W. W. BARNARD

JAMES P. HARRIS
James P. Harris, aged 76 years died at his home on the Howell-Pinckney road Tuesday, April 30.

The deceased was born in West Putnam May 30, 1852 and was united in marriage to Mary Ellen Conklin February 9, 1879. Surviving are his widow, three sons, Peter of Detroit, Emmett of Howell, and Eugene at home, two daughters, Mrs. O. H. Reed and Mrs. B. J. Hausheer, both of Howell.

The funeral will be held from St. Mary's Church, Pinckney, Friday at 10-00 a. m. Rev. Leo Dorsey officiating. Burial will be in St. Mary's Cemetery.

PAVING ASSESSMENT REVIEW

Representatives from the office of the assessment engineer were here Wednesday and reviewed the paving tax which will be assessed against the different property owners. Five years is given to pay the tax. The property owners on Main St. who own lots where the paving is more than 20 ft. wide are assessed about $100 a lot. Those in the second zone which is about a block and a half on each side of Main St. $30 and those in the third zone $17 and so on. The largest assessment is against the Haze Sisters. Their tax is approximately $2200. This is caused by the fact that the Haze farm was platted into lots at the time of the incorporation and the plat has never been vacated. So they are taxed on each lot. Putnam township must pay over $8000 tax on the public square. The total tax on the township is about $4000. The county tax is $600. Copies of the complete tax list are in the hands of the township and village clerks and anyone wishing to know their exact paving tax can find out by applying to them. No date for its collection has as yet been set.

MILK PRODUCERS MEETING

Martin Miller of Detroit who has a large dairy farm near Northville, a large meeting of the milk producers of this section to be held at Howell recently. Its object was to aid the farmer in getting more money for their milk. Charles Reed of Marion was elected chairman. Mr. Miller was the principal speaker and advocated that the farmers club together and establish a distributing station in Detroit. His estimate called for a capital of $5,000,000. He said the government would underwrite the bonds for the amount if the project was properly backed. He suggested that the farmers pool their cows to back the bonds. Someone asked if the proposed plan included kicking out the Michigan Milk Producers Assoc. This caused several to take up cudgels for the association. However when all who thought they were getting a fair price for milk were asked to raise the hands none were raised. It was finally decided to hold another meeting at Detroit to back the project. 45 of those present agreed to attend. The following committee was named to take charge of it. M. J. Roche, Pinckney; Robin Carr, Fowlerville; Mark Curdy, Hartland; Jay Tooley, Howell; Clarence Taylor, Brighton.

SCHOOL ISSUE LOSSES AGAIN

The proposition to bond for $100,000 to build a new school was defeated at Stockbridge for the third time at a special election held there last Friday by a majority of twenty-one votes. This shows a gain for those in favor of the new school as in the previous election it lost by 44 votes.

DREW BIG CROWD

The benefit band given by the Pinckney band at Chalker's dance hall at Patterson Lake Saturday night drew a large attendance. After paying expenses. The boys cleared about $85. This money will be used to buy horns with. The band boys wish to thank the people for their patronage which is sincerely appreciated.

GAVE SATISFACTION

The Lucile Elmore Co., the last number on the Pinckney Lecture Course played to a well filled house last Friday evening. Miss Elmore is a wit and mimic of considerable ability. Jean Harper's rendition of Indian dances was very pleasing and Betty Pochelwate is a pianist of skill. The attendance at the different numbers on course has not been as large as in previous years and two of the entertainments were not up to the standard set by previous course. The lecture bureau however asserts that the course selected for next year is bound to give satisfaction. The committee about broke even this year on the financial end of the deal.

Local Base Ball Team to Open the Season here Sunday, May 5

The Pinckney-Michigan game baseball team will open season with the Howell team at Pinckney on Sunday, May 5. The game will be called at 7:30 p.m. sharp. The new uniforms have been ordered but on account of the lettering it is not certain that they will arrive on time for the opening game. The Howell team will be composed of the following players who are well known here: Bill Conroy, G. Cotter, Ike Lewis, John Myers, Shorty Vienna, Dick Griffith, and others. The starting lineup for Pinckney has not as yet definitely been decided upon.

It is costing about $250 to put a team in the field this year. Of this amount the Michigan Oil Co. will pay about $150. A good attendance should turn out in order to insure the preservation of their generosity.

"Inside Talk"

The tire trade has its "inside talk" the same as any other.

Just now that talk is all of Goodyear—and the terrific pace Goodyear is setting for the field.

The reason that Goodyear is stepping out ahead of everybody else in the tire business comes right down to the product.

Right now, and for years past, Goodyear prices, values and quality have had it over all the other tire-makers like a tent.

This is no secret in the trade—it's common knowledge.

The hint may be valuable to you the next time you need tires.

WOMEN TO OPEN BUILDING MAY 14

Senior women of the University of Michigan, who, aiding the alumnae, helped make the new University of Michigan League building possible, will derive benefit from their work, at least during their last six weeks on the campus. This has been made possible by the plan which calls for the formal opening of the new building May 4 instead of next fall, as was intended formerly.

Dedication of the new $1,000,000 structure will be left until Alumnae day, one of the events of the commencement program, which will take place June 14, but the building will be placed in use after May 4.

Preparations for the opening are well under way, according to Mrs. W. D. Henderson, executive secretary of the Alumnae Council, and Mrs. Zoe B. Bolles of New York, recently engaged as business manager, has already started work.

The opening will take the form of an afternoon and evening reception, with contributors to the building fund as invited guests. Members of the Alumnae Council, the board of governors of the building and of the Women's league will co-operate in receiving.

Fully instructed guides will conduct visitors through the building throughout the afternoon and evening. The opening, however, does not include provision for the serving of meals nor for use of the sleeping accommodations.

Entertainment will include a special program by the Girls' Glee club and a dance drama, from 4 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon and from 8:30 to 9:30 o'clock in the evening. The Freshman Girls' Glee club will also provide entertainment in the form of a concert in the assembly hall in the afternoon.

A formal dance will be held in the ballroom in the evening. Senior girls will be given the preference in the distribution of invitations to this event.

Formal opening of the theater, which seats 700 persons, and is generally regarded as a step toward an all-campus theater of double that size will take place Monday evening, May 6. At that time, the Comedy club, the oldest dramatic organization of the campus, will offer "Granite," Paul Stephenson of Grand Rapids, who has previously directed campus dramatic presentations, will direct the cast of this play. The play will run throughout the week.

The Play Production society, another campus dramatic organization, has engaged the theater for the second week, and will offer "The Beggar on Horseback." This society also has engaged the theater for four nights each week during the first seven weeks of the summer session.

