A BIG TIME PROMISED

All indications point to one of the largest attendances ever at the annual picnic to be given by St. Mary's church at Lapham's Grove, Pinckney, on next Tuesday, August 9.

A sumptuous chicken dinner, served as the ladies of St. Mary's parish know how to serve it, will be in order from 11:30 A. M. to 1:30 P. M. Fr. Hermes of Lansing will officiate as toastmaster and addresses will be made by S. E. Doyle of the Public Utilities Commission and Hon. John P. Kirk of Ypsilanti. Vocal selections will be rendered by Genevieve Dunn Smith of Jackson, noted radio entertainer and Dan Noeker of Hamburg. A Holstein cow, chest of linen and $10 will be given away.

The base ball game will be between Donovan's Checkers of Owosso and Jack Dunn's Collegians of Ann Arbor. These two teams played at Cheasaning last Sunday and the game went 12 innings, Owosso winning by a score of 2 to 1. This game is the second of a three game series between these teams and will be for blood.

Come back to your old home town on Tuesday, August 9th and renew old friendships at St. Mary's Annual Picnic. There will be a lot of your old acquaintances there.

CLARENCEVILLE A. C. SUNDAY

The Pinckney Independents will try once more to shake the jinx which has been following them for the last three games when they meet the Clarenceville team from near Redford. This team is said to be a good one and to be in the same class with the Oakman A. C. which recently played here. The Pinckney line-up will be strengthened by the addition of several out of town players for this game. Come on out and help the home boys win a victory.

WINS FIRST START

James Roche, Pinckney's veteran horseman, started his two year old colt, Diamond Dewey, in the Emancipation Day races at Jackson Monday and won taking the second and third heats. This was the colt's first race. Jim has his horses entered at the Milford Fair next week and hopes to be as successful at the fairs this year as just when he won first money five times.

HUNT STOCK COMPANY HERE NEXT WEEK

Commencing next Monday evening, August 7th, and continuing for three days, the Hunt Stock Company will present a repertoire of late vaudeville plays and high class vaudeville specialties.

In the past the Hunt Stock Company has delighted countless numbers of theatre-going patrons, but never until this season did the opportunity present itself to offer to the public a more varied form of entertainment. Starting each evening with a thirty minute concert by Hunt's Jolly Syncopaters before the rise of the curtain and continuing to the fall of the final curtain, many new features are to be noted. New plays, vaudeville, scenery, wardrobe, electrical effects, etc. all play an important part in creating a great amusement value.

"Tillie Ann" a three act comedy drama will be presented on the opening night at which time one lady will be admitted free with each paid ticket.

A BIG SUCCESS

The chicken dinner given by the Lakeland Circle of King's Daughters at the Hotel Zeiser, Lakeland last Wednesday was a big success, $86.40 being taken in. $41.30 was realized from the sale of the quilt which went to Mrs. Ada DePlauch. This makes a total of $127.75 realized.

DANCE SATURDAY, AUGUST 6th

There will be a dancing party given at Met Chalker's dance hall at Patterson Lake on Saturday evening, August 6. Dances for both old and young. Come and dance on a good floor to the best of music. Refreshments served. Bill $1.00.

NOTICE

Regular meeting of Pinckney Chapter No. 145 O. E. S. will be held Friday evening, August 5. Initiation. Hazel Parker, Sec'y.

AMOS EWING

Amos Ewing, son of the late Mrs. Mary Ewing of Pinckney died at his home at Pinckney one day last week. He was in the produce business there for many years and at the time of his death was a director in one of the banks. The funeral and burial were held at Ithaca.

DANCING AT HI-LAND LAKE

There will be a dancing party given at Hi-Land Lake Saturday evening, August 6. Music by the Ann Arbor Ramblers Orchestra. Old and modern dancing. Refreshments will be served at the hall. Every body invited. Bill $1.00.

FAREWELL

The farewell reception for Rev. and Mrs. H. E. Maycroft, leaving for Cleveland, was largely attended. A social time was enjoyed until 9:30 when a bountiful pot-luck supper was served after which Miss Clella Fish read the following poem which was most fitting for the occasion:

"Not for Self, but Others"
Not for greed or gain;
Just for willing service,
Duty clear and plain.
Filled with Christ's own spirit,
Firm for truth and right,
Toiling for the Master
From life's dawn till night.
Not for self but others,
Building well each day,
On the firm foundation,
"Watch and work and pray."
Seeing good in others,
Helping them to grow
In the Christian graces,
As they toil below.
Not for self but others;
When misfortune breaks,
Stretching arms of service
Guiding from the rocks,
Spirit-filled and faithful
To life's smallest cares;
Putting self and pleasure
All aside for prayer.
Not for self, but others!
Just in his dear name
Who on Calvary's summit
Suffered death and shame.
Love, trusting, serving
Where so'er the field;
Reaping fruitful harvest
Will the autumn yield

This was followed by remarks of appreciation for the splendid work Rev. and Mrs. Maycroft have rendered the church community, county and state work. A nice cash gift was presented these worthy people. Mr. Maycroft tried to express their appreciation, but words fail at a time like this.

