Local Team Finishes on the Short End of a 6 to 3 Score. Ed Brown Hits Home Run, Hibbard of Howell Does Likewise.

Pinckney's four game winning streak ended Sunday when Howell took them into camp by a score of 6 to 3. Howell out hit Pinckney 13 to 7. The locals being weak at the bat, ten of them being retired on strikes. McCallum who has pitched for Oak Grove, Fowlerville and other teams at various times appeared in the box for the visitors. His knuckle ball was breaking fine in the earlier stages of the game and he let Pinckney down with one hit for the first five innings. In the sixth he got into trouble. Devine, first up for Pinckney, tripled, Richmond flied out; Ed Brown hit a home run over the right field fence; Reason singled to right; Budd singled to center; Reason was caught off second and Shields grounded out. In the seventh Hendee walked and Devine scored him with another triple. Brown led off the eighth with a safe hit but the next three batters failed to hit.

Howell got their first run in the fourth when Hibbard hit a home run. To be more exact in the fifth when McCook and McCallum singled and E. Hibbard tripled. Triples by Hibbard and Henry gave them another in the sixth. Their last two scores came in the seventh as a result of hits by McCook, McCallum and Gehringer.

Louis Devine played a nice game for Pinckney at second, getting two triples and handling 9 chances without an error.

TO CHANGE FORM OF AUTO TITLES

The automobile title division of the Department of State, within a few weeks, is to change the form of automobile titles in order to give greater security to the purchaser and the holder of the mortgage.

The new titles are to be a dark buff in color while the present titles are green. In addition to the title, each application will have a perforated slip attached to the bottom. This slip will contain all facts relative to the mortgage and after the title has been approved by the department, this slip is to be detached and sent to the mortgagee. This will eliminate the possibility of two or more liens being imposed on the same car.

On the back of the title, space is provided to allow a record to be made when a mortgage has been completely paid. Thus the new titles will be able to give the complete financial history of every automobile sold in the future. To protect the state in issuing yearly license plates, the weight of all pleasure cars is to be perforated in the upper left hand corners of all new titles.

NOTICE

Will the person who took my large aluminum kettle from the picnic grounds please leave it at Lee Lavey's oil station.

Motor Boat Races and Beauty Contest

Newport Bathing Beach Stages Motor Boat Races and Beauty Contest Sunday. Attendance Breaks All Records.

Before an estimated attendance of 5,000 people Newport Bathing Beach Portage Lake, put on its first motor boat race program and bathing beauty contest Sunday. This is the first year this resort has been in operation. On account of bad weather in May and June they got away to a bad start. July and August however have been banner months for them as it has been necessary to add more picnic tables every week and enlarge the parking space for automobiles. Sunday the parking space was quickly filled and it was necessary to use the field across the road for parking. At twelve o'clock noon, a diving exhibition was given by several different divers. No prizes were awarded for this.

The motor boat races started at 1:00 p. m. This is a new sport here and the entries were all outsiders, coming from Lansing, Detroit, Wyandotte and other places. There were four races, the class "B", class "C", class "D" and "F" and a chance race. The distance for each race was five miles, a mile track being laid out in front of the bath house. First place in the class "B" race was won by Leslie Collins of Detroit; first place in the "C" by B. C. Parsons of Wyandotte and the class "D" and "F" event by Harold Beltz of Lansing. P. P. Parsons of Wyandotte took the free for all and O. G. Scholton of Detroit the chance race.

Several boats in the race tipped over. The drivers were equipped with cork jackets and suffered no ill consequences. In the bathing beauty contest a Miss Genevieve Anderson of 1210 Washtenaw, Ann Arbor, secretary of the intramural sports of the University of Michigan was acclaimed winner and given the title "Miss Washtenaw". The prize was a Bulova wrist watch donated by an Ann Arbor jewelry firm. Second place was won by Miss Ruth Clinton of 809 Oakwood, Ann Arbor. The prize was a set of golf clubs and a bag. Miss Zora Hamill, 310 N. Fifth St., Ann Arbor took the third prize which was six pair of silk hose. Fourth place went to Miss Sarah Paine, Portage Lake, prize, an overnight case. Ruth Griener, 315 N. State St. Ann Arbor, got the fifth prize, a Jantzen bathing suit.

Birkett Newkirk, proprietor of Newport Beach is well pleased with his summer's patronage, and plans on enlarging his facilities for entertaining the public. More of the woods will be cleared out, graded and fitted with picnic tables and more parking space provided for autos. We understand the matter of laying out a base ball diamond there and improving Peach Mountain after the manner of the Irish Hills is also being considered.

