DEER HUNTERS LEAVE

The greatest number of deer hunters in the history of Pinckney left for northern Michigan this week. The biggest party left Sunday morning in a specially constructed shanty built on one of W. H. Meyer's big trucks. Their destination was Hillman in Alpena county and the party consisted of Norman Reason, Ross Bead, Lynn Hendee, W. M. Meyers of this place and Jay Smith of Detroit.

Ed Parker and Earl Baughn left Monday morning for Grayling and another party composed of Cass Clinton, Will VanBlaricum and J. C. Bowman also left with Gaylord as their objective. As all huntsman have sworn to bring back a deer there is not likely to be a scarcity of venison in this section very soon.

PLEASANTLY ENTERTAINED

A large attendance was present at the meeting of the Lakeland Kings Daughters at the home of Mrs. Clyde Dunning last Wednesday afternoon. The meeting was called to order by the vice president, Mrs. A. C. Schoenhals. After the business meeting which showed a balance of cash on hand of $112.34, a report of the recent banquet was given. It was voted to purchase outing flannel to make bed jackets for the patients at the U. of M. hospital, Ann Arbor. The guests present were Mrs. Anna Whitmore, of Brighton, Mrs. Minnie Parker, of Goddard and Mrs. Nelson Imus, Jr., Mrs. William Blades of Ann Arbor. The next meeting will be held on Nov. 30 with Mrs. Robert Jack of Lakeland.

ENTERTAINS CLASS

The Philathea Class was very pleasantly entertained at the home of Mrs. Milo Kettler last Wednesday. The meeting was called to order by the president after which a business session followed. The gathering adjourned to a bounteous pot-luck supper, twenty-six members and friends being present. Three shut-ins were remembered. The December meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. W. C. Hendee.

COULD NOT IDENTIFY THEM

Sheriff Wimbles received a telegram from Jackson Saturday stating that the officers were holding two suspects there who answered the description of the men who robbed George Richmond, Unadilla farmer of $5000 worth of bonds on the night of November 7. In company with Mr. Richmond he went to Jackson where the latter was unable to positively identify the suspects although he said they looked like the robbers. However they were identified as burglars by Jackson and Ingham county people and as the Ingham charge was the most serious they were turned over to the sheriff from that county and lodged in the jail at Mason.

The two men gave their names as Leland Heil and Howard Clapsaddle of Detroit. They were arraigned before Justice Shaefer of Mason Monday and bound over to the circuit court for the robbery of Mrs. McFarland's oil station at Bunkerhill on Halloween night.

SPECIAL COMMUNICATION

There will be a special communication of Livingston Lodge No. 76 78 F. & A. M. on Saturday evening, November 19. Work in the second degree. Refreshments. All brothers are requested to be present.
W. M. Kettler, Sec'y.

At the meeting mostly matters pertaining to organization were taken up. It was decided to hold the next meeting on December 5 at which time a program will be put on.

GIVEN FAREWELL PARTY

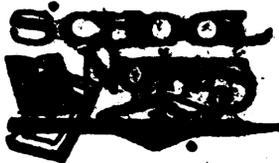

A farewell party was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lurgess last Tuesday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Morgan who will soon leave to spend the winter in the south. Pinckney won her football game last week. She plays Byron at Pinckney on Friday of this week. This promises to be a good game, Byron having made about as good a record as Pinckney.

The Pinckney Debating team goes to Stockbridge Thursday evening. This is the first time that Pinckney has ever placed a team in this field. The following will represent Pinckney: Wilhelmina Bourbonnais, Marion Durkis and Gertrude Tupper.

School closes Wednesday afternoon for the Thanksgiving recess. Classes will be resumed as usual the following Monday morning.

The Yell Team of the Pinckney High School enjoyed a candy pull and social time Friday evening at the home of Miss Wilhelmina Bourbonnais of Lakeland.

AN EASY VICTORY

The Central high school reserves of Ypsilanti which played Pinckney here last Friday proved to be a joke team, having no teamwork, coaching and only a faint idea of what football meant. Pinckney ran up a score of 89 points against them and could probably have doubled it if they had not become exhausted from excessive scoring. Every play that Pinckney tried worked and Ypsilanti made but one first down, on a forward pass. Ypsilanti lost so much ground when they were in possession of the ball that they invariably punted on the first down. Pinckney tried double, triple and lateral passes, line shifts and many cross bucks, all of which worked nicely and in the last quarter Reason and Blades tried the old "Statue of Liberty" play with Blades carrying the ball which was good for a forty yard gain. Ypsilanti's only score came in the last quarter after a Pinckney touchdown when instead of placing the ball on the three yard line to try for the extra point it was carelessly thrown down on the field. Bird the 230 lb Ypsi tackle, picked ti up and ran 99 yards for a touchdown with the Pinckney team watching him and not understanding what it was all about. The contest was a good workout for the locals as all their substitutes got into the game and they were able to try all the plays in their category. The final score was Pinckney 89, Ypsi 6. Byron plays here next Friday. Not much is known about this team except that they were defeated by Brighton last week Thursday by a score of 14 to 0. The locals are trying to book some strong outside team to play here on Thanksgiving day.

