MRS. E. W. MARTIN

Mary Jane Northup was born Dec. 3, 1841 at Wallingford, Vermont. She was the daughter of Alexander and Phoebe Northup and of this family of six children only one survive, Mrs. Sarah A. Ford of Springfield, Mass.

She married Elias Wheeler Martin May 10th, 1862, and nine children blessed this union, five of whom live to reverence the memory of a sweet, consecrated mother and comrade—Mrs. C. B. Eaman of Garden City, Kansas; Mrs. Roy H. Teeple of Manistique; Lyle W. Martin of Detroit, and Mrs. Villa M. Richards and Miss Blanch Martin at home.

NOW IT'S CEDAR LAKE

The latest summer resort project in this vicinity has been started by Earl Baughn and Norman Wilson, both of Pinckney, who have bought the old Lee farm of 180 acres, 6 miles northwest of Pinckney and about the same distance southwest of Howell.

Mr. Baughn says there is a mile of ideal shore line with shaded sandy shores and is near a good graveled highway. A dam has been put in and the water of Cedar lake raised so as to make this lake resort one of the best in this vicinity.

Streets and boulevards have been laid out and already many lots have been reserved by purchasers. The first 50 lots will be sold at the low price of $500 each. After these lots are gone the prices will be higher.

Mr. Baughn, who has made a success of the resort business at Portage Lake, is highly elated at the prospects of this new resort project. He says it will be one of the most beautiful places for summer homes in Michigan.

SCHOOL NOTES

The following Commencement parts have been assigned: Valedictory, Robert Stackable; Salutatory, Bertha Waters; Class Poem, Nellie Jones; Class History, Kenneth Reason; Gittatory, Leola Stackable; Class Prophecy, Vera Kellenberger; Class Will, M. L. Hinchey.

Howell High School baseball team defeated Pinckney 12-9 last Thursday. Pinckney was in the lead until the seventh inning when Swarthout, Pinckney's reliable pitcher, lost control and Howell scored five times. Pinckney plays South Lyon at Pinckney next Friday.

The date of the school exhibition has been changed from May 14 to May 21.

The Junior banquet is to be held in the Masonic Hall this year. Practically all arrangements have been made for the occasion. The Juniors say this one is to be the best ever held in Pinckney.

Do not forget the Senior play tonight.

MOTHER'S DAY

Mother's Day will be observed at the Congregational church, Sunday morning, May 9. The entire service will be in charge of mothers, and the program will include a senior mother's quartet, a younger mother's choir, and appropriate readings. The oldest and youngest mothers in attendance will be presented with flowers.

WILL BUILD NEW HOME

Earl Baughn, of Portage Lake, has bought from G. W. Teeple, two lots on East Main street, at the corner of Park street. Mr. Baughn expects to build a home of rustic, log cabin design, on the property and will occupy the new home with his family when completed.

IN LOVING MEMORY

In loving memory of Thomas H. Dolan who died May 2nd, 1925.

That tell of the love for the soul that has fled.

But the tears through many a long night wept.

And the sad remembrance so fondly kept.

STATE NEWS
IN BRIEF

Grand Rapids—A joint meeting of the Michigan League of Nursing Education and the Michigan State Nurses' association will be held here April 27 to 30. Speakers will include Miss Mary E. Gladwin, of St. Paul, and Dr. Caroline Hedger, of the Elizabeth McCormick foundation, Chicago.

Lansing—State parks are to be officially opened May 15, according to an announcement of the State Conservation Department. Twelve parks, in which no improvements are to be made during the season, will be opened May 1. Most improvement work will be done in parks in Oakland county.

Mt. Clemens—Approximately 11 miles of 20-foot concrete pavement will be laid from Mt. Clemens northward to Five Points this year, according to the Macomb County Road Commission, which has approved plans for the work. The highway connects with North avenue in this city and traverses a rich farming and dairy country.

Pontiac—Adjournment of one week has been taken in the municipal court hearing for Raymond Wurster and Albert Haar, officials of the Wurster Auto Sales company, held on charges of forgery growing out of transactions in automobile financing. Wurster was president and Haar secretary-treasurer of the company. The adjournment was agreed to by both sides.

Lansing—Andrew B. Dougherty, attorney general is at Washington to try to prevent congressional approval being given the diversion of Lake Michigan waters to the Chicago drainage canal through enactment of the omnibus rivers and harbors bill. Rep. John B. Sosnowski of Detroit and Rep. Theodore N. Burton of Ohio has previously telegraphed urging Dougherty to come to Washington immediately.

Ionia—The "Green for Governor" movement of Ionia county, sponsored by the Young Men's club, was strengthened considerably when the Saranac business men, farmer guests and American Legion members heartily endorsed the genial executive for the state office and voted to become affiliated with the booster organization. The event was the annual banquet of the Saranac Business Men's association.

