BELLE BACHUS PLAYERS

HERE ALL NEXT WEEK

All next week the Belle Bachus players will show in their big tent at Pinckney.

The opening play will be "Detouring Wives," and there will be a new play each night. The Belle Bachus players are well known in Pinckney having played here each summer. They have a reputation for putting on a good, clean, entertaining show.

On Monday night one lady will be admitted free with each paid adult admission. The show company carries a 7 piece orchestra and gives a free street concert each evening. High class vaudeville put on between acts.

COURT CONVENES JULY 8th

The Circuit Court convenes at Howell Monday, July 8. On that date the trial of Dr. A. H. Pearson for arson is scheduled to come up for the second time, the first one last May ending in disagreement. Will Shehar is the Putnam juror drawn for this term.

MRS. MARY WALSH

Mrs. Mary Walsh, 75, lifelong resident of Dexter township, died Friday morning at her home, after a short illness. She formerly was Miss Mary Ryan and was married in 1881 to Michael Walsh, who died in 1921.

She is survived by three sons, Clarence of Detroit, Harry of Dexter, and Joseph of Iron Mountain; three daughters, Mildred and Olive at home and Mrs. Russell Sage of Linden; 11 grandchildren, and a great-grandchild.

Funeral services were held at 9 o'clock Monday morning at St. Joseph's church, Dexter. Rev. John C. Sullivan officiating. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, Pinckney.

BAD AUTO WRECK

Claude Reason's new Oldsmobile sedan was wrecked beyond repair Tuesday afternoon when it collided with a car driven by Fred Hubbel of Howell. The Reason car was driven by Mr. Reason's son, Roy. The accident occurred in Howell on West Grand River. Roy was coming from the Walker & Phinott garage and Hubbel was headed west on Grand River. Roy had one arm badly cut and was also bruised. Neither Mr. Hubbel or his car were much hurt.

FIREWORKS BAN ON

Strict enforcement of the Espie fireworks law enacted by the 56th legislature, which prohibits the sale of fireworks or their use, is being enforced by permit to purchase for display purposes, is expected throughout the state, Gov. Fred W. Green said Monday.

The attorney general's office has instructed prosecuting attorneys, sheriffs, city and state police that the state will expect complete co-operation on the Fourth of July and the days preceding and following, in enforcement of the statute.

This law, the culmination of years of effort to ban fireworks from the state, receives its first severe test this week.

Providing a municipality or group of citizens wishes to put on a night display of fireworks, permits may be issued by peace officers of the state, county or city.

The main purpose of the law is to prevent injury to children, fires, and even injuries to adults which in the past have marred the celebrations of the day.

REASON-COX

Miss Pauline Reason and Dallas Cox were married at Harrieta, Mich. on June 18. They are now living at Cadillac where Dallas is employed. Both young people are well known in here and extremely popular. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Reason and is graduate of the Michigan State Normal at Ypsilanti and also Cleary Business College. For the past two years she has been a successful school teacher. The groom is a son of Mrs. Beas Barry, also of Pinckney and he is one of the best amateur ball players in the state. At the present time he is a member of the Cadillac team. The young couple's innumerable friends here extend congratulations for long and happy married life and only regret that they are unable to give them a public reception.

CLINTON-GARDNER

Married at St. Theresa's church, Detroit, June 21, Miss Gertrude Clinton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Clinton to Ralph Gardner of Windsor, Ontario. The bride was born in Pinckney and lived here until several years ago. The Dispatch in behalf of her many friends extend congratulations.

4th OF JULY PICNIC

AT WHITMORE LAKE
St. Patrick's Parish, Northfield, will hold its annual picnic on Thursday, July 4th, at Dunlap's Grove, Whitmore Lake. A good fried chicken dinner will be served from 11:30 on Bill 75c. Program and base ball game.

DANCING AT PATTERSON LAKE

There will be a dance at Met Chalkers Dance Hall, Patterson Lake, every Saturday night. Good music and good time promised. Dances for both old and young. Refreshments. Bill $1.00

Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Smith of Howell were Pinckney visitors Friday.

HANGS SELF AT PORTAGE LAKE

The body of Eli Snyder, aged 68, of Rochester was discovered hanging from the rafters of the garage of Kit Cobb at Portage Lake Sunday at 7:00 a. m. by the driver of the Ann Arbor Dairy truck who was delivering milk and cream at Portage Lake. Mr. Snyder is said to have been dependent since the death of his wife a few years ago and had been visiting at the home of his brother-in-law, Kit Cobb. He had arisen before the family and had been hanging for some time before he was discovered. Coroner Ganshorn of Ann Arbor was notified and the body was later charge of by Galbraith Gorman, Dexter undertaker.

The deceased was a carpenter by trade and lived in Hamburg township for many years. His wife was Margaret Meyers, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Marcellus Meyers of Pinckney.

The funeral will be held in the Gorman funeral home at Dexter Wednesday at 2:00 p. m. Burial will be in the Hamburg cemetery.

PLAY TWO GAMES THIS WEEK

The Pinckney-Michigamme team will play two games this week. On July 4 they go to Whitmore Lake to play that team at the annual picnic given there by St. Patrick's church. Whitmore Lake has a clean record up to date, having suffered no defeats.

Next Sunday, July 7 they will play the Arborphone team of Ann Arbor managed by Percy Raymond. This team is made up of an aggregation of ex-college players and are in first place in the Ann Arbor City League. Pinckney has one of the best teams in this vicinity this year and merits the support of the fans of this section. Turn out next Sunday and make it possible for us to keep this team in the field.

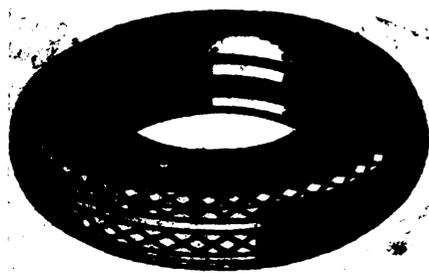

A letter received from Percy Raymond this morning states that the Ann Arbor team is coming prepared to win and expect to have Eddie Lou, famous Normal star, as pitcher. He also says they will bring rakes with which to rake up the "Rocks" which caused the defeat of Gus Eck's Dexter team (so Gus says) three weeks ago in that 18 inning game.

NOTICE OF ANNUAL

SCHOOL MEETING
The annual meeting of School District No. 2 of the Township of Putnam, for the Election of School District Officers, and for the transaction of such other business as may lawfully come before it, will be held at the schoolhouse in Pinckney on Monday, July 8, 1929, at 7:30 a. m.

Dated this 26 day of June 1929.

A CASE OF MISTAKEN IDENTITY

A couple of weeks ago this paper published the marriage license notice of Joseph Kovac, Pinckney and Tillie Tartar, Gregory. Joseph Kovac who lives on the Hemingway farm west of town informs us that this has caused him much distress. He is not married, does not contemplate matrimony and is not acquainted with any Miss Tillie Tartar. According to him the congratulations showered on him and the requests to "set em up" have inconvenienced him to such an extent that he has been compelled to lead a hermitlike existence.

WEEK OF JULY 7

The weather in most parts of Michigan for the week of July 7 is expected to remain generally warm. In fact, temperatures will range considerably above the seasonal normal for the entire period, with the probable exception of the near middle of the week, when there will be a slight modification and again at the very end of this week or on Sunday of next.

Rainfall will not be very prominent or general during the first few days of this week, but by Wednesday we look for some greater storm action. Thunder storms of a general nature will cross the state about this time, leaving some rather heavy rains, strong winds and probable hail in scattered sections.

Fair weather about Thursday and Friday will separate the storm periods of the last half of this week. At the end of the week with temperatures still warmer than normal there will be more thunder storms forming, bringing heavy rain storms in many counties. Strong winds may develop into local tornadoes.

Best Time This Week

For farming: July 7, 10 and 11 from 11 a. m. to 1:30 p. m.

For fishing: July 7.

For baking: July 7, 12 and 13.

Set ducks, geese and turkeys: July 13.

Spring Forecast Verified

While not all sections of the state will pass 100 per cent in our forecast of dry weather, the majority of the rural districts have suffered because of the unseasonably and prolonged cold weather through the spring months. We correctly predicted farmers would not get away to a good start.