A GREAT SURPRISE

Monday evening the group of young folks, (including Rev. and Mrs. Orr of Howell) who attended the International C. E. Convention at Cleveland recently, walked into the parsonage and gave Rev. and Mrs. Maycroft a regular surprise. A very happy time followed for several hours. Ice cream and cake added to the sweet fellowship. As a token of love and gratitude the young friends left a beautiful magazine stand that will be a reminder of a delightful evening spent at the Maycroft home in Pinckney. Also the wonderful feast of good things at the Cleveland convention.

MAY BUILD FACTORY

About a year ago, Ralph Autwell of Detroit purchased the old mill and water power at Pettysville, three miles east of Pinckney, of H. J. Wickman of Howell who had acquired it of the Hooker estate. Rumors were current at the time that a factory would be built there but nothing happened until last week when a gang of men and teams were put to work grading and reinforcing the dam etc. It is claimed that a factory for the manufacture of tractor appliances will be located there but whether there is any truth in this or not remains to be seen. The old mill was torn down some time ago.

PINCKNEY LOSES TO HOWELL

Pinckney tried hard to break back into the win column last Sunday and held Howell even for five innings but in the sixth they scored six runs after two men were out and cinched the game. They also got five more runs off Cox who replaced Swarouth in the sixth. Sopp of Fowlerville who pitched for Howell kept the Pinckney hits well scattered. Howell took the lead in the first when Cooper doubled and scored on Myer's hit. That ended the run getting until the third when Sopp singled and scored on an error. In their half Kennedy first up for Pinckney singled, Doyle doubled him in and Brown tripled, scoring Doyle and scored himself on a passed ball. Howell got three more in the 4th on two Pinckney errors and a home run. Pinckney got one in the 5th when Lewman was safe on an error and scored on Cox's hit. Howell got six in the 6th, three in the 7th and one in the 8th and 9th. Pinckney's last run came in the 7th when Doyle got another double and scored.

GLOVER THROWS FORD

Max Glover of Hartland met Frank Ford in a return match at the Pinckney Opera House last Wednesday evening. Glover took the first fall with a double arm scissors hold, Ford the second with a wrist lock and Glover the deciding fall with a double arm lock. The match was hotly contested and full of action. Ted Lewis of Unadilla who was to have taken on Farmer Newton in the preliminary failed to show up and Cyclone Thompson went on as a substitute. He gave Newton a good match losing the first fall in eight minutes and the second in twelve. This ends the wrestling matches in Pinckney for a time as they have been transferred to Stockbridge.

If you are planning to trade-in your present car for a new car, remember these facts:

- 1 When you trade-in your used car for a new car, you are after all making a purchase, not a sale. You are simply applying your present car as a credit toward the purchase price of the new car.
- 2 Your used car has only one fundamental basis of value; i. e., what the dealer who accepts it in trade can get for it in the used car market.
- 3 Your used car has seemingly different values because competitive dealers are bidding to sell you a new car.
- 4 The largest allowance is not necessarily the best deal for you. Sometimes it is; sometimes it is not.
- 5 An excessive allowance may mean that you are paying an excessive price for the new car in comparison with its real value.
- 6 First judge the merits of the new car in comparison with its price, including all delivery and finance charges. Then weigh any difference in allowance offered on your used car.

The silhouette of this blocked linen dress, says the Woman's Home Companion, is slim and yet there is a generosity of fullness which is introduced by means of an inverted plait in the front and two side plaits in the back. The front panel, piped with bias binding, makes a long line that terminates with an angle which has a real reason for being. Continuing from a panel of the same width in the back are two side plaits which supply a graceful flare to the dress when the wearer moves. White for collar, cuffs, bindings and ball buttons is just the contrast that gives this dress a dignified crispness. A blue suede belt matches the color of the print.

so distinctly, merely follows up its popularity of last year. It comes, however, in lines and combinations that are new and so serves to establish a new mode.

Frocks in two-pieces are now to be found in the jumper fashion, of course, but are also seen in bolero effects, opened jackets with vestees and in contrasting fabrics of varied colors.

