BOY DROWNS at PORTAGE LAKE

Paul Cox age 19 years of Willis Mich. was drowned off Fox Point, Portage Lake at 2:00 P.M. Sunday He had come to the Lake with the class of 1927 from Willis to hold a reunion and was seized with cramps while swimming in deep water. His companion did not heed his calls for help as they thought he was joking The body was recovered and a pull-motor used without avail. Coroner Crittenden and Sheriff Wimbles of Howell were called and decided an inquest was finnecessary. The remains were taken charge of by P.H. Swarthout local undertaker and brought to his funeral home here. Monday morning they were taken to the family home at Willis. The deceased is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Cox and one sister.

John Gedert, aged 43 years of Detroit was drowned at Fonda Lake near Brighton Monday afternoon. The body was recovered three hours later by Undersheriff Sargison of Howell.

GAVE A FINE LECTURE

The illustrated lecture "From Caro To Cape" given by Col. Edwin M. George of Detroit at the Pinckney Community Hall last Saturday evening was attended by a large crowd and heartily enjoyed. The pictures were clear; 'well taken and the Colonel's description of them was so interesting that listeners could almost imagine themselves members of the expedition and vewing the scenes first hand, The pictures of elephants; lions,leopards,zebras, crocodiles, hipopotamuses, rhinoceroses, monkeys etc., taken in their wild state were so natural as to be almost lifelife. The pictures of the Nile, Pyramids, the Sphinx Victoria Falls and Lake Albert were beautiful. The views of native villages, the tribes in battle array, war dances with witch doctors at work as well as the different kinds of dress affected by the people and the walking trips proved interesting. The party covered 800 miles in this way, 275 porters were required to carry the baggage on these hikes. The luggage is carried on the heads of the native porters who cover about 80 or 90 miles a day. Their wages are 3 cents per day.

The treasury of the Community Hall Association is enriched to the extent of some seventy dollars and the Col. has agreed to give another lecture on India here in the near future.

BALL GAME HERE SUNDAY

There will be a ball game here between Hi-Land Lake and Pinckney teams. The former team is composed mostly of Detroit players and have been winning right along. Some of the players who will comete in the game with Dexter picnic day will take this opportunity to get a workout. The game will start at 3:30 p. m. sharp.

READY FOR BIG TIME

James Roche, Pinckney's veteran horseman has been at the Jackson Fair Grounds for some time working out his horses, Morgan Dewey and Diamond Dewey, at the race track there. He expects to start his season's campaign at the Oakland County Fair at Milford next week. Last year he won six first money purses and two second which is not half bad for a man who is past seventy years old. This year he expects to do even better than that.

Jim is about the oldest reinsman in these parts, Teachout, Lewis,McNamara, Erwin, Gregory, Stuhrberg, Green, Diamond, McCoy and other old timers have either retired or gone west.

LAKELAND CIRCLE MET

The Lakeland Circle of King's Daughters was entertained by Mrs. Buhl Burton and Mrs. Lee Mack at Strawberry Lake last Tuesday. There were 27 in attendance.

It was voted to hold an ice cream benefit social at the home of Mrs. Harry Whitlock of Winans Lake Hills [illegible] August 9. Ice cream and home made cakes will be served. An unusual stunt program is being prepared and a beautiful pink and white spread will be given away at this time. A very lively afternoon is anticipated and an evening of fun is planned from beginning to end.

The next meeting will be held with Mrs. Elmer Stofflet August 14 at Winans Lake Hills. Dinner will be served at one o'clock.

DANCE AT CHALKER'S

There will be dancing at Met Chalker's Patterson Lake Dance Hall very Saturday evening. Good music good floor and a good time promised.

NOTICE

During the illness of Dr. C. L. Sigler, his office will be in charge of Dr. Hollis Sigler who will be there every day from 3:00 to 5:00 P. M. He will also answer calls and be in charge of theSanitarium.

A GRAND BIG TIME ASSURED

The stage is all set for St. Mary's annual picnic here Tuesday August 7 and this one promises to surpass all others in excellence and drawing power. Enough chickens have been secured for the dinner to assure the biggest eater in the county a full dinner The program will consist of addresses by such able speakers as Ed. Shields of Lansing, George Burke of Ann Arbor and Lucius Wilson of Chicago. An effort is being made to secure the services of Senator Copeland of New York who has been visiting at Dexter

The ball game promises to be a hotly contested affair. The Dexter team will come loaded for bear. They trimmed Hamburg Sunday by a score 29 to 7 Their line up included such players as Vick formerly of the St. Louis Cardinals, Bob Knode of the Cleveland Americans, Heldner of Oberlin College Likly, Eck, Kratzmiller, Richmond, Haupt and others. Pinckney will also have a strong team Eddie Drinkert will catch and a team mate of his will pitch. Guy Kuhn, Howlett, Mc Clear, Lewis, Cooper and others will also be in the line-up

A dance for old and young will take place at the Community Hall in the evening. Music will be furnished by Granger's First Orchestra of Ann Arbor and taken all in all the picnic will be the best ever. If you miss it the regrets will be yours.

CHINCHILLA RABBIT INDUSTRY

With fur bearing animals becoming scarcer and harder to get each year, the fur dealers looked about for some animal more easily obtained whose fur would answer the market demand. This they claim to have found in the Chinchilla rabbit which is imported from England. The fur of this animal proved to be of fine quality and in big demand. In the last few years many people have gone into this industry and in a large part have been successful.

Frank Brenningstall of Petersville is one of those who have gone into this business and he now has about one hundred of these fine fur animals at his home four miles east of town.A Chinchilla buck and two does sell for about $100 and their fur is worth from $4 to $5, depending on the size of the pelt. Mr. Brenningstall has his pens arranged in a square and elevated on posts as it is necessary that the rabbits have ventilation in order to keep them healthy. They multiply about once every thirty days and grow rapidly. Their bill of fare consists of alfalfa hay and oat meal. The pens are kept clean and airy and the rabbits appear to be thriving nicely. Mr. Brenningstall also has some other varieties of rabbits such as New Zealand White, Giant Flemish Hares and a few Belgians. These are sold as pets or for game food.

He has also taken a whirl at the muskrat farming game having seventeen acres fenced on the Gilbert farm in Hamburg. The fence must go a considerable distance below the ground and be finely meshed to prevent the rodents from escaping. It is also necessary to obtain a state license to operate one of these farms and then the animals may be caught at any time. There were over a hundred rats there last spring when the farm was started but as they multiply rapidly it is hard to estimate the exact number now. In this enterprise Mr. Gilbert, the farm owner is associated with Mr.Brenningstall. The rabbits and rats are well worth seeing and anyone who visits this place will feel well paid for their time .

MAKING NICE HEADWAY

The paving gang are making good progress on the work of grading for the pavement in this village. The grade at the Teeple hill is about completed. It is about eight feet high at this point and 100 feet wide. They have a new method of grading. The dirt used for the filling in, is obtained by digging a trench in the center of the road about 5 feet deep and eight feet wide. This is then refilled by scooping in the dirt from the sides and in this way the required grade is secured. Another gang of men are at work putting in tile for the drainage. The men expect to have little difficulty in completing the grading by August 15th. They have moved from the Kearney house and are now quartered in the Homer Reason residence on East Main St.

LARGE SHEEP LOSSES

Livingston County suffers large losses each year from sheep killed by dogs. These losses have grown so that it is getting to be a question whether it is profitable to raise sheep or not as the amount allowed by the County is but a part of the real value of the sheep.

From January 1, 1926 to January 1, 1927 to January 1, 1928,$4,988.15 owed the farmers in this county for sheep killed by dogs .From January 1 1927 to January 1, 1928 $4,988.15 was allowed and at the July session the amount for six mounths was $2,186.95 The largest amount allowed at the last session was to John R. Martin of Putnam for $410.00. Fred Vescelius was the smallest with a bill of $10.25.

THE BEAUTIES OF LIFE

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

GREEN grass here,
And green grass there,
And blue sky nearly Everywhere,
And yet we sit,
We sit and sigh,
Don't see a bit
Of grass or sky.

Fine folks east,
And fine folks west,
Doctor and priest
And host and guest,
Fine folks met
Both near and far,
Yet folks forget
How fine they are.

Grand old earth
And grand old life,
And well, well worth
The toil and strife.
We talk of "me"
And "mine" and "his,"
And just don't see
How fine life is!

HOW TO PUT YOUR IDEA OVER WHEN YOU HAVE A GOOD ONE

By John Blake

NO NEW idea ever comes into this world peacefully. Its advent is always attended by bitter opposition.

From the very beginning a new idea combats other, older ideas which have had time to become authoritative and powerful. And these older ideas and the people who believe in them do not intend to be pushed aside without a struggle.

