ANNOUNCEMENT

I wish to announce that the report to the effect that the Jewett Radio Co. has gone out of business is absolutely false as they are still making Radios. See me before buying. Jewett Radio $60. W. E. Darrow.

There will be a dance at Chalker's Hall, Patterson Lake, on Saturday evening, September 18th.

The Line brothers who have recently returned from a trip around the world are sons of C. S. Line of Howell. They give two illustrated lectures at Howell on Sept. 16 and 28.

SCHOOL NOTES

High School

The school now enrolls the largest number of students in its history. Several new desks were added to the high school department but still there is a shortage.

The new child accounting system has been placed in the school and is working smoothly.

The ninth grade is the largest class in high school, numbering twenty-four.

Twenty-five boys reported for the first football practice. Many of last year's team are still available and with several new men to pick from Pinckney will be well represented on the grid iron. The team however is greatly handicapped by a shortage of equipment, several men cannot be supplied with suits. A heavy schedule has been arranged which will bring some excellent teams to Pinckney. A practice game will be held with the alumni today after school.

Mrs. F. Richards has given to the Pinckney High School her library of fifty volumes consisting of history, poetry, biography and fiction. The gift was a memorial to Mrs. Richards' husband, the late Thos. F. Richards. It is a beautiful tribute to Mr. Richards' memory and is a very public spirited act on the part of a thoughtful citizen. The High School is very appreciative of Mrs. Richards' gift, and wishes to convey to her, through the columns of the Dispatch, the thanks of the patrons of the school.

NEW HUDSON SCHOOL MAY HAVE ADDITION

During the past five years the New Hudson school has grown from a small ten grade school into a full 12 grade school. At present the school and community are increasing at such a pace, that a strong sentiment has grown up for a place large enough to hold community gatherings.

As a result of this sentiment the School Board has had a plan prepared and sanctioned by the Department of Public Instruction at Lansing, which will not only care for community gatherings but will in addition, provide a place for school entertainment, plays, boys' and girls' basketball and also provide a place for the children on rainy days.

All of the above has been carefully worked out and still the cost has been very low so that the taxes will only be raised one and one-half dollars per thousand, and this over a period of ten years.

The people of the district will vote on this issue, which if carried, will be a big boost for New Hudson, on Tuesday evening, September 14, at the school building at 7:00.

A better school means a faster growth and better land values for New Hudson and vicinity—South Lyon Herald.

The Pinckney school has long felt the need of a gymnasium and community hall and as a consequence has had to omit basket ball from its list of athletics. Dexter, Chelsea, Saline, Howell, and most of the other nearby towns have halls of their own. Educational authorities have agreed that a child's body should be developed as well as its intellect. The gymnasium proposition has been considered several times here, but the cry of higher taxes and the remark "They didn't have those things when I was a boy" has smothered it. There is no doubt in the minds of many Pinckney people that if such a proposition were put to a vote here it would carry. The purchase of the fire engine, the proposal to pave main street and in fact about every such proposal worth while ever put up to a special vote in Pinckney always carried overwhelmingly. All that is needed is a big push to put the proposition over.

ENTERTAINS FOR DAUGHTER

Mrs. C. A. Weddige held a delightful party at her home last Friday evening in honor of the birthday of her daughter, Mrs. Russel Hutchings of Detroit. Games afforded much pleasure, after which refreshments were served. Many gifts were presented to the honor guest.

IT'S GREAT TO BE FAMOUS

Some months ago this paper published an interview with Barney Lynch who is an ardent disciple of Isaac Walton on the peculiarities of certain fish. Last week the following cropped up in the Courier-Record, a paper published in Manistique, upper peninsula. "Barney Lynch of Pinckney claims he has trained two blue gills in the Pinckney Pond, so that they come to him when he whistles. He has named them Joe and Pete. Folks call Barney another name—Manistique Courier-Record." The Record editor is not acquainted with Barney's spotless reputation for veracity.

Henry Allen says it was also published in the Edwardsville Argus being credited to Field and Stream or some other sportsman's magazine and it may be Barney Lynch and not Henry Ford who will eventually put Pinckney on the map.

HENRY FORD PLANS IMPROVEMENTS FOR DEXTER

Henry Ford was in the village Thursday looking over his property. One of the objects of his visit was to obtain permission from the cemetery association to get the required number of feet of water to carry out several projects he is planning.

One of his ideas is to make a small lake in place of the mill pond.

The cemetery association which met Monday evening agreed to assist Mr. Ford in any way possible to get the required number of feet Dexter Leader.

Henry Ford also owns the water rights on the Pinckney mill pond but has never done anything towards developing them. Mr. Liebold his secretary, has stated that owing to the high price demanded for the Reeves mill pond property, the Ford Motor Co. has thrown up the Pinckney water power project as it alone was too small for their purposes. The Reeves property has since been sold to a Detroit development company who have put in a dam, raised the water and made it into what is now called High Land Lake. About 40 cottages have been built there in its first year of existence. It is understood the Development Company paid the Reeves heirs a much higher figure than that demanded of Henry Ford. The Pinckney mill pond is much larger than the Reeves pond and by raising the water a large amount of lake front would be available for summer resort lots. Pinckney men who own property along the pond are willing to develop it but have been unable to get any satisfaction out of Mr. Liebold. It seems to Pinckney people that if Mr. Ford has something for which he has no use he ought to be willing to turn it over to some one who would develop it and not let it lie stagnant. We do not think a man of Mr. Ford's high ideals should play dog in the manger.

PRIMARY RESULTS

Only 185 votes were cast in Putnam township of which 165 were Republican. Green ran strong here and incomplete returns gave him 100,000 majority in the state. Dickinson led for Lt. Gov., Grant Hudson for Congress and in this county Smith won for prosecutor, Wimbies for sheriff and Burden was ahead for treasurer on the Republican ticket these being the only contests.

SUNDAY SCHOOL DOINGS

The Wholen Girls and the Live Wire Boys joined in a merry party last Saturday evening at the home of Miss Marion Hendryx. Games were enjoyed and ice cream and cake were served.

The September meeting of the King's Daughters was held at the home of Mrs. C. A. Weddige. After the business and devotional meetings, a happy hour was spent in singing old favorite songs. A pot luck luncheon was served.

The ladies of the Philathea class of the Congregational church were pleasantly entertained last Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. M. T. Graves, after the business session, and social time the time being spent in tying a comfort, following which a lunch was served to those present.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Developments in Mexican Situation—Lively Doings in Geneva.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

JAMES A. FLAHERTY, supreme knight of the Knights of Columbus, accompanied by the members of the supreme council, called on President Coolidge at White Pine camp and dispelled the popular idea that his order asks that the United States intervene in the Mexican religious controversy. It does not even ask the lifting of the embargo on arms shipments to Mexico, he declared. Instead, it desires only the exercise of whatever good of the United States can extend under international law to ameliorate conditions in the neighboring republic. He placed much blame on the policies of the last three American administrations, and Mr. Coolidge, who has pursued a policy of "hands off" in the quarrel between Calles and the church, was said to have listened "kindly and patiently" to what the delegation had to say.

Down in Mexico City the congress has assembled and it is expected that the religious situation will be taken up very soon. The President's message dealt with it at some length. There was said to be a good chance that congress, although made up of over 80 per cent of government men, would make certain concessions to the Catholics which may remove some of the objections of the church. The Catholic League for Religious Defense, however, is not dissatisfied with the present situation, its secretary asserting that the economic boycott is so successful that it has practically paralyzed the economic life of the nation. Says he:

"Commerce in Mexico, according to statements by the chamber of commerce itself, has fallen off 50 per cent since the opening of the economic boycott, and industrial organizations are complaining of a large overproduction because of lack of consumers.

"In the interior the boycott is felt terribly. Entire cities, towns and villages have subjected themselves to heroic sacrifices of abstinence. In Aguas Calientes, Arades, and Penjamo no beans are eaten this month, and the civic government in these places is on the verge of bankruptcy.

"This is only the beginning. As time goes on the lines will be drawn tighter. The final effect of the boycott will be to force capital to face the situation and take means of meeting it. It either must further the ends of the boycott or force the government to repeal the objectionable anti-Catholic legislation."

