the good men, was unable to play. Mark Nash and Clarence Blades played extraordinarily well but Don Swarthout proved himself the star player of the game. The next game will be played at Pinckney with the New Hudson Consolidated school Friday, Oct. 9. Don't miss it, for it will be well worth watching.

Mr. Doyle took the fourth period, Wednesday, to discuss with the students some phases of school administration which the University inspector of schools asked all of the Superintendents at their recent meeting in Ann Arbor to bring before the student body.

The Sophomores have organized their class and have for their officers the following people: Wayne Carr, president; Blanche Jones, Secretary; and Cecil Hendee, Treasurer.

The Freshmen have chosen the following officers: Gertrude Tupper, president; Wilhelmina Bourbonnais, vice president; Pearl Robinson, Secretary and James Nash, treasurer.

The Seniors hold a candy sale every noon in the hall at school.

Walter Graves is ill with chickenpox. Although not many people attended the junior social Friday night, they cleared almost $12 and were quite well pleased with the result. They will hold a turkey raffle in November. The tickets will be on sale soon.

ENTIRELY NEW ROLE PLAYED BY LLOYD IN HIS LATEST COMEDY

In his latest feature Pathe comedy, "Girl Shy" which will be seen at the opera house, Harold Lloyd once more demonstrates his remarkable versatility before the camera. Lloyd's role in this new fun-film is said to be so entirely different from any he has ever attempted to portray, that he debated a long time before tackling the part.

The locale of "Girl Shy" is for the most part a small town, although towards the end of the picture the action is staged in the city.

Lloyd will introduce a real novelty to the screen in this picture and he has carefully guarded his secret because it is his own idea and to have it known before the showing of the fun-film might rob it of some of its appeal.

As is usual with the Lloyd Pathe-comedies, there is only a small cast in "Girl Shy". Jobyna Ralston is again seen as Harold's leading woman. Richard Daniels, Carlton Griffin, Priscilla King and Dorothy Dorr are also prominent in the support.

Fred Newmeyer and Sam Taylor directed "Girl Shy" from a story by Taylor, Tim Whelan, Ted Wilde and Tommy Gray.

McDonald had heartburn and dizzy spells;
now thanks Tanlac for perfect health.

"My health was slipping," writes "Charles McDonald. "Finally I became so run down and weak I couldn't hold my body straight. My back ached like it was breaking in two."

His appetite disappeared and after eating, heartburn and shortness of breath brought extra hardships. Finally he tried Tanlac. It added 20 pounds to his weight and left him feeling so well and strong that he now "faces life with a smile."

*Authentic statement. Address on request.

Tanlac revitalizes the liver, tones up the whole digestive system, and benefits the vital organs of the body. It is Nature's Greatest Tonic and builder. It puts new life in your veins.

Tanlac is absolutely free from harmful drugs. The famous Tanlac formula contains only roots, barks and curative herbs brought over the seven seas for your health.

Don't gamble with your health a minute longer. Get a bottle of Tanlac from your druggist today. After the very first dose, you will feel better. You will soon enjoy refreshing sleep, be able to eat heartily, and feel the full pleasure of health regained.

Notes: For Constipation, take Tanlac Vegetable Pills, Nature's own harmless laxative.

Why have RHEUMATISM?

O H, what a wonderful feeling to be free from that miserable rheumatism. To know again the joy of limber joints and active muscles—freedom from that agonizing pain!

How often have you longed for some relief as you suffered torture from swollen, inflamed muscles and joints—how often have you said you would give anything in the World for a few hours comfort!

But you didn't know that all you had to do to get real relief from this nerve wracking misery was just to build rich, red blood, did you? You didn't know that rheumatism had to be stopped from the inside by destroying the impurities that cause it—by building millions of red cells in your poor, weak blood, did you?

Until you did, your system full of healthy, rich, red blood! you will never get your rheumatism. S. S. S. will surely help you. That's because S. S. S. helps Nature build the red-blood-cells that fight off the impurities that cause rheumatism.

Conquer rheumatism! S. S. S. has shown the way. For generations S. S. S. has brought blessed relief and comfort to thousands of rheumatic sufferers.

When the rich, red blood that S. S. S. helps Nature build goes coursing through your system, it purifies the blood in your body. Rheumatism vanishes—skin blemishes disappear—you begin to get hungry again and enjoy your food—strength and power fill your body—you are vigorous—red blooded and ready for action. Know this joy of living again! Take S. S. S. and banish rheumatism!

Get S. S. S. from any druggist. The larger bottle is more economical.

To Prevent the Unbalanced Reformer From Running Counter-Clockwise

By RAY P. HOLLAND, Editor Field and Stream.

VERY often in a good cause some unbalanced fanatic, due to a superabundance of enthusiasm, so vigorously brings his views before the people that they are accepted as facts by many. Most reformers are inclined to overstep. It behooves the sportsman-conservationist to watch carefully that his enthusiasm does not carry him beyond reason.

Unnecessary restrictions or misrepresentation due to ignorance of existing conditions will cause the pendulum to swing back and much harm will be done to the cause of conservation, regardless of how sincere those responsible may have been. A new law for the protection of wild life should be proposed only after careful and thorough investigation. Our views or your views alone mean nothing.

Except in most extreme cases, conservation should never mean prohibition. The wild life of this country must be perpetuated for the good of the greatest number. The sentimentalist considers wild life sacred and believes that nothing should be killed. The fish hog and game butcher recognize only their capacity to destroy. The real sportsman is the happy medium and on his efforts sane conservation must depend.

Many times in the past, organizations sincerely working for the conservation of game have diametrically opposed each other. Their programs have been so far apart as to border on the ridiculous. To the outsider their claims and counter-claims must have appeared humorous.

The President's conference on outdoor recreation was called to promote effective co-operation and to act as a clearing house for all movements having to do with the outdoors. This organization is composed of the many associations over the country working for the betterment of outdoor sports. Each unit in joining automatically obligated itself to abide by the decision of the majority when questions of policy arise. This conference should do much to leaven the loaf and to prevent the superenthusiastic unbalanced reformer or organization from running counter-clockwise.

Depression Consequent to the War Ameliorated Too Slowly for Europeans

By F. A. BRITTEN, Congressman From Illinois.