MICH. SERVICE MAPS FREE FOR THE ASKING SAY OFFICIALS

Almost 50,000 Michigan Service Maps, issued by the State Highway and Conservation Departments have been distributed by the Conservation Department so far this season. This figure represents about one third of the total number ordered printed. The maps are distributed free on request. Tourist and resort associations have been supplied with large quantities and the maps are also available from fish hatcheries, forestry headquarters and other department agencies.

Many request for these maps have been received from other states. They are considered valuable because they indicate latest road information and accurately locate and describe all state parks.

ON THE FRONT PAGE AGAIN

The Howell Sanitarium again made the front page in Tuesday's dailies. This time it was due to internal affairs. Dr. George Leslie, medical superintendent, demanded the resignation of Dr. James Huffman of the hospital staff. The latter has held his position four years and is a world war veteran and refused to comply with the demand and demanded hearing. Dr. Leslie asserts that the hospital commission support him in his demand for Huffman's resignation.

Law Contemplates Maintenance Only

Funds Not to be Used for Road Building in New Arrangement

Forecasts as to the probable working of the law passed by the last legislature which provides that all present township roads in the state shall for maintenance purposes become county roads in five years are being made in various quarters. It now appears that funds for use in the new system are to come from the state highway department's portion of the gasoline tax. The sum of $2,000,000 is to be set aside for this purpose the first year and a half million dollars will be added each year until the amount reaches four million dollars, the sum to be spent annually on present township roads in all Michigan. It is stated that this money is only for maintenance and it not to be used for improvement or building of new roads.

However, when the sum allotted to any county exceeds the amount necessary for maintenance, the excess sum may be used for road improvement.

There is also a provision in the law by which the county and any township may combine to rebuild or improve a road. Under this provision the supervisors would state amounts to be contributed by both the county and the township but the arrangement would not be operative unless accepted by the township.

THE WILLIS MURDER

This section is aroused by a dastardly murder which occurred west of Ypsilanti on a lonely road near Willis, early Tuesday morning. Two young couples from Ypsilanti, all under twenty years of age, went on an auto party Monday evening. They failed to return and their folks began a hunt for them. About 5:00 A. M., a farmer near Willis noticed a blaze near his home. On investigation he found it to be a Willys sedan on fire. He called the Washtenaw sheriff and four charred bodies were found in the burned car. According to the evidence, they were first murdered and then saturated with gasoline, placed in the sedan which was set on fire. Tracks of another car were found on the scene of the crime. The Wayne county sheriff is assisting the Washtenaw officers as the murder occurred near the county line. According to the dailies, certain blind pig and dance hall operators in the vicinity will be questioned extensively as the four victims were reported to have been seen at a dance hall earlier in the evening and it is thought they may have been followed from there.

Just why a major crime of this kind is necessary in order to get action from the law enforcing bodies is a question. The old adage that "An ounce of prevention beats a pound of cure" would seem to apply very well in this instance.

$10,000 FIRE AT WASHTENAW COUNTY FARM

A fire of unknown origin destroyed two barn which were 36x68 and 24x30 with full basements at the Washtenaw poor farm Saturday. The fire was laid to defective wiring or spontaneous combustion. With the buildings, 700 bushel of oats, 35 tons of hay, 40 cords of wood, 2 Ford 2 wagons, 50 chickens, and a yearling bull were also destroyed. The loss is partially covered by insurance. The fire was still burning Sunday.

The Greenite Oil team of Jackson will play the Pinckney team at Pinckney Sunday. The game will start at 3:00 p. m. This team has made a good record this year and should give the local team a stiff argument. The season is rapidly drawing to a close. Pinckney has but four more games scheduled after Sunday. They are: Brighton at Brighton, August 23; Brighton at Pinckney, August 30 (this isn't the Brighton-Chilson team which Pinckney recently beat but a team made mostly of Gen. Motors Proving Ground players); Sept. 6 is vacant. Sept. 9 Pinckney plays Howell at the Fair. Sept. 13 Pinckney will close the season meeting the Greenite team at Gillet Lake, near Jackson.

SHERIFF'S OFFICERS STAGE RAID AT PORTAGE LAKE

For some time complaints have been coming in to Sheriff Finley's office concerning drunkenness and carousing being carried on at one of the cottages on the east side of Portage Lake. This is in Livingston county and Saturday night Deputies Murringham, Gentry and Kennedy visited the place and arrested five Ann Arbor youths on a charge of disorderly conduct. They were taken to the Howell jail where they were guests until Monday morning when they were released on payment of fines of $40.

