The funeral services were held at the home of his son, Charles J. Teeple at 2:30 this afternoon and were conducted by Livingston Lewis, D. D. F. & A. M. of which the deceased has been a member for 24 years. Burial was in the Pinckney cemetery.

JEFFERSON PARKER
Jefferson Parker, aged 87 years, died Sunday morning at his home here. He was born in New York State and served in the civil war assisting in 1862. He married Miss Lealand who died eight years ago. He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Fred Bowman and a son, Frank Parker, of Flint.

Funeral services were held from the late home Tuesday afternoon, Rev. Schwartzkopf of the Howell M. E. church officiating. Interment was in the Pinckney cemetery.

MRS. S. C. TEEPLE
Alice, Amelia La Rue was born in Putnam township Oct. 20 1846 and departed this life Dec. 26 1928 aged 82 years, 2 months and six days. She was united in marriage to Stephen G. Teeple who died Mar. 24 1918, on April 11 1865. To this union were born four children Mrs. N. O. Frey of Pinckney, Lloyd Madison Teeple who passed away Oct. 24 1903, Mrs. Harry Watner of Jackson and Fred Teeple of Howell, five grand children, Kenneth and Clifford Teeple of Detroit, Lloyd and Leone Teeple of Howell and Myron Dunning of Detroit. Also one great grand child Warren Teeple.

Mrs. Teeple was a very devout Christian a member of the North Hamburg church and a woman who possessed many qualities of mind and heart that endeared her not only to her immediate family but a large circle of friends and acquaintances. Funeral services were held at her late residence in Pinckney Dec. 25 1928. Interment in the Pinckney cemetery.

WOMEN HIT BY AUTO
Mrs. Arnette Mynaham and her 10 years old daughter died at the Howell Hospital Sunday evening as a result of injuries received in an auto accident Thursday night when she was struck by a car driven by Arthur Sweet aged 79 of Howell. Sweet was driving on Grand River and turned off onto Almon St. in Howell, striking Mrs. Mynaham who with her husband were walking on the north side of Grand River. Mrs. Mynaham never regained consciousness. She is survived by her husband one son, two sisters and two brothers.

LUCILLE ELMORE REVUE
Lucille Elmore cousin of Fred Stone the comedian and a prominent member of the original Broadway cast of "Stepping Stones" is one of the star attractions of the entertainment world. "Attraction" is precisely the correct word to describe this very small, very "peppy" and very beautiful and entertaining young lady.

Miss Elmore and company will present a revue that depends for its appeal on cleverness and artistry rather than on smashing sensationalism. It is more on the order of the "Revue of London" which topped the country for several seasons winning universal praise. It consists of a series of individual stunts, monologues characterizations songs—in short a few bright chapters out of musical comedy of the Fred Stone brand, clean, wholesome, with every bit of the suggestiveness and questionable features left out.

Group singing, solos and close harmony duets of the Duncan Sisters type abound. Miss Elmore impersonates all sorts of noted people does a perfect ventriloquism number with a big black Sammy doll, gives with marvelous mimicry Chic Sale's Sermon on "Old Mother Hubbard" and other amazing impersonations, all in a great variety of make-up and beautiful costumes and all very appealing and unbelievably clever.

Jean Harper, co-star with Miss Elmore possesses a very beautiful soprano voice sings exquisitely Spanish and Indian songs in costume, does a rag-doll dance in pantomime that is one of the big hits of the Revue, interprets certain Indian tribal ceremonials, and introduces other interesting and entertaining novelties.

Betty Postlethwaite is a pianist, singer, and all around entertainer, with an important part in the Revue.

The Lucille Elmore Revue has been a sensational success wherever presented. There is nothing like it on the platform.

It will be presented at the Pinckney Community Hall Thursday evening January 10.

MRS. ELLA FAISLEY
The funeral of Mrs. Ella Paisley who died Saturday in a Lansing hospital was held from Swarthout's funeral home last Wednesday afternoon. Burial was in the Pinckney cemetery. The deceased is survived by one son, Roy Darwin of Lansing and a daughter, Mrs. Fred Gibbs of Detroit.

THE PINCKNEY RISKY DINKS
The Pinckney Risky Dinks will meet the Dexter Boy Scouts in the opener and the Pinckney Independents will take on the Broadway Leaders of Ann Arbor in the second event.

Pinckney will go to Byron Friday evening to play a return game with the Byron Independents. In a previous game they lost to this team by a score of 17 to 14.

In the game with the Fowlerville Checkers last Friday night Pinckney was forced to put a patched up team on the floor and lost by a score of 59 to 18. This is a slight improvement over the first game which was 62 to 9 in favor of Fowlerville.

AUTOMOBILE WRECKED
The automobile of the Rev. B. F. Esic of the Pinckney Congregational church was totally wrecked at Jackson Monday evening. The car containing Rev. Esic, his wife and two daughters was on the way home when blinded by the lights of an oncoming car, the collision occurred. Mrs. Esic was thrown out and it is feared that some bones in one of her feet were broken. The others were only slightly hurt but the car was a total wreck.

A WOMANLESS WEDDING
Much interest is being created over a great stunt which is to take place in Dexter on January 9 and 10.

"A Womanless Wedding" Net a woman in it!
It is a clear bit of old fashioned fun that makes the old laugh young again, and the young laugh until their sides ache, it is one continuous roar of laughter for the whole family.
Remember the dates January 9 and 10.

HOWELL THEATRE INSTALLS SOUND EQUIPMENT
Patrons of the new Howell Theatre will be glad to learn that the Theatre has installed the very latest in sound equipment "The Cinephone" making it possible to now synchronize the music score with the pictures as a result the presentation of pictures at the Howell Theatre will now equal that of the larger Theatres of Detroit and Lansing.

The Schulte Amusement Co. wishes to thank the people of Howell and Livingston County for the splendid manner in which they are patronizing the new Theatre and wishes to further announce in view of this growing attendance, that all Super-attractions will be shown three days Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. This insures comfortable seating for all.

Regardless of the expense of this added attraction there will be no advance in the admission prices.
Howell may well boast the most modern Theatre between Detroit and Lansing.

IS BOUND OVER
The hearing of Dr. A. H. Pearson of Ann Arbor on the charge of setting fire to his barn in Hamburg township started Saturday before Judge Yelland at Howell. It was completed Monday. Pearson was bound over to the circuit court for trial on Jan. 14. $5000 bail was asked which he furnished. Goodrich, a caretaker who is charged with the same offence also gave bail but Potts, the caretaker on whose testimony they were bound over was unable to give bail and was taken back to jail.

CARD OF THANKS

BARN BURNS TO GROUND
The barn on the farm of the late Chester Hinchey about two miles west of town on M-49 caught fire from unknown sources Thursday night and burned to the ground. The Pinckney fire department was summoned but arrived too late to be of any service. The barn was full of hay and was only partially covered by a roof. It was owned by Roy Hinchey.