Miss Amy Loomis, former dramatic star of the campus, has been named director of the theater, it is announced. Inasmuch as the theater serves a vital need, it is intended that it shall be used for all organizations, preference being given campus societies, of course.

Dedication of the building will be the big event of Alumnae day. Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont, donor of the largest amount to the building fund, and Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg will be the speakers.

Holland Would Have Tabernacle

Plans are being fastened for the building of a tabernacle in Holland. The movement has the support of business men and laymen, and although still informal indications point to a definite organization to push the project.

Poems That Live

THE TRYST

She stood at the gate in the twilight,
'Twas the lovers favorite hour;
And spreading o'er all were the crimson rays
Of the sun, the king of power.

Brown were her eyes, and most patient,
Most patient and trusting were they;
And her dark red hair seemed darker still
In the fast receding day.

About her all Nature seemed quiet,
No sound broke the solemn hour,
As she calmly awaited his coming,
His coming to her bower.

Kissed by the rays of the dying sun
As the sphyx kissed the bud,
She sees a man approach with a pall
As she calmly chews her cud!

Hawaii Lauds Their Courage

When volcanologists warned the Hawaiian islands recently that a tidal wave 100 feet high was due to engulf the islands, virtually the entire population is reported to have fled to the hilltops. But two California girls, Helen Armstrong and Ruth Shanks, refused to leave the lowlands, preferring to stay behind to look after things while urging their friends to seek safety. The fact that the wave failed to materialize didn't lessen their bravery in the eyes of the islanders. Above, the pair snapped on their arrival in Los Angeles.

State Alumni Day Set for June 22

Michigan State alumni will gather in East Lansing June 22 to observe the annual Alumni day, according to Glenn Stewart, alumni secretary.

Various classes have been designated to return for their reunions and chairmen have been appointed. Frank S. Kedzie, 77, East Lansing, has been appointed honorary chairman. Kedzie formerly was president of the college and dean of the chemistry department. He now is college historian.

Class reunions, a golf tournament, a baby show, a baseball game and various other features will be on the program.

Hospital to Seek $1,250,000 Fund

Preparations in Flint for the drive to obtain $1,250,000 for a new St. Joseph's hospital will start late in June, according to the announcement of hospital authorities. The new hospital, which will replace the building on Ann Arbor street, will be constructed on the Gilkey Ridge property on East Kearsley street adjacent to the city nursery and the General high school campus. The entire building project includes a hospital of 135 beds, a nurses' home and a heating and laundry plant.

Vacation Thrills

Look over the very newest things in beach pajamas and tuck them in your trunk for the summer vacation. You can't go wrong with a suit like the one pictured. Solid color trousers with plenty of room, as they're wide and loose. Beach coat of silk of the very newest cut, white blouse and swanky pirate-like sash tied about the waist.

College Honorary To Publish Book

Sphinx, honorary women's activity society at Michigan State college, has outlined a series of spring term activities that will be of great service to the institution as a whole. The plans for the coming term were discussed at a meeting and committees to take charge of the various projects were appointed.

The society is planning to publish a book of all Michigan State College songs some time during the spring term. This anthology will contain all present songs of Michigan State and will also contain two new songs that were written recently by a former member of the faculty. The prize-winning Eta Omicron song will also appear in the book.

Glady's Traynor of Milwaukee, Wis., is chairman of the committee in charge of compiling the song book. She is assisted by Marion Woodworth, Glen Elyn, Ill.; Kathryn Famer, Goodrich; Jean Stokes, Grand Rapids, and Myrta Susan Coons, East Lansing. Miss Lucille Morris of Lansing is writing and preparing music for several more campus songs that will appear in the new book.

Will Lay Cornerstone At Ferris on May 15

The cornerstone of the new Ferris institute alumni building will be laid May 15. The event will be observed with appropriate exercises.

Excavation work has been hindered by excessive rain and lack of teams. Only one-quarter of the excavating has been completed. The east basement wall has been poured.

Ketcham Will Speak To Albion Seniors

Congressman John Clark Ketcham of Hastings will be the speaker at the ninety-fourth annual Albion college commencement exercises June 10. Dr. John L. Seaton, president of the college, announced.

Women Form Aero Body

Articles of association have been filed at Detroit with the Wayne county Clerk by the Women's National Aeronautical Association of the United States. The purpose of the organization is announced as the promotion of the interests of aeronautics and aviation. Offices of the association are listed at 1220 Free Press building, with the following list of officers: President, Mrs. Orra H. Blackmore; vice president, Mrs. L. M. Woolson; second vice president, Mrs. E. S. Evans; recording secretary, Mrs. C. V. Burnett; corresponding secretary, Miss R. B. Schlee, and treasurer, Mrs. Sid A. Erwin.

Gardening Is Good For Children

"One of the pleasantest things for a child to do in the spring is to make a garden," reads an article in "Children, The Parents' Magazine." "Besides keeping him active in the outdoors, gardening promotes industry and pride in achievement and teaches the child at first hand the miracle of growth," the article continues.

"Isn't there a sunny space in the backyard that could be devoted to this enterprise? Or perhaps the owner of a vacant lot in the neighborhood would consent to have some of this land tilled. If two or more children make their gardens together, the competition stimulates better effort.

"For a flower garden, two or three kinds of flowers are enough. Zinnias, dwarf marigolds, alyssum, cornflowers and California poppies are varieties successfully raised by children. If vegetables are grown, concentrate also on two or three kinds. Tomatoes grown from plants started indoors, bush beans and carrots are recommended. The vegetable gardener should have a border of flowers to make his plot more attractive."

Sally's Sallies

A timely swoon by a giddy young thing is often only a feint.

A new baby had arrived at Billy's house and a neighbor was asking him about it.

"That sure is fine to have another playmate," said the neighbor. "Is it a boy or a girl?"

"Aw, I guess it's a girl," said Billy darkly. "I seen them puttin' powder on it."

The World and All

MATTERS OF MOMENT

It seems to me that this country is always facing a crisis. If it isn't one thing it's another. No sooner had we decided officially that it was all right to shell a Canadian ruin boat on the high seas, down a Frenchman and keep an Irish woman in prison for life for having scrubbed the floor of a hotel in which Rothstein was shot, than Vice president Curtis calls upon the state department to draw up a chair for his sister to sit on while she gets a bite of dinner. Now we're all of a flutter about the new crisis, so that we really have no time to decide whether a congressman from South Carolina can be compelled to occupy an office next to a black representative from Chicago.

Charley Curtis and I are both from Kansas, and I'm inclined to sympathize with him in his 21 demands and 14 points relating to the social crisis in Washington.