IN MORE ways than one the world court cut quite a figure in the week's news. In Geneva the conference of representatives of 37 nations began discussion of the admission of the United States with the reservations made by the senate. The first three reservations were quickly accepted, but opposition developed to the fourth, which would prevent the League of Nations from amending the court statutes without America's permission. Sir George Foster of Canada led the opposition and was warmly seconded by Markovitch of Yugoslavia. The debate grew rather hot but South American delegates intervened to smooth things over. Final action on the fourth reservation was postponed and discussion of the fifth was begun. This provides that the world court shall not, without the consent of the United States, entertain any request for an advisory opinion touching any dispute or question in which the United States has or claims an interest. The belief prevailed in Geneva that the basis of this reservation is a desire on the part of the United States to prevent any attempt by the council of the League of Nations to seek advisory opinions either on immigration problems or questions affecting the Monroe doctrine and Latin America. It was thought likely the reservation would be turned over to a commission for study and advice.

MEANWHILE California was holding a primary election in which the world court was prominent. Senator Shortridge, pro-court, was running for re-nomination by the Republicans and was opposed by Robert M. Clarke, backed by Senator Johnson and other anti-court leaders. At this writing incomplete returns indicate that Shortridge was victorious by a considerable plurality. Lineberger, anti-court and wet, was trailing far behind. Lieut. Gov. C. C. Young, also supported by Johnson, was leading Gov. Friend W. Richardson and the four other candidates for the Republican gubernatorial nomination. Congressman Florence P. Kahn, who is decidedly wet, was renominated, and the wets were leading in several other congressional districts.

On the Democratic side John B. Elliott, who was endorsed for senator by William Gibbs McAdoo, was leading Senator Dockweller, whom he accused of complicity in a Tammany Hall plot to capture California democracy. But Earl Alexander Johnson, San Diego, also bearing the McAdoo endorsement, was trailing Justus S. Wardell in the gubernatorial race. Wardell also was accused by the McAdoo candidates of trafficking with Tammany.

SENATORS TRAMMELL of Florida and Gooding of Idaho, both of whom voted for American entry into the world court, have changed their minds and are now ready to vote for withdrawal of the ratification. Mr. Trammell said he would offer a resolution for such action when the senate meets in December. The defection of these two would not materially affect the situation, and at the summer White House it was made known that President Coolidge does not anticipate a victory by the anti-court forces. It may be mentioned that Col. Theodore Roosevelt, speaking in the Middle West, declared himself against the world court, though supporting the Coolidge administration in all other respects.

Mrs. M. A. FERGUSON lost her chance to be governor of Texas for another term when she was defeated in the run-off primary by Dan Moody by nearly two to one. The attorney general, whose nomination by the Democrats is equivalent to election, said the plan was not an issue and Jim Ferguson had found it impossible to make it one.

It appears at this writing that a run-off primary will be necessary September 14 in South Carolina where neither Senator E. B. Smith, Edgar A. Brown nor N. B. Dial had a clear majority for the senatorial nomination. They were standing in the order named.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS delegates were trying hard to find some way to satisfy Spain and Poland and at the same time admit Germany to membership and a permanent seat in the council. The commission at work on plans for reorganization of the council decided that Spain could not have a permanent seat. It adopted Lord Cecil's scheme giving Spain and Poland semi-permanent seats the tenure of which is three years, with a declaration of their re-eligibility.

It seems likely, however, that Spain will quit the league entirely as a result of the refusal of Great Britain and France to attend a conference on the status of Tangier. As was recounted last week, Spain insists that the Tangier district be added to her Morocco protectorate, and the Spanish foreign minister has said flatly that Spain will withdraw from the league unless this is granted. In the house of commons Sir Austen Chamberlain, foreign minister, said Britain was willing to discuss with Spain and France the former's request for a league mandate over Tangier, but with due regard for existing treaties. He did not think Geneva was a good place for such a discussion.

Italy is now tied up with Spain by a new treaty of alliance which it is admitted is a direct threat to France in so far as the rule of the Mediterranean basin is concerned. European diplomats were wondering if Mussolini and De Rivera would try to sabotage the meeting of the league.

OVERRIDING the veto of Governor General Wood, the Philippine house of representatives passed the senate bill providing for a plebiscite in the Islands on the question of independence. The measure is now up to President Coolidge, who will have six months in which to act after it reaches him. He will have reports from both Governor General Wood and Col. Carmel Thompson, his personal investigator there, to help him make up his mind. In Washington it is believed he will support Wood.

FAYAL, chief of the Azores Islands, was hit by a disastrous earthquake that ruined most of the homes in the town of Horta and that was followed by a tidal wave that caused great damage in the village of Feteira. Though probably not more than a score of persons were killed, the injured number several hundred and material losses were immense. Fortunately the temblor came in the daytime when most of the inhabitants of the island were out of doors. The quake was the severest ever experienced in the archipelago.

At about the same time there were earthquakes in several regions of Mexico, and a little earlier Maine had some shocks.

AMERICA has lost two more of her best aviators through airplane accidents. Commander John Rodgers of the navy, hero of the Hawaii flight, fell with his plane into shallow water and was fatally injured. Lieut. Cyrus K. Bettis of the army, who crashed into a mountain in Pennsylvania in a fog, died in a hospital in Washington from spinal meningitis which developed after it was thought he was on the way to recovery.

SERIOUS labor trouble broke out in Manville, R. I., where a mob of 1,800 striking textile mill workers fought a battle with a small force of state police and deputy sheriffs, after an attempt to set fire to a mill. The officers used tear gas bombs, revolvers and riot guns and a number of the rioters were wounded, as were three of the officers. The governor sent a detachment of state troops to maintain order.

In Chicago another open and closed shop struggle impends. A strike of structural iron workers was called on a skyscraper in course of construction as a starter, and the citizens' committee to enforce the Landis award promptly called in strikebreakers to take the places of the union men. Other artisans' unions are likely to become involved. The committee announced it would support any contractor in Chicago who desired to erect steel on the open shop basis.

The long-standing fight between President Lewis of the United Mine Workers and President Farrington of the Illinois miners' union, has resulted in the suspension of the latter by the state executive board. He was forced to admit that he had contracted to enter the employ of a big mining firm whenever he should quit office.

IF RUDOLPH VALENTINO had any sense of humor he must be laughing in his coffin over the outburst of mushy sentimentality and mawkish emotionalism that has followed his lamentable death. Enough here to say that after funeral ceremonies in New York, the remains of the screen star were transported in a special car to Hollywood for burial.

GERTRUDE EDERLE did not long maintain her supremacy as a swimmer of the English channel. Her feat was duplicated by Mrs. Clementon Corson of New York, the mother of two children; and a few days later Ernst Vierkoetter of Germany swam across from France to England in the record time of 12 hours and 42 minutes.

Great Powers No Longer Regard Colonies in the Light of Assets

By DR. MORITZ J. BONN, German Economist.

EUROPE is undergoing a change in its colonial policies. The era of colonial imperialism is coming to an end, and the Old world is now realizing that the enormous expense and political dangers incurred by the possession of colonial outposts are not worth while. The strain of colonial effort today is far greater than it was in the past. The high rate of interest demanded by capitalists for the exploitation of these colonies makes their development difficult, and their political position may at any time prove a liability.

The counter-colonial current is evident even within the borders of Europe itself. The old Austro-Hungarian government was nothing but a group of colonies governed by a small central power. After the war the allies dismembered that empire and granted autonomy to the separate national units that composed the old state.

Even in the United States present-day thought is against colonization. The most liberal and the most reactionary wings of public opinion do not desire the permanent retention of the Philippines, for example. And the Immigration act, to go one step further, is the official recognition by the government that this country no longer wishes European colonists.

Uniform Traffic Rules for United States Highways Is Great Need

By HERBERT C. HOOVER, Secretary of Commerce.

Highways of the United States must be constructed in the future with a view to protecting lives, and not merely to provide a temporary means of transportation.