Pontiac—Edward S. Eckert, of Grand Rapids, has been appointed recreational director for the city, succeeding G. S. D. Neal, who resigned early in the year to take a similar position in Birmingham, Ala. Eckert is a former athletic star at Michigan State college and has been in charge of recreation for some time in a Grand Rapids center. Increased recreational activities are planned for Pontiac this summer.

Lansing—The frenzied figuring of highway costs and bombastic talk that threatened the summary removal from office of four elective state officials by Governor A. J. Groesbeck, after they had begun to question the highway costs, ended abruptly when the so-called rebel quartet accepted the governor's invitation to them to draft a compromise that would end the deadlock that was holding up state highway construction work.

Hudson—Dr. J. M. Timms, local veterinarian, has reported hog cholera on the farms of Dan Monahan, of Hudson township, and W. D. Ebbitt, just across the road, in Medina township. Dr. W. J. Madell, of Jackson, federal hog cholera inspector in this district, was called, verified the diagnosis and placarded the farms. Three hogs have died on the Monahan farm and on the Ebbitt farm. The rest of the hogs on both farms have been double immunized against the disease.

Lansing—A highway program comprising 200 miles of new pavement and 140 miles of new gravel road has been prepared by Frank F. Rogers, state highway commissioner, for approval of the administrative board at its next meeting. This program, he estimates, will absorb the $8,000,000 released for new contracts by the action of the road committee members recently, when they agreed to mortgage $6,000,000 of the 1927 highway receipts to continue road building this year.

Ann Arbor—In addition to caring for the athletic situation of the university by approving of the stadium with a seating capacity of 70,000, the board of regents at the last meeting accepted several gifts and made several changes in the university activities. A new course in library science was approved, and the dental college requirements were tightened so that, beginning in 1927, two years of college work and three years of dental work alone will fit a candidate for the degree.

Albion—Floyd Quigg, of this city, has been named editor of "The Alpha," the publication issued by the Berean association of Baptist churches of the central part of the state.

Ionia—Mrs. Leon Miner, of Owosso, was re-elected president of the Western Central District of the Federated Women's Clubs at the closing session of its annual convention here recently. Greenville was selected for the 1927 convention.

Bay City—The Michigan Central railroad has discontinued the "Cannon Ball" northern train out of here at 8:35 a. m. This train has been in operation for more than a quarter of a century. The morning train to Midland will also be discontinued.

Pontiac—Fourteen years of continuous service as Oakland County road commissioner has not dulled Thomas Lytle's desire for public duties and he has announced himself a candidate for the job at the September primaries on the Republican ticket.

Burlington—Burlington village is now without a village marshal. In the last two years Ed. Smith, the marshal, made only two arrests. He was re-appointed by Henry Mosure, the new village president, but declined. Now the president will have to act as marshal if occasion arises for one.

Adrian—Arnold Wilson, 9-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Silas Wilson, of Blissfield, is dead of injuries sustained while at play during the school recess period. Falling to tell his parents of his injuries until several days later, caused the child's death, as peritonitis had already developed when a physician was called.

Ann Arbor—More than 100 doctors, from medical societies of Lapeer, Genesee, Ingham and Livingston counties, were guests of the University of Michigan hospital staff for a tour of inspection and series of meetings here on April 28. The visiting doctors attended a number of clinics, held during the day for their benefit.

Lansing—Regrouping of Michigan towns under the various rate charges of the Michigan Bell Telephone company and changes in the rate so that the more profitable communities will not be required to sustain those operated at a loss, looms as a possible outcome of the telephone rate hearing which has re-opened before the public utilities commission.

Lansing—Warning to all motorbus operators against the present tendency toward fast schedules is being sent to every permit holder by the Michigan Public Utilities Commission. Two bus inspectors, just authorized by the administrative board are to make an intensive campaign for enforcement of the speed order. They will be assisted by state police.

Escanaba—Women jurists are being used for the first time in Delta county at the present term of circuit court. Jury room facilities for women previously have been lacking in the county building here. The calendar for the term includes 82 cases of which 22 are criminal actions, 16 of them liquor law violations. Of the 26 chancery cases, 16 are petitions for divorces.

Ann Arbor—Sir Alexander F. Whyte, prominent British legislator, will deliver the University of Michigan Commencement address on June 14, at Ferry Field. It has been announced by President Clarence Cook Little. He also will deliver a series of lectures at the university May 4, 5 and 7. This will not mark Sir Alexander's first appearance in Ann Arbor, as he lectured here in 1919.

Battle Creek—F. H. Hilton, field secretary of the National Probation association, who has been making a survey of adult and juvenile probation and court work in Calhoun county, made a report with recommendations for development of the work, at a meeting of interested citizens at the city hall recently. Discussion of general conditions and needs in Calhoun county took place.

