WAS A BIG SUCCESS

The free barn dance given by Col. George at his game preserve west of town was largely attended last Thursday evening. It is estimated that over 300 people were present. Patrick Kennedy who opened the large gate for each car says he counted 95 autos which passed through and there were a number of Detroit people who passed before he went on duty. The barn, formerly stood on the Col. George's estate at Bloomfield Hills, was taken down piecemeal and brought here this summer. It is 90 ft. long with dormer windows along the roof on both sides. The dancing which consisted mostly of old time square dances, waltzes and quadrills started early. The Undalla trio, composed of Al Pyper, Mike Hudson and Roy Palmer furnished the music and the call was done by Harry Frost. The greater part of the dancers were old people who had been absent from the dance floors for many years but could still give the youngsters pointers on tripping to the old time melodies. Col. and Mrs. George and their daughters were present and took part in several quadrills. Henry Ford who had planned on attending was unable to come. Following the dancing an ample lunch was served to the merry makers by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Haynes consisted of sandwiches, doughnuts, baked beans, cheese, pumpkin pie, apples and coffee. The Col. provided to be an excellent host and made every effort to give his guests a real enjoyable evening. When the improvements on the place are completed we understand that he will allow the game preserve to be used as a park provided that no guns or dogs are brought in by the visitors.

FLORIDA LETTER

Editor Dispatch:
With to correct a wrong impression of the recent storm that invaded Florida. Of course, it came from the West Indies and did much damage. The people at Lake Okechobee district have been warned 8 days previous to the storm and had ample time to evacuate homes for safe territory they did not do so and many lives were lost in consequence. The Lake already full ran over the banks and drowned many. The hurricane part of storm can not be denied, it was terrible. It was headed for Tampa but deflected and raced into middle of state. They never suffer ill effects of storm in this sheltered quiet part of state. We know not when a tornado may visit us but are not inviting it or similar catastrophe by worrying over it.

Yours truly

C. H. KENNEDY

With the coming of Christianity this first dynasty gave many other pagan festivals and superstitions. The early Christian leaders and became All Saints or All Souls' day. These leaders could not easily deny the existence of the sun gods and convince new converts to the faith but they considered humans the children of evil, that is, out of black magic. So it came to be the universal

Nine of the thirty-four States co-operating with the Federal Government in the distribution of forest planting stock under the reforestation provisions of the Clarke-McNary law, distributed 60 per cent of the total. For the year 1927 the total distribution was 59,629,529 trees. Leaders in reforestation are Pennsylvania and New York, which distributed 65 per cent of the total number of trees.

"It was a terrible thing to be born on Halloween. In Ireland the story is still told of the fate of Red Mike, who was a queer one from his birth, an' no wonder, for he first saw the light between dusk an' dark of a Halloween eve!" At a party a test proved Mike's soul to be all black and foul. In anger he cried, "I've the gift of sight, I have, an' on this day my curse can blast whatever I choose." At that the priest showed a crucifix and he ran away howling, to disappear through a bog into the ground.

The pagan origin of the festival is seen in many of the traditions which

In Scotland was observed the ceremony of pulling kale stalks, or stalks of colewort. Young people were led hand in hand, blindfolded, into the kaleyard, or garden, and each pulled the first stalk he met with; they then returned to the fronside to inspect their prizes. As the stalk was big or little, straight or crooked, so should be the future wife or husband; the quantity of yird (earth) clinging to the root indicated the tocher (wealth), or dowry; the taste of the pith or custock indicated the temper. Then the rants, or stalks, were placed over the door, and the Christian names of the first to enter thereafter were those of the individuals whom the respective parties were to marry.

In the first census in 1790 the population was only 3,929,214. In 1920 the enumeration showed there were 105,710,620 inhabitants in the United States. In 1910 the total was 91,972,200, making an increase for the decade from 1910 to 1920 of 13,738,354. If, as has been estimated, the total for the continental United States during the coming census passes the 120,000,000 mark, the increase for this decade will be slightly greater.—Washington Star.

DOG LEADS MASTER TO BURIED WEALTH

Poverty-Stricken Man Helped by Pet.

Danville, Ky.—Because his pet dog led him to treasure trove of 1,800 silver dollars, James Ashe, aged and poverty stricken, who lives near Danville, Ky., believes Providence has favored him for upright life. Ashe lives alone in a small habitation. He was walking through a field when his dog jumped a rabbit, which fled to an old tree stump.

The dog dug furiously about the stump and Ashe began removing the accumulation within to scare the rabbit and see what there was there. In a few moments he found the top of a kettle, then loose pieces of metal, discolored by age. Cleaning one, he discovered it was a silver dollar.

Ashe continued his excavation until he had removed a large copper kettle, apparently full of coins. He could not carry it far, and hid it in the underbrush. He told a friend of his discovery, and they took the kettle to Ashe's home. The coins were cleaned and counted. There were 1,800 silver dollars, none bearing a date later than 1858. It is believed robbers of long ago buried the money and never returned for the loot, or that some antebellum miser placed his hoard there. Another theory is that the treasure may have been buried during the Civil war to prevent roving soldiers or guerrillas from taking it.

Seismograph Notes

Quakes of the Heart

Potsdam, Germany.—Lovers' hearts that pound like earthquakes form a familiar poetic simile, but German science is reported to be taking it literally.

The study of heartbeats by the same instrument used to record earthquakes, the seismograph, is a recent accomplishment of Dr. Gustav Engelheiser, earthquake expert of the Geophysical Institute at Potsdam, near Berlin.

Placing patients on a heavily built couch connected to a special seismograph, Doctor Engelheiser obtains records of every shock and quiver produced by the throbbing heart, precisely as though these were shock waves broadcast through the globe by an earthquake.