The depression consequent to the war is being ameliorated too slowly to satisfy even the Europeans. There appears to be little effort on the part of the politicians to promote a comprehensive budget balanced by proper taxing laws until they realize that their respective countries can avoid bankruptcy in no other way. The politicians proclaim faith in themselves and hope that relief will come through gold channels from America.

Germany's position has improved tremendously since my last visit. She is one of the few countries of Europe with a carefully balanced budget. I find that the main cause of the improvement is the realization of the country that it has lost a costly war. The country's legislation is shaped toward meeting conditions as they are. President von Hindenburg is popular and has the confidence of the masses so that tax legislation, though heavy, is borne with grim determination by the German people.

France is in a much better position to meet her indebtedness to the United States than either Italy or Belgium and the quicker her politicians realize this the better it will be for France.

Mechanisms That Madly Hasten the Excessive Speed of Modern Life

By OCTAVE UZANNE, in La Depeche (Toulouse).

We are generally proud of the progress of science. It certainly makes for our well-being and comfort. But individually we are becoming very sensitive to the imperious dictation of certain mechanisms that madly hasten the excessive speed of modern life.

We complain of repeated calls to the telephone, our sybaritism is exasperated by every regression toward the methods of former times—the stoppage of motors, punctures of tires that force us to go back to the use of our legs, the necessity of going upstairs when the elevator will not work, and many other such daily miseries.

It is a common feature of modern conversation to rebel against these interruptions in our velvety path; we should like insurance against the failure of all these devices of the easy life.

Spoiled by superaction, we have forgotten how to be patient and resigned in the presence of the unexpected, which becomes more and more frequent as the multiplicity of organisms devised for our comfort becomes more complex in function.

Education for Better Citizenship Now Receives Popular Attention

By JOHN J. TIGERT, United States Commissioner of Education.

During the past year education for better citizenship has continued to receive that popular interest and attention from educationists which began immediately after the war. After a good deal of use and abuse of such terms as "Americanization," "adult education," etc., we are now beginning to formulate a real program not only for better citizenship as an objective in the regular school curriculum, but among our citizenry of all ages and nationalities. About twenty states have now established directors for this kind of service in their state departments. Many laws were passed in 1925 relating to patriotism, good citizenship and like matters, including such enactments as the requirement that the flag be displayed on schoolhouses, provision for the teaching of the Constitution of the United States in the schools, creation of patriotic holidays and regulation of their observance, provision for evening schools and similar classes for foreign-born subjects, etc.

Depend Upon It, Nothing Is Haphazard; Things Are Not Left to Chance

By SIR OLIVER LODGE, in Scientific American.

The antiquity of the solar system is fearful. Life on the earth, in some form or another, has been going on nearly all that time. But not for all that time has there been intelligent life as we know it now. The ages of the earth's past seem to have been a sort of preparation for the life and mind which now is and for the mind which is still to come. Depend upon it, nothing is haphazard, things are not left to chance. Everything is amenable to law and order. Everything points to a rational plan, of which we know neither the beginning nor the end, but toward which we can help. In face of all that, shall we allow ourselves to squabble about trivialities! Or shall we realize that we are the heirs of all the ages, that the destiny of mankind is being partly entrusted to us, and that humanity has a potential future beyond our wildest dreams!

Women and Pictures

Alike, Says Ed. Howe

Some women came to my house to dinner the other day, and began abusing the men. They said, "Present company excepted," but I begged them to enjoy themselves, and include me. Every little while I said something to provoke them further, and they finally did their best.

"Ladies," I said, "you have no idea how ashamed I am of my sex."

I told them of a man I knew, married three times, who solemnly declares he never in his life proposed marriage to any woman.

"I can easily believe the story," I added; "I never did."

I have heard it said of a great painting, "Don't go too close to it." In order to get the best out of a picture, view it in the proper light, and from a distance—don't crowd up and get so close a look that you realize the rough way in which it was made.

Same way with women (I said to them).

"I prefer to view them from a distance; never closer than four or five feet."—Ed. Howe's Monthly.

Precious Stones in China

Among the richer people in China, who do not place reliance on native banks, the most convenient manner of keeping their wealth is to invest it in precious stones for the adornment of the ladies of their families. The habit is not, however, without drawbacks and dangers, for armed robbers regard "great families" as lawful prey, and riches kept in this shape provide bandits with a never-failing source of supplies.

Get Back Your Health!

Are you dragging around day after day with a dull backache? Are you tired and lame mornings—subject to headaches, dizzy spells and sharp, stabbing pains? Then there's surely something wrong. Probably it's kidney weakness! Don't wait for more serious kidney trouble. Get back your health and keep it. For quick relief get Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys. They have helped thousands and should help you. Ask your neighbor!

A Michigan Case

James Deacey, prop. meat market, North Main Street, Ewart, Mich., says: "I had my kidneys in poor condition and brought on backache. Mornings, especially, there was a severe pain in my back. My kidneys acted too often and I was sure they were responsible for my discomfort. I lost no time in getting Doan's Pills and one box rid me of the trouble."

Just Can't Be Done

Old Si Chestnut says: "Don't try to fly all night with the owls and then expect to keep up with the eagles in the daytime."

Sure enough. It can't be done. Early to bed and early to rise, hustle like blazes—and advertise, that's our method. We may not be able to "fly with the eagles," but it isn't because we have been out all night with the owls. Safe, conservative banking, courteous treatment, cheerful, reliable service, these are the foundations of our banking business.

STATE NEWS IN BRIEF

St. Louis—W. A. Carpenter, who has been managing editor of the St. Louis Leader for the last year, has bought an interest in the Inlay City Times, where he assumed the editorial management October 1.

Ionia—Laurence I. Hale, well known miller here, was elected commander of the John F. Girard post of the American Legion, to succeed D. O. Melinger, who will serve as past commander the coming year.

Lansing—The state administrative board recently released $35,000 to the Michigan State college for additional work on the new horticultural building. It was estimated this amount will complete the structure.

Marshall—The Southern Michigan Transportation company has started its auto bus service in connection with the Michigan Electric Railway company. In this section, the busses operate between Kalamazoo and Jackson.

Lansing—Corporation tax receipts for the year will yield about $6,000,000, according to department of state estimates. Collections thus far total $5,784,891 and considerable of the levy is outstanding. Last year the yield was $5,803,865.