Manistee—Richard Petoskey, 19 years old, has confessed to three Manistee burglaries, a holdup at Ludington and two in Muskegon, according to Thomas Grady, chief of police here, who arrested Petoskey as the latter drove into town in an expensive automobile. The youth said that he found the automobile in the woods near Pontiac but the officers are investigating.

Grand Rapids—Henry Meretsky, a truck driver being sued in justice court here by Clifford A. Mitts, a cigar dealer, as the outgrowth of a traffic accident last summer in which Mitts' automobile was rammed by Meretsky's truck, declared in court that two bathing girls were the indirect cause of the accident. Meretsky said that as he was driving the two girls appeared, clad only in bathing suits. Meretsky turned his head to look at the girls, he says, and his truck ran into the Mitts car.

Lots of Reindeer in Alaska if Beef Gives Out

Government reports tend to show that in the not distant future the supply of this country's beef will be insufficient for popular needs. Reindeer Week (April 5 to 10) was instituted for the purpose of familiarizing the American people with the new kind of provision. At this time there are no less than 400,000 reindeer in Alaska. Some of them are shown in a corral.

Has Clearest
Skies in WorldQuetta May Be Chosen for Smithsonian-Geographic Observatory.

Washington.—Quetta, in Baluchistan, near which it is probable that a new solar observatory will be established by the National Geographic society and the Smithsonian Institution, is familiar—as a name—to readers of Klipping and workers of cross-word puzzles, but probably means little to most Americans. The city and its region, recently visited by Dr. C. G. Abbot, assistant secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, are the subjects of a bulletin from the Washington headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"Quetta exists primarily for military purposes," says the bulletin, "but the Pax Britannica that has been substituted for the lawlessness and banditry of former days has made an important civil community and trading center of it as well. Baluchistan is India's fortress to the east, and Quetta is its donjon keep. The British have been in control of the place since 1877, and since 1882 have held it under perpetual lease from its old ruler, the picturesque Wall of Kalat.

"When the British went to Quetta was only a little group of mud huts surrounded by unhealthy plains that were virtually swamps. Drainage and sanitation have made the place over. Now Quetta has a population of about 30,000; and the once swampy lowlands furnish a setting for villas and farmhouses surrounded by orchards and planted groves.

Mud Gives Way to Iron.

"The outstanding feature of Quetta, however, is the cantonment where six or eight regiments of British and Indian troops are quartered. This extensive post is to the north on relatively high ground while the civil town is to the south on a lower level. Mud, in the form of sun-dried brick, is still a most important building material in the town, though not to the extent that it was two decades ago. Then mud-brick domes formed many of the roofs, and were considered safe because of Quetta's scant rainfall (about 10 inches annually). But there came an unusually wet spring, and most of Quetta's buildings melted away. Since then many iron roofs—less picturesque, but better insurance against weather vagaries—have surmounted the mud walls of the town.

"The permeation of Quetta by British, or perhaps more broadly, by Western, influence, is a phenomenon that cannot be escaped by anyone who has known the town over a series of years. The standard of living rises before his eyes. Tea, a little while ago a marked luxury, is becoming a common beverage. Leather footwear has displaced sandals to a noteworthy degree; all classes are wearing warmer and more comfortable clothing; and the native women are decking themselves out in more ornaments, after the manner of their prosperous sisters in other climes.

"The climate of Quetta has interesting aspects. The place is in the same altitude as Calro; Jacksonville, Fla.; and Shanghai; but, because of its 1,000 feet of altitude and the physical aspect of the surrounding country, its climate is very different. Each day the mercury bobs up and down through a wide range. The difference between lull maximum and minimum has been known to reach 80 degrees; but such excessive changes are confined to certain short seasons. The hills and even the valleys of Baluchistan are largely treeless, and when the sun is down heat radiates away rapidly. As a consequence the nights are always cool—

"In the matter of combating the climate, there is nothing like an American standard of comfort in the homes even of Europeans in Quetta. The winters in general are no more severe than those of Washington, but the houses are so constructed that it is most difficult if not impossible to keep warm. The rooms are huge—16 by 25 feet or so, with ceilings 18 to 24 feet high. Small fireplaces are set far into the very thick walls and what little warmth they radiate into the rooms is lost in their vastness. Yet coal of fair quality is mined nearby and is used in the town. Its use in modern heating systems could make Quetta homes as comfortable as any in the world.

"Clearest Sky in the World."

"If the National Geographic-Smithsonian solar observatory is established in Baluchistan it will be placed on top of 7,525-foot Kojak peak about 40 miles north of Quetta near the railroad which pierces the Kojak range and extends to Chaman, ten miles beyond on the Afghan border. To the east beyond the Kojak mountains the Registan or Helmand desert stretches for more than 100 miles. It is 60 miles to the nearest mountains in the north. To the east lies a long, broad valley. On this relatively isolated mountain ridge on the edge of the desert the precipitation is even less than in Quetta—probably seven inches or less per year. When Doctor Abbot visited the Kojak peak in January he reported that the sky was perfectly blue right up to the sun's edge and added: 'It was the clearest sky I have ever seen in the world.'