Skirts in the two-piece mode are permitted a wide choice in their designs. They may be rather circular, giving a pronounced flare; they may be straight with but one plait to relieve the severity; they may be entirely plaited in side or accordion plaits; they may be of a plain yoke or peplum and be plaited in uneven numbers below or be cut so as to flare and give an uneven hemline.

Blouses, too, have variety. They are bloused or straight; they are tailored or lavishly trimmed; they are sheer in fabric or heavy. They have bows at shoulders, bows at the waist, flying scarfs, low collars, high collars, tucks, shirrings or plain lines.

The blouse and skirt may vary in shades as well as fabric. Sometimes the only connecting link lies in the trimming.

Of course there are dresses in two-pieces which are of one color and one fabric and it is such a frock that Natli Barr, "movie" star, wears in "Diamonds in the Rough."

Laces and Chiffons in Animated Designs

Every woman loves a fluttery sort of frock for warm weather festivities. The success of scalloped and irregular chiffons has been amazing. Now come laces and more chiffons in all sorts of "animated" designs. This term has been used to distinguish such frocks as are at their best in action, as against dresses characterized by "statue" draperies.

It seemed to some who attended the Paris midsummer opening that there was a tendency toward what some one described as "neater evening dresses." "Fainer," or even "more severe," might be a better way of expressing it. Chanel started the minds of makers of smart clothes along tailored channels when she added saddle buckles and tailored-looking belts and buttons to chiffon and lace dresses intended for the more frivolous moments of life. Now one finds lace being used in one and two-piece models that are almost severe in effect, and that, like so many other models, are belted, even buckled.

"Women of importance," as some tactful soul has called the dowagers, or perhaps the matrons, are partial to soft lines. Severely tailored things belong to youth, mature figures being best concealed under graceful draperies. Hence the continuance in favor of uneven hems achieved by petals or pointed panels, of plaits, and of draperies, especially those which occur at either the side or front.

Light-Weight Sweaters Made of Shaggy Wool

Angora wool is one of the important innovations of French summer styles, as compared with spring fashions. Light-weight sweaters are made of the shaggy wool, and some of the prettiest embroidery on sports things is worked in angora wool thread. Embroidered dots are the usual form, but angora wool band embroidery and angora cross-stitch are also seen.

Worth has a pretty rose-colored angora sweater with a white zigzag design woven in it and white dots embroidered in the angles. A plaited skirt of rose crepe de chine goes with it.

Summer Evening Wraps Are of Chiffon Velvet

That summer evening wraps of chiffon velvet are being chosen by many well-dressed women is an item on which to ponder. For several summers shawls have been our idea of what was proper for warm weather wear, and shawls in many lovely colorings continue to fascinate, but that insatiable thirst for novelty must be taken into account. So clever shopkeepers are offering beguiling evening wraps of quite a different type.

The cape naturally seems to be a worthy substitute for the shawl. Capes of sheer velvet, lined with brilliant or soft colors contrasting with the cape itself, have attained popularity among women who see elegance in simplicity. A black chiffon velvet cape, lined with rose, tush or any preferred color, answers the perplexing question of what to wrap about oneself for evening, and answers it practically. Many of the smartest summer evening wraps are uncollared.

Flannel Coat and Suit in Lead for Sports Wear

A word of praise must be said for the flannel coat and, for that matter, for the flannel suit, as well. From some smart French resorts comes word that gray and beige lead for sports wear, and everyone feels confident that the long-anticipated vogue of gray is about to begin.

Less plaiting and more intricacy of cut may be considered as the last word in sports detail. Yokes, notched and otherwise, have become of supreme importance, both blouses and coats inclining to yokes of one sort or another.

A lively interest in the sweater suit is manifested in junior circles and for skirts that offer a pleasing contrast to either the sweater or jumper. It is not surprising that plaited plaid skirts with plain cardigans or over-blouses should make an appeal, especially when the fabric of the skirt is repeated in the casually knotted bandana.

Long Gloves Return to Favor With Paris Women

After an absence of many seasons, long gloves for evening have reappeared on the night scene of Paris in the form of black kid gloves.

One of the best known literary countesses of Paris is credited with having started the fashion. She prefers black for evening and has appeared several times wearing shoulder-length gloves of black.

A few Parisian women, wearing the period dresses and robes de style in which several designers are specializing, have taken up the fashion.

Formal Gloves

In the old days long gloves were worn for the more formal occasions. Now the shorter glove the more formal it is. It is the long pull-on which is worn for informal wear. With colored suits or afternoon frocks the decoration of the glove is entirely confined to the cuff, which stands well out from the wrist in circular ruff.

banners with such inscriptions as: "Insanity, epilepsy, pauperism and feeble-mindedness are mainly caused by bad germ cells," "Crime is largely due to bad germ cells," "Tuberculosis is largely caused by unwise marriages" and "Clean up your family germ cells and produce a better race."