Marshall—William Felter, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Felter, of Marengo township, disappeared over a week ago and nothing has been heard of him since. He was last seen at the fair grounds, where he assisted in erecting the merry-go-round.

Lansing—The counties should look after persons afflicted with tuberculosis although the work should be under the supervision of the State, Dr. R. M. Olin, State Health Commissioner, told delegates to the Mississippi Valley Conference on Tuberculosis.

Ypsilanti—The enrollment at the State Normal College here now is 2,379, about 300 fewer than last year, according to figures given out by Registrar C. P. Stemle. Many of last year's graduates experienced difficulty in obtaining positions because of the over-supply of teachers.

Grand Rapids—Vice-president Charles G. Dawes is being sought by C. Wellington Kolner, of Pasadena, Calif., president of the International City Managers' Association, as a speaker during the annual convention of that organization to be held here Nov. 17, 18 and 19. Mayor Elvin Swarthout has joined in the invitation.

Sault Ste. Marie—Despondent over his slowness in school, Stewart H. Faulkner, 17 years old, committed suicide by swallowing a strychnine capsule. A physician was called, but the boy died three hours later. He had returned from a Chicago school recently and was attending the local high school. His father is a dentist.

Lansing—A return to the former limitations regulating ages of women operating dangerous machines in Michigan factories is to be asked of the coming legislature by Carl Young, commissioner of labor. The session of 1933 changed the minimum age from 18 to 21 through the passage of a House bill, which was amended in the Senate.

Ann Arbor—Construction of new buildings for the Department of Architecture and the museum will constitute the program of expansion for the University of Michigan during the next year, according to J. Christensen, assistant secretary. The Architecture building will be started on the $400,000 provision made by the state legislature last spring.

Saginaw—Pastors and teachers attending the seventy-fourth annual convention of the joint synod of Ohio and other states at the St. John's Evangelical Lutheran church voted unanimously for a union of the Ohio and Iowa synods. Delegates were directed to instruct their respective conventions to vote on the matter before November 1.

Midland—Michigan's right to fish in Michigan streams was assured temporarily here recently, when the jury hearing the case of Frank Collins, of Toledo, O., owner of stump lands on both sides of Pine River, against Gideon S. Gerhardt, of Reed City, who crossed Collins' river fences while wading in the bed of the stream in fishing, returned a verdict of no action.

Bay City—Instead of the elaborate wedding ceremony planned, a very quiet, quiet ceremony, marked the union of Miss Cella Brovage and her second cousin, Louis Brovage, of Riggsville. The groom, while taking the bride's father, Anthony Brovage, to the wedding by motor car met with a serious accident, in which he was hurt painfully and the elder Brovage was injured so seriously he lies in an unconscious condition in the hospital in the city.

Lansing—A new high record for gas-tax collection was set in August last completed by the Department of State. The two-cent levy on the State $977,010, an increase of $35,333 over the net return of $941,677 in July. Gross collections in August were $1,005,433, refunds totaling $28,423. That the total yield of the tax weight and gasoline highway fund plan will yield in excess of $1,000,000 was reported. The net yield of the State Treasury and the total yield of the gas tax alone to $14,000,000.

Marshall—The Marshall Gas Light Co. has sold its plant to the Michigan Federated Utilities of Battle Creek for $66,500 cash and a $42,000 mortgage.

Algonac—Edwin Randolph, 91 years old, Civil War veteran, is dead. He was born in Michigan in St. Clair County, in 1834. But four Civil War veterans are now living in Algonac.

Ironwood—A 40-pound fawn wrecked an automobile at Upson, 13 miles west of here, and paid with its life. An automobile party from Mellen came upon the fawn in the highway and could not avoid the animal.

Grand Rapids—Following consideration of rural social problems the Michigan State Conference of Social Workers elected Miss Dorothy E. Ketcham, of Ann Arbor, as its president to succeed Albert H. Stoneman, of Lansing.

Lansing—Lansing is to have a landing field on state property, Governor Groesbeck said recently. The administrative board is expected to approve a proposal that the city be given the use of part of the boys' vocational school farm, for aviation purposes.

Allegan—Henry Bollinger, 10 years old, was taken to Grand Rapids to face a charge of stealing a car belonging to Charles Walker of Byron Center. The boy was arrested at Bradley, when the machine he was driving ran out of gasoline. His youth led the officer to make an investigation which resulted in the arrest.

Monroe—Sheriff Joseph Kinsey has started an investigation as to how back saws, which gave liberty to four prisoners, were smuggled into the county jail. It was discovered that only four escaped instead of all the prisoners, simply because the remaining 14 were too large to crawl through the small opening in the bars.

Channing—Fire of an undetermined origin destroyed the St. Paul and Khoury Hotels and the poolroom of R. J. Tobin. The three buildings were frame structures. The fire originated in the St. Paul Hotel and firemen were hampered by low water pressure. Assistance was given by the Iron Mountain and Crystal Falls fire departments.

Mt. Clemens—At a special meeting of the city commission the resignation of City Engineer H. R. O'Mara was presented and accepted. It was the duty set for a public hearing of the charges of misconduct filed by the commission. In his resignation the engineer declared his innocence of the graft charges, but admits neglect of duties, owing to pressing private work.

Ionia—Scores of free clinics under the supervision of Dr. F. A. Poole, state health department, were under way in the Ionia county rural schools last week. The Schick test was given to assure those who took the toxin anti-toxin treatments to be immune from diphtheria whether the inoculations were successful. Over 4,000 pupils in Ionia county schools took the treatments.

Lapeer—Edward H. Gould, until a month ago road engineer of Lapeer County, an elder in the Presbyterian church here and superintendent of the church's Sunday school, stood formally accused of obtaining $24,519 from the county by fraudulent means. Charges that he had obtained $9,000 made a week ago in a warrant for his arrest, were dropped and a new warrant accusing him of the more serious offense was substituted.

Pontiac—Their desire to fly cost Victor Beerschore, 20 years old, of Bay City, and Everett Conay, 19, of Detroit, five years of liberty. They were sentenced to that term in Ionia reformatory by Judge Gillespie, when they pleaded guilty to stealing a plane belonging to a patron of the Overcashier field, near Birmingham. The youths said they had never driven a plane before the theft. They succeeded in getting away with the machine, but broke the propeller in a later flight attempt.