Uniform laws by the states are necessary to check the terrific toll in life and property that reckless automobile driving levies annually in America. The activity of the American Road Builders' association in securing such regulations should be supported by the entire country along the lines recommended by the National Conference on Street and Railway Safety.

When we had only three people in a township they did not require traffic rules to keep their elbows out of each other's ribs, but when we get a million in a community somebody has to tell them how to move or they will run into each other. Roads must be constructed wide enough and numerous enough to handle them.

Sixty Billion Dollars Is Yearly Pay Check of American Workers

By WILLIAM E. KNOX, President Bowery Savings Bank.

Forty-four million people, two-fifths of our population, are gainfully employed in the United States, earning more than $60,000,000,000 annually. The management of the expenditure of this $60,000,000,000 annual pay check is the biggest and most important business in America. It has been estimated that upward of $10,000,000,000 of this personal income is wasted annually. More than $1,000,000,000, it is estimated, disappears in foolish speculation in fake schemes. When public education teaches students to manage their personal affairs prudently and gives them an understanding of the value and proper use of money, when employers require that every person in their employ learn to save as well as earn, and when banks recognize their full responsibility as the social economists and personal finance advisers of their communities—when these things prevail, then we will attack economic folly at the source.

Having Definite Goal in View Is Important Essential to Success

By DR. BERNARD HOLLANDER, Buffalo.

The first essential to success is that you should know yourself, your innate capacities and what you are capable of doing. Most of us study our friends more than we do ourselves, and could pass a better examination on their qualities than we could on our own. We are all born with definite abilities which want drawing out and training. In many men, and especially in many women, they remain latent and hidden, simply because the circumstances have never arisen which would have drawn out the native ability.

The man who is engaged in work suited to his natural capacity will learn that work readily, without effort, it will be a pleasure to him, he will be happy doing it, and he will be more likely to achieve success than if he is a square peg in a round hole. Even overwork will not fatigue him.

Moral Values Have Undergone Change Since the Garden of Eden

By PROF. CHARLES FRANCIS POTTER, Antioch College.

What is the greatest sin according to theology? The sin of Adam and Eve. What was their sin? They transgressed a taboo and partook of the fruit of the tree of knowledge of good and evil, or so we are told. But is it a sin to want to know good from evil? Not today.

You cannot be good unless you know the difference. Goodness consists of choosing the good when you could choose the evil. Under this tree of knowledge is every institution of learning in the modern world. If curiosity is a sin, if the desire to know good from evil is a sin then sin is a virtue. In other words, moral values have changed.

A "one philosophy man" is as dangerous as a "one religion man" and it is well to listen to science, religion and philosophy and learn from them all.

Lengthening of Vacation Periods Doing Harm to Modern Students

By DR. CHARLES CUSTIS HARRISON, University of Pennsylvania.

Lengthening of the vacation period, with the resultant loss of time from study, constitutes a fundamental error in the recent trend of education insofar as the student is concerned.

In recent years the average age of university graduates is between twenty-one and twenty-two years. This means that the majority of them are getting to work just about three years later than was the custom when I graduated, sixty-four years ago. At that time the academic year was divided into three terms, while the intervening vacations totaled only a little more than eleven weeks.

Balloon That Can Be Carried in Haversack

A pocket-size balloon for short but thrilling air rides has been invented by Norman Meadowcroft, aircraft engineer of Hammondport, N. Y. The craft, which can be fitted into a soldier's haversack, weighs only 10 pounds when fully equipped. When filled with gas, the rubberized fabric bag is about 21 feet in diameter. The carrying device for the pilot is supported by ropes attached to the bag. A horizontal propeller is mounted so that it may be turned and maneuvered by pulling on the ropes.

Proper manipulation of the propeller will send the balloon over trees and buildings, and if desired a safe landing can be made on the other side, the inventor reports. The balloon has ascended as high as 840 feet, and has remained in the air for two and a half hours, he says.

The Talker

The man who had been everywhere had been talking for hours about his adventures. "Once," he began a new story, "I saw a man-eating tiger." "That's nothing," interrupted a weary hearer. "Once I saw a man eating rabbit."

What Is a Diuretic?

People Are Learning the Value of Occasional Use.

EVERYONE knows that a laxative stimulates the bowels. A diuretic performs a similar function to the kidneys. Under the strain of our modern life, our organs are apt to become sluggish and require assistance. More and more people are learning to use Doan's Pills, occasionally, to insure good elimination which is so essential to good health. More than 50,000 grateful users have given Doan's signed recommendations. Scarcely a community but has its representation. Ask your neighbor!

QUACK, quack," said Mrs. Duck. "Henk, honk," yelled Mrs. Goose. "Cackle, cackle, cackle," said Mrs. Hen. "Moo, moo, moo," said Mrs. Cow. "Ma-a-a," whined Nanny Goat. "We've thought out things for ourselves," said Mrs. Duck. "Quack, quack, we have done that." "That is the truth, honk, honk," yelled Mrs. Goose. "You have said words of sense and honesty, cackle, cackle," said Mrs. Hen. "To be sure, to be sure you have, moo, moo, moo," said Mrs. Cow. "You have, ma-a-a, you have," said Nanny Goat. "Ah, yes, you have!" "I was a charming young hen," said Mrs. Hen, and a charming Madame

"Yes, I Quack My Genial, Friendly Way About the Pond."

Hen I will always be. But I like my own name better than I do Mr. Rooster's name, and so I have always kept my own. Such has been the way all the hens have done. "I am very sweet and friendly," said Mrs. Duck, "but I, too, like my own name better than Mr. Drake's family name, and so I have kept my own name. And all the Ducks have done the same. The family name is so splendid a one." "Just what I have done, honk, honk," said Mrs. Goose. "I told Mr. Gander that I would be his devoted mate, but that the name of Goose was so famous a name I could not give it up for the dull name of Gander." "And I said the same to Billy," said

Nanny Goat. "I told Billy that I loved the name of Billy, but that I wanted to be called Nanny all my days, and Billy shook his goatee and said that he thought the idea was good." "I'm so gentle and so placid, but I told Mr. Bull that I like my name of Cow so much. It has such a pleasant lazy sound." "Yes, I quack my genial, friendly way about the pond, but I did insist upon keeping my good old family name of Duck," said Mrs. Duck again. "The Mr. Roosters crow and seem so conceited," said Mrs. Hen, "but they're not bossy. They said we should keep the good old barnyard Hen family name for ourselves." "Ah," said Mrs. Duck, "we love our family names. There are people who have great books in which are the histories of their family names." "Well, we don't need to have histories written about our names." "Our names speak for themselves!" "Yes, anyone can tell just by looking at me that I belong to the good old Duck family."

"And anyone can tell by looking at me that I belong to the good old Cow family," said Mrs. Cow. "And anyone can tell just by looking at me that I belong to the good old Goose family," said Mrs. Goose. "So can anyone tell by looking at me that I'm a member of the famous Nanny Goat family," said Mrs. Nanny Goat. "Anyone can tell by looking at me that I belong to the good old Hen family," said Mrs. Hen.

"Ah, yes," she continued. "Mrs. Duck is right. Our names speak for themselves. We don't have books written about our names, nor do we have to trace back the family names in great books in libraries, as I've heard of some people doing. "We're much more important than that. Yes, we're really important." "Really important, quack, quack," said Mrs. Duck. "Really important, cackle, cackle," Mrs. Hen repeated. "Really important, moo, moo," said Mrs. Cow. "Really important, ma-a-a," said Nanny Goat. "Really important, honk, honk," said Mrs. Goose. "Really important, really important," shouted all the barnyard animals together, and then they all sang this song:

We have names so fine
That are really a sign
Of the splendid families
To which we belong!

And now we sing
This song jing-a-ling,
Of the splendid families
To which we belong.

Dainty Mary Brian, the "Movie" star, created the role of Wendy, in "Peter Pan." She was born and educated in Dallas, Texas. Since her pronounced success in "Peter Pan," she has appeared to wonderful advantage in "The Air Mail," "The Little French Girl," "The Street of Forgotten Men," and "A Regular Fellow."