Rae Refuses to Act as State Oil "Umpire"

R. A. Smith, state geologist, announces that Colin C. Rae, who had been selected by the state to represent its interests in framing a prorotation agreement for the Muskegon oil field, has refused to serve.

Rae was to have acted as umpire to force prorotation, governing the percentage of the potential flow to be taken from the wells. As result of his withdrawal, prorotation of the field will be delayed indefinitely.

The field is operating at about 50 per cent of its open flow capacity, estimated at 30,000 barrels a day. Prorotation would cut this to about 30 per cent, according to present plans.

"Haven't you ever thought of going to work?" asked the farmer's wife.

"Yes'm," replied Hobo Harry, "I thought of it once—but I was delerious at de time."

Resurrection Plant

The Genuine "Rose of Jericho" These peculiar plants are found among the rocks and cedars of Palestine. When you get the plant it will have the appearance of a ball of tightly folded leaves, dry and dead. Put it in water and it will open up its handsome fern-like foliage, turn green and begin to grow in about twenty minutes. This is not the water and it curls up, turns brown and becomes dead again. It is capable of apparently dying and coming to life again repeatedly, and will keep in its dormant state for years and regenerate directly upon being placed in water. It is an interesting, curious and most beautiful home plant with fine fern-like leaves of a most agreeable fragrance. If you want a "table fern" that will prove satisfactory under all conditions, don't fail to get one of these marvels of plant life. Grows and thrives in a shallow bowl of water, and is greatly admired by everyone.

"Secret Service Smith" Traps a Canary Murderer

Aurelius Smith, as he sat at tea with his secretary and versatile assistant, did not look very much like a detective; yet there was something calculatingly cool and deliberate about him. His old, blue dressing gown, which he persistently refused to throw away, wrapped his long and lanky body in many angles as he sprawled ridiculously in his chair. Bernice Astorley watched her employer with interest—much more interest than a young woman usually gives to a man who takes tea in an old, blue dressing gown.

Langa Doonh, native servant from India, brought fresh muffins just as the door bell sounded. Smith glanced at the muffins but the urge for tobacco brought a black briar from his pocket. He wandered to the front window and stared moodily into Fenton street, tiny, one-block offshoot of lower Fifth Avenue.

Bernice watched the back of the old dressing gown at the window and noted that a frayed, blue cord permitted what was once a tassel to trail upon the floor. Langa Doonh came from the front door with letters which the postman had left. Smith turned his attention to the mail, but he merely glanced at the addresses and took up his cup without seeming to see the muffins.

There was continued silence and Langa Doonh took his departure to do some marketing. A few minutes later the bell sounded again. Bernice went to the door. She returned a moment later with a man who followed her too closely to permit the formality of being introduced. He jerked a gun from his side pocket and pointed it at Smith.

Smith staggered backward against the table and threw an arm behind him for support. His hand plunged into his tea and the cup crashed to the floor. He shook the hot liquid from his fingers and wiped them upon his dressing gown. An expression of genuine fear overcame the face of Bernice. Never before had she known his iron nerves to collapse in the face of danger. It was his collapse, rather than the gun, which set her trembling.

"Very pretty acting, sneered the stranger, but your servant had left the house and the broken cup will call no help."

But Bernice knew that Smith was aware of Langa Doonh having left the house. She knew that he had not upped the cup to call assistance. She watched, with apprehension, the powerful man behind the pistol. His dark eyes ran swiftly about the room.

"Ch-huh," said Smith, and there was some relief for Bernice in the calmness of his blue-gray eyes.

Suddenly the stranger stepped up to Smith and pulled the long cord from the loops of his dressing gown. He pushed a chair against a radiator and indicated it to Smith, who sat down lazily but obediently. Rapidly the intruder ran the cord around Smith's arms and waist and tied him. He shifted the gun from hand to hand, covering Bernice during the operation.

It was only a matter of a few minutes before the man had gone. He had swiftly searched the room, pulling out many drawers. Frequently he glanced at Smith while he searched. For a moment he stopped and scrutinized a small Hindu god before which Langa Doonh frequently burned incense.

"Ganesh!" he exclaimed and turned to Smith with a sneer. "This elephant-headed god must account for your success."

But Smith appeared too bored to reply and the man went to the tea table and glanced at the letters, picking up a blue envelope only to drop it again. Once more he approached Smith and ran his hands into the dressing gown pockets before backing to the door and stepping swiftly out. A moment later there was the roar of a departing motor.

Bernice was at the window in a flash, but failed to read the number of the car. She stamped her foot in vexation.

"Put it over us completely!" she exclaimed.

Smith grinned and his long legs straightened while his binding snapped as he rose to his feet. He took the cord rather tenderly in his hands and proceeded to tie it together again.

"But—but what did he want?" asked Bernice. "He took nothing."

"He failed to find what he wanted," returned Smith. "From the window I saw him waiting in a car and watching the avenue corner—where the postman turns. Of course, I did not know he was waiting for the postman and I did not expect him to come in here."

"What?" queried Bernice as Smith refilled his pipe.

"He's a killer," remarked Smith between puffs. "Thin, cruel lips and the eyes of a fanatic! Cool and cunning as he is merciless! Good thing he didn't come to kill. Might not have been so easy to handle."

"Easy to handle!" exclaimed Bernice. "It seems to me that he did all the handling."

"Thought he did," returned Smith. "You won the trick when the expression of your face convinced him that I had lost my nerve. It was the best acting that you ever did."

"You are in one of your tantalizing moods!" exclaimed Bernice. "I don't believe you have any idea what the man came for."

"Maybe so and maybe not so," returned Smith. "He waited for the postman and therefore came for a letter—a blue letter like the one he tossed back. There were seven letters and I could guess the contents of six by a glance at the envelopes."

Bernice snatched up the letters and counted them. There were six.

"The seventh," said Smith. "I managed to secrete under my dressing gown during the process of sticking any hand into the tea and wiping it dry again."

"Oh!" ejaculated Bernice as Smith drew a blue envelope from under his arm.

The letter was brief and unusual. It was addressed to Aurelius Smith and read:

Dear Sir, Please come at once and discover the murderer of Richard. I shall await you, if necessary, until quite late this evening. The letter was signed by Sybilla Fanhaven.

"Wretched woman," muttered Smith. "Fashionable address. He scrutinized the signature closely. 'Old woman but full of energy. Eccentric. Strong will.'"

"What do you make of it?" asked Bernice.

"Doubly interesting because of our recent visitor with the gun," returned Smith. "I think the case will be short and swift and will probably end—in death."

"Can I go with you?" asked Bernice.

Smith's eyes showed a faint smile of appreciation. He walked over to the mantelpiece without answering and took up the little Hindu god.

"Old Ganesh," he soliloquized. He knew you for the Hindu god of wisdom—god of luck to most natives. He must know India. Devilish mean man to handle. Hope you will give me luck."

Gently he replaced the image and walked slowly from the room. Bernice knew that she was to be left behind.

It was a large library into which Smith was shown shortly after the sun had set. A single lamp upon a table dimly revealed that the four walls were lined with books except where two large pictures, two windows and a pair of sliding doors broke the array of literature. Beside the table were a man and a woman in evening dress. The woman, though quite old, had the skin and eyes of youth beneath her white hair. The man was the man who had called upon Smith that afternoon with a gun.

"Ah, Mr. Smith," exclaimed the woman vivaciously, extending her hand without rising, "you came quickly. I should have invited you to dinner but you will join us anyway."

"Thank you," returned Smith, taking the outstretched hand.

He was looking with polite indifference at the man.

"Gregory," she said, "I hope he likes curry." She turned back to Smith. "This is Mr. Gregory Avondale."

The dark-eyed manrose and there was just a fleeting sneer as he smiled and extended his hand. He bit his lip slightly as he felt Smith's grasp.

"Mrs. Fanhaven," said Smith, dropping the limp hand, "you wrote me regarding the death of Richard."

She left her chair immediately and crossed the room with almost the grace of a young girl. Concealed lights flooded the room. Beneath a bird cage, suspended near a window, she pointed upward.

"Poor boy," she said very simply.

