Baughn and Reason Purchase the Birkett Farm of 415 Acres

One of the largest lake frontage deals in this section was put through when the Birkett farm on the south side of Big Portage Lake was sold to Messrs Earl Baughn and Norman Reason for a price up in the hundred thousands.

The farm consists of 425 acres but the house and ten acres of land were not sold. The entire south shore of Portage Lake is included with the farm giving it about a mile of lake frontage none of which has ever been developed. Baughn and Reason are successful lake frontage subdividers having during the past year plotted and sold several hundred lots, on the Lee farm at Cedar Lake. We understand they will make a highly restricted subdivision of the Birkett farm and cater to the better class of summer resorters. The farm was owned by Mrs. H. Wirt Newkirk of Ann Arbor, daughter of the late Thomas Birkett.

The farm has been in the possession of the Birkett family for some seventy years or more. Mr. Birkett came over from England in the early forties and started to work for a man named Sloan who operated a flour mill at Dover as the district around the Birkett farm was then called, and at that time consisted of a store, postoffice, blacksmith shop, cooper shop etc. Sloan died and Mr. Birkett married his widow and continued in the milling business. During the civil war wheat skyrocketed in price and he became very wealthy by the sale of milling products and often said he could have made much more money if he had been able to purchase more wheat. Some years after this the mill burned to the ground and was never rebuilt as he had decided to engage in other business. He organized the Dexter Savings Bank and was elected its president which office he held up to the time of his death some ten years ago. The house at Dover was always his home and he kept adding more land until he had over 500 acres which included all the south and west shores of Portage Lake. The west shore he sold to Paul Bock some years back. His home with its large house and beautifully kept yard and its park filled with deer was one of the show places of this section for years. Some years before Mr. Birkett's death a pestilence broke out among his deer and most of them died. The survivors were turned loose to make their way back to their northern homes. The large hill was set out to peach trees and the farm into a stock farm for Clydesdale horses and Shorthorn cattle. Mr. Birkett invested heavily in Detroit real estate and was rated a millionaire at the time of his death. The Birkett Memorial Church in Detroit which bears his name was given a free site and the old church at Dover by him which was taken down and moved to Detroit some fifteen years ago and used as a church until they built their present church. This was in memory of his wife as Mr. Birkett was an Episcopalian.

MENTIONED AGAIN

In an address given at Lansing one night last week and broadcasted over the radio Coach Remington of Detroit who is rated one of the foremost football authorities of the state said that the big high schools were not producing all the best men now days. That in Smith of Durand and Swarthout of Pinckney, the smaller towns had two stars who would undoubtedly have been given places on the first all high school teams if they had been on teams of a higher classification.

NOT SHEEP LAND

Many farmers in this section who have raised sheep for years hardly believe that the 1000 acre tract of land west of town and east of Detroit parties will be used for sheep raising. L. C. Hendee, one of the largest sheep raisers in the section says that the greater part of the land in the tract sold is sandy and that sheep raising play land is hard to find. He says that the grass in sandy soil does not grow so thick and their close cropping of it this year does not happen on clay land. Hendee says with small flocks and a few ewes on sand land by turning them out on the sand they will not be able to raise them.

KILLED BY ANOTHER CAR

Last Sunday morning between 12:00 and 1:00 A. M. while Dr. McKim of Stockbridge was out making a call something went wrong with his car and he got out to fix it. While he was working at it Loren Mills of Lansing came along and did not see him until too late to stop. He turned out to find hitting him but the rear end of his car struck the doctor injuring him so badly that he died in fifteen minutes. Mr. Mills stopped and did all possible for the injured man and then gave himself up but he was not held. The deceased during his stay at Stockbridge had built up a large practise and made a host of friends by whom he will be greatly missed. He is survived by his widow and two year old son.

FOUR WEEKS AT THE ADAMS

Approval from Detroit screen followers has caused "We're in the Navy Now" to be held for a fourth week at the Adams. Wallace Berry and Raymond Hatton are the central figures in this comedy with Chester Conklin, Tom Kenney and others giving able support.

Berry and Hatton have the roles respectively of an alleged prize fighter and his manager, who find themselves unexpectedly enrolled in the navy. They are given the usual vaccinations under most amusing circumstances, throat swabs, sea going trousers, mid-dies and are then hurried aboard a transport bound for France. Disregard for all the established rules and regulations brings them all work and no play, as well as the "brig" and "kitchen police."