OLIVET DEFEATS MUSKEGEON
Olivet college freshman romped through Muskegeon Junior college Friday for an 18 to 6 victory at Reed field, Olivet.

The yearlings made all of their scores in the first half. Swarthout found a hole in the line to run 30 yards for the first touchdown and Lindenfel blocked a Muskegeon punt and ran 15 yards for the second touchdown.

Swarthout, former Pinckney high school star, completed the scoring for Olivet when he again found a hole in the line. Muskegeon braced in the second half and held Olivet scoreless and made a touchdown themselves by intercepting an Olivet pass in mid field and running the field for the counter.

The Crimson yearlings will complete their thus far successful season next Friday when they journey to Hillsdale to play the Baptist frosh. This will be a preliminary fracas to the game between the varsities of Hillsdale and Olivet which will close the season for both teams.-Lansing State Journal.

No Foolin'

I lose a sale occasionally because of a long trade, and I always ask the buyer if his old tires were worth what he got for them.

Invariably he says no. I ask you, what's the answer? Is Santa Claus in the tire business? Is the dealer merely practicing? Or did his big tender, overflowing heart just get the best of him?

No foolin' now-what's the answer? Is Christmas a continuous event, or is someone keeping the doughnut and selling the hole.

I allow you for your old tires only what they're worth. I charge you for my new Goodyears only what they're worth. You get a square deal and so do I. And as long as I'm in my right mind nobody'll get anything different.

Misunderstandings

By LEONARD A. BARRETT

DISAGREEMENTS and disputes are due not so much to malice and selfishness as to misunderstanding. One of the easiest things in the world is for one person to misunderstand the motives and purposes of another. Disagreements are the more easily solved when two persons dispassionately meet together for the purpose of discussing the disputed point from the viewpoint of each other. Failure to do this has led to many a tragedy and broken friendship.

center the nearer do they get to each other. The best place to solve a problem is at the center of the radii of the different points of view.

The attitude of not respecting what the other person thinks is a very dangerous philosophy of life. Every person has the right to his own opinion and the right to express it cannot be denied. It is when people get together that good is accomplished. A house divided against itself cannot stand. A chain is no stronger than its weakest link. Your enemy may become your best friend when once you thoroughly understand each other.

If I knew you and you knew me, If both of us could clearly see, And with an inner sight divine The meaning of your heart and mine.

I'm sure that we would differ less And clasp our hands in friendliness, Our thoughts would pleasantly agree If I knew you and you knew me. (© 1937, Western Newspaper Union.)

Hints for the Man and for the Woman

By VIOLA BROTHERS SHORE FOR THE GOOSE—

JUST think how much more unbearable life would be if every time you said, "How are you?" people was to answer the truth.

Two is company where a crowd is lonely.

FOR THE GANDER—

A man can sometimes go up in a woman's estimation by refusin' her some'm. But every woman despises a man that makes a promise and renege.

"Here is a pack of chewin' gum," makes a more lastin' dent on a woman than "I'll get you a string of pearls."

Glass No New Idea

Glass was known to the ancient Egyptians at a very early date. The tombs of the fourth and fifth dynasties, about 4000 B. C., show glassblowers at work. It was also known to the people of Phoenicia, Assyria, Babylonia, Persia, China, India, Greece and Rome.

Going Backward to Look Forward

By H. IRVING KING

THIS is for young ladies still unmarried. Go upstairs backward, into your chamber backward and get into bed backward. Drink some salt and water and if you dream of some one bringing you a drink of water it will be your future husband. This superstition is quite general in the United States and Canada.