ANNOUNCEMENT
I wish to announce that I have made arrangements with the Pinckney Community Hall for the holding of a dance on January 10 at 7:30 p.m. at the Pinckney Community Hall. The dance will be given by the Pinckney Community Hall. The door will be 75c. Ladies and children 25c. Refreshments will be served. The music will be furnished by the Pinckney Community Hall. The dance will be held at the Pinckney Community Hall. The door will be 75c. Ladies and children 25c. Refreshments will be served. The music will be furnished by the Pinckney Community Hall.

The Best For You
You can find plenty of tire dealers who'll be glad to dicker with you, tempt you with all sorts of "special" deals. I can't. It goes against my grain to pad my list prices in order to give you a discount or a "long tract"—to make myself a good fellow at your expense. I've been in the tire business for a number of years. I've watched the "bargain boys" and the "long discount" fellows come and go. Every year my business has increased. Every year more shrewd tire buyers come to me for Goodyears—and they stay just with Goodyears. Doesn't it seem logical that Goodyears will prove the best buy for you.

Best Dairy Cattle Judges in U. S.

Because they proved the best dairy cattle judges at the National Dairy Show, held at Memphis, Tenn., the Oklahoma 4H Club team has been awarded a trip to Europe in addition to a $2500.00 prize, and will represent the United States at the Royal Livestock Show next July. The winning trio is Forest Bann, of Hillsdale, Okla., left above; Harold Woodson of Comanche, Okla., right above; and Roland Williams of Atma, Okla., center below.

STATE EXHIBITS TAKE 24 FIRSTS

Michigan took nine sweepstakes, three championships, six reserve championships and 24 first places, including the championships, at the recent International Hay, Grain and Livestock Show at Chicago.

Featured by one sharp deflection from the 1927 results and the great records made by four farmers, Michigan entries did even better than those of last year when the state took two sweepstakes, one reserve championship and 10 first places.

The greatest upset for Michigan came when the rye championship passed from this state. Michigan could do no better than ninth place. With the exception of one year, the state had captured premier rye honors since 1920. George and Lewis Hutzler, champion rye producers of South Manitou Island, who had split the sweepstakes and first-place prizes for six years, did not enter the 1928 competition.

To Lavern Olund, Gaylord club boy, went the honor of bringing back Michigan's only sweepstakes. His exhibit of Russet Rural potatoes outclassed the field. William Tobias, of Foster, another club boy, was declared the healthiest at the international exposition.

John C. Wilk, of St. Louis, Mich., and Arthur W. Emory H. and Arthur W. Jewett, Jr., all of Mason, were Michigan farmers who piled up huge scores in crops competition. Wilk took one championship, one reserve championship, three other firsts and placed four times. Arthur W. Jewett won a reserve championship, another first place and placed 14 other times. Emory Jewett was first once and placed 10 times, while Arthur W. Jewett, Jr., won two first places and two other places.

St. Louis made an outstanding contribution to the exposition when it placed five men in order in the field peas competition.

Press Found Main Guide to Farmers

Only the county agricultural agent ranks above the press—newspapers, magazines and farm publication—in influencing the Michigan farmer to adopt improved agricultural practices. M. C. Wilson, of the United States Department of Agriculture, said in addressing the sixteenth annual extension conference in session at Michigan State College.

Wilson's conclusions were drawn from a survey of Jackson and Menominee counties, which showed that the press influenced 57 per cent of the farmers in these two counties to adopt modern practices, while county agents influenced 68 per cent.

The survey indicated that farmers rely more on the newspaper for agricultural assistance than on any other medium, except the county agent. It was found that 31.4 per cent of the farmers were dependent upon newspapers for aid; 1.3 per cent on the radio, and 2.4 per cent on the magazines.

Ventilation an Aid Preventing Hog Flu

Flu and other respiratory diseases of hogs during winter months have become more serious than cholera in many localities. Deaths are only occasional in flu-stricken herds but losses in weight of fattening shoats are serious and costly and the litters of affected brood sows are likely to be weak or even dead at birth.

Veterinarians advise farmers to avoid overcrowding in the hog house, to keep the building dry and well bedded and to provide ventilation without drafts. Cold, drafty floors, they say, are especially bad for swine. Drafts in the building, especially along the floor, causes hogs to pile up and become hot, weakening their resistance to disease germs.

A ventilation system which provides intake flues for fresh air and outtake flues for used air helps to keep the house fresh and dry. If the building is well constructed, a good ventilation system also aids in keeping the temperature uniform.

Hunting Season Sees 5,255 Deer Cross Straits

Hugh Green, chief conservation officer of the department of conservation, has announced there were 5,255 deer shipped across the straits of Mackinac during the deer hunting season. Mr. Green believes this number represents 50 per cent of the total deer shot. He pointed out that many animals were shot by upper peninsula residents while others were bagged in the lower peninsula.

The figure given by Green indicated more than a thousand more were shipped from Cloverland this year as compared with last year. Records reveal 4,144 were carried across in 1927. Other animals to cross the straits and their number follow: Bear, 56; coyote, 26; wolves, 7; bobcats, 7.

To Fight Corn Borer by Corn Waste, Claim

Control of the corn borer by use of waste from the very crop on which this pestiferous insect preys is regarded as a distinct possibility by experts of the department of agriculture.

If ambitious efforts to establish large scale manufacture of paper and wallboard from cornstalks succeed in converting this waste into profitable commercial products, this control of the borer may be brought immeasurably in sight, according to Dr. F. P. Veitch, who is in charge of the industrial farm product division of the bureau of chemistry and soils.

"A profitable method for the disposal of corn stalks that would insure their complete disintegration," said Dr. Veitch, "would be one of the most effective weapons in fighting the corn borer. And if this profitable disposal could be made on the individual farms where the corn stalks are grown, the effectiveness of the weapons against the borer would be materially increased."

"Undoubtedly, no universally applicable and profitable farm disposal of corn stalks is yet in sight. So attention has been turned to the industrial concentration and utilization of corn stalks without, of course, neglecting the search for more satisfactory and practicable farm uses."

"The tremendous quantity of widely distributed corn stalks in this country increases the difficulties of their profitable and complete utilization as a means of fighting the corn borer. The yield of cured corn stalks is possibly 150,000,000 tons of corn stalks as an average in this country annually. There are several times as many corn stalks produced in this country as would be required to make all the paper and board in which they could be used. It is clear that this means of utilization is far from sufficient to meet the situation."

Dr. Veitch expressed the opinion that industrial utilization of corn stalks for the manufacture of paper and wallboard is the most promising outlet so far suggested, and that, because of conditions brought about by the corn borer, this outlet for this most troublesome and cumbersome of farm wastes is well worth continued investigation.