The doctor's seismograph magnifies by several thousand times heart shocks transmitted to it. The vibrations are then recorded on a moving strip of photographic film.

Physicians now study the action of the heart, Doctor Engelheiser and his medical associates point out, by indirect methods, either by sounds or by electric changes.

The old-fashioned stethoscope or even an ear pressed to the chest permits one to hear the heart sounds and these now may be magnified and recorded by modern electric apparatus. Similarly the electric changes accompanying the heartbeat are recorded by the instrument called the electrocardiograph.

Ex-Kaiser Still Signs Himself "All Highest"

Amsterdam.—German visitors to the home of the ex-kaiser at Doorn receive a card signed "by order of the all highest," according to "De Telegraaf," in a spirited article condemning royalist intrigues.

The article points out that Wilhelm Hohenzollern abdicated the throne and his rights ten years ago. It is absurd, it continues, for Wilhelm to continue to style himself "emperor and king."

"The practice may be nothing more than harmless vanity, but it might become a serious situation at any time," the article warns while calling upon the Dutch government to see that Wilhelm does not misuse the hospitality extended to him.

The cards are issued when visitors sign the guest book.

Bars Small Girls

New York.—Small girls are now barred as public school teachers. Applicants must be at least five feet tall. Those under that height are presumed to lack commanding personality.

Edible Earth

Tokyo.—A strange edible earth upon which man might subsist indefinitely exists on the slopes of the volcanic Mount Asama, near the popular summer resort of Karuzawa.

Pretty Pet Skunk Follows Small Boy

Berwick.—It may have been a little lamb that followed Mary to school one day, but it is a skunk that follows six-year-old William Grassley.

The boy stroked and fed the animal when it was found, just a tiny creature, in the cellar of the Grassley home, and it became his inseparable companion. Thoroughly domesticated, it trails William about six inches back of his heels.

Wherever he goes, so goes the skunk, and there usually is a crowd watching the perambulations of the lad with his strange pet.

The animal is a particularly pretty one.

BARTER WIVES BUT MAKE HORSES PALS

Parents Arrange Marriages Among the Buriats.

Washington.—The Buriats who recently joined the Mongols in destroying a portion of the Chinese Eastern railway came into the spotlight two years ago when the Russian government banned wife stealing among members of the race in Siberia.

"Theft of wives is not a traditional custom among the Buriats. Marriage among them usually is effected through an exchange of children arranged by their parents," says a bulletin from the Washington headquarters of the National Geographic society.

How Wives Are Exchanged.

"When the parents of a young Buriat swain decide he should have a wife, they consult the parents of an eligible maiden and offer a daughter in exchange for her hand. If there is no daughter to exchange, the son's wife is, in effect bought by a gift of cattle. Frequently, among the well-to-do Buriats, the bride's dowry of furs which would be valued at thousands of dollars on an American fur market, offset the 'price' paid for her.

"Buddhist temples with their prayer wheels which 'say' thousands of prayers per revolution and Christian churches are found in Buriat villages; but both Buddhists and Christians attend Shamanistic rites at some of the mountain-top shrines. Shamanism is nature worship. Adherents of Shamanism believe that rain, the rivers, the wind and the mountains are peopled by gods. The higher into the mountain the Shamanist goes to worship, the greater favor he receives from the deities. Frequently worshippers climb to the mountain-top shrine where, amid chanting and weird contortions of Shamanist priests, the Buriats make their sacrifices on a sacred fire.

"The Buriat and his horse are inseparable companions. A horse often is tied to his owner's grave to starve to death in order that it may follow him in death. Good horses are scarce so the heirs sometimes manage to appease the gods by substituting a useless hack, or they tie the good saddle horse by such a flimsy thing that it soon frees itself and wanders back to the village.

"Few automobiles have penetrated the land of the Buriats, which lies in regions adjacent to the southern shore of Lake Baikal. The Buriats spread their villages all over the landscape without regard to streets. The nomads near the Mongolian border live in yurts, dome-shaped tents built of interlaced flexible sticks covered with skins or felt.

Expensive Rugs in Crude Huts.

"When a Buriat settles down he frequently builds a hut, but no matter how elaborate the new abode may be, it usually bears some resemblance to the yurt. Some leave a smoke hole in the roof and build their fires in the center of the floor as in the yurt.

"Though house furnishings are few, rugs adorning the floors and walls of the well-to-do indicate that the Buriat likes display, and if the tribesmen can afford it, he will be seen strutting about the village in silken robes.

"Tea drinking and smoking are common habits of the Buriat, both among adults and children. Some of the tribesmen wear broad silk girdles in which they carry their pipes and tea cups.

"When the Russians first met the Buriats in the sixteenth century, the latter were true children of nature. Many of them made their living by fishing and hunting, while a few were stock raisers. The Russians taught them agriculture, and succeeding generations of Buriats surpassed the average Russian farmer in farming."

More Cotton Dresses Worn, Inquiry Shows

New York.—Six weeks of direct investigation, supplemented by information furnished by nearly 250 firms and individuals, has led the new uses section of the Cotton Textile Institute to conclude there is an increasing demand for cotton dresses and piece goods. President Walker D. Hines announces.

The conclusions reached are that more cotton dresses are being worn; more cotton dresses were made and sold during the summer of 1928 than in 1927; retail sales of cotton piece goods this summer were larger in volume than in 1927, and retail stores have been advertising fine cotton goods more extensively.

The report says the trade is confident 1929 will be a big cotton year, but has suggested that the popularity of cotton fabrics will depend upon superior styling.