One example of a new idea is [illegible] as any other new theory or idea. It is bitterly opposed by many persons who fear that its coming may destroy their own conceptions or beliefs.

These are examples of ideas of universal influence. Every day sees the birth of countless thousands of comparatively insignificant ones.

Let us see if the same rule holds in their case.

[illegible] very common saying that if the initials of a person's name spell a word, the fact signifies that the person aforesaid will become rich. This superstition is a survival of a very old form of divination—one which was in much favor among the Romans. It is a form of that ancient art of divination by name called nomancy; and nomancy is based upon that conception of primitive man which regarded a close intimacy as existing between a man and his name. It exists today among most tribes living in a primitive state. An historic case of this divining by the initials of a name is that of the Roman soothsayer Jamblicus who predicted that the Emperor Valens would be succeeded by a man whose name began with T. Valens put to death a suspected rival whose name began with T, but was, nevertheless, succeeded by Theodosius. When the Romans erected nomancy into a "science" they established many arbitrary rules to govern it. It is undoubtedly in conformity with one of those now forgotten rules that modern superstition says that when man's initials spell a word he will accumulate riches.

as any other new theory or idea. It is bitterly opposed by many persons who fear that its coming may destroy their own conceptions or beliefs.

These are examples of ideas of universal influence. Every day sees the birth of countless thousands of comparatively insignificant ones.

Let us see if the same rule holds in their case.

If a new idea is good enough and if it is pushed hard enough it will usually triumph over inertia. But the triumph is usually hard won.

Anticipating inertia is half the battle. If you expect to have people oppose your best ideas you will not become discouraged when the opposition shows itself. Rather, it will make you fight all the harder.

Just remember that if neither Christianity or evolution could make their way in the world without a battle your own little pet idea could hardly expect to be more fortunate.

And remember, too, that the only way you can make your idea prevail is by pushing it and fighting for it.

Water Power Wasted

The Alto Parana river, which divides Paraguay from Argentina and Brazil, and its many tributaries, could make Paraguay an important industrial center. The power of these waters is practically unknown, but is estimated as having, in some places, a fall of 200 feet, and a force of 100,000 horse power. The Iguazu falls are regarded as even more powerful than Niagara.

BEDTIME STORY ABOUT THE PORCUPINES

[illegible] clothing on a [illegible] the ways of the porcupine family. He asked her to give him the power that day and evening to understand porcupine talk. And Mother Nature agreed.

So Billie Brownie went forth to the dark woods and there he met a porcupine.

"Are you all alone?" asked Billie Brownie.

"All alone," said the porcupine. "I like to wander about by myself. I'm not so very sociable. None of us are, you know."

"I'm not really sure whether I know that or not," said Billie Brownie. "I don't know much about porcupines. I may as well be quite truthful and admit my ignorance."

"I'm not surprised at it," said the porcupine.

But the porcupine explained himself after a moment.

"It is not," he said, "because I think you are an ignorant creature, for I do not. I feel sure you are filled with wisdom.

"But there are few who know much about porcupines.

"Now and again we squeal a bit or growl, but mostly we believe in being silent.

"Our mothers never have to say 'Hush' to us. We are so quiet by nature. And our mothers don't meet each other and chatter about the ways of their children. They, too, are so quiet.

"I Like to Wander About by Myself. I'm Not Very Sociable."

"We sometimes wander where there are camps. We are a little more sociable then and we rather like to see people camping out in the great woods. We like to eat vegetables and bits of bark and twigs and fruit and oh, dear, how we do love salt!

"Everything should be flavored with salt, and we even like salt all by itself or things that just have a salty flavor or taste.

"Sometimes we stay a long time at the top of a tree, especially when it is cold. We keep to the top of a tree then as people will stay indoors. I was one of four little porcupines and it was not so very long before I started away from home to look out for myself. We are independent creatures and are not little and helpless when we are born.

"No, we are quite good-sized then and we are born with all our splendid quills. I suppose you know how incorrectly these quills and what they can do have been spoken about?"

"I thing I know what you are going to say," Billie nodded, "but I would like to have you tell me again just how it is you act with those quills of yours."

"We swing our great spiny tails about and strike at the enemy and the quills stick into them. But we do not throw our quills. We have to touch the creature with them. So many think we throw our quills, and that is incorrect."

"That is about the only thing I have known about your family," said Billie Brownie.

"Well," said the porcupine, "the other day I was pretty mad. Some one said, 'Of what good are porcupines?'

"That was enough to make anyone angry, I think.

"Of course our flesh has been eaten and that has been considered good, but that is not the way I'd speak of myself as being of any good.

"I would say, 'Ladies and gentlemen! Porcupines are of great good because they are. This is the simple porcupine explanation. As we are not great talkers we do not use many words, and as we don't talk much we don't have to think much, and that is as satisfactory an explanation as I have thought up for all of you.'"

"Well," said Billie Brownie, "I think that is a good one. It satisfies me at any rate. And now, that the night is almost over, I must be off, for I have an engagement at dawn."

"Good-by," said the porcupine. "Your engagement at dawn doesn't sound so interesting, as we porcupines love the night time best of all."

SOME GOOD THINGS FOR THE FAMILY TABLE

By NELLIE MAXWELL

"The only reason a road is good.
As every wanderer knows,
Is just because of the homes, the homes,
The homes to which it goes."

SEASONABLE DISHES

LET us have a change for the ordinary method of cooking chicken and try this:

Chicken Gumbo.

Cook one medium sized onion finely chopped with four tablespoonfuls of butter, stirring constantly. Add one quart of chicken stock to which has been added one-half of a can of okra, two teaspoonfuls of salt, one-fourth tablespoonful of pepper, and one-half a green pepper chopped. Bring to the boiling point and simmer forty minutes.

Tomato Soup.

Cook one can of tomatoes with two cupfuls of water, two slices of onion, twelve peppercorns, four cloves, a bit of bay leaf and two teaspoonfuls of sugar, twenty minutes. Force through a puree strainer and add one teaspoonful of salt and one-eighth teaspoonful of soda. Melt three tablespoonfuls of butter, add three tablespoonfuls of flour and stir until well blended, then pour on gradually the hot tomato, stirring constantly. Simmer for five minutes then strain.

Potatoes Au Gratin.

Take small sized new potatoes; there should be two cupfuls cooked. Mix one-third of a cupful of grated cheese with one and one-half cupfuls of rich white sauce and stir in the potatoes. Put into a well buttered baking dish, season well and cover with buttered crumbs, at least a half inch covering. Serve when the crumbs are well browned.

Fruit Cream.

Soak one tablespoonful of gelatin in one-fourth a cup of cold water, dissolve in one-fourth of a cupful of scalded milk and add one-half cupful of sugar and one teaspoonful of lemon juice. Strain and set in a pan of ice water, stir constantly and when the mixture begins to thicken, add the whites of two eggs and one-half pint of heavy cream beaten stiff, one-third of a cupful of stewed prunes cut in pieces, three figs finely chopped and two tablespoonfuls of blanched and chopped almonds. Moisten and chill.

"His Nibs"

By Jean Newton

"HIS NIBS" is unmitigated slang for "himself"—usually in more or less sarcastic vein with the implication "the great man himself."

It is traced back to the old English word "neb" for face which came from the Anglo Saxon "nebb", originally the beak of a bird or tortoise and later extended, in a somewhat figurative sense, to signify the face or person. With the slang psychology in mind it is easily comprehensible how the contemptuous minded should have made this "His nibs"!

An early recorded use of the term, though in a gentler vein than its popular usage today, is found in the following excerpt from the old Chicago Herald:

"When the President's carriage arrives in front of the church, Albert Hawkins on the box, wearing a big bearskin cape as black as his face and driving the two big lumbering 'seal browns', there is gathered about the doors of the sanctuary a crowd of two or three hundred awaiting the arrival of the gentleman whom Tim Campbell of New York immortalized himself by speaking of as his nibs."

The modern way to make jelly, use PEXEL and get this never this

JELLY failure is a thing of the past. Pexel is here. It's a 100% pure-fruit product that always makes jelly jell. Absolutely colorless, tasteless, odorless.

Pexel makes any jelly jell by the time it is cold. With it, jelly is ready for the glasses as soon as it comes to full boil. Thus Pexel saves fruit, sugar, flavor, time and fuel. Right here it repays, from one to three times, the 30c it costs.

Get Pexel at your grocer's. A recipe booklet with complete recipes, accurate tables in each package. 30c. The Pexel Company, Chicago, Ill.

For example—with Pexel

4½ cups strawberry juice and 8 cups sugar make 11 glasses jelly.