U. S. to Forecast Farm Crop Prices

Farm leaders and economists in Michigan will watch with interest the progress of an experiment in West Virginia where the practicability of advising farmers when to market their crops and where to sell them to get the most money will be tested.

Bergeley and Jefferson counties in the eastern Panhandle region of West Virginia have been selected by the United States department of agriculture for this revolutionary project. The experiment will be conducted in co-operation with the agricultural extension department of the West Virginia College of Agriculture.

The United States department of agriculture has been compiling information on crops, crop conditions, market trends and reactions over a long period. Its economists have become confident, it is reported, they can safely and reasonably forecast market conditions, perhaps not exactly, but with approximate accuracy.

This confidence, it is reported, was expressed at the recent congress of land grant colleges in Washington where department officials offered to demonstrate the project. The West Virginia college was among the first to accept.

News dispatches from Martinsburg, W. Va., indicate the government intends to make a definite effort to issue definite, concrete predictions and advices as to marketing. It will make these forecasts direct to the farmer with the information localized through the county agents and extension forces.

The proposed market forecasts will be in plain terms. They will be based upon the government's information as collected through surveys of world market conditions as well as domestic. They will advise, it is stated whether the farmer should sell from the field, hold for later delivery or hold only part of the crop.

Some doubt exists whether the government or any other agency can forecast market conditions and prices on farm commodities intelligently. The experiment promises to have a widespread agricultural following as its success would foreshadow revolutionary economic developments.

Jackson City Budget For 1929 Is $956,700

It will take $956,699 to run Jackson during 1929, if the annual budget adopted by the city commission is the limit of expenditures. In 1928 the budget called for $938,457. The 1929 revenue is estimated at $119,225, leaving $837,737 to be raised by taxes, which will bring the city tax rate to about $9.50, as compared with $9.86 last year.

Many Byproducts Are Made from Corn Plant

One hundred eighty-four products now are being manufactured from the lowly corn plant. The most important of these are: face powder, beer, syrup, gun powder, wall board, paper-mache, rayon, silk and breakfast food.

NORTH GLAD... DEER SEASON...

Farmers and lumbermen in the north woods have joined with the deer in breathing a sigh of relief since Michigan's deer season closed and the woods quieted down to their normal solitude.

Nine lives paid for the pleasure of the hunt this fall and twice as many escaped death in accidents due to the deer season. Hundreds of persons living on the frontiers where the infatigable skirmish was in session for 16 days had narrow escapes and thrilling experiences, and the end of the season came as a real relief.

Among those who had harrowing experiences is Steve Sabo of Banat whose hair was parted by a rifle bullet. While he and a companion were hunting a stray bullet tore through his cap and seared the top of his head. Aside from being badly frightened he was little the worse for the experience.

How to Care for Meat and Scraps At Butchering Time

The following are some of our methods of caring for our meat and scraps at butchering time:

Meat is sacked and hung up the day it is butchered. Heads are made into pressed meat. Feet are boned and pickled. Sausage is sacked or left in bulk and baked. Tenderloin and ribs not wanted for use during very cold weather are canned. The backbone and all other portions of meat not wanted for immediate use are salted slightly. All portions unfit for human use are fed to the chickens.

To sack the meat, proceed as follows:

Prepare a mixture of 10 pounds of salt, four pounds of sugar and four ounces of saltpeter to each 100 pounds of meat. A few joints of meat should be weighed to gain an idea of the amount required for each joint. For instance, a 25-pound joint would, of course, require one-fourth of this mixture.

Place on a table a layer of thick wrapping paper or several thicknesses of newspaper. Sprinkle liberally with the mixture. Lay the meat, skin side down, on the paper. Cover cut side with a thick layer of the preparation, rubbing it well on rounding edges and around hock end. Wrap securely in the paper and tie well with strong cord or binder twine, crossing the strings at frequent intervals. The success of this method depends on holding the salt close against the meat. Drop the joint hock end down into a sack and hang up. Cement sacks or flour sacks are good for this purpose.

Sides that are to be cured in this way should be cut in two, each half being wrapped separately and the two portions dropped into one sack.

Heads are made into pressed meat as follows: Having been cleaned they are cooked in a large kettle outside till the bones will drop out, then remove from kettle, all remaining bones taken away, cooled, run through a food chopper or sausage mill, seasoned with salt and pepper, moistened with some of the liquor and packed away in granite pans or crocks.

Feet are cooked until tender and jellyish, removed from liquor, bones removed as soon as they can be handled, placed in graniteware or crockery and salted and covered with vinegar.

Sausage is sacked by means of a lard press with stuffer attachments. These sacks may be made of flour sacks or strips of unbleached muslin about six inches wide and two or three feet long. When wanted for use the sacks may be peeled back. We like this better than the casings, as the sausage may be sliced into cakes. It is much easier than trying to make cakes of the frozen meat. Part of the sacked sausage is fried down. I like it better fried in the oven as it has a better flavor cooked in this way. I use my empty fruit jars in preference to tin cans. The sausage should be sealed up boiling hot and the jars immediately inverted. This sterilizes the air at both ends of the jar and requires less grease than where tin cans are used. There is also no danger of the jars warping or rusting, as may happen when tin cans are used.

For baking sausage I save all the empty coffee cans with a smooth edge. Pack tight with sausage to within an inch or an inch and a half of the top. Bake in the oven till water is cooked out. The meat should be brown on top and swimming in grease. When cold cover with melted lard, place lids on cans and store away from heat. To serve, warm can slightly, invert, and sausage will fall out. Slice and reheat. Also good cold in sandwiches for school lunches.

To can tenderloin or ribs I use a roaster. Cut meat in pieces of desired size, put in roaster, add water and grease, and cook until tender and water is all evaporated. Seal as canned sausage. The bones should be removed from ribs and meat reheated before canning. To remove from cans, reheat in hot water.

Give the horse a heavy feed of grain at night as cold weather comes on. It is a long time between their meals and breakfast.

Today you can see the most sensational automobile ever introduced—The Outstanding Chevrolet of Chevrolet History, a Six in the price range of the four!

Today, this amazing new automobile is on display in our showrooms and we cordially invite you to come in for a personal inspection!

When you lift the hood and see the new six-cylinder valve-in-head engine you will realize that a new era has dawned for the buyers of low-priced automobiles. Representing four years development and testing, this new power plant is a marvel of advanced design. At every speed it operates with that delightful smoothness which everyone demands today in a modern automobile. It develops approximately 32% more power than any previous Chevrolet engine. It displays sensationally greater speed and faster acceleration. And yet, despite this brilliantly improved performance, it maintains Chevrolet's worldwide reputation for economical transportation by delivering better than an average of twenty miles to the gallon of gasoline!