DANCE AT PATTERSON LAKE

There will be a dance at Patterson Lake every Saturday evening. Good music, good floor and good time promised. Dances part old, part new. Bill 76c.

Current Comment

The state papers last week bore stories to the effect that auditors were examining the books of the Howell State Sanitarium looking for a possible shortage. Later accounts state that they failed to find any. This investigation caused by a shortage in the store there which was found to be without funds. This is a voluntary establishment, the proceeds being used for entertainment. Former Superintendent Brewer, now serving time in Jackson prison for an Oakland county offense was to be asked to explain several checks drawn against the store.

According to the Detroit dailies Judge Francis Murphy, president of the Federal Bond and Mortgage Co. who ended his life by suicide last week was not to blame for the collapse of the above company in which thousands of investors had placed their life savings. The auditing company which examined the books of the concern also gave the officers of the concern a clean bill of health. So it appears that nobody was to blame for the failure of the above company. Just what the grand jury inquiry now being conducted in Ingham county by Judge Leland Carr will bring forth is a matter of conjecture. Judge Carr is known as a fearless official and his friends here where his boyhood and school days were spent can not picture him as a wielder of the good old whitewash brush.

The furor being aroused by Al Capone, No. 1 Public Enemy, who pled guilty and then changed his plea to not guilty when he found that Federal Judge Cavanaugh would not carry out the bargain he claimed he had made with the district attorney to the effect that a light sentence would be given him in return for a guilty plea. This is nothing new as the suspicion is strong that the practice has been indulged in all over the country for some time. The only reason given for it, is that the county or state is spared the expense of a long costly trial. Whether justice is served by this arrangement or not is a question.

VILLAGE STREETS TO BE GIVEN TARVIA TREATMENT

At the last meeting of the Pinckney council it was voted to give nine blocks of village streets an asphalt resurfacing. The work will be done by the county road commission when they finish with the work of resurfacing the road from Pinckney to Portage Lake. The streets to be resurfaced are Mill St. from Main to Unadilla, Unadilla from Mill three blocks east to Pearl, Webster three blocks north from Main, Putnam, one block east from Mill. We understand that the county will resurface Pearl St. Howell road from Main to the railroad. The county has also taken over Howell St. from Main to the Highland lake road.

WEEK OF AUGUST 9, 1931

Moderate summer weather is expected during most of the first half of the week of August 9th in the greater part of Michigan.

By the middle of the week temperatures will begin rising due to the approach of another storm period.

During the last three days of this week there will be numerous electrical storms throughout the state.

Wis- readers of this forecast will keep their eye on all ominous looking clouds about this time and arrange their work accordingly.

The "Line Squall" We Predicted Readers may remember less than two months ago when a very black rolling cloud rapidly bore down from the north, throwing the entire landscape into almost the darkness of night, and terrorizing people with the strong winds, rains and electrical storms.

This "line squall," which was correctly predicted in this column, was really a weakness in the atmosphere when cold air to the north broke through the warm air barrier and rushed southward at a speed close to 50 miles an hour, bringing cloud, wind, rain and electricity.

CHAPTER X

In spite of Mary's impatience for Friday night to arrive, the week sped by, busily. Dick was waiting for her when she came out of the building on Friday evening.

"Do I see what I see?" was his greeting. "You know, every time that blamed phone rang today, I was sure it was you calling to tell me you had to work tonight. I was tempted to disconnect the thing. Well, here we are! Where to?"

"Anywhere you say, Dick. You do select the nicest places to eat. You've been about so much more than I have. I like adventuring with you," settling herself contentedly beside him, as if she said, "Take me to the ends of the earth, for all I care, so long as I am with you. At least that was the way Mary felt about it."

"How about a Sukiyaki dinner for a change? Like it?"

"Of course, I do. I never had one, but I like anything there is to eat. Besides, I'd like to try it."

"Okay, I know just the place—on Eighth street in Greenwich Village—very Japanese. Can you handle chopsticks?"

what goes in it. You'll like it, I come here quite often, even when I'm alone. They know me for a regular. Want me to order?"

"Of course, I don't know a thing about it, but I'm ready to learn," Mary enthused.

"Bring us two orders of shrimps, two of steak Sukiyaki, and tea. That's all there is to it. You would think you might have to wait half the night for your dinner, but you won't. Notice those parrots hanging on the walls, made of pine cones. Aren't they the last word in atmosphere? Nice chops run this place. Not a big place, but they know how to make Sukiyaki."

The tables were filled, even though it was early. Mary looked about her at the guests. All quiet refined people; mostly couples, talking chummily together just as Dick and she were. Each table had its steaming pan of cooking food.