Turks Establish Model Villages for Farmers

Jerusalem, Palestine.—Introduction of modern and scientific methods in agriculture evidently is fostered actively by the Angora government.

So-called model villages are being erected a number of places. Heads of the Sivas vilayets, situated in the heart of Anatolia, have been asked to name some place in the districts under their respective administration for conversion into model villages.

In such villages modern plows and other agricultural implements are distributed free of charge. The idea is that model villages should be so centrally located as to allow farmers of the surrounding country to profit from their advancement.

BLACK CAT BRINGS LUCK TO FRIEND

Act of Rescue Results in $7,000 Catch.

Wildwood, N. J.—The tradition of bad luck which has been woven about the black cat was destroyed recently, at least for Capt. Hiding Peterson of the fishing schooner Clifton. As the result of his kindness to a stowaway black cat, in prohibiting his crew from throwing it overboard to prevent a jinx, the captain is $7,000 richer than when he put out from Wildwood Gables.

When demands came from the fore-castle to toss the cat overboard, Captain Peterson refused and shared his cabin with it. At dawn during the skipper's watch the cat followed him to the deck and sprang to the rigging, clawing its way upward to the empty crow's nest where a lookout had not yet been stationed.

The captain climbed the ratlines to its rescue and from the high place saw a large area of the sea broken by baby mackerel trying to escape the attack of a school of bluefish.

Dories were lowered quickly, encircling the entire school with seine, and three hours later the Clifton sailed into Cold Spring Harbor, the deck waist deep in bluefish. Captain Peterson was at the wheel, a black cat perched on his shoulder.

The catch, the record of the season, filled more than 400 barrels and brought $7,000 at the docks. The crew raised a fund to buy the cat, now the pet of the ship, a silk cushion, several cases of condensed milk and plenty of can openers.

Experts Report U. S.

Free of Dengue Fever

Washington.—Except for sporadic cases, the United States has been practically free since 1922 from dengue fever, the disease which has swept over Athens and Piræes in the last few weeks.

Official reports received by the public health service indicate that almost the entire population of those historic centers has been affected by the epidemic, and some idea of the general misery it has caused is undoubtedly possessed by thousands in this country who passed through the last American outbreak six years ago in Texas, Louisiana, Alabama and Mississippi.

The disease is one which seldom ends fatally, but once it starts spreading it attacks large numbers of persons. The victims are incapacitated for varying periods, and, as in sea sickness, their suffering is of an exceptionally distressing nature.

It is known in this country as "breakbone fever" owing to the deep-rooted aches which are its principal symptoms.

Vacuum Sweepers No Worry to Corn Raisers

Oklahoma City, Okla.—Broomcorn producers, watching with increasing alarm the sale of modern housecleaning equipment, may not have as much cause for apprehension as the complexion of current market conditions indicate, federal investigators believe.

In answer to queries from Oklahoma, where 50 per cent of the American broomcorn crop is produced, G. A. Collier of the government market news service says that in relation to average consumption there is scarcely more than a month's supply of broomcorn carried over from 1927 and that pessimism is caused largely by the fact that dealers have a quantity of high-priced stock on hand.

The weather last year, he says, caused a decline in production and manufacturers bought brush at a relatively high price. There was no corresponding rise in price of brooms.

A Family Affair

Maryville, Tenn.—A double wedding in which four first cousins participated was celebrated here when Nellie and Beulah Gourley sisters, married Fate and Isaac Gourley, brothers. The father of the girls is a brother of the boys' father.

23 Ounce Baby

Liverpool.—A baby weighing only twenty-three ounces was born at the Maternity hospital.

Belled Buzzard Tragic Symbol Seen in Georgia

Sparta, Ga.—The famous "belled buzzard" or at least one of the species upon which someone has attached a bell, was seen by several workmen on the roof of Drummers' Home hotel here recently. The workmen said the buzzard flew low over the roof, before seeing them, and they could plainly see the small bell attached to the buzzard's neck by a small leather collar and could hear the tinkle of the bell. Buzzards with this distinguishing mark on them are seen and reported here occasionally but it is not known whether they are all the same bird or not.

Among the superstitions the appearance of a belled buzzard over a community is believed to forecast a tragedy. Numerous writers, among them Irvin S. Cobb, have made the belled vulture the subject for fiction themes.

Elephant's Growth Noted

It is extremely difficult to estimate by height or by size of tusks alone, the age of a young elephant moving with a herd. It is interesting to note the recorded growth in captivity of an African elephant named Bama. He was captured in the Bas-Uele, August 2, 1902. On that day he measured four feet two inches in height. A quarter of a century has now elapsed. He has remained throughout that time in his own district. He is now eight feet three inches.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Italy Also Rejects Anglo-French Navy Agreement—Smith Invades South.

BY EDWARD W. PICKARD

ITALY, like the United States, has rejected the Anglo-French agreement as a basis for future naval limitation. Premier Mussolini's note is not so abrupt as Secretary Kellogg's, but is just as specific in its objections to naval limitation by categories, and undoubtedly completes the destruction of the agreement.

The note reaffirms Premier Mussolini's declaration in the Italian senate last June, when he said, "Italy is ready to accept as the limit of armaments any figure, even the lowest, provided it is not exceeded by any other continental European power, meaning, of course, France. It insists, however, on consideration of all branches of arms, land, naval, and air, in any discussion for disarmament."

The Fascist note launches into a lengthy explanation of why it favors limitation of global tonnage for navies instead of limitation by categories. The argument is identical with that advanced by the American delegation at the tripartite naval conference at Geneva a year ago, and repeated in the American reply to the French-British memorandum.