Smith's face was blank of expression as he crossed the room and looked down upon a dead canary in the cage. He turned his eyes a little and looked into those of the woman. Self-control was what he saw—perfect honesty capable of defying consequences. If sorrow were there it was hidden by the courage of the grande dame—that of the cage. The catch stuck and little equally.

"Last night," she said, "somebody strangled Richard. Poor boy! I must know who did it."

Gently Smith raised a hand and attempted to open the little sliding door of the cage. To his catch stuck and the cage swung.

"Good!" said Smith. "The murderer steadied the cage with his left hand while he opened the door with his right. The bottom of the cage would have been seized by the left hand with the fingers on top and the thumb underneath. The top surface is rough and will not take an impression but the bottom surface is smooth. Tomorrow I shall photograph the bottom and show you the thumb print of the murderer."

"Exceedingly clever," said Avondale. "I opened the cage in just that way myself when I examined the bird this morning."

"Ch-huh," said Smith and questioned Mrs. Fanhaven. "This bird was a good singer and always sang at night if the lights were turned on?"

"Always," agreed Mrs. Fanhaven. "This library is on the second floor," commented Smith. "Your bedroom, madam? It is also on this floor, is it not? You could hear the bird sing from your bedroom? You are a light sleeper?"

"Yes, yes, yes," answered Mrs. Fanhaven, with keen interest.

The tall investigator shrugged his shoulders slightly and went back to the table. He took up a telephone and called his Fenton street number. He glimpsed Avondale, who seemed interested in what was to be said over the wire.

"Oh, Bernice," he spoke shortly. "I forgot my gun. Bring it over to Mrs. Fanhaven's house at eleven. You will finish those notes by half-past ten. Yes—at eleven." He turned to Avondale, looking at him over the top of the telephone. "I want my heavy automatic."

"If you send for a heavy automatic in the case of a dead canary," remarked Avondale. "It would be interesting to know what you require in the case of a dead human being."

"Oh, in that case I usually require an undertaker," returned Smith dryly. "He might even be useful tonight."

"I am afraid you are not taking this case seriously, Mr. Smith," interrupted Mrs. Fanhaven.

"We all wear masks," returned Smith. "Few of us ever take them off. Your own mask is beautiful and almost impenetrable. Years ago, if one believes in reincarnation, you stepped to the guillotine smelling a rose. Exposure of emotion is not done great things. There is not much difference in your world in little things or in ference, amid infinity, between the sinking of a continent and the death of a canary."

"Ah, Gregory," said Mrs. Fanhaven, "we are fortunate in having this guest at our last dinner. If he could only prove some of his words." She turned to Smith. "Tear a mask from one of us, please."

"Your own face, madam," answered Smith, "has shown no grief over the death of your pet and yet—"

Suddenly he reached for her hand, which was exposed deep marks of the nails upon the pink palm.

"Poor boy," she said, glancing back toward the cage.

"I say, capital!" remarked Avondale with a supercilious smile.

Mrs. Fanhaven seemed to sense some tension between the two men. Smith circled the room, stopping to speak occasionally, a comment upon a book or its binding.

"The letter you wrote me, Mrs. Fanhaven," Smith said, "just reached me by the last mail this afternoon. There must have been some delay in posting it."

"Gregory was going to post it," replied Mrs. Fanhaven, "but he couldn't tear himself away from a French novel and I sent a servant to post it at the last minute."

"I am sure Mr. Avondale was quite upset when he discovered his neglect," suggested Smith.

"He was," said Mrs. Fanhaven surprised.

A servant entered and the three went down broad stairs to a dining room on the first floor. A round table, set for three, glittered with silver and cut glass.

While going down the stairs Mrs. Fanhaven had asked Avondale if he had finished packing and had received an affirmative reply.

"Gregory is sailing tonight," she explained to Smith as they sat down. "Going abroad to study hospital methods for me."

"Yes?" said Smith. "Hospitals are my hobby," she informed him. "I am going to build one in New York. Dreadfully expensive hobby. Almost worse than golf."

"Why do you want a hospital?" asked Smith.

"Poor people!" returned Mrs. Fanhaven with real emphasis. "I want a hospital where poor people can receive the aid of science amid love and sympathy. At the present time a poor person, in a public ward, is shown scant courtesy and no love. Sick people need love and sympathy as a flower needs sunshine."

The earnestness of the speech was impressive.

"You know," remarked Smith, coolly, "you are equally attractive with or without your mask."

"I say, capital!" interposed Avondale.

Cousin Gregory never shows his heart," said Mrs. Fanhaven quickly. "Poor boy!"

At the word "cousin," Smith had glanced at Avondale a little calculatingly as though examining a specimen in a new light. He turned again to Mrs. Fanhaven with polite attention.

"Somebody used a mashie on his head," she explained, "while he was playing around with a fast set in England. Would you believe it?"

"Rather not," answered Smith.

Avondale had been applying himself to his soup. He shrugged his shoulders.

"Live long in India?" queried Smith.

"Went to the dogs there before he smashed up in England," said Mrs. Fanhaven. "Poor boy. He reformed and I made him my heir to console him."

At the word "heir," Smith looked at Avondale and smiled but there was no answering smile.

The piece de resistance of the dinner was an Indian curry.

"The cook prepared it under Gregory's instructions," explained Mrs. Fanhaven, "but he insists upon frying the Bombay Duck himself."

Michigan Youth At 24 Wins Big Job in Corporation

If you are inclined to believe that the young generation is going to the dogs, is jazzing away its time and has not a serious thought in its head—just think of Holt Hollinger.

Here is a young man who may really be said to be starting out on his business career but who has already gone further than most men twice his age, and whose spirit and enterprise gives promise of accomplishments of which there is no foretelling.

At 24 young Hollinger is director of advertising and sales promotion of the Leonard Refrigerator Company, one of the largest institutions of Grand Rapids, employing 1,500 men. This company is a division of the Kelvinator Sales Corporation, Detroit, the largest exclusive refrigeration concern in the world, with sales last year well over the $22,000,000 mark.

Prior to his connection with the Leonard people, Hollinger for five years was with the Battle Creek Food Company as assistant to E. Roy Saxton, sales manager.

Below are some of the other outstanding accomplishments of Hollinger in the brief period that he has "tried his wings" in the world of commerce and industry.

As president of the Ad-Craft Club of Battle Creek, he was the youngest president of the youngest club in the International Advertising Association.

He was a member of the executive committee of the Battle Creek area of the Boy Scouts of America, which, as winner of the Glore Cup two two years in succession, is recognized as the outstanding organization of its kind in the country.

He is the originator of the movement for the organization of an advertising school to be conducted in connection with the public night schools of Battle Creek.

He is the holder of three positions with the International Advertising Association; member of the Advertising Club Board; the board of governors of the Fifth district, and a member of the speakers' bureau, making addresses before advertising clubs on direct advertising topics and on the psychology of advertising to women.

How effective an orator Hollinger is may well be judged from the fact that at the convention of the Fifth district of the International Advertising Association in Dayton last February, he, as sole member delegate from Battle Creek, presented the invitation to come to Battle Creek for the 1930 convention and won over the combined efforts of a very efficient group of 15 from Huntington, West Virginia, led by the executive vice president of the Chamber of Commerce and a prominent attorney. Huntington is a city about twice the size of Battle Creek and gave many favorable reasons for the convention being held there.

An interesting aspect of the manner in which modern business "carries on" is provided by the fact that Hollinger's appointment as director of advertising and sales promotion for the Leonard Company was discussed and approved during a conference held in the cabin of the Stout of the Kelvinator Corporation used to plane which President G. W. Mason make periodical inspection tours of the company's far-flung plants.

How to Light Fires With Wet Matches

Every camper knows the need for matches and what a predicament he is in when they get wet. Elton Jessup, in an article for the July issue of Field and Stream, advises every precaution to keep matches dry, but in the event they do get wet he says:

"A box of wet matches can sometimes be dried out by carrying the box in your armpit for a few hours. Body heat does it. Matches need not necessarily have to fall into water to develop soft heads. They will readily absorb the moisture of the woods even when they don't get soaked. It's just as well to remember, however, that so long as a moist match head isn't plumb soft, you can often make it strike after you have rubbed it through your hair a few times."

