The Junior Class party was held the home of Miss Burdella Euler on Friday evening, October 28. The party was in the nature of a Halloween Masquerade and two prizes were given to the people having the best costumes. Clarence Blades and Bernice VanBlaricum were the winners of the prizes. Games and music were in order after which a pot-luck luncheon was served to which ample justice was done. Don Swarthout and Harold Reason of Olivet College were guests of the evening.

The Pinckney High School has joined the Michigan High School Debating League and will send a team to Stockbridge on the evening of November 18th to meet the team of that school. The question to be debated is "Resolved that the Direct Primary System of Nominating Candidates for Public Office Should be abolished." Pinckney has the affirmative side of the debate. The team will be picked from the following girls: Helen Feidler, Burdella Euler, Wilhelmina Bourbonnais, Loretta Dillingham, Marion Durkis, Louise Grainger, Elinor Gage and Viola Burnett.

The Pinckney High School team were defeated by Chelsea last Friday by a score of 13 to 6. The home boys have no reason to be ashamed of the defeat as they were minus the services of three of their regular players and Chelsea which has a big heavy team and has won every game on its schedule was figured to win by a big score. Instead they were played to a standstill and if it had not been for a couple of unfortunate breaks Pinckney might have won. The locals have won 3 and lost 3 games so far. They have been unlucky in that they have been unable to keep their regular lineup in the game as they have had two or more regulars out every game on account of injuries, sickness and ineligibility.

CHELSEA WINS GAME

Chelsea won from Pinckney here last Friday afternoon by a score of 13 to 6. Chelsea has been famous for good football teams for many years and this game drew the largest crowd so far this season. The Pinckney team was dealt a severe blow when Blades the leading ground gainer of the Pinckney team was declared ineligible and Wayne Carr was taken sick and not able to play. Yoemans was also declared ineligible. This necessitated using some of the reserve players Harlan Hall played center in place of Carr, Graves took Blades place at half and Gerald Kennedy who has been out for nearly two months with a bad knee got back into the game, replacing Graves at tackle. The Pinckney line looked small and weak when they line up against Chelsea which averaged 155 lbs to the man but they put up a great game and outplayed Chelsea's line throughout the contest. However Pinckney's backfield showed notable weakness both on defense and offense. They failed to break up Chelsea's forward passing game, not intercepting a single pass during the game. They were also poor on receiving Pinckney passes, only one being completed in the game. Here is the team's best pass was felt as he is the team's best receiver and interceptor. Pinckney was inside the ten yard line four times and scored once. Chelsea was inside three times and scored twice.

Pinckney had all the better of the first quarter, Hendee and Nash making three first downs at the start on end runs and trick plays and reached the five yard line where they lost the ball on downs. Chelsea completed a couple of forward passes but the period ended with neither side having any advantage. In the second quarter Pinckney again gained the ten yard line by means of some good line plunging and end runs by Hendee and Nash but lost the ball on a fumble. Chelsea was unable to gain on three attempts and punted. Pinckney also punted on the fourth down and the half ended with the score 0 to 0. Chelsea scored a touchdown at the start of the third quarter when Forner caught a long forward pass and ran thirty yards for a touchdown. They also forward passed for the extra point. Chelsea had the advantage in this quarter and kept the ball in Pinckney territory most of the time. In the last period the home team staged a comeback and by means of another assault on the Chelsea line carried the ball over for a touchdown but failed to make the extra point. Score Chelsea 7, Pinckney 6. Chelsea was held for downs then and Pinckney again carried the ball to the ten yard line. Three downs took it within six inches of the goal line. On the fourth down Pinckney lost it as they only made five of the required six inches. Chelsea at once punted out of danger and held Pinckney to downs. Then by means of another forward pass they scored another touchdown and failed in the try for the extra point and the game ended with the ball in mid field.

The following is the lineup:

C. Miller, l. e.
Kennedy, r. t.
McCluskey, r. g.
H. Hall, center
Hornshaw, r. g.
Ahrens, r. t.
N. Miller, r. e.
Nash, quarter
Reason, l. h.
Graves, r. h.
Hendee, f. b.

Touchdowns—Nash, Webber, Forner. Extra point—Webber. Referee—Bassett, Howell. Umpire—VanHorn. Head linesman—Hooker. Timekeeper—Stackable. Substitutions—Gertz for H. Hall, J. Hall for Kennedy.

BURNED TO DEATH

Miss Fern Pettibone died at her home in Howell Tuesday morning from injuries received when an oil stove exploded burning her badly and setting fire to the house. The deceased had been employed as clerk in Dixon's Bakery at Howell for several years.

GOES INTO CREEK

A car driven by a Mr. McMillan of Ann Arbor skidded in loose gravel at the bridge just east of the Sprout Cemetery Tuesday noon and breaking through the railing landed up against a telephone pole which prevented the car from turning over. Neither Mr. McMillan, his sixteen year old son or a friend who was with them were hurt but the car was badly wrecked and was later removed to Ann Arbor.

STOCKBRIDGE HERE FRIDAY

The Pinckney high school football team meet another strong team this week Friday when they play Stockbridge at Pinckney. This Stockbridge aggregation has been going strong of late having only lost one game, that being the opener to Pinckney by a score of 7 to 6. Stockbridge outplayed Pinckney in this game but fumbled several times when they were in position to score. Pinckney got her only touchdown when Blades intercepted a forward pass and ran forty yards for a touchdown. Graves made the extra point. Pinckney only had one other scoring chance besides this and they fumbled then. It is expected that Blades and Carr will be back in the game by Friday and the home team should be prepared to give them a strong argument.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

President Is Informed of Good Business Conditions in Nation.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD
ECONOMIC conditions in the United States are fairly good, business seems to be improving and the outlook for the future is encouraging. That is, in brief, a summary of the reports submitted to President Coolidge by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, Secretary of Labor Davis, Secretary of Agriculture Jardine and Secretary of Commerce Hoover. The President was highly pleased with these optimistic reports, and concluded the present situation is satisfactory.

In the reports on business conditions it was stated that the construction program of the country shows no material let-up. While there has been a falling off in receipts of the railroads, the President is of the opinion that any diminution in volume of railroad business due to development of motor transportation and the general use of automobiles reflects prosperity rather than otherwise. The amount of coal transportation was not quite so great this year as last, but the President attributes this to the fact that last year stocks of coal were accumulated in anticipation of a strike.