Out where Charley and I came from there has always been what President Wilson used to call a proud punctilio about where to sit at the table. The master of the house always sat at the head of the table, and the mistress of the house at the foot. At the master's right the children spread fanwise, beginning with the eldest son, by right of primogeniture. On the opposite side were ranged the hired men, counter-clockwise and in the order of their seniority in service. In the southern counties of Kansas a delicate question sometimes arose when a colored hired man outranked a white hand from South Carolina. The question was usually settled at forty paces, as Mr. Curtis will remember, I'm sure. The weapons were milking stools and pitchforks, and may the best man win.

Are we for or against the Russians? Is Calles a red, as he was two years ago, or has he turned white in a single night? Are we going to sink 'em without a trace in Aurora as well as in the Gulf, and who owns the South Pole?

Did that Mexican government ever salute the American flag, as we ordered it to, several years ago; how much shall Germany pay; who did the Chicago massacre and why; who owns Yap; how much support shall we give the Bank of England if Byrd has to pay custom duties on his planes in Antarctica?

Seems to me we might just as well postpone these vexing questions, and concentrate on finding a suitable chair for Charley Curtis' sister to sit in while she eats. I'd like to see this question properly settled this summer, so we can pitch in and dig that Nicaragua canal in the fall.

How to Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

TODAY BELONGS TO GRANDMOTHER

By Madame Rubinstein

Today is the day of the grandmother—oh, yes, it is, and all you who think that grandmother belongs in the past, with her knitting and her spectacles, sitting alone by the hearthside—you're wrong. Her day is now, and it is a day of youth, of second girlhood, perhaps, in company with all the other young people of various ages.

Grandmothers have a better chance at happiness and self-expression—good looks, too—than some of the rest of you. She is free now. Her life work, for the most part, is over. And after years of child raising and grandchildren raising, she has time to give to herself.

Why should she not think of herself and her looks? She has charm and wit to impart—a much more interesting person than many people guess—with wisdom and poise as well, of the soundest kind, that comes from a long list of activity and a wide range of observation. Hear her talk sometimes, and learn to value anew the gifts that the years can bring.

For grandmothers are not "old" any more. They have years to their credit, but they are not aged and waiting for death to release them. They are living life to the full—"going in" for things—and getting out among people.

One of the most fascinating people I know is a young grandmother of 60. She has snow-white hair, bobbed and becomingly waved. Her figure is slender and young, and her skin surprisingly free from wrinkles. Her days are busy—filled with a round of social activities and engagements. She keeps herself constantly active because she likes to stay young.

One of her favorite pursuits is dancing—not simple, easy ballroom dancing, either, but joyful, rhythmic dancing. She belongs to a class of

"young things" from 40 to 60 years of age, and she bends and stretches, skips and bounds, relaxes and moves among them with the utmost grace and freedom. It is a joy and a revelation to see this "young woman" of 60, who has recently trained herself in the pleasant form of exercises land on her two feet, lightly and firmly, after a difficult leap, while some of the younger recruits, of barely 40, stumble and slip about awkwardly.

Grandmothers everywhere are going in for beauty culture. Sensibly. They have too much common sense and good taste to go in for it foolishly. Heavy make-ups of paint and powder are not for the woman whose skin is beginning to show lines and wrinkles. They emphasize its defects. No. The modern grandmother takes healthy skin care. She knows the value of rich nourishing creams and stimulants. And because she has character and strength of will to take care regularly—to persist in it faithfully, she often gets better results than the younger woman whose skin treatment is haphazard and careless.

Beauty shops today number among their clients many, many old-young grandmothers, who have learned to find joy and relaxation in taking facial treatments. It gives them something to do—something worth while and progressive to occupy the moments that they might find dull and empty. Not that there are many such moments for the busy, modern lady of any age. For life is too rich—too full of a number of things for any woman to let it pass by while she wishes regretfully that she might enjoy it better.

Age has little or nothing to do with beauty or happiness—it merely changes the kind of beauty and happiness that we may find. Take a lesson in living from the modern grandmother and see how easy it is to stay young.

Wild Animals Roam American Forests

Robert V. Stewart, chief forester of the Department of Agriculture at Washington, has declared that the American forests are again becoming a paradise for wild animals. With the exception of the grizzly bear and the caribou, all animals are increasing in number.

Deer are increasing 5 per cent faster than hunters can kill them. More than 700,000, it is estimated, are roaming in the national forests. Means are being sought to keep the number of the herd within the feeding capacity of the forests.

Elk are also increasing faster than they are being killed off, with 75,000 elk grazing today in national forests. Antelope are increasing in their numbers at about 10 per cent annually. It is estimated 8,000 of them are on the national ranges.

More than 8,000 moose are existant despite the invasions of hunters. Beavers are thriving in the west, and nearly 200,000 of them are listed in the animal census.

Black and brown bears now number about 52,000, having increased 10 per cent annually. But outside of 2,500 in Alaska, only 800 grizzly bears are known to be in American forests. Only 35 caribou are listed in the records of the forest service.

EDUCATIONAL PREPARATION A GROWING REQUIREMENT FOR SUCCESS IN MODERN BUSINESS

Death-Knell Sounded for Guesswork and Slipshod Methods by Advancing Technical Proficiency in Finance, Trade and Industry—How Banks Are Developing a Professionally Qualified Generation of Younger Bankers.

By HAROLD STONIER
American Bankers Association

THE great school of Experience is still holding classes in America, but the scientific spirit of the age has so generally invaded the workshops of industry and trade that they have largely become technical research and training laboratories in themselves and are no longer run on the old-fashioned cut-and-dry methods of former generations when Experience was considered the only teacher. It would be hard to find a working force in any pre-eminently successful business or industrial organization in the United States today but what the dominating leadership is schooled in the scientific principles of its specific field, whether manufacturing, merchandising or finance. The rapidly advancing standards of business in this country, with their relentless demands for efficiency as the only hope for survival in the competitive struggle for economic existence, has sounded the death-knell for guesswork and slipshod methods.

As a result, educational preparation in the techniques of commerce, industry and finance are virtually essential to outstanding success in these fields, as it is already an absolute prerequisite in the various recognized professions. This is not to depreciate the value of native ability and experience in business, but education after all is merely a means for helping the individual to apply the net good of the accumulated experience of many to his own day's work—a means for helping special native ability to come into its own more rapidly and surely and for enabling all classes of ability to gain the maximum of success to which they are entitled.

These facts are plainly recognized by practical, work-a-day business in every line. Every progressive business organization in America is emphasizing the importance of education as never before. Education has come to be looked upon as the answer to many of the problems within the organization as well as to problems affecting industry as a whole.