Great Array of New Features

Matching this spectacular advance in performance is the greatest array of new features Chevrolet has ever announced.

The big, new four-wheel brakes are exceedingly quiet in operation. The new two-beam headlights with foot control dimming device were never before available in Chevrolet's price class. And so on throughout the entire chassis, you will find feature after feature previously demanded in the finest of automobiles and now offered on the Outstanding Chevrolet in keeping with Chevrolet's policy of constant progress.

Distinctive New Beauty

But, however impressed you may be by the mechanical superiority of the Outstanding Chevrolet, your admiration will reach even greater heights when you study the car's distinctive beauty—

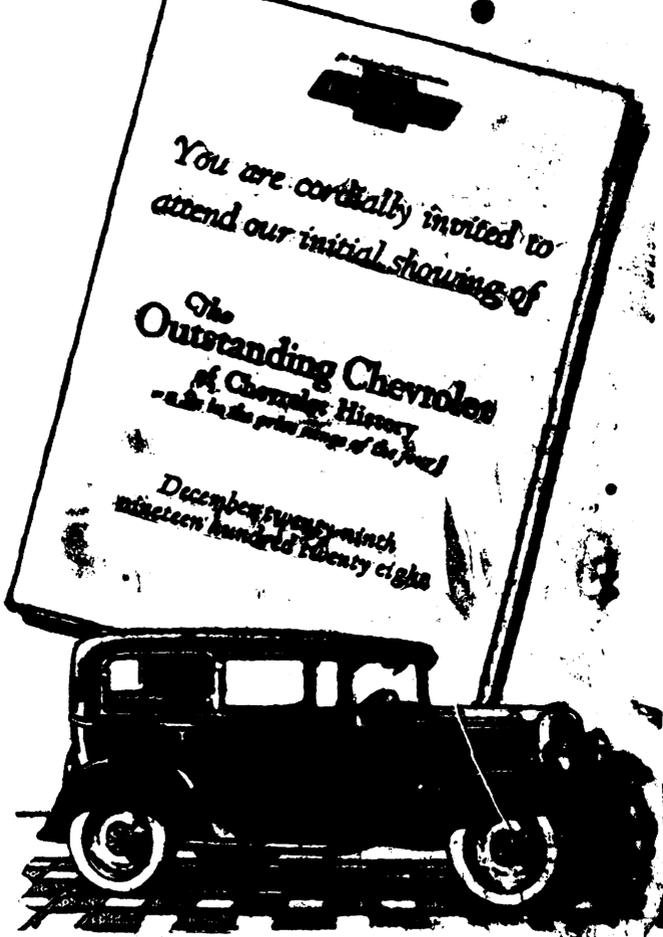

—the marvelous new Fisher bodies represent a masterful example of artistic coachwork. Never have beauty, comfort, convenience and staunch construction been more skillfully combined in the bodies of any automobile!

So we urge you to come in today and inspect this outstanding new car.

M. S. E. SHOW SELECTS SHOW

According to announcement by Milton Ormes of Saginaw, student manager of the Michigan State Union production, the annual Union production will be presented Jan. 31 and Feb. 1 at the Gladner theater in Lansing.

It also was announced a musical comedy, "The 12-Mile Limit," has been selected for Michigan State students to present this year. Charles P. Seager, producer, is a resident of Whitehall and will direct the play personally.

It is planned to use a cast that includes about 50 in all. Of this number there will be a chorus of 24 dancers with 12 lead parts and 12 assisting parts. This is a much smaller cast than has been used in previous years but the committee hopes to make the production better by making a more careful selection of the cast. Within the next two weeks Seager will be on the campus to help select the cast.

Warren Shook, Grand Rapids, is a member of the advisory committee.

Statute to Regulate Cooking Fats Sought

Congress will be asked to extend the provisions of the Oleomargarine Act to cover the so-called cooking compounds which are being manufactured and sold in large quantities in imitation of butter throughout the United States.

Pursuant thereto, the following resolution was unanimously adopted by the National Grange in annual convention last week:

"Whereas, cooking fats are now made of coconut oil and peanut oil hardened to the same consistency, colored, salted and same moisture content of butter, and are in fact flagrant imitations of butter, but not manufactured and sold under the provisions of the Oleomargarine Law; and believing in this principle, that all merchandise when offered for sale, should be properly identified and presented to the purchaser will be informed as to its true character.

"Resolved, that the National Grange favors the enactment of a Federal statute which will extend the provisions of the Oleomargarine Law to the so-called cooking fats that are now being manufactured, offered for sale and sold in imitation of butter."

Test of Supervision Begun in Ionia School

An educational experiment to evaluate rural school supervision is being conducted in Ionia county by members of the Western Teachers College faculty in co-operation with the Ionia County Normal school. A test of standardized achievement was applied to 21 rural schools in Ionia county recently by a corps of Western State Teachers College students under the direction of Dr. McKinley Robinson and Dr. Paul V. Sangren of the faculty. Three of the schools will be selected for supervision during the winter months.

In the spring another corps of students will apply the tests to the same schools to determine the progress made in the three supervised schools as compared with the progress in the 18 not supervised.

Abolish Holland Service At Fremont Church

The First Reformed church of Fremont has decided to discontinue its Holland service.

Last summer the congregation decided to place the church entirely on an English basis, but the consistory added an afternoon service in the Holland language. At a recent meeting the consistory voted to discontinue the Holland service in the afternoon. This will be the first time there has not been a Holland service at this church.

Peter Oosting was re-elected elder and Herbert VanZomer was chosen deacon. G. D. Stroven was elected elder to succeed Joe Rozema and Peter Pell was named deacon to succeed Gert Stroven. New hymn books will be purchased, for use in church services.

Poems That Live

And home my long-strayed eyes to me,
Which, O! too long have dwelt on thee:
But if from you they've learned such fill,

To sweetly smile,
And then beguile,
Keep the deceivers, keep them still!

And when my harmless heart again,
Lies low in worthy thought could
Not have been taught by thine
To smile and oath,
And say, "I see his nose of mine."

And when my back my heart and eyes,
I see how all thy feelings;
I see how all thy feelings;
I see how all thy feelings;
I see how all thy feelings;

And when my back my heart and eyes,
I see how all thy feelings;
I see how all thy feelings;
I see how all thy feelings;
I see how all thy feelings;

Enjoy Honeymoon After 55 Years

A honeymoon, postponed from day to day and year to year for 55 years, has been undertaken by Christian F. Ziegler and his wife, and they have sailed for a Pacific cruise from Los Angeles, Cal. They declare they never have had a quarrel, because each has been willing to seek the good points and overlook the faults of each other.