A considerable increase in the production of automobiles is in prospect, the President was advised. The railroads are to be in the market for a good deal of new equipment. The textile industry is in better shape than it was, and the steel industry is showing progress.

Exports are keeping up as well as last year, it was stated. Imports have not been quite so large in value as last year, but Secretary Hoover gave as a reason that this was due mainly to the fact that American consumers are getting British rubber at lower prices.

Secretary Davis, in commenting on the labor situation, said that at present there were only twenty-seven industrial strikes in progress as compared with fifty at this time last year.

Reports presented by Secretary Jardine caused the President to believe that agriculture is in a somewhat better condition than it has been, and that this will be reflected in a greater buying power. Crops with the exception of cotton were stated to be fully as good as last year.

Despite the encouraging business conditions, President Coolidge let it be known that in his opinion taxes cannot be reduced by as much as $350,000,000 or $400,000,000, as is urged by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. He has not indicated that the reduction could amount to even $300,000,000, and in Washington it was believed Secretary Mellon would advise congress to make a cut of between $200,000,000 and $250,000,000.

IT WAS understood in Washington that Henry C. Hall would soon resign as member of the Interstate Commerce commission, and that Amos A. Betts of Phoenix, Ariz., would be named to succeed him. Mr. Betts is a member of the Arizona corporation commission and is a Democrat.

CHICAGO'S night life is on the eve of being dried up completely as a result of the action of the Supreme court of the United States in declining to interfere with the issuance of injunctions closing several cabarets in that city because some of their patrons drank liquor on the premises and were served with the accompanying ice and soft drinks. And there is no apparent reason why cabarets and roadhouses everywhere else should not be in equal peril with those of the Chicago district. The prohibition enforcement agents were making preparations for great activity, and the proprietors of cafes and hotels were in a quandary, dreading they could not insult their patrons by searching them before serving them with soft drinks.

SENATOR NYE of North Dakota, as spokesman for the radical Republicans, has called on Frank O. Lowden to make plain his stand on various issues which are of special interest to the West, and intimated that if he fails to satisfy the radicals in these matters, they will give their support to Senator Norris of Nebraska for the Presidential nomination. "There are such problems as those involving freight rates, discriminations in freight rates, inland waterway improvements, permanent improvements growing out of any flood control program, the conduct of the federal reserve banking system, the administration of the federal farm land banks—all of these problems bearing directly upon the measure of prosperity which may accrue to the agricultural states," said Senator Nye. "Then, too, there are great national problems in which the West is vastly interested."

"Upon these problems the whole West knows well the position of one like Senator Norris, but it does not yet fully know the position of Governor Lowden, except that he is a believer in and an advocate of farm relief legislation such as is involved in the McNary-Haugen bill."

Senator Walsh of Montana, Democrat, prophesies a political "revolution" in the Middle West if the Republicans nominate a man whose views on farm relief are the same as those of President Coolidge.

Two other Democratic senators, Copeland of New York and Pomerene of Ohio, have endorsed the candidacy of Gov. Al Smith. With the backing and support of the South, said Copeland, Smith's nomination and election are assured. He declared that southern opposition was "not so strong as it has been represented" and looked hopefully for assistance from Dixie. He believes the Republicans will nominate Charles E. Hughes.

Pomerene's endorsement was in a magazine article in which he praised Smith's accomplishment in New York and defended his attitude toward prohibition. He declared, however, that there were so many able leaders that he did not want to seem unequivocally committed to Smith.

Mrs. Florence Atkins of Georgia, a leader among Democratic women, said the nomination of Smith would mean "party suicide," since the South would not support him if he were named.

TRIAL of Albert B. Fall and Harry F. Sinclair in Washington on charges of conspiracy to loot the navy's oil reserves got under way before a jury which included two young women. Owen J. Roberts and Albee Pomerene are handling the case for the government, and the former made the opening statement for the prosecution. Edward C. Finney, first assistant secretary of the Interior now and during Fall's regime, was the first important witness. He described the unusual secrecy which distinguished the Teapot Dome lease transaction from dozens of others in the department, and asserted that the transaction was taken entirely from the hands of himself and his associates and conducted personally by Fall. His testimony purported to show further that for days the lease itself lay locked in a drawer of Fall's desk while members of congress and other officials asked in vain for information as to whether such a lease had been executed or was in contemplation.

EIGHTY thousand soft coal miners of central Germany went out on strike last week, and many industries were threatened with disaster because of the lack of electrical power. The men had been earning an average of $8 a week and asked that this be increased to $8.64. The ministry of labor approved the demand but the mine owners would not grant it unless they were permitted to increase the price of coal accordingly. This the minister of economics vetoed. The central German chemical industry, the sugar industry and the paper mills began shutting down, and the beet sugar refiners told the government the entire industry would be ruined unless the strike were stopped. Food prices in Berlin and elsewhere began soaring, and the cabinet spent many hours trying to devise some means of righting the troubles.

Southern Colorado also had its coal strike, some 4,000 miners quitting work on the order of the Industrial Workers of the World. Members of the state industrial commission warned the strikers that picketing was against the law, and the sheriff at Walsenburg, center of the affair, told them every man caught picketing would be arrested. In spite of this the strikers, headed by I. W. W. leaders, began picketing the mines. These men were not permitted to carry arms but Paul Seidler, I. W. W. organizer, said: "We intend to conduct this strike peacefully, but if a striker is killed our men will be carrying cannon around with them."

Five more mining companies in Ohio have obtained from the Federal court in Columbus injunctions against the United Mine Workers to aid them in operating their mines on a nonunion basis.

EARL CARROLL, the theatrical man of "bath-tub party" fame, came out of the Atlanta prison last week on parole, after paying his fine and signing a pledge to abstain from intoxicating drinks, avoid bad company and behave himself generally. He had served a little more than four months of his year and a day sentence. Carroll's thoughtfulness for his former friends among the prisoners caused him to order many of his personal possessions left for their use, including an expensive radio set and a sum of money he had on deposit at the prison. The latter he ordered used to help his friends as "Warden Snook saw fit."

Other objects of the federal parole board's clemency during the week were Gaston Means, notorious in many ways, and Colonel Forbes, once head of the veterans' bureau.

