PINCKNEY DEER

HUNTERS RETURN

The most of Pinckney's hunters returned from the north woods last week. The alibies which they brought back with them greatly outnumbered the deer. Clare and Claude Swarthout arrived Thursday with a pronghorn buck shot by the latter. Norman Reason pulled in Friday deerless. Only one deer was shot by his party, Harold Griever, being the lucky one. W. H. Meyer, L. C. Hendee, W. C. Hendee, B. F. Esic, and Orval Smith also arrived Friday. They report deer scarce and only got a few shots at them.

The Maurice Kelly hunters bagged two deer which were shot by Eardly Van Syckle and another man from Fowlerville. However it fell to Maurice to have the most harrowing adventures of the whole kit and caboodle of them. He got a broadside shot at a mammoth buck at a distance of approximately 50 feet. However he hit a tree which somehow got in between himself and the deer and the deflected bullet struck it but did not kill it. The widely circulated story that he was tressed by a ferocious black bear he says is without a shred of truth, being in fact a base fabrication.

Norman and Clare Miller pulled in Sunday night with a ten point buck shot by John Cripe of Howell. It is said to be one of the largest shot in the lower peninsula this year. They also wounded another which escaped by jumping in the AuSable river. Two black bear also crossed their path which they were unable to hit.

Clarence Blades returned home with a deer.

PRIEST IS THOUGHT SLAIN

Extensive search is being made for Rev. Francis Forster, Superior General of the Order St. Basil, stationed at Toronto for the past seven years. He is a brother of the Rev. Daniel Forster of St. Mary's parish Pinckney. Rev. Forster left for Montreal on November 8 to meet Rev. Fr. Player who was returning from England on November 11. It has been discovered that Rev. Forster checked his grips at the Windsor station at 7:00 P. M. and started to walk from there to meet Rev. Player at the dock. He disappeared between the station and dock as completely as if the earth had swallowed him up. Rev. Player found no one to meet him and proceeded to Toronto alone. Rev. Forster is thought to have been murdered and his body thrown in the river or otherwise disposed of. Besides Rev. Daniel Forster of this place he has four other brothers and six sisters. The missing priest formerly resided in Williams township Bay county.

A $5,000 reward is offered for his return by his friends.

ST. JOSEPH'S BAZAAR DEXTER

A three day festival and bazaar to be given by St. Joseph's Church, Dexter, will open with a gala Thanksgiving dinner on Thanksgiving day at 5 o'clock in St. Joseph's Auditorium, Dexter. The festival will close on Saturday evening.

On Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, the ladies of the parish under the direction of Mrs. A. N. Kearney will entertain at a card party. Prizes will be given for all the events.

The festival and bazaar will be open both afternoons and evenings on the last three days of this week. A cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend.

BIG BROADWAY SUCCESS AT PINCKNEY COM. HALL TONIGHT

The big Broadway success "Pigs" is to be put on at the Pinckney Community Hall under the auspices of the Pinckney lecture course tonight. It is said to be full of laughs and there is not a dull moment in it. The curtain will rise at 8:30 p. m. Reserve seats will be on sale at the ticket office on the night of the show.

REGULAR P. T. A. MEETING

The regular P. T. A. meeting will be held at the school house on Monday evening, December 2.

ANNUAL THANKSGIVING DANCE

The annual Thanksgiving Dance will take place at St. Joseph's Auditorium, Dexter on Thanksgiving night. An enjoyable time for both old and young.

DAVID VANHORN

David VanHorn, aged 55 years, died at his home in Ann Arbor Sunday. He is survived by his wife who was formerly Mabel Brown and one son. Also a brother, Edward, of Detroit. The deceased was the son of the late John VanHorn and lived on the VanHorn farm east of town many years, later moving to Ann Arbor.

The funeral was held from the Swarthout funeral home Wednesday, at 2:00 P. M. (today). B. F. Esic officiating. Burial was in the Whitcomb cemetery.

WAS A BIG SUCCESS

The feather party given for the benefit of the Pinckney Community Hall last Friday night was a decided success. About $85.00 was added to the treasury as a result of it.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS

This is the time of the year when the greater part of the subscriptions to the Dispatch expire. About January 1 statements will be mailed to those who are in arrears. Now is a good time to fix up your subscription.

MILK PRODUCERS MEETING

Sixty farmers met at the Pinckney Community Hall Tuesday afternoon and formed a local milk producers association. Those present came from Unadilla, Isoco, Marion, Putnam and from Dexter and Webster townships in Washtenaw county. County Agent Bolander opened the meeting by introducing Prof. A. C. Anderson of Lansing, field man for the Michigan Milk Producers Association. He talked on the value of the organization and dealt on the benefits gained from the Milk Producers Association. A local organization was then formed with Charles Reed of Marion, president; Michael J. Roche of Putnam, vice-president; and Russell Livermore of Unadilla, sec'y-treas. Remarks were made by different ones and questions asked. Most of the farmers who attended the meeting are selling their milk to the Gordon Milk station at Pinckney.

PINCKNEY PLAYS

THANKSGIVING MORNING

The High School football team will play its final game Thanksgiving morning at 10 o'clock at that time eight of the players will be playing their last football game for Pinckney. Dexter has been chosen as the opponent because of her fine showing two weeks ago. Dexter who has always been a natural rival of Pinckney, both in school and independent sports, says her team will beat the home boys by at least two touchdowns. Dexter carries one of the best players that Pinckney has met this year. Her heavy line will probably outplay Pinckney's on defense, however, Pinckney has a slight edge on offensive strength.

This game should prove a real battle. Pinckney has one of the best defensive teams that she has ever developed. In six games played her opponents have failed to register a score while the two games lost were by one or two touchdowns.

Dexter is coming over with a large delegation determined to win the last game of the season. Let Pinckney turn out to cheer the home boys and help them turn back the over-confident team from Dexter.

ATTENTION BROTHERS

The annual convocation of Livingston Lodge No. 76 F. & A. M. will be held on Tuesday evening, December 3. An oyster supper will be served in the dining hall at 7:30 p. m. This will be followed by the business meeting at which the annual reports of the secretary and treasurer will be read. Election of officers for the ensuing year will be next in order. All brothers should make it a point to be present.

OYSTER SUPPER

The Pinckney Congregational church will hold an oyster supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Nash, Friday evening, November 29th commencing at 6 o'clock.

WEEK OF DECEMBER 1
High west to northwest winds will blow away the storm area forecast for the tail end of last week so that the opening days of the week of December 1st will be mostly fair and cold.

About Monday or Tuesday, however, there will be a more or less sharp reaction to warmer with temperatures reaching slightly above the 50-degree mark. With this change there will come increasing cloudiness and some moderate precipitation.

By the middle of the week temperatures will be falling to readings slightly below the seasonal average and by Thursday the skies will again be clearing. This will mean that the last days of the week will be generally fair, sunny and the temperatures quite normal.

Tropical Hurricane in Michigan
The severe wind storm that sunk the car ferry Milwaukee and the heavy rains that damaged fruit trees and other crops in Michigan during the first week of October 20th was correctly forecast in this column. It was written nearly two months in advance of the actual happening. The weather bureau failed to put up storm warnings along the Great Lakes until late Monday.

From our chart system of forecasting weather we can plainly see this particular storm appearing over the north Pacific coast on October 17th and moving slowly eastward.

There were hurricane characteristics in this storm center as it was coming northwest from Georgia made possible, we believe, by the transference of the tropical storm which met the northern storm off the Florida coast.