"Each state must be left free to use its tonnage quota the way it believes it best answers its particular needs, both as regards the type of ships and its armament," Mussolini explains.

France, which admittedly would be the chief beneficiary of the agreement with England, is mighty touchy on the subject. Last week the authorities in Paris seized the person of Harold Horan, correspondent of the Universal Service, because he had cabled to New York a letter from Minister Briand had sent to French ambassadors regarding the interpretation of the pact, and compelled him to agree to leave the country. Mr. Horan's explanation was that his employer, William Randolph Hearst, had handed him the document with instructions to send it to America.

The British cabinet voted to make public all the documents and correspondence in connection with the agreement "as soon as practicable." It was necessary first to get the consent of all the nations concerned. Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary, who is now in California in search of health and a rest, declined to discuss this subject or any other affairs of state. He is suffering from neuritis in his left arm but is said to be getting better and gaining weight.

GEN. CHIANG KAI-SHEK, generalissimo of the Chinese Nationalist armies, was elected first President of the Nationalist government of the country, including Manchuria, and was inaugurated on the seventeenth anniversary of the revolt against the emperor on October 10, 1921. Chiang, who is only forty-one years old, actually is only President of the government state council, but as he is also chairman of the Kuomintang central executive committee, which controls the government, he is the dominant figure in China. The United States, Germany, France and the Netherlands were the only foreign governments that cabled congratulations to General Chiang.

Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, chairman of the China famine relief organization in New York, has received from a mission in Kansu a letter telling of terrible conditions in that remote province. Last year's earthquake killed 35,000 and reduced 100,000 to dire poverty; this year's crops were ruined by drought and famine conditions prevail already; and to cap the climax the Moslems, who form a third of the population are in revolt and have massacred at least 200,000 persons.

GOV. AL SMITH was almost quick to cent the first part of last week, so far as the campaign was concerned, but Wednesday night he left New York for a visit to the solid South. He passed through part of North Carolina and Tennessee, making no set speeches but appearing frequently on the rear platform of his car and stopping at Chattanooga for a conference with party leaders. Then he proceeded to Louisville, where he delivered an address on Saturday. His schedule called for a week of campaigning from Missouri to Ohio with a speech in Chicago October 19; then a brief rest in Albany followed by a final tour of two weeks in Atlantic seaboard cities. Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland opened the Democratic campaign in Chicago with a rousing speech, most of which was devoted to the religious issue and a vigorous attack on intolerance. The rest of the time he spoke on prohibition, which he doesn't like. Ritchie was followed in Chicago by Mayor Jimmy Walker of New York.

Herbert Hoover, whose appearance in Elizabethton, Tenn., was declared by his supporters to have been a great success in the way of winning votes, put in much time preparing for his Boston address. He also conferred with New York state Republican leaders and told them the result there was up to them. They appeared fairly confident but do not underestimate the battle that confronts them.

H. O. Hansbrough, once a Republican senator from North Dakota and now a supporter of Al Smith, put forth the charge last week in a Minneapolis speech that Hoover "is credited" with owning oil and mining properties in Colombia and Mexico, and demanded that he withdraw from the campaign and permit the selection of a Republican candidate "who cannot be influenced in handling our foreign relations." Henry J. Allen, director of Republican publicity, learning that Hansbrough was to make the accusation, wired him that there was no foundation for the statement and that it could only be uttered for the purpose of gaining votes by deliberate lies. Hansbrough, however, delivered his address and made the charges, which he insisted were "based on facts."

SAN ANTONIO surrendered absolutely to the American Legion and the former service men had a fine time at their convention in the Texas city. General Pershing delivered an address on the opening day devoted mainly to a plea to the Legion to create an interest in good government that would impel voters to go to the polls on election day. Lord Allenby of England was given a great ovation when he was presented with the Legion's distinguished service cross. Wednesday the big parade was staged, with about 10,000 members of the Legion and its auxiliary in line and numerous bands filling the air with melody. The procession was more than four hours passing the Alamo where it was reviewed by various dignitaries. Louisville was awarded next year's convention, and Paul V. McNutt, dean of Indiana university law school, was elected national commander.

UNITED SPANISH WAR VETERANS held their annual convention in Havana, Cuba, where more than 7,000 members and their friends were welcomed by President Machado. Col. William L. Grayson of Savannah, Ga., was elected commander in chief almost unanimously; and Otto Rath of Minnesota senior vice commander and Frank E. Shea of Connecticut junior vice commander. The parade, which was held on the anniversary of Cuba's ten-year revolt, was participated in by Cuban army contingents and officers and men from the battleship Texas. The Maine memorial was officially dedicated with impressive ceremonies.

THE American navy's big dirigible Los Angeles successfully made the round trip from Lakehurst to San Antonio and back for the purpose of visiting the Texas city at the time of the American Legion convention. One night air mail flier made complaint that he narrowly escaped collision with the airship because of its lack of lights.

COMMANDER RICHARD E. BYRD is finally on his way to the Antarctic, for, with members of his party, he set sail from San Pedro, Calif., in the whaler C. A. Larsen, the flagship of his expedition. The other three vessels will be met in New Zealand and the expedition will go thence to Ross sea. Byrd expects to make an airplane flight over the South pole, but this will be only an incident, for the commander's chief purpose is to make a long and intensive study of the Antarctic regions.

CLERGY and lay members of the Episcopal church in large numbers gathered in Washington for the forty-ninth triennial general convention of the church. The opening service was held in the natural amphitheater on Mount St. Alban, and President Coolidge delivered an address in which he emphasized religion as the underpinning of all government and of all society. In the first session of the house of deputies Dr. Ze Barney Phillips of Washington was elected chairman.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE learned the other day that a score of ministers to foreign countries who graduated to their present positions from the foreign service of the Department of State had tentatively agreed to try to hold on to their jobs by withholding their resignations when Mr. Coolidge retires next March. The President thereupon made it known that the future of these "career" diplomats would rest wholly in the hands of his successor who will have full power to re-queue them.