Detroit—The Security Trust company and W. C. Dunbar, receivers for the Peoples Motor Coach company, have completed negotiations for the purchase of the Star Motor Coach lines from William McCallum, of Birmingham, Mich., and associates. The Peoples Motor Coach company will take possession of the property immediately. The Star Motor Coach lines operate 24 coaches running between Pontiac and Detroit, with a branch line from the Ford Motor company, Highland Park, to Berkley.

Lansing—The War Department seems to think pretty well of the State Military Reservation at Grayling, where the Michigan National Guard holds its annual encampment. Adj. Gen. John S. Bersey has received a letter from the Department stating that plans are in contemplation to send a regiment of Illinois National Guard to Grayling next year for its annual maneuvers, and asks if Gov. Groesbeck, as commander-in-chief of the state military and naval forces, is willing. The Governor says that he is.

Lansing—An investigation into the insurance activities of the "Stags," a fraternal order, has been undertaken by the state insurance department. L. T. Handa, commissioner, announced. A number of complaints relative to group insurance policies taken out for the entire membership, with the order named as beneficiary, have been received. It was charged that the order was to receive the money from the insurance company in the event of death of a member, and pay the dependents, but that it failed to turn the funds over to the claimants.

HOW TO SOLVE A CROSS-WORD PUZZLE

When the correct letters are placed in the white spaces this puzzle will spell words both vertically and horizontally. The first letter in each word is indicated by a number, which refers to the definition listed below the puzzle. Thus No. 1 under the column headed "horizontal" defines a word which will fill all the white spaces up to the first black square to the right, and a number under "vertical" defines a word which will fill the white squares to the next black one below. No letters go in the black spaces. All words used are dictionary words, except proper names. Abbreviations, slang, technical terms and obsolete forms are indicated in the definitions.

THINKS MANKIND IS TOO HARD ON FOX

"And Sampson went out and caught 300 foxes, and took firebrands and turned tail to tail and put a firebrand in the midst of two tails. And when he had set the brands on fire he let them go into the standing corn of the Philistines." And ever since mankind has been practicing cruelty toward this little animal. It has been accused of every crime imaginable, from stealing poultry to stealing lambs and pigs, and even calves. It will occasionally carry off a hen or a duck, but this only occurs when there are young foxes and other food is scarce, observes the Minneapolis News. For every head of poultry the fox kills it pays in the amount of field mice, moles and destructive rodents killed. Let a farmer from any cause whatever lose a hen or duck and a fox drive is ordered and men and women and children gather from far and near and every fox that is unfortunate enough to be caught in the circle of the howling mob is clubbed to death.

To that class of people that are always thirsting for the blood of some poor wild creature I would say, get a McGuffey's fourth reader and read the "Morning's Rumble." I say give poor Reynard a chance.

Love of One's Work

It does not matter whether a man paints the petals of a rose or the chains of a precipice, so that love and admiration attend on him as he labors and wait forever on his work. It does not matter whether he toll for months on a few inches of his canvas, or cover a palace front with color in a day; so only that he be with a solemn purpose, that he have filled his heart with patience or urged his hand to haste.—Huskin.

floor of the cabin of the late David M. Bowman, a miner killed in an accident four years ago, $3,000 in British war bonds were found by Miss Anna Jackson of Pasadena, one of the heirs of Bowman's estate, and Coroner Hanna.

Bowman, fifty-four years old and a native of Scotland, was the plucky miner who, twelve years ago, gained distinction by his discovery of the largest gold nugget ever taken in southern California. He cashed his nugget for $2,000. Bowman was killed in a cave-in accident in the Coolgardie mining district.

Miss Jackson and a sister in Scotland were named as heirs. At the inquest nothing of value was listed in Bowman's estate. Learning that Bowman was an odd character, doubtful of the honesty of others, Miss Jackson began a search for treasure. She searched the cabin in vain. Convinced that Bowman's life savings were in or near the cabin, she returned with the coroner and in digging in the earthen floor she found the tin can with its wealth.

Riches and honor are what men desire; but if they attain to them by improper ways they should not continue to hold them. Poverty and low estate are what men dislike; but if they are brought to such condition by improper ways, they should not feel shame for it.—Confucius.

POINTS ON
KEEPING WELLDR. FREDERICK R. GREEN
Editor of "HEALTH"

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

DIABETIC CHILDREN

THE discovery of insulin has entirely changed the outlook for persons suffering from diabetes. While it has been known for only about four years, it is now well proven that an adult who has developed to average size and whose body has grown to maturity can be restored to health and kept in a condition of health through the constant use of insulin. Whether the long-continued use of this serum will, in some cases at least, restore the diseased "island cells" in the pancreas to normal condition so that the patient can get along without insulin is not yet known. There are some indications that in favorable cases this may be possible, but so far it is too early to make any definite promises.

But how about the child which, for reasons yet unknown, develops this condition in early years, when the body is only half grown? Insulin we know will keep him alive as it will the adult. But will it make it possible for the child to grow in size and weight like a normal child; will it enable the child to develop mentally to the same extent as a healthy child?

This is the question that Dr. E. P. Joslin of Boston, one of the leading authorities on diabetes in this country, attempts to answer in a recent issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association. It is a question that has arisen only in the last few years because, as Doctor Joslin shows, before the discovery of insulin by Doctor Banting it was the exception for the diabetic child to live. Before the time of insulin practically all children who developed diabetes died in the first year or two. Now, of one hundred and twenty children whom Doctor Joslin has treated with insulin since August, 1922, one hundred and twenty are living.

But will these children continue to live and will they develop into normal adults? They have had diabetes now for an average of 4.4 years and have had insulin treatment for an average of 3.1 years. Forty per cent, or forty-eight of these one hundred and twenty children have either not had to increase the amount of insulin or have actually decreased it. That means that the disease has not progressed, and in some cases has actually decreased in that time. On the other hand, of one hundred and sixty-four children that were treated by diet and other methods without insulin, only twelve are still alive.

How about growth? Before the discovery of insulin, only one diabetic child out of twenty increased in height; with insulin treatment the growth of diabetic children is within half an inch of the growth of normal children. Their weight also increases to nearly that of the normal child and in thirty-four cases was greater.