The storm center remained in Michigan nearly 48 hours at hurricane barometric intensity, the longest period for any one state during its ninety days travel in the United States.

Now Millions More Stop "Dosing" Colds

Better External Treatment Wins New Users All Over the World

Every year since the introduction of Vicks VapoRub, more and more people have given up the old-fashioned way of "dosing" colds and turned to this modern external method. Today, the whole trend of medical practice is away from needless "dosing."

Mothers of young children especially appreciate Vicks because there's nothing to swallow, and, of course, nothing to upset delicate stomachs. Just rubbed on, its medicated vapors are released by the heat of the body and inhaled direct to the inflamed air-passages. At the same time Vicks acts through the skin like a poultice or plaster, "drawing out" tightness and soreness.

Year by year, the fame of Vicks has spread from neighbor to neighbor and from state to state, until now it is used for the colds of adults as well as children in over 60 countries.

The ever-growing demand for this modern method of treating colds is shown in the familiar Vicks slogan, "Made famous when Vicks reached '17 Million Jars Used Yearly,' later raised to '21 Million,' these figures are again being changed, as there are now 'Over 26 Million Jars Used Yearly'—in the United States alone.

DR. CALDWELL'S THREE RULES

Dr. Caldwell watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the most delicate system and it not habit forming.

The Doctor never did approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. Use Syrup Pepsin for yourself and members of the family in constipation, biliousness, sour and crampy stomach, bad breath, no appetite, head aches, and to break up fevers and colds. Get a bottle today, at any drugstore and observe these three rules of health: Keep the head cool, the feet warm, the bowels open. For a free trial bottle, just write "Syrup Pepsin," Dept. BB, Monticello, Illinois.

CHATTY GODDESS OF GAB

by BEATRICE BURTON, Author of "HER MAN," "HONEY LOU," "SALLY'S SHOULDER," "MONEY LOVE," "LOVE BOUND," etc.

CHAPTER X

For weeks—ever since Dave Jordan had first begun to take notice of her—Chatty had been gloriously happy. And because she had been happy, she had been all sweetness and brightness and goodness. For it is so easy to be good when you are happy.

But now, as she sat at her table in the "Brown Butty" tearoom, with her eyes fixed darkly on Dave and Agnes Herford in their corner, all her old bitterness and discontent came back to her.

It dripped into her mind and heart like poison into a staining white cup. "The nasty vamp!" she said to herself, watching Agnes lean across the little table where she sat with Dave, and smile up at him. "I'll bet she asked him to take her to lunch! I'll bet she told him she wanted to ask his advice on something, or some such gag as that!"

A waitress, pink-cheeked and smiling in her blue dress and white cap and apron, came up to take her order. "No—I guess I don't want any lunch after all!" Chatty told her, pushing her chair back from the table. "I thought I did—but I'm not hungry. I don't feel well."

That was the truth. She was sick all at once—actually sick with jealousy. Her head had begun to ache, and she felt as if she would burst if she couldn't have a good long cry all by herself, somewhere.

She went upstairs and spent the rest of her lunch hour sitting idly at her typewriter, staring at the opposite wall and feeling unhappy and bad tempered.

"Last night I let him kiss me!" she scolded herself for her weakness. "And today he gives me the go-by to take that dumb cluck of an Agnes out to lunch. What CAN he see in her?"

When Winnie Talcott came along on her way to the record room a few minutes later she greeted her with the question:

"Well, she said, 'come here and tell me what all the men see in Agnes Herford. You know her a lot better than I do. . . . What's so fascinating about her?'"

Winnie, all black taffeta, bouffant and jasmine perfume and frizzled hair, shrugged her pretty shoulders. "I don't know. Maybe some men like 'em that way—refined." She pronounced it RE-fined. "Who's fallen for her now?"

"Dave Jordan's taken her to lunch," said Chatty, trying to keep her misery out of her voice.

But there was no use in trying to keep anything from Winnie Talcott! She was one of those naturally sharp-eyed people who miss nothing.

"Well, dearie, if that's the way you feel about Dave, you'd better snap out of the dumps and work on him a little yourself!" she answered smartly. "And listen—any girl can get any man she wants if she only goes about it in the right way. If Dave likes the Poifick Lady type like Agnes, be that type for him! That's my B-atrie! Fair-fer answer to you!"

Chatty nodded. That sounded like pretty good advice, she thought. "I've always hated that moon-faced Agnes from the moment I first set eyes on her!" she said, hotly, her eyes narrowing and her lips tightening into a thin, straight line. "And last night she saw what a fuss he made over me, so now she's trying to get him away from me! Well, all I have to say is that she'd better watch her step when she starts anything with me! My mother and Mr. Van's wife are the greatest friends in the world. And I think Mrs. Van would thank me for telling her what I COULD tell her about Mr. Van and Agnes Herford!"

Her face glowed with a white-hot flame of anger.

She was still boiling with fury an hour later, when the door of the film room was pushed open, and Dave Jordan, himself, stood in the opening.

She saw him from the corner of her eye, but she did not look up until Billie spoke to him.

"Hello, David," she said, in her sweet, pleasant way. "Do you want us to get you something out of the files?"

"No, thanks," and he shook his red head. "I just came in to speak to—Miss Chatterton." He came into the room and slung one of his long legs over the corner of Chatty's desk.

"I wanted to take you to lunch today—but I couldn't make it," he said to her, in a low tone. "And I'm going to be tied up evenings all this week with one bother and another—but on Sunday couldn't we go out and spend the day in the country with George and Billie? Take our bathing suits along in case we found a place to swim? And broil steaks or something? Wouldn't you like that?"

Chatty shook her head. "I'm not going to be anybody's 'side sweetie,'" she told him, bluntly, giving him one straight look. "If you and I were just friends, I would. But you've made me like you a lot better than I should like you. And I'd rather not see you at all than be with you once or twice a week and know you were out with other girls the rest of the time. No THANK YOU!"

He got off the desk and stood up, looking down at her. "I'll be back at half-past five. I'm going to drive you home," he said, "and talk you out of this! What makes you think I spend all my spare time running after girls? Where did you get such an idea?"

"Oh, that's just some more of my own business," Chatty told him calmly. "And there's no use in trying to talk me into going with you on Sunday, because I'm NOT going!"

But towards the middle of the afternoon she asked Billie if she could have a half hour for herself.

"I want to do some shopping," she said. "Dave Jordan has an idea that you and George and I ought to go on a picnic with him next Sunday—and I thought I'd buy some blue-dotted Swiss and ask mother to make a dress."

Sunday was a day of soft sunshine and blue, blue skies with not a cloud in them.

At six o'clock Chatty was awake. She lay in bed for a minute or two, blinking at the sunshine that came pouring in through the open windows of the bedroom and smiling at the dark blue Swiss dress, crisp and fresh on its hanger just inside the closet door.

By eight o'clock she had finished packing the lunch of fried chicken and deviled eggs and chocolate layer cake that she had made the night before.

CHAPTER XI
Dave Jordan was one of those wonderful people who know how to mind their own business.

And so he said nothing at all when Chatty stopped short in the middle of what she was telling him about Billie Langenau's marriage.

She could not even be sure that he had heard her.

For he was passing a gasoline truck on the left side of the road with great style and speed, and he did not even turn to look at her until they were ahead of it.