This is no extravagant dream. We have seen the tremendous things people have done about our invisible enemies, the microbes. I think they will do ten times more when they learn about our invisible friends, the chromosomes—those little heredity factors which do so much good when good marriages with good blood result.

Prof. Karl Pearson has calculated that heredity is four or five times as important in causing disease than microbes. When the average man learns that he is spending an enormous portion of his wages to insure himself and family against disease when a wise marriage would have given him that insurance free of charge, he is bound to be impressed.

Man's greatest friend is heredity. Man's worst foe is bad blood. The greatest knowledge ever dreamed of for the betterment of the race is at our doors. Why not use it?

Compelling Sentiment for Limitation of Armaments Not Yet in Sight

By CHARLES EVANS HUGHES, Ex-Secretary of State.

It would be idle to expect a more favorable time for the limitation of armaments than now, and yet, paradoxically, the difficulties mount so high as to appear to be well-nigh insuperable.

Disappointment has not been due to the lack of expert advice or opportunity. There are several and contradictory reasons for the apparent indifference. Fundamentally it appears that the compelling sentiment does not exist.

It would seem to be clear that you cannot rely on declaration or resolutions or papers, to prevent war, unless back of all these is the triumph of the spirit of reasonableness among peoples who have ceased to think in terms of war; a habit of peace which will not be found while causes of strife still exist.

Never before have helpless peoples been menaced by such possibilities of widespread destruction. While well-disposed gatherings are calling for the outlawry of war—and I should be the last to decry any intelligent effort to prevent war—why not endeavor to invoke the spirit of reasonableness at least to the extent of mitigating evils and of outlawing unjustified assaults upon noncombatants. Why not test the conscience of peoples and the boasts of civilization in a practical demand for the statement of improvement of rules applicable to the use of new agencies of warfare?

Clubwomen Can and Should Become Force in War on Communism

By MRS. JOHN D. SHERMAN, President Federation of Women's Clubs.

I appeal to American clubwomen to investigate the extent of Communist activities in their communities, to combat atheism and to work for the adoption of a national policy which would do away with the flood menace.

Turn the searchlight of intelligent and sustained investigation upon your schools, your churches and your community gatherings, for I have information from the most authoritative sources that it is among our young people; yes, even among our young children, that the Communists are working steadily and earnestly.

I wonder how many of you know of the four A's. The four A's stand for "the American Association for the Advancement of Atheism" and their first field of operations is the colleges and universities of the land, with a flank movement on the high schools and academies.

They point with pride to the 18 or 20 associations in as many colleges and universities. At a time when there is a vast groping for God they have determined that God shall be abolished.

The American people, once more out of step with the laws of nature have experienced a flood calamity. The cutting away of vast forests and forest fires due to carelessness, with a subsequent flooding of the land, has robbed the nation of three of the most essential elements, soil and water.

Old Ironsides' Greatest Victory

"CONSTITUTION" AND "GUERRIERE"

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON Isaac did so man and rake her. That the decks of Captain Daere were in such a woful pickle...

URING the present nationwide campaign to raise funds for the restoration and preservation of the historic frigate "Constitution," it would be singularly appropriate...

On her sails in letters red, Were of warning, words of dread: "All who meet me have a care! I am England's Guerriere!"

On August 2, 1812, the Constitution, commanded by Capt. Isaac Hull, sailed from Boston in the hope of falling in with some of the British war vessels...

After cruising about in northern waters for more than a week, during which time he overhauled several small fry of British shipping, Hull still seeking big game, finally turned Old Ironsides southward...

Seeing this action the enemy ship also prepared for action and when the Englishman had hoisted three ensigns Hull saw to his joy that his adversary was the one ship he had been seeking...

From the moment that the American ship had begun to close in on the enemy the fire of the English guns had begun to strike Old Ironsides...

ISAAC HULL

JAMES RICHARD DACRES

At last as the bows of the American ship drew alongside the enemy, Hull shouted "Now, boys, pour it into them!"

But the men of the Guerriere had not been idle. The two ships were now within half a pistol shot of each other and the Englishman's guns were pounding the American vessel...

Hull hailed off his vessel a short distance away, made hasty repairs on the rigging of his ship and at sunset bore down to a position which would enable him to rake the crippled Guerriere...

One casualty which the Constitution had suffered but which Read did not mention was one illustrative of those ludicrous incidents which so often accompany historic events.

At the opening of the engagement Hull, after twice saying "Not yet," to Morris's request for permission to open fire, had finally given the word and as he did so he twice bent forward almost to the deck...