Dick did most of the talking when they were together. He was a charming host and companion. Mary loved to hear his pleasant, easy conversation, to watch his animated, expressive face, his ease of manner. She marvelled how he knew about everything and how to do everything.

handles. Almond cakes completed the dinner.

"Like it?" Dick asked, as he always did when he took her to new places.

"Very much. I'm glad we came." "We'll come often. You know, Mary, my line is hard-boiled, modern finance; yet I am a romanticist at heart. I lie to seek out new places and follow the shadowy lure of romance. Now I'd like to live here in the village in a regular Bohemian studio. I've got a lot of friends around here. Fellows and girls both. I want you to meet them sometime. But I haven't a spark of talent for making my living along that line, so I can't pose as a fake, even. Next time the crowd gets together, I'll take you along if you like. I've told several of them about you."

"Why, I'd love that, Dick. I didn't know you were—well, such a good vagabond," she laughed happily.

"Oh, I'm a regular Castor-and-Pollux, Jekyll-and-Hyde man. Watch out! You know my sign is Gemini, the twins. Do you believe in astrology?"

"I'm afraid I don't know much about it, Dick. You seem to know everything. You make me feel so narrow and limited. You're always Mary coming in to announce dinner, found them thus.

"I'll make a try, anyway," she laughed.

"You're a good sport, Mary. So do I like to go adventuring with you. Wouldn't we make a couple of jolly vagabonds, if we weren't so busy at making a living in this involved modern day?"

"I think it would be marvelous to be a vagabond, for awhile, anyway."

"Not a vagabond—two of us," he laughed. "No fun alone. It takes two good pals to have real adventures. That's what we are, isn't it, Mary?"

"I hope so," she smiled.

"Oh, by the way," he changed the subject abruptly. "How's the little sister? I was so excited over seeing you that I forgot to ask." Just imagine Bonnie's chagrin, could she have heard that!

"Oh, good as ever. Mom kept her in bed a couple of days and she is doing nicely. I should have known Bonnie couldn't ride that long in the cold wind. I'm so sorry I let her."

"Gee! I'm glad she didn't get pneumonia or something. Well, here we are, old girl. How does it look?"

They stopped just off Washington Square on a street of old brick mansions that had been transformed into shops, restaurants and what-can-you-think-of.

A short flight of iron-railed steps led directly off the narrow street into a brightly illumined restaurant that occupied what once had been the parlor and sitting room of the house, the front wall of which had been replaced by a wide plate glass window. Inside walls and decorations were atmospherically Japanese. The original mantels had been transformed into torii of lacquered wood and bamboo, and an oriental gateway admitted them from the entrance hall.

One of the Japanese waiters hastened forward when he saw Dick, smiling welcome.

"Got a table in the other room for two?" Dick asked.

had the air and wisdom of a much older man.

"How do you find all these quaint places?" Mary asked.

"Oh, browsing around. A fellow has to eat somewhere all the time and likes a change. You can't appreciate how monotonous it is—eating here and there—when you have your own home."

"I can appreciate it somewhat, especially since this last year. I've had to have dinner downtown and work evenings so much, besides my lunches."

"Sure, you've had a sample of it. You get so it all tastes the same. Like Will Rogers says, no matter what you order, it's the same meat and potatoes with a different name for the sauce."

"Then you might enjoy coming to our house for dinner on Sunday sometimes. Would you?"

"Don't ask me twice unless you really want me, Mary. It's months since I had a home cooked meal. Can you cook, too?"

"Oh, yes. I can't remember when I couldn't."

Dick beamed. "Knowing you gets better every day in every way. It wouldn't be a bad idea to have our own gas plate and frying pan, eh?"

"It might be fun," she agreed, in the same spirit.

The waiter brought soup in red lacquer bowls from which they drank. Next were the shrimps, which had been split, dipped in batter and fried in deep fat. These they held with their chopsticks, dipped into a highly seasoned sauce and ate piece-meal. Mary had a little difficulty with the chopsticks at first, but became expert before she had finished.

While they ate these, the waiter brought in a huge plate of prepared vegetables and ingredients for the Sukiyaki. Everything was so fresh and crisp and clean. A piece of suet was browned in the pan with the onion; then celery, spinach, Japanese potatoes, noodles, slices of steak and several things that Mary could not identify, were heaped into the pan, with a sauce over all. The waiter did everything with deftly manipulated chopsticks. Mounds of snowy rice were served on their plates when the Sukiyaki was ready, and they drank tea from little round cups without bringing up some new 'ism' or 'ology' and of most of them I do well to know even the meaning."

