NO MORE "FREE LOTS"
"Free lot" real estate promotion schemes must be discontinued in Michigan according to an edict by the State Securities Commission. The free lot method of boosting sales has led to bad practices, according to members of commission. Deeds advertise free lots to holders of lucky numbers or other selected persons. An exorbitant conveyance fee usually is charged. When the "winner" of the lot arrives at the site and looks at his prize he usually decides immediately he does not care for the free property and an effort is made to have him trade it on a high priced parcel.

FARTHER OF COUNTY FAIRS
As county fair time comes round again and rural America begins to get ready for participation in and enjoyment of this "typically American institution" it is interesting to note that it was a city man and not a man from the country who originated the idea from which the county fairs grew.
Do you know the story of this man who did that by exhibiting a pair of merino sheep under a great elm tree in the city of Pittsfield, Mass., more than 120 years ago? If you don't you can read about it in an illustrated feature article, "The Father of the County Fair" by Elmo Scott Watson in this issue of The Dispatch and you'll find it an interesting article, too.

WHO WAS IT?
Last week several people living in the vicinity of Col. G. O. G. gave preserve just west of town and a stranger loitering around for a number of days who seemed to be holding the 2000 acre tract in hand. The daily papers recently reported the escape of a convict from a road gang near Pontiac and it was concluded that he had succeeded in making his way here and was hiding out until the search was completed. Several years ago a convict named G. O. G. was captured by the police and a substantial reward offered for his capture. Spurred on by the reward George G. O. G. and several other men here but failed to find the reward. He was either secretly hidden away and taken away and his name was changed or he has not been seen since.

MUSKEGEON'S OIL WELLS
In less than eight months the discovery oil well was brought in Dec. 22, 1927, in the Muskegon township field there have been 22 completions and their cumulative production, four million and a half barrels of oil. The location announced on the 22nd of July, 1927, in the township field, has produced a total of 72. In compliance with the 10 wells of which 25 have been successful producers of oil and the Przeworski formation, by a gas well and a gas well have been announced. Six holes, it is reported that they have produced 1,400,000 lbs. of gas. The operating company is the Muskegon Oil Field, which will be the only well of nearly 15,000,000 cubic feet daily, or three times as much as the other gas in the field and attracted great crowds, as with the Wash-Sel well, which pumped out a well with a gas flow of 6,000,000 cubic feet and a production of 250 barrels of oil daily. The new well brought renewed interest in the field. In fact the interest has been increasing since the new well was put down to the Dundee with good results. However this well with its flow of 25,000,000 lbs. of gas will exceed the production of the most prolific.

Will Once More Sail High Seas, Stanch and Sea- worthy.

Boston.—Shedding the decay of 132 years, Old Ironsides is growing young again.

As the days pass in the drydock at the Boston navy yard the old frigate feels new ribs forming in its massive frame, new strength growing in its ancient hull.

But renewing the youth of the Constitution is a herculean task. Lieut. John A. Lord, U. S. N., grizzled master builder of such steel superdreadnaughts as the New York and the Arizona and designer and builder of wooden craft, too, is surgeon in charge of the operation.

Lieutenant Lord says the task in hand is like no other ever undertaken in marine engineering. Seventy per cent of the ship must be replaced, including its most vital parts. Original methods had to be devised, for it had reached a state of almost complete decay.

Difficult Task.

Lord has put two years of planning into the work now being carried forward. All he had to begin with was a drydock. Wooden shipbuilding at the yard ended 50 years ago. An improvised shipyard had to be assembled, with shops, lumber, sawmills and planing machine. From the wooden shipyards of his home state, Maine, he assembled a small but expert force of workers. These were augmented with navy yard workers, specially qualified.

Some of the equipment is quite ancient as machinery goes. A futtock saw, brought in from Portsmouth, N. H., to saw out those crooked timbers which, scarfed together, make the ship's ribs, is seventy years old.

Where it lies in drydock now the dismantled hull of the famous fighting ship is almost lost behind a screen of scaffolding and bracing. A cradle had to be thrust tightly about her bottom to hold her firmly together—a new method.

Within the ship, too, a small forest of braces and shoring has sprung up between the four decks. As he clambered up and down ladders, through hatches and down into the bottom-most part of the ship, Lieutenant Lord explained that all this was necessary. The danger of collapse has to be reckoned with in every step of the work, as decayed supporting timbers are removed and replaced by sturdy oaken beams. In the bow the sides are held together by a mass of steel cables.

Copper Replaces Iron.

The work is like reconstructing a worn-out four-story building in which the first floor must be torn out and repaired first.

In the bottom a new keelson was Installed which with a sister keelson makes the ship's center-line longitudinal strength 90 per cent greater. New futtocks fashioned of live oak from Florida, kept for 73 years under water, are placed between the frame ribs before the old are removed. All is bolted together, with bar copper everywhere replacing iron. Where the new cresote-drenched "ceiling" or inner planking approaches the berth deck the old craft's lines are as fair and pretty as those of any maiden ship awaiting launching.

From Delaware have come great curved white oak roots and from West Virginia long, straight white oak timbers. With modern methods of preservation the rebuilt Constitution should have a longer life than it had in prospect when first built.

England has locked up Lord Nelson's flagship Victory in a drydock. But even after repairs it will never sail the high seas again.

"The Constitution," says Lieutenant Lord, "nearly as old and in a similar decayed condition, will be fully restored, permitting it to appear again on the high seas fully equipped and rigged stanch and seaworthy, in all its glory."