Hull arrived in Boston on August 30 and reported his victory to the secretary of war. When the news spread it was received everywhere with the wildest demonstrations of joy...

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Mr. Hoover Offers Flood Relief and Control Plan to President.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD
FLOOD relief and control work by congress, covering a period of ten years and costing more than $150,000,000 is recommended by Secretary of Commerce Hoover in the comprehensive report on the Mississippi valley disaster of this year which he laid before President Coolidge at the summer White House. His control project, besides providing for taking over and improving the levee system, embraces a plan for completion of the navigation program of the Mississippi and its main tributaries which he says can be carried out at an additional cost of fifteen to twenty millions a year.

Mr. Hoover declared that the flood control program must embrace the following principles:

1. Higher and consequently wider levees and the extension of federal responsibility for levees in some of the tributaries.
2. A safety valve upon the levee system by the provision of a spillway or by-pass to the gulf to protect New Orleans and southern Louisiana—most probably the Atchafalaya river for this purpose.
3. For further safety measures the engineers are examining the possible extension of the by-pass to the northward from the Atchafalaya toward the Arkansas, the possible erection of emergency flood basins, and the possibility of store in the tributaries.

Concerning the relief work Mr. Hoover said in part:
"The financial situation on relief is that we can complete all these programs—seed, food, feed, furniture, animals, house construction, sanitation. By the first of November we estimate we shall have spent $13,400,000 Red Cross funds, $7,000,000 equipment and supplies from the federal government, $3,000,000 free railway transportation, and provided $1,100,000 for county health cleanup units. We should have left $3,000,000 from the $16,500,000 subscribed to the Red Cross with which to face continued necessities after November 1. It is impossible to determine what the necessities will be after that date."

ANOTHER caller on the President was Senator Smoot, chairman of the senate finance committee, who presented his plan for tax reduction. This program is based on a tax cut of $300,000,000 and includes the following items:
Reduction of the corporation tax from 18 1/2 to 12 per cent, dropping off $150,000,000 annual revenue.
Elimination of taxes on admissions and club dues, cutting the nation's income $37,000,000 yearly.
Reduction of tax on passenger automobiles from 8 per cent to 1 1/2 per cent, costing $50,000,000.
Graduated scale reduction on incomes between $15,000, and $60,000.

MICHAEL, a golden-haired child not yet six years old, is now king of Rumania, for the picturesque King Ferdinand succumbed on July 20 to the malady that made his death imminent for many months. Until the new monarch reaches his eighteenth year the country will be ruled by a regency comprised of his uncle, Prince Nicholas, Miron Cristea, patriarch of the Rumanian orthodox church, and Judge Buzdugan of the supreme court.

In announcing the death of Ferdinand the government issued an official statement saying it will not waver from the decision of the crown council on January 4, 1926, at which Prince Carol was disinherited and Prince Michael, his son, proclaimed crown prince, and that the government will support the regency, and "if necessary, resort to arms to prevent the restoration of Carol."
The commander of the Second army corps stationed in Bucharest, issued a statement informing the country that the army is in a state of readiness and that if they spread false alarms they will be liable to court-martial.

Prince Carol, at his home of exile in Neuilly, near Paris, received word of his father's demise and at once secluded himself, sending word to the press that he expected to be recalled to Rumania and calling himself "king."

Ferdinand's last words, as he died in the arms of Queen Marie, were: "I am feeling tired." His body lay in state in Cotroceni palace outside Bucharest until Saturday, when the state funeral was held. Then the casket was placed in the family vaults at the monastery of Curtea Arges.

Premier Briand took strong measures to prevent any uprising, public buildings and strategic points being occupied by troops and meetings being forbidden. Queen Marie received messages of condolence from all over the world, including one from President and Mrs. Coolidge, and the British and Belgian courts went into mourning.

TAKING advantage of a strike of protest ordered by Vienna Socialists because of the acquittal of some fascist slayers, the communist agitators there tried to get control of the city and set up a soviet government. Mobs, stirred to riot, marched through the city, looting public buildings and burning the palace of justice, and fighting the police fiercely. The local contingents of troops were disinclined to fire on the crowds, so the Sempel government called in troops from provincial garrisons. These, with the help of the Social Democrats, soon gained control of the situation, and the civil war which the communists were trying to stir up was averted.

The strike had stopped all transportation, and threats were received from Italy that if Italian trains were not permitted to pass through the country, troops would be sent into the Austrian Tyrol, occupying the railroad line up to the German border. The government of Austria threatened to take radical steps to end the strike, and the nationalist villages, the anti-socialist peasantry and the loyal Heimwehr or home guards gave Premier Sempel full support. So the labor unions and Socialists of Vienna yielded and the strike was called off.
The furry, however, was costly to Austria in several ways. During the rioting scores of persons were killed and hundreds wounded; the destruction of property was great, and in the burning of the palace of justice all the nation's financial records were lost. The government was fearful lest the disturbances might keep many tourists away from Vienna.