The principal feature of this superstition is the backward movement enjoined. To put one's self in harmony with the world of spirits it is essential to reverse the order proper for the world of the flesh. William Wells Newell, in his introduction to Mrs. Bergen's collection of Current Superstitions, says of superstitions similar to the one under consideration: "There seem to be indications showing an original association of some of these usages with the lower world; such may be the significance of the backward movement. In order to put one's self in connection with the world of darkness it is necessary to reverse the procedure proper for the world of light. This principle, appearing in medieval magic, could also be illustrated from savage custom." But the principle of going backward, the principle of the reverse order, in magic antedates the Middle Ages and its existence among savage tribes would indicate that it was of primitive origin. And it is not necessarily the "powers of darkness" with which connection is established by the backward movement—though in medieval magic such was generally the object; but with the world of spirits generally. The reverse ritual might be called a phase of sympathetic magic, that ruling idea in primitive man's philosophy.

Time for Turkey Talk

By MARTHA MARTIN

AT THIS time of the year," said Grandfather Turkey, "I like to talk to all the turkeys in the barnyard."

"Gobble, gobble, gobble," said the other turkeys. "Do talk to us, Grandfather Turkey."

"Yes, talk to us," said Teddy Turkey. "Tell us anything at all. We're well fed and we feel like a little rest. We don't feel like wandering or adventuring."

"No," said Grandfather Turkey, "of course not."

"Why do you say 'Of course not'?" asked Teddy Turkey.

"Ah, you are but a young turkey. You do not understand," said Grandfather Turkey.

"Won't you explain it to me?" asked Teddy Turkey.

Now Grandfather Turkey was much pleased when Teddy Turkey asked to have Grandfather Turkey explain his speech. There was nothing Grandfather Turkey enjoyed more than explaining and talking and strutting and gobbling.

"Yes, I will explain many things," said Grandfather Turkey, "and I will do so as soon as you all gather about me."

So all the turkeys gathered about

Grandfather Turkey and he began to tell them of many things.

"First I have a little news of the barnyard to tell," said Grandfather Turkey.

"Jackie, the horse, is devoted to the little girl who is the daughter of the farmer.

"Whenever Jackie hears her footsteps he begins to neigh. Yes, he knows her by her footsteps and doesn't wait until he sees her.

"Then he kisses her when she comes to see him and she kisses him, too.

"Oh, they are the best of friends, and it is very sweet the way Jackie called one of the reasons it has been called horseradish is because it is so strong an herb and horses are supposed to be so strong.

"I heard one of the Turkey children saying the other day that it must be a radish vegetable for a horse!

"It is in the spring when people eat it, mostly. How did you happen to hear of it?"

And Grandfather Turkey spoke to the Turkey child whom he had heard speak of horseradish a little time before.

"I heard the farmer's daughter telling another little girl how much she liked it and then I wondered if it could be that she enjoyed hay and oats and other food for horses!"

"Gobble, gobble, gobble," laughed Grandfather Turkey.

"Well, now I must tell you Turkey truths.

"The reason you do not want to wander away and adventure forth these days is because you are being so well fed for either Thanksgiving Day or Christmas Day.

"Then you will be eaten, without a doubt, or, at least, very likely.

"But to make up for that kind of an ending you are given so much food before that time to fatten you up (which is very pleasant) you do not care to go away.

"It would be very foolish if you did: I must tell you a little Turkey history, too.

"Our ancestors, or those Turkeys who came before us, were from Europe, then they went to Mexico, and then they became domestic turkeys and now are thoroughly American.

"But our wild turkeys of this country are not our nearest relatives and they're not the ones from whom we art descended.

"Oh, we have our own history. Let no one think as they see us gobbling and strutting in the barnyard that we have no history.

"For we have—history and geography, too—for our ancestors have traveled, and it is interesting to know that, too.

"Ah yes, gobble, gobble, those of our family who finally end up on a platter have had a history back of them, at any rate!"

"I Will Explain Many Things," Said Grandfather Turkey.

neighs when he hears her in the distance.

"Then there is one other thing I wish to say before I begin to tell some Turkey news.

"That is that horseradish is an herb and people grate it and then put vinegar on it and eat it.

"I don't know why it is called horseradish, Turkey children, but I do know that horses don't eat it. I have heard

THE SLEEPING SICKNESS

By F. A. WALKER

THE health department of New York some time ago reported a rate of four new cases a day of the mysterious malady known as sleeping sickness.

The patient goes to sleep and remains dormant for days or weeks, some of them never awakening, others waking for a few minutes and immediately relapsing into coma.

The disease, when it first made its appearance, was supposed to be a result of influenza. Later, cases have developed when there has been no influenza.

No treatment seems to be effective in accomplishing a cure, the only procedure being to sustain the strength of the patient by nourishing feeding and waiting for nature to overcome the strange attack.

Sleep, natural or unnatural, has been a scientific mystery ever since the first human lay down to rest and, closing his eyes, lapsed into unconsciousness.

We go to sleep by degrees. One by one the senses become inactive. The first sense to disappear is sight. We eliminate that by closing our eyes.