Then he gave her a quick smile. "I oiled and greased 'The Pride of America' last night," he said, "so you'd have a fast, smooth ride today."

She sat there for a long time, feeling unhappy and bad tempered.

And tucked away in the ice-box in the kitchen.

By nine she was dressed in the new blue dress, and her hair was brushed back the way Dave Jordan liked her to wear it. Then she went into the Langenau's flat to have Billie put the "finishing touches" to her costume.

For Billie had the gift of "style." She could pull a dress about until it had just the right lines. She could push in a hairpin there, and tuck in a stray lock there, with the expert hands of a born hair dresser.

"That, you DO need the tiniest bit of powder on your nose in all this heat," she said. "I won't put on enough so that Dave'll see it, but just enough to make you look velvety. Come here."

And she touched Chatty's chin with the glass stopper of her perfume bottle, and fastened her own string of little pearls around her smooth young neck.

"Now, you're a dream!" she declared. "And if Sara would only say that she'd go along with us I wouldn't have a worry in the world."

But Sara shook her rather plain-looking head with great firmness.

"No, indeed!" she said. "I'm not going along as the spare tire on anybody's picnic. You all pile into George's car. I'll be crowded as it is—and I'll be perfectly at home with my magazines, all day!"

But they did not crowd into George's small closed car.

For Dave Jordan came in his own "open-faced, snub-nosed" one that he called "The Pride of America," and he had it all planned that he and Chatty should ride in it alone.

"George and Billie will have a much better time by themselves," he said cheerfully to Sara, who did not like to have Billie and George left to themselves very often. "And we can all meet out on the Old Mill road where the Turnpike crosses it."

"I don't believe they're so crazy to be just by themselves," Chatty said to him when they had started away from the Lipton street apartment house, and were running smoothly along through the sunny, clean streets towards the outskirts of the town. "Billie and George are just awfully good friends."

Dave Jordan laughed. "Old George is off his balance about her and don't you ever let anybody tell you anything different," he said, rounding a corner with great speed and expertness. "Didn't I do that neatly, for a wonder? No, nobody can tell me anything about the way Old George feels about Billie. You see, we have a flat with two other fellows, and we room together—George and I. And two fellows get to know all about each other, living in close quarters like that. . . . He'd marry her tomorrow if he could! But she keeps him at arm's length—"

"Well, of course, she does. But she has to, doesn't she?" asked Chatty. "When she's still married—"

She stopped abruptly, and clapped a hand over her mouth. . . . What on earth was she doing? Telling the one thing that Billie had begged her never to mention to a living soul! And that she had promised never, never to tell!

turned him down because he wasn't making enough money to suit her.

"And that's why he's free to spend his Sunday with me," she told herself. "That's probably why he kissed me the other night—because he can't kiss her any more. I'm just filling in for her—"

For a second bitterness flooded her heart. Then she forgot it in the look that Dave gave her suddenly, with a quick turn of his handsome head.

Concert and Dramatic Star Heads Cast of "Pigs"

MME. MABELLE WAGNER-SHANK

Mme. Mabelle Wagner-Shank is the distinguished head of the "Pigs" company, appearing here soon. She studied in Naples and New York, was five years prima donna in Henry W. Savage's production of "The Merry Widow"; was tone test and recording artist for the Edison Phonograph Company; more lately has gone into comedy character roles appearing just recently in New York in the Lew Cantor production, "A Mexican Rose." Mme. Wagner-Shank is also a writer of successful vaudeville sketches and a musical and play producer of note.

As "Grandma" in the play "Pigs," and in the various musical interpolations in the play she is the finished artist.

BENNY RICHARDS

Miss Benny Richards is the charming ingenue in "Pigs," and incidentally the recent winner of a state-wide beauty contest. She is also an accomplished pianist and singer.

RED CROSS HONOR FLAG GOES TO NEW HAMPSHIRE

The honor flag, given annually to the State which enrolls the greatest percentage of its population as members of the American Red Cross, went this year to New Hampshire. The decision was so close between New Hampshire and Vermont that it hung in the balance for a time. California ranked third in the honor list last year, next fourth.

A final tabulation of figures of the 1928 Roll Call showed a nationwide membership of 4,127,946. The banner vests with New Hampshire, where it is hung in the State House, until the 1929 Roll Call—held between Armistice Day and Thanksgiving Day—is completed and new figures available for the 1929 winner.

COFFEE CROP AIDED BY RED CROSS IN ISLANDS

Disaster relief given following the West Indies hurricane which struck Porto Rico, the Virgin Islands and Florida, as well as other islands in the Caribbean Sea, presented one of the largest tasks yet undertaken by the American Red Cross. In Florida, where 1,810 lives were lost, the Red Cross aided 41,236 persons. In Porto Rico and the Virgin Islands, where the loss of life was not so great, but where the devastation was almost complete, the Red Cross aided 731,712 persons. Destruction of the coffee plants was the gravest loss, and the Red Cross aided in rehabilitating this industry by employing 67,000 natives to clear the coffee land, so that replanting would go forward immediately, thus providing work and wages for thousands.

LABOR HEAD URGES SUPPORT OF RED CROSS

"Invariably it is the masses of the people which suffer most when disasters occur," stated William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, recently.

"Because they suffer most and because of their helplessness, the ministrations of the Red Cross organization take on added significance and importance. No doubt many lives among these particular groups are saved through the prompt service which this organization gives.

"Because the American Federation of Labor appreciates this fact, we have supplemented the appeal of the American Red Cross at each Roll Call period for memberships from the great mass of working men and women and their families.

"The continued service of the American Federation of Labor in this most humane and unselfish work will be most cheerfully rendered."

Mr. Green is a member of the Board of Incorporators of the American Red Cross.

NURSES ENROLLED WITH RED CROSS FOR SERVICE

Enrolled with the Nursing Service of the American Red Cross at Washington are 49,000 nurses, qualified under the society's regulations, who may be summoned to service in time of disaster or other emergency. From the Red Cross enrollment were assigned 20,000 nurses in the World War. These Red Cross nurses are the standing reserve of the Army and Navy Nurse Corps of the United States, and are also called upon for service in other governmental health services.

Little St. Eustatius Island in the Dutch West Indies gave refuge to American ships during the Revolution. The hurricane of last September struck the island, causing heavy loss. The American Red Cross was glad to send a small cash relief fund in remembrance of the historic friendship of the island folk for this republic.

AIRPLANES DROP TONS OF FOOD DURING FLOOD

Army, Navy and Alabama National Guard airplanes delivered twenty-five tons of supplies furnished by the American Red Cross to flood refugees who were completely cut off from any other aid, during the serious floods in four southeastern States early this spring.

The three services made an average of fifty flights a day, delivering medicine, food, clothing and blankets. Most of the supplies were dropped to the refugees who were isolated on hill tops and high ground, by the flood waters.

Naval aviators made a total of 115 flights during the flood period, embracing 15,000 miles. Observation planes also reported by radio where marooned refugees could be located, and a magnificent program of co-operation with the Red Cross relief forces was carried forward by all three aviation services.

CAMELS—

The phrase "I've Graduated to Camels" originated with a Camel smoker. It expresses the experience of millions who through Camels have learned to know real smoking pleasure.

As taste in smoking develops, it naturally leads toward better quality. New smokers may not be critical but when they once experience the true mildness and surpassing fragrance of the Camel blend, they realize that here is a real superiority. It is for smokers of such discernment that Camels are made . . . for them the choicest tobaccos are selected . . . and this quality is maintained for the millions who know genuine smoking pleasure.