DOWN in Nicaragua one rebel leader, General Sandino, refused to submit to the peace terms imposed by the United States, and last week he led his brigand band of 500 in attacking a small detachment of American marines and native constabulary at Ocotal. Capt. G. D. Hatfield was in command and his little force fought back desperately. Marine scouting planes carried word of the battle to Managua and five bombing planes commanded by Maj. Ross E. Rowell flew to the rescue through a severe tropical storm. With bombs and machine guns they speedily routed the rebels, of whom about 300 were killed. The marines lost only one man. Sandino, still defiant, fled to the mountains and a column of troops was sent out with orders to get him.

Delegates to the fifth congress of the Pan-American Federation of Labor, in session in Washington, denounced this killing of Nicaraguan citizens, and President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, who presided at the opening of the congress, sharply denounced American intervention in the domestic affairs of Latin American countries and wrote a letter of protest to Secretary of State Kellogg. In reply Mr. Kellogg warmly defended the action of the marines, and set forth clearly the conditions in Nicaragua which had resulted in the outlawing of Sandino, who had neither the support nor the approval of any of the leaders of the political parties in Nicaragua. The resolutions committee of the Pan-American labor congress adopted a resolution asking the immediate withdrawal of American forces from Nicaragua.
Brigadier General Poland, commanding the marines in Nicaragua, has recommended that the distinguished service medal be awarded Major Rowell, who, he says, saved the little garrison at Ocotal from great loss of life and almost certain destruction.

GREAT BRITAIN and Japan reached some sort of accord on the cruiser question in the conference at Geneva and the plan was presented to the Americans, who did not seem especially pleased with it. Then the British government called Viscount Cecil and W. C. Bridgeman to London for consultation with the cabinet, and at once there were reports that the conference was on the verge of a breakdown. This was strongly denied in London, where a foreign office spokesman asserted that the hope for an agreement was stronger than at any time since the conference began. The Japanese delegates in Geneva also were optimistic, predicting that an agreement would be reached by the middle of August. The British before leaving Geneva had consented to reduce their demands for cruisers and destroyers from 800,000 tons to 500,000 tons, as insisted upon by the Japanese, and hoped this would induce the Americans to agree to bar eight-inch guns on all but 10,000-ton cruisers; but Mr. Gibson would not surrender this point.

FIVE transatlantic flyers—Byrd, Noville, Acosta, Balchen and Chamberlin—returned to the United States by steamer and were given New York's usual noisy reception, with parade, paper confetti, banquets and medals. The two first were awarded the navy's distinguished flying cross. Lieutenants Maitland and Egeberger, who flew to Honolulu, had a triumphant trip across the country on their way to Washington, where Secretary of State Kellogg and other government officials greeted them warmly. They, too, will receive the distinguished flying cross when President Coolidge returns to the capital.

Colonel Lindbergh picked up his "Spirit of St. Louis" at Mitchell field, New York, and started on a tour of the country to tell the people of the advance of aviation and the needs of more and larger airports. His first stop was at Hartford, Conn., where he spoke at the Hartford club.
Capt. F. T. Courtney, British aviator, was all ready for his attempted flight from England to America, with a stop at Valencia, Ireland, but was delayed by unfavorable weather. He was to carry a crew of two men and intended to fly from the Irish town direct to Newfoundland.

JACK DEMPSEY, former heavyweight champion, "came back" in the fight with Jack Sharkey in New York and won the right to challenge Gene Tunney for the title. He knocked out the Boston lad in the seventh round with a hard left hook to the jaw. The battle was lively and aroused the enthusiasm of 83,000 persons who were present. Sharkey claimed that he was fouled in the final round, but this was denied by Dempsey and by Referee O'Sullivan.

IOWA'S Lowden-for-President club announces that more than 100,000 persons in that state have signed the petition asking Frank O. Lowden to seek the Republican Presidential nomination and pledging him their support. Among the signers are Gov. John Hammill and more than 90 per cent of the employees in the Iowa state capitol building. Action of the governor in signing the petition nullified the hopes of his friends that Mr. Hammill, who, like Mr. Lowden, has been a leader in the farm relief fight, might become a vice presidential candidate next year on a Coolidge ticket.

The Sandman Story

Martha Martin

HER BIRD VISITOR

"A LITTLE girl named Jerry," said the Sandman, "was ill in a hospital. Oh, she had felt so sick and had had so wretched a time, but now she was feeling better and she was sitting up in bed every day for several hours.