This film will be shown at the Temple Theatre, Howell on Dec. 21

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Battle were guests of A. F. Detling of Ann Arbor Sunday.

Haw, Haw, Haw

An Englishman just returning to London from a visit over here was much impressed with our slang phrase, "Se's your old man." In telling his friends about it he explained, "You know they have a deucedly funny saying oval them when they question you say. Instead of sneering, 'Fiddlesticks—or you don't mean it, old chappie,' they say, 'Oh, well, fawther is the same way.' Clewah, fan't it? Haw, haw."

Lines Imported in Milady's Hat.

Proportions May Be Equalized by Wearing the Proper Wrap.

While many women are limited as to the lines and styles they can wear, every type can be attractively and becomingly dressed if the effect of style upon the figure is studied.

The figure with the large bust may be made to appear more graceful by clothing selected to conceal its defects, and to center attention on portions of the figure pleasing in effect.

The dolman line, with its loose, easy fit, conceals rather than reveals the large bust, provided, of course, the draping falls in pleasing lines. Although the dolman emphasizes and frequently increases the size of the upper portion of the figure, the loose, easy sleeves and armholes tend to equalize and distribute the apparent bulk, thus making the bust less conspicuous.

Double-breasted coats, with overlapping thickness of cloth, are not suitable to the large-busted figure. The shawl collar may be becoming while worn open with a deep V down the front and the collar itself concealing the lines of the bust, but it is disastrous when worn closed, with the bulky fur turned inward, increasing the size of the bust.

The straight collar, worn rather high around the neck, tends to equalize the figure by giving less contrast between bust and shoulder and neckline. The scarf collar fulfilling this function and at the same time giving a straight line down the front of the coat and partly concealing the outlines of the bust, may likewise be a wise selection for the woman with a large bust.

Sometimes the bust may be made to appear smaller and the balance of the entire figure improved if the hips are made to appear larger. Belted effects have this advantage and fulfill another function as well—they hold the coat bloused slightly, so that strain over the bust line is relieved. Trimming, particularly fur trimming, placed at the bottom of the coat or as pockets, makes the skirt portion of the coat appear heavier and thus equalizes the figure. The bust then appears smaller. The danger of this method is that it shortens the figure and therefore can be worn successfully only by the taller figure.

The coat fitting trimly with a normal arm's-eye and narrow shoulder line may, with a cleverly handled flare, give the impression that the entire figure is as slim as the emphasized upper portion. If the flare is not gracefully conceived, if, for instance, it flares from the shoulder without revealing the slim portion of the figure above the waist, it may have the unpleasant effect of appearing like an inverted triangle, wide and heavy at the bottom.

The straight-line coat frequently is the best choice of the woman with large hips. Fitting neither loosely nor snugly, it tends to equalize the figure, at the same time giving slender lines. It is not as pleasing for the large-busted figure, as the weight of the coat rests on the bust, causing this portion of the figure to be made conspicuous.

The heavy pile fabrics are less slenderizing than smooth surfaces. Shiny materials may emphasize high lights, while a soft-napped fabric of dull and supple texture may create becoming shadows, creating an illusion of height.

Cloth coats, particularly those made of the soft, fine fabrics sponsored this season, are lighter in weight than the fur coat, an important consideration for the average woman, particularly one who does much walking.

Handsome Plaid Coat Smart Winter Cloak

Plaid coats, not the ordinary sort, but gorgeous types, are one of the smartest items in winter clothing. Starting effect is the idea in these ultra-fashionable plaids. Select a bold plaid of red and black of rich deep soft-pile all-wool fabric. Trim this with black fur, top it with a part little red hat, carry a red leather handbag and you cannot fail to win fashion's enthusiastic smile of approval. A cape adds charm to the silhouette of the plaid model in the picture. The color scheme is brown, beige and cream-white with a beige caracul collar.

Fringe, Trimming Note for Day, Evening Wear

Fringe continues to hold a leading place in trimmings, both for day and evening wear.

The tiered effect is a favorite treatment for fringe. An evening dress of pink velvet with three tiers of beaded fringe is a recent French importation. Fringe made of flat sequins is decidedly effective especially when applied in tiers.