After sight goes taste, smell and touch and when those four have become dormant we are sound asleep.

The sense of hearing never entirely stops. It is the sentinel sense, duller in action than when we are awake, that stays on the job while the others are resting.

When we are asleep we are in a condition next door to death. Only the administration of an anesthetic brings us nearer to the condition of lifelessness.

Some people and some animals sleep very deeply and soundly. With them the unknown sense which awakens us from sleep seems to be less keen and active.

Some people require, or think they require much sleep, others do with very little. Some of the lower forms of life are said not to sleep, at all.

The ant, one of the most continuously active of all living organisms, has never been found asleep. It will work without cessation for periods as long as 12 hours and then, after a short rest but without sleep, it begins again its feverish activity.

Is there some possible way by which man could go without sleep? If there is no one has ever discovered it.

Soldiers in the war were carried to the limit of endurance without sleep and marched when the motions of the limbs were practically automatic.

It is impossible to overcome, by any means now known, the demand of the senses for rest and no effort of will-power can conquer it.

DIURETIC STIMULANT TO THE KIDNEYS

Standard for Generations

Mrs. Ira Fry of Le Mars, Ia., writes: "For six months I had rheumatism. I had swelling of the limbs, stiffness in the joints and cramps in the muscles. I suffered greatly from backache. My limbs felt heavy and I had a dragging sensation across my loins. I had a great deal of pain in the top of my head, was often dizzy and had flashes of light and floating spots before my eyes. I had heart flutterings and could not sleep well. My appetite was poor and I felt heavy and sleepy after meals. I suffered from shortness of breath. After taking one box of Dodd's Pills I was greatly improved." At all druggists, 60c per box, or The Dodd's Medicine Co., Inc., 100 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y.

Uncomplimentary
Little Dolly knew all about the hand organ and its accompanying monkey, for she had been amused by them frequently in the street.

When she heard a church organ for the first time she watched the organist long and earnestly. Finally she caught sight of the blower, who was pumping up and down in the background. "Mother!" she exclaimed. "that's the biggest monkey I ever did see!"

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Jury Scandal Causes Mistrial in the Falls-Sinclair Case.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD
MISTRIAL in the case against Albert B. Fall and Harry Sinclair in Washington was declared by Justice Siddons and the jury was discharged, because of alleged attempts to fix one or more of the jurors and because they all had been subjected to shadowing by operatives of a detective agency. Both the prosecution and the defense agreed that a continuance of the trial with the present jury was improper. The grand jury immediately began investigation of the matter and it was expected that several indictments would be returned.

The fixing charges were based mainly on seizures made in a raid on a hotel room where 16 Burns detectives assigned to shadow the jurors had had headquarters since the trial started, and on affidavits attributing to one juror, E. L. Kidwell, statements that he would come out of the trial "with a car a block long" and that the jury would not agree on a verdict. The raid disclosed that reports were made daily by the detectives to A. Mason Day, head of the Sinclair Exploration company. Mr. Day refused to testify before the grand jury on the ground that he might incriminate himself. Kidwell, waiving immunity and clearing the charge against him was a "frame up," told his story to the grand jury. Fall issued a statement to the effect that neither he nor anyone acting in his behalf had any knowledge of or connection with the alleged attempts to tamper with the jury.

Collapsing of the trial came when the government had practically completed its presentation of a strong chain of circumstantial evidence to prove that Sinclair paid Fall $230,500 in Liberty bonds for the Teapot Dome lease and had traced by a score or more of witnesses the passage of the bonds from the treasury of a company in which Sinclair was interested into Fall's bank account. It was thought unlikely that the new trial could begin before January 1, owing to the necessity for reassembling the government's witnesses from all over the country.

SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY MELLON, backed up by Undersecretary Mills, presented to the house ways and means committee his plan for a tax reduction program, making recommendations that would result in a cut of approximately $225,000,000. His specific recommendations were:

A reduction of the tax on corporate income from 13 1/2 to 12 per cent. Amending those provisions of the law that apply to the tax on corporate income so as to permit corporations with net income of $25,000 or less and with not more than ten stockholders to file returns and pay the graduated individual income tax as partnerships at their option.

A readjustment of the rates applicable to individual incomes that fall in the so-called intermediate brackets, the effect of which would be to cut taxes for all persons with net incomes of $18,000 and more.

On succeeding days the committee heard from various business groups which urged a more extensive tax reduction than Mr. Mellon recommended, and from agriculture, as represented by the American Farm Bureau federation, objecting to even so much of a cut as favored by the treasury and advocating applying surplus funds instead to the retirement of the public debt. The majority of the committee seemed in favor of the Mellon program.