OVER in China the struggle for Peking goes merrily on. After retreating some distance, the Shanai troops slipped back past Chang's forces and for a time seriously threatened the city again. But at last reports they were being pushed back, owing to their inability to reinforce their positions. The fighting was exceedingly fierce and bloody and the casualties heavy.

The Nationalist government succeeded in floating a domestic loan of $24,000,000 in Shanghai for the purpose of financing a new campaign against Marshal Chang, and announced plans for the drive northward in full co-operation with Gen. Feng Yu-hsiang and the tupan of Shansi province.

LITHUANIA has formally applied to the League of Nations for intervention in its quarrel with Poland, and the matter will be placed on the agenda for the December meeting of the council. The note from Kovno complains especially of the suppression of Lithuanian schools in Vilna by the Polish government, and it points out that a state of war exists between the two countries, the frontiers having been closed for years and all relations prohibited. France has been frankly supporting Poland, and England has been unfriendly to Lithuania because of its Russian connections; but it is believed Germany will warmly espouse Lithuania's cause in December.

COSTES and Le Brix, French aviators, successfully made the flight from Senegal to Port Natal, Brazil, being the first to fly across the southern Atlantic without a stop. They continued their journey down to Buenos Aires with several stops.

Mrs. Frances Grayson and her fellow aviators of the plane Dawn made one start from Old Orchard, Maine, on their projected flight to Denmark, but were forced back because the plane was improperly loaded and nose-heavy. Then they waited day after day for favorable weather for another take-off.

LARGE numbers of Alabama klansmen have been indicted for the floggings that have disgraced that state, and the trials will begin in January. Attorney General McCall, who was elected on a Klan ticket, has resigned from the society and denounced it scathingly.

Ends Trail of Bogus Checks

College Youth Boasts of Forging 300 in Larger Cities of Country.

Portland, Ore.—Leroy W. Trueblood, twenty-four-year-old college graduate, claims to have traveled widely in the United States during the last eight months, and to have left a trail of bogus checks, which he estimated number 300 and total $7,500 in face value, so the Portland police declare.

He related his tale at police headquarters, where he was questioned by Inspectors Eickenberger and Mulligan after he had been arrested in a local hotel. As he told the story, he shifted nervously from foot to foot as he stood beside his two suitcases in which he claims to have a wardrobe which cost him $3,000. The prisoner says he lived in Elizabeth City, N. C., until 1923, then moved to Miami, Fla. After outwitting business men and bankers and keeping clear of law officers for eight months, Trueblood, son of an army officer, fell into the hands of officers through the vigilance of Edward Drake, credit man for J. K. Gill company, who had cashed a worthless check for $25, drawn on the First National bank of Portland, two days ago.

Checks Mark Trail.
If the story the debonair and handsome Trueblood is alleged to have told the inspectors is true, he is wanted in nearly every large city in the United States and many small ones.

Trueblood declares he attended the University of North Carolina two years. Five years of college life had prepared Trueblood for a career as a civil engineer, and the degree of bachelor of science which Boston College of Technology was to bestow upon him was pending one year of actual practice in the civil engineering field, according to his statement.

Dog's Raincoat Must Match That of Owner

Paris.—A music-hall artist dressed by Jeanne Lanvin has set the fashion in Paris of matching her dog's raincoat to her own.

The idea has made a hit in Paris, where a wet summer made the raincoat everybody's constant companion. White sat-in raincoats are the smartest of the new season. Dog's apparel, therefore, is often white. The ultrafashionable canine has his name painted on his slicker. Or if the name is too big for the dog there is an initial at either side.

VOLCANO BLAST IS LIKELY TO SINK THE ISLAND OF BOGOSLOF

Rock Mass in Bering Sea on Fire and May Pop Like Giant Firecracker.

Dutch Harbor, Alaska.—Smoking like an inferno, Bogoslof island, Bering sea, is in a mess of fire and steam, with every indication that it is ready to pop like a giant firecracker, according to reports brought here by the steamship William Tupper, Seattle bound from Bethel.

The vessel ventured within three miles of the island, a course followed by few ships.

The whole rocky mass seemed to be blazing. Smoke and steam issued continually from every part of the island and numerous huge flame-red cracks were discernible through the marine glasses.

Countless huge sea lions were in the water off the island, roaring in protest of the burning of their favorite home. Their roaring was audible for six miles.

Thousands of sea birds, generally resting on the rocks of Bogoslof, swarmed in the air about the island. There was a discoloration in the surrounding water and a distinct odor of sulphur in the air. At night the heavens reflected the inferno somewhere in the center of the island.

Bogoslof island is 25 miles north of the western end of Unalaska island and situated in Bering sea. It disappeared many years ago, and then reappeared when the submarine volcano beneath it became active again.

Since 1910 it has been gradually cooling off until sea lions, seals and water birds found refuge on the rocky shores. But no vegetation ever obtained a foothold on the new-born land.

The coming of winter fogs may cur-

Banker One of Victims.
At Eureka, Calif., Trueblood says he gave the vice president of the First National bank a bogus check for $100 after he had told the banker he was a government employee on a geodetic survey boat then in the harbor.

When arrested Trueblood produced a telegram that he sent to himself from Eugene, Ore., to Portland. The telegram was signed "R. O. O'Brien," and said: "If possible be present Tuesday night. Prepare a short talk on 'Better Road Movement.'"

"That was just a fake," Trueblood said, so the police allege. "I sent it to myself so I could identify myself when I cashed my checks. I used that method frequently."

Trueblood has his own theory of crime.

"Nobody wants to go wrong, and everybody would love to reimburse those who lost to them if possible," he is quoted by the police as saying. "I knew all the time that I would get caught, but I couldn't stop. I had to keep going to keep from getting picked up, and to keep going I had to write more checks. So, there you are! What can I do?"

To bankers and business men, Trueblood points a lesson in thrift: "Never trust anybody until you're sure they are all right."

Sunstruck Hen Lays Two Eggs at a Time

Marken Rasen, England.—The latest method of getting hens to lay is to afflict them with sunstroke.

F. Parker of this city has a hen which was affected by sunstroke when about a month old. Since it has grown up it has been laying two eggs at a time an average of four days a week and on two occasions has laid three.

Recently the other hens on the roost resented this infringement of union rules and began attacking the hen. Mr. Parker separated the hen from the other hens and since then she has been laying 11 and 12 full-size eggs a week.