Business Organizing Institutes

Institutes for developing specifically qualified workers are being operated or organized in many fields of commercial and industrial activity. These institutes are trying various types of educational work with a distinct trend toward more and more emphasis upon education for the rank and file of business employees of all grades. We have been having business failures in this country at the rate of about 2,000 a month. This score speaks for itself. It is glaring evidence of incompetence on the part of thousands of business men in handling the problems inherent in their fields of endeavor. The detailed records show that practically 75% of business failure in this country is due to lack of training and competence on the part of those who failed. This is conclusive evidence that no one can afford to undertake executive business responsibilities without adequate education and training. It is for that reason that every enlightened business organization is today insisting as never before that its employees take advantage of some type of technical training.

American banking is fortunate and has just cause for pride in that it has a record of twenty-eight years of definitely organized educational activity among its workers to its credit for developing trained bankers. People in banks in large numbers are taking advantage of the educational opportunity given by the great non-commercial college of the banking business, the American Institute of Banking. They see on every hand evidences of the value of the training it gives. Of the 10,000 graduates of this Institute, 70% now occupy official positions in American banks. The other 30% are still too young to have attained such heights. Here is an example and an encouragement to the people of all lines of business.

The American Institute of Banking has a membership of 64,320. Of these 33,851 are class enrollees, comprising younger bank people, both men and women, who are learning the scientific technique of their chosen business at the same time they are engaged in the practical work of earning their livings at it. The difference between the 33,851 enrolled in classes and the 64,320 total membership comprises older bankers who have taken the Institute courses in the past or are at the present time sponsoring some type of educational work in the organization.

Banking Educates Its People

It has been estimated that there are probably 375,000 bank officers and employees in the United States at the present time. These figures would mean that about one banker in every six is either enrolled in Institute classes in banking or is actively supporting some educational function of the organization. No statement could possibly give more emphasis to the importance placed on education by the banking interests of America than these facts.

This American Institute of Banking is the educational section of the American Bankers Association. It was formed twenty-eight years ago by bank employees and officers and has been carried on ever since as a voluntary organization. Many students who have graduated continue their membership in order to give active support to some type of educational work other than the actual class program.

The greater part of the educational work is carried on in 200 cities and towns in the United States. Here the local chapter of the American Institute of Banking has its regularly organized courses of study under supervision of the national body with local instructors and directors to fulfill the standard requirements regarding text material, classwork and examinations.

Instructors are recruited from the staffs of leading universities, from members of the legal profession and from among accountants and bank men who have made a record in some field of activity in banking that marks them as experts. All instructors must be approved by the national organization. They are compensated by the local units. The students pay tuition, in which they are frequently aided by their employing banks, and this, together with contributions made by the banks for general classroom overhead, finances the educational program.

Education a Pathway to Advancement

Leading banks in various parts of the country are insisting that their employees take work in the Institute. This is frequently a part of their contract of employment at the time they enter the bank. It is also now quite generally understood in the field of American banking that study in the American Institute of Banking is considered one of the basic factors in the promotion of the individual to a place of importance in a bank.

The Standard Certificate of the American Institute of Banking is annually gaining a greater and wider recognition among practical bankers throughout the United States. These certificates are coming to have the same importance in the banking world that certificates of education have in the field of the general professions. This is a practical example and one thoroughly well demonstrated by seasoned experience of the new spirit of American business.

ONE COW VS. ONE DOZEN

"Why milk twelve poor cows when one good cow will do the work of the twelve?" asks the bulletin of the American Bankers Association Agricultural Commission. It declares that analysis of more than 100,000 individual yearly records from cows on test in dairy herd improvement associations indicate that on the average: Cows that produced 100 lbs. butterfat a year returned $14 each over feed cost; Cows that produced 200 lbs. butterfat a year returned $54 each over feed cost; Cows that produced 300 lbs. butterfat a year returned $96 each over feed cost; Cows that produced 400 lbs. butterfat a year returned $128 each over feed cost; Cows that produced 500 lbs. butterfat a year returned $178 each over feed cost.

In other words, one 500-pound producer will return $10 more over feed cost than twelve 100 lb. producers. This does not take into account, either, the added labor of milking and caring for the larger herd, or the much greater expense of providing stable room for a dozen instead of a single animal. The figures are based on farm prices from all parts of the country.

LEGISLATURE NEWS

Prospects of adjournment of Michigan's 55th legislature, on May 4, went glimmering as the legislature entered its 18th week of life, with serious troubles developing over the most important measures which any session has ever to consider—finance. Adjournment by May 10 was considered more probable, in view of delays which manifested themselves last week.

While the state tax on property is the smallest tax that is paid by most landowners, most political attention is directed toward this tax rate, both by the taxpayers of the state, and by each administration. Gov. Fred W. Green is going to make some heroic efforts to keep the 1929 and 1930 general property tax rate at least as low as that of 1928, despite his ambitious program of rehabilitation for long neglected state institutions.

The biggest tax in many parts of this state, is the school tax. This is not levied by the state, of course, but by the local governments, but the state lawmakers are sure to extend aid to the reduction of this burden—some local tax by the enactment of two bills, one to authorize the spending of state money, the other of which will provide the money to be thus spent. Thus those who may look critically at the state property tax, should bear in mind that the state, this year, is putting its shoulder to the wheel of the heaviest local tax, the school tax.

The state budget, which would impose a general property tax of about $23,000,000 annually for the next two years, was passed in the house Thursday afternoon, and sent back to the senate for approval, for the house had changed the provisions of the measure from the form in which it had passed the upper house. The senate had approved the measure calling for a tax levy of $21,000,000 annually.

The added $2,000,000 annually, which the house put into the measure, was at the instance of the administration. A statement from the governor accompanied his request to the lower house. Part of the explanation for the need of the additional money was the fact that the state had lopped off $1,000,000 annually, which had been originally included in the budget as a contingent fund for the state administration board, for emergency payments. The amount will be one of the points of conflict and content in the senate, when approval of house amendments is sought. Sen. Albert Engel, Lake City, is expected to furnish the dynamite for the party, but ultimate approval is anticipated.

In the meantime, the measure introduced by Rep. Gus T. Hartman, Houghton, providing for the raising of $28,000,000 during the next four years, to be spent during the next 10 years on Gov. Green's institution of mittens, finance appropriations, when program was located in senate committee of agreement was evident. This measure has been so far that the mill levy to produce the desired sum would be levied on a dollar, which would be levied on a dollar. This will allow the governor to veto certain of the building appropriations carried in the measure, without periling the whole measure. The governor can, of course, veto parts of the state budget or general appropriation bill.

Plans which the state will aid the so-called poor school districts were perfected with the cooperation of the governor, Thursday afternoon, when it was made certain that the Turner school fund bill and the Lennon cigarette tax bill would both be signed by the governor if placed on his desk at about the same time.