U. OF M. HAS ONE OF BEST LIBRARIES IN COUNTRY

The University library is one of the best organized in the country from the standpoint of service, and with the Clements library has one of the best reference collections, it was learned in an interview with Roy Callahan, assistant superintendent of the circulation department.

Mr. Callahan stated that the institution is mainly a reference library, which makes it particularly excellent for research work. This is why, he said, the library does not attempt to maintain a large department of popular fiction.

According to Mr. Callahan, the Michigan library ranks with those of Columbia, Harvard, Cornell, Yale and California in size. He quoted the results of a very careful comparative study of these libraries and foreign libraries from the service standpoint.

The average length of time for obtaining a book at the Michigan library is four minutes and fifty-six seconds, better by one minute than the University of California. Columbia and Cornell average thirty minutes at the best. At these later institutions, Mr. Callahan said, the student is required to leave his seat number, the book being delivered there when it is found. He said that the delivery of books in European libraries requires from one day to a week's time. The British Museum, Vatican and Biblioteche Nationale at Paris deliver books in three to five days, he stated.

In speaking of the volume of circulation, Mr. Callahan stated that approximately 640,000 books circulate from the Michigan library per year. Though the University of California has a slightly larger home circulation, that of Michigan ranks very high, he said, the number of books charged out per day for home use averaging between 300 and 350. He produced statistics which showed that the number of books charged out on day slips for use in the library, averaged around 800.

Mr. Callahan stated that two out of every three books called for at the circulation desk are delivered, from one-third to one-half of the balance being on reserve in other departments. He considered it remarkable that only two per cent of the books were actually lost in a place where the volume of circulation is so large. He said that books are so easily misplaced in the stacks because of the intricate but excellent classification system.

A feature of the University of Michigan library, which is lacking in others is the Teletograph and Carrier system, he said. In other libraries the "book life" and "page systems" are used, which, he said, make the delivery of books much slower.

Fashions of Movies

Enpe Valez, of the screen, exhibits a new coat for resort wear. It is made of gray fortinetette with a half cape. The sleeves are embroidered in gray, the collar in platinum fox, and it is belted in self material.

Ironwood Boy Enters National Essay Test

Robert Pearson of the Central school at Ironwood, will represent Michigan in the national safety essay contest sponsored by the highway education board at Washington, it has been announced from the offices of the state department of public instruction.

Suus Luukerinen of the Negaunee high school, took second place in the contest. Those who won third place prizes are: James Christopherson, Manistee; Annie Nanki, Ironwood; Helen Jolonen, Ironwood; Ramona Bowman, Wyandotte; Martha Siedow, Wyandotte; Blanche Tessin, Hemlock; Elizabeth Sandford, Bannister; Harold Brinks, Grand Rapids; Eleanor Berglund, Manistee; David Royer, Grand Rapids; Jack Cline, Grand Rapids; Lilabelle Hawkins, Vermontville; Virginia Lillis, Detroit; Thomas Pence, Detroit; Anton Joen, Detroit; and Leona Parker, Pontiac.

Rex W. Nulton, a teacher in the Detroit schools, won the state prize for the best lesson on public safety.

Church Pays Off 40-Year Old Debt

The Reformed church at South Blendon has liquidated the debt on its property, on which interest has been paid more than 40 years.

When the church was organized in the '80's two loans were made from the Daniel Schenk fund, amounting to $778. The first attempt to reduce the principal was made last year when the church treasury and the Bible class reduced the debt to an even $500.

The congregation recently held a meeting to discuss the best method for clearing the debt. It was then the members of the church came forward and offered their contributions. When the money was counted the $500 goal was topped by $67.

The church lists 69 families and 181 communicant members. Rev. John VanderBeek is its pastor.

Montcalm County Has Modern Dairy

Montcalm county now can boast of one of the most modern equipped institutions for the aged in the state of Michigan, due to the sum of $50,000 invested recently in repairs and new accessories. The institution is located four miles east of Greenville. Many conveniences have been installed to insure comfort to the 38 inmates now residing on the farm and modern machinery has decreased labor to a minimum.

A one-story building, constructed in such a way that additional stories may be added at any time, houses the new laundry adjacent to the main building. It is equipped with modern facilities throughout. Everything is done on the inside, making it unnecessary even to step outdoors.

The entire interior of the main building has been redecorated from top to bottom. Every room has received a new coat of paint and varnish, and the offices and reception rooms have been repapered. The floors through the building have been covered with linoleum, costing $3,000.

An added feature in the kitchen and also the storeroom are two huge electric refrigerators installed at an expense of $1,400. Both boxes hold an abundant supply of food materials.

A number of new toilet fixtures were installed throughout the building and new steam radiators, light fixtures, floors laid in more than 13 different rooms, new roofs on porches and root cellar, cattle pens, new septic tank and a new feed grinder are only a few of the many improvements.

All of the electric lights and motors (there are 10 throughout the grounds) are run on current obtained from their own power plant recently installed on Dickerson creek. A five-horsepower generator of the hydro-electric type supplies the power to the county farm and to three surrounding farms in exchange for slorage rights on the creek.

College Graduates Form Lansing Unit

Alumni of more than a score of universities and colleges in the Lansing area have held recent conferences with the idea of bringing about an organization to stimulate friendly relations and co-operation. The movement was initiated by Edward H. Saire and Turner H. Broughton, presidents, respectively, of the organization representing the University of Michigan and the Michigan State College.

The Lansing Alumni Association had its first luncheon a few weeks ago at St. Paul's Guild hall.

Graduates of these higher educational institutions were present: University of Michigan, Michigan State College, University of Chicago, Northwestern University, Ohio State University, Iowa State University, University of Illinois, Yale, Cornell, Purdue, Dennison, Wesleyan, Carnegie, Oberlin, Goucher College, Baltimore, Olivet and Albion.

President Saire of the Lansing Alumnus Association said that there are about 700 graduates of the University of Michigan within a radius of 20 miles of the state capital. An invitation will be extended to Dr. Clarence Cock Little, president of the University of Michigan, to address the Lansing graduates early in the new year.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

MENU HINT

Broiled Lamb Chops
Potato Cakes Stewed Tomatoes
String Bean and Carrot Salad
Pumpkin and Coconut Tarts
Coffee

The broiled lamb chops that the reducer feels safe in eating is the piece of resistance of today's dinner. Put them on a hot broiler, let them brown on one side, then turn, brown the other, then turn flame down and cook more slowly until done—about ten minutes, according to the thickness of the chops. Salt and pepper when done and be sure to serve them piping hot.