Gives Wife to Buddy,
Then Gets Divorce

Milwaukee, Wis.—Judge Gustave G. Gehrz granted a divorce to Roman Wisniewski, who charged that his wife, Helen, had been stolen from him by Benjamin A. Miller, Chicago, who was his buddy in the Russian army and best man when he married. Wisniewski located in Milwaukee and Miller in Chicago. In 1924 his wife joined him. Miller came from Chicago to visit. The husband began to suspect Miller and his wife.

Each acknowledged love for the other, whereupon he told his wife his friend should have her. The husband accompanied him and the wife to the depot, bought the tickets and gave Miller $5.

The following month Mrs. Wisniewski returned to her husband, and he took her back. Later the husband again began to suspect his wife and he sued for divorce.

Through an interpreter Mrs. Wisniewski denied she ever had been in love with Miller. She admitted that she had gone to Chicago with him but said she had done so because of anger. While in Chicago she lived alone and supported herself, she testified.

Bootblacks Still Ply
Trade in Chinatown

San Francisco.—The wandering bootblack with his small box and brushes remains an institution in Chinatown immune to the waves of modernism transforming the oriental district.

Every morning these embryo business men sally forth to ply their trade and for years the Chinese boys have regarded the city hall of justice, which borders Chinatown, as a favored zone. Even the august presence of Chief of Police Dan O'Brien is invaded daily.

A pitched battle between bootblacks of Chinatown and the Italian quarter at North Beach resulted recently when the Italian lads decided to enter the lucrative hall of justice field. The invasion was repelled, but in retaliation the Italian boys declared a ban against the orientals in a district to the north. Since that time peace has prevailed in both camps.

Born on Trolley

Louisville, Ky.—When Conductor J. A. Davidson, in charge of an interurban car from Ordeal to Louisville, pulled his car to the station here he found a passenger had paid no fare. A child had been born to a woman who was en route to the hospital. Mother and child are doing nicely.

Considerate Burglars

Mattoon, Ill.—After they had slugged and robbed him of $200, two burglars aided R. J. Gannaway, local storekeeper, in putting out a fire caused by an overturned oil lamp.

"Whiskers" Is on Retired List

"Whiskers," Uncle Sam's oldest cavalry horse, after 30 years of faithful service, has been placed on the retired list. He will spend the remainder of his days in luxurious ease underneath Hawaiian skies as the pet of the children there. He joined the army in 1896 and went to San Antonio, Texas, where he served his rookie years at Fort Sam Houston.

OUR COMIC SECTION

Events in the Lives of Little Men

The KITCHEN CABINET

(By 1926, Western Newspaper Union.)

"The anxiety of some people to make new friends is so intense that they never have time to have old ones."

"Those who bring sunshine to the lives of others cannot keep it from themselves."

HOW TO BE THRIFTY

If we study the early lives of those who have amassed great wealth we will find that they have been careful, saving and economical. As a whole those who have achieved great wealth are not wasteful in spending what they have earned.

It is in the little things and small leaks and wastes that, multiplied by hundreds, make great wastes in many homes. Example is the most important incentive in teaching children thrift; if the mother would teach her children wise spending, she must be thrifty herself.

How many women leave the soap in the dishpan and in the scrubbing pail all through the time of using, instead of using the soapshaker and removing it when the water is sufficiently soapy? Small bits of soap may be used up in the shaker or if a cake is used keep it in a dish nearby when needed.

When cooking over such heat as gas or electricity use triplicate dishes on one burner; in this way three foods may be cooked with less expense.

Let us occasionally remind our selves that a nickel is the interest on a dollar for a year, and it is not parsimony to save, but something that we should be proud that we can do, in these days of high living.

Small bits of butter, too small to seem of any value, may be placed together and in a short while there will be enough to season a dish of vegetables. Cold coffee added to ginger bread instead of water saves the coffee, adds a flavor and thus improves the cake. Cold coffee used with gelatin makes a delicious dessert, added to spice cake instead of milk, it is an improvement.

A good motto to hang in every kitchen, where there is much opportunity for waste, is "Let Nothing Be Wasted."

What is true of the kitchen will follow in the rest of the house. Care and thoughtfulness will keep down expenses.

Appetizing Dishes.

A delicious salad which takes but a few moments to prepare is:

Apple and Onion Salad.—Dice nice flavored apple very fine, add one-fourth as much shredded or finely diced bermuda onion, season with a teaspoonful of sugar, one-half teaspoonful of salt and a few dashes of cayenne.