So Doctor Joslin concludes, although the time is yet too short to speak positively, that the diabetic child under insulin treatment not only will live but will develop to almost the same extent and at the same rate as the healthy child.

A REAL SNAKE DOCTOR

THE newspapers contain many interesting items for those who can read between the lines. There's this article about Joseph Girard of Atkinson, Kan.

Joseph had suffered for many years from rheumatism. Walking became more and more difficult, until at last he was convinced that he couldn't walk at all. The doctors were not able to find any reason why he could not walk. He just didn't walk, that was all.

One day he was wheeled out in the yard to get the fresh air. He sat there in the sun, wishing he could get about the way he did when he was young. He leaned back in the chair and closed his eyes, dreaming of other days. When he opened his eyes, a large snake was crawling across his foot. Joseph forgot all about his wheeled chair and his crutches. He forgot that he couldn't walk. He left rapidly and on short notice. Physicians now say that he can walk without any trouble. Joseph says he can, especially if there are any snakes in the neighborhood.

These are the facts, as printed in the daily press. Every physician of wide experience can tell you of similar instances. Many persons who think that they can't move, do so easily, in the presence of some influence in which they believe enough or which startles them enough to make them move without thinking.

If Joseph had gone to a voodoo doctor or the seventh son of a seventh son, his recovery would have been credited to whatever kind of treatment he had last.

Does this mean that anything in which a person believes will cure him? Not at all. It simply means that when the body is otherwise sound and when only the will to move is lacking, anything that makes the patient want to move worse than he wants to remain still will enable him to move, whether it be faith or fright.

But suppose Joseph had had a broken leg? The snake might have made him jump out of his chair, but it wouldn't have made his broken bone knit. Some afflictions can be cured by anything that the patient believes in. But if you break your leg, don't send for a snake.

Had Lost All Hope
of Ever Being Well

Read story of the fight for health and final victory as told by Mrs. James A. Hall, Box 21, Norris City, Ill., via.

"About twelve years ago my health failed. I could not eat anything without suffering. I had heartburn, sour stomach, palpitation of the heart, smothering spells, pains in my back and sides and a cough almost like consumption. Nothing helped me. I grew worse and was able to sit up only part of the time. I had lost all hope of ever being any better when someone gave me a Pe-ru-na book. The book described my case so truly that I began to take Pe-ru-na. After two and a half bottles I could eat without suffering and improved from then on. I took eight bottles and felt like a new person. That was fourteen years ago. So many diseases are due to catarrh that I think Pe-ru-na the greatest family medicine in the world."

For more than half a century Pe-ru-na has been doing just such work as this.

What Pretty Girl Did
for Sick Stomach

Miss E. Rich of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I don't know what the cause was, but every few days my stomach would feel all bloated up with gas, my appetite was poor and I felt sick to my stomach—to say nothing of headaches."

"I never thought of using Carter's Little Liver Pills until nothing seemed to help. After using Carter's I felt relieved at once—and now as soon as my stomach 'talks' back I answer with Carter's and have the last word."

SICK WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Can Be Carried Comfortably Over The Critical Period by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound — Note Mrs. Hadden's Case

Macon, Georgia.—"During the Change of Life I suffered with my whole right side and could not get up on my left side. I was in bed about two months and could not get up only as my son would lift me. After doctoring with out relief a man who was rooming with us told me that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was the Change of Life. I began taking your medicine. After taking it for two weeks I could get out of my bed by myself. I am now 58 years old and in better health and stronger than ever in my life. I have recommended the Vegetable Compound to many suffering women, young and old, and you may use my name anywhere as long as you please. I will be glad to answer any letters sent to me."

The Kitchen Cabinet

There are days which occur in this climate, at almost any season of the year, wherein the world reaches perfection, when the air, the heavenly bodies and the earth make harmony as if nature would indulge her offspring.

SUCH GOOD THINGS

Pears are a fruit that one may indulge in to the limit. They are especially good for desserts. Try the following: Remove the blossom end of half a dozen pears after washing well. Leave the stems also. Put to bake in a deep baking dish with brown sugar—half a cupful—the juice and grated rind of a lemon, half a cupful of water, three tablespoonfuls of butter. Bake and bake until the pears are well browned and tender. Serve with the sauce from the pan, with a little cream if needed.

Pears With Raspberries.—Cook fresh pears, or the whole canned ones may be used, fill the centers with chopped candied cherries and add a cupful of sugar syrup. When serving cover each pear with raspberries which have been put through a sieve to remove the seeds. Cover with whipped cream and serve with cherries as a garnish.

Drop Nut Cakes.—Take a cupful each of sugar and shortening, four tablespoonfuls of sour milk, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, two eggs, cinnamon and cloves to taste; add one cupful each of nuts and raisins and flour to make a drop batter. Drop on baking sheets and bake in a moderate oven.

Fruit Juice Pie.—Take two and one-half tablespoonfuls of cornstarch, add one-fourth of a cupful of sugar, a teaspoonful of butter, a pinch of salt and the yolks of two eggs. Cook all together, adding the whites well beaten for a meringue. Pour into a baked crust and brown the pie in a moderate oven.

Bird's Nest Pudding.—Any fruit such as sliced peaches, pears or apricots may be used, but sliced apples are especially good. Fill a small pie plate and cover with a rich biscuit dough. Bake and turn upside down on a large plate. Spread with butter, sprinkle generously with sugar and grated nutmeg. One may use cinnamon or any flavoring liked. Cut into pie-shaped pieces and serve. This dessert needs no sauce if plenty of butter and sugar are used.

Nut Cutlets.—Have ready half a cupful of chopped nuts, walnuts, almonds and brazil nuts; add to them a cupful of bread crumbs and a cupful of mashed potatoes, with a little chopped onion and parsley; beat two eggs, mix with other ingredients, add salt, pepper, and form into balls or cakes. Dip into beaten egg and crumbs and fry a golden brown.

Cabbage Salad.—Chop two cupfuls of cabbage very fine, add one cupful of rolled peanuts, crisp and fresh. Roll with a rolling pin on the molding board until like coarse crumbs. Add any highly seasoned salad dressing and serve.