Fringes of metal are new in dressmaking. They blend beautifully with the metal cloths that are so popular. A gold fringe on an evening gown of gold brocade and green velvet is an exquisite combination.

A smart costume in black and white has the black jersey skirt and the tunic blouse banded with deep black and white fringe. By the way, these varicolored fringes are new, and decidedly effective.

We have frequently seen the entire skirt made of a row of deep fringe. This, however, always appeared on a skirt; but now in London appears a skirt of fringe worn over matching bloomers, and dressmakers are of the opinion it will become an accepted mode.

One-Piece Frock Is to Be in Fashion Picture

While the dominance of the two-piece mode remains unquestioned, there is evidence on all sides that one-piece frocks are becoming more and more important. Authorities who spent the late summer at famous French and Spanish resorts reported that many of the smartest women there appeared in new versions of a one-piece dress.

It may be that a departure from a too casual style of dressing, a style which brought into prominence the informal costumes of skirt and jumper, is responsible for the awakened interest in models cut on straight slender lines. Their chief point of interest lies in a slightly bloused effect above a belt placed at the natural line of the waist or a trim below.

Jewels and Feathers Transferred to Feet

The feminine shopping procedure has been exactly reversed. Once upon a time millinery was the item eligible of the fashionable and entire costumes were planned about the luxuriantness of a hat. Now millinery or a jeweled headpiece is but now we have literally transferred the jewels and feathers to our feet and the shoes from the nucleus about which the costume is assembled.

Decorative Is Large

Decorative has its appropriate sense which to be smart must be kept. Decorative white cordons are often worn, as well as flat chignon round in evening gowns, but a bit of decorative fluff on the crown of white hair is equally smart with smart gowns.

ROUTING

FEEDING LAYING HEN IS REAL ART

Much of the success in winter egg production is obtained from a bucketful of feed in one hand and a bucketful of common sense in the other. Feeding the laying hen is a real art, for so much depends upon the poultryman's decision each day in the matter so that his birds will work most efficiently.

The feeder is a skilled mechanic who systematically holds the birds up to 50 to 60 per cent production from November 1 to the following fall, without causing a slump in egg production and at the same time maintaining their health and vigor.

One of the first prerequisites in feeding is to understand what the egg consists of. It is made up of a yolk, white, shell, and is two-thirds water.

The yolk is fat and is made from feeding fatty or starchy foods, as corn, wheat and oats.

The white is animal protein, which is made from material such as meat and milk.

The shell is made mostly of calcium, which is found in certain kinds of stone and oyster shell. In order to aid in the digestion of all of these foods some bulk is desirable which is green and succulent, such as sprouted oats, mangel beets, cabbage, etc.

In order for these foods to be properly digested, an abundance of grit should be available, as this acts as the hen's teeth in grinding the food in the gizzard.

Water is cheap. Have it before the birds at all times.

Legume Hay Helps Solve the Green Feed Problem

Legume hay helps solve the winter green feed problem for the chickens. Experiments in Ohio, Kansas, Texas, and California seem to indicate definitely that where no other source of green feed is available the addition of a legume hay will increase the number of eggs produced and their hatchability. It will also reduce the mortality from nutritional troubles, points out G. S. Vickers, extension specialist in poultry at the Ohio State university.

Save the hay with the most leaves and the greenest color for the chickens. An easy way to feed chickens hay is to provide a rack along the wall and keep hay before them all the time. A trough along the bottom of the rack will catch all the leaves that would otherwise be wasted. These can be fed from the mash hopper.

Alfalfa meal may be used if good hay cannot be bought at reasonable prices. The meal should be used in the mash. About 10 per cent alfalfa meal will substitute for a like amount of bran. A combination of mangel beets and legume hay makes a good winter combination to use instead of sprouted oats. It may be that hay is about to take the place of our old reliable, but troublesome, sprouted oats as a winter green feed.

Poultry Hints

The laying hen never loaf.

Soy beans can be used in a poultry ration if minerals are added.

Poultry raising brings quick returns and involves a small capital investment in land, buildings and equipment.

The factors of scientific poultry housing are to keep the pens, yards and houses clean, dry and sanitary.

Thanksgiving and Christmas seasons offer good markets for capons. January and February are also good months since at that time poultry of all kinds is scarce and buyers are willing to pay top prices.