AGRICULTURAL leaders from the corn belt and the southwestern states held a two-day conference in St. Louis and before adjourning adopted resolutions strongly endorsing the McNary-Haugen farm relief measure and condemning every one who opposed it. Those attacked by name were President Coolidge and Senators Borah of Idaho, Bruce of Maryland, Reed of Missouri and Fess of Ohio. Presidential possibilities were freely discussed by the speakers, and though no one was named as the farmers' choice, the name of Frank O. Lowden was frequently and warmly applauded. There was talk of a third party, but it was not mentioned in the resolutions.

Besides asking for the passing of the McNary-Haugen bill or one similar, the conference requested members of the house from the West to "insist upon the adoption of a house rule under which 175 members can by petition take any measure from any committee and place it upon the calendar for a vote." This was an effort to prevent the death of farm legislation in the house. Demands also were made upon the Republican and Democratic parties to carry out their national platform pledges adopted in 1924, with respect to farm relief.

DWIGHT MORROW, the new ambassador to Mexico, seems to be making a good start toward settling amicably the troubles between that country and the United States, and President Calles shows a disposition to do all he can to assist in the process. One day last week Calles took Mr. Morrow out to his hacienda at Los Reyes for a breakfast of ham and eggs and they were said to have spent several hours discussing the most serious questions in American-Mexican relations. Mr. Morrow's exceeding good humor on his return to the capital indicated that the negotiations started suited him, and it was said he and the President would have other informal conferences. It is understood in Mexico City that the ambassador will undertake to negotiate a new treaty of amity and commerce to replace the one rescinded several months ago. Many Americans already have been presented to him matters which have been pending since the departure of former Ambassador Sheffield.

AFTER a fight of several years to adjust salaries so they would be proportionate to expenses, the Southern Pacific railroad has won a victory before a Mexican federal arbitration committee, which will prevent workmen from tying up the operations of the company.

The committee issued a decree declaring the strike of the Bolshevik railway union at Empalme, where the Southern Pacific has its large shops, to be illegal and ordering the men to resume work within three days or be dismissed. The decree also applied to the shops at Mazatlan. It authorized the reduction of the working week in the shops to five days of eight hours each.

GOVERNOR ADAMS of Colorado sternly warned the striking coal miners out there that they must cease picketing under penalty of arrest, so the I. W. W. leaders who are conducting the strike decided to abandon the illegal practice. For it they substituted the holding of mass meetings of the idle men near the mine shafts at the times when workers were coming off shift. The operators and citizens objected to this as merely another form of picketing, which would intimidate the miners who wished to work, but at this writing the governor had not stated what action he would take, further than to say that he does not yet contemplate issuing an order calling out the National Guard. In the southern field the operators said many men were returning to work.

JAPAN started off the week with a review of the entire naval forces of the empire by the emperor in Yokohama bay. On board the great battleship Mutsu, the ruler passed through eight long lines of 172 vessels, ranging from superdreadnaughts to submarines and hospital ship and including the new airplane carrier Akagi, displacing 27,000 tons. No planes took off from the latter, but swarms of them from the Yokohama base flew over the fleet.

Comparisons showed that since the Washington treaty of 1922 the fleet is less powerful for offense, but is stronger and more efficient in everything except capital ships and is well adapted to its task of defending the empire. Its light cruiser strength has increased from 127,000 tons to 195,000 tons.

The British government, according to the London Daily News, is soon to let contracts for eighteen naval vessels which will cost more than $55,000,000. These are to include nine destroyers, three cruisers and six submarines. This is part of the greatest British program of warship building since the armistice.

ALL records for traffic and tolls on the Panama canal were broken in October. There were 537 transits, and the amount collected was approximately $2,380,000. These figures do not include naval vessels. Congressman Madden of Chicago has been inspecting the canal and announces that work will begin as soon as possible on the Alhajuela basin project, which will create additional water storage of about 22,300,000,000 cubic feet. This will cost $10,000,000, and when it is completed an additional lock at each lock station will be built at a cost of about $100,000,000.

CIVILIAN members of the Chinese Nationalist party in Canton have formed the first regional government, for the Kwantung and Kwangsi provinces, and announce that, tired of the military scheming and discussion, they will devote themselves to domestic improvement and will not waste the people's funds in military adventures. While not openly severing relations with the Nationalist government in the Yangtze valley, the Canton group declares itself the highest Kuomintang authority and issues an invitation to other Kuomintangists interested in the establishment of civilian rule and not dominated by militarists, to go to Canton and ally themselves with the Canton regional administration.