The connection between the Turner measure and the Lennon measure is this: The school tax measure, introduced by Sen. William F. Turner of Morley, is the bill which calls for appropriations of $2,000,000 annually, to be disbursed to those school districts where the cigarette tax in excess of 10 mills. The cigarette tax measure sponsored by Sen. Peter E. Lennon, Genesee county, would impose a tax of $1 per 1,000 on cigarettes sold in this state. This tax would raise about $3,500,000 annually, it is estimated. This would be an aid after the Turner school tax bill if money is used, and after a surplus of collecting the cigarette tax would, that there would still be a surplus, which would be devoted to school buildings, according to the plans of Sen. Turner.

If the Lennon bill were not passed, and the Turner bill became law, this would mean that an extra $2,000,000 would be imposed on the general property tax of the state. Gov. Green stated, formally, Thursday, that he would sign the Turner bill if some "revenue producing measure" was district by the action of the Turner bill, already passed in both houses, and recalled Thursday, for an amendment by which the school tax could not be reduced to lower than 10 mills in any district, by the action of the Turner measure. This would make possible the application of this money to more school districts of the state than at first contemplated. There are more than 6,000 school districts in Michigan. The Lennon bill, already passed in the senate, was in order for consideration in the house, Friday.

A demand for the equalization of the tax burden between farm and urban property, was placed before the house of representatives last Wednesday by Rep. George Watson, of Capre house leader. The resolution, as prepared by Rep. Watson, deplored the inequality between farm and industrial center assessments, with particular reference to the Thumb district of the state. The resolution would call on the governor, the state administration board and the tax commissioner to cooperate toward rectification of the condition.

What has been termed the most advanced weapon for the combatting of crime in Michigan, a state-owned radio station to be erected at East Lansing, was near realization last week, when the measure providing for this in order for final vote in the senate Friday morning, after passage in the house. Telephone and telegraph companies in Michigan would be obliged to give right-of-way over all other wire traffic, to messages for the radio station, operated by the state police, so that the alarm of robberies and hold-ups could be flashed out to radio-equipped state police and sheriff's automobiles, in an instance. With the carrying of information almost immediately after the message reached East Lansing by telephone or telegraph, every road leading away from the scene of the crime, could be blocked at once.

Attention of the senate was directed to agriculture matters Thursday when that body refused to concur with the house on certain amendments to Sen. Norman B. Horton's "Pure milk" bill. The existing laws bearing on the matter of handling of milk by any individual or agency. The senate provided that any method of pasteurization which is proved by the commissioner of agriculture, would be satisfactory under the law. The house, however, removed that amendment and specified a certain method of pasteurization. Sen. Horton asked that the senate not concur, and the matter will have to be placed in conference.

JACK and JILL

By CLIFFORD WEBB

(Copyright, 1928, the Central Press Association, Inc.)

It was momentarily significant, that little in-drawn "hah!" It conveyed a deeper meaning even than Professor Le Tarte knew.

At it's same table, sat Jack.

been guilty on previous counts. At this thought, despair would clutch her, for if the father of her children—

Le Tarte had telephoned. Jill had been told that Jack was to meet Nita Ravelle early that evening in the cabaret of the Casino.

When the professor had suggested going out to the Casino, Jill had refused. But he had persisted. She could, he told her, take her friend, McGuffey, along as a medium of safety and propriety for herself.

Where, she wondered, could she find Ann? Then it suddenly occurred to her that Mike Sweeney was the logical one to take along on this trip.

No, the girl told her. She had been in the nursery, Jennie and she, with the children, when the telephone rang. Mr. Stuart had answered. Then he had called her and said he was going out to town and for her to tell Mrs. Stuart. He had then departed. That was all.

Jill took down the receiver and asked for the Sweeney number. A servant answered and she asked for Miss Sweeney. Two minutes passed. Then Mike's voice came to her over the wire, clear and musical.

"Yes, this is Miss Sweeney." "Oh, Mike!" exclaimed Jill, with a hysterical sharpness. "Dear friend, I'm in the most terrible trouble!"

Then, in a rush of words that fairly tumbled over each other in her anxiety to explain as quickly as possible, Jill acquainted Mike with what Le Tarte had told her, and the message Jack had left with Clara for her.

"That's splendid of you, Mike!" exclaimed Jill, with fervor. "I was going to ask you to go with me, for I wouldn't, of course, go alone with Le Tarte. When can you be here?"

"In 20 minutes, or 25 at the most," replied the girl who Jill had hated, or thought she did, only a month or so before. "S'long!"

Jill hurriedly changed her afternoon shopping suit for a modest evening gown and drew a tight-fitting turban over her bobbed head, and donned her sealskin coat. Then she opened a small drawer of her wardrobe trunk, and took out a 25-calibre automatic pistol.

Thus are the most important events in life often determined. There is always an instant when the issue hangs in the balance. Had Jill taken the automatic that night she would have been a killer, in all probability. For an automatic 25, at close range, is a deadly weapon, even in the hands of a woman.

"Listen to me, Jill," said Mike Sweeney, as she inserted her lithe body beneath the big steering wheel of the limousine, and Jill settled into the seat at her side. "This affair has a funny look—Jack getting a hurry-up call at 3 o'clock, taking him out of town, and then at 5 Le Tarte calling you up with the information that Jack is meeting Nita Ravelle at the Casino tonight. Seems yo'ah just unda'hood th' subcumstances!" "Probably not," observed Mike, dryly, and then added: "Subcumstances certainly do alter cases a heap much sometimes!"

The big limousine, during this conversation, had been speeding along at 40 miles an hour. Since the Casino was 10 miles west, and one mile south, of the main highway, Mike knew they must be close to the detour.

"That's it—that green light on th' left!" said Jill, suddenly, the first word she had uttered since re-entering the car at the drug store. As she spoke, Mike saw the light and slowed down. A moment later she saw where the detour made off from the main thoroughfare.

"Not just the place to do any fancy skidding, nor very much careless driving," remarked Mike, meditatively. "There's been several tragedies along this gorge, I've heard," said Le Tarte, looking a trifle nervously at the one hand with which Mike was holding the steering wheel.

"Doesn't take much sometimes—just a stone—or—er—something to throw a car outta control!" "And think what the gossips would say," chirped the irrepressible Mike, "if the Sweeney girl, with that Sweeney girl and Jill Stuart, a perfectly respectable married woman, and Professor—ugh!"

She registered a shudder, and then, as if to lend realism to it, clapped the hand that had been holding the wheel to her head. The professor saw the wheel shake and—he didn't have to register any shudder. The cold sweat that broke out all over his body made him shiver like a man with the ague.