Systematic culling may profitably be practiced throughout the year. Sick birds, those lacking in constitutional vigor, and those showing any sign of physical defects should be disposed of whenever found.

Litter that is not kept loose and light is too heavy for the hens. Put a little down first; when that is broken and fine, add more.

Ducks have been successfully bred up until seven years of age. The age of vigor and productiveness in a duck is double that of the hen.

Green food in some form is essential and should be provided regularly during the winter months. Cabbage, carrots, turnips, beets or potatoes will serve.

When culling a sock one should find out whether it is the hen or the owner who is at fault.

Everything inside a poultry house should be made removable so that it can be cleaned.

Summer chicks command good prices in late fall. They should weigh about five pounds to the pair. Those hatched in the fall stop growing in the cold weather sets but are usually small but compact in appearance.

Forest Fires
The figures relating to the forest fires on the middle northern part of the country seem to indicate that while the number of outbreaks has increased, the total damage done is decreased. These figures, declares the forest service, indicate clearly that while progress has been made in fire suppression there is a crying need for better fire prevention, especially as only 1 per cent of fires in the whole ten years were due to lightning, and only 2 per cent were deliberately set.

Porter's Pain King

A Liniment

Quickly Checks Coughs and Colds. Used Since 1871

How many years has the "Pain King Man" been calling at your home? More than 50 years ago, in 1871, Dr. Porter originated the idea of leaving medicine on a year's trial. Hundreds of thousands of bottles of Porter's Pain King are distributed every year on this fair plan by The Geo. H. Runole Co., Piquette, Ohio.

There is such a steady, all-the-year-round demand for Porter's Pain King, the original liniment, and Porter's Pain King Balm, that dealers everywhere now carry these standard home remedies in stock, and you need never be without them.

Many users have written letters telling how good Porter's Pain King is, how many things they use it for, and often adding, "I would not be without it." Read the directions wrapped around the bottle.

Don't Tolerate Pain!

When you're so sore you can hardly move when you are suffering with rheumatism, neuralgia, toothache, headache, or any other kind of pain, use Porter's Pain King. It is the only medicine that kills pain of rheumatism, neuralgia, toothache, headache, or any other kind of pain. It is the only medicine that gives relief in a few minutes. It is the only medicine that is safe for the whole family. It is the only medicine that is sold in a convenient form. It is the only medicine that is sold in a reliable package. Coats and Frocks Are Formed Into Ensemble

In general coats and frocks are not merely well combined to form an ensemble. Some ensembles with the coat, lining and frock in one fabric have the same coloration, lines and trimmings; in others the lining and frock are in a contrasting color and perhaps different in fabric; in others again the top part of the lining is in the same fabric as the lining while the bottom part of it is made of a contrasting fabric, both of which are in the same color.

GREGORY CHURCH NOTES

Milton W. Dressel, Pastor. Week of December 12--19.

Many centuries have come and gone since the shepherds on Judean hills were watching over their flocks by night when to their great amazement the glory of the Lord shone around them, their courage failing them, when an angel spoke saying, Fear not; for behold I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people.

"For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Savior which is Christ the Lord." And then appeared a heavenly choir and sang for the shepherds a message that echoed around the world, "Glory to God in the highest and on earth peace, good will toward men."

Many readers of the Gregory Church Notes may you be blessed with a Merry Christmas and may the spirit of the Angel's Message to the Judean Shepherds be yours. Let us worship the Lord Christ at the 10:30 Service next Sunday Morning when the Pastor's Christmas sermon will be delivered on the subject, "The Message of Bethlehem." At 7:30 let us all take part and listen to the Christmas Story as sung in Christmas Carols.

In the B. Y. P. U. at 6:30 Eva Rice will bring a helpful message on the Bible Patriarch Jacob.

Let each person come to the mid-week service Thursday night at 7:00 with an inspirational thought or Scripture verse on "Jesus." You let us and all come to all the services in The Little Church with the Big Welcome.