Pour over tablespoonful of olive or corn oil and let stand for half an hour, then add mayonnaise mixed with cream and stir well before serving. Serve on lettuce. The addition of a half-dozen minced dates, omitting the sugar, adds much to the flavor of the salad, though it is very good without.

A nice luncheon dish is poached eggs served on a nest of seasoned spinach. Open a can of spinach if the fresh is not at hand, season highly with butter, after draining. Save the spinach water and give it as a drink to any member of the family who needs iron or vitamins.

Beef Olives.—Take thin slices of rare roast beef and roll each around a thin slice of bacon which has been fried until transparent but not crisp. Tie up or skewer with a toothpick and broil. Add the fat from the bacon to some of the roast beef gravy, season with worcestershire sauce and a tablespoonful of currant jelly. Serve hot.

Corned Beef Hash.—Chop cooked corned beef very fine, then add the chopped vegetables from a boiled dinner, also chopped, using three times as much of the vegetable as the meat. Put into a frying pan, moisten with some of the broth from the vegetables, stir and heat until very hot; serve with a poached egg.

Chicken Terrapin.—Melt four table-spoonfuls of butter, add the same quantity of flour, pour over one-half cupful of chicken broth and one-half cupful of mushroom liquor, also one and one-half cupfuls of cream; season, add a half-cupful of sliced mushrooms, and three hard cooked eggs chopped and a pint of sliced dark meat of the chicken with the minced chicken livers. Serve hot.

Maybe It Was Catsup

The Mrs.—(day after returning home)—Well! Possibly you will explain just who attended the little dinner party you gave while I was away.

The Mr.—Why, I told you. Just a few of the fellows.

"Fellows! There's lipstick all over three of my best napkins."

Getting Old Fashioned

"They arrested Og Onken yiste'd'y for boss stealing," related Heck Bender of Straddle Ridge.

"Aw, well," returned Dab Sockett of the same locality. "He always was about 20 years behind the times."

A Chromatic Crime

Critic—It's a positive sin to deface walls with paintings like that.

Waggish Friend—A case of mural turpitude, so to speak.

Getting Rich Quick

"Well, how's trade?" inquired the travelling salesman of a young man who had just been taken into his father's hardware store as a partner.

"Very good," replied the young man with enthusiasm. "I think father will soon be earning enough to enable me to retire."—Good Hardware.

A Nude Horse

Dorothy and Sally, age five and three, were visiting their grandparents in a southern Indiana town. One morning they had been out playing when they suddenly burst into the house very much excited and frightened. Being asked the reason for their hurried entrance, Dorothy gasped out: "Oh, there was a horse went running down the street and nobody was with it. And it didn't have a thing on, not even a strap—nothing but just its skin and its tail."

LOT OF VILLAINS IN JACK DEMPSEY'S FILM

Among the cast supporting Jack Dempsey and Estelle Taylor (Mr and Mrs Jack Dempsey, if you please) in "Manhattan Madness," which comes to the opera house Saturday, are George Siegmann, Frank Campeau, Bull Montana, Nelson McDowell and Theodore Lorch, all well known for their particular type of characterizations. Siegmann is what might be termed a No 1 extra heavy, for he is one of the screen's most persistent villains.

All of the big Griffith's productions, including "The Birth of a Nation," "Intolerance," and "Hearts of the World" featured his work. Some of his later appearances included "Scarface" and "Merry Go Round."

THE COUGH THAT CLINGS

A cough is a kindly warning which nature gives of a dangerous irritation of the air passages.

Few people neglect the warning, but many are unfortunate in the selection of a remedy.

Beware of the cough that does not submit to ordinary cough remedies. In such cases--- will usually give relief. It cures a cough by removing the cause. It does not merely drug a cough into silence but its effects are permanent.

AGAIN THE RUSH
FOR GOLD"MAY STREET" IN RED LAKE
International Photo

By PROEHL HALLER JAKLON

THE gold fever has broken out anew. Recent strikes in two different parts of North America
are drawing adventurous souls from all parts of the country to re-enact with modern touches some of the scenes of the Klondike
gold strike in the '90s.

The Red Lake region of British Columbia is the goal of hundreds of young and old prospectors, while in our own country we find the Kramer hills on the Mojave desert in California the objective of other hordes of adventurers stirred to action by the lure of gold.

Lorne Howie last summer struck
gold in a wide land of quartz at Red Lake. Now with more than 1,500 claims already staked, they're calling it Canada's "greatest" strike. Howie and his companions reported how they had discovered a vein of gold nearly 1,000 feet long, running from 10 to 50 feet in width. Subsequently the vein was observed to run for a distance of more than 25 miles.