Today's Recipes

Pumpkin and Coconut Tarts—Have ready two cups of canned pumpkin, one-half cup sugar, three eggs, the yolks and whites beaten separately, two cups of milk, one-half cup moist coconut, one and one-half teaspoons cinnamon, one-half teaspoon salt, one and one-half teaspoons ginger. Mix the pumpkin with the sugar, ginger, cinnamon, salt; add the well-beaten egg yolks, the milk and coconut and fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Fill pastry lined tart tins with the mixture, bake for 25 minutes in a hot oven. When serving, top with a tablespoon of whipped cream.

SUGGESTIONS

Liver in Tomato Jelly
One cup cooked liver, chopped, one tablespoon gelatin, one-half cup cold water, one and one-half cups cooked tomatoes, one slice onion, one bay leaf, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one bouillon cube, one stalk celery, one clove. Cook tomatoes with all the seasonings for fifteen minutes, add gelatin first softened in cold water, stir until gelatin is dissolved, and strain. Pour a spoonful in each of six chilled molds. Shake until gelatin forms a thin coating on bottom and sides. Add liver and rest of liquid mixture. Set to cool for several hours. Unmold and serve with shredded lettuce and mayonnaise dressing.

The World and All

By CHARLES R. DRISCOLL

SPOILING THE CHILD

I am convinced that the profession of parenthood is the most important one in the world, and the least understood. Were it not for a certain amount of instinct that has persisted through the ages from darkly barbarous times, I fear we would make a much worse job of rearing our children than we do. And as our complicated civilization grows older and more complex, the force of instinct and the wisdom of primitive days become less and less available as guides for the parents of today.

You have to pass strict examinations before you can enter the professions of law, teaching, engineering, medicine or divinity. But nobody dare examine or cross-question you before you rush into the profession of parenthood. Well, I doubt that anybody is competent to make the examination, anyhow.

H. Addington Bruce, in December Good Housekeeping, talks about spoiling children by over-indulgence, petting and toadying. I believe this is a most important aspect of parental delinquency.

As Mr. Bruce points out, many parents think they are storing up gratitude for themselves when they coddle the child and give in to its every whim and tantrum. Instead, of course, they are merely storing up grief for themselves.

Who hasn't seen the spoiled child grown up? The good-looking young woman who can't get a husband because she can't find any young man whom she can bedevil and impose upon as she has been accustomed to do with her mother or father or both. The spoiled boy who can't live more than a few months with any one wife, because no sensible woman will minister to his self-pity as his mother

Almost invariably the mother spoils her child lives to drink a cup, unless she has the good fortune to die in her early years. The spoiled child always becomes impudently unmannered, inconsiderate of his mother, unable to adjust himself to the ways of a world that has no time for the foibles of the spoiled boy or girl.

The coddling mother and father deserve their punishment, too. They love to "sacrifice" themselves daily for their spoiled children. They enjoy the role of martyr parent. They think it noble. Of course there are justifiable and necessary sacrifices which parent and child must make for one another. The thing to discern is the line between the justifiable and the foolish sacrifices; the need is for good judgment to temper sentiment.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

WHEN THERE ARE NO CHILDREN AND COUPLE IS UNCONGENIAL MRS. LEE COUNSELS DIVORCE

I am not a divorce advocate. Companionate marriage and all the other so-called solutions to the marriage problem do not seem adequate to me. But I cannot see any point in two people living together in absolute unhappiness, when there are no children to be made miserable by the break, just because they fear the talk that a legal separation will bring. I think married people should make every effort to adjust themselves and to be happy together when they have once taken the step into matrimony, but when all such efforts fail because the two are utterly uncongenial, I think the marriage should be dissolved. Therefore, in the case of the writer of the following I would counsel divorce. The "Married" she refers to was unhappily married and loved a man whom her husband had ordered off their place.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I know how 'Married' feels as I have lived through just what she has, although my husband has not ordered my friend off the place and he does not really know how this friendship is between us. I have tried to make a real home and do everything for him, but I hate my home and feel better when I am away. I have tried to think it was my fault and tried to love him. All I got was fault finding. The only time I feel happy and contented is with this friend. We surely would have an ideal home and be happy were we together. I would leave this man only we don't want any talk. I am glad I have no children. Children carried by me would always be discontented. We do nothing wrong in our friendship. Tell me through your column what you think.

"Bell Rose." I think it would be a good deal better to leave your husband, divorce him and marry this real friend, feeling as you do. Really, you know, you are living a lie. People will talk about you and your friend, even though you think no one knows, and if you are sure you could be happy with him why not try it? Remember, though, that no one is perfect, and undoubtedly this man you love has faults, too, and you may be disappointed.

How to Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

The third step to beauty is a step that I'm afraid most of us overlook. Perhaps it's because in a sudden burst of confidence we become a little too assured of success and try to reach the goal without realizing the importance of stepping stones.

Every skin needs toning. The step is more protective than corrective, and yet, paradoxically enough, this third step is one that you cannot possibly afford to overlook if you are reclaiming lost youth.

So after you have cleansed and stimulated, wet a piece of cotton with a good skin toning lotion and pat it generously all over your face and throat. Wipe off the surplus by covering your face with a thin tissue and patting it gently.

This not only serves to tone the skin, but it gives a helping hand toward keeping up the good results obtained from stimulation. Witch hazel and alcohol, which are highly astringent in their properties, are frequently used to tone and brace the skin. That they do this is unquestionably so, but you must remember that any very powerful astringent is bound to be drying in its effects, and a dry skin presupposes wrinkles.

Cold water is another simple astringent, and, provided it hasn't reached icy temperature, is quite harmless. To counteract the drying tendency that alcohol, witch hazel and some other clear astringents possess, it is well to use a sparing quantity of skin-clearing or nourishing cream, after your stimulating process and before your skin-toning step to beauty. However if your skin is oily, this precaution is scarcely necessary. A skin-toning lotion of creamy or milk consistency will also eliminate this precaution, as it will contain skin-softening ingredients.

OLD CURIOSITY SHOP GIVES UP TREASURES

The search that has been made through the store of the late Frank Delise of Benton Harbor who passed away recently has revealed what was thought would be the reward of the seekers after the hidden treasures of the man who had lived the life of a hermit in his little 15-foot front store on West Main street for many years and whose stock consisted of several decades old. So many small store rooms with treasures that it was necessary to be removed so that an inventory might be taken and the goods on display to be sold.

Hubbard of the trust department of the American National Bank of Benton Harbor was named as trustee to look after the estate of the late hermit merchant and has been searching for a will that he believed might be hidden in some nook in the store or in the iron safe that was stored under a counter and piled high with trash and dirt. The safe was located but the combination could not be found and it was necessary to call in experts to open the strong box.

The safe revealed the hiding place of a large amount of gold, silver, currency, bonds and other valuables. In tin cans, in shoe boxes, in small tobacco cans and in other unusual hiding places were found the gold pieces, each of which had been carefully wrapped in tinfoil. Although a complete count of the cash has not been made, it was believed by Trustee Hubbard that the amount would reach about $5,000. One cigar box is said to have been found concealed beneath the counter which contained about 10,000 pennies.