CONG'L. CHURCH NOTES

A very impressive Thanksgiving service was enjoyed by those gathered for worship at the Community Congregational church, Sunday morning, Nov. 24.

Thanksgiving was the keynote of the service in song during which the choir rendered two anthems, Mrs. Clifford Van Horn a solo and Mrs. Bert Hicks and Miss Rita Iseler a duet. This was followed by the reading a transcription of the vision of Sir Launfal, given by Mrs. Maurice Darrow. In this reading Mrs. Darrow gave the thought expressed by Lowell, telling how Sir Launfal spent his life in search of the Holy Grail only to find, after years spent in vain that the Holy Grail was just outside his own castle gate.

Mrs. Alta Meyer continued the thought by a short talk from the text of Sir Launfal Matt. 25:40 inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren ye have done it unto me. Mrs. Meyer contrasted the first Thanksgiving with the present and conducted the program by expressing the idea of showing our thanks to God by deeds of kindness to the needy near us.

Surely such a service should bring about a keener appreciation of God's blessings and a deeper realization of our duty to mankind.

Let us all try to be present next Sunday to welcome out new pastor and his family.

Don't forget the L. A. S. Annual Bazaar on Dec. 7th. Every member is requested to furnish an apron and 1 other article. Donations from anyone will be greatly appreciated.

SCHOOL NOTES

School will be closed from Wednesday, November 27 to Monday, December 2.

At a meeting of the football team held Monday at the school Murray Kennedy was elected captain of the backfield for next year and Russell Read line captain.

The high school debating team will go to Fowlerville on Thursday evening, December 5, to meet that team in debate.

After the Thanksgiving vacation the school will begin at 9:00 a. m.

Basket ball practise will start immediately after the Thanksgiving holidays. Pinckney will not start her season until after Christmas. The prospects are bright for a good team this year. All of last years team will be back except Roy Reason who will be too old for further high school competition. Last years men who will be back are Capt. Har Hall, Pete Geryez, James Hall, Roland Shehan, Stanley Dinkel, Russell Read and Gerald Henry. Of the freshmen Murray Kennedy and Marshall Meabon are both considered good material. Seven games have already been scheduled, which include two with South Lyon, two with St. Mary's (Chelsea), two with the Ypsilanti Central Reserves and one with St. Thomas. Pinckney will open the season at Ann Arbor where they will help St. Thomas dedicate her new gymnasium.

The following is the record of the high school football team for this year:

Pinckney 34, Dexter 7.

Pinckney 38, South Lyon 0.

Pinckney 0, Fowlerville 12.

Pinckney 41, South Lyon 14.

Pinckney 14, Ypsilanti Reserves 7.

Pinckney 0, St. Thomas 6.

Pinckney 0, Ann Arbor Reserves 0.

Pinckney 14, Dexter 0.

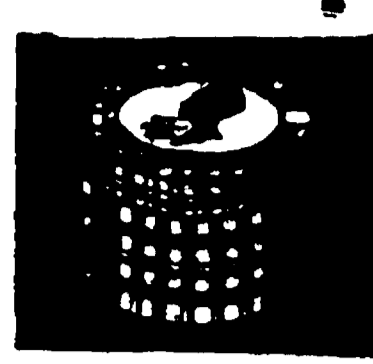

Pinckney 0, Byron 0.

Pinckney has won five games, lost two and tied two. They have scored 141 points to their opponents 46.

Murray Kennedy was the leading scorer, being responsible for 51 points.

Gerald Kennedy was second with 27 and Pete Geryez third with 15.

It is interesting to compare the above with the records of previous Pinckney teams. In 1926, the year the local team won the class "D" championship they ran up 403 points to their opponents 18. In 1927 they scored 149 points and their opponents 67. They played an extremely heavy schedule this year, meeting both Chelsea and Brighton twice each. In 1928 Pinckney accumulated 249 points to their opponent's 59. By this it can be seen that the local boys were excelled in defensive ability only by the team of 1926 but lacked scoring power as compared to the teams of the past.

Poems That Live

THE GARDEN OF SHADOW
Love heeds no more the sighing of the wind
Against the perfect flowers: thy garden's close
Is grown a wilderness, where none shall find
One strayed, last petal of one last year's rose.