"Miss—S—Sweeney—ey!" he squealed, and then choked, almost inarticulate. "F-for God's s-s-sake, don't be—be foolhardy!"

The girl at the wheel glanced curiously at the man's face outlined in the light from the globe above the dial in front. "If a little thing like that scares you, Professor," she said softly, "I wonder what you would do in the face of real danger?"

He laughed, now the danger was passed, a little jerky, nervous laugh. Then he reached a hand into the inner pocket of his overcoat and brought forth an official envelope, from which he lifted out two war medals. Jill Stuart, interested in spite of herself, leaned over for a closer look.

"One is dated August, 1918, the last battle of the Somme," he told them, modestly. "The other," he went on, "is November 8, 1918, Battle of Montmedy and Sedan. Both are citations for bravery, Miss Sweeney, notwithstanding your opinion!"

He spoke truly—in part. The two medals were citations for bravery—but not Professor Le Tarte's bravery. He had bought them for a few dollars from a hungry ex-service man, whose heroism in France had earned and gained him two citations. But these citations would not buy food nor lodging for him in his own country.

Mike Sweeney shot the question from the right-hand corner of her mouth, her gaze fixed steadily on the road ahead. It was the first word that had been spoken since the car had pulled away from the curb in front of the drug store. The professor perked up, every faculty instantly on the alert. He had been lounging in the corner of the rear seat. Now he changed to a seat close to that of the driver.

"How did ah leah'n?" he repeated, in the very poorly executed southern drawl and dialect he frequently affected. "Why, the lady herself in-foh'med me!" "What time was it when she in-foh'med you?" quizzed the persistent Mike, who, when she wanted to know anything, asked right out loud, without any hesitancy.

"Somewh' close to foah this afternoon," replied the professor, guardedly. "Did she telephone?" asked Mike. "Oh, no, it was in th' post office. We just happened to meet."

CHAPTER XXXVIII "Did she tell you to call Jill and post her?" queried Mike, just as if she expected a straightforward answer.

"I should say not!" exploded the professor, his voice a raucous beat. "She told me not to tell!" "But knowing quite well you would tell, just the same," supplemented Mike, and he caught the satirical note in her voice as she turned her head his way for a fleeting second.

"Oh, no, you're wrong, Miss Sweeney, dead wrong!" asserted the professor, so earnestly that he forgot for the moment his drawl and dialect. Then he seemed to note his dereliction and added hastily: "Oh, yes, indeed, yo'ah entiahly wrong, Ah'm shuah!"

"All right, then, Professor," acquiesced Mike. "We'll say I'm wrong. But what I don't understand is: Why should Nita Ravelle tell you she expected to meet Jack Stuart out at the Casino tonight. Are you her guardian?"

"Oh, no, not hah guardian, Miss Sweeney," protested the professor, watching his "rs" as well as his words. "But Nita and I ah close f'wends an' when Ah asked hah to hah' dinah this evening at Prince Wong's, she cah'lessly remark'ed that she had an engagement with Jack Stua'be at th' Casino. Nothing unusual about th' mattah at all, if themselves looking out on a scene, the like of which even Mike, who had been to Europe twice, and had looked upon many bizarre and unique spectacles, had never gazed upon.

At the far end of the room, 200 feet long and 100 feet wide, was a mammoth stage, now hidden by a splendid curtain. In the middle a space 25 feet in width was reserved for dancing.

The floor was like that of a bowling alley, and as smooth as glass—a perfect dancing floor. On each side were no less than 50 round mahogany tables, at which six could sit with comfort. Along the walls were ranged great leather divans, while on the walls were hung splendid paintings in magnificent gilt frames. The table chairs were all heavily upholstered in real leather.

An orchestra of a dozen pieces was located near the center of the room on one side. Probably 50 waiters, in white uniforms, were in attendance on the no fewer than 150 guests, more than half of the tables being occupied by parties of from two to six at a table.

At the moment of the trio's entrance, a woman was singing to the air of the orchestra, while out on the floor two dancers, a man and a woman, or girl, were gyrating through the mazes of some new-fangled Apache dance.

It was the singularity of the costumes of these dancers that riveted attention, costumes, it might be said, that would defy description. Not because of their elaborate splendor, but because of their amazing, startling inadequacy.

It was their dance, however, that caught Jill's artistic eye, and for a moment or two she ever forgot the real reason for her presence there.

Both dancers were beautiful in face and in form, the man a light replica of the Apollo Belvidere, and the girl a Psyche, but a Psyche of round, slender limbs and a lithe body.

Jill gasped at the marvelous feats of strength performed by this slender girl. The man, though slim, must have weighed 150 pounds, and yet the girl tossed him in the air, caught and swung him around as if he were a child of six.

"I don't call that a dance," said Professor Le Tarte, in response to Jill's outburst of admiration. "It's more like a juggling act—the juggling of each other. I think our dance has it backed clear off the floor for real grace and beauty of motion!"

Jill flashed him a contemptuous look, modified by pity. "Our dance doesn't come even within speaking distance of this!" she declared in all honesty. She was perfectly willing to take the credit she knew was her due, but she was too much of an artist herself not to realize the wide gulf that lay between this girl's artistry and her own.

They had been escorted, almost immediately upon their arrival, to a table close to the dance floor, a position that enabled Jill to get an excellent view, not only of the dancers, but of guests at tables, as well.

Suddenly her heart seemed almost to cease beating. She was looking straight into the eyes of Nita Ravelle. At the same table, his back and the side of his head visible to Jill, sat Jack.

AIRMAIL GAINS IN MICHIGAN

The cities on the Michigan air mail route shows a gain in the report just made public for the month of March by the Thompson Aeronautical corporation. For some time it has slumped, but now there is evidence that effort is being made to get in line with the other shipping centers and benefit from this modern day service.

Total poundage for all cities for February was 8,489 pounds and 4 1/2 ounces, while the March total jumped to 9,318 pounds and 10 1/2 ounces.

The three cities topping the list remain the same for March as February, these being Chicago, Detroit and Kalamazoo, the others having shifted, as has Battle Creek.

Poundage for each city on the Michigan route for February and March follows:

	March	February
	lbs. oz.	lbs. oz.
Chicago	3,804 10 1/2	2,599 6 1/2

Pontiac Board of Commerce to Sell Land Holdings

Bids for 80 feet of West Huron street frontage, owned by the Pontiac Board of Commerce, were asked by the directors of the organization preparatory to closing options on 50 feet of Perry street frontage adjacent to the Hildenbrand hotel and the drawing of plans for a new home for the board. The options held by the organization call for the payment of $102,000 for the Perry street property which extends from Perry to Mill streets. The board is to retain 60 feet frontage at Perry and West Huron streets.