"The best matches for camping are the big stemmed and big headed parlor kind that you can strike on most anything that's dry. In order to keep matches absolutely dry, you either have to waterproof them or carry them in a moisture-proof container. One method of waterproofing is to dip a bunch of them in melted paraffine and letting them cool and harden. Colodion can also be used. Shellingacking them is another method."

"Waterproof containers are usually better. The main camp supply can be kept in a container such as a tight friction top tin or a screw-top jar."

"If you have the bad luck to get down to the proverbial last match, one way of bettering your chances of having it take hold is to cut about half a dozen toothpick splinters of dry pine and bind them around the match with points a trifle to the rear of the head. It is probable that one or two of the splinters at least will take hold."

The teacher had been reading to the class about forests.

"And now, boys," she asked, "which one of you can tell me the pine that has the longest and sharpest needles?"

Up went a hand in the front row. "Well, Tommy?"

"The porcupine."

NEW MILK DISTRIBUTION

UNIT ORGANIZED

A month or so ago, Martin Millard of Detroit visited many of the farmers in this section and talked to them in regard to perfecting an organization for the purpose of getting more money for their milk. A meeting was held at Howell and also in Washtenaw and Oakland Counties. An organization has now been formed and we quote the following from the Washtenaw Tribune:

Last Saturday the dairy farmers of Washtenaw and adjoining counties in the Detroit district met at Redford and took the first steps to organize a cooperative milk distributing company to operate in Detroit and the metropolitan area.

A committee of two was appointed from each county to work out the details and make application to the Michigan Milk Producers' association for assistance in organizing a cooperative distribution system, and for financial aid for investigating purposes. Martin F. Millard of Detroit, a farmer on a large scale, is chairman. The Washtenaw county members are George McCalla, Ypsilanti, and John Finkbeiner, Dexter. The other members are Claude Simmons and John Krum, Wayne County; Robert Carr and Charles I. Bennett, Livingston County; Donald T. Sayers and Frank Oliver, Oakland County; Fred Nolan and Frank Hyde, St. Clair County; Oliver Henderson and George Beach, Macomb County; Wesley Reid and Chris Helsler of Monroe County.

The association when organized will apply to the government farm board for a loan under the terms of the new farm relief law pooling their cows as security for the loan. Each member will own and share in the profits of the association in proportion to the number of cans of milk he produces.

The plan of the association is a practical working out of the government's idea that relief for the farmer should come from the cooperative marketing of his products instead of from higher prices to the consumer.

The association plans to serve every home in Detroit through sixteen distributing centers and the use of some thirty trucks. The plan is to have a truck cover all the streets in a given district while boys deliver from the truck to the homes. Thus one distribution is expected to accomplish what it takes several to do at present.

While all the milk distributed will be of first quality or standard, it will differ as to butterfat content. The housewife may have Holstein, Jersey, Guernsey milk as she prefers. The same will be true of cream. This will give her the variety now furnished through the medium of several distributors.

Through its system the association expects to receive 30 c more of the consumer's milk dollar for the farmer with no additional cost to the consumer. This of course would spell "relief" to the farmer.

The association figures that it will be able to make a complete city distribution in an hour and a half, whereas now several hours are required.

This means that the consumer will get fresher milk. The farmers will be able to cool their milk better, which is the crux of quality milk. Better methods of cooling on the farms will be put into operation. Greater returns for their product will enable the farmers to furnish quality milk to the association. The milk and cream not marketed will be converted into butter, buttermilk, cottage cheese and other products. It is believed that most of the butter will be consumed by the members to whom it will be distributed by the same trucks that collect the milk, at no distributor cost.

The association's plan has been carefully worked out, has been presented to President Hoover, and to economists in the U. S. department of agriculture by whom it has been pronounced feasible. It has been presented to congress by Senator James Couzens, as a concrete working of the ideas of the new farm relief bill.

George McCalla, of Ypsilanti who was appointed chairman of the meeting, in a short but pointed address asked the farmers to organize their business the same as any other industry is organized and to cooperate with one another. Mr. McCalla expressed himself ready to do anything possible to help the farmer.

Harold M. Vaughn, county agricultural agent says the loss of more than half of their apple crop is faced by orchard owners of Oakland county, who have suffered from unseasonable frost. Freezing weather the first of the month, interspersed with hot spell, reduced the young apples from half to two-thirds. His investigation, following the calls of many farmers, revealed that cold weather has caused the growing fruit to fall, and in some cases trees were killed or blighted.

The inland fishing bill effective August 28, 1929, provided that all non-residents over 18 years of age must have a license for taking all kinds of fish, the fee for which is three dollars per year; also that all residents over 18 years of age are required to procure a license to catch trout, the annual fee being one dollar. These provisions will not be enforced however, until the season of 1930 in view of the fact that the season is nearly at an end when the act becomes effective.—Milford Times.

About 400 people attended the annual reunion of Fowlerville High School held there June 21.

The 400 acre Rice farm at Silver Lake, Hamburg township has been sold to the Harter Bros. of Ann Arbor.

Patrick S. Scully, aged 74, for 54 years an employee of the U. of M. Hospital, Ann Arbor is dead. In 1925 he was awarded the Medal Pro Ecclesia et Pontifice, a signal meritorious honor of the Roman Catholic church, in recognition of his work with children at the hospital. He is the only man in the state ever to receive this medal.

SPRAYING TIME

APPLES

This reminder is only of interest for varieties that have a crop of fruit. This could be called a "July Bridge" to span the time between the "21 day after full bloom spray" and the Second Brood Codling Moth announcement near August. For orchards showing any scab it would not be safe to leave out sulphur.

This will be the last application in which iron sulphate should be used. This application should be applied before July 15.

All applications for apples after the middle of July should use a 2 pounds copper sulphate, 4 pounds hydrated lime in 100 gallons of Bordeaux Mixture, or an equivalently safe fungicide. Add two pounds arsenate of lead powder.

CHERRIES

Spray all sour cherries until 10 days of picking in order to hold leaves during harvest. Sweet cherries and all early sorts, not to be washed, should receive no poison. Late sorts, not to be picked before the middle of July should receive a poison application immediately after July 4, using 2 pounds to 100.

A savings account means an education in more ways than one.

It is an education in the teaching of thrift and the value of money.

It is an education in the handling of money.

It means an education at the time when they need it the most, for college.

It works no hardships on anyone. It is the education that everyone should have young or old.

REGENTS AUTHORIZE $955,000 FOR DORM

Raising the former upper limit of the sum which could be supplied for the building of a women's dormitory for the University, the regents of the university, in their annual meeting, backed the plans of Dr. C. C. Little, retiring president.

Last fall plans for building a dormitory to house 500 women were temporarily abandoned when the sum of $850,000 which was authorized by the regents was not sufficient to cover the cost of the structure following the announcement of builders' bids which required a larger amount.

The regents, following the request of Shirley W. Smith, business manager of the university, that they either support the plan or drop it indefinitely, raised the amount for the dormitory by $105,000 bringing the total to $955,000. At the same time plans were approved by which the building will be altered, allowing less space for residents in the dormitory, reducing the number from 500 to 450.

No change has been made in the plans under which the proposed dormitory was to have been financed last year, with the Guardian Trust company of Detroit supplying funds for the structure, under a system which was worked out between backers of the dormitory and the trust company last year.

Whether the structure will meet with the same criticism that it did last fall, and whether the university will be forced to face the same determined organization in opposition as last year, could not be told immediately after the regents' sudden determination to back the plan more strongly.

By their decision, however, the regents seem determined to support the dormitory system on their own convictions, with Dr. Little's term as president to be terminated before the fall term of school.

Rooming house owners and others last year took a determined stand against the intrusion of the new dormitory, with meetings, letters and petitions, succeeding in carrying protests to the office of Governor Fred W. Green at Lansing.

The resolution by which the regents supported the plans for dormitory, with meetings, letters and to be asked on the basis of specifications drawn up and revised by the architectural firm of Lovering-Longbotham company.