"Oh, I can teach you all I know about any of them in no time. But they're all darned interesting, and I take a flyer into this thing and that theory every so often. Call 'em theories, fancies or facts, any of them will give you something to think about. Now me—and astrology, for instance. The characteristics of my ruling planet couldn't fit me better if they were made for me, instead of my being born to fit them. June 2nd makes me a Gemini, and astrologers will tell you to watch out for a Gemini man. They can be very fickle," he warned, though he didn't look as serious as he sounded.

"I couldn't believe that about you," Mary objected.

"Well, I never tested myself out yet. I never saw anyone I wanted to be true to—until a month ago," his eyes met hers significantly. "But don't tell me you are just the kind of woman astrologers would tell me to avoid. When's your birthday?"

"My sign must be the same as yours—June 27th."

"No, my influences end on June 22, but shooting stars! You're not the right woman for me, after all," he declared, with mock consternation.

"It's all wrong. I'm supposed to find my fate with a woman born in Libra... or Aquarius... Oh, well, what of that? There may be something to it, and again—" he shrugged. "Shall we go? I thought we'd see a movie if you're not too tired."

CHAPTER XI

Dick went out to Mary's for dinner the following Sunday. He brought along his usual quota of bonhomie and exuberance. The twins took possession of him and Bonnie was languorously sweet in her pose of convalescence.

Mary was busy helping Mom with the dinner in the kitchen. When Bonnie invited guests for dinner, she entertained them while Mom and Mary did the work; but whatever the rule might have been, it didn't work both ways.

"You run along and help Mom if you wish, Mary," Bonnie had said, charmingly, as if she were doing her a great favor. "I'll entertain Dick for you." She gave Dick her hand in greeting, then covered his with her other hand as she had a coquettish little habit of doing when she greeted anyone she especially liked or wanted to impress.

"Sure, we'll get along grand," Dick agreed. "Only don't fuss a lot for me, Mary, so you can hurry back to be with us. Could I help?" suddenly thoughtful.

Bonnie's face blanched.

"Not a thing," Mary declined vigorously. "That would only bring the boys into the kitchen, too, because they have a hundred questions to ask you; and we never would get anything ready to eat."

"Besides, I'd be all alone then," Bonnie reminded him with a hurt voice and a pretty pout.

"That's right. Well, we might carry the couch out for you," Dick laughed. "However, it seems practical to give the two cooks carte blanc to the kitchen so that we can be sure we eat. I don't propose to drive all the way from New York for dinner and then not eat. What a calamity that would be when I'm all set for a real feed."

So Bonnie and the boys entertained Dick. Bonnie was ravishing in pajamas and lounging robe of gold embroidery and lace, languishing in a nest of pillows on the couch. She only managed to gain Dick's attention from Tim and Ted by frequently asking him to do something for her. The radio music was either too loud or not clear enough; the light shone in her eyes so that the shade needed adjusting. Dick was instantly solicitous for her comfort when she spoke to him, but he immediately returned his attention to the boys thereafter.

Bonnie was exasperated. Finally, she smiled sadly and asked, "Dick, do you know I have never danced with you yet? Just imagine, knowing the famous Dick Baldwin for almost two weeks and not having a dance with him! This music is ravishing—in fact it gives me so much pep that I feel quite well. Will you dance with me, just a little?"

How could he refuse her? "Why, sure, if you feel like it, little sister. I might have asked you, but it was my suggestion that knocked you out last Sunday you know, so I'm taking no more chances." He almost lifted her to her feet, and she nestled into his arms with a sigh of content, her cheek on his shoulder, her wide, soft eyes looking up at him. They swayed about the room like a phantasy of motion and rhythm, so that it is not to be wondered that both were lost in the ecstasy of it. Mary, coming in to announce dinner, found them thus. She was surprised that Bonnie was strong enough to dance and that Dick had suggested it. What did it matter, anyway, she found herself thinking, and wondered why she thought that.

Mary spoke twice before either of them heard her; then they both stopped abruptly and avoiding looking at Mary for a moment. In an instant it had passed, scarcely perceptible to anyone, and quickly forgotten by them all—except Bonnie.

"Did you say chow was ready?" Dick grinned, and thereby resumed his own jocoseness.

It was a pleasant occasion, that Sunday dinner, and one that several of them remembered later, when times and places and conditions were changed.

Dick sat beside Mary and generously divided his compliments between her and her mother. Mary was a gem—no doubt of it. When a girl could run a banker's office and a home at the same time, her price was above rubies.