"She had sat up in a chair for a half an hour now every day, and one day while she was sitting up in her chair, having her supper, a little canary bird flew in the window. Jerry was afraid the little bird would be very much frightened, so she spoke to him in the softest tone of voice.

"I don't know your name, so I shall call you Dicky Bird," she said. The little canary had perched upon Soon the little bird flew over to the bureau. He had been watching Jerry very closely.

"Won't you have some supper?" asked Jerry.

"And the little bird, as though in answer to her question, tried some of the bread crumbs. He seemed so tame that Jerry decided she would put some crumbs on her hand and hold her hand out to see if he would come and eat from her hand. And sure enough, he did. He did not seem to be frightened at all. In fact, he acted as though it was not at all unusual for him to be fed.

"Then Jerry took a leaf of nice, crisp lettuce which was on her tray and gave it to the bird before she put any dressing on her lettuce. For she knew that salt and pepper and vinegar and oil would not be good for the bird. And the bird ate the piece of lettuce from her fingers and when he had finished he perched himself upon Jerry's first finger, holding on with his little claws.

"Then he gave a peck at Jerry's finger as though to say, 'I could eat a little more, young lady.'

"And Jerry took the hint. She gave him some more lettuce and he ate that, and then she gave him a few cake crumbs and he ate those. Next, Jerry put some water in a little saucer and not only did the bird drink some water, but he took a little shower bath, too.

"How Jerry did laugh. 'Of course,' she said, 'it isn't usual to bathe in one's drinking saucer, but maybe you need a bath ever so badly, so I'll forgive you.'

"And anyway, I think your bird manners are excellent. You haven't been greedy and yet you have seemed to enjoy your supper."

"Jerry finished her supper and pretty soon a nurse came in to take her tray. 'Oh, I've a little visitor,' cried Jerry, 'and I feel so much better already. You can't imagine how he has cheered me up. Oh, ever so much.'

"Yes, I can," the nurse said, 'for you look so much better already—lots better than you did an hour ago, in fact.'

"The bird did not seem frightened by the nurse, although he flew back to the chair where he had first perched himself.

"And then he began to sing. Such a magnificent song as he did sing. Oh, it was a wonderful song, and how Jerry did enjoy it.

"Well, the bird became a hospital pet. He had a cage given to him, but he was allowed out when all the windows were closed, for if he flew out of a window again he might not be so lucky in finding so pleasant a home as the hospital. It was filled with such nice children and Jerry said before she left that she only wished his owner knew that he was happy and giving happiness to a hospital filled with children."

"Won't You Have Some Supper?" Asked Jerry.

the back of a chair, and now that he had been spoken to, he turned and looked at Jerry and, putting his head on one side, chirped a little greeting to her.

"Oh, you dear little bird, how polite you are," said Jerry. Again the little bird chirped as though to say that he was very glad she was pleased with his manners.

"You must have been a pet bird and I suppose you flew out of an open window and then lost your way," Jerry continued.

"The little bird chirped again as though to agree.

"I wonder if you're hungry," Jerry said.

"Once more the bird chirped and then he sang a bit of a song as though to say he would sing and so perhaps earn a nice supper.

"Jerry put some bread crumbs on a saucer and put the saucer a little distance away from her on a bureau.

FOR THE GOOSE—
EVEN wasted effort ain't as bad as wasted time.

It's on'y idle people that could find time for everything, and they can't.

It's a wise woman who knows half she would like to know about her neighbors.

Vivacity in a woman is like dope. A little'll pep you up. But too much'll make a fiend outa you.

You can make yourself believe there ain't no sun by merely shuttin' yourself in a dark room and closin' your eyes.

THE WHY of SUPERSTITIONS

By H. IRVING KING

A LOVE POTION

THERE are so many love potions warranted to work that it is amazing that the divorce courts should be so busy. Here is one, said by Mrs. Bergen in her "Animal and Plant Lore," issued by the American Folklore society, to be popular. Take a number of red-and-white rose leaves and forget-me-nots and boil in 335 drops of water for the sixteenth part of an hour. If three drops of the resulting liquor are put into anything the person whose affections you desire to capture is to drink, the desired result is assured.

This charm ought to work for there is historic warrant for the virtue of the ingredients in such cases. Rose leaves from most ancient times have been considered to possess mystic virtues in matters of love and were formerly picked with certain formalities on Midsummer eve to be used in love potions which would indicate that the rose was one of the sun plants supposed to receive its greatest strength at the time of the summer solstice—to take on at that time a portion of the sun's vitality. The legends regarding the rose are almost numberless. Its use in love potions is undoubtedly a relic of sun worship.