Call Attention to New Fur Farm Laws

The game division of the conservation department calls the attention of those who are planning to propagate game or fur-bearing animals in captivity, marsh enclosures, etc., to the new law enacted by the recent session of the legislature covering this subject, house enrolled act No. 152. A circular of instructions explaining the changes and the new regulations is now being prepared by the game division and will be available shortly. The licenses now in force will continue under the old law until they automatically expire on Dec. 31 of this year. New applications for licenses will be granted under and made to conform to the provisions of the new statute.

Poems That Live

"MOON SO ROUND AND YELLOW"
Moon, so round and yellow,
Looking from on high,
How I love to see you
Shining in the sky.

Off and off I wonder,
When I see you there,
How they get to light you
Hanging in the air.

Where you go at morning,
When the night is past,
And the sun comes peeping
O'er the hills at last.

Sometime I will watch you
Slyly overhead,
When you think I'm sleeping
Snugly in my bed.
—Matthias Barr (1831-?)

Slenderizing Lines Are Never Molded Lines

By Lucy Claire

In this season of the more fitted lines, with the flare important, the larger woman, whether she be in the "stylish stout" class, or just tall and built on a large frame, has problems of her own. She requires long lines, not too closely fitted, and a somewhat modified flare. The lines should have the effect of pulling the figure down. She can neither stand the severely tailored lines nor the loose panels and floating ends her slimmer sister wears to advantage. Frequently women of this type make the mistake of wearing too small sizes, thinking they make her look smaller, when they have exactly the opposite effect. The fabric drawn taut about the figure not only makes the figure look larger, but gives the impression that the frock is a make-shift because the larger size was not available.

Right and Wrong Way
Lines should conceal rather than reveal the figure, but without the fluffy effects that add roundness. The lines should be straight, but not too straight, with broken surfaces, because the plain, unbroken surface suggests expanse. The very snug hipline, yoked, girdled or swathed, should be avoided, as should draperies or flares that build the figure out. Draperies should conform to the long, flowing line effect.

Three examples of the right and the wrong way for the larger woman to dress are shown in the sketch, in sports, afternoon and evening models. In the grouping at the left are shown two types of suits. The first, with its double-breasted effect, short-rever collar, large fur scarf and full pleated skirt, is the too strictly tailored type that exaggerates size. The more correct type of suit is shown to the right of this grouping. It has more feminized lines, loose fit, a circular, but not full, skirt, and the long silhouette effect.

Taking the evening group next, sketched at the center, a glance is sufficient to show the effect of the fitted princess lines with the low flare pulled up in the front. Compare this model with its neighbor. Save for a slight indication of the waistline over the hips, and a discreet flare, the lines are practically straight. Yet here we have the princess lines with the dip back emphasizing the long lines which achieve a slimmer figure. Note the difference in the neckline between this and the other model, and the absence of the heavy round choker. The round neck with a heavy round choker are never becoming to the stout figure. The V neck gives the desired pull-down appearance.

The third grouping illustrates the over draped, over flared, over feminized frock, with its tightly girdled hipline, as compared with the long, slim lines of the frock with the side drape. The waistline is almost normal, yet not conspicuous, and the long side drape helps to pull the costume down.

It is scarcely necessary to mention figured fabrics and colors. Many of the larger woman make the mistake of wearing large figured fabrics, and conspicuous colors, though they must know better. But it is in the lines of the silhouette that the greater proportion make their mistakes.

AN ALMA BEAUTY SPOT POSSIBLE

There are great possibilities for an additional beauty spot in Alma, and the chamber of commerce has appointed a committee to co-operate with the city commission and other civic organizations to work out plans to turn the river above the dam into an artificial lake such as they have in many other points of the state, and improve it with trees and shrubbery and a riverside drive.

At present the river is full of old stumps, logs and dead weeds which makes it unsafe for boating, unsafe for swimming and generally unsightly but this condition can be changed, the river can be cleaned out of all stumps and rubbish up as far as the Wolfe bridge. A new dam can be built, and what is now more or less of a mud hole part of the year, at least, can be made into one of the beauty spots of Michigan with a park and a riverside drive which the public may enjoy.

This is one of the things that can be done to make Alma a more desirable place to live in and all it needs is a hearty co-operation of the people of the city. Many other towns have capitalized on a smaller basis.

Ford Offered Mill 90 Years Old for Museum

E. A. Moross, owner of the Lake Roller Mills, Mosherville, one of the oldest flour and feed grinding establishments in the state, has offered free the mill and all equipment to Henry Ford, for use in the museum of natural history.

Several years ago a bridge gave way, during construction of a paved road, and did considerable damage to the structure. Recently, as a result of the damages the rear end of the mill was washed out, endangering the entire structure.

Moross, former manager in 1903 to 1909 for Barney Oldfield and also former manager of the Indianapolis speedway, claims the mill was established in 1818 and that turbines and machines in the structure are more than 90 years old. He offers the entire mill, machinery and equipment to the Detroit auto magnate, the only stipulation being that it be removed from the premises within the next 90 days to permit the erection of a hydro-electric plant.

Lettuce and Watercress
Individual Custards Coffee

People must eat, even in the summer time, and I've noticed after a very hot spell, and even during one, a hearty, appetizing meal tastes pretty good. We perspire away a good deal of energy in hot weather and we must be renewed, and food—judiciously selected and well cooked and seasoned—is a great help.

Today's Recipes
Stuffed Cabbage—Season a pound of raw chopped beef with salt and pepper and the juice of a small onion. Add one-half cup cooked rice. Soak eight large cabbage leaves in hot water for a few minutes to soften them. Roll part of the meat mixture in each leaf. Place in a kettle with two large tomatoes, one chopped onion, two tablespoonfuls vinegar, and two tablespoonfuls sugar. Add a little water and let the cabbage simmer and stew until it is tender and well browned.

Custard—Use three eggs or their equivalent to one pint of milk, one-fourth cup sugar, a little salt, flavoring of nutmeg or vanilla, one-half teaspoon of the latter. Beat together, pour into individual custard cups, place in a pan of hot water and set in the oven for twenty minutes or more. Test by inserting a silver knife into the custard. If it comes out clean the custard is done.

SUGGESTIONS Laundry Hints

If clothes pins and lines are boiled about ten minutes when new they will give much longer service.

If hot water is used for sprinkling the clothes will be more evenly dampened and easier to iron.

Style Whimsies

Paris hostesses are using silver ducks and geese to replace small bottles and pitchers for the dining table. A mirror pond in the center of her luncheon table crowded with silver and glass ducks in red and green, was the novel decoration of one smart hostess. Each duck was a small pitcher or bowl containing a condiment or sauce.

Youthful tuck-in pajamas of striped and printed flannelette are being shown for fall.

Ribbon rosebuds as trimming on lingerie are increasing in favor.

THESE CITY WOMEN

Within my small circle of acquaintances in and about New York City and two or three other cities of varying size, there are many childless couples. In a few cases the wife works in an office or commercial establishment of some sort, either to increase the family income or to pass the time actively. But in most cases the wife does nothing at all.

The husband, in every case I can think of, is a hard worker. He may be an artist, writer or office man of some sort, or he may have a business of his own. He goes to some kind of work every day.

The wife has so little to do, in several cases that I can call to mind, that she has to resort to mid-day swim-bathing, innumerable engagements with beauty specialists, horseback riding by the hour, or riding up and down on the buses, in order to fill out her day.

In the cases I have in mind, the husband and wife live in small apartments, and maids are employed to make the beds and sweep and dust, which is about all there is to do. These tiny apartments in the large cities have serving pantries or small kitchenettes, and it is out of question to prepare what might be called a meal in these little laboratories.

I know several healthy young women whose husbands work hard to make ends meet, who rarely attempt to get their own lunches. Even when they are at home alone, they will go to a restaurant to eat lunch. I know young women who have been married two or three or four years with all of their "housework" done by the hotel staff except the placing of the cut flowers. One of these over-pampered young women said to me recently, "I'm bored stiff, with nothing to do all day but feed the goldfish, and I've killed five of them with overfeeding."

Many good-looking girls who work as typists look forward to just this work every day. They have to rise early now and get to work on time. They have to take orders. Their social affairs are somewhat restricted by reason of their employment. They are somewhat peevishly awaiting the Prince Charming salesman or dentist who will take them away from all this and give them years of idleness and nice clothes.