A lock box in the American National Bank disclosed nearly $13,000 in bonds and certificates of deposit, and other additional cash which totaled nearly $13,000. This was in addition to what the safe in the store gave up, and it is believed that still more valuables will be located before a thorough canvass of every nook and corner of the store has been completed.

It is known that Delise owned the store building that he occupied so long and that he was also the owner of several other pieces of valuable real estate, but the trustee is as yet unable to give an estimate as to what Delise was really worth.

First U. S. Padlock Case Up in Owosso

Owosso will have its first building padlocked under the prohibition law, if the plans of two federal officers, who raided a cigar store conducted by Milo Rambat, 35 years old, and Charles Denda, 34 years old, materialize. Accompanied by Sheriff George Lawcock and deputies, they confiscated a small quantity of liquor, arrested the two men, and took them to federal court in Bay City. The place had been raided before.

FIND MANY OIL WELLS IN STATE

The large number of valuable oil wells that have been discovered in Michigan during the past year has made it necessary for the state to take some action regarding the taxing of this class of property. The valuation of these oil wells is a problem that presents many difficulties as it is impossible to predict with much certainty what the future of these wells will be. This is especially true here in Michigan as the greatest part of the production comes from wells that are less than a year old.

In order to get a fair valuation of these wells on the tax rolls the administrative board passed a resolution allowing the department of conservation $3,500 to use in making this appraisal.

To be sure that a fair valuation is reached, it is necessary to secure someone whose reputation and ability in this work is such that the state is assured a fair valuation. Part of this money will be used to pay some man or firm for this work and the remainder will go toward collecting information on these properties that will be in such shape that it can be

STATE FERRIES EARN $333,000

The state highway department has made public a comparative report of the traffic on the state ferries at the Straits of Mackinac for November, 1927, and November, 1928, which shows that in November, 1928, the boats carried 12,270 vehicles and 18,665 passengers and earned $36,516.75, whereas in November, 1927, they carried only 9,682 vehicles and 15,526 passengers and earned $28,679.

Earnings during the preceding months of each year bring the comparative totals for the seasons to the following figures:

1927	$287,197.25
1928	$333,136.25

Motorists will now have to avail themselves of the transportation facilities provided by the Mackinac Transportation company. However, through an arrangement made between the state and the Mackinac Transportation company, the cost to motorists will be the same on the railroad ferries during the winter months as they have been on the state ferries.

It is impossible to operate the state ferries throughout the winter months as these boats are not ice-breakers. The service afforded during the winter will not provide as frequent trips as that offered while the state ferries were in operation, but connections are made by the Mackinac Transportation company's boats with all trains north and south. The schedule of crossings follows:

Leave Mackinac—3 a. m., 8 a. m., 11:45 a. m., 5 p. m. and 10 p. m.
Leave St. Ignace—6 a. m., 10 a. m., 2 p. m., 8 p. m., 11:45 p. m.

Following their final run of the season the state ferries were laid up for the winter the Mackinac City and the St. Ignace at Cheboygan and the Straits of Mackinac at Detroit, where alterations will be made during the winter which will increase the carrying capacity of the ship by about 40 per cent.

Lake Scenic Route Proposed to State

Edwin Sims, Chicago attorney, appeared before the state administrative board recently in support of the program of the Northern Michigan Roads Association, which calls for a paved trunkline highway along the shore of Lake Huron from Bay City to Mackinac City. With U.S.-31 along the Lake Michigan shore, this would constitute the greatest scenic highway in America, he said, and vastly enhance that section of the state for resort purposes.

Mr. Sims, who has a large estate near Au Gres, asked particularly for the paving of U.S.-23 from Omer to Tawas City. He was told the contract had been awarded.

A delegation from Mt. Clemens and Roseville thanked the board for the start on the Gratiot super-highway and asked the co-operation of the highway department in the establishment of a Roseville terminal by the Detroit department of street railways. Frank F. Rogers, highway commissioner, promised to co-operate in order that the plans for the terminal may be in keeping with the plans for completing the highway.

Governor Fred W. Green earlier in the day received a delegation from Wexford and Manistee counties asking the establishment of a state trunk highway between Manistee and Cadillac.

Dow Pushes Study of Single Phase Motor

In recognition of the fact that there is a potential demand for at least 25,000,000 single-phase motors in the United States, investigation of this type of motor has been proceeding for some time in the laboratories of the Department of Electrical Engineering of the University of Michigan, in charge of Professor H. F. Bailey of that department, and sponsored by Alex Dow, of the Detroit Edison Company.

Professor Bailey's work, which has already resulted in several marked improvements to the single-phase motor, was instigated by Mr. Dow, who felt that all possible effort should be made toward the improvement of a type of motor employed in vacuum-sweeper, gas or oil burner, egg-beater, vibrating set—in fact every household device used in residential districts supplied only with single phase circuit.

Even when warned at the outset by the scientists of the University that no definite promise of success could be held out in a field which, it was believed, had already been thoroughly investigated by the scientists of all large motor companies, Mr. Dow refused to be discouraged in advance but replied:

"I quite understand that, but still wish that the work should go on."

Lansing Doctor Loses $50,000 to Swindlers

A swindle, said to have involved $50,000, with Dr. C. L. Barber of Lansing as the victim, is being investigated.

Dr. Barber consulted Wilber M. Brucker, attorney general, relative to extradition of the alleged swindlers if they are apprehended. It is charged Dr. Barber was induced to invest in an aircraft company. The "offices" of the concern were in Peoria, and Dr. Barber went there to discuss the transaction. After putting his money at the disposal of the dignified representatives of the alleged fake company another trip revealed that the elaborate offices had been abandoned and the money was gone.

Gets $1,500,000 Order For 450 Airplanes

A $1,500,000 order for 450 Robin airplanes, the largest single order for commercial planes ever signed, was placed with the Robertson Aircraft Company at the Chicago aircraft show by C. S. Jones, veteran pilot and president of the Curtiss Flying Service.

The order calls for the entire production of the company's St. Louis factory for the first six months of 1929. The model of the plane now on exhibition at the Coliseum was sold at a premium of $500 for immediate delivery after the close of the show.

"We will have twenty-five flying fields in operation in the United States, using these planes, by next summer," Mr. Jones said. "We will use them for taxi service, aerial photography and for training student pilots. At each field we will have a sales force demonstrating and selling the planes and we expect to dispose of at least 800 of them in the next year."

Jackson Has New City Manager

Walton B. Hodges, city engineer, was named city manager of Jackson after the city commission had accepted the resignation of City Manager Fred R. Harris. The change will become effective Feb. 1.