Lost Frisco Records Turn Up in Lima, Peru

San Francisco.—The Examiner says a large number of manuscripts believed to be official records of the city of San Francisco which have been missing for more than a half century have been found in Lima, Peru.

The find was made known here by Senorita Noemi Beneditti, who is teaching in a convent in San Francisco. According to her story, the newspaper says, the records were about to be dumped into a river as junk when they were recognized by a passerby as possibly being of historical value. The passerby bought the wagonload of papers for $40.

The papers are believed to be those which were carried away by Harry Melgus, San Francisco alderman, who in 1854 absconded with $250,000 obtained by forging city warrants. Melgus went to Peru, where he built the Central Transandinian railroad over the Andes mountains and accumulated a fortune of more than $100,000,000. He made restitution of the sum he took away, but never returned to this country.

Finds Ruins of English Gold Rush in 1576

Chicago.—Mute reminders of an almost forgotten gold rush of 350 years ago, which came to naught, but in which Queen Elizabeth and many of England's wealthy noblemen were involved, have been found in the frozen North by the Rawson-MacMillan Arctic expedition of the Field museum, William Duncan Strong, anthropologist of the expedition, reported to the museum.

The report stated that the explorers discovered the ruins of the houses, mining pits and improvised shipyard of Sir Martin Frobisher, who, between 1576 and 1578, led three expeditions, two for gold, into the regions of Labrador and Baffin Land. After digging in the ruins, fragments of brick, plaster, coal and porcelain were unearthed by Doctor Strong, which he said undoubtedly were indisputable proof that the ruins are of European and not native habitations.

tain the transformation of the island. Perhaps next spring will disclose the rolling ocean where Bogoslof once smoked, or a larger and newer area of land.

Oak Where Wesley Began Crusade Is Blown Down

Winchelsea, Sussex, England.—The famous oak tree under which John Wesley, English divine, preached during the early days of his crusade out of which Methodism grew, has been blown down.

A storm, which raged along the channel recently, felled the tree which stood near the chapel erected here to his memory.

Soap Cures Blindness

St. Joseph, Mo.—Carl Sears is able to see out of his left eye now after having been blind 30 years. Recently Sears was washing his face and soap suds got into his left eye. He washed out the soap, to find the useless eye as good as ever.

Let Youth help shape the World while the Vision Splendid is still before it's Eyes

1918 10th ANNIVERSARY 1928

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

IT IS peculiarly appropriate that the annual membership roll call of the American National Red Cross should begin on Armistice day, November 11. For there is no other organization in the world which better exemplifies the essential spirit of Armistice day than that which knows no race nor creed nor color—nothing but the need of suffering humanity. So when the Red Cross invites Americans to join while it is holding its eleventh annual roll call from Armistice day through Thanksgiving, November 11 to 24, we can all do so with the knowledge that there can be no more fitting observance of this solemn anniversary than by aiding in the work of the Red Cross—the "greatest mother of the world."

In the sense that Armistice day means the end of fighting, there is no Armistice day for the Red Cross. For in peace as in war it carries on its fight against disease and hunger and devastation. If "peace hath its victories no less renowned than war" then some of the peace-time victories of the American Red Cross, won when tornado or hurricane or flood or fire swept over some ill-fated community, are more to be remembered than are some of its victories won on the battlefield.

There is still another service of the Red Cross which is perhaps but little known in comparison to its other services and it may yet prove to be of a future importance which cannot now be estimated. That is the organization of the Junior Red Cross, which has for its three watchwords "Service," "Friendship" and "Health," and which will begin celebrating its tenth anniversary next year. On its scroll is written these words, "Let Youth Help Shape the World While the Vision Splendid is Still Before Its Eyes."

If indeed youth begins to "shape the world while the vision splendid is still before its eyes," then there may come the time when there will be no more wars, for the Junior Red Cross

ARMISTICE

Ours, ours they are—
Those dear, dead knights who won
The Golden Star:
On far French hills, here in our churchyards lying,
Or in war's wildest wreckage—still unfound
In these torn, piteous fields which they in dying,
Have for us all forever sanctified.
We cannot hallow more that holy ground:
All glory we would give them pales beside
The eternal splendor of these men, who thought
But of the sacred cause for which they fought.
And now, the battles done,
They who gave all, tis they alone who won.
In their great faith there was no
dark misgiving:
They saw no base self-seekers on the mask
Of high ideals, to batten on the living.
Their vision was a world secure and just Won by their victory—their only task
To crush one hideous foe; and in that trust
They sped with eager feet, and paid the price,
Unflinching, of the last great sacrifice.

That faith they hold,
The peace for which they battled was pure gold,
And in their splendid seal they died
unshaken,
Knowing such sacred beauty fills
their eyes,
Shall we yet mourn, or wish they might awaken
To find the golden peace so far de-based?
Should we not rather pray that their
Their shining vision spotless, unde-
faced,
Until the world, repentant and redeemed,
Grow to the measure of the one they dreamed?
So let them rest,
They gave for us their dearest and their best,
They keep the holiest, yet for their giving
Our fittest tribute is not grief and tears,
But the same ardent vision in our dreams arise
As that which shone, compelling, in their eyes
Uncowed by Death and all his dreadful fears,
Then, when at last these glorious dreamers rise
The world we keep for them might almost seem
The living substances of their lofty dream.
—Charles Buxton Going.

is literally a "League of Good Will and Better Understanding." Today it numbers more than 5,000,000 school children in the United States. Italy has a million children who are enthusiastic members and the junior movement has taken hold strongly in other European countries. Japan has more than 200,000 children enrolled in the league.

Although the Junior Red Cross movement would be important for its instruction of the children in the rudiments of home hygiene, first aid and the fundamentals of American citizenship if for no other reason, it is this international aspect of its work that gives added emphasis to the relation between the spirit of the Red Cross and the spirit of Armistice day. Out of the faith of the millions of children in every nation of the world, enrolled in the Junior Red Cross for the service of humanity, may yet come the realization of the vision held by the men whose memory is honored on Armistice day, as voiced by the poet when he said:

Their vision was a world secure and just
Won by their victory—their only task
To crush one hideous foe; and in that trust
They sped with eager feet and paid the price,
Unflinching, of the last great sacrifice.