Red Lake is about 150 miles from the nearest railroad, but as distance is nothing when gold is at stake, this district soon found itself possessed of a thriving, bustling population of gold seekers lured from all points of the compass in the hope of digging a fortune from the earth. Despite weather of 20 to 30 degrees below zero, these prospectors pushed through the 150 miles of snow and discomfort to the land of promised gold. Unheard of prices were paid for dogs to make the desolate trip, and one enterprising aviator, Jack V. Elliott, has established an air route between Hudson, Ont., and the gold fields. Hudson is on the northern transcontinental line of the Canadian National railways, about 240
miles east of Winnipeg and 12 miles to the west of Sioux Lookout. It is the nearest railway point to the Red Lake district, and a short time ago was nothing more than a name on the map.

What kind of a place is Red Lake?
Is it full of dance halls, saloons, gambling joints and other wild and woolly institutions which spring up like magic in such settlements? It's hard to get information either into or out of this district. Of course, there are no telegraph lines, and all dispatches have to be sent by dog team.
From E. Paul Reading, who mushed
across the barren area into Red Lake, comes the following information as it appeared in the Washington Star:

"Tucked snugly in one corner of a bay, near the outlet of this straggling sheet of frozen water is a cluster of tents. They are pitched on hastily constructed log cribs and roughly floored with hewn spruce. Through the roof of each a section of rusty stovepipe thrusts itself at a rakish angle, belching upward in the frosty atmosphere. "One of the tents bears above its flaps the end of a packing case bearing in staggering black letters the portentous legend, 'Mining Recorder's Office.' Another, though it does not yet boast a sign, is a provincial police post; a third is the office, and a fourth the cook tent, this last perhaps the most important of all,

for hunger gnaws unceasingly in the cold.

"To the little poplar trees that stud
the shore a legion of dogs are chained
—huskies, collie curs, nondescript
mongrels of intricate ancestry, fish eaters—the uncivilized and unrequited slaves of a harsh regime. They fill the air with doleful sound, the collies yelping shrilly, the huskies, unable to bark, rousing the echoes with that wailing ululation that resembles the cry of neither dog nor wolf, but is the song of the wolf-dog alone.

"Mining history is being written,
and these are the characters that record it, for the Howie claims, now
the property of the Howie Gold Syndicate, are the focus of the greatest gold rush Canada has seen in a score of years, and this desolated community assures itself that it is to form
the nucleus of a great camp."

What are the chances of striking it rich? Is the field already too crowded? Mr. Reading is enthusiastic about the possibilities, but it might be well to wait for positive results
before you take the following too seriously:

"This will be a stampede probably unequaled since the Klondike. It will not assume its full proportions until the spring break-up clears the way for further prospecting. Assays on the properties now being tested have shown extraordinary values and surprising consistency. On the main vein, which strikes roughly northeast and southwest, you can pick up samples bearing free gold, little glittering specks that permeate the quartz, right across on a width of 20, 40, and even 60 feet.

"Great lakes and rivers make summer travel easy and rapid. For ten miles to the east, and nearly as far west, the country is staked solid, and the peculiar thing is that practically all of the claims have yet to be prospected.

"If the anticipations of the mining men here are fulfilled, there will be fresh discoveries elsewhere in spring
and fresh belts to be staked, in a zone of possible gold-bearing rock nearly ten miles wide and thirty long. At present interest centers in East Bay,
the northeast arm of the lake, which is 16 miles away but in line with the strike of Lorne Howie's lead.

"So far the sour dough has had his innings. A census of Red Lake's floating population this winter would have read like a map of the original Porcupine staking, with the name of Alex
Gillies, who discovered the Hollinger, at the head of the list. Gillies has been in charge of development work on the Howie claims. He is quite unassuming and cautious in his statements, but does not conceal his faith

in this new camp.

"John Hammell, chairman of the Howie Red Lake Syndicate, also sees a big future. He is not lacking in experience, for he has the development of four or five successful mines to his credit, and he declares outright that the surface showings at Red Lake are the most encouraging he has ever seen."

Turning to our own country, we find the desert wastes of the Mojave,
about 120 miles from Bakersfield, Cal., filled with prospectors for the gold discovered in the Kramer hills.
Here the going is easier, and miners are arriving in every kind of conveyance from flivvers to air taxis, which leave on regular schedule from Los Angeles, San Francisco, and other coast cities.

Back of this scramble lies a real romance. Nearly thirty years ago one Austin Burcham, a miner, drilled powder holes 35 feet into the ground near the site of the present diggings.
Then along came news of a new gold strike, and Burcham deserted his stake before setting off the dynamite
he had ready for the last step in his long labors. Recently Edward Her-kelrath found Burcham's uncompleted work and set off the blast. When the smoke cleared away he found gold ore
later estimated to be worth $1,000 a ton.

Then the rush of the '20s began.
The extent of the golden spread down through the gulches and over the low brown desert hills is yet undetermined, but enough real gold has been found to attract throngs of treasure seekers to the field. The town of Kramer, a short time ago nothing but a railway siding along the Santa Fe tracks, became overnight a gold-mad town. Old-time prospectors and "greenhorns" have staked out their claims and are working furiously day
and night.