IN HIGHER BRANCHES

FOURTH of July was supposed to be a holiday in a certain garrison of the regular army out West, but a grizzled old sergeant named Kelly, in charge of the guard house, had his own ideas about this holiday notion. After breakfast he ordered all his prisoners to line up outside their prison quarters. When they fell in he stationed himself facing them, and made a short speech:

"There is no doubt in my own mind," he said, "but that a good many of you men should not be prisoners at all. You've neglected your opportunities, that's all. Some here has had education and should make good company clerks. Maybe there's some others amongst you who'd like to be company barbers and earn a little money on the side."

A murmur of assent ran through the lines. "Now, then," went on Sergeant Kelly, "all you men who are educated or who think you'd learn to do paper work, step two paces to the front. About half of the prisoners came forward. "Now, then, all who'd like to learn the barber's business advance two paces."

THE DESK

LITTLE do we stop to consider, when enjoying the various pieces of furniture with which we are surrounded in our homes, of a possible history which they might reveal, a bit of romance or color or breath of the past that may linger about them. The fact that almost everything that we use or touch in furniture as in the other amenities of modern life, harks back for its origin or its inspiration to long before the days when furniture factories came into existence, escapes a good many of us.

For centuries men wrote on tables or any other flat support. And the desk as we know it today was not consciously designed as a writing place. Rather like Topsy, its sort of happened, an offspring of that early progenitor of modern furniture, the chest.

Chests at first opened on top; later, for purposes of convenience when something was placed over them, they opened down at the front, forming the cupboard with a door. Then came the raised chest, the chest with drawers underneath, and this, with the opening front above made slightly sloping, formed the desk, originally known as the "scrutator," which came into use about 1700, and is still very familiar today.

POULTRY

CARE OF PULLETS VERY IMPORTANT

Poultrymen are coming more and more to the conclusion that summer care of the young stock cannot be overemphasized. Observation throughout the state has shown that the success of a poultryman with a flock of laying birds is usually the reflection of his success in rearing the pullets. It is generally acknowledged by the leading poultrymen that one does not have to raise poultry for very many years before the importance of clean, steady, and well-grown pullets is recognized. In nine cases out of ten the flocks which experience trouble during the winter months are the flocks in which trouble was prevalent while they were on the range, according to L. M. Black, extension specialist in poultry at Rutgers university.

Growing a clean profitable pullet includes a great number of small steps which when put together assure success, says Mr. Black. As with the mature birds, the houses must be comfortable and clean. Overcrowding and overheating have their effect in stunting the growth of the birds, and so a square foot of floor space should be allowed to each growing pullet and, in addition, sufficient roosting space. On hot days the houses should be cool and comfortable.

Frequent house cleaning is practiced by the most successful poultrymen to help prevent a rapid spread of disease during warm, moist weather. This, says Mr. Black, is particularly effective against coccidiosis.

Alternate ranges which supply an abundance of green feed and some shade are the rule on the best farms in the state. The birds are never without a daily supply of green feed. Shade is considered essential during the hot days. The ground, now believed to be the source of many of our most troublesome diseases, is frequently cropped and cultivated so that the direct rays of the sun may act as a germicide.

Culled Poultry Flocks Are Earmark of Success

Exceptionally successful poultrymen who do not cull their flocks periodically are in the minority in New Jersey, according to the state poultry specialist. The practice is becoming universally recognized as essential for greatest profits.

Several advantages of culling, or slacker elimination, are mentioned by the specialist and first among them is simplicity and ease. Not a cent of outlay is necessary and the benefits are almost immediately received. Some hens are poor layers but great feeders. To wait for them to lay is to wait for something that will amount to little even if it does finally occur, for these birds soon quit.

Various characteristics distinguishing the slacker from the layer are used by poultrymen in clearing from their flocks all of the boarders. Appearance of the tail feathers, color of the comb and wattles, and shape of the body both to visual and manual examination, are among the signs read by poultrymen. Newcomers in the business are supplied, on request, with helpful bulletins by the New Jersey College of Agriculture, New Brunswick.

In addition to requiring no outlay, culling causes no loss. The eliminated birds are sold at good prices on the poultry meat market. Because of the influence of heredity, the general laying average of a flock is materially raised over a period of years by persistent culling and the use of good cockerels. This factor is considered particularly important by leading poultrymen.

Fix Flavor of Eggs

In investigations made some years ago, by feeding nitrogenous and carbonaceous feeds, it was found that hens fed a ration of wheat, middlings, cottonseed meal and skim milk, produced eggs with a disagreeable flavor and odor, small yolks, and poor keeping qualities. On the other hand, hens fed largely on cracked corn and corn dough laid larger eggs with richer yolks and better flavor. When there was a proper blending of both nitrogenous and carbonaceous materials, there was improved flavor.

Poultry Facts

The well-fed, well-housed hen certainly knows her eggs.

Whitewash looks good on the outside of poultry houses, but on the inside it does good.

In ancient times capon meat was highly prized by epicures. It is growing in popularity in this country.

Deep cultivation of corn is not desirable and usually is detrimental especially at the time of the last cultivation.

Disease usually gets into a flock through the weak fowls, which it attacks first. Keep these culled out and you'll have a healthier flock.

Roup may be caused by dampness or drafts in roosting quarters, or poorly ventilated roosting quarters. Underlying causes may be poor nutrition, lice, mites or other parasites.

AROUND THE HOME

By MARGARET BRUCE

Your Conscientious Child

There had been a little unpleasantness at breakfast. Polly, a winsome little person of thirteen-going-on-fourteen, just waking up to problems of right-and-wrong, policy, diplomacy, and with a conscience which was working overtime, burst out with a story of some foolish blunder she had made the day before at school. She had rectified it, it seemed, very promptly; but she had made it and she frankly told of it. Her impatient father had reproved her sharply, and Polly's eyes had filled with tears.

"I didn't have to tell it," said Polly later, as she curled up on the window seat beside her mother. "I could have kept it from daddy—but I never have kept anything from you two, and I hate to hide things—I hate to!"

"But it was all over, wasn't it? You had straightened it out and made it right? It really didn't do any good to go all over it again, did it? And it didn't make very pleasant table talk, you know?"

"No-o-o," admitted Polly. "But you want me to be frank, don't you? You don't want me to conceal the foolish things I do, do you?"

The mother hesitated. Here was Polly's first contact with a situation calling for tact, for a greasing of the wheels of life, so that they might run more smoothly and pleasantly. Yet she dreaded to put a brake on that open-mindedness and frankness.

"Well, dear, if they are things that really matter, tell us, of course. But we could all spend much of our time rehearsing the silly mistakes of ourselves and others—and where does it get us? Isn't it better to learn our lessons quietly and not make the same blunder twice, than to bore others by going into details of things that are over and cannot be helped? You can always tell me every little thing, of course, and I hope you will, but don't make table talk of exasperating episodes that make every one uncomfortable. We all make mistakes, and unless they need to be rectified it is better to drop them and not discuss them. That isn't hiding or concealing them—it is merely keeping the atmosphere of the home cheerful and avoiding unpleasantness."

Your Husband's Friends

Probably one of the hardest tasks that confronts the newly married woman is that of adapting herself to her husband's friends. It does not always follow—in fact, it rarely follows—that because one has fallen in love with a man, one must also fall into friendship with his old schoolmates, his college pals, his golfing companions and his business associates.

Half the time these gentlemen either bore her stiff or offend her taste and her sense of refinement. They may be good fellows to him, but they are sad failures as far as she is concerned.

Yet it is a very unwise woman who throws cold water on her husband's friendships and makes his old chums feel awkward and unwelcome in her house. Perhaps—who can tell?—he feels the very same way about his wife's girl friends. He may wonder how in the world she can endure such plain, uninteresting, silly chattering, even while she is marveling at his fondness for the loud, gaudy backslappers who haunt her pretty new home. Each forgets that such friendships are the result of proximity, of past good times together, of early acquaintance loyally kept up. The bride sees her friends in the light of their first confidences, their parties and dances. The bridegroom views his one-time pals through a haze of college pranks, hunting expeditions, and noonday luncheons.