Such a state of affairs isn't universal, even in the large cities. I even know one woman who bakes bread for her family of two. She is, however, a woman of another generation, past 60 years of age. But the number is increasing of newly married girls who are deter-mined to have no babies and do absolutely no useful work. What do you make of it?

How to Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

DAINTINESS IS ESSENTIAL TO BEAUTY IN SUMMER

Without a doubt the impression and feeling of daintiness is a first essential of summer beauty. At any season, of course, one likes to look and feel dainty, but in the summer-time, with all the elements seeming to conspire against it, the urge for perfect daintiness becomes doubly important.

Cool, pale, summer frocks and hats, light breezes, long, cool drinks in tinkling glasses, all emphasize the season's mood of perfect freshness. And to complete it fully we must carry out this note of gay daintiness in all personal details.

Nothing looks more uncomfortable and unsightly on a warm summer's day than to see rings of perspiration stains upon a woman's gown. It is unpleasant to mention even, yet mention it I must in order to remind you of how unnecessary it is and how easily you can avoid it.

There are several harmless kinds of astringent lotions which effectively check perspiration. While I certainly could not counsel the use of any of these over a large portion of the body's surface, I consider it permissible and wise to use them on the armpits, on the feet and even, occasionally, upon the palms of the hands. In these areas the pores of the skin are particularly numerous and the sweat-secreting glands excessively active.

Sponge the lotion you choose to use over these areas several times a week. If you perspire freely it may be necessary to use them oftener, but for most people, men included, three nightly applications in a week will prove enough.

In addition to using a liquid to prevent perspiration, you should have a deodorant powder to use all over your body after bathing. There are several good bath talcums which effectively deodorize. They are faintly scented, yet their real effectiveness lies in their chemical capacity for neutralizing perspiration odors.

Another pleasant aid to summer daintiness is the use of delicately fragrant bath salts. A handful of these salts thrown into your bath softens the water and leaves your skin freshened and softly scented. Do not use one of the heavily perfumed types of bath salts that you may have used during the winter season. In the summer such odors are quite unsuitable. Instead choose a light, flower scent or, better, one of the faintly pungent, pine or balsam fragrance. Lavender flowers in bath salt or crystal form also have a fresh, clean odor that appeals to one's sense of summer daintiness without ever intruding itself blatantly as the heavier perfumes do.

A little of these bath salts dissolved in the final rinsing water of your shampoo will give your hair the same faintly appealing, dainty fragrance that your freshly washed body has. And if you use pine or lavender salts you will find that their scent will not conflict with your favorite summer perfume, whatever it is.

As a last hint to daintiness, let me remind you of the importance of using an antiseptic, astringent mouth wash. If you are one who has contracted the unfortunate habit of smoking, this hint should be a solemn warning. For nothing is more annoying than the strong smell of nicotine lingering inconspicuously about an otherwise very dainty woman. Use your mouth wash frequently to offset this unpleasantness. And, to guarantee perfect sweetness of breath on all occasions, you might carry about with you in your hand-bag a package of some fragrant mouth pastils. There are some made with charcoal which not only sweeten the breath but actually neutralize all odors and acid in the mouth.

Ladies and gentlemen getting sun tanned on Waikiki beach

By LILIAN CAMPBELL
If you go swimming at the beach at Waikiki, Honolulu, you may still be a perfect lady and wear a scanty one-piece bathing suit that looks as though it shrunk when it reached the water.

In fact, if you want to be in the height of style, it must be as low as you dare in front and cut down to the waist in back.

For gentlemen, rolling your own is in style. That is, roll the top part of the suit down to the waist, so that you may enjoy freedom of motion and the healthful rays of the sun. But if you leave the beach for the street—even for the palm lined way that leads to a hotel a block away—you must wear something more. Even if your bathing suit is light and conservative, you must wear a cover it with "a suitable outer garment reaching at least to the knees." You must, because the Hawaiian legislature says so. Nearly a decade ago, the veteran Senator Stephen L. Desha, part Hawaiian, part French clergyman, obtained the passage of the law which was to cause policemen and lawyers and court officials to seek a satisfactory definition of "a suitable outer garment." The swimmers themselves have defined it generally as a bright colored Japanese happy coat or Chinese coolie coat. An official definition has never been found. A few arrests have been made under the law, but no convictions have been obtained. Yet the law is here to stay, at least for another two years.

DETROIT AND CANADA TUNNEL TUBE SUNK

The first tube of the Detroit and Canada tunnel has been sunk to a bed of mud 80 feet below the surface of Detroit river.

This tube is one of ten that will comprise the underwater portion of the $25,000,000 tunnel project. The 10 tubes vary in length from 220 to 250 feet, with an overall diameter of 35 feet. Their aggregate length is approximately half a mile.

The tubes are being built at Ojibway, Ont., where they are bulk-headed, launched and partly concreted. When submerged to a depth of 23 feet or so each tube is towed upstream to Detroit and anchored near the river bottom trench in which they are to lie. Additional tremie concrete then is poured and suspended from buoyancy scows the tube gently is lowered into place.

The tubes when launched weigh in the neighborhood of 500 tons each. At the time of sinking, each tube weighs from 7,000 to 8,000 tons.

The tubes are to lie in a 45-foot trench being excavated from shore to shore. Just before the initial tube went down the trench was "swept" with a mammoth steel framework to make sure everything was clear. A bed of sand and gravel from two to four feet thick then was placed in the bottom of the trench and the final weight applied to the tube.

The tunnel is to be completed next year and will rank as one of the outstanding vehicular tunnels of the world.

Kent County State Park Will Be Urged

Efforts to induce the state to purchase as a state park the North Park Pavilion property and the Grand Rapids Boat and Canoe club's site, both owned by the Grand Rapids Railroad company, and lying adjacent to the Michigan Soldiers' home, are to be made by City Manager George W. Welsh. He said he would advise purchase by the city, but the city is now more than $1,800,000 in the "red."

OLD FOLKS SAY DR. CALDWELL WAS RIGHT

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice.

He treated constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a combination of senna and other mild herbs, with pepsin.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs?

A bottle will last several months, and all can use it. It is pleasant to the taste, gentle in action, and free from narcotics. Elderly people find it ideal. All drug stores have the generous bottles, or write "Syrup Pepsin," Dept. BB, Monticello, Illinois, for free trial bottle.

Japanese Giant Radish

This is the great Sakurajima Radish from Japan. It is the largest radish grown, often attaining the enormous weight of 15, 20, 30, 40 and sometimes 50 or 60 pounds. It is a real "novelty" to most Americans, and the taste will immediately convince anyone of the fact that it is not merely a curiosity but a radish of extraordinary quality. The flesh is solid, firm and brittle, and of most excellent flavor. It will grow and thrive in any soil or climate.

This is a radish that can be planted in the spring and eaten all summer long, and can also be kept through the winter if dug in the late fall and buried in a box of dry sand in the cellar. As a summer radish it is a wonder, and it will grow and thrive when it is so hot and dry that common radishes would be a failure. By all means try the Sakurajima Radish and you will be surprised at the real value of this monstrous variety. Send for packages of the seed today before it is all gone. Packages, 16c; 3 packages, 25c; by mail, postpaid. Address: Novelty Garden Club, 55 Market St., Grand Rapids, Mich.

MILES TO CELEBRATE CENTENNIAL IN AUGUST

Final arrangements for the celebration in August, that will mark the hundredth anniversary of Niles' settlement, was recently made at a meeting of the centennial celebration committee.

Dr. Fred N. Bonfine, famous eye specialist, and friend of Jack Dempsey, is president of the Niles Centennial association. Benjamin E. Bird is chairman of the finance committee.

Although Marquette, LaSalle, Alouez and other French explorers and missionaries passed through Niles in early years, Niles was settled by John Johnson, an itinerant shoemaker. Historians differ as to Johnson's advent to the site of what is now Niles, some claiming he came in 1827, while others give the settlement date as 1829.

Padlock Ordered On Negro Resort

An order directing Sheriff William Franch to padlock temporarily a Negro resort near Long lake, pending final hearing on a petition to declare the place a public nuisance, was issued by Circuit Judge R. A. Hawley. The petition was filed in court by Prosecuting Attorney F. C. Miller as the outgrowth of the arrest recently of Harry Rhodes, proprietor of the inn, and his wife, Cynthia, Negroes, on charges of violating the prohibition laws.