President Coolidge has appointed an unusually large number of career men to the highest diplomatic posts. While sympathetic toward as permanent a foreign service as it is possible to attain, the President fears the present reported move on the part of the ministers is simply another manifestation of a disposition by some government services to attempt to organize themselves into self-perpetuating bodies.

EVIDENCE against dry law offenders was obtained by tapping wires in still admissible in federal courts regardless of state laws making wire tapping a crime, for the United States Supreme court has refused to review its decision so holding. Justice Holmes dissented in the original case, denouncing the government for wilfully breaking one law to enforce another. New York was aroused by the discovery that about thirty persons had died there within a few days supposedly from drinking alcohol that had been poisoned by government agents to make it nonpotable. The police promptly closed a lot of speakeasies in the lower East side section where most of the alcohol was obtained.

FOR the second consecutive time the New York Yankees of the American league won the world series, defeating the St. Louis Cardinals of the National league in four straight games. The final game was remarkable for the number of home runs. Babe Ruth closed the season in a blaze of glory by making three. As their share of the gate receipts the Yanks received $5,531 each, and the Cards $4,157 each.

TEXTILE workers of New Bedford, Mass., have called off their strike that had lasted 25 weeks and accepted a compromise under which wages will be reduced 5 per cent instead of 10, and the manufacturers will hereafter give the workers 30 days' notice of any proposed wage cut.

GRAF ZEPPELIN, the huge German dirigible, the first to cross the Atlantic carrying paid passengers, started from Friedrichshafen Thursday morning on its memorable flight and landed at Lakehurst, N. J., where the navy air station had made all preparations to ground and house the airship. There were but three paying passengers, two of whom were Americans. Press representatives numbered four. The official guests included Commander Charles E. Rosendahl of the United States navy, representatives of the German and Spanish governments, Lady Grace Drummond Hay and Count Brandstein-Zepplin, the inventor's son-in-law. Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the dirigible, was also its chief pilot. A large quantity of mail was brought over on the airship.

It was expected the Graf Zeppelin would remain in the United States about ten days and then return to Germany.

Helmets, Cloches Lead in Headgear

Black, Black and Beige, Wood Browns, Red, Green, Blue, Favored Colors.

Contrast is the password in millinery either in color, fabric or both, says the Woman's Home Companion. The use of longer haired, smoothly brushed hatter's plush as trimming is one of the new developments. It is used as a facing, for insets, incrustations and bands. Two-color and two-tone velours hats are smart as well as those that have all-over patterns stamped in, pasted on or printed. Set-in geometric designs in two colors trim sports felt hat crowns while more formal felts have more appropriate trimmings such as matching or contrasting applied feathers. Predominating shapes are the helmet, poke and cloche. The latter is about one-quarter inch lower in the crown and just a trifle broader, giving it a slightly different and newer appearance. Poke helmets of course are much modified although one French milliner has made some that tie under the chin. Helmets are still much in evidence, but they are a trifle less severe. Turbans, berets and hats with beret crowns are also smart, the latter two being the only chic exceptions to snugly fitting crowns. All hats continue to hug the nape of the neck.

Fall millinery fabrics are supple and well adapted to the more complicated manipulation of the new mode. Velvet, quantities of both plain and novelty felts, hatter's plush and soft velours tell the fabric story. Black, black and beige, warm wood browns, red, deep green and bright deep blue are color leaders.

Pronounced Femininity in Latest Accessories

New and individual accessories have a feeling for "femininity." This fact is especially evident in the more formal afternoon bags which are making an appearance.

A brown antelope pouch bag has a perpendicular band of silver and gold brocade, and it would be charming with an ensemble in tones of this smart shade.

Tiny gold beads that have the appearance of seed pearls are braided many times to form a necklace and matching bracelet of great distinction.

Wearing a jeweled fob on the shoulder of an evening frock is a smart conceit introduced by a Parisian. A combination of jade and crystal is most appealing and gains a world of chic on the right gown.

Silver leather is not a new medium for evening bags, but a flat envelope lined in pale green and fastened with a green enamel clasp is attractive.

A decorative, yet efficient pocket-comb is something to dream about. Just such an article is made of real shell, topped with solid gold, on which one's monogram could be placed. Another one that had its beauty to recommend it was trimmed with Chinese blue enamel.

A modernistic buckle of silver and wood gives added charm to a belt of dark brown wool blend.

Sports Wear Brings Out Youthfulness Desired

The influence of the sports type of dress is a youthful one. Age becomes less and less real in the minds of those who create fashions for women. The young girl is no longer a very young girl, and the old woman is not so very old either. They tend to move toward a common goal that lies between the extremes. Both of them are youthful, comfortable, active, and in tune with modern life in all its manifestations. This is essentially an active age and the woman whose clothes do not imply this seems to be out of date and behind the times. No note better suggests this vigorous, healthy state than the sports note. The whole idea is to make the best use of everything in the mode that is advantageous, and certainly youthfulness is at all times to be desired.

Velvet Being Featured; Season's Most Stylish

Showing a beautiful afternoon dress in tones of chestnut brown printed orchid tissue velvet. A long sash is worn at the side.

Simplicity Is Keynote for Evening Fashions

There is an air of Grecian simplicity about evening costumes for fall and winter which is in curious contrast to the really elaborate styling to which they are submitted, notes a fashion writer in the Cleveland News.