Yet, unconsciously, his pleasure of the food was considerably enhanced by the shy, confidential glances and adoring smiles directed at him by Bonnie from across the table.

The twins, however, refused to let anyone monopolize the conversation or situation for long at a time. Mrs. Vaughn scarcely tasted her food in her anxiety for what they might say next. One never knew.

They were telling Dick about the boy across the street, "Fatty" Heinz, who was afraid to play football.

"Yeah, he's glad he's too fat to play," Ted observed with scorn. "I'll bet that's what he takes elocution for—to make him fatter."

"What's that, Ted?" Mary was puzzled.

"Oh, I dunno. But he says to me, 'Huh, I don't want to play football. I take elocution.' And I says, 'Well, what of it? I take cod liver oil, too; but I wouldn't, if it made me quit playin' football.'"

Ted looked surprised at the laughter that ensued. After a minute's consternation, he remarked, "Well, I don't see nothin' so funny about that. What you all howlin' for, I'd like to know?"

"Oh, Ted," Mom explained, "Elocution is not something to take like a tonic. It is like music lessons—only you learn how to speak and read poems and stories to entertain people, you know."

Ted was nonplussed. "Well, gee! how did I know? That's worse than ever, though. I thought maybe elocution was what made him so fat. Huh! then he is a sissy, if he'd rather speak pieces than play football, huh, Dick?"

Dick was still convulsed with mirth. "He might be a sissy, all right. But not all boys are, just because they don't like football. You must remember, Ted, that we can't be all alike."

"Well, all I can say it, it's too bad there aren't more like you—an' me," stanchly.

Eaton Agricultural Society Is Formed

Although the Eaton county fairgrounds have been sold to the city of Charlotte, the county will not be entirely without a fair this year.

At a meeting of the 4-H club leaders held recently, it was unanimously agreed that without the opportunity of showing their achievements at some kind of a fair, 4-H club members would lose interest in their project, and this important work among the rural girls and boys would be seriously crippled.

In order to secure state recognition, the club leaders finally decided to organize their own society and incorporate it as "The Eaton County 4-H Agricultural Society." Proper legal steps already have been taken to that effect.

The following board of directors was elected to duly represent all forms of club work carried on throughout the county: J. B. Strange, Oneida; Clifford McIntyre, Benton; Forest Esten, Sunfield; Glenn Phillips, Bellevue; Floyd Caneby, Eaton Rapids; Mrs. Bertrand Young, Carmel; Mrs. Perry Reed, West Windsor; Carl Hitchcock, Windsor, and Walter Ball, Benton. This board at a later meeting elected John B. Strange as president; Mrs. Bertrand Young, vice president; Clifford McIntyre, treasurer, and appointed Hans Kardel, the county agricultural agent, as secretary and manager.

ONLY TRUTHFUL ADVERTISING WINS

In our advertising we do not make comparisons involving laboratory—neither do we make comparisons of construction price based on misleading classifications such as first line tire, second line tire or third line tire—we do not make comparisons to confuse and mislead you as to actual values and service—we only make statements and comparisons that you can verify for yourself in our store before you purchase the tire.

Come in today and get the greater safety, extra quality & extra values found only in Firestone Tires.

When we advertised the fact that Firestone was furnishing us complete lines of Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires that not only met the price but beat the quality and construction of every grade of special brand tires sold by mail order houses and others, the mail order houses made vigorous protests to Better Business Bureaus and made demands upon newspapers not to except Firestone or our advertising.

We cannot blame them for they did not want car owners to know that they could get, at no more cost, a better tire made by a leading manufacturer, bearing his name and guarantee plus our guarantee and our service.

When car owners awakened to this fact, they came to us, compared the sections we had cut from Firestone Tires and special brand mail order tires, and were astounded at the Extra Values we were giving.

All these are banded together to the effect that there will be no cut in road building.

In 1924 the sum spent on highway work was $13,767,244.78. In 1929 it had leaped to $45,220,091.78. In Father Comerford's time the picnic was held in Winter's Grove and for the past 34 years there has been no interruption.

APPLICATIONS COMING SLOW

Over a half-million Michigan drivers will be unable to drive Nov. 1, unless there is a great increase in the number of applications for license within the next few weeks.

With about 10 weeks remaining before Nov. 1, automobile drivers are apparently planning to wait until the "last minute" before applying for the new licenses. Every driver whose old license was issued before Jan. 1, 1925 must obtain a new one by Nov. 1, and Department of State records indicate that 500,000 is a conservative estimate of the number who may be prevented from driving, if applications continue to be made at the present rate.