4½ cups raspberry juice and 8 cups sugar make 11 glasses jelly.

6 cups currant juice and 10 cups sugar make 14 glasses of jelly.

4½ cups grape juice and 7 cups sugar make 10 glasses jelly.

New York Jews Move

Manhattan has had to yield to Brooklyn as the chief center of the Jewish population of the metropolis. A survey just completed under the auspices of the Bureau of Jewish Social Research shows Booklyn now has 45.6 per cent of the 1,720,000 Jews in the entire city.

The Brooklyn movement has all been into one-family, two-family and apartment house sections, the survey showed. Coney Island, with 96.7 per cent, comes nearest to being all Jewish of any section.

Music is the universal language.

It May Be Urgent

When your Children Cry for It

Castoria is a comfort when Baby is fretful. No sooner taken than the little one is at ease. If restless, a few drops soon bring contentment. No harm done, for Castoria is a baby remedy, meant for babies. Perfectly safe to give the youngest infant; you have the doctors' word for that! It is a vegetable product and you could use it every day. But it's in an emergency that Castoria means most. Some night when constipation must be relieved—or colic pains—or other suffering. Never be without it; some mothers keep an extra bottle, unopened, to make sure there will always be Castoria in the house. It is effective for older children, too; read the book that comes with it.

Fletcher's CASTORIA

Femininity Marks New Sports Duds

Softer, More Voluminous Silhouette, Subtle Coloring, Intricate Detail.

The new mode which is still showing the influence of femininity, is exhibited in the realm of sports clothes. Even coats entirely suited to activities in the sports world are showing traces here and there of a feminine feeling.

Various points that mark this trend are seen, for instance, in the tendency toward a normal waistline, the softer, more voluminous silhouette, the subtle coloring and intricate detail.

The sports coat is, of course, seen in all fabrics and in all colors and in a variety of cuts. There is seen among these new models the sports coat for beach and mountains of white flannel with its loose silhouette and slight tendency towards the voluminous. Then there is the collarless coat of bright velveteen—or angora with chevron stitcher edges, which, in its dash and colorful appeal, is proving highly popular.

Tucks, too, are prominent and in the soft woolens the lovely model of Louise Boulanger is beautifully copied. This shows a marked femininity of treatment in the tucked yoke and pockets and its swaying lines.

Scarf Is Prominent and Smart in Coat of Roman Stripes.

Belts are exceedingly smart and outline a nearly normal waistline. The trench coat, so smart for rain, motoring or travel, is smartly seen in off white shades in cotton gabardine. Scotch plaids, too, are cut in dashing lines suitable for traveling and motoring and are at their best in models which give attention to details—especially belts.

Frances Hamilton, featured "movie" actress in the picture "No Place to Go," shows the trend towards femininity in a coat of extreme chic and simplicity. The scarf, so exceedingly smart in all coats, is a feature of distinction in this coat of Roman stripes which is worn over a dress of gray flat crepe.

Beige With Yellow Cast; Flared Fullness Leads

The newer beige tones, and one hears of and sees much beige, tend toward a yellow cast. Vionnet apparently feels that one need not choose between beige and gray, for she frankly sponsors both, dove gray being one of the high lights of this very important collection.

Flared fullness is the basis of the afternoon and evening silhouette, and to a modified degree fullness follows through the entire gamut of fashion. It is variously distributed, but while heretofore front fullness has been the favorite arrangement, more and more women are being converted to the idea of back draperies and back fullness. This is possibly the result of the success of the flowing and dipping backline, a line that for evening has become the rule rather than the exception.

The great majority of smart evening dresses are of the period, or modified period, type. Flounces and ruffles are lavishly employed, which might indicate that sheer fabrics are the only possible choice. Such is not the case, however; there is a decided feeling for silks of the stiffer variety, although one has not yet reached the stage when one may pride onself on wearing silks that "stand alone," as was the proud boast of another generation.

Longer Dresses Bring Shorter Evening Wraps

Evening dresses are getting longer and evening wraps are growing shorter, says a Paris fashion correspondent.

To take care of billowing tulle skirts and trailing draperies the newest wraps have turned into jackets which occasionally reach only a few inches below the hips. Some have no fastening and are meant to be held in place or left open in the manner of a sports coat.

Some of the latest models have patch pockets.

Kerchief Scarf Lends Chic, Youthful Touch

The kerchief scarf is an important part of the charming outfit by Doris Dawson, the featured motion picture player. Miss Dawson's dress is of white silk which she wears so smartly in "Here Comes the Band." The dress is notable for its simplicity of line and its youthful appeal. A hand-blocked batik designed scarf is of paramount importance in making the outfit chic. A white felt hat of vagabond lines is most becomingly chosen to complete the outfit.

On Rearing Children
from CRIB to COLLEGE

Compiled by the Editors of "CHILDREN, The Magazine for PARENTS"

The supreme ambition of every parent should be to inspire in the child a love of truth that will make him strong in the face of temptation and fearless when he is right.

If your child is not eating his meals as you believe he should, do not force him to eat. His mental attitude will affect the assimilation of food. First, allow him no food between meals. Second, offer at first small amounts of temptingly served dishes, and by example, induce him to eat the variety of foods his body needs. Gradually he will learn to enjoy green vegetables every day, to be satisfied with fruit as a dessert, and to drink plenty of milk.

An interesting game for children is to set them to finding out the source of each thing they wear, eat or use on any one day. The answers can be found in an encyclopedia or in smaller works of reference. Another game might be to find out what chief American products go to the countries sending these various things. In this way the child would come to recognize the interdependence of nations.

Vacation time should be a time for "making repairs." Long before the end of the summer every parent ought to have his child examined by a physician and a dentist. Our schools are expensive, and children who are often absent through the school year because of sickness become economic liabilities in the community. The school class program is made for sound, healthy children.

Parents in all stations of life will do well to remember that worries about money matters are not so much in proportion to how much or how little money one may have, but rather how sensibly or how foolishly one disposes of what one has. A child can learn to distinguish between sensible and foolish expenditure by an opportunity to spend money and to profit by his mistakes.

The home must see to it that children are allowed to go to the theater often enough to learn to prefer the best plays to inferior types of entertainment. The same principle holds true of good music and good art.

Permanent habits of cleanliness are fostered not by punishment for lapses or by the payment of temporary rewards, but by helping the child to realize the sense of well-being that cleanliness contributes.

For the older child of five or six years gingham or cotton prints make attractive sun suits. To get the most complete benefit from the sun, light-colored fabrics are best. Thin, open-meshed white cotton fabrics are the most successful transmitters of the active rays of the sun. As the temperature climbs to eighty degrees it is safe to let the youngster play in the sunny part of the garden in his one garment for several hours a day. However, a long exposure of this kind should be worked up to gradually. If the small toddler is put in the sun for two hours on the first hot day, a sick child with a blistered skin will be the result. Tanning should be brought about even in healthy children by gradual exposures. On very hot days, ninety degrees or more, some protection for the head is advisable.

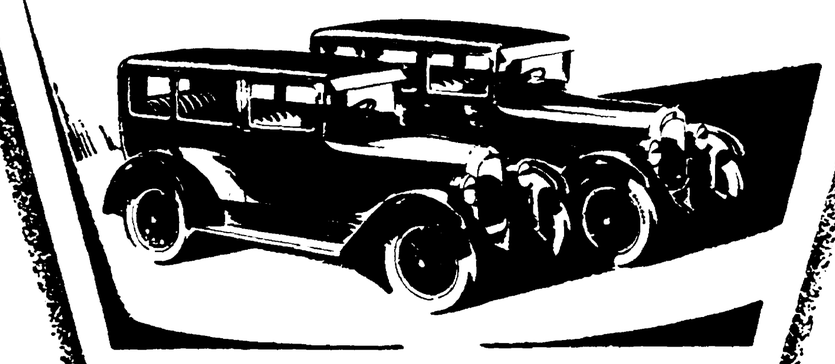
LOWEST PRICED SEDANS on the market

2,000,000 WILLYS-OVERLAND CARS AND GOING STRONG!



with quality, beauty and style dominating

In definite dollar-for-dollar value there are no 4-door enclosed cars on the market comparable to the Whippet Four and Whippet Six Sedans.

The perfected Whippet Four offers such desirable features as full force-feed lubrication, silent timing chain, extra leg room and powerful 4-wheel brakes. The new Whippet Six, in addition to these, provides a 7-bearing crankshaft, Invar-strut pistons and many other advantages.

Such notable values as these Sedans are possible only because of the skill and experience gained in the production of more than 2,000,000 motor cars.