This is quite evident from an analysis of the determining elements in all of the Paris showings. The prescription for chic in the robe de soir is apparently the employment of many and diverse themes so carefully screened as to simulate simplicity.

The dipping hemline is practically universal throughout the realm of evening dresses. It appears at the sides, the front and in the back—in greatest numbers at the latter point. There is clearly nothing new about this theme, yet it is being so persistently exploited in Paris that despite its conventionalism it is destined to persist as a leading factor in the new formal fashions.

Several different type bodices are sponsored for evening wear, but there is a concerted tendency toward the semi-molded princess line which cannot be overlooked.

The decolletage of the formal evening gown this winter will be more extreme than it has been in many years. Beginning with the invisible shoulder straps of Chanel and the extremely low back cut-outs offered by Patou and Molynieux and ending with the Louischouler cut, which is quite square to the waistline, no post-war year has witnessed nearly such extremes. These themes have passed the problem stage, as Paris is eagerly adopting them, and you may count upon this extreme decolletage as one of the essentials of the robe de soir.

Shoes Should Harmonize Perfectly With Costume

Shoes must be ever so simple in line to follow the new path of footwear chic, but they must be in color and material to harmonize perfectly with the costume. Women who follow this new path consider the line of the shoe as relatively unimportant—providing the line is simple and becoming. But they give meticulous attention to the selection of the smart materials—smooth calf, rich suedes and the new snakeskin and lizard with the glazed finish for daytime, colored suedes for evening, with matching suede bags. And if the shoe is not brown, black, gunmetal or serge blue, to wear with daytime costumes of these same colors, it may be in bottle green or dark red to match other accessories.

Few Changes in Styles of Sleeves This Season

Only a few changes have been made in the styles of sleeves since last season. For daytime and informal evening wear the long tight-fitting sleeve is usual. Lucien Lelong uses small buttons to fasten the sleeve from wrist to elbow and cuts the neck round, square or pointed.

Recluse is making some new styles of sleeves. One, cut wide at the hand, is slashed to the elbow. Suzanne Talbot adds a flaring cuff at the elbow of a tight-fitting coat sleeve. Beer makes his coat sleeves straight and slightly wider at the bottom. Drecol is showing an evening coat with sleeves closed at the wrist and up-turned flaring cuffs.

Suede Belts Being Worn on Dainty Evening Gowns

Wide belts of soft suede are being used for evening frocks in lace or moire after Patou. They are worn a little higher than was the fashion rule last season—just above the hips—and are in colors like blonde, Patou green, blue and mauve-rose that tone with the material of the dresses. The suede is crushed like fabric to form a becoming line, and the buckles are studded with rhinestones or large colored brilliants.

THE COST OF VANITY

By F. A. WALKER

WHEN at last the scales fall from the eyes of thoughtful, earnest aspirants to the high places, they see that vanity is not only a jester but one of the most troublesome and tricky imps with which they have continually to contend.

The pages of history replete with failures of brilliant world-leaders who have stubbed their toes against egotism and fallen so desperately hurt and humiliated that their usefulness ended in dismal mishap.

The want of substance to satisfy his inflated mind brought Napoleon to ignominious defeat and banishment.

And what was true in the Nineteenth century is true today, and will always be true.

The same elements of peril crouch ready to spring upon and overwhelm individuals who have an empty pride inspired by an overwhelming conceit of personal attainments.

The young men who prate over dinner tables, boast without blush of their wonderful abilities and ostentatiously tell one another what the "old man" at the head of the house should do to whip his competitors, are as palpably vain and absurd as their empty vapors.

They are piling up debts which vanity sooner or later will proceed to collect with compound interest.

And so it is with puffed-up young women who volunteer pretentious advice to their tired-out mothers, without lifting a finger to lighten household burdens, or cheer hearts craving sympathy and love.

The world is overcrowded with these priggish people, who through some caprice of fortune have risen a step or two and foolishly imagine that they are in a position to instruct their elders and pull them about by the nose.

In their conceit they know more about the intricate arts and sciences than do the tutors in universities, more about finance than do the bankers who have spent a lifetime in the harness, pulling and tugging to overcome difficulties.

Instead of being courted and followed by over-fond parents, they should be pitied, for they are bound straight to failure.

Each knows more than can be uttered; each lives not by faith, but by pomp, builded on a crumbling foundation.

They can speak no language under heaven save that of the boastful; give no encouragement to others, nor do any work of value.

Among the Front Runners

By JOHN BLAKE

THERE is a type of race horse that is known as a front runner. While he is out in front he is unbeatable. But let another horse pass him and he immediately becomes discouraged.

He lacks the pluck and persistence to pull victory out of apparent defeat. When conditions are not favorable to himself he just gives up and quits.

Race horses are not the only front runners. Men may be front runners, too.

We see the occasional exhibitions of front running in athletic contests. A prize fighter, for instance, who is outpointing his opponent by a wide margin, may suddenly receive a heavy punch in the body. From then on he becomes discouraged and remains on the defensive, intent only on staying the limit.

A tennis player who is winning his match is the victim of a poor decision by the referee. He immediately abandons all interest in the match and eventually loses it.

Such an athlete is often called a quitter. Those who know him say he is yellow, because he is skillful and capable only when things are going his way.

But all front runners are not athletes, either. We can see any number of them in everyday life.

A man may be an excellent salesman, for instance, as long as his product sells itself. But let him come up against a tough, skeptical custommer and all his sales ability disappears.

A lawyer may be a whirlwind when the case is favorable to his client. Then the other side introduces an unexpectedly damaging witness and he gives up all hope of winning.

A public official supports a good piece of legislation until some powerful opponent appears. Then he pockets his self-respect and turns his attention to something else.