Everyone who has staked a claim constantly is on the lookout for claim-jumpers and high-graders. Revolvers and rifles put in their appearance soon after the hordes arrived, and old-timers in the mining game shook their heads dubiously as the jumble of location notices piled up in the recorder's office.

One tract of land adjoining the original discovery shaft of Edward Her-kelrath and his cousin John, original discoverers, nearly 400 acres in extent,
which has been thoroughly staked
from end to end, was found to be owned by Mrs. S. S. Kelly of San Bernardino. The land was purchased from the state many years ago.

MRS. BASSETT ALWAYS TIRED

Now in Good Health by Using
Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lansing, Michigan.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound whenever I needed it. When I first used it I was so bad I could hardly walk across the room without crying. I was tired all the time. I think my trouble was coming on me for six months before I realized it. I read of your wonderful medicine in the paper, and my husband bought me a bottle, and after the first few doses I felt better, so kept on taking it until I was well and strong. I take it at times when I feel tired and it helps me. I will always have a good word for your medicine and tell anyone what good it has done me. I recommended it to my neighbor for her girl, who is sixteen years old, and it was just what she needed. She is feeling fine now, and goes to school every day."—Mrs. E. F. Bassett, 216 South Hayford Avenue, Lansing, Michigan.

Do not continue to feel all run-down and half sick when Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is sold by druggists everywhere. It is a root and herb medicine and has been used by women for over fifty years.

RADIO

Wave Trap Will Cut Out Loud Locals—The Conductively Couple Form and the Inductively Coupled.

Due to the widespread increase in power of many of our broadcasting stations, the need for some sort of apparatus capable of cutting out strongly interfering stations, is becoming felt more and more. There is not much fun in sitting through the program of one particular station night after night, especially when a better program is being offered by some other station which is drowned out by the nearer or more powerful transmitter. "Interfering signals," writes Howard E. Rhodes in the Radio Broadcast magazine, "sometimes are caused by direct pickup by the coils of the set so that its natural selectivity is of no avail in eliminating them. This occurs when the set is being operated in proximity to a broadcasting station, with the result that the field strength in the vicinity is great enough to induce currents directly in the various coils of the receiver. Under these conditions it will be found possible to hear the program with the antenna disconnected."

"The only practical methods to be used in eliminating this type of interference are either shielding of the receiver or using some form of closed-field coil, such as a toroid. If the set is to be shielded, it is necessary to line the entire inside of the cabinet, including the cover and the panel, with thin copper. Any joints in the copper sheet are soldered together and connection is finally made between the shield and the minus A terminal which, in this instance, is connected to ground. This puts the entire shield at ground potential, thereby excluding from the coils any external electrical fields. It should also be pointed out that this shielding will also eliminate any interference caused by power lines, motors, etc., provided they are causing trouble by setting up currents directly in the coils. However, if the interference is reaching the set by way of the antenna system, shielding will be no aid. The use of toroid coils is coming into very common use in instances where there is need of an inductor that is unaffected by external fields."

Why Toroid Coil Is Favored.

The gist of Mr. Rhodes' explanation why the toroid type of coil is recommended for use where ordinary coils will cause broad tuning by their pick-up qualities, is as follows: Toroid coils will, as is the case with other coils, have induced in their turns currents which ordinarily would nullify the selective qualities of a receiver. However, the voltages induced in opposite halves of the coil, oppose each other, and the resultant effective pick-up voltage is zero. This nullifying feature is apparent in several other types of coils, but is probably more so in the toroid. The article in Radio Broadcast continues as follows:

"There is a second type of interfering signal that causes considerable trouble, and against this type the two cures so far described are useless. If the signals being induced in the antenna are sufficiently strong, it is possible that a receiver may not have a selectivity sharp enough to eliminate them completely, although its selectivity under ordinary conditions may be perfectly satisfactory. For instance, the receiver might be operated at a location quite close to a powerful broadcasting station so that the signal strength from this station in comparison with the strength of the signals that it is desired to receive from other stations is so great as to produce considerable interference, even though the receiver is considerably detuned from the interfering signal. It is apparent then, that, in some way, this powerful signal must be impeded so as to decrease its strength. The most common piece of apparatus for use in this connection is the so-called wave trap which is actually a filter circuit tuned to absorb the interfering signals. These wave traps are very easily constructed, and cost little. They consist merely of an ordinary coil and a condenser. The traps are connected in the antenna circuit and are adjusted so that, at the frequency of the interfering signal, they have a very high impedance, the exact value depending on whether the unit is connected in series or parallel with the antenna. This high impedance prevents the signal from passing down through the primary of the antenna coupling and so into the receiver. At the same time, these wave traps offer a very low impedance to all other frequencies.