Owners of Dogs Now Record Nose Prints

Just as persons can be identified by their finger prints, so dogs can be identified by their nose prints. That is what a dog expert in Chicago has discovered. He has found that the lines in a dog's nose do not change materially from the time the animal is 48 hours old until it dies of old age. Of course, the lines become larger as the dog grows from a pup to an adult, but the relationship of the nose lines remains the same.

Pet dogs are now often taken to veterinarians to have the prints of their noses made for record in case the animals are lost or stolen. The nose is smeared with black ink and the print made in the same manner that human finger-prints are made.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Eclipses

Before their nature was fully understood eclipses were regarded with superstitious dread, and many legends of dreadful occurrences are connected with this wonderful spectacle. In some parts of New Guinea they are regarded as portents of good seasons or success in battle, while in the Solomon Islands eclipses are credited to the machinations of sorcerers.

Inspiration!

My garden, with its silence and the pulses of fragrance that come and go on the airy undulations, affects me like sweet music. Care stops at the gates, and gazes at me wistfully through the bars. Among my flowers and trees, Nature takes me into her own hands, and I breathe freely as the first man.—Alexander Smith.

Who Knows

We often speak impatiently of the interruptions that hinder our work, but in our shortsightedness we may be sadly mistaking values. It well may be that the few minutes we give to helping or cheering another is the most important work of our whole day.

Never is work without reward, or reward without work.—Horace.

Small Mouse Tied Up African City's Power

A mouse paralyzed the electric power system of Johannesburg, South Africa, for three hours at noontime recently, caused a city-wide tie-up and brought injury to five persons. It poked its nose into a terminal box at the central power station. With a flash and a roar, a blinding sheet of flame shot out. Five men nearby were scorched, three of them so badly they were taken to a hospital.

Some 15,000 workers on their way home to luncheon on fast express trams were brought to a standstill. All electrically driven machinery in the city went dead, and many of the workers living at a distance had to go without their noonday snack altogether.

Species of Rat Pests

The Biological Survey says that the rat known as the "trade rat" is a native American rat. The name "trade rat" originated in the habit these rats have of carrying off food and small articles, leaving in their place whatever they happen to be carrying. Both the black rat and the brown rat are found in this country. The black rat is nearly 7½ inches in length, exclusive of the long tail. The brown rat attains a length of more than 13½ inches. Both feed indiscriminately on almost any kind of animal and vegetable fat. Trade rats are also known as "pack rats." Out west on ranches the word "pack" is used as synonym for "carry."

"Girl" in the Scriptures

The word "girl" occurs in the King James version of the Bible only twice, once in the singular and once in the plural. Joel 3:3 says: "And they have cast lots for my people; and have given a boy for an harlot, and sold a girl for wine, that they might drink." Zech 8:5 says: "And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets thereof."

A small town is the place in which even the poorest has green peas and strawberries in their season.

A Woman Pays By Check

If She Is Wise

In ages deep in the past, payments were made in any commodity you would accept.

Not so many centuries ago a transaction could be made with anything tradeable. It was at that time the "I promise to pay upon demand" originated.

The defenseless were "demanded to pay" often--being beaten into a paying mood.

In these days of advancement--wise people pay by check. The most convenient --safest --cheapest and most sensible way to transact affairs involving transfer of money. Employers should pay their employees by check. That's safest. Employees in turn should pay all bills by check.

Come in and let us explain how a Checking Account is the Ideal Modern Way to Handle Money.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Murder of Obregon a Great Misfortune for Mexico—Gossip of Politics.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

PERHAPS the greatest misfortune that could happen to Mexico at this time was the murder of Gen. Alvaro Obregon. Quite aside from the heinousness of the crime, the assassination of the president-elect removed from the scene the strongest and most progressive of the republic's leaders, and not only threatened the country with renewal of the chaotic conditions that have held it back for many years, but also imperiled the recently restored friendly relations with the government of the United States. The excellent work done by our ambassador, Dwight Morrow, in the latter regard was given powerful aid by Obregon and his administration, which was to have been installed on December 1, would have carried it on to the utmost.

Obregon was shot to death at a banquet in the fashionable resort of San Angel, 12 miles south of Mexico City, by a young man who has been identified as Jose de Leon Teral, an art student. The assassin was arrested but refused to name his accomplices or the instigators of the crime. A score of suspects were taken in custody. Alberto Cruz was immediately supplanted as minister of police by General Zertuche, one of Obregon's closest friends, and both he and President Calles promised that the murder would be cleared up and those guilty punished. In a signed statement Calles said the assassin had admitted that the motive of his crime was religious fervor, and the president added that the authorities had obtained much information "implicating directly clerical action." In conclusion, Calles said: "Finally I want to announce that the government will continue as heretofore within constitutional paths and with the requisite calmness and energy." This was taken to mean that he would not attempt to continue in office after November, as the Mexican constitution forbids direct succession of the president in two terms in office. However, that constitution has been altered before to fit circumstances and may be changed again.

Despite the words of Calles, it is scarcely conceivable that the Catholic church in Mexico as an organization or any of its responsible members can have instigated the murder of General Obregon. The relations between the church and the government had been steadily improving, and Obregon, though pledged to carry on the policies of Calles, was looked to as the man to settle the trouble finally. The best guess at this time is that the assassination was prompted by political enemies of the president-elect who utilized a weak-minded religious fanatic.

Telegrams deploring the crime were sent by President Coolidge, Vice President Dawes and Secretary of State Kellogg. In Washington Ambassador Tellez, though terribly shocked, said he was certain the tragedy would bring about the unification of all men in his country, sweeping away the disturbing and reactionary elements. He expected the old congress would be called in session to prepare for a special election. The permanent commission of congress already had been summoned to meet to consider the political situation.

WHILE mourning Mexicans were taking the body of General Obregon to his native state of Sonora for burial, Americans were sending home, with all possible honors, the remains of Capt. Emilio Carranza, the Mexican "good will" flyer who was killed when his plane crashed in New Jersey during a storm. After it had lain in state in New York the body was conveyed to Mexico on a special funeral train that carried also the aviator's father, an American army guard of honor and Mexican officials. The smashed plane also was taken back. All along the route the passing of the train was watched by sorrowing crowds, and at many cities the major general's salute of 13 guns was fired.

WHOLESALE bolting from either the Republican or the Democratic national ticket does not seem to be getting much encouragement in the country. The most ambitious attempts to bring this about are being made in Texas. There the anti-Smith Democrats have organized with the avowed intention of getting all the Democrats they can to vote for Hoover, and they are led by several men who have been rather prominent in the party in that state. They are making no attempt to defeat the state Democratic ticket, which disappoints some of the smaller fry who are disaffected. On the other hand there is also in Texas a group of anti-Hoover Republicans who are throwing what influence they have to the Smith ticket. In Asheville Bishop Cannon of the Methodist church, South, gathered about 181 men and women to plan for the defeat of Smith in the Southern states. Nearly all the delegates were preachers of the Methodist church, South, or paid workers of church or prohibition agencies. Sixty-six were from Buncombe county, North Carolina, of which Asheville is the county seat. No Democratic party leaders were present, and it was noticeable that the Baptists held aloof, except for Dr. Arthur J. Barton, who was made chairman of the meeting. The press was excluded from the real sessions.

Leaders of farmers' organizations in the corn belt still hope they can induce the agriculturists to oppose Hoover, and their meeting in Des Moines adopted a series of resolutions condemning the farm relief plank in the Republican platform and commending the plank inserted in the Democratic platform. Most of those attending this meeting declared their intention of supporting Smith, but there is still little reason to believe that their stand will induce very many farmers to change their political affiliations next November. The Iowa Republicans, large numbers of whom are corn belt farmers, held their state convention last week and unanimously indorsed the Hoover and Curtis ticket and the Kansas City platform, including its farm relief plank. The state platform condemned Al Smith for "his attitude on nullification" of prohibition and alluded to "Tammany's effort to fasten itself upon the nation." Earlier in the day Governor Hammill of Iowa had had a talk with Herbert Hoover on the latter's train, and he told the convention something of what the farmers might expect from Hoover if he were elected President.

Governor McMullen of Nebraska also had a chat with Mr. Hoover and afterward said the candidate had a comprehensive understanding of the farm problem, but the governor did not seem to have been won over to Hoover's support.

President Coolidge was Hoover's host for a couple of days at the summer White House and they fished and talked politics together, after which Hoover resumed his trip to California. It was saddened by the news of the death of Mrs. Hoover's father, Charles D. Henry, in Placer, Calif.

GOVERNOR SMITH was busy as a bee in Albany with political conferences and picture makers. Among his callers was Congressman Byrns of Tennessee, who assured him he would carry not only the solid South but also the border states. Al could see nothing to worry about in the stories of Democratic revolt in Texas or elsewhere. The report that Smith had selected Owen D. Young, chairman of the General Electric company and colleague of Dawes in the reparations work, to be the Democratic candidate to succeed him as governor was flatly denied on behalf of both the gentlemen.