There are front runners in every business. But they never get very far.

A MOST appetizing salad when one has no idea what to make for the family, is

Peanut and Lettuce Salad.

Crush with a rolling pin one-half cupful of fresh peanuts. Arrange tender lettuce on salad plates, sprinkle the nuts over it with a bit of minced onion and serve with a French dressing.

To keep in touch with new ways of serving foods, one needs to take occasional outings into various restaurants. One may usually come home with enough new ideas to last for some time. Common foods served in an uncommon way, make much difference in the appetite of the family.

Before the frost takes all the good mushrooms, serve a few meals of the delectable vegetable.

Celery With Pigs in Blanket.

Cook the coarser stalks of celery until tender, adding a rich white sauce. Around the celery arrange oysters cooked in bacon and serve very hot. Veal birds are also good served this way instead of oysters.

Cauliflower With Mushrooms.

Break into flowerettes one head of cauliflower and cook in boiling salted water until tender. Prepare rounds of toast, butter and heap with the cauliflower. Pour over them the following sauce: Chop one cupful of fresh mushrooms, add two tablespoonfuls of butter and some of the cauliflower liquor. Simmer until the mushrooms are tender then add one cupful of cream; boil, add one tablespoonful each of flour and butter cooked together, season with salt and pepper and serve poured over the toast and cauliflower.

Creamed Mushrooms.

Clean, peel and slice a pound or two of fresh field mushrooms, add two to three tablespoonfuls of butter and place over the heat, cook five minutes, stirring frequently. Add thin cream, thickened very lightly with a bit of flour and butter cooked together and pour over well-buttered rounds of toast and serve.

Combine sweetbreads with mushrooms and serve cooked as above, in patty shells.

Hollandaise sauce is delicious served with young tender turnips, cut into cubes or latticed.

Cream Prune Pie.

Put through a sieve one cupful of stewed prunes, add one cupful of milk, or half-cupful each of the prune liquor and cream, the yolks of two eggs well beaten, a pinch of salt and enough sugar to make palatable, which is mixed with a teaspoonful of cornstarch. Pour into a pastry-lined plate, cover with a meringue and bake. The meringue may be lightly stirred in, or the filling may be cooked, the shell baked and then the meringue browned lightly.

Makes Life Sweeter

Children's stomachs sour, and need an anti-acid. Keep their systems sweet with Phillips Milk of Magnesia!

When tongue or breath tells of acid condition—correct it with a spoonful of Phillips. Most men and women have been comforted by this universal sweetener—more mothers should invoke its aid for their children. It is a pleasant thing to take, yet neutralizes more acid than the harsher things too often employed for the purpose. No household should be without it.

Phillips is the genuine, prescription product physicians endorse for general use; the name is important. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. registered trade mark of the Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her So Much

Kingston, Mo.—"I have not taken anything but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for 18 months and I cannot praise it enough. I weighed about 100 pounds and was not able to do any kind of work. My housework was done by my mother and my out-of-doors work was not done. I have taken four bottles of the Vegetable Compound and now I am well and strong and feel fine. I got my sister-in-law to take it after her last baby came and she is stronger now. I cannot praise it enough."—Mrs. HATTIE V. EASTIN, R. 1, Kingston, Missouri.

WHAT DR. CALDWELL LEARNED IN 47 YEARS PRACTICE

A physician watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time. Of most importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the system and is not habit forming. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for anybody's system. In a practice of 47 years he never saw any reason for their use when Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly.

Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope, but go to the nearest druggist and get one of the generous bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, or write "Syrup Pepsin," Dept. BB, Monticello, Illinois for free trial bottle.

FOR THE GANDER—

IN THE old days a perfect gent was one that didn't try to kiss you till the second time. Now that's the definition of a dead one.

Lots of times a woman prides herself on how high she carries her head, when no matter how hard she tries, she can't come near a giraffe.

The reason so many women marry good-for-nothing men, is, they figure half a loafer is better than no bread winner.

Children's Halloween Story

FOR five years young Janet had taken part in the Halloween festivities, and had never known just why there was a Halloween, what Halloween meant, nor why they always played so strange, weird, funny games and pranks on this one evening of the year.

But she was almost ashamed to ask anyone. It seemed so absurd, so utterly absurd not to know what Halloween meant.

Yet did everyone know? Weren't there perhaps some others, just as she was thinking, who wished they knew but who hated to ask?

She felt if she would say: "Just what is Halloween?" she would be told:

"Why Halloween—you don't know what Halloween is—" and then there would be a laugh.

Once she had ventured to ask the question, and she had been told that Halloween was a night when children had parties and went about and pretended they were witches and strange folk.

Well, she knew that much! That was what she did know.

What she wondered was why there was a party on a night given such a name—the name itself was somehow difficult.

And now the time had come around again. And there was going to be a party. Oh, it was going to be a gorgeous party.

First of all they were going to dress up in very old and funny clothes.

Janet and her sisters and brothers and all their friends were going to gather at Janet's that evening of the thirty-first of October.

First of all, they were going to have supper, and such a supper it would be. Janet had heard her mother talk about it.

They were going to have the table decorated with an enormous Jack o' Lantern, in the center of Jack a great candle would burn brightly, and from his cut-out eyes and mouth and nose and ears would come the flickering light.

Then there were going to be tiny Jack o' Lanterns at either end of the table with smaller candles in them. And all about the table there would be autumn leaves, and under every autumn leaf a nut would be hidden, for they were going to have nuts at dessert time.

And they were going to have a special supper of chicken and stewed potatoes with plenty of brown gravy which would look like the autumn time, and which would taste ever so good, too.