The inn, owned by Grand Rapids interests, is situated on a large tract of land bordering on Long lake, 10 miles northwest of Ionia. An attempt a year ago to plat the land as a Negro resort subdivision was thwarted when Orleans township officials refused to accept the plat for record. For the past year or more the inn has been the congregating place for Negroes from metropolitan centers.

Arcadia Pond Gets 300,000 Brook Trout

The state department of conservation has completed planting 300,000 brook trout from the rearing ponds of the Arcadia Country club, recently taken over by the department. The planting was supervised by A. J. Wolcott of the Harriette hatcheries. Robert Anderson of Thompsonville will be caretaker this summer.

Plant 300,000 Fry In Lake Michigan

Deputy Game Warden Frank Salisbury and Neal DeGlopper of this city planted more than 300,000 trout fry in Lake Michigan, one of the largest single plantings ever made here. They were taken aboard two tugs where they were slipped overboard five miles out in the lake.

State Credit Bureaus To Meet in Grand Rapids in September

The next meeting of the Associated Credit Bureaus of Michigan will be held in Grand Rapids in September, according to J. C. Deremo, manager of the Merchants Service bureau and vice president of the state organization, who was instrumental in getting the convention.

Mr. Deremo took part in the program of the convention at Ypsilanti late last week.

Military Students Given Assignments

Advanced military science students have received their assignments to military camps for military training this summer. Those from western Michigan who will go to Fort Sheridan are as follows: Lawrence Bredal, Mantion; Don Grove, Sturgis; Harold Hannah, Grand Rapids; Glenn Hitchings, Petoskey; Donald Keppel, Zeeland; Horace Ocker, Empire; Duane Ogden, Charlevoix; James Richards, Eau Claire; James Van Zyle, Grand Haven; and Glenn Veneklassen, Zeeland. Louis Hermel, Traverse City, and Robert Wicksall, South Haven, will go to Camp Knox.

Buchanan Gets Industry

Buchanan will get a $300,000 concern as a result of the completion of negotiations for the transfer of the Krohn Differential Corporation, a Chicago company with capital stock of $500,000 and cash surplus of $125,000, to the Michigan city. The Krohn company has leased the manufacturing plant of the Campbell company in Buchanan for the manufacture of its Krohn compensating differentials for motor trucks and passenger cars and the Krohn power dividing units for six-wheel trucks. Manufacture of these products is to be started immediately in the Buchanan plant. It is planned to continue production at Chicago for time and to move the engineering department to Buchanan at a later date. According to W. G. Farnsworth, president of the Krohn company, no financial aid was asked in coming to Buchanan and the company is not planning to sell stock.

Detroit Taxes Lowered

Detroit's tax rate for the current fiscal year has been announced by Mayor John C. Lodge as $20.65 per $1,000 assessed valuation, as compared with $21.50 last year. Assessed valuation of the city has been increased $119,567,370 over last year, however, and now totals $3,681,781,130. If last year's assessed valuation had been maintained, this year's rate would have been $21.35 per $1,000, which also would have represented a decrease of 15 cents per $1,000 as compared with last year. The new rate will be the lowest since 1926.

Two communities entirely surrounded by Detroit, namely, Hamtramck and Highland Park, also announced their new tax rates. In Hamtramck, the lowest rate in the city's history amounting to $11.60 per $1,000 was announced. This is $1.02 per $1,000 lower than for the preceding year. In Highland Park, the tax rate will remain the same as it has been for the past four years. It is $10.40 per $1,000 of assessed valuation.

A STATE BOARD WILL ENFORCE U. S. AIR LAWS

Careful inspection of all Michigan airports and rigid enforcement of federal laws governing airplanes and pilots will be started this fall by a state board of aeronautics created by the last legislature. William B. Mayo, head of the Stout Metal Airplane company, is chairman of the board.

The law creating the commission was one of several pertaining to the airplane industry, which were approved this year by the lawmakers. According to Gov. Fred W. Green, the legislation places Michigan among the foremost states in advanced laws governing development and safety of the new industry.

Federal laws regulating aircraft and pilots have been in effect for some time, the chief executive pointed out, but heretofore enforcement has been left almost entirely to federal agents. As it was found almost impossible for the federal government alone to enforce the laws in all states, the full benefit possible from such legislation was not obtained. With the federal rules now a part of Michigan's statutes, however, state law enforcement agencies will now join with those from Washington and accidents due to commercial use of antiquated ships and improper piloting are expected to decrease.

The first step of the new board, when it organizes here next September, will be to notify all airports that official permission will be needed hereafter to operate. The airport officials will be given 60 days to file applications for official approval.

Every port will be visited either by board members or official inspectors. Unless the airports are of sufficient size and meet all safety requirements, they will be condemned and future use will not be permitted.

All pilots, of course, are tested at the present time by the federal government. But it is expected the state board will co-operate henceforth in conducting these tests as well as aiding in the inspection of planes.

The board, too, will have control of all flying schools. It is permitted to order changes in curriculum, equipment, personnel, operation and management of such institutions if necessary for the safety and thorough instruction of students. Flying schools hereafter will have to obtain a license from the board before taking students.

The lawmakers empowered the board to make reasonable rules and regulations governing airports and schools. Appeals from the board may be taken within 10 days to a committee consisting of the governor, the attorney-general and the state highway commissioner. Violation will be punished by a fine up to $1,000 or 90 days' imprisonment, or both, and each separate violation will constitute a separate offense.

Another act passed by the legislature allows railroads to operate air lines. This law was sought by the railroads because of the opening of a transcontinental system by which passengers fly by day and travel by train at night. Because of this initial step, it is predicted railroads throughout the country will augment their service with airplanes just as they were forced to adopt buses when motor transportation became popular.

Bigger Bridge Span Over St. Clair Seen

The introduction in Congress, by Representative Louis C. Cramton and Senator Arthur E. Vanderberg of a new Port Huron-Sarnia international bridge resolution to modify financing terms would mean that the huge span will be even larger than originally planned and will cost between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000 instead of $3,500,000, Maynard D. Smith, promoter of the span, said yesterday. It will also mean that the construction of the bridge will be speeded up considerably, Mr. Smith said. Test borings for the span were completed yesterday on the Canadian side and several weeks ago on the American side. Eighty per cent of the land on the American side for the bridge approach has been secured by option or by purchase, Stanley McFarland announced yesterday.

Traverse Surgeon Given High Honor

A fellowship in the American College of Surgeons has been awarded Dr. E. L. Thirby of Traverse City.

This represents the highest professional honor, constituting recognition of accomplishment and professional standing. The fellowship seldom has been bestowed in northern Michigan. Dr. Thirby will be inducted at a meeting of the College of Surgeons in Chicago the week of Oct. 14.

Ford's Road Indicted

A federal grand jury at Columbus, Ohio, has returned an indictment in 25 counts against the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton railroad, owned by Henry Ford, charging it with soliciting and receiving illegal coal rates. It is the first time in years that a railroad has been indicted in this section of the country on such a charge, government officials stated.

The indictment charges that the Fordson Coal company shipped coal at Hardy and Stone, Ky., on various dates. The coal, it is alleged, actually was destined for Ironton and Jackson, Ohio, but, the bill charges, was delivered to the Norfolk & Western railroad at Hardy for South Charleston, Ohio, though it never reached the latter point, instead finding its way to Jackson and Ironton.

It is charged by the government that the Ford railroad contravened the regular tariff schedule and got lower coal rates by billing its coal to South Charleston, a long haul, instead of direct to Ironton and Jackson by the direct short haul. It was worked, government agents charge, in this manner.

Buys Ford Plane

Firestone Tire and Rubber company is receiving a new 12-passenger Ford tri-motored plane, recently purchased for about $60,000. The plane will be used for company business between plants located in Akron, Bedford, Fall River and Los Angeles and for trips to the winter quarters of Harvey S. Firestone, president.

Olivet Honors Banker

The men's new dormitory of Olivet college is to be called "Blair Hall," in honor of Frank W. Blair, president of the Union Trust company, Detroit, and a member of the board of trustees of Olivet college. This announcement was made by George R. Wilson, Chicago, chairman of the board of trustees, at the formal dedication of the new building, during the commencement exercises at the college.