Welsh Exhibit

Oldest of Laws

Cardiff, Wales.—The National Library of Wales is exhibiting an unrivaled collection of manuscripts of the Laws of Hywel Dda, one of the greatest of medieval Welshmen, who 1,000 years ago peacefully united Wales and codified the laws and customs of its people.

The oldest existing manuscript of the laws was written on vellum some time about A. D. 1175-1200, in Latin, and is illustrated throughout by crude but graphic colored drawings depicting the king and his chief officers—the judge, the chief groom, the cook and others.

A little later, about A. D. 1200, comes the oldest manuscript of the laws in the Welsh language, known as the Llyvr Du or Weun, or the Black Book of Chirk. This, too, is of vellum and is copied from an older Welsh manuscript no longer extant.

Humble Toad Classified as Friend of Farmer

The lowly toad is of great value to the farmer, according to the Department of Agriculture. The eating habits of toads give them an important place in nature, says a statement by Remington Kellogg of the bureau of biological survey. Although they are indiscriminate in their appetites, the obnoxious insects eaten by the toads more than compensate for the harm done by preying on those that are beneficial.

Toads are great gourmands, and in the course of a season eat untold numbers of insects, many of which are highly destructive to plant life. Large numbers of crop pests are destroyed by the toads. Meal time with toads often begins before sunset and continues throughout the greater part of the night; hence the food contains a mixture of diurnal and nocturnal organisms. In their night warfare on insects the toads take the place of the ground-fel insectivorous birds after these have ceased their activities for the day.

Coins Valuable Only to the Numismatist

Coins and currency once valued at millions of dollars make up the collection of Core C. Stanford of Gregory, S. D. The currency is worthless now, except to collectors. The most valuable piece in the collection was taken from ruins at Pompeii. One piece of Austrian currency, worth at one time $500,000, is in the collection. In United States gold coins, Stanford has 82 and 50 cents in single pieces, a 50-cent and 25-cent gold coin. He has United States paper money in 50-cent, 10-cent, 5-cent and 1-cent denominations. A silver piece in the collection is one of three peace medals given by the United States to Indian chiefs in 1871. He has an Egyptian coin with the pyramids stamped upon it. Money used in Hongkong has a Chinese emblem on one side and the English Queen Victoria on the other. Coins from the Philippines have Spanish inscriptions on one side and English on the other.

Inks in Bookkeeping

The use of red ink by many banks, particularly savings banks, to note interest is simply a matter of convenience, the interest being more easily distinguished from the principal sums by being written in colored ink. Any other color preferred may be used or it is not necessary to use a different color.

The life of an American reform is usually ten years; five years to get it, and five years to get rid of it.—E. W. Howe's Monthly.

Army to Try Out New

Powerful Explosive

Washington.—The region of Fort Humphrey, Va., will echo to the explosions of radium atomite, new explosive claimed to be more powerful than TNT, some time in August. According to the office of the chief of engineers of the War department here, Maj. William H. Lanagan of the board of engineer equipment, has requested such a demonstration.

A preliminary test of the explosive invented by Capt. H. R. Zimmer of Los Angeles, former army officer, was made at Pasadena by Lieut. Col. I. M. Adams of the California Institute of Technology. Lieutenant Colonel Adams reported to the chief of engineers, and the board, after examining his report, has decided that the new explosive "appears to have military value."

Henpecked Men Live

Longer, Man's View

London.—Dr. C. W. Kimmins, formerly chief inspector of the education department of the London county council, in an address to women at Leeds told of his "investigations with a group of henpecked husbands."

"I never knew such a group of happy, joyous creatures in my life," he said, "and I was glad to learn afterward that henpecked husbands live much longer than those who are not henpecked, because they live much more sheltered lives."

BIRDS AND WHALES SOON TO COME BEFORE LEAGUE

Probably Will Be Taken Under the Protection of the Geneva Body.

Geneva.—Birds and whales probably will be taken under the protection of the League of Nations.

As a matter of fact the league already has had a commission of experts at work for some time to see if an international convention cannot be launched relative to whales and other deep sea riches.

As regards the protection of birds, it is expected that the September assembly of the League of Nations will be asked to summon an international conference for the purpose of launching a new international bird convention to replace the 1902 Paris convention on the subject.

The migratory character both of birds and whales is such as to make any regulation relative to them necessarily of an international nature and hence within the scope of the league, while their economic value to the world as a whole is declared sufficiently great to justify the league's attention.

Both the convention on whales and the one on birds will have for their primary object the fixing of "open" seasons in such a manner as to relieve the world of any danger of the species becoming extinct.

The initiative for placing the protection of the migratory birds under the auspices of the league has been taken by the international committee on bird protection and various members of the league council have promised to support the resolution before the assembly authorizing the league to call an international conference for next year.

The necessity of protecting birds will be urged especially from the standpoint of agriculture, where they maintain a certain balance against the insect world, and also from the standpoint of game food.

Bed Offered for Rent

on Part Time Basis

Budapest, Hungary.—"Half a bed to let by decent family. Terms moderate. Inspection invited. Address Mme. Andressy, 42 Sander street, Budapest."

Thus read an advertisement in the newspaper Pestl Hirlop. In order to ascertain whether the advertisement was a joke or genuine the correspondent went to the address indicated. After climbing six flights of stairs he reached the flat where a kindly looking old woman opened the door.

"Do you see?" she said. "You can have this bed from 8 p. m. until 8 a. m. the following morning. Times are so hard in Hungary that some persons cannot afford to hire a room or even a bed for permanent use. When a tenant happens to work in the daytime he rents his bed during the day to one who works at night."