1926 Again Chevrolet's Greatest Year

In 1925 Chevrolet astonished the automotive world by attaining an annual production never before reached by any manufacturer of gear shift car. Yet so spectacular has been the increase in demand for 1926 Chevrolet cars that a new and even more brilliant record is the climax for 1926. Thus for two years in succession Chevrolet has broken all its previous records and set a new mark in automotive industry. This splendid achievement results from a steadfast adherence to the fundamental Chevrolet policy of building a car of the finest possible quality to sell at a low price. That the vast majority of buyers now demand a car of this type--and that Chevrolet has been successful in building such a car--possessing the highest degree of smooth performance, smart appearance, and economical operation--is proved by Chevrolet's success during the year now drawing to a close. Come in and see this record-breaking car.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Planes to Grab Rumanian Throne Are Foiled by King Ferdinand.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

EVEN though he be sick almost unto death, King Ferdinand of Rumania has no intention of permitting the former crown prince, Carol, and his friends, or any other clique to seize the throne or otherwise get control of the government. The king, whose death was rumored several times, issued an edict to the nation warning against any attempt to interfere with the regency established after Carol's death with Magda Lupescu and refused his rights to the succession in favor of his little son, Michael. Ferdinand said he felt his strength returning, and undoubtedly his condition is much improved for the time being.

Meanwhile Queen Marie reached Paris, had a long private conference with Carol, and left hurriedly for Bucharest, abandoning her plans for two days of shopping because Ferdinand sent a pathetic plea for her to return home. Decision as to an action on her husband was postponed until after her arrival.

Paris Foreign Minister Mitlener dispelled the rumors of the danger of a revolution or military coup d'etat, with Prince Carol attempting to seize the throne at the king's death. He said it is not true that the military hierarchy supports the ex-crown prince. Nevertheless, the newspapers hinted that there was likely to be a great shakeup among the high army commanders as a safeguard to prevent a sudden shift to the support of Carol. It was said Premier Avram and Bratiano, generally considered director of the country, had agreed on a coalition cabinet.

DESPITE charges of excessive campaign expenditures, Arthur R. Gould, Republican, was elected senator from Maine to succeed the late Senator Fernald, and the control of the senate was thereby assured to his party. With Gould in, the upper house will have forty-eight Republicans, forty-seven Democrats and one Farmer-Laborite. The last, Senator Shipstead of Minnesota, is expected to line up with the Republicans because he formerly belonged in that party and the Farmer-Laborite party of Minnesota has now dissolved. Senators Brookhart of Iowa and Frazier of North Dakota, who supported LaFollette for President two years ago, have been taken back into the fold of regularity.

AS MEMBERS of congress gathered in Washington for the short session, now opened, there was general agreement that nothing in the way of farm relief legislation could be enacted this winter and that the problem would be left for the next congress to tackle. Leaders of the corn and wheat belts, still insistent on the passage of the McNary-Haugen bill to freeze up the domestic prices of farm produce, found its prospects at this time were poor, owing to the fact that the Southern Democrats still refuse their support. The Democrat leadership opposes this bill and all similar plans because the underlying principle, they think, is a scheme for making the protective tariff on farm products effective. Furthermore, it is asserted by some belt-Republicans, the Democratic leaders are determined to kill any farm relief legislation before the Presidential election of 1928 on the theory that the failure of legislation would prove exceedingly embarrassing to the Republicans in that contest. Senator McNary has prepared a revised bill which will make it optional with the farmer to buy the surplus out-right or to advance funds for this purpose to the co-operative marketing associations. The bill provides for the purchase of surplus wheat and rice, and the transportation of the same to the foreign market.

AFTER trying for nine years to enforce its prohibition law, the province of Ontario, Canada, went to the polls on Wednesday and voted overwhelmingly in favor of substituting a system of liquor traffic under government control. The dry law will be repealed at the next session of the legislature in February, for out of a membership of 112, about 80 of the new legislators are pledged to take this action. It was a great victory for the Conservative government headed by Premier G. Howard Ferguson. Only one cabinet member, Dr. David Jamieson, was defeated. Sinclair and Raney, respectively the Liberal and Progressive dry leaders, won by narrow margins. William Nickle, until recently Premier Ferguson's attorney general, who left the government to support the dries, was beaten in Kingston by a majority of more than 2,000. His downfall was a demoralizing defeat for the dries. Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick are the only provinces of Canada that still cling to prohibition.