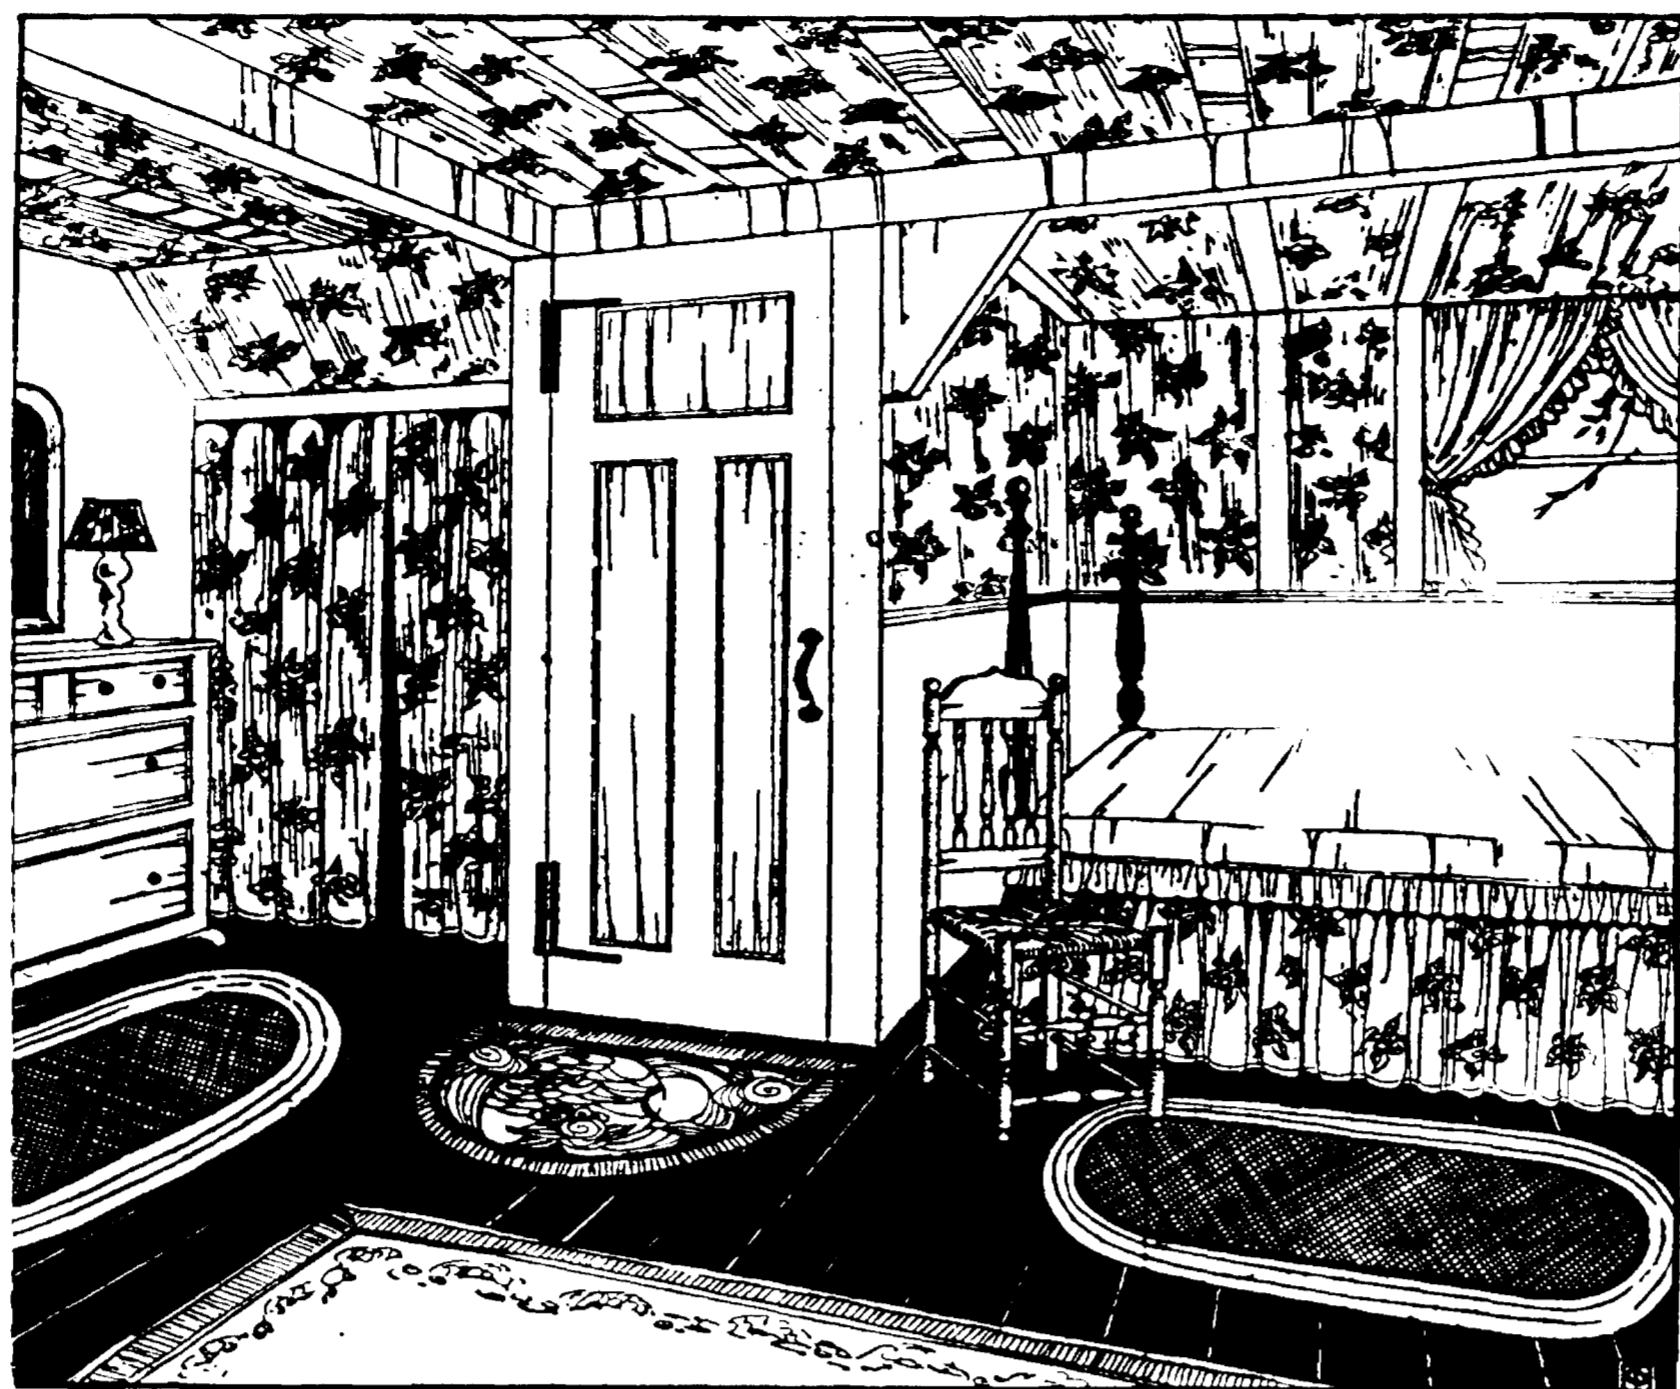

O bright, bright hair! O mouth like a ripe fruit!
Can famine be so nigh to harvesting?
Love, that was songful, with a broken lute
In grass of graveyards goeth murmuring.

Let the wind blow against the perfect flowers,
And all thy garden change and glow with spring:
Love is grown blind with no more count of hours
Nor part in seed-time nor in harvesting.

—Ernest Dowson (1867-1900)

When Attic Store Room Becomes the Chief Guest Chamber

By HILDA HUNT

In doing over the attic room, the first problem is to eliminate its barracks-like roughness. The rough beamed ceiling, the irregular shape, and the "tucked-in" windows are not always conducive to the most decorative effects. Yet if artistically handled the attic room can invariably be made into one of the most attractive spots in the house. Giving over a large attic room, with windows, to storage, is too expensive a proposition in these days of high taxes and consequent high rents. One must get some other use out of every part of the house and do away with the "junk" our foremothers used to store in the attic, to get the money's worth out of an abode, whether one owns it or pays the landlord.

ARTIST'S COLONY FOR THE SOO

The upper peninsula's first artists' colony will be built on the shores of St. Mary's river west of Sault Ste. Marie in the spring of 1930. The projectors are Mr. and Mrs. Jan Jansen, formerly of Cleveland and now living in Sault Ste. Marie. "We have purchased 40 acres of shore land near The Shallows," said Mr. Jansen, "and will build primarily for student artists. Seven art instructors have been engaged and drama painting, oil canvas, tapestry, water color, cone painting, polychrome, lacquer, basket weaving and other subjects will be taught. Numerous cottages will house the colony and be available for transients. There will be a community dining room and a campsite for tenters." The site will be named "Eden's Haven," in the Danish language. "The Garden of Eden." The Jansens have been searching for years for an ideal location. They believe they have found it in Sault Ste. Marie.

The sketch shows an attic store-room that was made over into a guest room. Incidentally, in this case, the whole attic floor was transformed into a suite. A small room adjoining the guest room was transformed into an extra bath, and there was still a small space left for storage, which was closed off. The treatment was simple, but most effective when completed. In this case a flowered cretonne on a cream ground was used to cover the walls and ceiling between the rafters, which were painted green. The cretonne was handled as one would handle wall paper, and then shellacked which made it easy to wash and keep clean. Wall paper would have answered the same purpose, but would not have worn as well.

School Will Pay For Boy's Injuries

Following considerable controversy between a district school board and the father of Harold Raniszewski 14 years old, of Lenox township, who was accidentally shot in the foot recently at the Church school, three miles north of New Haven, it was decided Wednesday that the physician's fees for treating the lad would be paid from funds derived from a box social to be held soon. The lad was injured when a bullet from a 22 calibre rifle, which was being used in a school play struck him in the foot and broke a toe. It was decided that no one individual could be held responsible for the shooting and the box social plan was hit upon as a proposition agreeable to all concerned. The gun used as a display, was to be loaded with a blank cartridge, but the school boys had been using real bullets to shoot at a target in the school yard and neglected to remove them from the gun before bringing it into the school room, it is understood.