Acidity

The common cause of digestive difficulties is excess acid. Soda cannot alter this condition, and it burns the stomach. Something that will neutralize the acidity is the sensible thing to take. That is why physicians tell the public to use Phillips Milk of Magnesia.

One spoonful of this delightful preparation can neutralize many times its volume in acid. It acts instantly, relief is quick, and very apparent. All gas is expelled; all sourness is soon gone; the whole system is sweetened. Do try this perfect anti-acid, and remember it is just as good for children, too, and pleasant for them to take.

Any drugstore has the genuine, prescriptional product.

STATE TO HONOR THOMAS A. EDISON

Michigan will have an outstanding part in the world-wide observance this year of Light's Golden Jubilee, marking the fiftieth anniversary of Thomas A. Edison's invention of the first practical incandescent lamp.

The climax of the celebration will come Monday, Oct. 24, and will center in Michigan. On that day jubilee tribute will be paid to the inventor. The exercises will be held at Dearborn in the original Edison laboratories, which with the machines with which the inventor worked, are now being moved from Menlo Park, N. J., to the Henry Ford museum of American industry. The exercises will be broadcast to the world from the laboratories at Dearborn.

The return of Edison to Michigan for the high point of Light's Golden Jubilee is of more than ordinary significance to the people of the state who remember that the "wizard" is a former Michigan resident.

"You guarantee to cure T. B., don't you?"

"Yes, sir, never fail if my instructions are followed."

"Son took your medicine for a year and then died."

Aid Mail Limited By Lack of Airports

The postoffice department has made no change in its policy that cities desiring a connection with the present air-mail service must provide adequate airport facilities for landing airplanes. It was stated orally at the department.

The department, it was explained, is inclined to extend its air-mail lines, but extension in many localities is impossible because of a lack of suitable airports.

The latest city to comply with the policy of the department is Springfield, Ohio, which has been made a stop on the route between Cleveland and Louisville, Ky. Cleveland is also linked with the trans-continental air-mail line between New York City and San Francisco, giving Springfield air communication with a number of cities, it was stated.

Notice that Springfield has been selected as a stop in the present network of air mail lines was made by the Second Assistant Postmaster General, W. Irving Glover. According to Mr. Glover's records, Springfield is a large manufacturing center, and consequently the department anticipates a large volume of mail from this place when airplanes land there May 1, the opening date approved by Mr. Glover. The full text of Mr. Glover's notice follows:

"Effective May 1, 1929, Springfield, Ohio, will be embraced for supply on Rt. CAM-16. The postoffice at Springfield will be furnished with a special cancellation for use on air mail matter dispatched to CAM-16 on this date."

Report Ford Purchase Of German Auto Plant

Moving to counteract the transaction of the General Motors company with the Opel firm, Henry Ford has recently purchased the Brennborg Motor Works at Brandenburg-on-Havel, Germany, hoping to compete successfully with the Opel company in the production of a small cheap type of motor car, according to reports prevalent at Brandenburg.

While the Brennborg firm thus far is denying any agreement of that kind, the reports persist in mentioning Ford's purchase of the company at 90,000,000 marks, approximately $22,000,000.

Officials of the Ford Motor company on March 25 announced that 103,193 persons were employed at the Rouge plant, 18,231 at the Highland Park plant and 5,468 at the Lincoln plant, a total of 126,892 employed in the three Detroit district plants. It was stated that an average of more than 8,000 Model A cars a day is being maintained.

Builds $600,000 Plant

The Detroit Wax Paper Company has purchased six acres at Pleasant avenue and the Michigan Central railroad in River Rouge and immediately will begin the erection of a new plant on the site. The company manufactures cardboard and wax paper. The new plant will cost between $600,000 and $700,000 and will be ready for occupancy shortly after July 1. It will be about 210x600 feet.

PLACE SIGNS ON SPAWNING BEDS

"Experimental fish refuge—no fishing please."

That is the sign that will be placed this year on about 500 natural spawning beds of bass and bluegills in Michigan lakes and streams. The work of locating and placing these signs will be in charge of Henry Schull of Grand Rapids, under direction of the fish division of the state conservation department.

Game wardens with the assistance of abutting property owners are to keep a close check on the operating of the posted areas. Future laws may be based on the initial results obtained in these experimental efforts.

The attitude of the fish-men and their willingness to co-operate with the letter and spirit of these signs will have much to do with the future enforcement possibilities of such markers, and in the development of the fish refuge plan in Michigan.

Chicago Oil Company Favors Newaygo Field

Another oil well will start in Brooks township, Newaygo county, soon, the Ranke Oil and Gas Co. having moved a rig into section 5. It is expected the drillers will spud in this week. The Ranke Oil & Gas Co. is a Chicago concern and the location chosen for its first project in the county is on land leased by the Newaygo Oil & Gas Co. Operations at the first well of the company are progressing.

The Lima Atwood well No. 1, which was dry in the Dundee at 2,598 feet, again is being drilled deeper and the drillers will go to the Niagara sands. A good show of oil was encountered in the Traverse sand but was flooded out with salt water.

10-Cent Fares in Force in Port Huron

At midnight, April 15, the new 10-cent fares on street cars and buses went into effect, under terms of the 90-day trial period of operation agreed upon by the city commission and W. G. Fitzpatrick, counsel for receivers of the Rapid Railway company. The new fares supercede the seven-cent fares. The city commission agreed to lower the assessment on the local lines to $175,000. The board of review last week had reduced the assessment from $375,000 to $200,000.

Michigan Weather Good

If there is any state in the Union, or a section of any other country, that can beat Michigan when it comes to weather it will have to go some. Petoskey appears to have carried off the belt when it comes to freak weather with the variety served up this April. On Sunday at that popular resort the mercury reached 89; at the same time the ice in the lake was still solid and boys were out skating in their shirt sleeves, wearing straw hats.

Michigan Road, Built in 1872, Cost $450 Per Mile

Michigan's first public highway was built at a cost of $450 a mile through virgin timber. Today the state pays at least $35,000 a mile for its best roads—but there is a difference in quality.

The construction history of that first highway came to light recently when C. H. Stannard, former Dexter postmaster, found an original contract among the affects of his grandfather and forwarded it to Frank D. Fitzgerald, business manager of the highway department.

The original "trunk line" stretched from Detroit to Chicago and is known today as U. S. highway 112. It was started in 1827, 10 years before the territory was admitted to the Union. When it was completed is not known. But the road had seen the days of transportation by oxen give way to stage coaches and pony mail and then to automobiles and buses. Even today the speeding motor coaches carrying passengers from Detroit to Chicago pass the ancient taverns and rugged farm houses standing as mute reminders of a romantic past.