FOREIGNERS in Foochow, China, who are numerous, were in dire peril for some days while the Cantonese and northern troops were fighting for control of Fukien province. However, calls for protection were speedily answered and Japanese, British and French gunboats were hurried to the scene. To protect American lives and property the mine detachment vessel Hart was sent from Manila to Foochow. Latest reports of the fighting indicated that the Cantonese were having the best of it and would soon capture Foochow, Chekiang and the entire province.

Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary, told the house of commons that the government opposed armed intervention in China and had taken all the steps it deemed necessary to protect British nationals in the war zone. As opposed to the recent pronouncement of the Cantonese commander is the report of the international commission headed by Sir H. Strawn on extraterritoriality in China. After eight months of study the commission recommends that extraterritorial rights be retained by the powers for the present, being progressively abolished only as changing conditions warrant, and that the administration of the laws be entrusted to a judiciary independent of the executive or the military authorities.

SECRETARY OF STATE KELLOGG has devised and formally proposed a plan which he believes will settle the age-old dispute between Peru and Chile over Tacna and Arica. He suggests that those provinces be ceded to Bolivia, now shut off from the sea, and that Peru and Chile receive compensation for public works constructed there. The provinces, under his plan, would be maintained as a perpetually demilitarized zone, the city of Arica would be made a free port and the Morro promontory would be established under international control as a memorial to the valor of both Chile and Peru with a monument on the headland commemorating the friendly settlement of the question.

Prompt resumption of diplomatic relations between Chile and Peru would be expected under the formula, which Secretary Kellogg explained, "does not call for a moral surrender or anything that can be so construed, by one country to the other." Further, he said, its acceptance would embody "a settlement which South America as a whole would welcome as one insuring permanent peace and stability."

NICARAGUA'S troubles are not over by any means. Last week General Sacasa, the former vice president who was supported for the presidency by the revolutionists, landed at Puerto Cabezas with men and arms and announced his cabinet. He expects that Mexico and Guatemala will recognize him as president. The press of San Salvador is protesting against the American recognition of President Diaz Sacasa, arrived with two schooners from Puerto Barrios, Guatemala, and was escorted by a Mexican gunboat. General Moncada, commander of the rebels, has rejected the government's offer of a general amnesty.

HENRI BERENGER having refused reappointment as French ambassador to Washington, Paul Claudel, at present ambassador to Tokyo, has been selected for the place and the French cabinet has approved the appointment. M. Claudel is an author of considerable note and of delightful personality. Born at Lyons in 1870, he began his diplomatic career as attache to Washington 30 years ago. Later he was consul to Canada. He lived in China nearly twenty years as consul. He was transferred to Frankfurt in 1912 as consul general, and later served as minister to Brazil, minister to Denmark, and was named ambassador to Japan in 1923.

FOREIGN MINISTER BRIAND, successfully defending his policy of re-establishing friendship between France and Germany, told the chamber of deputies that a peace policy is the only means of averting another calamitous war. He said the policies of Locarno and Thiers were merely steps toward peace, adding that he and Herr Stresemann differed on many points but were trying to get together. Regarding the Rhineland, he said: "We are not on the Rhineland to throttle Germany, we are there to see that the treaty stipulations are carried out, and we have every reason to withdraw when we are satisfied. I am convinced the substitution of the League of Nations for the interallied control commission instead of weakening France's security would strengthen it."

M. Briand also took occasion to warn Italy not to get too gay. He said it was all right for the Italians to lose their tempers, but that they must not do it too often.

HERBERT HOOVER, secretary of commerce, says in his annual report that the year has been one of unprecedented progress for American industries and never has been surpassed in the volume of production and consumption, in the physical quantity of exports and imports, and in the rate of wages. There has been practically no unemployment. He adds: "As in the preceding year there were a few points where conditions were less satisfactory, as in the New England textile industry, two or three sections of the agricultural industry, and the bituminous coal industry."

"On the whole, however, the country was able to maintain the highest standard of living in its history, a standard far above that in most other countries of the world at this or any other time. This represents a remarkable recovery from the great losses incurred by the nation in the World war."

Agriculture still lags behind other industries, Secretary Hoover concedes. "The steady advance in prices of agricultural commodities from the time of the great fall in 1920-21 up to the crop year 1924-25 has contributed to the restoration of agriculture, although there are still weak spots," says Mr. Hoover.