TASTY FOODS

Kohl-rabi is not well enough appreciated as a dainty vegetable. When tender and not overgrown they are as delightful when cooked as the finest cauliflower. Peel off the thin outer coat and cut into thin slices, going round and round the vegetable. If any part seems tough or fibrous discard it, cover with a little water as possible to cook it and do not drain; add a little milk and butter and flour well blended with salt and pepper. Cream will be more delicious but prepared in this manner with plenty of butter it is a dainty dish.

When there is some chicken, but not enough to serve again, left over, take some of the chicken gravy, add more milk, and if there is any tried-out chicken fat thicken it with flour and add to the gravy; if not use butter. Shred the chicken after removing it from the bones and add to the gravy. Steam until soft and thoroughly hot as many slices of bread as will be needed, butter them and pour over the hot chicken gravy. If some pork chops or roast is at hand the meat may be added to extend the chicken or veal is even better.

Roast Hamburg Steak.—To one and one-half pounds of hamburger steak add two slices of salt pork finely chopped, one-half cupful of bread crumbs, one egg, three-fourths of a teaspoonful of salt. Shape into a loaf, dredge with flour and over the top place a few strips of salt pork. Roast forty-five minutes, basting every seven minutes, with one-fourth of a cupful of hot water, then with the fat in the pan. To the liquid add water to make a cupful. Brown one and one-half tablespoonfuls of butter with two tablespoonfuls of flour and add the liquid from the pan. Cook until smooth and serve with the steak.

Peppers are good in omelet, scrambled eggs, chop suey and as a garnish for cream soups. In French dressing with chopped onion they add greatly to any simple salad.

Tea is much better and more wholesome than a tea ball.

Gowns and Wraps on Fashion List

"Are we on the brink of a new era of dress?" is the question floating about wherever fall fashions are discussed. To be hovering upon such a brink is a delightful state of things for women, observes a fashion correspondent in the Kansas City Star. But lady, lady, if you fancy you are in a state of joyful expectancy, think of the state of mind such a prospect brings to all designers, fabric manufacturers, ready-to-wear concerns and all kindred interests that grow rich (or poor) on women's love of change in dress.

The element of fickleness is to be reckoned with, and that quality moves money in business as fast as it brings changes in love affairs.

Does the modern woman really want elaboration in dress or is this just a flurry—a normal reaction of the long reign of the straightline frock and the boyish mode?

Frankly, nobody knows. The wisest ones in the world of dress, the designers and creators of fashions, retained the jumper and the modified straightline frock in fall opening. Playing safe, of course, if women do not accept the elaborate fashions they still have the simple frock to offer. One need not hesitate on the purchase of these simple frocks secure in the knowledge that they will be worn in satin, in crepe, in chiffon, in velvet, in tweeds and in jerseys. A glance at the fall mode gives the jumper its secure place and in all the bright greens, deep reds and shades of brown.

The princess of autumn 1925 is a clever modification of the princess that was, it is molded to the figure about the waistline, flares at the hem, the long sleeve often flares out below the elbow or flares a cuff that a cavalier might envy. In other words today's princess is a rebuilt model beautifully flared by godets, slim by means of fabric cut in many places almost as many as old-time gowns, but, oh, so different. The V neckline, or the newer modification, a V in the back and the round neckline in front, are pretty indeed.

Bedecking the Neckline.
The high neckline is maintained, the fur choker often turns the trick. The scarf is as versatile as ever whether in flowing style or reduced to a string-like arrangement that falls from shoulder, down the back or ties under the ear. These straight stand collars are finished on the inside with contrasting colored silks.

In contrast to the princess there is the period frock, a specimen of such loveliness was in every opening. Full skirts in rich brocades, flowing velvets, lace and tulle, and bouffant in line are joined to the molded bodice. Generally speaking, these frocks have an appeal year after year. Like a velvet evening wrap they are always in the mode. With today's present variety in fashions the period frock hardly has the paved path to popularity that it did when gowns were less elaborate.

Insets of batiste and lace in the form of godets, long front panels are now a part of the mode. Lacy collars, frills and cuffs in lace batiste and organdie are seen in many colors.

The length of the coat in tailored suits is either three-quarters or hip length. Rather heavy diagonally ribbed silk in gray, trimmed in narrow bands of baby lamb, is lined in velvet to match; ribbed velours de laine in Bordeaux red is one of the lovely materials for fall. In fact red in rich, deep tones is one of the touches of brightness the autumn wardrobe will know. Women accepted red very gradually but they are just as slow in letting go of this gorgeous color.

The long belted jumper has a belt that fastens with silver belt buckle of the shirtwaist period.

The coats are to have deep shawl collars. A scarf that winds about the throat and forms a throw is one of the notes of elegance. The cape is prominent on coats, sometimes the cape forms the sleeve. The soft velours, trimmed dyed kid, silver leather and gold leather are luxurious. Lavish fur bands, pockets of fur and braids in gold and self tones are much used. Black and rich autumn colors are shown.

The tweed coats, flaring from the shoulder, have the raglan sleeve and a leopard skin collar.

If you have a yard or a mile of fringe get it out, the yard can be used as a bertha on a satin frock and all of the mile that can be wound round your figure in spirals will make you a replica of fringe frocks from Paris. Whole capes are enveloped in fringe.

Many of the evening dresses are frankly fuller, but of such supple silks that they seem slim. For these there are frequent and unusual color combinations, the dress reported by cable, made in flat layer treatments in green.

blue and silver, or in mauve pink, with two rose panels and a blue one hanging loosely at the front. A few are straightline, such as one of poppy red with long lines of ruffles draped to suggest flowers dripping down either side of the front and back.

Mme. Rolande showed several afternoon and dinner dresses featuring velvet, chiffon and crepe de chine also were shown.

In evening dresses, moire is also worth noting, because it is a fabric comparatively little seen in the majority of showings. One model of pinkish mauve has the corsage bordered in gold. The skirt carries a founce low in the front but brought higher at the sides and to the waist line in the back.

Many of the dresses are trimmed with vertical bands which mark the bust a little and indicate the normal waistline, adding to the width at the hem. The chiffon frocks often have a yoke of the lace of the exact shade of the dress. Others are trimmed with narrow flounces in various fashions, but always in points, which Mme. Rolande has made the controlling motif in her trimmings.

Much Velvet Seen.
Velvet skirts are an important factor. With the skirts, blouses of the same fabric, or a contrasting one trimmed in velvet are shown, although in many instances the skirts may be purchased separately.