CHICAGO mourned last week the loss of one of the city's most eminent men, John J. Mitchell, banker and philanthropist. He and Mrs. Mitchell were killed in an automobile accident. Other notable victims of death were Maximilian Harden, German editor and foe of the former kaiser; Archbishop J. G. Hardy of Omaha; John Luther Long, author and playwright; Miss Elizabeth Harrison, pioneer in kindergarten work, and Florence Mills, negro theatrical star, who had become so popular in the United States and Europe.

TERRIFIC storms swept the coasts of Great Britain and Ireland and scores of persons, mostly fishermen, were drowned. The property damage was heavy, being estimated at nearly $30,000,000.

Final figures of the lost in the sinking of the steamer Princessa Mafalda off the coast of Brazil put the number at 314. Of the first-class passengers 55 per cent perished; of the officers, 45 per cent. The crew lost only 16 per cent of its members.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE is making plans for his trip to Cuba to attend the Pan-American congress that opens in Havana January 16. He has named Charles Evans Hughes to be head of the American delegation, the other members being: Ambassador Fletcher and Ambassador Morrow, who will come, respectively, from Rome and Mexico City for the meeting; former Senator Oscar W. Underwood of Alabama; Morgan J. O'Brien, lawyer of New York; James Brown Scott, author of several books on international law; Ray Layman Wilbur, president of Leland Stanford university, and Dr. L. S. Rowa, director of the Pan-American union. To this list the new ambassador to Cuba will be added as soon as he is appointed.

BARON FRIEDRICH VON PRITZ-WITZ UND GAFFRON has been appointed German ambassador to the United States to succeed the late Baron Von Maltzou. He is only forty years old and began his diplomatic career at the Washington embassy. An attempt to kill Admiral Paul Kondurotis, President of Greece, was made by a young Communist in Athens. One bullet was fired which struck the admiral on the forehead, inflicting a slight wound.

Mustapha Kemal was re-elected President of Turkey by the national assembly. His cabinet is being reconstructed under the premiership of Ismet Pasha.

PEOPLE OF THIS LAND OF PLENTY LACK HUMILITY?

Comparison of Our Times and the Pilgrims'

Thanksgiving day has become associated, in a natural enough manner, with the idea of plenty—an idea that is translated into the concrete on all American tables that day. Ours is the land of plenty, a fat land, a rich land, and on that day of the year Americans commemorate and celebrate the fact by partaking of good cheer.

The custom comes down to us, as we all know, from a generation of Americans which did not have plenty and had the best of reasons for being thankful and testifying their gratitude when the lean season was past and a fat one came.

There have been vast changes in our land since the Pilgrims inaugurated this practice which their descendants still follow. The early givers of thanks were thankful for the little that came to them after faithful labor and harsh struggle. We who have much, and have it without hard struggle, also are thankful for what we have, but probably are a trifle too complacent about it and a little too likely to imagine it comes wholly through our deserving. Having much, and regarding what we have chiefly as means of administering to our pleasure and comfort, we rather curiously testify our thankfulness for it by administering to our pleasure and comfort in extra fashion on the day of thanksgiving. We suppose it really would be more appropriate if we should fast on that day.

Some Cause for Thought.

But all this is to consider only one phase of our plenty, the plenty represented by a full table. This is a symbol of our material prosperity, and perhaps is not the one we should too fixedly contemplate. What we should do, probably on this day, is to look about and inquire a little to see whether our plenty exists in other forms. If we find it doesn't, perhaps we shall have occasion some time to make Thanksgiving day what it originally was, a commemoration of our success in supplying by our own labor and struggle what we have lacked. Then we would have a little better understanding of the meaning of Thanksgiving.

Most of us will agree, we think, that America's plenty is not as well rounded out as it should be. Our fatness is a little too much in our turkey, so to speak; our richness in the material tokens that are useful only in giving us possession of material things. Our plenty does not extend to our education, our patriotism, our culture, justice, tolerance or public intelligence. In these possessions America is deficient, and for the very sufficient reason that we have not labored and undergone sacrifice and hardship to get them. Nor can we get them in any other way. We cannot buy them with our wealth as we do turkey; and if we could, we never would have occasion to be thankful for them. Thankfulness implies some humbleness of mind, and that can come only through a sense of sacrifice. Nobody can be truly thankful for anything that has come without personal effort. That's why the British have created such a tremendous social and industrial problem by instituting the dole system. Nobody is thankful for it, least of all those who receive it.

Need for More Humility.