SECRETARY KELLOGG'S anti-war treaty goes marching on toward complete victory. Last week it was accepted in principle by Great Britain and the dominions of Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Union of South Africa and by the Irish Free State and India. Acceptances also were received at Washington from Belgium, Poland and Czechoslovakia. All the answers, it was believed, would be found satisfactory by the American government. Approval had already been given the pact by Germany, France, Italy and other nations, and that of Japan was considered certain. If the various reservations of some of the governments, which are not radical, can be accepted, the final success of the great plan to outlaw war seems virtually assured. The treaty is to be signed during the coming fall by the principal powers and will go into effect with the deposit of the ratifications. It will remain open for signature by other nations.

PEACE between Poland and Lithuania is still an unaccomplished fact, and it is reported that Premier Waldemaras of Lithuania, relying on the support of Russia, is preparing to defy the League of Nations at the September meeting of the assembly or council of the League. The Poles have notified Sir Austen Chamberlain that they hold the League responsible for the existing state of affairs and demand full support in whatever measures they may deem necessary.

American members of the world court of arbitration at Geneva nominated Charles Evans Hughes for the vacancy created by the resignation of John Bassett Moore. Dr. Walter Simons is second choice for the place. Observers in Geneva were quite sure Mr Hughes would be elected.

REPRESENTATIVES of France, England, Spain and Italy last week signed a new accord on Tangier which gives Spain full command of the gendarmerie in the international zone of that country. A special commission was created to watch for and suppress intrigues against the Spanish protectorate. Italy was given increased representation on the legislative body of the international zone and was also given representation on the courts and similar tribunals.

ALL doubt concerning the death of Capt. Alfred Loewenstein, Belgian financier, who disappeared from his airplane while crossing the English channel, was dispelled by the finding of his body near Cape Gris-Nez.

THE Jacksonville scale as a basis for wage negotiations in the bituminous fields has been abandoned by the United Mine Workers of America, according to the action of the policy committee of the union, and hereafter each of the districts has the right to effect settlement with operators "upon a basis mutually satisfactory." Action taken by district officers must be submitted to the miners of the district for ratification.

The policy committee also authorized all district organizations to permit any coal company or any mine to employ all the men it may require for maintenance, repairs, development, construction or production of coal, providing the existing wage scale is paid temporarily until a district agreement is reached. The new policy is interpreted as a gesture by the union toward bettering the depressed conditions in the bituminous coal industry.

AMONG those claimed by death during the week were Giovanni Giolitti, Italian statesman and foe of Mussolini; D. C. Davies, director of the Field museum in Chicago; Henry R. Rathbone, congressman at large from Illinois, and William E. Harmon of New York, who as "Jedediah Tingle," had given large sums to unrecognized heroes, good children and deserving authors.

RECKLESSNESS in prohibition enforcement has again humiliated the American government. According to announcement by Secretary Kellogg, we have sent a note to the British government expressing regret and apology for the violation of the sovereignty of the Bahama islands last September when Larry Christiansen, commanding a coast guard rum-chasing boat, seized two boats off the Bahama coast, towed them into a Bahama port and then removed the liquor and prisoners to Miami. Mr. Kellogg promised that the coast guard would not again offend in that way, that the boats and liquor would be restored to their owners and that Christiansen would be transferred to another part of the country.

Prohibition administrators held their annual conference with Commissioner Doran and other Treasury department officials in Washington. Among other topics considered was the increased use of airplanes in enforcing dry laws.

Pay $2,500 for False Arrest

London Police Department Uses Own Funds as Balm for Error.

London.—If ever any American police department awarded damages from its own funds to a man who had been arrested and discharged, it is not commonly known, but that is what happened here.

Maj. Graham Bell Murray, C. I. E., a distinguished officer of the Indian army, who served in Gallipoli and France in the war and was twice mentioned in dispatches for both brains and bravery, has been awarded $2,500 from the funds of the metropolitan police district. He declares that he is entirely dissatisfied and that the loss of dignity and the expense to which he was put should entitle him to at least $25,000. On the face of the returns his claim would appear to be sound, but an American would say that he is a miracle man.

Led to Department Probe.

Major Murray's case is one of the causes celebres which brought about the appointment by the home secretary, Sir William Joynson-Hicks, of the street offenses committee to inquire into the numerous complaints that policemen have been recklessly arresting people without sufficient evidence on charges of insulting women, or of engaging in indecent conduct.

The charges have shaken the police system to its foundation, and have culminated in the famous Hyde Park case, in which Sir Leo Money, for eleven years a member of parliament, and a Miss Savidge were arrested for alleged improprieties by two policemen in Hyde Park, only to be discharged. The case of Sir Leo and Miss Savidge has become a grave question in parliament, has become a political problem, the Socialists going solidly against the police, and several suits being filed by Inspector Collins and the arresting officer against two weekly papers.

Major Murray was arrested last August 24 on the charge of being drunk and of peering, or leering into the faces of two women. J. Thurston, arresting officer, asserted that the women appeared to be very much annoyed at the time but they did not appear against the major when he was brought before Magistrate Mead at Marlborough street police court the next morning.

Thurston testified that the major was drunk and peering. No other evidence of the peering was brought forth, but Inspector John Clarke, at the Vine street station, and Dr. Ian MacPherson, a police surgeon, testified that the major was drunk. That made it an ordinary case of the police against a prisoner on the much-mooted question: When is a man legally drunk? But matters were complicated by the charge that the gallant major had insulted women and the women were not forthcoming.

Charges Rights Denied.

Furthermore, Major Murray charged that he was thrown into a cell and was not informed of his right to telephone to fellow members at the Junior Army and Navy club, which he had left a few minutes before he was arrested, nor was he allowed to call a private physician to examine into the question of whether he was drunk.

As the case involved the integrity of the police, Magistrate Mead postponed the case, but later he fined Major Murray 40 shillings, or about $10, with five guineas costs, or a little more than $25.

Major Murray appealed to the London Quarter Sessions against the police court decision. Sir Robert Wallace heard the appeal. Police Constable Thurston stuck to his story that the major was drunk and peering. Major Murray produced friends from the club who swore he was perfectly sober among them a few minutes prior to the arrest. Before the defense had finished calling witnesses Sir Robert announced he had heard enough. He reversed the police court decision and completely exonerated the major.

The case was carried to the street offenses committee and a subcommittee heard it all over again, with the result that Major Murray was exonerated once more and the award of $2,500 from the metropolitan police district fund was added as further balm.

Schwab's Caddy Tries to Please His Boss

New York.—"I made a very bad attempt at driving on the golf links the other day," said Charles M. Schwab. "A good many persons were standing around, and to direct attention from my own discomfiture, I turned to my caddy, a tow-headed country boy, and said:

"'That was your fault; you ought to have told me to keep my head down.'

"A little later, when I was about to drive again before the gallery, he called out:

"'Put your head down, you big slob.'

"And I did."

This Dispute Has Lasted 398 Years

Tegucigalpa, Honduras.—The second note of Frank B. Kellogg, United States secretary of state, regarding adjustment of the Honduran-Guatemalan boundary dispute, has been answered by the government in a note declaring that Honduras desired the President of the United States to arbitrate the long-standing controversy. A recent attempt to reach an agreement by a mixed commission under neutral chairmanship failed.

The dispute is 398 years old and involves former Spanish royal concessions in the Rincon de Jorge region on both banks of the Motagua river.

Vanishing Island Once More Rises From Sea

Apia.—Falcon isle has reappeared in the South seas. The island has emerged, disappeared and reappeared several times since it was first charted in 1845 by a British warship. Its present area is reported to be larger than ever before and increasing daily. The island is 40 miles west of Nukualfo, capital of the Island Kingdom of Tonga. It was claimed as a part of the British Tonga group when, early in June, the premier of Tonga swam ashore from a visiting vessel and planted on the volcanic heap the flag of Tonga.

Ten years after its first discovery Falcon isle disappeared. It rose above the sea again in October, 1885, then sank. Now it has come up again. An interesting feature of the situation is that whenever the island reappears it is rated as new land that may be claimed by some country.

Brother and Sister Meet After 60 Years

Niagara Falls, N. Y.—Marcus Heaslip, Dallas, Texas, and his sister, Mrs. Della Fero, Niagara Falls, Ont., who had not seen nor communicated with each other for sixty years, met here recently. They left later for Heaslip's home in Dallas.