So history may yet write down the fact that it was these children who kept

Their shining vision spotless, unde-
faced
Until the world, repentant and redeemed,
Grow to the measure of the one they dreamed.

Siamese Temple Cats

To the most beautiful of tame cats, says the Berlin Illustrirte Zeitung, belongs the Siamese house cat with its short, smooth hair, which on the body is cream-colored while on the tail, legs, ears and face it is dark brown. The cat in Siam, as in all Far Eastern countries, is a temple animal, and accordingly highly prized and treated with religious care. That fits well with its aristocratic bearing and tastes.

For it has been proved that the domestic cats in all Asia as well as in Europe were not developed by taming the wild animals of the same regions, but that they are descendants of the yellowish cats first domesticated in Egypt and that they have spread from thence over the world.—Exchange.

Electrical Switches

The bureau of standards says that a "lax-man switch," also called a "three-way switch," is electrically a single-pole, double-throw switch. Using two of them, a light can be controlled from two places, such as up-stairs and downstairs in the case of hall lights. A related switch, called a "four-way" switch, is electrically a double-pole reversing switch. Any number of four-way switches may be used with two three-way switches to control a light from any number of points.

Have Black Satin Frock for Autumn

Several Silhouettes to Select From; Choice May Be to Liking.

The black satin frock is the outstanding fashion note for fall street frocks.

To be entirely in accord with the mode and to be sure that one is at the height of chic this season, one must have at least one of the new black satin frocks included in the fall wardrobe.

There are several silhouettes to choose from, too, so that one's choice of a black satin frock may be as individual as an elastic mode may permit.

There is the slim and straight-lined frock so dear to the American heart, the flounced and circular silhouette sponsored by the leading couturiers of Paris and the tiered frock which permits fullness of skirt yet retains the straight lines so beloved by those who seek to achieve that "slender look."

The modern geometric influence is noted in one frock, which suggests the circular flounce seen in models arriving from Paris in its blouse, yet retains the straight, slender lines.

Fashioned of both sides of the satin, it achieves the modern geometric effect in its placings of the material.

The short-waisted silhouette, which can be worn smartly by only a very few, is charmingly illustrated in the frock worn by Gertrude Olmsted, the motion picture actress, in "Becky," her next production. The skirt of this frock is composed of three short tiers cut in front in circular effect and there is a girde-of-self-material at the natural waistline. An unusual yoke of reversible satin trims the bodice and is finished with four buttons.

A long-waisted bodiless frock is another attractive model. Simply fashioned, it has but two plaisted flounces on the skirt curved up in front, in keeping with the curved blouse. Deep V neck-line and slash pockets on the blouse are trimmed with narrow bandings of the reversible satin.

Sports Clothes Alone Resist Dame Fashion

One can state definitely that the Paris couture has dealt a knockout blow at the standardization of women's fashions, reports the fashion expert of the Delineator. "Only sports clothes," says the women's monthly, "remain the same. That is because they have reached perfection for the purpose for which they were originally designed. Variety is given by interesting details of workmanship. The use of an infinite number of fancy jerseys and kasbatullas. Clever applications and incrustations of two and sometimes three different fabrics. Good color schemes. The introduction of yellow and especially orange is new. Another novelty is the short woolen scarf knotted round the neck to take the place of a fur collar on the sports overcoat. This latter in some cases has a new line for it shows a distinct flare in the new coats from Chanel, Lanvin and Patou. This gives the widened silhouette that used to be seen in men's racing coats. It is used in coats cut off just after the hipline as well as in long ones."

Figured Velvet Fashion

If you are wondering whether velvet and satin will put to rout the vogue for figured materials—take note of the very new figured velvet. This may be printed chiffon velvet or brocade velvet on a chiffon or georgette background. Dark reds, browns, and light blues are the most frequent colors. It is very supple and is used for whole dresses.

Emphasis on the Corset

The type of frock developed for winter has placed increased emphasis on the corset, which is so necessary to permit the effect desired.

New Military Collar Worn by Actress

The high military collar is one of the new features of fall and winter coats. Norma Shearer, the featured motion picture actress, favors an unusual collar of this type by wearing a coat of beige with a striking military collar and frills in her latest starring vehicle, "After Midnight." With this costume Miss Shearer carries a reptile skin bag in green and beige to give an additional striking note.

Sports Fur Coats Are Chic for Autumn Days

The fur coat cut on sports lines is more in vogue this season than ever, reports the fashion scout of Vanity Fair Magazine. "The woman of the world," she points out, "knows that no outdoor costume is quite so smart and comfortable as the sports fur coat for chilly autumn days, and at hunt breakfasts, race meets, and so on, her furs make their debut.

"Fur coats cut on sports lines have been popular for several years and each year they grow more important. This season there are four smart silhouettes for such coats. First of all, there is the straight tailored coat. This is the prevailing type and beyond all doubt the most appropriate for every age.

"Second comes the coat that is slightly flared from the shoulders all the way around, to give a diagonal closing. In these coats the collar runs all the way to the hem. Closely related to this type is the youthful coat that is flared all the way around and fastens in a straight line. It often has a scarf-collar that ties in a bow at the neck. It is an attractive fashion, but rather trying, suitable only for very slim figures.

"Fourth comes the box jacket. This is extremely smart when it is part of an ensemble of the same material as the coat-hat. But if it is worn with a heterogeneous collection of dresses, it recalls college campuses in just-after-the-war days.

"Sports fur coats have always been light in color—the light gray of kid and krimmer, the gray-beige of ante-lope, the copper-beige of pony, are familiar tones. A new color note of this season is a golden-beige—almost yellow—in such furs as sheared panther and Swedish ermine, which is ermine dyed a yellow tone.

"As to the furs themselves—in general they are flat-surfaced, both because this is a general trend in furs this season and because flat furs lend themselves well to the tailored lines that are smart for sports. Sheared kid, which is almost as fine and soft as brettechwantz, American broadtail, and the inevitable pony, are outstanding examples of smart, flat furs. Ermine, too, paradoxical as it may seem, has entered the sports mode—a number of very smart, youthful coats are made of summer ermine and Swedia's ermine.

"A notable exception to the rule of flat-surfaced furs is shaggy goat, which is again very popular this autumn. Nutria and beaver, of course, are perennial, and are always in good taste. In the same way, one always sees a certain amount of leopard for informal sports wear."