It is something of a question, then, whether an America rich only on the material or turkey side and poor on the spiritual side can keep up this Thanksgiving institution with successful results. Carlyle tells us there is

For fertile soil and kindly skies,
 For fecund seed, for strength and skill
 To sow and harvest the supplies
 Which now our bursting garner fill,
 We give Thee thanks, O Lord.

For every wise and holy thought,
 For all of worth that we have won,
 For every kindness we have wrought,
 For every kindness to us done,
 We give Thee thanks, O Lord.

For faith—of all thy gifts the best—
 The vanquisher of worldly care,
 For peace amid the world's unrest,
 For hope amid the world's despair,
 We give Thee thanks, O Lord.
 —John Power in Capper's Weekly.

nothing more hateful than a form or symbol from which all meaning has departed. Simulacrum, he calls it—a thing to become empty.

Thanksgiving day is worth preserving if we can preserve its meaning with it, but we shall never be able to do that if we come to think that plenty is fittingly celebrated by the display of plenty in the forms we have it, and hiding our lacks as things with which such a day has no concern. If Thanksgiving partakes something of humiliation and humbleness, as our forefathers conceived it, it is the things we lack in our national life and character, and lack because we have made no proper effort to possess them, that should be most in our thoughts that day. It is doubtful whether they are. Our Thanksgiving, we fear, is more a boast than an expression of gratitude. "An humble and a contrite heart" must precede any genuine expression of thanks. America is not particularly known for its humility.

Pilgrim Times, and Ours.

If we want to preserve this institution in the spirit of its founders we have only to follow their wise example. The things they lacked they acquired by effort. We do not lack the same things, as it happens. We do not, for example, lack turkey, and we are rather missing the lesson of the Pilgrims if we confine our efforts to acquiring only the things they had need to acquire. We suspect if they had lacked in the same measure the things we lack today they would have directed their efforts toward acquiring those things. But the Pilgrims had the form of plenty that is spirituality, and their wants were material. Our case is the direct opposite; but whereas our ancestors rounded out their plenty, supplying their deficiencies by labor and striving, we are satisfied to allow ours to remain one-sided, and our Thanksgiving to be a praise of plenty that represents too little of a race's struggle to acquire something it needs much more than the fitness of a Thanksgiving turkey. —Kansas City Star.

Nation Has Cause to Render Devout Thanks

The story of the conquest of our great area from its native wildness is one of the epics of man's existence. The richest heritage ever bestowed upon the human race has fallen to the American people. They are trustees for posterity in their enjoyment and administration. They have been wasteful and prodigal, but are learning and in some respects have learned the lesson of conservation. Millions of newcomers have been absorbed and have contributed strength as well as some weakness to the body politic. Industry has marked the decades of this great development. In many matters a pace has been set for the world in science and in business and in thrift. Out of these material activities has come a cultural advance.

Education has spread until it is now universal. The standard of living is higher here than in any other land.

It is well then that once a year the thought of the nation should turn to its blessings in gratitude and thanksgiving. The losses and sufferings that have befallen the people are the more bravely borne for this annual consideration of the bounties and the progress and the happiness that have marked the year. The nation's thanks are the more fervent for the realization of the sorrows of others.—Kansas City Times.

So Many Reasons for a Thanksgiving Heart

Now will I utter thanksgiving,
 For the berries on the kinikinnie slowly reddened and the intricate leaves of the wild geranium are scarlet fill-free.

For the willows in the canyon are bright bronze and the aspens softly clash their golden cymbals, swaying to the rush of the waters. Seeds of the clematis are tangled balls of pale silk.

Against gray walls barberry and woodbine show sudden sparks among their green.

In warm gardens pears drink the last heavy sweetness of the autumn sun and bees at noonday seek the late petunias.

Tonight over the darkening moon tains the "harp half-hoop" of the young moon stands upright in the western sky and red Arcturus burns through the early dusk.

Across the years, annihilating time, a poet speaks of autumn. I am silent, listening for his "wallful choir" of small gnats; seeing the "barr'd clouds" that he loved.

Thanksgiving for the rich labors of summer.

Thanksgiving for this pause of fruition.

Thanksgiving for the brave work ahead and the need to be strong.

I will utter thanksgiving now.—Clara Morris in Christian Science Monitor.

Ode to the Bird

The home poets are making merry at the expense of the forlorn Thanksgiving turkey, as in this rhyme, by the Tifton Gazette's columnist:

"The barnyard turkey struts around, all heedless of his worth per pound. 'Tis true he feels a trifle proud, and often states his thoughts aloud. 'But all the same I rather doubt if it is pounds he thinks about."