Pola Off for Divorce

Stopping over in New York en route from the west to her chateau in Normandy, France, there to await a Parisian divorce from Prince Serge Mdivani, Pola Negri declares: "Divorce is the sole climax to a love which is dead, so far as I'm concerned." Pola seems unperturbed over a report that Mary McCormick, Chicago opera star, may wed the prince. Pola's costume: A leopard skin coat over a black silk frock, with hat to match.

Old Colonial furniture, theretofore stored in the same room, was done over, and used for furnishing. It fitted in well with the cretonne-covered walls, which gave the room a Colonial feeling as a background. As there was naturally no clothespress in the original storeroom, one was improvised by draping off a generous corner alcove with drapes of the cretonne. As a further tie-up, a founce of the cretonne was used to finish the bedspread. The founce was made separately, and tied to the bedspring with tapes at given intervals, as the bed founce should be, to make laundering easy. The spread may then be changed without necessitating the removing of the frequent laundering. Hooked rugs and rag carpet rugs were used for floor coverings.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Poached Egg on Toast
Buttered Cabbage
Baked Bananas with Lemon Custard Milk
Oatmeal Cookies
Diced Potatoes with Parsely Carrots and Peas
Cottage Cheese with Lettuce Plum or Prune Whip Milk
These menus are for children's luncheons. They are equally good for adults, however. Amounts will serve six.

Today's Recipes
Buttered Cabbage—Wash and cut up two pounds of cabbage. Bring two quarts of water to a boil and add cabbage. Boil for ten minutes; drain and season with two tablespoons of butter and one-half teaspoon salt.

Plum Whip—One pound plums, one cup sugar, five whites of eggs. Wash and steam plums until tender. Add sugar and mash through a sieve. Cool. Whip eggs until stiff and fold in pulp. Serve immediately. Canned plums may be used.

Prune Whip—One-half pound prunes, five whites of eggs, three tablespoons sugar, two tablespoons orange juice, one teaspoon butter for pan. Beat eggs stiff, add gradually prune pulp, combined with other ingredients, fold in carefully—not too thoroughly. Bake in a buttered pan in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) with the baking dish standing in a pan of water.

Oatmeal Cookies—Three eggs, one cup milk, three-eighths cup sugar, one-half cup butter, two cups oatmeal (three minute brand), two cups flour, one-half teaspoon soda, one-half teaspoon baking powder, one-half pound raisins. Cream butter and sugar, add beaten eggs, milk and flour, sifted with soda and baking powder. Add oatmeal and raisins. Drop by teaspoons two inches apart on a buttered pan. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees Fahrenheit).

Suggestions
Granulated Honey
Granulated or candid honey can be stored to its liquid state by immersing the container holding the honey in water not much warmer than lukewarm. If one application does not do the trick, repeat putting the jar in more warm water.

It is taken from pieces made by Russian peasants, reflecting the true Russian spirit. The Russian provincial pieces are particularly for the quaint, peasant type of American home, being adaptable to the small apartment and average home as well as more spacious country homes.

The Parent Problem

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
"My doctor told me to give my baby cod liver oil once a day."

"Yes, my doctor gave the same advice to me about my girl of two, but she just won't take it."

And so one constantly hears similar accounts of mothers. How absurd! I know of two boys, eight and ten, who quarrel over who is to get the largest spoonful of cod liver oil. My own lad of seven often smacks his lips with "Good" after he has had his daily portion of this precious food.

Parents who begin early with the infant meet no difficulty, except when they or some other member of the family offer bad suggestions.

First we need to learn self-control so as to avoid being such a nuisance. We, therefore, will not let ourselves do these foolish things. If necessary we shall learn to take cod liver oil without ado ourselves. We can learn to do almost anything we must do for the sake of the child whose destiny is almost wholly in our hands.

Although it may seem more economical to buy cod liver oil by the gallon or the quart, to do so is not practical. It may deteriorate and grow rancid. Better get it in small bottles and keep it fresh and cool. Any oil seems to you and me more distasteful when it is warm than when it is cool.

Over-eager mothers who do not keep in close touch with their physician may give the child much more cod liver oil at a time than necessary, and too often.

Now suppose you have a child of two or three or older who needs cod liver oil, and who seriously objects to taking it. How shall you proceed? If you disguise it in orange juice or other necessary food you may succeed temporarily, only to make matters worse, to teach the child forever to dislike the food in which the cod liver oil has been disguised.

A better way may be to persuade the child to take it from a spoon, offering him as the first morsel a few drops to be increased gradually in amount at later times. It ought to be cool and fresh for such attempts. An effectual word of praise, a star, a more substantial reward, may bring success.

First offer it to the child under the most favorable conditions. If your inducement does not work and he refuses, cease your efforts then. Remove it out of sight and say nothing. At a later time in the day have a good assistant available. Pour a small portion in the spoon, out of the child's sight; then as the assistant, gently, but firmly, seizes the child and prevents his struggles, put it into him as skillfully and quickly as possible.

Incidentally, attract the child's attention to something he will respond to, but be sure not to give him a lecture on the value of cod liver oil or how he should do what you want him to do. Say nothing. Do nothing. Next time proceed in like manner, and continue in this fashion until he volunteers to take it alone. He will after several times, provided you are skillful, going about it as calmly and as matter-of-fact as if you were frying bacon. Soon its taking will be no hardship. Indeed, it may become a pleasure.

The World and All

By CHARLES B. DRISCOLL

ABOUT BURNING WORDS

Maybe I am wrong, but it seems to me that language wins greater battles than intertemperate language. Speakers and writers who go in for vituperation and "plain speaking," meaning by that what is usually meant by it in the press and on the rostrum, soon lose their vogue. The speaker or writer who opposes wild language with mild statements, being sure his facts are facts, is likely to hold the boards after the other is forgotten.

I remember going to hear a debate between Jerry Simpson and Chester I. Long when I was a very small bare-foot boy on a Kansas farm. Jerry Simpson was the prophet of the Kansas farmers in one of their major revolts. The debate was part of a campaign for office. Simpson was known as "Sockless Jerry," because there was a story that he never wore socks. He was a picturesque character, gifted with quantities of self-expression. His vocabulary was simple, but forceful.

Jerry had that audience by the ears.

His sparkling sallies and intemperate volleys of denunciation were greeted by storms of applause. He was the hero of the hour.

Long didn't make a good platform impression. He had a plain, unornamental way of saying things. He talked about facts, and most of the audience thought him a bit tiresome. He talked like a corporation lawyer arguing a case before the supreme court. His statements were conservative.

Jerry served a short term in congress. Long served a long time. Eventually he became a senator, and when that job failed he went back to a rich law practice, which I think he is still carrying on.

Of course, Jerry passed on long ago. He was a nervous man, and he burned up much vitality in his fierce philippic.

I never liked Long. He seemed too cold and statistical. I liked Simpson because he was colorful and human, and he appealed to the imagination. But temperate language nearly always proves an asset in the long pull.

With the Women of Today

By LILIAN CAMPBELL

A Nebraska woman, Dr. Olga Stastny, was recently appointed health chairman of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs by Miss Marion H. McClench, Ann Arbor, Mich., president. Dr. Stastny's task will be to shape a health program which will answer the varied needs of 56,000 business and professional women. For a number of years the health committee of the federation has been striving to make the business women more efficient by encouraging proper health habits, and a trophy has been awarded annually to the state federation which could boast the highest percentage of its members on the job every working day during the year.