As to the forget-me-not its very name denotes the qualities which have from before the dawn of history been attributed to it. Many are the legends as to how the flower became connected with love matters. Of these the Persian story is the best. A celestial being got into trouble by loving a daughter of earth and was not allowed to return to Eden until the girl he loved had planted the flower now called forget-me-not in every corner of the earth.

That: ...??...

"LET her go Gallagher" is an expression which was at one time heard all over our country.
Judge Beaver had a trotting mare which was driven by one Gallagher. On a certain occasion the judge entered the mare at a sporting meet. Some sports thought that for once they would catch the judge and entered a noted fast trotter. At the end of the first half the two trotters were just about even, neck to neck. Then the excited judge shouted, "Let her go, Gallagher" and Gallagher catching the word, let loose the lines when the mare picked up her feet and walked away from her opponent most beautifully and came in at the pole more than a dozen lengths ahead.

30,000,000,000 Count of Stars

Scientist Denies Stellar Bodies or Celestial Space Is Infinite.

Washington.—Modern astronomy is the interpretation of the messages of light, and modern astronomers, within the last 25 years, have deciphered these messages to obtain astounding facts on the total number of stars, their distance and sizes, their ages and composition, movement and relation of life. That is the gist of a remarkable lecture read at the recent meeting of the American Philosophical society by Dr. C. G. Abbot, acting secretary of the Smithsonian Institution and director of its astrophysical observatory. In co-operation with Dr. S. A. Mitchell, of the University of Virginia, Doctor Abbot is preparing a book on the subject of the lectures, to be called "Fundamentals of Astronomy."

The new astronomy estimates the number of stars at 30,000,000,000, according to Doctor Abbot. The first step in attaining this estimate is the elimination of the idea that the number of stars is infinite. This is accomplished by the argument that if the stars were infinite in number and if space were infinite in extension, the whole vault of the heavens would glow as brightly as the sun.

Use Photography.

The next step is to divide the stars into magnitudes of brightness. Then selected areas over the heavens are photographed by processes which record stars a million times fainter than the naked eye can see. The number of stars brighter than specified magnitudes lying in many small sample regions of the sky are counted. It is found from these counts that a definite relationship exists between the ratio of increase of the numbers of stars and their magnitudes, and that this ratio of increase tapers off toward zero as the stars grow fainter. Assuming that the relationship holds good for stars beyond what the telescope can see, it is possible to integrate the total number of stars. Thirty billion is the answer.

Doctor Abbot summarizes several remarkable recent methods of sounding the depths of space. It was about the year 1840 before the first star distances were measured, and at the beginning of this century less than 100 were known. In the last 25 years nearly 2,000 star distances have been measured by observing the angular displacements of the stars during six months' periods. Another thousand distances have been obtained by the "dynamical" method, which is only possible where stars move in pairs.

than any of these methods is one depending on apparent brightness and apparent angular motion by which stellar distances can be measured wholesale.

Treat Great Problems.

"These wholesale formulae," said Doctor Abbot, "are checked by the known individual distances of several thousand stars. They enable us to treat statistically such majestic problems as the absolute size of our stellar system, which we call our Galaxy. It is estimated to be approximately 100,000 light years in its maximum and 20,000 light years in its minimum diameter. Its 20 nearest stars are from four to fifteen light years distant from us."

As a result of this determination of the distance of several thousand stars, astronomers have determined that our sun is near the middle rank in absolute brightness. In fact, our sun seems in most respects to be an average citizen of the heavens. Rigel is about 10,000 times brighter than the sun, which in turn is about 10,000 times brighter than the faintest stars yet photographed.

As for the sun's size, its diameter has long been known to be about 860,000 miles. One of the proud achievements of recent astronomy is the determination of the diameters of several other stars. The gigantic red stars such as Betelgeuse and Antares are found to be from 200,000,000 to 400,000,000 miles in diameter, or several hundred times that of the sun. Sirius is less than twice the sun's diameter. If it were possible to carry the measurements to very faint stars, doubtless some would be found much smaller than the sun, according to Doctor Abbot.

Kansas Anti-Horse Thief Body After Spooners

Topeka, Kan.—Sixty years of law enforcement behind it, the Anti-Horse Thief association of Kansas will now give its attention to nocturnal "spooners" on country roads.

The association is determined to revive the business of justice of the peace courts in every township of the state. In recent years these courts virtually have ceased to function as courts of preliminary hearing for law violators, the business having passed to the city courts. It is proposed to keep the justices busy through a general clean-up of necking parties.

Each male member of the association is to patrol the by-ways in a given district, with authority to arrest neckers and bring them before the nearest justice of the peace.