Heaslip left home in St. Anne's sixty years ago and learned the printer's trade in Toronto. He drifted to the States and is now a proofreader in Dallas. His mother died and his sister married. He did not know the name of her husband and efforts he made to locate her were unsuccessful. A year ago he came to this city and visited his mother's grave at St. Anne's, near St. Catherine's, Ont. He gave his name and address to the sexton and when Mrs. Fero visited the cemetery several months later the sexton told her of her brother's visit. She wrote to Heaslip.

ROBIN, CAT AND DUCK LIVE TOGETHER IN PERFECT PEACE

Diversified Family In Massachusetts Home Eat From Same Dish and Do Stunts.

Greenfield, Mass.—A robin, a cat and a duck play together here in happy harmony.

The diversified family lives at the home of Louis A. La Shier. All the members would have been lonesome strays had they not been adopted by La Shier.

The robin fell from its nest last summer and La Shier fed it. Instead of flying away, now that it is grown, it seeks its cage when tired or sleepy.

Kitty showed up on the La Shier doorstep last January. The cat and the robin became pals almost immediately. The robin frequently flies to the cat's back and enjoys a ride around the house or a quiet perch while Tabby sleeps.

The duck is a comparative newcomer, but in a little more than a month it has learned to enjoy the companionship of the others. All three eat from the same dish, but generally the duck has separate accommodations on account of its large appetite.

The cat seems proud to draw the robin around the house on a little cart built for the purpose. When the cart is moved the cat runs to it to be harnessed. The robin shows no fear of human beings, and a whistle from its master calls it to him. The bird is delighted with music, showing especial preference for the xylophone, although it will perch on a violin bow when that instrument is being played. The duck will ring a dinner bell to call its mates to lunch or raise a little fling to the top of a tiny staff.

La Shier has a knowledge of animal training acquired as a youngster, when his father was employed by a circus.

Skipper Sails 157,000 Miles Close to Home

Washington, N. C.—Capt. Isaac O'Neal has piloted his little ship, a "bug-eye" schooner, 157,000 miles in the last 21 years, but the vessel has never been off the 75-mile run between this town and Ocracoke, across Pamlico sound, where the skipper lives.

Captain O'Neal has traveled a distance equivalent to more than six times the circumference of the earth in the bug-eye. Sometimes the sound is as rough as the Atlantic, with which several inlets connect it and it is even more dangerous to navigate, because it is shoaly and the water in rough weather is "choppy." But never has a person been lost from the one deck of the little ship, though thousands of passengers have made the crossing in it.

The schooner is a freighter, but the master has never refused to accommodate a person applying for passage.

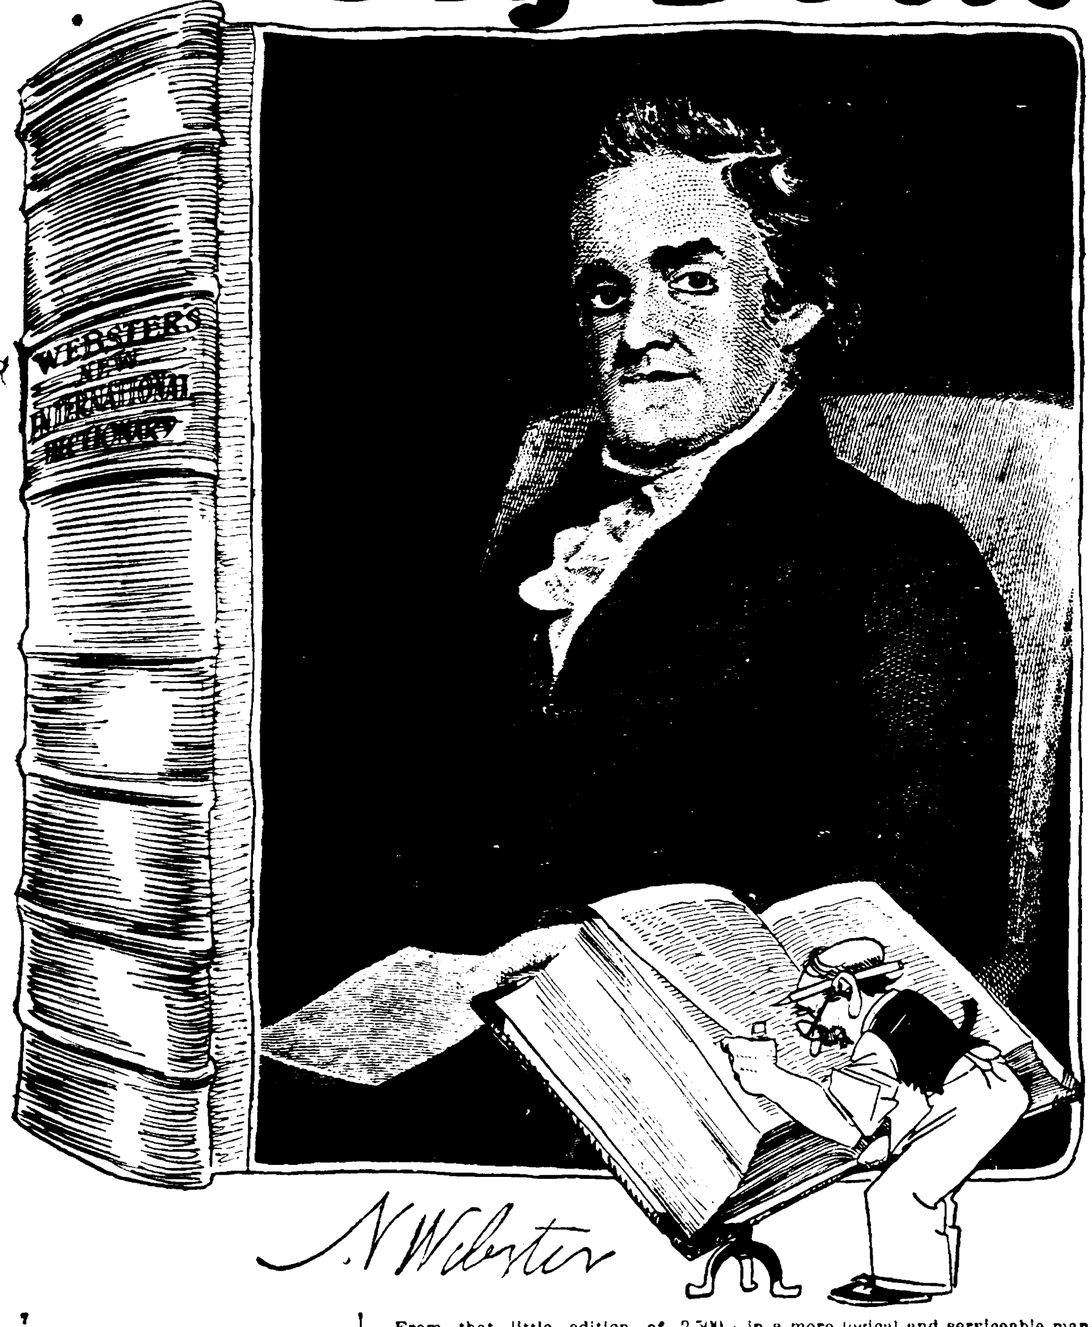
"Look it Up in the Big Book"



By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

IF, WHILE you're reading, you come across a word, the meaning of which you do not know, what do you do? The chances are that you ask somebody to tell you what it means, and the chances are, also, that that somebody will tell you to "look it up in the big book" or to "consult Mr. Webster." For that is what Americans have been doing now for exactly a hundred years—"looking it up in the big book" or "consulting Mr. Webster." For it was just one hundred years ago this summer that a scene of unusual activity was taking place in the print shop of Hezekiah Howe in New Haven, Conn., and just one hundred years ago this autumn there came forth the first edition of Noah Webster's "American Dictionary of the English Language."

Now, the issuing of a dictionary is not in itself a unique event, but the issuing of Noah Webster's dictionary away back there in 1828 was a noteworthy event, and in some respects the book itself was unique. Heretofore the English-speaking world had depended upon Dr. Samuel Johnson's for authoritative spelling and definition of words. But when the edition of 2,500 copies of the new dictionary, each consisting of two bulky quarto volumes of more than 1,000 pages each, appeared, Doctor Johnson's work was already obsolete. For Webster's book listed, defined and illustrated with appropriate quotations somewhere between 70,000 and 80,000 words and included 12,000 words and nearly 40,000 definitions which had never before appeared in any dictionary of the English tongue. Most of the definitions Webster had coined anew, doing virtually all of both the mental and manual labor involved unassisted. He also did some revising and simplifying, and it is to him that we owe the fact that we write it "honor" instead of "honour" and "traveler" instead of "traveller." But more than that, his dictionary was almost an encyclopedia in which he set a standard for accuracy and completeness of definition which governs the lexicographer's art of this date. In fact, nearly all of the later dictionaries have been based upon Webster's work and have preserved his identical words in a large number of their definitions.