Methods of Operation.

"There are several methods by which these traps might be operated. Fig. 1 shows the most common method. In the drawing L₁, C₁ constitutes the trap circuit and L₂, C₂ the antenna coupler and tuning condenser of the receiving set. It will be seen that the trap is connected between the antenna post of the receiver and the antenna lead-in. Fig. 2 represents a slightly different method of connecting the trap in the circuit. In this latter method, the wave trap is inductively coupled to the antenna. This inductive coupling is obtained by winding a few turns of wire about one end of the coil L₁. One end of this new winding connects to the antenna and the other to the antenna post of the receiver. This circuit is practically equivalent to that of Fig. 1 with the difference that somewhat sharper tuning is obtained."

"Whether the trap circuit of Fig. 1 or that of Fig. 2 is used, depends to a considerable extent upon the characteristics of the antenna system. A well insulated antenna with a short lead-in and a short ground wire to a good ground, such as the cold-water mains, gives best results with the inductively coupled circuit. Every effort should be made to have as good a ground and antenna as is possible, but if it is necessary to use a long ground lead to a rather poor ground system, the direct coupled wave trap will probably give better results."

"When using the latter method of direct coupling, as illustrated in Fig. 1, some small change in the tuning of the antenna condenser will be noticed, whereas with inductive coupling practically no change in tuning takes place. This represents a slight advantage in favor of inductive coupling since it will be possible to continue to use the same old dial readings after the trap has been installed."

"If the trap is poorly made," says Mr. Rhodes in conclusion, "it may not only eliminate the interfering signals but will also decrease the strength of those signals we desire to receive. The most common cause of poor results with wave traps is due to the use of high resistance coils and low-grade condensers. It is therefore essential that the trap operate efficiently, and in order to obtain such operation, it is generally best to use a fairly small coil and a large condenser. With a large coil the elimination is usually more complete but the neutralized band is larger so that the trap interferes with reception on wave lengths adjacent to that wave on which the interfering station is operating. Most satisfactory results are obtained when low loss coils are used, such as space wound solenoids, while a toroid may be used in the inductively coupled circuit."

When America Was Young

In 1763 times were so hard in Virginia that the assembly passed an act forcing clergymen to share the afflictions of their parishioners. The king was appealed to and he annulled the act. Salaries were ordered paid in full. James Maury, a clergyman of Hanover parish, then brought suit. Patrick Henry was employed by the people to plead their cause. So great was his eloquence that the jury made an award of one penny.

The Guillotine

It is 112 years since the death of Dr. Ignatius Joseph Guillotine, who invented the instrument for beheading persons at one stroke, causing instant and painless death.

It was adopted by the French assembly in 1792, and within a month set up. The first person executed by it was a highway robber named Pelletier. The first political victim was Dangremont, who was executed in August, 1792.

Laughs at Advancing Age

Despite her eighty-six years, there is no more enthusiastic lover of outdoor sports than Mrs. Olive Tobey of Eliot, Maine, and it is not an uncommon sight to see her and her daughter and granddaughters coasting on a double-runner bob sled. Mrs. Tobey apparently gets more enjoyment out of this than do the younger members of the group.—Boston Globe.

New Freezing Method for Preserving Fish

Improvements in refrigeration methods, which may result in widespread changes in systems of storing and shipping perishable foods are being put into effect by a group of shipping experts, fish distributors and officials of the Atlantic experimental station for fisheries of the Canadian government.

The central idea of the new method is that foods preserved by freezing should be chilled rapidly instead of slowly. Fillets of large fish are wrapped in waxed paper and packed tightly in narrow cans and sunk in a rapidly circulating bath of very cold brine. Small fish are wrapped and packed whole.

Fish preserved by the new rapid freezing method have been kept for six months, and when thawed and cooked could not be distinguished from freshly caught fish.—Science.

ago, and two sons and two daughters have also "gone a little way on before"—George M. Clyde A., Jennie P. and Gertrude O.

Mrs. Martin's later years were spent in Pinckney, very quietly, but with an interest still in the home life and duties.

Her church affiliations with the Methodist Episcopal church brought her uncle pleasure and comfort, and she was a close attendant as long as failing health would permit. Her beautiful Christian character was sweetly sustained through the fleeting years of a life that came to a sudden earthly close on April 30, 1926, at the ripe age of 84 years, 4 months and 27 days.

As a friend and neighbor she will be sorely missed. Her busy life had been filled with tender ministrations in illness and sorrow, and the cup of cold water was freely given.

In the home circle her calm and quiet Christian motherhood had its influence for lasting good. As one member of the family has expressed it "In her children's eyes she was perfect." What a memorial to leave behind! Perfection of love and service, self-denying motherhood, wonderful friendship, a Christian ideal—Eternal life! What more could be said though long pages be written in her memory?