Well, it's up to the young matron to bridge this chasm and try to make her husband's friends feel welcome whether she enjoys them or not. He has a right to his associations, and one can only admire him for being loyal to his old companions. To try to find the interesting points of each one, to enter into their jovial reminiscences and listen sympathetically—this marks the tactful hostess and the thoughtful wife. Sometimes it is desperately hard to put up with raucous laughter, footless jokes (funny to them but not to her), and offensive table manners. But if she expects him to be courteous and agreeable to her friends, she must do the same for him, and receive his friends with cordiality and graciousness. Perhaps she will find that they are pure gold even if in the rough.

TWO WOMEN PRAISE SAME MEDICINE

Both Helped by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"After the birth of my little daughter I was very badly run-down. I could not think of going to a hospital, but grew steadily worse, being compelled to stay in bed two or three days each week. A friend of my sister's told of the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done her, and my sister bought me two bottles of it. I had not taken all of one bottle when I was up and able to do some work. I am truly a booster for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and you may use my testimonial."—Mrs. MARY LYRACU, 1119 Island Ave., Ext., McKees Rocks, Pa.

Mrs. Hope L. Smith, a farmer's wife of Route 3, Floyd, Va., says she was ill for ten years with a good deal of pain in her side and so weak she could hardly work. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped her so much she is telling her friends about it. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a dependable medicine.

WHEN I WAS TWENTY-ONE

By JOSEPH KAYE

At 21: Owen Davis Was Already a Playwright.

AT THE age of twenty-one I was already writing plays and had decided that my aim in life was to continue doing just that.

"I was, however, still a student at Harvard then and did not leave college until I was twenty-nine. In the meantime I had married, so that I was well established for a professional career."—Owen Davis.

TODAY—Owen Davis is the phenomenon of the theatrical and literary world. Until a few years ago his reputation as dramatist was not high; he had written about a hundred plays, practically all of them melodramas and most of them thrillers of the good old ten-twenty-thirty days. He was the author of "Nelle, the Beautiful Cloak Model" and plays of a similar type without end. About fifty of them were produced by A. H. Woods, who began his producing career with these melodramas, and got them down to such a system that he used to print the posters—great glaring, lurid affairs depicting hair-raising climaxes—and then call in Owen Davis or Theodore Kramer, another melodramatic specialist, and tell them that he wanted a play to fit the posters. In two or three weeks the play was ready.

But suddenly Owen Davis wrote "Icebound," a purely literary production, a serious interpretation of life, and so arresting a picture of American life that it won the Pulitzer prize as the best American play of the year. "Icebound" came without warning. Only a year or two ago he had written "Forever After" for Alice Brady, a play of the typical Davis brand, and Broadway was astonished to put it mildly.

Since then Davis has written several other plays, all of them in his new style and he has won such acclamation as to be classed with Eugene O'Neill as one of this country's greatest playwrights.

THE WHY of SUPERSTITIONS

By H. IRVING KING

FRIDAY'S NOSEBLEED

IT BRINGS good luck to have the nosebleed on a Friday—especially in matters of love. This old superstition is a relic of Norse mythology and originates from the fact that Friday is named from the Norse goddess of love, who was often confounded with another goddess of the same name—or of so nearly the same that it is not always certain which goddess is meant—who was the wife of Odin and was the bestower of good fortune. At any rate, Friday was dedicated to Freya, who, among other things, was the goddess of abundance.

Now the gods of the olden time, especially to the northern gods and goddesses, there was no more acceptable offering than blood. In high vaulted and ancient temples on the Asian shores and on the hills of Greece votaries drew blood from their own bodies before the marble altars and human blood likewise flowed before the grim idols on wild Norwegian coasts and in the depths of Teutonic forests. So when one has the nosebleed on Friday it is, of course, the offering of one's blood to the great goddess to whom the day is dedicated. And such an offering might reasonably be expected to bring good luck. In the great world of shadows, the land of superstition, there are not many things that one may safely do on a Friday, but he can have the nosebleed, and that with the most beneficial results. Freya's altars are no more, but human blood is still an acceptable offering to the goddess of Friday, as it was in long, dim centuries before the Viking keels found Vineland.

Galli-Curci Swayed by the Seer of Sweden

Prima Donna Gives Wonderful Interpretation of the Writings of Emanuel Swedenborg—

HENRY FORD'S Dearborn Independent publishes a remarkable article on Galli-Curci and Emanuel Swedenborg, by Clarence W. Barron of the Wall Street Journal, the world famous financial authority. Mr. Barron declares that Galli-Curci has the most wonderful brain he has ever met or heard of in a woman, although she is much more "a true woman with a life and soul of affection for all that is ennobling and uplifting in the family, and in color, form, and music."

Mr. Barron is chairman of the Rotch Trusts, who acting under the will of Lydia S. Rotch of New Bedford, Mass., began in 1872 a modern translation of the Theological Works which Emanuel Swedenborg wrote and published in the Latin tongue, and deposited in the libraries of the world 160 years ago.

This work was completed and published by the Houghton Mifflin Co. in 32 volumes in 1907.

About three years ago there appeared in a Cleveland paper a paragraph that among her other accomplishments Galli-Curci had read "all the Theological Writings of Emanuel Swedenborg. The claim seemed so absurd to Mr. Barron that he thought it might be easily punctured by a simple inquiry as to the edition.

To Mr. Barron's direct inquiry Madame Galli-Curci promptly replied: "Yes, I have read in the past year the complete Swedenborg Works, in fact it is the Rotch Edition of the Houghton Mifflin Co. that I have."

"I can say certainly that the Bible to me is a greater work than I was before."

Mr. Barron says: "My astonishment was intensified. Familiar over many years with Swedenborg's general theological writings, I had set out to read the entire thirty-two volumes preparatory to an advertising campaign for the sale of this edition. Reading a few pages each day I finished my self-imposed task in fourteen years. I shall probably finish a second reading, at my present rate of progress, in perhaps ten years. Was it possible that a woman with no previous knowledge or relation to these books had really intelligently read them within a year?"

Swedenborg's Writings

Mr. Barron continues: "As an economist writing state papers on weights, measures, coinages and currencies, Swedenborg is easily comprehended. As an engineer transporting ships overland he is easily visualized. As a government official in the great mining industry of Sweden, writing practical books on mining and smelting, declared to be the foundation of modern metallurgy, he is of interest in the encyclopedia of scientific history. As the writer of volumes—original studies in search for the human soul—he is not without human interest."

"But when one comes to the realm of the unseen, where there is neither time nor space upon which to rest mental conceptions, few may enter into the fullness of the revelation which has come into the libraries of the world through Emanuel Swedenborg."

"Think of twenty modern-sized volumes, originally written in the Latin tongue and unfolding from the Hebrew of 'Genesis' and 'Exodus' the internal or spiritual sense that lies beneath the letter. Annex a dozen more similar volumes that not only expound every picture set forth in the book of 'Revelation' as conveyor of a tremendous truth of universal application throughout invisible degrees of creation and life, but also illumine all the problems of man as presented throughout the universe from the union of the love and wisdom in the divine down to six crystal spheres in the mineral kingdom; in which the descent of all works over which Swedenborg's genius illumined, in the original Latin, 'Angelic Wisdom Concerning the Divine Love and the Divine Wisdom'."

Then answer to yourself the number of years that ought to be required to master these thirty-two volumes?

Mean More Than Any Other Books

Mr. Barron, still credulous, continued his correspondence with Madame Galli-Curci for some months. He learned that soon after she lost her dear mother she had sought the Writings of Swedenborg in a desire to know more about the other world whence her mother had gone. She spent the entire summer vacation studying Swedenborg's Works, and declared: "They have meant, and mean more to me than anything else I have ever read."

When Galli-Curci returned from California Mr. Barron motored up into the Catskills to her beautiful Italian palace, and in an afternoon with her and her husband, Mr. Homer Samuels, he was convinced that Galli-Curci had read and devoured Swedenborg in a briefer period than anybody had ever done before.

He says of this interview: "Hours flew like minutes. I wasn't the questioner. Mr. and Mrs. Samuels were at me with the sharpest and deepest questions. They seemed in perfect harmony mentally and spiritually, as in their work in music."