From that little edition of 2,500 copies issued in 1828 have grown the millions of dictionaries which are to be found in the homes, schools and offices of the English-speaking world of today, and every one of these dictionaries whether it bears his name on its cover or not is a monument to Noah Webster, the Yankee schoolteacher and lawyer, who devoted forty-eight years of his life to a task which has enriched our language immeasurably. Although the words "Webster" and "dictionary" are synonymous in the minds of most of us, but few of us know much about the man, Noah Webster. Nine out of ten perhaps would confuse him with his distant relative, Daniel Webster, the orator and statesman. Yet it is not too much to say perhaps, that the contribution of Noah Webster to American life will be an important one long after that of Daniel Webster will have been forgotten entirely.

Noah Webster was the son of a poor New England farmer of West Hartford, Conn., who in 1774, when Noah, Jr., was sixteen years old, mortgaged his farm to pay his son's expenses in Yale college from which the boy was graduated four years later. Upon the day of his graduation his father gave him an eight-dollar Continental bill (worth about four dollars at the time) and told him that he could do no more for him. Although young Webster had intended to become a lawyer, he had no means to continue his studies into that field, so he had to resort to teaching to make a living while he studied law by himself—so successfully, it proved, that he was admitted to the bar in Hartford in 1781. He was unable to wait for a practice, however, so he again engaged in school teaching, this time at Goshen, N. Y., where he established a classical school.

There in 1782, foreseeing that America, after separation from the mother country would need to have its own school texts, he planned a "Grammatical Institute" to include a speller, a reader and a grammar. The speller was issued first, in 1783, followed in 1784 by the grammar, and in 1785 by the reader. The success of the now-famous "blue-back speller," still familiar to the older generation of Americans of today, was instantaneous and must have been amazing to the young schoolmaster. In preparing it, he had shown the same skill and sound sense which characterized his dictionary later. It was arranged in a more logical and serviceable manner than Dilworth's speller, the work of an Englishman previously used, and instead of dry passages from the Scriptures, he used interesting, if homely, anecdotes which appealed immediately to the children who for the next hundred years were to be impressed by the moral of these stories.

By 1815 the sales of the speller were averaging 286,000 copies a year. By 1828 they had risen to 350,000 copies annually, and by 1848 they were up to 1,000,000 a year. As late as 1880 it was still going strong, and it has been estimated that more than 100,000,000 copies have been sold since 1783. Webster's fame may rest mainly upon his dictionary, but in a sense the dictionary owes its existence to the speller, for during the remainder of Webster's life, and especially the twenty years he spent in compiling the dictionary, most of the support of his family came from the profits of this little blue-backed 15-penny book. In 1800 he gave up all his other work to devote himself to his dictionary. His original plan was to correct the errors and supply the omissions in older dictionaries, especially Johnson's. So he spent a number of years collecting words. Then realizing his own lack of knowledge as to the origin of words he changed his plan. For the next ten years he devoted himself to a comparative study of words, and when he was sixty-six years old, having exhausted all the resources of libraries in this country, he went to France and England to complete his work.

Finally his great task was done, and in the autumn of 1828, it came from the press. Not content to rest after a quarter-century of incessant labor on one exacting task, the sturdy old Yankee set about revising some of his earlier works. In 1840 he published a revised edition of his dictionary and he was in the midst of a second revision in 1843 when death came to claim him.

So the next time you come across a word whose meaning you do not understand, before you ask somebody what it means, think of the admonition of one chronicler of Webster's career—"If there is one too lazy to take the half-dozen steps necessary to reach the dictionary, let him picture the Connecticut scholar spending twenty-five years pacing about before his huge semicircular table, laden with dictionaries of all languages from Arabic to Icelandic, so that he might give his great work to the world."

Bubble in a Sapphire

There is exhibited in the British museum a sapphire weighing nine carats and containing a bubble that appears and disappears with changes of temperature. It is believed that a cavity in the gum incloses a quantity of carbonic acid gas under great pressure. When the temperature is such as to correspond with the "critical point" for the gas, under the particular pressure to which it is subjected in its brilliant prison house, it liquefies and becomes visible as a bubble.

Valuable Nettle

Nettles are usually associated with unpleasant sensations, but a species of the plant is widely cultivated in China for the manufacture of a soft silk-like fabric for textile purposes. In strength, beauty and texture it is said to compare favorably with the finest grades of silk and is less costly. The "grass cloth" of China has been used for more than 4,000 years Pineapple fiber is also employed in the manufacture of handkerchiefs and other articles.

Air Sickness Antidote

An apparatus has been installed at Tempelhof field, near Berlin, Germany, for passengers suffering from air sickness. Any passenger who fears that he may become airsick may inhale the antidote, which consists in the main of oxygen and cinnamon. The mixture has a quieting effect upon the nerves of the diaphragm.

Batteries are known to produce noises of their own. Corroded terminals in jacks and battery clips, corroded contacts and tube prongs are likely to become vocal if neglected. An open circuit in the audio circuit will produce a fine imitation of a 60 cycle hum.

POULTRY

EGG PRODUCTION SHOWS INCREASE

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Radical changes in poultry management practices the last few years are having a marked effect in lengthening the production season, according to Rob R. Slocum of the bureau of agricultural economics, United States Department of Agriculture, addressing the American Institute of Refrigeration at Washington.

Increasing egg production at an earlier date in the winter than usual and the production of out-of-season broilers have caused apprehension in the cold storage industry over the possibility of a decrease in the amount of cold storage space required for poultry and eggs, but Mr. Slocum assured the institute that the volume of these products produced and stored during the normal season will continue to be as great as at present, or even increase with the normal increase in population.

"It is probable," he said, "that both increased production of eggs during the fall and early winter and increased production of broilers out of the normal season will continue to expand. On the other hand it must be remembered that the great bulk of the annual egg and poultry crop of the United States is the product of general farms of the Middle West and only a relatively small part the product of specialized poultry farms. While specialized farms are increasing in number and importance there is no reason to anticipate that the farm flocks will not continue for years to come to produce the greater part of our poultry and egg supplies. Moreover, the eggs from these flocks will be produced largely in the spring months and the poultry raised will be hatched during the normal spring months and marketed during the fall and early winter. This being true, it follows that a large surplus of eggs will be available in the spring and a correspondingly large surplus of poultry in the fall and early winter which must continue to be stored for use at later periods."

Summer Poultry Feeding Plan of Ohio Specialist

Summer feeding schedule for laying hens calls for reduction in the amount of grain and increase in the amount of mash, say poultry specialists.

"Gradually reduce the amount of grain feed and increase the mash consumption in order to maintain summer production," says one of the specialists, P. B. Zumbro of Ohio. "It is wise to feed all the grain in the evening in order to make the birds hungrier for mash during the day.

"Another good plan is to keep the birds confined in the house until afternoon, if the house can be properly ventilated. This will stimulate mash consumption and at the same time allow ample opportunity for green feed.

"Another way is to put mash hoppers where you find the birds during the day—under a tree, in a shed, or wherever they congregate.

"Now is the time to start wet mash. Mix enough milk with the ordinary mash to make it crumbly wet, and feed such quantities as the hens will consume in a half hour."

Poultry Notes

Cleanliness is one of the chief factors in success with poultry.

Keep the coops for the small chicks at a distance from the hen house.

Now that the warm days have come the young chicks will appreciate plenty of shade and fresh water.

The nesting boxes should be in the darkest part of the hen house, and should all face away from the door.

On alfalfa or clover is the best place to raise chicks. Too valuable for that? Shucks, no. An acre, divided in two fields, so the fowls can be rotated, will take care of 500 chicks.

Skim milk and yellow corn meal are good feeds for young chicks if there is plenty of tender green feed within reach.

Inbreeding seems to be more harmful with turkeys than any other species of fowls. A gobbler can ordinarily take care of 15 or 18 hens.

If your hens have nests where the sun shines on them try to get the eggs as soon as they are laid, for one hour's sunshine directly on eggs will reduce the quality. Gather them carefully.

Sprinkle a little carbolic acid in the hens' dust bath occasionally. After each rain stir the dust and make it fine again.

Permanganate of potash makes a good addition to the drinking water. Enough should be used to make the water a claret color.

It is not too late to plant Essex rape for fall feed. Let the rape grow from five to six inches high before turning the poultry in the patch or they will kill it out.