ONE of the most important attacks yet made on the Volstead act was repulsed by the Supreme court of the United States in an opinion that upheld that section of the act which limits to one pint in ten days the amount of spirituous or vinous liquor a physician may prescribe for a patient. Five of the justices held that this restriction is clearly valid under the power granted congress in the eighteenth amendment to enforce prohibition by appropriate legislation. Justices Sutherland, McReynolds, Stone and Butler in a dissenting opinion asserted that not only is the restriction an unlawful interference with the medical profession and the right of individual states to control medical practice, but that it is plain, from a reading of the eighteenth amendment, that congress and the states which ratified the amendment, sought only to prohibit the manufacture and sale of liquor for beverage purposes.

REVOLT in Albania, of which not much has been heard over here, has grown serious. But the news is now given out that Italy has signed a treaty of amity and co-operation with Albania, and Mussolini's government indicates that it will go the limit in supporting the Albanian government. Togo, Greece and other neighboring states are also reported to be in a state of unrest.

Call to Youth of Nation to Take Active Part in Political Purification

By A. ROSENTHAL, Magazine Editor.

AFTER forty, men seem to set higher than politics their freedom, pleasure or their business. Politics in its high and noble definition is the science of good government. In its low and selfish modern meaning, politics is the battle for spoils and power for personal advantage. In the ideal sense, politics concerns our lives, our liberties and our fate. It has the purpose of planning, protecting, preserving and promoting the public good and welfare at every angle. In the baser, practical, partisan expression of today, politics largely is the scheme by which a number of materialistic men live at the public crib and thrive like parasites and ticks upon the body politic.

Should young men reaching their majority and soon thereafter risk their characters and their possible careers by touching the black pitch of politics as it exists today in our America, or should they shun it for the cleaner fields of science, art and industry? On the other hand, admitting that our politics, as constituted now, is not what it should be, should young men who presumably have purer sentiments of patriotism and the fresher fire of a finer feeling for the future of the city, state or nation, should they enlist, as they did in the war, to make, in peace times, this land much safer for democracy?

The danger of being defiled by close contact with the average politician of our modern politics is not to be belittled or ignored. The need of the power of young men to cleanse or to minimize the calculating sordidness of modern politics is just as great as the necessity for gunners on the battleships at sea, for our American municipalities and voters are "at sea" politically.

No Great Advance Made by Civilization in Three Thousand Years

By PROF. ROBERT A. MILLIKAN, Yale University.

The more intimately one gets in touch with any civilization of bygone days the more he is struck by the similarity between the way people lived and talked then and the way they live, talk and think now.

The beauty of women, the strength of men, the flavor of strawberries, the aroma of flowers, the love of friends, courtship, marriage and divorce, the race track, by wrestling and boxing—all these played almost exactly the same role in the lives of the people of ancient Rome as they play in the lives of the people of New Haven or New York. And it is around these things, too, that about 90 per cent of the interests of the average man revolve.

In what are called the highest things of life, can we truthfully be said to have made any real progress? That question has been raised and often answered in the negative by literary men, philosophers and occasionally by divines.

In intellectual power we do not surpass, even if we equal, the Athenians or the Alexandrians. In devotion to moral and spiritual ideals, where can the Twentieth century show anything finer than the death of Socrates?

Lasting World Peace Based on Contentment, Happiness and Prosperity

By WILLIAM C. ALEXANDER, Kiwanis Vice President.

Colossal efforts have been made by many to obtain world peace. World peace can never come without national peace. National peace can never be hoped for without community peace. Peace is dependent upon contentment, happiness and prosperity. Kiwanis has a greater opportunity than any organization I know for contributing to the welfare of community, national and world well-being.

Our organization is built on a solid foundation, from the bottom, not from the top. Starting at the bottom, our just duty is to accept in our clubs, members—not only on a basis of their fitness as outstanding business or professional men—but as good citizens, and also of their proven interest in the actual work of Kiwanis and a full appreciation of its worth. When a man says he hasn't time for Kiwanis, if you cannot convince him and he does not agree to attend meetings and to bear his share of the labors, "pass him up." You cannot afford to take him in. Quality is the keynote in our building. Names mean nothing in themselves.

Great Executives Would Be Greater if They Had Had Benefits of Training

By CHAUNCEY M. DEPEW, Retired Railroad Director.