Mr. Hodges, a native of Jackson, is 43 years old. He became affiliated with the city engineering department in 1908, after having been graduated from the University of Michigan, became city engineer in 1917 and resigned in 1922 to become city manager of Daytona Beach, Fla. He returned here Jan. 1, 1927, to again become city engineer.

City Manager Harris assumed the office he is quitting in April, 1926, coming here from Escanaba, where he held a similar post for four years.

INDIANS TO TEST HUNTING RIGHTS UNDER U. S. PACT

Whether the treaty between the United States government and the Indians of the northern part of the state, giving the latter the perpetual right to hunt, fish and trap on the reservations, is a scrap of paper, probably will be decided in the United States supreme court. Action looking to a test case has been begun in Baraga county, and both sides are said to be anxious that a construction be put on the treaty that will forever end the controversy.

It is believed that only a decision by the highest tribunal in the country will settle the matter. It will solve the question whether those of Indian blood have the right to hunt and trap as did their fore-fathers, without fear of arrest.

Harry Corgan, prosecuting attorney of Baraga county, went to Lansing to lay the matter before Attorney General W. M. Brucker. James Chosa of Keweenaw Bay was the man selected, apparently by both sides, to make the test. He was arrested on two charges, by a number of deputy game wardens, on Sept. 28 and taken before Justice Crebassa, who bound him over to the circuit court on $500 bonds. Bail was furnished. At the next term of the circuit court, scheduled for Jan. 14, Leo J. Brennan will have taken office as prosecuting attorney.

It is said by Baraga county officials that there is no animus in the prosecution, that there is a certain amount of sympathy for the defendant among Baraga county people in certain. So far as has been ascertained there never has been a conviction in the circuit court on these charges when it was known that the defendant was of Indian blood, or if he claimed exemption under the old treaty.

Two men were fined by Justice Crebassa recently and they gave notice of appeal. However, the ten days granted by law to effect such an appeal passed. The defendants then paid the fine under protest. It is believed that should the upper courts hold the treaty in violation that the two can obtain a refund of the money paid out under this protest.

It may be that should the Michigan state supreme court hold that the treaty still stands, that the matter will rest there. It depends, however, on the attitude of the attorney general's office.

Those of Indian blood, who are attempting to preserve their rights under the treaty, are anxious to take the matter up. They believe that they have every chance of establishing their right. They maintain that they know of no precedent in history where the United States government has reneged on a treaty it has made. The Indians at that time were a nation, at least a race, and treaties between nations or races, with single exceptions, are not violated, they say, at least in times of peace.

PURCHASE NEW CHURCH

We are repeating the following article from the Athens Times by request which relates to Rev. J. E. Cook, a former pastor of the Pinckney Congregational church.

With the final step taken in the transfer of the Reformed church property from the Ft. Wayne Classis to the trustees of the Congregational church an important chapter has been written in the church history of Athens. Already workers are engaged in making a few changes on the interior of the building, which includes enlarging the choir loft and the re-arrangement of the basement to gain extra room.

Following the disbandment of the Reformed church society and the abandonment of the pretty brick church at the corner of Burr Oak and Clark Sts., negotiations were opened between the Congregational trustees and the Ft. Wayne Classis to whom the property reverted. This week the deed was delivered and the property turned over to the Congregational church. The parsonage was not included in the deal.

To the present popular pastor, the Rev. J. E. Cook, who is now entering on his third year as pastor, and his family, is due considerable credit for the present prosperity of the church and its acquisition of the new home. And in passing around the credit due mention must be made of F. G. Woodruff, chairman of the trustees.

It was hoped to have the new church ready for the Christmas exercises but that was found impossible.

Here's where your outside gets ahead of your inside; for your inside gave the press account of the wreck of the Vestris and the heroism of the wireless operator "Michael O'Loughlin of Belfast." Now your readers are informed that the hero of the Vestris was from Camolin, Co. Wexford, Ireland.

Two of O'Loughlin's companion operators landing in Dublin from the Celtic, wrecked outside Cobb Harbor on the 9th told of this, and it came to me by the "Dublin Independent" of the 10th, also the same paper told the correct story in its account of the wreck, given when it occurred.

BOXING MATCHES AT HOWELL

A number from here attended the boxing and wrestling matches held at the Locey Amusement building at Howell last Friday evening. Wiltze of Howell won the first wrestling match from Wilkinson, taking the first fall in 8 minutes and the second in 3. Jim Dauby was given a decision on points over Kid Reed at the end of six rounds of milling. Farmer Newton of Fowlerville scored a knockout over Patton of Howell in the third round. Mickey McFarland of Milford boxed rings around Danny Gordanier of Howell and the latter seconds threw the towel in the ring in the fifth round. The bout between Wilbert Wilson of Fowlerville vs. George Hicks of Pontiac went six rounds and ended in a draw. In the final event Max Glover of Hartland got two falls out of three from Carl Dunbar of Flint, getting the first in three and the second in 2 minutes.

CHRISTMAS CARDS

The demands for Christmas and holiday cards has become so enormous that today around $55,000.00 is spent annually for them in the United States. There are around 5,000 employees in about forty plants engaged in manufacturing these cards.

The greeting card of president-elect Hoover, which was prepared some weeks ago, is really quite unique in that it was insured for $10,000 and being sent by first class mail the postage amounted to $16. This unusual card could not be carried easily as it measured eight feet long and four feet wide. The Hoover greeting was hewn from a fir tree in the state of Washington on which more than 2,000 signatures of the members of the Hoover club at the University of Washington were inscribed.

TULAREMIA, THE RABBIT DISEASE

Andrew Singer of this place told us last week that he shot a rabbit recently which he threw away as it had white spots on its liver which he claimed was a sign of tularemia. The state conservation department has the following to say about this disease:

White spots found on the liver of a rabbit does not necessarily mean that the animal is a victim of tularemia. This statement has been made by experts in the state departments who have been investigating the disease for several months. It is possible for other diseases to produce white spots on a rabbit's liver. Coccidiosis or tuberculosis may produce such markings and it is possible to classify them without expert examination.

While no positive cases of tularemia had been uncovered to date, it is the general belief that the disease probably does exist in some of the Michigan rabbits. One or two of the specimens that have been placed under scrutiny developed suspicious reactions but no one has come forward to say that the infection was definitely established at the dreaded tularemia.

Two Hungarian partridge and a ruffed grouse that were believed to have been victims of tularemia were found to be suffering from other disorders so that the rumor that tularemia might spread to other branches of wild animal and bird life has not been founded on fact as yet.

Game experts are urging, however, that sportsmen use caution in cleaning and handling rabbits or any other game that show symptoms of disease. In other states tularemia has been communicated to humans through the careless handling of them. The disease is said to have spread among humans in Ohio, one city reporting nearly 80 cases.