Slant Line Supplants Straight, Long Popular

A note about Paris fashions says that in many gowns the straight line so long popular has given place to the slant. A kasha coat-frock is described with not a straight line in it. The bodice slants, the sleeves cross and fall away in scallops, the skirt has an umbrella line which is broken into sweeping but unequal scallops, and the collar has no particular shape. Many dresses, the same authority says, have draped backs that look like capes cut into strange shapes with lines. Skirts do not fall straightly and simply but dip and rise and swirl about in movement. Paris as usual declares for dark colors during the day and vivid colors are for evening only.

The BABY

Why do so many, many babies of today escape all the little fretful spells and infantile ailments that used to worry mothers through the day, and keep them up half the night?

If you don't know the answer, you haven't discovered pure, harmless Castoria. It is sweet to the taste, and sweet in the little stomach. And its gentle influence seems felt all through the tiny system. Not even a distasteful dose of castor oil does so much good.

Fletcher's Castoria is purely vegetable, so you may give it freely, at first sign of colic; or constipation; or diarrhea. Or those many times when you just don't know what is the matter. For real sickness, call the doctor, always. At other times, a few drops of Fletcher's Castoria.

The doctor often tells you to do just that; and always says Fletcher's. Other preparations may be just as pure, just as free from dangerous drugs, but why experiment? Besides, the book on care and feeding of babies that comes with Fletcher's Castoria is worth its weight in gold!

The last few years have seen a big change in small home heating. Base burners, oak stoves, etc., have gone out of style because their heating capacity was limited. People are no longer content to live in drafty underheated rooms or be forced to shut off some of the rooms in the winter.

Instead they have turned to the Renown, the heating plant that looks like a cabinet and works like a furnace. It replaces hearted heat with solid ugliness with beauty, half comfort and fuel waste with fuel economy.

ONE RENOWN DOES THE WORK OF SEVERAL STOVES OR FIREPLACES

This heating device is regarded as the standard heating appliance for small homes, old and new, one-story and two-story; it is used too in schools, stores, churches, garages and in a great many types of buildings.

POULTRY

POULTRY GOOD AS A FARM SIDELINE

There are many ways in which a farmer can get started into the poultry business, and now is the time to begin to plan for a spring start, thinks D. H. Hall, extension poultry husbandman, who makes the following suggestions:

If you have a few pure-bred chickens in your flock, you mate these pure breeds and hatch from them. This may seem a little slow for a start, but it pays to start slow in the poultry game. At the end of the year you can have a pure-bred flock by selling the mongrels off the place.

Another way to get started in the poultry business is to sell fifteen mongrel mongrels and use this money to buy pure-bred poultry. You may be able to purchase but three hens and a male as a result of your mongrel sale, but it will be one of the best moves you have ever made. After purchasing pure breeds be sure to hatch only eggs from this purchase stock. This way is probably the best as you begin to get a cash return from your pure breeds at once.

You can also get started by purchasing pure-bred eggs. You can finance the purchasing of these eggs by selling a few mongrel hens. Pure-bred eggs from a reliable breeder will cost you more than mongrel eggs, but they will pay for themselves in better poultry.

Another way to get started in the poultry business is by the purchasing of baby chicks. This way is probably better than buying eggs, as you do not run the chance of obtaining a bad hatch. Baby chicks can be bought from any reliable hatchery about as cheap as you can hatch them yourself.

Poultry House Should Be Thoroughly Cleaned

At some convenient time of the year, give the poultry house and yard an exceptionally thorough cleaning and disinfecting. If a dirt floor is used, dig down six or eight inches, cart the dirt to the field, and replace it with clean gravel. With a cement floor, remove the litter and loose dirt and sweep the house to remove all dirt and cobwebs. A thorough application of two parts of stock dip and three parts of kerosene to each and every corner, crack, and crevice of the floor, roof, walls, nests, dropping boards, and roosts will do more than any one thing to start the year right. An application of air-slaked lime once a week is a worth while precaution in keeping the ground free from contagion. Have clean litter cover the floor six or eight inches deep. A sloping top to the nest will prevent an accumulation of droppings.

Moist Mash Excellent for the Tardy Pullets

As soon as pullets are bodily matured they should start laying. Fully matured pullets that are not laying may often be brought into production at this time by using a moist mash. The usual laying mash may be moistened with sour skim milk, buttermilk, semi-solid buttermilk and water, dried buttermilk and water, or water fed regularly at noon or some other convenient time. It must be fed at the same time each day and should be crumbly moist, not sloppy. Let the pullets consume all they can in twenty minutes and then take the mash away and thoroughly clean the trough. As soon as production reaches a satisfactory point, the moist mash may be discontinued.

Poultry Squibs

Do not crowd the growing birds. Give them ample room for development.

Crooked keels and other physical deformities often occur in crowded flocks.

The males should be kept separated from the pullets until the breeding season begins.

Do not provide perches with sharp edges. Bumblefoot and other ailments can often be traced to this cause.

Do not elevate the roosts too high. Bruising of the birds' feet in alighting from the perches causes serious trouble.

Fowl cholera is a very hard disease to control, due to the nature of the disease, outbreaks often occurring when least expected.

If the brooder houses are thoroughly scrubbed with boiling lye water they will be free from germs when stored away for the winter.

With corn at $1 per bushel and wheat at $1.25, poultry raisers can afford to feed more than the usual amount of wheat in place of corn.

Bolled oats or oatmeal are extensively used in chick feeding, and they are excellent for this purpose. When used as a complete ration they are apt to cause gas.

PATIENCE NEEDED TO HOLD THIS JOB

Cutting Flying Field Turf Has Its Hazards

Washington.—Airplanes being what they are, mules being mules, and grass being what it is, the problem of keeping the turf of a flying field close cropped is one of great complexity, trying alike to the ingenuity of responsible officers and the patience of grass cutters.

Bolling field, used by army and navy flyers here, is a sizeable establishment. It is not only necessary to keep the turf in condition for planes to land or take off at any time, but to protect the conditions, who must work in the field all day, every day, with their mule-drawn mowers. And a grass-cutting machine, which has never been noted for speed or agility, can give even more damage than it receives if it comes to grips with a swiftly moving, delicately balanced airplane.