Dr. Stastny is a graduate of Omaha college, served her internship in the New England Hospital for Women and Children in Boston, and has practiced both medicine and surgery in Nebraska for a number of years.

The most spectacular feature of her career, however, was her postwar reconstruction work, first as anaesthetist at Luzancy, France then as a medical social service worker in Czechoslovakia and finally, as the director of medical operations on the little island of Myrcronissi, to which, refugees of the Smyrnt disaster were sent when the Grecian mainland was too over crowded to receive them. For a period of five months Dr. Stastny had charge of 12,000 refugees, apportioning their rations, supervising sanitation, and struggling against the deadly typhus.

Dr. Stastny was entered by the state of Nebraska in the contest to choose the pre-eminent professional woman of the United States, conducted in 1927 by the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs, and was among those who attracted the favorable attention of the judges, losing by a narrow margin to Judge Florence Allen of the supreme court of Ohio.

Haines Writes 1929 University Opera

Donal Hamilton Haines, instructor in journalism at the University of Michigan, was announced recently as the author of the 1929 edition of the Michigan Union opera, entitled "Merrie-Go-Round." Haines has aided largely in the writing of most Michigan operas, particularly in late years, and is credited with having written "Michiganida," the first opera in 1907; "Culture," the 1908 edition, and "Come On, Dad," the 1919 opera.

Couple Advertise For Indian Baby

An advertisement seeking an Indian baby boy or twin boys eligible for adoption was published recently by the Allegan probate court, for Mr. and Mrs. Fred Webb, of Allegan. This couple adopted Indian twin babies several months ago. One of them died. The advertisement specified the age of one baby must be between six and 18 months, but twins may be between the ages of four and 18 months.

One-Minute Palpit

My son, despise not the chastening of the Lord; neither be weary of his correction: For whom the Lord loveth he correcteth; even as a father the son in whom he delighteth.—Proverbs iii, 8, 12.

Man must have some hopes, fears and cares for the coming morrow.—Schiller.

LANSING LAYING PLANS FOR AIRPORT

Asserting "buck passing" between the state and the city of Lansing on improvement of the airport near Lansing has become tiresome, the Civic Bureau of Lansing has a committee working on plans for a municipally owned and operated airport for Lansing.

If the project is developed as planned and airport bonds are approved at the next election, the city will withdraw from the airport northwest of the city "loaned" by the state. The airport has been improved by neither state nor city, each waiting on the other.

But a small part of the year is the field in condition for use and Lansing's air mail for several weeks has gone forward by rail to Chicago.

Jackson Gets Highest Tax Rate in History

A tentative budget prepared by City Manager Walton B. Hodges, presented to the Jackson city commission, calls for a levy of approximately $900,000, which would mean a tax rate of $10, the city's limit. The 1929 tax rate was $9.48. The total appropriation for the 1930 budget is $1,003,176, of which $103,000 is to be raised from revenue sources.

New expense items include $32,000 for a new fire alarm headquarters station, $9,428 for new street lights in the downtown area, and $6,000 for a forestry department. Salaries of Chief of Police Charles Phelps and Fire Chief Clyde Pritchard are each increased $500 to $3,500.

The city commission will report on the completed budget before Dec. 15.

Loan Shares Exempt

Building and loan company shares are not subject to taxation under the state inheritance tax laws, according to a ruling handed down by Wilbur M. Brucker, attorney general. The opinion was written for John S. Haggerty, secretary of state.

Acidity

The common cause of digestive difficulties is excess acid. Soda cannot alter this condition, and it burns the stomach. Something that will neutralize the acidity is the sensible thing to take. That is why physicians tell the public to use Phillips Milk of Magnesia.

One spoonful of this delightful preparation can neutralize many times its volume in acid. It acts instantly; relief is quick, and very apparent. All gas is expelled; all sourness is soon gone; the whole system is sweetened. Do try this perfect anti-acid, and remember it is just as good for children, too, and pleasant for them to take.

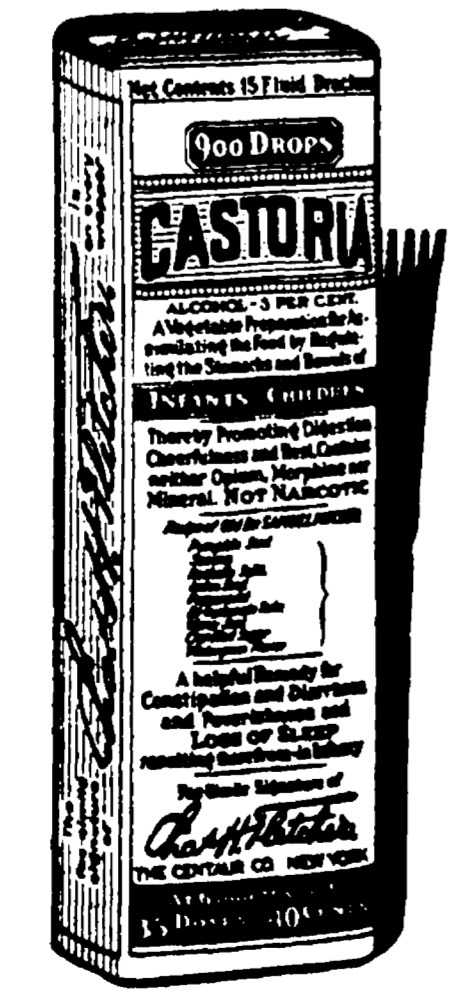

Any drugstore has the genuine, prescription product.

An Ailing CHILD

Are you prepared to render first aid and quick comfort the moment your youngster has an upset of any sort? Could you do the right thing—immediately—though the emergency came without warning—perhaps tonight? Castoria is a mother's standby at such times. There is nothing like it in emergencies, and nothing better for everyday use. For a sudden attack of colic, or the gentle relief of constipation; to allay a feverish condition, or to soothe a fretful baby that can't sleep. This pure vegetable preparation is always ready to ease an ailing youngster. It is just as harmless as the recipe on the wrapper reads. If you see Chas. H. Fletcher's signature, it is genuine Castoria. It is harmless to the smallest infant; doctors will tell you so. You can tell from the recipe on the wrapper how mild it is, and how good for little systems. But continue with Castoria until a child is grown.

MALT LEVY NETS $300,000 TO STATE

Collections from the malt tax during the first two months it has been in force approximates $300,000, Sidney E. Schulte, deputy secretary of state, announced recently. Michigan passed a malt levy at the 1929 session of its legislature, the law becoming effective Sept. 1.

The tax is on malt syrup or extract and on the solid malt solid content in wort, and varies according to the size of the container and weight. The tax is approximately 5 cents per pound, so that some 6,000,000 pounds of malt were produced and taxed.

Malt used by bakeries and certain other commercial purposes is exempt from the tax. The state collects its revenue from the sale of tax stamps, which are applied to all containers.

Vote to Discontinue C. of C. at Albion

Members of the Albion Chamber of Commerce, organized six years ago, have voted to discontinue the organization. Negotiations are pending, however, to form a new civic body by combining with the Albion Business and Profession Men's association and the Albion Boosters and Knockers' club, dinner organization.

Michigan Auditor to List Lands Taken By State for Taxes

A description of lands which have reverted to the state due to tax delinquency, is being prepared by Auditor General O. B. Fuller at the request of the state conservation commission.

Authority to dispose of all lands which come to the state after being tax delinquent for a period of five years or more is claimed by the conservation commission.