OLEOMARGINE REGULATION WILL NOT BE CHANGED

Present state regulations regarding the manufacture, distribution and sale of oleomargarine and other butter substitutes will not be changed until after November, 1931.

The 1931 legislature enacted a law repealing the present statute regarding oleomargarine and prohibiting the distribution and use of colored oleo. The 1931 act also placed a license fee on the manufacture, distribution and sale of the uncolored product.

A petition calling for a referendum on the 1931 act was filed with the Department of State early in August, and a check by the department showed that there were over 50,000 signatures on the petition. As only slightly over 42,000 signatures are needed under the constitution, the 1931 oleo act cannot be made effective until after it receives a majority vote at general state election.

The next state election will be held a year from next November and until that time, present oleo regulations will remain in force.

REFERENDUM SOUGHT

A petition for a referendum on the Oleomargarine act, passed by the 1931 legislature, was filed with the Wayne County Clerk Monday by Charles F. Hemans, Detroit attorney. It contained the signatures of 51,491 residents of Detroit, according to Mr. Hemans. The petition will be sent at once to the office of the Secretary of State in Lansing. The petition asks for a referendum vote on the act at the November, 1931 election. The act, which was to have become effective later this month, can not become a law until it has received a majority vote at the referendum election. The bill was introduced in the legislature by Senator Peter B. Lennon. In its final form, it prohibited the sale of colored oleo and provided an annual license fee of $5 for the retailer and $100 for the wholesaler and manufacturer.

$41,000,000 BUSINESS SHOWN BY MICH. HOTELS

Hotel guests in Michigan during 1929 paid in over $41,000,000, according to figures released by the U. S. Bureau of Census based on the 1930 census of distribution. ## Resurrection Plant

The genuine "Rose of Jericho" is a resurrection plant. It is found among the rocks and sand of Palestine. When water is scarce it will have the appearance of a ball of tightly folded leaves. It dies and shrivels. Put it in water and it opens up its leaves. It is a very hardy plant. It grows and begins to grow in about twenty minutes. Take it out of the water and it curls up and turns brown and becomes dead again. It is capable of apparently dying and coming to life again repeatedly, and will keep in its dried or dormant state for years and reawaken directly upon being placed in water. It is an interesting, curious and most beautiful house plant with fine fan-like leaves of a very agreeable fragrance. If you want a "rain fern" that will prove satisfactory under all conditions, don't fail to get one of these marvels of plant life. Grows and thrives in a shallow bowl of water, and is greatly admired by everyone.

IONIA MAN INVENTS COLLAPSIBLE GYRO FOR USE ON PLANES

Claiming to have overcome the objectionable wind-resisting features of types now in use, Clarence A. Holcom of this city is seeking patent rights on a collapsible gyro device for airplanes that will permit greater speed from reduced power. Holcom, who a few years ago perfected a seed cleaning device that proved to be a boon to clover seed producers, declared his design does away with the long, protruding inclined propeller blades and substitutes a more compact, four-blade flat propeller, the dual arms of which lock in position parallel to the fuselage when not in use, thereby eliminating wind resistance. In the event of trouble while aloft a pilot using his method, Holcom contends, merely would have to release a brake pedal and the blades would swing into action through sheer air pressure.

Advocates Commission To Rename State Lakes

Appointment of a commission to rename the inland lakes of Michigan to eliminate the confusion of duplication of names was suggested to Gov. Wilber M. Brucker in a letter from Senator Ernest T. Conlon of Grand Rapids. Mr. Conlon would have the commission report at the next session of the legislature. "The increasing popularity of the state as a resort district is developing added confusion because of the great similarity in the names of numerous popular inland lakes," Mr. Conlon wrote. "We have a large number of Bass lakes, Bear lakes, Beaver lakes, Blue lakes, Clear lakes and so on down the alphabet. We find so many lakes of one name throughout Michigan that it makes intelligent directing of tourists extremely difficult." Kent county recently completed the task of ending duplication of lake names in the county. Senator Conlon's proposal is considered as an outgrowth of this plan.