"Now, Robert," said the teacher, "can you tell me what human nature is?"

"Yes, ma'am," replied Robert. "It's people 'fore they get into society."

STATE RELEASES BUILDING FUND

The state administrative board has released the first of the appropriations made by the last legislature for the next biennium. Among the expenditures approved was $28,200 for the Michigan Home and Training school at Lapeer, which was provided for in the Hartman bill that will raise $6,000,000 a year for rehabilitating state institutions.

The board also released $7,000 for buying land for state forests in Crawford, Kalkaska and Oscoda counties and for a game refuge in Otsego county. Auditor General O. B. Fuller objected to this expense in view of the fact that he is constantly deeding tax delinquent lands to the conservation department which can be used for these purposes. But Governor Fred W. Green said the lands to be purchased are now surrounded by state owned property and are necessary to carry out the conservation department's forestry and game refuge programs.

The State sanitarium at Howell was allowed $100,000 for the construction of a children's unit and $1,500 for repairing the administration building. A new heating plant for the Coliseum building at the State Fair grounds in Detroit, costing $39,000, and a new speed barn, costing $4,235, also were authorized.

What "Tire Economy" Really Means

"Economy" doesn't mean buying cheap tires. True, you may save a dollar or two on first cost, but suppose a dealer does offer you tires at less than the price of the standard makes? It stands to reason that's all they are worth.

You can come in here, pay a fair price for a Kelly-Springfield (no more than you would pay for any other reputable make) and get the quality product of the tire industry. When the "price buyer's" second set of tires is wearing out, you are still turning in cost-cutting miles on your Kellys. Which buy is the real economy?

If you are not already using Kellys, get acquainted with us; we can show you what "tire economy" really means.

CURRENT COMMENT
Pinckneyites are without one of their principal forms of amusement; for the time being at least, as the slot machines and punch boards mysteriously disappeared from their accustomed haunts Friday evening. It is said that the company called them in on account of sudden activity of the State Police who seized a number of them at Howell last week.

The board of supervisors at Howell last week dug out Hon. Lynn Gardner's bill forbidding persons to wear bathing suits on the public highways brushed it off, put it up to the sheriff's force to enforce it. It was further amended to forbid persons riding in autos to wear bathing suits unless wearing a long coat or cape. As Sheriff Wumbles has many more duties at the present time than he can perform we doubt if this law will be strictly enforced as the board failed to vote any appropriation for extra deputies. Bathing beauties are not an uncommon sight on the streets of Pinckney at the present time.

Considerable criticism has been made of our comment on the Hough murder case at Howell as compared to the Crumbaugh and Pearson cases. One county official points out that prohibition violations such as Crumbaugh is charged with and arson for which Dr. Pearson is awaiting trial are much more difficult cases in which to secure convictions, than murder being filled with innumerable technicalities. We admit this but have often wondered why the technicalities were placed in the laws. Our article was only to compare the working of the law in three separate cases.

ARE YOU INTERESTED?

The annual school meeting of District number 2 Putnam is set for Monday evening July 8. One trustee is to be elected, Irving Kennedy's time having expired. It is expected also come up. This meeting is probably one of the most important events of the year in the smaller communities and probably the most neglected. The average vote is usually about 10. Last year considerable interest was manifested about 40 votes being cast. Whether this will continue remains to be seen. We do not see where those who fail to attend these meetings have any grounds for finding fault.

PINCKNEY-MICHAGAMME WINS EIGHTH STRAIGHT VICTORY

What promised to be a tight game developed into a one sided affair when the Pinckney-Michagamme team scored 10 runs against the M. & A. Electric shop team of Lansing in the 4th inning and put the game on ice as it were. Davis who started to pitch for the Lansing team fed the Pinckney batters a slow ball, which they were unable to get hold of, and turned them back scoreless for three innings. In the meantime the visitors scored 2 runs and led 2 to 0 up to the last of the fourth. Then Swarthout singled, Lee walked, Moran forced Swarthout at second, Kennedy walked, Mulvaney hit to left and 3 runs scored. Brown singled, Mulvaney scoring, Bowman singled. Here Clay relieved Davis for Lansing but was wild, walking Lewis Swarthout and Miller and forcing in two runs. Lewis scored on Lee's sacrifice fly and Lee scored on Kennedy's hit. Pinckney got 4 more runs in the 5th on Brown's two base hits, singles by Lewis and Swarthout, two errors and two bases on balls. Kappen went in to pitch for Lansing and stopped further Pinckney scoring. Moran held the visitors to six hits and was given able support the Pinckney team only making 2 errors.

NOTES OF THE GAME

Don Swarthout had a field day at bat getting three hits and two bases on balls in 5 trips to the plate.

The Lansing boys looked like big time stuff until the 4th. Davis had Pinckney baffled with his slow ball up till then.

Moran was a little off on control at the start. The first Lansing run was the result of a base on balls and two hits and the second of a hit batsman and a single.

Kappen who finished pitching for Lansing is rated as a star there. He has pitched for Eaton Rapids, Charlotte and other teams. Pinckney only got two hits off him in the 3 1/2 innings he worked.

M. E. Darrow, official announcer, made his initial appearance with megaphone. It is green in color and has Pinckney-Michagamme on it in gold letters.

ARRESTED FOR DESTROYING DAM AT CEDAR LAKE

Elton Basing of Howell was arrested at Howell Tuesday by Under Sheriff Daller for destruction of property. He was taken before Justice Yelland and his hearing was set for July 16. He is represented by Frank Shields and the people by Prosecuting Attorney Sweeney.

Mr. Basing owns most of the lake frontage on the west side of Cedar Lake and Messrs Charles Potter and Earl Baughn own the frontage on the east side. The two owners have had considerable trouble over the lake level, Mr. Basing claiming that the head that Messrs Potter and Baughn wished to maintain by means of a dam at the outlet flooded his property. Messrs Potter and Baughn got permission from the Public Utilities Commission to keep the lake at the desired level and this was also affirmed by the county board of supervisors. Nevertheless they found it extremely difficult to keep the water head as their dam was destroyed time after time. Lately they have been watching nights and claim to have caught Mr. Basing demolishing the dam with a pick Monday night. His arrest is the result of this.

The Circuit Court for the County of Livingston in Chancery
Sarah Frances Monks and Nellie E. Gardner, Plaintiffs, vs

Thomas Cahel, Seth W. Fields, and their unknown heirs, devisees, legatees and assigns, Defendants Suit pending in the Circuit Court for the county of Livingston in Chancery at Howell, Michigan, on the 10th day of June 1929.

It appearing from the sworn bill of complaint as filed in said cause that the plaintiffs have not been able after diligent search and inquiry to ascertain whether the said defendants are alive or dead, or where they may reside if living or if they have any personal representatives or heirs living or where they or any of them may reside, or whether the title, interest, claim, lien or possible right of these defendants have been assigned to any other person or persons, or whether such title, interest, claim, lien, or possible right has been disposed of by will by the said defendants.

And it further appearing that the plaintiffs do not know and have not been able after diligent search and inquiry to ascertain the names of the persons who are included as defendants without being named.

Upon motion therefore, of Don W. VanWinkle, attorney for plaintiffs, it is ordered that the above named defendants and their unknown heirs, devisees, legatees and assigns cause their appearance to be entered herein within three months from the date hereof and that in default thereof said bill be taken as confessed by said defendants and each and all of them.

It is further ordered that the plaintiffs cause this order to be published within forty days in the Pinckney Dispatch a newspaper printed, published and circulating in said County, once in each week for at least six successive weeks.

The above entitled suit involves and is brought to quiet the title to the following described lands located in the Township of Putnam, County of Livingston and State of Michigan, more particularly described as follows, to-wit:

The southeast quarter of the northwest quarter, the east half of the northeast quarter of the northwest quarter, and the north half of the northwest quarter of the southwest quarter, all on Section number twenty-eight (28) in Township one (1) North of Range four (4) east, Michigan.

Don W. VanWinkle, Attorney for Plaintiffs, Howell, Michigan. Business Address;