Ice cream, too, had been promised.

Oh, there were the greatest preparations for the party. Janet didn't know just all there would be at the party.

And yet she was sad, for she did so wish she knew what Halloween meant.

And yet again she was ashamed to ask.

It was so horrid to be made fun of. She wished people didn't make fun of others when they didn't know everything.

It would be so much more fun to find out, and then one wouldn't stay ignorant for any length of time, as one was very apt to do if one kept from asking because of the fear of being made fun of.

But Janet knew her mother would not make fun of her. That wasn't the reason she didn't ask her mother. She hated to let her mother think she didn't know. At last, though, she asked, and then her mother told her. Her mother explained that October thirty-first was the night before All Saints' day, or, as it was called, Halloween.

Hallow, her mother told her, meant a holy time, and een was short for evening.

So that the evening before the religious day known as All Saint's day was called always Halloween.

And custom had made Halloween into a time for children, for in many many countries there were different celebrations and games for children on this evening of the year.

And how happy Janet was that at last she knew what the word meant. And also that Halloween was a time which custom had given to children for fun making!

NEW YORK TICKET IMPRESSES NATION

Candidates Named by Governor Smith—Not One Affiliated With Tammany.

ROOSEVELT SUPPORTED BY REPUBLICAN PRESS

A distinctly favorable reaction to the nomination by the Democratic party of Franklin D. Roosevelt for Governor of New York State is perceived by political observers in almost every State of the Union.

Nobody in New York has any doubt that he will be elected. One of the most able and most highly respected figures in the history of American politics, he is said to be sure of the largest majority ever received by a candidate for Governor. His presence on the Democratic ticket, coupled with the fact that he is one of Governor Smith's closest friends, leaves the Hoover forces without hope in the Empire State.

But what is of greater significance, since no well-informed person has ever doubted the Governor's ability to carry his own State, is the reaction to Mr. Roosevelt's candidacy in the West and South. His consent to become the nominee, at Governor Smith's request, has made ridiculous the "Tammany cry" with which Republican campaign managers have attempted to influence voters in the districts unfamiliar with the Governor's record.

Tammany Not Represented

Mr. Roosevelt has never been affiliated with Tammany Hall, nor any other political machine. In fact, not a single candidate on the State ticket, which was in actuality named from top to bottom by Governor Smith, has any connection with Tammany.

New York Republican leaders acknowledge that, unlike their own candidate who is linked with the big power interests, Mr. Roosevelt is invulnerable to attack. A distinguished official of the Wilson Administration, in which he served as Assistant Secretary of the Navy, and the Democratic candidate for Vice President in 1920, he consistently refused to run for Governor until pressed to do so by Governor Smith.

One significant reaction to Governor Smith's choice of a man of such character and reputation to succeed him at Albany is the defection of two strong Hoover newspapers in New York, the Sun and the Telegram, both of which announced editorially that they would support the Democratic candidate for Governor.

To Preserve Smith Ideals
WARM SPRINGS, Ga.—Explaining why he had consented to be drafted by the party leaders of New York state, after his previous refusal to accept the nomination for Governor, Franklin D. Roosevelt said:

"It was because they felt and I felt that the whole splendid structure of government built up by Governor

Smith and all the high ideals of service to the people which he had established were in peril that caused me to accept the nomination.

"That is something too important to let any personal considerations weigh in the slightest. I am in this fight not to win personal honor, but for the carrying forward of the policies of Governor Smith."

Heed N. Y. Farmers' Experience With Al Smith, Empire State Agriculturist Warns Middle West

Charles S. Wilson Points Out Rural District Hostility to Governor in His Own State for William H. Hill, New York Hoover Campaign Manager.

"My advice to the farmers of the Middle West is that they find out what we farmers in New York State think about Governor Smith," declares Charles S. Wilson, former State Commissioner of Agriculture.

Mr. Wilson and his brother-in-law operate a 600 acre farm at Hall, Ontario County, New York.

"New York State farmers know, on the basis of Governor Smith's record, that he will not do for agriculture what Herbert Hoover will do," declared former Commissioner Wilson.

"I think the Governor's attitude toward the Council of Farms and Markets is typical. This council was provided for when I was Commissioner. It was put through by the farm interests of the State, who felt that they would be safer with farmers administering the Department of Agriculture than with politicians doing it. They looked upon the council as a sort of board of directors to the department."

"Governor Smith, despite the expressed desires of the farmers, repeatedly recommended that the council be abolished. He was not in favor of direct representation for farmers."

"The farmers of this State are encountering as much trouble as the farmers of other States. I believe that conditions cannot be remedied unless we have greater tariff protection on some products and better marketing facilities so that we don't have to sell in a buyers' market."

"Herbert Hoover is the man to give us this kind of relief. My advice to the farmers of the Middle West is that they find out what we farmers in New York think about the Governor before they vote for him for president of the United States."

Humble Hoover Home Is State Shrine

This small cottage at West Branch, Iowa, where Herbert Hoover was born, has emerged from humble obscurity to become one of the historic shrines of the State. It was even smaller at the time of the birth of Republican presidential candidate. Much of the front has been added since he left to go to work on his Uncle's farm after his father's death.

THIS FARM PAYS

A VIEW of the 125 acre farm of Herbert Hoover. On his farm Mr. Hoover has made considerable improvements, and he grows as all his other crops. The farm is well irrigated and highly cultivated for the best of farming products. The farm was built here years ago when it was first built and was a very fine farm. It is a variety of product such as potatoes, cotton, peach, grapes, and other crops is produced. Mr. Hoover constantly checks over with his farm, a university graduate farm expert who has the practical knowledge to go with his scientific education.