Seeks Reopening of 44-Year-Old Monroe Oil Well

An interesting operation has been commenced in the petroleum bearing area of Monroe county, where a number of wells have been drilled for oil, some of them with good showings. In 1887 the owner of Senator Christy's old farm near Dundee, one Nygard, operated a stone quarry thereon, the limestone deposit being an outcrop of the Sibley quarry deposit while his worked by the Solvay Process Company at Trenton. This operation was coincident with the discovery of natural gas in Indiana, and Nygard conceived the idea that if he could get natural gas he could use it to burn his stone into commercial lime. So he put a hole down 2,100 feet, cased some of it with tubing and was rewarded with a good showing of petroleum, which overflowed into his quarry basin. However, as this was before the days of gasoline demand, and his petroleum was worth only 15 cents a barrel, Nygard registered his disappointment by plugging up his oil hole, and letting the water in the quarry basin cover up its top. Meantime the showing of the Nygard well, which is recorded in the state geological reports, lead to the other borings which have been made at Deerfield, Petersburg, Cone, Oakley, Ida and other adjacent places where, where the usual vicissitudes of short money, losses of tools and the like have been experienced. Recently a group of explorers, headed by Clare Dennison of Detroit, started to clean out the old Nygard well. To do so they must unwater the old stone quarry in which its plugged pipe is submerged, which will take a week or two. Then, if the old tubing is in condition they hope to repeat Nygard's 44 years ago experience with petroleum.

Grand Haven Man Gives His Estate to Charity

Four Grand Haven institutions were named as beneficiaries in the will of James Alston, which was filed recently. The estate is valued at between $15,000 and $20,000. The Spring Lakes Presbyterian church and Hatton hospital will each receive one-fourth of the estate, and the Grand Haven chapter of the American Red Cross and the Salvation Army, one-eighth each. A cousin, Mrs. Nova Cuthbert, Hollywood, Cal., will receive one-fourth share. Alston, who died a few weeks ago at his home in Spring Lake, was 74 years old and unmarried.

Plan $350,000 Hotel

Plans for the formation of the Ann Arbor Wayside Tavern Corporation which would finance the erection of a tavern type hotel in Ann Arbor and lease it to an operating organization for a period of 30 years are under way. The site is the Sheehan property on East Huron street, where the Haunted Tavern now is located. The Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the new project. The Ann Arbor Wayside Tavern, as the hotel is to be known, will be a seven-story fire-proof structure, consisting of 101 rooms, with all modern conveniences. The cost is estimated at between $350,000 and $375,000.

Lee's son brought him a report card and on the edge the teacher had written, "Good student, but talks too much." The card was returned with Lee's signature and these words, "You should hear his mother."

NEW LAW LIMITS BOAT SPEEDING

Under an act given immediate effect by the 1931 legislature, conservation officers and all other officers authorized to make arrests are given liberal powers in regulating motor boats. The new law, which applies to motor boats operating on all inland waters and connecting waters of the Great Lakes and within a quarter mile of shore on the Great Lakes, makes reckless driving with a motor boat a misdemeanor for which a severe penalty is attached. The law provides that no motor boat shall be operated "in a reckless manner or at an excessive rate of speed so as to endanger the life or property of any person in or on said waters, having due regard to the presence of other boats, bathers, persons engaged in fishing, or objects in or on such waters and of any other conditions then existing, and no person shall operate such motor boat on said waters at a rate of speed greater than will permit him to bring it to a stop within the assured clear distance ahead." All motor boats operated on these waters during the period from one hour after sunset to one hour before sunrise shall be equipped with a light on the bow which can be plainly distinguished at a distance of five hundred feet. A satisfactory muffler or underwater exhaust must be part of the equipment of all motor boats and the muffler or underwater exhaust must remain closed and in proper working order at all times when the motor is operating. The only exception to this provision is when the boat is engaged in a supervised motor boat race, regatta or speed trial. A fine of $10 or ten days in jail is provided for the first offense; a fine of $20 or 20 days in jail for the second offense; a fine not exceeding $100 and costs or 90 days in jail or both for the third offense. The conservation department has asked the attorney general's opinion as to whether this motor boat law would restrict boating fish spawning beds.

OLDSMOBILE SALES HIGHEST

Oldsmobile sales topped all cars in its price class and was fourth among all makes of automobiles, according to official registration figures for July in Wayne county. This county comprises the Detroit area, which is considered as having the most critical motor buying public in the world. The official figures show that only three other cars which sell at prices materially below Oldsmobile, two being four cylinder cars, exceeded Oldsmobile in sales for the month. In addition Oldsmobile sales for the first seven months of 1931 in this district exceed those of the same period in 1930 despite the fact that retail sales of all new cars are 47 per cent below those of last year.

According to reports received here, the Wayne county standing of Oldsmobile is no exception, this car holding similar positions in various other metropolitan centers. It is third in Minneapolis and is in third, fourth or fifth position among all cars in such cities as Chicago, New York, St. Louis and Atlanta, Ga.

Official registrations from 41 states for the first six months of this year place Oldsmobile in sixth position, being exceeded only by three lower priced cars and two other makes which include more than one chassis.