The safety problem has been attacked with flags which, fluttering bright red against the green background, from conspicuous places on the grass-cutting equipment, give warning to aviators. But the tribulations of the mowing machine pilots are not so easily reduced. If so inclined, there is an opportunity to develop a philosophy of perfect patience.

Whatever their inclinations, they must at least put into practice the credo of such a philosophy. After braving the perils of flying propellers to cut the grass, they must remove it from the turf.

Just as the farmer rakes his hay, they gather the shorn grass into windrows. But frequently, at Bolling field, these windrows, which might be poetic in a less modern environment, are in the path of an airplane, taking off or alighting, with the propeller creating a small but extremely vigorous private windstorm. Then the raking must be done again, the windrows recreated, with hope but without certainty. Clearly, it is a job for a job.

Bus Is Favorite Ride of London Commuters

London.—Lord Ashfield is trying to discover why it is that women prefer busses.

He is working hard to induce more people to travel on tubes and thus relieve the congestion of London streets. Men listen to the appeals for more tube travel, but women are deaf. They continue to storm crowded busses and shun underground transportation.

One explanation of the popularity of busses is that women are able to do a little window shopping from the top of the open busses, and do not begrudge the added time it takes to make long trips.

It has been found that highly trained business women, who are efficient office workers, patronize the underground quite generally. But housewives, waitresses and young shop assistants prefer busses.

Keep Alive Memory of Barbara Fritchie

Frederick, Md.—Although more than three-score years have passed since the last shot of the Civil war was fired, the patriotic fervor of Barbara Fritchie is still fresh in the memories of her home town folks. The home of Maryland's Civil war heroine was restored this summer. Hundreds of tourists visited the quaint little brick structure with its dormer windows and low-pitched ceilings.

Articles that tradition says were Dame Fritchie's property form most the furnishings of the house. These include her rocking chair, spinning wheel, clock, chinaware and even the flag that she is said to have waved in defiance at Stonewall Jackson's southern troops.

British Stevedore Eats 20 Dinners on Wager

London.—Twenty workmen's dinners of steak pie and vegetables, amounting in all to six pounds of meat, three pounds of fat, three pounds of pie crust, eighteen pounds of vegetables and eight pounds of greens was the modest meal consumed for a wager by Henry Bullion, a Deptford stevedore.

The twelfth dinner took the edge off his appetite, but after drinking a few pints of beer after the fourteenth he was able to chew his way manfully to the end.

Seek Rare Blue Poppy in Indian Mountains

Karachi, India.—An expedition is on its way from England to search for a blue poppy in the northwest frontier mountains of India. The head of the party will be Capt. Kingdon Ward, noted explorer and naturalist, who has already made journeys into China and Tibet to search for unknown plants.

"Blue poppies are by no means unknown," says Captain Ward, "but they are very rare. We shall search for mountain plants and fauna of all kinds and we shall be away from England about a year."

YES, SIR, BARNUM KNEW HIS FREAKS

Also Knew How to Get Them at Small Cost

Washington.—P. T. Barnum was a great showman and possibly a great educator. At any rate, he knew what he wanted, and a glimpse into one of his methods of getting it at the lowest possible cost is given in the old files of the American consulate at Tampico, Mexico.

Writing to Consul Augustus J. Casard, August 9, 1882, he said: "I desire to carry out as far as possible an idea I have long entertained of forming a collection, in pairs or otherwise, of all the uncivilized races in existence, and my present object is to ask you kindly to render me what assistance is in your power to acquire any specimens of these uncivilized peoples."

Looking for Freaks. "My aim is to exhibit to the American public not only human beings of different races but also when practicable those who possess extraordinary peculiarities, such as giants, dwarfs, singular disfigurements . . . dexterity in the use of weapons, dancing, singing, juggling, unusual strength or agility, etc."

"With this object in view I should be glad to receive from you descriptions of as many such specimens as you could obtain and photographs as far as possible, even if it is necessary to send an agent into the interior for the purpose."

"The remuneration of these people in addition to their board and traveling expense is usually nominal. I shall see that they are presented with fancy articles such as are always acceptable and small allowance monthly."

"If in any case a group of three to six or even ten would be especially novel I should probably take them, but I must study economy inasmuch as I propose to add this 'congress of nations' to the other attractions of our great show without extra charge."

"If interpreters should be absolutely necessary please inform me what would be the cost, which must be moderate."

Willing to Pay. "For yourself, I should be glad to reimburse you for any proper outlay and to give you a reasonable compensation for the trouble which you may take in this matter."

"If you should meet with any living animals, or reptiles, freaks of nature, or in any sense rare or unusual, I should be glad to receive and to refund to you the cost of a photograph and full description of the same, but inanimate objects I do not desire. As it is my wish to get at least a portion of this collection together by January or February, 1883, I will thank you to favor me with as early a reply as convenient."

Whales Nearly Extinct, State Bureau Warns

Hoquiam, Wash.—Solemn warning is given by the state department of fisheries that if the killing of north Pacific whales continues at the present rate, within a few years the earth's largest animal will be extinct.

Each year whaling ships, equipped with the latest improved weapons and appliances, search the Arctic for these denizens of the deep. The industry produces big revenue and unless an international agreement limits or suspends for a period of years the hunting of whales, nothing will stop the destruction.

This season the catch of whales from the Alaskan coast stations is large and it is reported the mammals are easily taken. However, it is reported that every year the whales grow smaller, which, say authorities on the subject, is evidence that continued hunting prevents the full development of the huge species and only the undersized ones are victims.

Tokens of Tropics Found in Greenland

Copenhagen.—Dr. Lauge Koch, Danish explorer, has returned to Copenhagen from an exploration of Greenland with evidence that Greenland was once a tropical country.

Koch and two assistants explored the coastland of North Scorsby sound of Denmarkhaven, Greenland. The exploration is considered important, because it shows inhabitants new routes to north Greenland. Koch brought back the largest collection of specimens ever taken from Greenland, eight tons of fossils, plants and animals showing three geological periods.

Some specimens indicate that at one time there was tropical life on Greenland, such plants as palms growing there in abundance. Signs of numerous hot springs and rich animal life were found.

Superstition Wins

Freak Potato Plant

Manchester, S. D.—Growing both below and above ground, potatoes have been harvested by M. C. Stanfield on his farm near here. About 50 of the freak potatoes were taken from above ground, but they were not very large.