Wanted to Learn

"She wanted to know about the 'Grand Man'. I told her it would be easier to comprehend it if she would forego the idea of time and space and consider, as Swedenborg says in 'The Apocalypse Explained', that every society in the heavens connects with some organ of the human body and helps to sustain it. Therefore the heavens have the organization of the 'Grand Man', but we need not think of it as a shape or figure."

"Yes," exclaimed her husband, "it is organization. I explained also, how the 'Psalms' likewise connected with every society of the heavens, and how the world with and without was knit together in a grand poem and song of creation, in the image of his Maker and his Father, which he has life in every organ of his body."

Swedenborg's 32 Volumes Read in Single Summer

"Now I understand," she said, "asked me for explanation of other things. Her intelligent questions, as well as her statements, left no manner of doubt that Galli-Curci had performed the stupendous feat of reading the thirty-two volumes of Swedenborg in a single summer season. She declared 'Heaven and Hell' very attractive and popular title concerns that about which people are most eager to know; but it is not of Swedenborg's great works; though it makes a good popular introductory work."

A Help in Her Work

Galli-Curci understands the writings of Swedenborg even better than theologians, because she puts them into practice in the broadest life-loving helpfulness. She said that Swedenborg helped her in her work. She had longer to think of herself but of her audiences, and let the music find through her: regard herself just a medium for life to pour through. She felt with and for her audiences, a singing was no effort for her.

All Fear Vanishes

"The more you do—the more you give forth—the more life and energy is poured into you, and you are stronger and not weaker for the doing, the working and the singing. I always feel stronger; I am not exhausted at all by my singing. Swedenborg shows the reason and how life comes in as you pour it forth usefully to others. You don't have to try worry or fret. You know it is not you but that it is just being done through you."

Speaking further of the help Swedenborg had been to her in her work she said: "One gets so much more confidence. The other world and the one life, that comprehends all things, becomes reality and all else is very vain."

OIL MAJOR FACTOR IN PEACE OF WORLD

Experts Agree on Immense Importance of Petroleum.

Williamstown, Mass. — Oil, the source of giant energy that has been a major factor in the world's progress, has been pictured before the Institute of Politics as a potential modern counterpart of Mars, the ancient god of war. Five speakers—three Americans, a Frenchman and an Italian—agreed that oil was a major factor in the future peace of the world.

A warning that America is traveling a dangerous path in its "prodigal depletion" of the country's oil supply was sounded by Henry L. Doherty, public utilities magnate. Maintaining that from the viewpoint of national defense there was no substitute for petroleum, he said that predictions of discoveries about to be made "deserve no more credence than the ravings of a delirious invalid."

U. S. Laws Held Handicap. Asserting that the present laws of the United States prohibit the application of scientific methods to the production of oil, he said:

"Not even the knowledge possessed by an unskilled child can be used. There is little likelihood that we can maintain much longer even our present rate of oil production. Already we are using as much oil every year as Pennsylvania, long the banner oil-producing state, has produced in 67 years."

He denied the practicability of substituting coal products for petroleum. R. T. Haslam, professor of chemical engineering at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, said that chemistry, by perfecting means of transforming coal into oil cheaply, would provide a great safeguard to international peace. He pictured a future when through use of this chemistry-made energy smokeless cities would flourish under conditions of health and prosperity unknown today.

France Has Excess. Three other speakers agreed that oil was a powerful factor in world peace. Justin DuPont, French perfume manufacturer, said that France now had more liquid fuel than she uses, through the adoption of by-products with coal, and was thus independent of the rest of the world in this respect.

LAKE SERPENT AGAIN SIGHTED IN CANADA

Mysterious Fish With Ruffled Neck Called "Maniti."

Summerland, B. C.—A mysterious fish or reptile, which for want of a better name has been dubbed a "maniti," has caused more commotion this summer around the shores of Okanagan lake than residents of this locality have experienced since some one discovered the fruit-growing possibilities of this region.

Fisherfolk, summer vacationists and other residents hereabouts have become steeped in fish lore during the last few weeks in an endeavor to fix the species of the strange being. Endless perusal of the one and only encyclopedia at last determined the creature could be none other than a sea serpent, so the foregoing name was affixed to it.

The creation of the "maniti" is not the result of a hangover or the brain-child of a disordered mind; several persons have seen it. Individuals and groups of persons have gazed upon it, some with glasses and others with the naked eye.

The description given by all tallies in many particulars, but as might be expected under such circumstances, differs on slight details. All claimed that it was somewhere between ten and sixteen feet long, and that its head resembled that of a sheep. One person, who viewed it through glasses, stated that there appeared to be folds or ruffles of skin which gave the neck a raised appearance.

All agreed that it traveled with great speed, nearly 20 miles an hour, and that it made considerable wash as it sped through the water. It traveled with a sinuous movement, they say, the undulations of the body being up and down.

Some say the sea serpent is a vegetarian, but the belief is spreading that fish forms its diet, for the lake has been practically depopulated of fish since the monster made its appearance.

Several hunters, spreading themselves at different strategic points along the shore, have lain in wait for hours at a stretch, hoping to be favored with an opportunity for a pot shot, but the creature is gun shy. It is camera shy as well, for an out-of-town photographer made a special trip here and spent two days in an unsuccessful hunt for the "maniti."

Rail Extension Would Tap Arctic Mine Zone

Tanana, Alaska.—An extension of the Alaska railroad from the Fairbanks to the Yukon river and thence north along the Chandalar river, a survey of which is proposed by a bill in congress, would tap an undeveloped area north of Brooks range 600 miles long and 100 miles wide.

Placer mining camps have pushed beyond the Arctic circle into the foothills south of Brooks range. Stories are told here of prospectors who reached the top of the range, but dependent on rifle and fishhook for food, did not go on to work streams flowing north to the Arctic ocean.

Streams whose heads are known to cut into a lime formation capping the Brooks range bear nuggets of gold, silver and copper in raw state, indicating mineral deposits in the divide region. A bed of black gold has been reported in the extreme north on the Arctic slope near the government oil reserves.

The Alaska railroad, built by the government, runs from Seward on the Pacific ocean to Fairbanks, 125 miles east of here and the same distance south of the Arctic circle.

English Can't Tango, Says Spanish Dancer

London.—Vicente Escudero, the dancer from the Theater des Champs Elysees, who has been giving exhibitions of Spanish dancing in London, is doubtful whether English dancers will ever master the tango.

"Dancing in London is very good in the ballrooms," said the Spanish dancer, "but most dancers do best the fox trot. Even the Parisiennes, who dance better than the English, cannot tango. I have found only the Argentines and the Spanish really understand the dance. And danced badly it is ridiculous."

"Perhaps in its simplified form it might be attempted generally in ball-rooms, but I do not think it should then be called the tango."

Scared Into Suicide

West New York, N. J.—Paul Bethaman, a weaver with a family, woke up in a cell and shrieked out his curiosity as to the reason for being there. "Shut up," yelled another prisoner, "you're in for murder!" There was prolonged silence and Bethaman was found to have strangled himself. He had been put into a cell to sleep off his intoxication.

Parrot Yells; Slander Suit

London.—"Jones is a rotter, Jones is a rotter, Jones is a—" was the cause of a slander suit brought between two neighbors here recently. Neither neighbor spoke the words, but Jones charged that Bennett, the owner of a large parrot, had taught the bird to shout it to the world.

PORTO RICAN SWAMPS OF VAST AREA FOUND

Ten Thousand Acres That Could Be Redeemed.

New York.—The discovery below sea level of a 10,000-acre swamp in Porto Rico is described by H. A. Gleason, curator of the New York Botanical Garden, who has just completed a survey of the plant life of the island in co-operation with the insular government.

This swamp, now hopeless, could, if redeemed, produce cane worth millions, according to Doctor Gleason, who said that the Porto Ricans, like the Hollanders, may be forced to use dikes, pumps and windmills to reclaim large waste areas.

"Some vegetational features of Porto Rico which probably have no counterpart in the Western Hemisphere were revealed in our explorations," said Doctor Gleason.