"He quickly gobbles what he's fed—nor knows that he will soon be dead. 'The wiser plan of staying slim has never yet occurred to him."

"He doesn't have the slightest dream of what Thanksgiving time will mean.

"He eats of this and dines on that, and grows attractive, sleek and fat. 'In ignorance, he struts around, quite heedless of his price per pound. 'I ask you, isn't this a shame? And yet I'll eat him just the same!"—Atlanta Constitution.

When Turkeys Were Cheap

"At the time when I removed to Kentucky," wrote Audubon, "turkeys were so abundant that the price of one on the market was not equal to that of a common barnyard fowl now. I have seen them offered for the sum of 8 pence each, the birds weighing from ten to twelve pounds. A first-rate turkey, weighing from twenty-five to thirty pounds, avoirdupois, was considered well sold when it brought a quarter of a dollar." Quite a difference nowadays when you go to buy your holiday bird.

HOW TIMBER FIRES OFTEN START

HOW TO PREVENT FIRES

- 1 Matches—Be sure your match is out. Break it in two before you throw it away.
- 2 Tobacco—Be sure that pipe ashes and cigar or cigarette stubs are dead before throwing them away. Never throw them into brush, leaves or needles.
- 3 Making Camp—Before building a fire scrape away all inflammable material from a spot 5 feet in diameter. Dig a hole in the center and in it build your camp fire. Keep your fire small. Never build it against trees or logs or near brush.
- 4 Breaking Camp—Never break camp until your fire is out—dead out.
- 5 Brush Burning—Never burn brush or brush in windy weather or while there is the slightest danger that the fire will get away.

A carelessly left campfire—a carelessly thrown match or spark—may mean acres of timber destroyed in a few hours. Only decades of slow growth will replace the loss.

Pine forests catch fire easily. Many travelers from states where there are no forests, or only hardwood forests, do not realize that our northern woods, composed largely of highly inflammable pine, will burn so easily. The underlying bed of leaves and dry pine needles acts like tinder in carrying fire from a spark dropped in it. Fires creep underneath this forest floor and appear in distant places.

Be careful! Help preserve the forest treasures for everybody's use.

CUT-OVER LAND DEVELOPMENT

When the virgin lumber was exhausted by lumber and logging operations, conducted for a number of years by the Wisconsin Land & Lumber Co. of Hermansville, Mich., this town became merely an ugly blot on the landscape.

The important question then arose of how best to utilize the cut-over lands so that they become a real asset to the entire state of Michigan and especially to this part of the upper peninsula.

After exhaustive research and study the idea was conceived to establish a resort that would be entirely different from the usual resort proposition. Blaney Park Resort which was recently dedicated to the public was the result of this idea.

The 22,000 acres immediately adjacent to this point now presents to the passing tourist and to the more permanent visitor a scene of beauty and attractiveness unequalled anywhere in the northern country.

As the motorist speeds into sight of Blaney on either of two of the important trunklines that penetrate the upper peninsula he finds a handsome commodious hotel; clean, attractive looking cottages and lawns, a complete waterworks and electric light system and in the distance a lovely little lake. A splendid nine hole golf course is being laid out by a professional golf engineer and in the background is a forest of mixed hardwoods and pine that affords the owner of nature every facility of exploring the woods and enjoying the trees, the birds, the game and the wildflowers.

Thus an old lumbering operation has been transformed into something artistic and useful in the way of development of the upper peninsula.

COMMUNICATION

Pinckney, October 23, 1927
I see by the papers that the Michigan High School Debating League which was organized by the University of Michigan has chosen for their subject this year—Resolved that the Direct Primary System of nominating candidates for public office should be abolished. Why and how this subject came to be selected would prove interesting reading beyond a doubt for it looks to the average reader as if certain interests which for years have been trying to undermine and destroy the direct primaries had succeeded in persuading the officials of the debate league to act as catspaws and help them pull their chestnuts out of the fire for them. Certain interests who have always been opposed to the primary and in favor of a return to the old money controlled boss ridden convention system of making nominations have been trying for years to effect this but up to date have found the going heavy and have obtained no success whatever. By some hook or crook they seem to have won the Debating League head over to their side to assist them in spreading their propagandist admit that the primary has its defects but however it is sound in that it upholds that great principle of American government, "That this shall be a government of the People, for the People and by the People," and not for any special interest or interests which waxed fat during the old convention days when the "long green" supplied by them and circulated by the bosses and heelers dictated the nominations at all times. However the papers and periodicals have been flooded with so much propaganda of late years that it is doubtful if this anti-primary dose of it will get across.
Yours truly