Colors vary only slightly, deep raspberry red, bottle green, royal blue and brown skirts of this type are shown. The blue which would be very bright in another fabric, assumes a darker tone in the pile material.

A skirt of chiffon velvet with lame blouse is pale rose velvet, with circular sides. The blouse has a gold cast, and introduces an array of pastel shades, including rose. It is made in the manner of the more tailored jumpers, having long sleeves, and a collar which may be worn high. It is about hip length, being held close at the waistline with a sash of self material. Bands of rose velvet and gold braid serve as trimming.

The tweed coats favor straight lines broken in the back by cape effects, which generally reach just to the waist, although occasionally they fall below the hips. One model with a short cape which just covered the sleeves was colored and cuffed in fox, dyed a cocoa brown to match the tweed.

The tweed suits appeared in the regular mannish effects with single or double-breasted jackets reaching to the hips, and slender skirts. More novel types had knee-length coats in either straight or flared lines, fur collars and skirts widened by puffs or gores.

The homespun coats were developed in wrap-around or ulster styles, with the flare from the shoulder predominating. An attractive example in dull gray-green with irregular stripes of darker green bordering the hem and sleeves, had a fitted shoulder achieved by contrasting the sleeves up into the standing collar. These models were trimmed by seaming tucks and rows of self buttons.

POULTRY

COST OF RATION IS BIGGEST ITEM

A very important factor in any ration is the matter of cost. The best ration is one that will give the largest returns, cost considered. This does not mean the largest returns or the cheapest ration. The biggest income may be secured from a ration that is so high in price that it is impracticable to use, while the cheapest ration might bring about such low production as to make it unprofitable.

From the farm poultryman's standpoint the question of feeding is largely a question of economically supplementing the home-grown feeds. Two general types of feeds come under this classification: Those that are supplied to the fowls and those the fowls pick up by ranging over the farm.

In the majority of cases there are two problems: One, the supplying of protein or flesh-forming foods, and the other of giving the proper variety to the ration. This is more particularly true when the fowls are confined than when they are picking up considerable of their feed by foraging over the farm. When foraging they eat more scratch feed and less mash than will properly balance up their ration if they are allowed to choose as they may. Therefore, they must be encouraged to eat the mash by making it as attractive as possible and also by limiting the amount of the scratch feeds which are supplied, especially during the morning feeds.

The cost of the ration is the highest item of expense in poultry production. The greatest opportunity for a saving lies in the feeding. The big item that the majority of people need to pay more attention to is that of balancing up the food by the use of some of the animal proteins and supplying additional variety. Too much scratch grain and not enough mash to properly balance the ration is the mistake made by many flock owners.

Market All Fowls That Molt Early in Autumn

"Most hens stop laying when they begin to molt," says E. L. Dakan of the poultry department at Ohio State university. "A hen must be a consistent layer to make a high record, and an early molting hen is not a consistent layer."

"The time of the molt is the best indication of the past year's performance. This rule can be used in culling all breeds and varieties, but is of special importance with such breeds as the Orpingtons and Minorcas that do not have the yellow skin."

"The hen that molts early, under normal conditions, will not lay as many winter eggs as the hen that molts late. Neither will she begin egg production earlier in the spring. No definite date can be set as to early molt, but as a general rule the first hens in the flock to molt should be sold, and the last to molt should be kept for breeding purposes."

"Hens may be thrown into an early molt by starving while laying heavily, by irregular feeding, by roosting in a house that is poorly ventilated, or by anything which tends to check egg production."

Fattening on Range

Some feeders have tried confining the turkeys while they are being fattened, but with little success. When confined to a pen, they may eat heartily for a few days but afterwards lose their appetites and then begin to lose flesh. A certain amount of liberty and range is necessary to keep them hungry and in good, healthy condition. Where this is combined with a good feeding ground, as is the case when they are allowed to run in a cornfield that has been hogged off, results are more than likely to be gratifying.

Poultry Hints

Ducks or geese will eat all the grit they require without putting it in their feed.

Turkeys should not be fed at first. Growth should come first and fattening should not begin until in November if the birds are to be wanted for the Thanksgiving market.

A novel and easy way to make wet mash is to pour a little milk in the mash-hopper at noon. Just enough liquid should be used to moisten what the birds will clean up.

Make a bred-to-lay hen's home life happy and comfortable with proper housing and feeding, as well as the other surroundings, and she will try to do the best justice and let you enjoy the profits therefrom.

Only a laying hen is worthy of her feed.

Whether or not it pays to raise capons depends very much upon the market. People who eat capons are very particular people and birds not only have to be well raised, but well finished.

Green feed increases the fertility and hatchability of eggs, it has been found. Hens should have access to pasture, or be fed slugs, sprouted oats or some other good green feed.

WRIGLEYS

Probably one reason for the popularity of WRIGLEYS is that it lasts so long and returns such great dividends for so small an outlay. It keeps teeth clean, breath sweet, appetite keen, digestion good. Fresh and full-flavored always in its wax-wrapped package.

MICHIGAN COWS RANK HIGH IN PRODUCTION

MORE THAN 800 HERDS PASS REQUIREMENTS FOR NATIONAL HONOR ROLL

Ranking second only to Wisconsin among dairy states of the country in the number of herds which have qualified for the National Dairy Exposition, "300-pound-herd-average" honor roll, Michigan dairy farmers have made an enviable name for themselves as efficient producers.

A total of 813 Michigan herds are listed in the national roll as having averaged more than 300 pounds of butterfat per cow from the period from July 1, 1924 to June 30, 1925. Wisconsin, with 934 herds in the select circle, tops the entire country; while Minnesota takes third place with 887 herds listed.

Other leading states are: Pennsylvania, 259; Iowa, 193; Ohio, 150; Indiana, 145; and Illinois, 115.

The Michigan herds are all members of 86 of the state cow testing associations. There are 106 active cow testing associations in Michigan now, according to A. C. Baltzer, extension specialist at the Michigan State College who has charge of the association work. Wisconsin has more than 160 active associations, and Mr. Baltzer points out that Michigan's percentage of 300 pound herds is greater in proportion to the number of test associations than is Wisconsin's.