"The big swamp lies along the north shore of the City of Arecibo. It is nearly surrounded by some of the most fertile cane fields in Porto Rico. As it is now, it merely stands a vast expanse of cat-tails and sedges, populated by mosquitoes, frogs and water-birds.

Geological Progress Traced.

"The history of this swamp shows how geological processes may have an effect upon plant life. At some prehistoric time it was dry land sloping gently down to the north shore. Along that north shore a great ridge of sand was piled up by the wind and in the course of time gradually consolidated into rock.

"Then the land began to sink, the ridge of rock was brought down to the level of the ocean, and the waves pounding away at it for thousands of years finally broke gaps in the rock and let the ocean through.

"As a result of this sinking of the land the present swamp is at or even below sea level. Now it is a considerable distance from the end of the swamp to the ocean. Plenty of fresh water finds its way into the swamp, but the salt tides come in only at one end, so that there is a gradual decrease in the saltiness of the swamp water from its outlet inland.

"So we have at the end of it nearest the ocean the salt-loving mangroves. Beyond them are several hundred acres of acrosticum ferns and several thousands of acres of cat-tails and sedges.

Believes Shore Line Sinks.

"There has been much speculation as to whether the shore line of Porto Rico is rising, stationary or sinking. The present plant life of the swamp seems to give a little evidence in answer to the question. If the shore line were rising the swamp would be getting dryer and less salty and the cattails would be moving down toward the outlet. But at present the ferns seem to be moving up into the cattails, indicating that the swamp is actually getting saltier and therefore that the shore line is still sinking.

"This, of course, does not imply any immediate catastrophe for the island, as the actual rate of submergence is probably so slow that any important effect would require thousands of years for its consummation.

"The south shore of Porto Rico differs greatly from the north shore in its rainfall. While the latter has 60 to 80 inches every year, the south shore has only half that much, and the climate there is characterized by long periods of drought. A heavy forest growth is impossible."

Captures Wolf Fish

Vancouver, B. C.—An unusually large and ferocious-looking wolf fish, captured at Seymour inlet, is attracting much attention in a local store window. The fish is more than five feet long and has two rows of long, sharp teeth in its jaws. In appearance it suits the description of some of the fabled sea serpents of other days.

Philadelphia.—The money spent on cosmetics in the country in a year exceeds the salaries of primary and second-grade school teachers, if Miss Nanette F. Weeks is correct.

Cuts, Threshes, Plows 100 Acres in One Day

Hutchinson, Kan.—What a few years ago would have been the wildest dreams of imagination are now becoming matter of fact, everyday stories in the Kansas wheat fields. For instance, there's the case of Irwin Brownlee, a young farmer near Zenith, west of here a few miles. He started in at daybreak one morning with a 50-horsepower tractor and a combine cutting a 20-foot swath. Hooked on behind were plows. As the wheat was cut and threshed the ground behind the harvester was immediately plowed. When night came Brownlee had cut, threshed and put in the bin 100 acres of wheat—some 3,000 bushels in all—and his land was plowed again. All in one day's work. And he and two men did it.

Full-Length Coat Is Fall Favorite

Winsome Straightline Garment Prominent on New Fashion Card.

One of the big joys of shopping around the sales is the smelling out of fall fashions, notes a fashion writer in the Kansas City Star. The shops have pieces of new merchandise displayed with that alluring phrase "a fall model," or perhaps it is a window of the newest shade of red or a showing of fall hats by their varied crowns and lovely shades. It may be a black crepe satin dress with dull and shining surfaces proclaiming its vantage—a moire or a velvet. Or it might be a fox scarf. Now, if there is one thing above another that can fire the imagination about a fall costume it's a fox scarf. The fur sales have been a perfectly fascinating variety of these scarfs.

The fuller skirt has given great latitude in the treatment of the bodice of the fall dress; capelets, deep berths that literally fall to the waistline, soft fichu-like collars and flowing jabot attachments, vestee effects and elaborate sleeves all tend to concentrate the attention on the bodice.

Colors which are of interest for fall are nymph, which is a very light pinkish red tone; Becamier, a deep green reminiscent of jade, but not quite so bright in cast; praline, similar to a light boise de rose, and questch, belonging to the purple classification. Blues ranging from perverche to navy, in addition to dark tones of green, red and purple, also are mentioned.

Plaids have impressed themselves upon style experts as being particularly important. They are combined cleverly with other materials, for the most part, or appear in sections rather than an all-over effect. Cited as examples of the attractive manner in which plaids are being used are some full-length straightline coats of pastel broadcloth which have panel collars reaching to the hemline made of the bias plaid, while the deeply set-in sleeves are cuffed in plaid.

An attractive fall sports coat, worn by Laura La Plante, motion-picture actress, is of striped cloth in brick, which shades from light to dark. It is cut on straight lines and has a handsome collar of brown fox fur. A vagabond hat of velours, which matches the deepest shade of the coat, a leather handbag and kid gloves complete the outfit.

Flat Compact Envelope Bag Has Strap Handle

A flat compact envelope bag with a diagonal strap handle at the back is made without a flap of any kind. In place of the clasp and flap opening there is a zipper-like cording of chenille, controlled by a leather tab. Inside, the bag is fitted with side pockets that hold a change purse, mirror and powder puff case. These bags are made of imitation alligator and snakeskin and come in all the new fall colors.

An adjustable dress hanger that may be molded to suit any type of garment, as well as any shoulder size, has an additional feature in that the hook top may be unscrewed for packing. These hangers are made of flexible steel covered with shirred silk ribbon. When an evening gown with narrow shoulder straps is hung on one of these the ends are bent upward to prevent their slipping off.

Dagger Pins Worn on Hats

Dagger-shaped pins are being worn on hats this season. They are made of dull metal or of rhinestones and are stabbed through the hat wherever the draped effect is required. Rhinestone monograms are also frequently used as hat ornaments. Animals, birds, etc., of rhinestones are not used as generously as these more tailored effects.

Black Silk Taffeta Is Dainty for Debutante

This evening dress for the debutante is of black silk taffeta with a light bodice and full skirt with scalloped bottom faced with rose silk. Its beauty is also further enhanced by the addition of hand embroidered flowers of blue and green with silver leather centers.

White Kid Gloves Are Smart for Fall Season

White kid gloves are predicted as the smart thing for the season. The one-clasp model is preferred, especially when it combines a touch of color both on cuff and in stitching. One new version of these gloves is seen in a pair with channel red stitching on the back and a triple row of the same color on the turned-back cuff.

Other gloves in fine kid have fancy cuffs of imitation snakeskin, hand-embroidered motifs and appliqued designs. In black, tan and mode there is a glove with a turn-over cuff having a slave bracelet attached. This makes a very attractive and useful gift for the young schoolgirl. To carry out the cuff idea in detail there are some with links which hold the open ends of the cuff in place. Some of the cuffs on other models are finished off with enameled plaques, gold and silver plated monograms and flat pins.

To be worn with black kidskin shoes and, perhaps, gun metal stockings, there are gloves of black kid with cuffs of snakeskin stitched in two tones of gray to blend with the cuff. Brown and light tan are combined in this cuff idea. Straps about an inch wide and the one-clasp models are seen in gloves for dress wear.

Fabric gloves in light gray and beige are being shown for fall with shirred cuffs or the plain double turn-over affairs. These gloves are imported from France and show fine workmanship in the embroidery used on the cuffs and backs. Embroidered silk moire is appliqued on both the shirred and plain cuffs and lends a little more importance to the glove. Tiny colored motifs in bright colors are also appliqued on the turnover cuffs.

Suede gloves in slip-on style are being offered in bran, almond, nude and light beige, in fact all the stocking shades. These gloves are easily washed and hold their shape. They are, however, rinsed in clear water before being allowed to dry.

Box Plaits Noted in Dainty Formal Frocks

Box plaits are noted with enough frequency to be remarked in dinner frocks. A sheer blue frock strikes an unusual note through the tapering treatment of the plaits. Box plaits of wider proportions are seen in a dinner frock of bois de rose chiffon, embroidered with spheres in silver metal thread. Scarfs tying at the shoulder are features of soft frocks. The bloused silhouette is recognized, sometimes in conjunction with a belted line, the blouse often appearing at the back only, and the draped movement is also important, the drape placed sometimes at the side and again at the front, an instance of the latter remarked in a plaid velvet daytime frock, which had the added feature of a seeming slashed back.