Experiments Show the Value of Light Baths

By taking a holiday in Switzerland and sitting in the sun, five pit boys from the mines in Mansfield, England, have demonstrated the value of light baths for men and boys who work underground. A report of the committee which has been testing the usefulness of light in industrial hygiene has just been published. Following the Swiss experiment with sunlight baths, a clinic was opened and 50 volunteers from the mines, fourteen to seventeen years old, have had ultra-violet light baths several times a week for three months. At the end of the time, the boys had gained in weight an average of more than four pounds. Boys of the same ages who did not get the light baths gained a little more than two and a half pounds during the same three months. The boys who had the light baths gained in height more than the boys who did not. The clinic will be continued, and the committee report recommends that wherever pithead baths are provided, light baths should be established with them. The report warns, however, that artificial light baths should be given only under medical supervision.

It's hard to convince some people that honesty is the best politics.

MICHIGAN FIRST

State Summer Camp for DeMolays and Mason's Sons Leads the Way

Michigan as a state that is rapidly gaining fame as the summer playgrounds for the whole country now offers an added feature for the vacation se[illegible] the first of its nature i[illegible] the union. This refers t[illegible]maker for DeMolays," [illegible]amp for boys' recreation and training, located at Bear Lake in Manistee county, which through a recent action of the governing board has broadened its scope to include sons of Masons. The new title is "Camp Rademaker for DeMolays and Masons' Sons." The story of the development and future possibilities of Camp Rademaker is one that will not only interest the 150,000 Masons [illegible] Michiga[illegible] also their families [illegible] the [illegible]enry of the commo[illegible]th.

Camp [illegible] N[illegible]nor

About six years ago John H. Rademaker, mayor of the city of Manistee and one of the most prominent men of Northern Michigan, one who has always had the interest of boys close to his heart, donated a tract of 150 acres of land ideally located on Bear Lake. His magnanimous offer had only one stipulation, that the land be converted into a camp for DeMolays and as time progressed that it include Masons' sons and a tourist park for Masons

RAY OOSTING, DIRECTOR

Incidentally, the value of the lake front and site of this camp is conservatively estimated at $50,000. The property was deeded to the Grand Chapter Royal Arch Masons of Michigan, and this organization sponsored the permanent summer camp movement.

Is Being Rapidly Developed

Each succeeding year has seen rapid development, about fifteen thousand dollars having been invested in the camp up to the present time. There is an administration building, a mess hall, a double concrete tennis court, athletic fields, floored tents and other improvements. The property also includes two modern cottages. This season will see several lodges built for sleeping quarters, the unit plan being adopted by various Masonic bodies over the state.

There is a splendid camp site with conveniences for auto tourists, and there is no charge for its use. Application must be made to the Camp Director.

Located on Trunk Line U. S. 31 probably the most extensively traveled highway leading into the northern part of the state, Camp Rademaker already has attracted the attention of thousands upon thousands of tourists. This season the motto will be "See Camp Rademaker." The property occupies a full half mile on the east shore of Bear Lake and extends on both sides of the paved highway. Bear Lake is a wonderful body of water, several miles in size and having the finest beach of white sand to be found any place in Michigan. It is ideal for bathing, canoeing, motor or row boats, and fishing.

Prominent Athlete Directs Camp

The camp is under the supervision of a director and assistants who are trained in this particular line of work. Mr. Ray Oosting, basketball and track coach at Trinity College, Hartford, Conn., will enter upon his fourth season as Camp Director.

For everything that is worth while in outdoor life under the m[illegible] favorable surroundings, Camp Rademaker makes a direct appeal to young men. The age limit for eligibles is from 16 to 21 years, and reservations for accommodations during July and August must be made in advance. The quota of fifty for each week during these two months may be taxed this season in view of the camp broadening its scope, but it will be enlarged just as fast as the demand asserts itself.

Mr. Oosting is in personal charge of correspondence regarding the camp. His address until June 1st being Trinity College, Hartford, Conn.; then 322 E. Franklin St., Grand Rapids, until June 20th. His address from June 20th to Sept. 1st is in care of Camp Rademaker, Bear Lake, Michigan.

There is an illustrated booklet of Camp Rademaker which will be mailed to anyone dropping a card to Mr. Chas. A. Conover, Coldwater, Mich.

PICTURESQUE LITTLE "IRISH HILLS" CHURCH UNDERGOES TRANSFORMATION

The little stone church, at the upper left, St. Joseph's, in the heart of the Irish Hills, was built 74 years ago by the Irish pioneers who gave the beautiful scenic district its name. Below is the remodelled church, now attended, during the summer, by hundreds of tourists from all over the United States. The Rev. Fr. Joseph V. Pfeffer is pastor of St. Joseph's and six other Catholic missions in the vicinity.

After nearly three-quarters of a century of service to the Catholics of the district the little stone St. Joseph's Church in the heart of the Irish Hills, has been remodelled and enlarged to more than three times its former capacity. The new building [illegible] dedicated, Sunday, Aug. 5, by the Rt. Rev. Michael J. Gallagher, D. D., Bishop of the Catholic Diocese of Detroit, in the presence of what is expected to be the largest crowd ever to assemble in the section.

St. Joseph's stands on the old Chicago Turnpike, U. S. Highway No. 112. It crowns one of the famous Irish Hills, with the stones of its tiny [illegible] clustered about its feet and [illegible] Iron lake, in the immediate foreground and half a dozen [illegible] lakes in the vicinity. The location is nearly midway between Clinton and Cambridge Junction, in a [illegible] and historic section of southern Michigan.

The Irish Hills take their name from the [illegible] seven Irish families that came [illegible] from the "auld sod" in [illegible] and whose descendents still live in the neighborhood. There were the Kellys, Brightons, Egans, Marrs, Monaghans and the Nichols in that little band of immigrants. When they reached the heavily-wooded hills and valleys, with a dozen or more lakes spread out over the lanscape they would travel no further. It was too much like the "lakes and dells" of their native land. Here they settled and hewed the forests, planted the clearings, built their church, their schools and their houses, principally from the field stones of the neighborhood, and raised their families. Today there are few more productive sections in the state of Michigan and none surpassing the Irish Hills district in natural beauty.

For many years the Hills slumbered in the peace of a prosperous countryside. Few travellers knew of their beauties, because the railroads traverse the more level country. It was not until the automobile brought cross-country touring within the reach of everyone that the beauties of the section were brought to the notice of the many and the quaint little St. Joseph's church became overcrowded at Mass every Sunday.

A few years ago, when Father Pfeffer was sent to take charge of the Mission, he found that one Mass on summer Sundays was not enough to acommodate the crowds that came from Detroit and Toledo and Jackson and from almost every point of the compass. For two years there have been services at 8:30 and 10:30 o'clock each Sunday and early this spring Father Pfeffer decided to enlarge the church. The new edifice has a seating capacity of 350.

While the general plan of the old church has been preserved, the remodelled edifice, is in the Spanish type of architecture used so extensively by the Fra[illegible]an fathers in early California. [illegible]e of the features is the tower, w[illegible] rises majestically above the sur[illegible]ding trees and will become one of the landmarks of the whole region.

Father Pfeffer plans the erection of a wayside shrine which will add to the interest of the passerby. This shrine will be similar to that in the Church of Our Lady of Lourdes, in France.

Artificial Lace

There is no weaving employed in the production of artificial lace. The manufacturing is done by a machine, which consists in its essential parts of a receptacle containing a cuproammoniacal solution of cellulose, a metallic cylinder upon which is engraved the negative of the design and a coagulation vat. A rotary motion is given the cylinder, over which flows the solution, which, entering the interstices of the engraved pattern, fixes itself immediately in the coagulative liquid, out of which emerges the texture ready to be dyed and dressed. Artificial lace is both beautiful and unalterable. It will wear well and is less combustible than ordinary lace and is waterproof.

The Rain Gauge

The earliest rain measure, or gauge, was irst used in Korea, in the Fifteenth century. Galileo, Sir Christopher Wren and others experimented with measures, but the first gauge of which there is any authentic description was made in England by a Mr. Hooke in 1695.

The rain was collected by means of a funnel into a flask, weighed, and the weight converted into inches—a different method. It was not until 1891 that the late G. J. Symons designed a satisfactory pattern of gauge.

In his "storm" gauge an inch of rain is represented by 24-inch in the tube. Floats make reading easy. If one tube fills it overflows and registers accurately in the second.

Going Into Detail

A certain gentleman who bought a house as close to the station as he could possibly get it soon repented of his choice.

The following is a letter he wrote to the railway company complaining about the noise made by shunting operations throughout the night:

"Gentlemen, why must your engines ding and dong and fizz and spit and pant and grate and grind and puff and bump and chug and hoot and toot and whistle and wheeze and jar and jerk and snarl and slam and throb and roar and rattle and yell and smoke and smell and shriek all the night long?"