In 1827, the road builders worried not a bit about the surface. Their problem was one of clearing a path through the forests. The only specifications for the road itself were that the earth should be plowed from the sides to the center and curved to facilitate drainage. Today, the state's contract deal in detail with the size of gravel to be used or the amount of cement in proportion to sand and how it shall be poured.

Contracts for the road were awarded for each mile individually. The one Stannard found was for the thirty-seventh mile, which would be near Saline. It was awarded to George Meachem and D. J. Ely by Musgrove Evans, federal agent in the territory. The original work established precedent that is followed even today. Evans required that contractors post a bond for twice the amount of their bid. This practice still is adhered to, but bonds today are usually for several hundred thousand instead of for $900.

Meachem and Ely agreed under the contract to clear all trees and shrubs for a right-of-way of 60 feet, to plow a 20-foot roadway and build culverts. Specifications for the culverts were that they must be of oak at least six inches thick.

The contractors were given a year to complete the mile.

Legion Head Speaks At E. Lansing May 28

Paul V. McNutt, national commander of the American Legion, will address Michigan State College students and faculty members in the college gymnasium Tuesday morning, May 28, at 10 o'clock. A. C. VAIL MEDAL GIVEN TO FOUR Award of the Theodore N. Vail medal of bronze for 1928 has been made to four Michigan telephone people, two men and two women, three of them employees of the Michigan Bell Telephone company and one an employe of the Benzie Consolidated Telephone Company, it is announced by the committee of award.

Those receiving the award are: Mrs. Mary Smith, chief operator, Thompsonville, whose work at the switchboard is credited with having saved the town from destruction by fire; Mrs. Iva MacIntyre, operating agent, Hopkins, whose prompt initiative in handling an unusual call saved the life of an aged woman; Louis B. Flood, construction foreman, Battle Creek, who saved the life of a workman who had come in contact with a high voltage wire at Monroe; James Fisher, lineman, Ann Arbor, whose prompt action at the time of an automobile collision on the highway near Novi prevented a badly injured man from bleeding to death.

New Grand Rapids Bank to Have $750,000 of Capital

Over-subscription to the stock of the American National bank, Grand Rapids, at the capitalization originally planned of $300,000 with a surplus of $150,000, has resulted in a decision by the organizers to increase the capitalization to $500,000 with a surplus of $250,000. It is probable that of the $250,000 designed as surplus, $30,000 will be undivided profits. Shares in the proposed bank have been sold at $150 a share.

The U. S. Comptroller of Currency has approved the increase in capitalization and has informed the organizers to amend their application on that basis.

According to Gen. John H. Scouten, vice-president of the Michigan Trust company, who heads the organizers of the American National bank, the tentative date for opening of the new financial institution is June 1. The old banking quarters of the Home State Bank for Savings, Monroe and Ionia avenues, have been secured by the American National. Other organizers are: Brinton F. Hall, Alexander Robertson, Cyrus S. Newcomb and John D. MacNaughton.

DR. CALDWELL'S THREE RULES

Dr. Caldwell watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the most delicate system and is got habit forming.

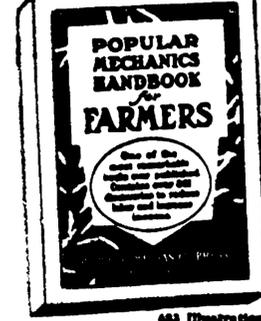

The Doctor never did approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. Use Syrup Pepsin for yourself and members of the family in constipation, biliousness, sour and crampy stomach, bad breath, no appetite, headaches, and to break up fevers and colds. Get a bottle today, at any drugstore and observe these three rules of health: Keep the head cool, the feet warm, the bowels open. For a free trial bottle, just write "Syrup Pepsin," Dept. BB, Monticello, Illinois.

The Chestnut Bean

This wonderful Bean looks like a gigantic Pea. When boiled it has a flavor like boiled chestnuts, and is one of the most delicious beans grown. Grown in the form of a tall bush, and is completely covered with pods. For soup and turkey stuffing it can not be surpassed. It is a Spanish Bean, and is known as the "Cajun bean" in Louisiana. After once you grow a few you will want to plant a lot of them. We have but a limited amount of the seed to offer this season, so are selling same in packets only. Packet, 10c; 3 pkts., 25c; 7 pkts., 50c; 15 pkts., $1.00, postpaid.

The Most Dependable Low-Priced Tire

There's no economy in buying "gyr" tires when you can buy Kelly-built Buckeyes at prices such as we are quoting. We honestly believe the Buckeye is the most dependable low-priced tire made. It compares very favorably with many higher-priced casings and we recommend it unqualifiedly to the man who does not need the exceptional mileage of the regular Kelly-Springfield

PINCKNEY BLOWS UP IN SIXTH

After battling Howell on seven innings for five innings in a seven inning game played at Howell last Friday, Pinckney blew up with a loud bang in the sixth and when the smoke had cleared away, Howell had scored 9 runs and the score stood 18 to 9 in favor of Howell. Reason although hit hard at times was able to get by until then as his teammates took kindly to the offerings of Jones, Howell pitcher finding him for a home run, a triple, a double, and four singles which combined with five bases on balls gave them 9 runs. In the sixth after retiring two men Howell hit Reason's offerings to all corners of the universe getting a homer and 5 singles which with a brace of Pinckney misplays gave them 9 counters. Stackable relieved Reason and stopped further Howell scoring. Hancock replaced Jones for Howell and retired Pinckney scoreless in the seventh.

Pinckney's next game is with Hartland at Pinckney next Friday afternoon, May 3. They won from this team in the opener and ought to be able to repeat.

CURRENT EVENTS

We have it on reliable information that this section is being deluged with "tipster sheets," which are sent out literally by the millions from the investment centers of the east. They are camouflaged under an apparently unbiased opinion from responsible bankers and brokers, but such is not the case.

These fellows have a way of mulcting the public peculiar to themselves. In some manner they secure addresses of persons known to have made investments and through the use of these "tipster sheets" are able to defraud thousands of people out of millions every year.

They do not deal with the type of stocks listed on the big exchanges but promote issues which are not known in high class financial circles. They keep angling until they have their dupes hooked and through "hot tips" have his money and are moved to a new location, even to another city, before he awakens to the fact that he has been taken for a financial ride.

There is one way that the investment public can protect itself. Legitimate brokers and bankers glad to give scientific market advice. If before making an investment, no matter how alluring it may appear, you have your banker or broker make a careful investigation you will be saved much grief and financial loss.