Of course there will always be newsboys who will be railroad presidents, and unscholarly men who will rise to great distinction. Some persons are endowed with exceptional qualities—divine gifts which make them great regardless of training. There is no accounting for the exceptional man, but the percentage of newsboys who become magnates is exceedingly small, and I believe even they would have made an infinitely greater success if they had been better equipped.

The George Washingtons, the Abraham Lincolns, the Calhouns, the Henry Clays and the Daniel Websters have all these exceptional qualities and would have been great anyhow.

The qualities essential to success as I would place them are: First, character; second, industry, remorseless industry; third, a full and thorough knowledge of one's career or vocation; fourth, a due regard for one's fellow men and the cultivation of them.

Duty of Church to Aid in Preservation of Spiritual and Physical Health

By DEAN CHARLES B. BROWN, Yale Divinity School.

We have learned much in the last fifty years about the potency of mental and spiritual forces in overcoming functional troubles and in gaining sound health. The church has a duty in this matter.

Man's prevailing habit of thought, his freedom from fear and worry, malice and hatred, his exercise of faith and hope and love will all register themselves in certain definite physical results. The mind and the Christian heart contribute steadily to better health. The church has a duty in this matter. It should make for sound living. Even in the distressing mental and physical troubles which can be won from it, the church should be able to give aid and comfort. It should be able to give aid and comfort to those who are suffering from these troubles.

If Back Hurts Begin on Salts

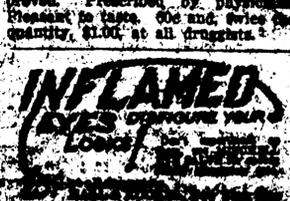

Flush Your Kidneys Occasionally by Drinking Quarts of

No man or woman can take by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Too much rich food creates acids which clog the kidney pores so that they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood. Then you get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders often come from sluggish kidneys. The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage, or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin to drink soft water in quantities; also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders. Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone can take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby often preventing serious kidney complications.

A QUICKER WAY TO END

To quickly break up a cold it is necessary to do two things: 1—Get rid of phlegm. 2—Get rid of irritation in lining of throat and bronchial tubes.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral accomplishes this by its powerful double action. It cuts away phlegm because its medication penetrates through and through the linings of throat, chest and bronchial tubes. You feel almost instant relief, all the way down. Then it is absorbed into the irritated membranes just as ink soaks into a blotter. As its soothing, healing properties are absorbed by the membranes themselves, it stops the cough, breaks up the mucus and brings prompt, lasting relief. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is not just a name. Prescribed by physicians, it is pleasant to taste, 50c and 75c bottles. Quantity, $1.00, at all druggists.

RELATIVE COST OF LUBRICATING A CAR

Every dollar you spend in running your car

- 43 percent goes for depreciation
- 33.5 percent for tires, insurance and investment
- 10.5 percent for gasoline
- 10.5 percent for repairs and
- 2.5 percent for lubricating oil

Yet lubricating oil, the smallest item in the matter of cost, is the chief factor in cutting down depreciation, reducing repair bills and insuring a quiet running engine. The oil you pour into your crank case has over half the say whether your car will stay in or out of the repair shop.

Pinckney's First Intention Debate

was held last evening at the home of Miss Hazel Smith and Mrs. Mary Ellen were opposed by Messrs. Carr, Chase, Miller and Marking. The debate was a real success.

The students and teachers are very proud of the honor they have won through the state of Michigan. All hope off to Captain Swarthout. He has advertised the village of Pinckney in every city and town in the state.

Mrs. Campbell has been elected manager of the high school basketball team and Mrs. Swarthout, captain. This is the first time that Pinckney school has taken part in basket ball.

Many people have wondered what is meant by a "D" team in athletics. The high schools of the state are divided by the state department into four divisions according to the number of students that are enrolled. A school with less than a hundred students enrolled in the four upper grades is called a class "D" school in athletics.

THE SCOT WITH THE DOUBLE-BROOD CROW

If you could know that the pennies that you spend for Christmas gifts might chance to be the very pennies that would surely bring you some little gift, that is, a broken father back to earning power. Would you not spend more pennies? The more the pennies that you spend the more the good the pennies do.

That's why the Christmas seals Tuberculosis Seals.