In cases where lands have been sold by the auditor general the title to such lands is clouded, Wilbur M. Brucker, attorney general, recently ruled in an informal opinion. Members of the commission said that Mr. Fuller had sold lands which the commission later bought back to fill out a game preserve, a state forest or for use for other purposes.

Although Mr. Fuller is reluctant to turn all lands over to the conservation commission, he said that he would abide by the decision of the attorney general, although he considers the law a bad one. He points out that thousands of acres of land have already been turned over to the commission which have not been set aside for any purpose. He believes that as much of this land as possible should be sold, thus returning it to the tax rolls. Many counties, he points out, are poor because of the large areas of non-taxable lands.

The commission recently rescinded its action of last month by withdrawing from exchange state lands located in the counties of Montmorency, Alpena, Alcona and Oscoda.

Large private hunting clubs own thousands of acres of land in this region, including the Turtle Lake club with more than 26,000 acres of hunting land. Fifty or more small pieces of state land are mixed with the privately owned properties, which the private land owners seek to gather in.

The commission decided that the small tracts should be held as public hunting grounds, although it admits game wardens experience great difficulty enforcing the game laws on these lands, some of which are entirely surrounded by privately owned property.

Three Deer First Animals For New Greenville Park

A first step in the establishing of a city park and game preserve in Greenville was made when three deer were brought to Greenville and placed in winter quarters at the water works plant. They will be cared for in the winter by employees at the water works and in the spring a permanent park will be located somewhere in the city, where the deer as well as other wild animals, which shall be added from time to time, may be kept.

St. Clair Would Bar Hunting on Sundays

An ordinance to prevent Sunday hunting in St. Clair county is to be drawn up by Jesse P. Wolcott, prosecuting attorney, and will be submitted to Governor Green, according to instruction of the board of supervisors. If the governor vetoes the measure the board of supervisors can pass it by a two-thirds vote.

STATE PRODUCTS TO EXCEED 5 BILLIONS

Manufactured products of Michigan during 1929 will aggregate $5,000,000,000 in value, according to a Detroit board of commerce estimate. The state will purchase raw materials and semi-finished products from other states to the value of $3,000,000,000.

The state's industrial pay roll is expected to exceed $810,000,000 with Detroit workers drawing a total of $560,000,000.

Postal Workers Required To Pay Fee Promptly

Postal employees are required by law to deal promptly in making payment of premiums on surety bonds, and correspondence of postmasters on such matters may be carried on in official penalty envelopes, according to a memorandum signed by the First Assistant Postmaster General Arch Coleman, and just made public by the post-office department. The memorandum in full text follows:

Complaints have been made by bonding companies from time to time that difficulty has been experienced in having clerks, carriers, assistant postmasters and other supervisory officers, pay their renewal premiums promptly. It is alleged that in a number of instances postmasters have ignored communications, claiming that they did not see why they were compelled to spend postage for the purpose of notifying bonding companies concerning their liability.

It is the duty of every postmaster to see that all employees are properly bonded in accordance with their financial responsibility and that they pay their annual premiums when due. Postmasters must also answer promptly inquiries addressed to them from bonding companies in regard to their liability. A penalty envelope should be used by the postmaster in writing an official letter of this kind.

Would Rename Camp In Memory of Leader

Suggestion that the name of the Community Camp association, owners of the property occupied by the Boy Scout camp, be changed to honor the memory of the late Clarence L. Grelick, has been made to the association by the Traverse City Rotary Club.

The name suggested is Camp Grelick, or Grelick Wood.

Mr. Grelick was one of the founders of the Traverse City Rotary. He was one of the first presidents in Traverse City and served several terms as a director. The Boy Scout group was organized largely through the efforts of Mr. Grelick. It was his enthusiasm that resulted in construction of permanent buildings at the camp site, and acquisition of a large tract of land for that purpose. Reforestation of that area was carried on and directed by him.

The Rotary club has decided to erect a memorial, in the form of a tablet, a monument, or a suitable marker, probably at the entrance to the park property.

"Mechanical Pilot" Pronounced Successful

The U. S. War Department has pronounced as successful the automatic pilot for airplanes, an ingenious device which provides untiring metallic arms at the controls. This device was developed by Elmer Sperry of the Sperry Company, and William B. Mayo, chief engineer of the Ford Motor Company. Recent tests of the device were conducted in an army Ford transport plane. On one flight from Dayton to Detroit, the mechanical pilot required only two adjustments in course direction and these were made necessary by changing wind conditions.

The new model actuates the three major controls of an airplane, the rudder for direction, the elevator for upward and downward movement, and the aileron for keeping the airplane on an even keel. One vertically mounted gyroscope and one horizontally mounted gyroscope, the armatures of which are electrically driven at 15,000 R. P. M., are used. The power is provided by wind driven generators. The gyroscopes maintain certain definite positions, regardless of the motion of the airplane itself.

The purpose of the automatic pilot is merely to control an airplane in straight and level flight, and to hold it on a given course. The take-offs, and landings in the present stage of development must be by a trained pilot. As changes in the direction of the wind are encountered the compass course must be changed accordingly, in order to maintain a true course between two given points.

Stage Workers' Union Bans City Auditorium

Employment of non-union stage workers at the Prudden auditorium, operated by the city of Lansing, has aroused the ire of the Lansing unit of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees and Moving Picture Operators.

Another auditorium placed in the unfair list by the stage union is the Eastern high school, which employs high school students to shift its scenery, contrary to the rules of the theatrical alliance.

No effort will be made, it is said, to remove the ban at the Eastern high, but negotiations are under way for a new contract between municipal authorities and the stage union which will erase the name of Prudden auditorium from the alliance blacklist.

Group from Detroit Buy Manistee Boat Company

A new Detroit firm headed by John A. Hacker has purchased the Century Boat Company of Manistee. The firm is capitalized at $300,000 and of this amount $100,000 already has been paid. The deal was negotiated through the Manistee board of commerce.

The name will be retained and the same line of outboard motor craft will be manufactured. Work has been started at the plant with a force of 25 men. This number will be augmented to 200 as operations get under way.

Glider Club Formed By Ludington Men

A group of 20 Ludington men is organizing a glider club. Charles H. Beiger has been named temporary president and Ned Taggart temporary secretary.

A meeting is to be held soon to perfect organization and make further plans. An advisory committee on financial matters includes E. C. Hardy, R. L. Stearns, Jr., and J. W. Beiger. C. Hollinger and K. L. Ashbacher have been named as alternates.

ORE SHIPMENTS SHOW INCREASE

Shipments of iron ore through the locks at Sault Ste. Marie reached 70,000,000 tons in 1929, the greatest tonnage in history, it was announced recently by the U. S. engineering office. The total iron ore shipments to November 1 were 70,457,113 tons. The best previous season was in 1916, when 63,370,264 tons were carried for a season's record. In 1928 the total ore movement was 53,321,452 tons and in 1927 the ore movement totaled 50,098,068 tons. With another month or more to go the 1929 season will see two or three million more tons of ore added to the year's total.

Last month 11,213,495 tons of freight passed through the locks. Of this 8,061,625 tons were iron ore. Freight shipments, through the locks to November 1 total 85,188,109 tons, as compared with 75,273,228 for the corresponding month last year. The total freight last year was 86,992,997 tons. Wheat movement remained in a slump, only 35,254,461 bushels passing the locks, as compared with 79,677,338 bushels in October last year.