Special certificates will be awarded the 813 Michigan "300-pound" herd owners during the National Dairy Exposition, in Indianapolis from October 10 to 17. A number of prominent dairymen of the state are also entering animals in the competitive judging classes at the big show.

Caves in Britain Well Worth Tourist's Visit

Little as some might suspect it, there are some famous caves in Great Britain, and still more that deserve to be famous. The country is rich not only in the number, but also in the variety of type of the caverns which it contains. Best known among these caves are the Peak cavern, at Castleton, in Derbyshire and the Cheddar caves, in Somerset. The Peak cavern has been known since the earliest ages. No one could help seeing it, for it yawns huge and black in the cliff-like side of that hill on whose dizzy crags Peveril of the Peak had his castle, says the Wide World Magazine.

An ice-cold stream issues from its limestone recesses, and subterranean lakes stretch far into the hillside. This vast cavern has been explored for 2,250 feet.

The Cheddar caves do not advertise in so spectacular a fashion, although the Cheddar gorge is one of the most striking pieces of scenery in Great Britain. The first series of caves was accidentally discovered in 1837, through a man at work in his garden falling into the hillside. The second series remained unknown until 1898. These limestone caves form a series of beautiful and lofty halls, hung with stalactites from the roof, and with beautifully colored stalagmites rising from the floor to meet them.

Saved From Death by Knowledge of Morse

Two employees of a telegraph company sent to repair a burglar alarm in a financial institution at Boston were accidentally locked in the vault. Bank employees in vain tried to open the massive door. It was equipped with a time lock which was set to open the following morning. The police, fire department and safe experts could do nothing. There was a safety device inside the vault which, if the prisoners knew about, would have released them but there seemed to be no way to make them acquainted with the fact.

Finally someone thought of the Morse telegraph code. With huge sledges the words were sounded to the imprisoned men. Then the anxious throng waited. There was no answer. Suddenly the door swung open and the two men tottered out. They had heard the message and found the lock. They were on the point of collapse after being in the air-tight compartment for an hour.

Not the Same "Kitty"

The other evening Jimmy's mother was settling herself down for a good read when she saw her small son glide over to the window, seize the kitten that was dozing on the ledge, and, swinging it about by its tail, give it a vigorous shaking.

"Jimmy! Jimmy! Stop that at once," she cried, and making a grab at the kitten, rescued it from its tormenter.

"What do you mean by being so cruel to the poor, little thing?" she demanded.

"I wasn't cruel," said Jimmy. "When dad was playing cards last night I heard him say, 'Now boys, there's at least five dollars in the kitty,' and—well, I was trying to shake it out."

Not So Dumb

When the earl of Bradford was brought before the lord chancellor to be examined on the application for a statute of insanity against him, the question was asked him from the witness stand:

"How many feet has a sheep?"
"Does your lordship," answered Lord Bradford, "mean a live sheep, or a dead sheep?"
"Is it not the same thing?" said the chancellor.
"No, my lord," returned Lord Bradford. "There is much difference; a live sheep may have four legs, a dead sheep has only two; the two forelegs are shoulders, but there are only two legs of mutton!"—Yorkshire (Eng.) Post.

Cancer in Lower Animals

Scientists seeking a cure for cancer have been attempting to find a solution for their problem, and to learn more of the nature of the growth by producing it in animal specimens. Experiments with rats and mice have shown that a certain kind of tar will cause cancerous formations six months after it is applied to the living tissue of the animals, and it was also found that cancers were produced in the stomachs of the specimens after they had eaten cockroaches infected with a certain kind of worm. While the cure is being sought, efforts are also constantly in progress to improve existing methods of treatment to allay the ravages of the mysterious affliction.—Chicago Herald.

An Ingenious "Alibi"

The people who are most indolent physically are often quick enough mentally. Such was the case with the British workman of whom the Times tells. He was usually late in coming to work, and one day the foreman took him to task.

"It's a funny thing, Jim," he said, "you allus coming in a quarter of an hour behind the time and living next door to the works; while Teddy is allus on time, and lives three miles away!"

"There's nowt funny about it," retorted Jim. "If he's a bit late in a morning, he can hurry a bit; but if I'm late, I'm here."—Youth's Companion.

Other Fish to Fry

The owner of an estate on which there was a lake was annoyed to see a stranger fishing therein. He approached the trespasser and began to abuse him.

"This lake," he said, "is privately owned and I stocked it myself. You must go away at once."

"Just a minute, sir," said the fisherman calmly. "What did you stock the lake with?"

"Trout," was the answer. "And I won't have—"

"That's all right, sir," said the trespasser innocently. "I'm fishing for gillies."—London Sunday Morning.

Better than Pills

YOU WILL NEVER wish to take another dose of pills after having once used Chamberlain's Tablets. They are easier and more pleasant to take, more gentle and mild in their action and more reliable. They leave the bowels in a natural condition, while the use of pills is often followed by severe constipation, requiring a constant increase in the dose. Every bottle guaranteed by your druggist.

Edwin Win-the Prize

Many old squires were giving a party to the village school children. After tea he stepped onto the platform and announced with a beam of pride:

"Now, I am going to perform certain stunts, and you must guess what verb they represent. The boy or girl who succeeds first will receive a prize."

"What did it. Instantly every eye turned on him. First of all, the old man lay down on the platform. Then one man came forward and tried to lift him. Two others came and between them they lifted the old man, who was rather fat."

"What were meant to represent?" asked the boy.

"Union is strength," answered the boy.

"What did it represent?" asked the boy.

"The old man was the squire, the boy was the schoolmaster, and the two others were the village constables."

HIS LAST WISH

One evening just before dinner the wife came in to find her husband and a stranger—afterward ascertained to be a lawyer—engaged in some mysterious business over the library table, upon which were spread several sheets of paper.

"What are you doing with all the paper, Henry?" demanded the wife.

"I am making a will," responded the husband meekly.

"A will?"

"Yes, my dear. In your presence I shall not presume to call it a will."

Just Wanted to Ask

"Is the dentist in?" inquired the man who had left home with the intention of having the beauty thing out and done with.

"Yes, sir," the maid replied. "He can see you at once if you wish."

"Oh, no, no! I—I didn't want to see him—I'm glad he's in. I was afraid he was out in this wretched weather, you know. Might catch cold."

"Good-bye," said the man.