Fabrics generally indorsed are reps, mixtures, cashmere, crepe satin, velvet, sheer silks and metal brocades. Suggesting tailored lines, a dinner frock developed in a small patterned metal brocade, strikes an unusual note. Fine tucks and plaits, sometimes appearing in the same frock, are good style notes, an interesting example being reflected in a frock entirely pinctured with side trims in plaited formation.

New Sports Costume

The jumper of jersey in fine varicolored stripes is exceedingly smart. It is worn with a skirt of crepe de chine which is matched by the handkerchief scarf, which takes the place of a collar.

WHY DENY YOURSELF THE BEST IN MOTOR CAR BODIES

The finest of the new cars in all price classes have now been announced—Cadillac, Buick, Chevrolet, Oakland, Oldsmobile and Pontiac.

All offer vastly greater values than ever before in motor car history.

All register amazing advantages in performance and ease and economy of operation.

But the greatest factor of their new glory is described in a single phrase—Body by Fisher.

Here is their supreme beauty—setting absolutely new standards in charm of design and interior fitting.

Here are unequalled factors of safety which add so much to your comfort and confidence.

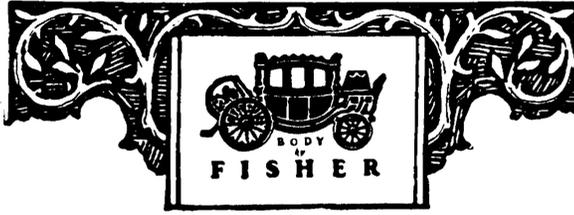

Here are exclusive conveniences and niceties which do, indeed, make the car with Body by Fisher superior in its class.

No matter what mechanical developments may allure you, it is the body of your car with which you live most intimately—that is why the General Motors units, makers of the best of the new cars in all price classes, point so proudly to the emblem—Body by Fisher.

With the finest of the market to choose from there is no reason why you should deny yourself the greater safety, beauty and comfort which only a Body by Fisher can give.

Bobbed Hair Traced

Bobbed hair has been traced to Revolutionary war times by Capt. L. C. Baird, army officer, who found in old records of the Continental army, stored for years in the Schuykill arsenal at Philadelphia, that bobbing of the hair was made a matter of general orders for the soldier of 1776.

One of the decrees issued at West Point, however, directed that non-commissioned officers and privates of the first regiment have their hair queued behind not to exceed seven inches long and close to the head.

Belled Buzzard May Have Had Long Life

For years a belled buzzard has been reported from time to time in such widely different parts of the country that most persons had come to regard it as a myth. But evidently the tales were well founded, for recently a farmer, while hunting near Comer, Ga., brought down a huge buzzard which had a small cowbell tied to its neck by a piece of wire that had nearly rusted in two. On the bell was this inscription, "Joel Mine, Leonville, 1882." There is a town of that name in Louisiana, but it has not yet been definitely established that the buzzard was first caught and tagged there. Considering the rapidity with which these birds fly and their long lives, it is thought possible that the buzzard originally may have come from some more distant place and has probably been flying with the bell about its neck for 44 years.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Women's Bald Spots

A middle-aged woman at the Champe Elysees theater in Paris, wearing a smoking jacket, short hair and a shaven neck, went her sisters one better in showing a circle of baldness round the top of her head.

It was not due to the ravages of time but to the razor, which gave her head, at a little distance, the look of belonging to a notary or a senator. The novelty has not found many admirers, but more unexpected things have caught on—women's emulation of the Charlie Chaplin mustache, for instance.

Timber waste may be greater in the future than it is now, because many trees springing up will be harvested at smaller diameters.

Blaming the Motor Car

The automobile is putting another industry out of business it seems. The tombstone makers now accuse the younger generation of always having money to spend for automobiles but frequently finding it difficult to purchase tombstones. "The automobile industry must be coped with," said the president of the Memorial Craftsmen of New Jersey the other day before a meeting of that organization. The tombstone makers may have their hardships but at least they probably aren't troubled with a used tombstone problem.—Motor World Wholesale.

Some singers would never get a hearing if they were not members of a volunteer church choir.

His Philosophy

"Many a man, if the conceit were taken out of him, would look like an umbrella with its ribs gone," philosophically said old Festus Pester. "When a man gets to be just about so old he can remember a great many things that never happened. I have picked up a large number of similar sarcastic truths regarding my fellow men by eyeing them critically as they filed by me down the pathway of time, but I have not yet found how to put my plunder to any profitable use unless I can work it into a funny piece for some comic column."—Kansas City Star.

OLD JACK DUNN

An odd and eccentric character who lived on the farm east of here now owned by George Flintoff, about fifty years ago was an old fellow by the name of Jack Lunn. Jack was veterinary and his wife was an herb doctor who gathered plants and roots from the woods and swamps and sold them to the public who attributed much virtue to them in those times. The couple usually rode into town astride a grey stallion which was almost as familiar a sight as themselves. Jack came from England where he had been a farrier or veterinary in the army and was very skilled in his profession according to the old timers. It is said he would cut out a collar sore while sitting on the horses back. An instance is related of a team coming into town pulling a heavy load of wheat. One of the horses fell and all efforts to make it rise were in vain. Old Jack was sent for and he placed a powder on the animal's tongue, and it immediately got up, completely cured. A favorite trick of the old fellow's, when in his cups was to ask strangers if they knew who he was. If they replied in the negative they had their ears soundly boxed. Will Fisk once fell a victim to this. It was a common sight to see the old man riding on his white horse yelling at the top of his voice, "I'm old Jack Dunn. Everyone knows old Jack," as he reeled and lurched from side to side in the saddle. The stallion tried to follow each lurch to prevent his rider from falling until they had the appearance of both being intoxicated. Sometimes the old fellow fell off. Then the grey mounted guard over him until he was able to remount, driving away all intruders with bared teeth.

After the death of his wife old Jack went to Canada and remarried again and it is said quit drinking.

State of Michigan, the Circuit Court for the County of Livingston, Chancery.

James G. Tiplady,

Plaintiff,

George Butler, Joseph Butler, Edwin D. Butler, Charles C. Butler, Amanda H. Butler, and their unknown heirs, devisees, legatees and assigns and the unknown wife of George S. Butler, Defendants.

Suit pending in the Circuit Court for the county of Livingston in Chancery at Howell, Michigan, on the 28th day of July, 1926.

It appearing from the sworn bill of complaint as filed in said cause, that the plaintiff has not been able after diligent search and inquiry to ascertain whether the said defendants are alive or dead, or where they may reside, or whether they have any personal representatives or heirs living, or where they or any of them may reside, or whether the title, interest, claim, lien or possible right of these defendants have been assigned to any other person or persons, or whether such title, interest, claim, lien or possible right has been disposed of by will by the said defendants.

And it further appearing that the plaintiff does not know and has not been able after diligent search and inquiry to ascertain the names of the persons who are included as defendants without being named.

Upon motion, therefore, of Don W. Van Winkle, attorney for Plaintiff, it is ordered, that the above named defendants and their unknown heirs, devisees, legatees and assigns cause their appearance to be entered herein within three months from the date hereof, and that in default thereof said bill be taken as confessed by said defendants and each and all of them.

It is further ordered that the plaintiff cause this order to be published within forty days in the Pinckney Dispatch, a newspaper printed, published and circulating in said County, once in each week for at least six consecutive weeks.

A true copy J. B. MUNSELL, Jr. Circuit Court Commissioner, Livingston County, Michigan.

John A. Hagman, Clerk.

The above entitled suit involves and is brought to quiet title of the following described lands, located in the Township of Hamburg, Livingston County, Michigan, and more particularly described as follows, to wit:

The southeast quarter (1-4) of the southeast quarter (1-4), Section number twenty-four (24) and the west half of the southeast quarter (24) and the east half of the southeast quarter (24), excepting ten (10) acres of the north end, ended to George G. All in township one (1) North five (5) East, Michigan.