ARMORED SKELETON FOUND IN COLORADO

Believed to Be Officer of Coronado's Expedition

Fort Morgan, Colo.—A skeleton believed to be a Spanish officer of Coronado's expedition because of the kind of armor in which it was encased, was recently unearthed near La Junta, Colo., by M. O. Davis and Earl Scarlett, who were digging and searching for Indian relics.

The skeleton was found in a sitting position, with knees up against the chest, the way Indians buried their dead, but by the armor around the skeleton it is believed it was a Spanish officer.

The skeleton may have been identified with Coronado's expedition or he may have been an officer in Villazur's expedition in 1720, which was completely annihilated by the Indians.

With the skeleton were found parts of a lance, the barrel of a gun, ivory spurs, a number of blue and white beads, and an old-time bullet ball with a hole through the center for stringing on a thong.

The site where the skeleton was found was debatable ground in the conflicts between France and Spain. The land in southern Colorado was the scene of many battles after the coming of Coronado's expedition in 1540, and his attempt to civilize New Mexico resulted in the migration of the Indians into southern Colorado.

Spanish officers were often assigned to round up these runaway Indians, and it is possible that the Spanish officers whose skeleton was discovered was one sent on such a mission, and that he was killed in service.

Armored Vests Sold to French Statesmen

Paris.—Coats of mail that flatten bullets and turn the points of daggers are back in favor, thanks to the gunman and the spirit of unrest. Dozens of French "armorers" sell these secret protections and two, at least, specialize in them. Statesmen and even criminals are among the customers of these shops which deal principally in old armor and arms for collectors and make ancient war costumes for the operas and theaters.

The "secret vest" most used is of small, finely-tempered chrome steel scales. The usual form is a close-fitting shirt that reaches from just below the collar-line to well below the waist. It weighs five and one-half pounds and is quite flexible. The chain type is made of an infinite number of small steel links woven into a mesh.

A less elaborate protection is a very slightly overlapping set of scales sewed inside an ordinary vest to give limited protection. This form is lighter and cheaper. A mail shirt costs about $100 and the vest lining about $60.

Anthropological Test

and athletic contests on this day. The day will be observed in all grades throughout the school.

At two o'clock in the afternoon the debating team will discuss the question, "Resolved that the Direct Primary should be Abolished in the U. S." The following people will take part in the debate: Helen Field, Dillingham, Gertrude Tupper, Eliza Gage, Raymond Ledwidge, Wilma Bourbonsais, Viola Burns, Marion Durkin, Berdella Euler and Louise Grainger.

At three-thirty o'clock the Pinckney High School football team met the Reserves of Ypsilanti Central High School on the Pinckney field. Pinckney is very fortunate in securing this team for Armistice Day. The Ypsi team is probably the best coached team that has ever appeared on the local field. The Pinckney boys have been playing good football, although handicapped so far by injuries, sickness and eligibility rules. However, on Armistice Day every man expected to be eligible and all injuries and sickness a thing of the past. The team that takes the field for Pinckney Friday will be the equal of any team that has ever represented a local institution.

A really great game is assured. The Place is Pinckney. The Time is 3:30 promptly. The referee is L. E. Bassett.

The new "emetic" by which it is hoped hog cholera will be banished from the state, also provides that any swine which have been in the possession of a dealer or farmer for less than 30 days and are offered at either auction or private sale must be vaccinated.

Icelander Swims Twelve Miles in Arctic Ocean

Oso.—Swimming the English channel is mere play beside the feat of a young Icelander, Erlingur Palsson, a constable of Reykjavik, who swam 12 miles in the Arctic ocean with the water at a temperature of 32.8—barely above the freezing point. He wore three bathing suits. It is 900 years since this swim from the island of Drangoe, in the Skagafjord, to the mainland has been accomplished and that was by the legendary outlaw, Grettir. Until Palsson swam the distance nobody believed the legend, for it was regarded as impossible for a human being to endure the freezing water for the four and one-half hours necessary to cover the 12 miles.

Coal Still Leads in Production of Power

Commercial electricity has been described variously as "juice," "blue magic," "bottled lightning," etc. In the analytical realm of federal statistics, however, it rather takes on the guise of "lumpless coal," "greaseless oil," "knottless timber," "dry water," and "flameless gas."

Coal, water, oil, wood and gas are the ingredients of electricity or are the creative sources of it in the production of power. In the production of some eight hundred million horsepower or 73,701,000,000 kilowatt-hours in this country, 64.5 per cent of the energy was generated by the use of fuels and the remainder by water power, according to the Department of the Interior.

Of the fuels, coal was the leader, producing 90 per cent of the manufactured energy; oil, gas and wood totaled the remaining 10 per cent.

The Best Laxative He Ever Tried

Mr. W. J. Dorion, New York, writes: "Sick headache, indigestion and constipation have troubled me for years. I tried everything but I can truthfully say your CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS is the best laxative I have ever used. I find that they are small, easy to take and their action does not pain me. They keep me regular and I want to tell you how I appreciate this purely vegetable medicine, knowing, due to my experience in laboratory work that laxatives, containing Mercury, Calomel and other poisonous drugs are injurious."

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are sugar coated, small, easy to swallow, and everyone in the family can take them in perfect confidence as they are a doctor's own formula.

LAKELAND CIRCLE MEET
The Lakeland Circle of Kings Daughters, were entertained by Mrs. William Gray of Hamburg village last Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. F. X. Zeiser, chairman of the committee for the annual supper to be served at the Hotel Zeiser Nov. 2 appointed the supper committees. Mrs. Frank Buckalew, Mrs. Emil Kucher and Mrs. Clarence Narvaire were inducted into the order. Reports were then made by the delegates who attended the convention at Ann Arbor.

It was voted to send $25 dollars to the teachers fund at the U. of M. and $5 to the loan fund and continuation of the convalescent fund. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. E. Clyde Dunning on Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 9.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL
The Red Cross drive for membership November 11 to 24 is near at hand. The need for funds is great. Livingston county has been assessed 600 members. The great floods of last spring have so nearly exhausted their funds that should much the same happen again they would not be able to render sufficient aid unless you come forward with generous contributions.

If we wish Peace and Prosperity we must take care of our own in times of peace and prevent disaster. This is the work the Red Cross is doing.
