Pinckney Store Is Visited by Robbers

Thieves Force an Entrance to Store of C. H. Kennedy Last Wednesday Evening. Take About $1,000 Worth of Goods

Burglars visited this village last Wednesday night and got away with about $1,000 worth of loot. It was not discovered until about 7:30 A. M. Thursday morning when Mr. Kennedy opened his store. Everything was in great disorder. Goods had been pulled from the shelves and thrown on the floor. A hundred pound bag of rice had been cut open and emptied into a box of dry goods and the same thing had been done with a bag of pancake flour. Bonfires had been started in different parts of the store with papers. At first it was thought this was done for the purpose of setting fire to the store but later it was decided this was done to get a light as the thieves evidently had no flash light. Mr. Kennedy notified the Sheriff's office and the state police at Lansing. Undersheriff Pat Murningham came over from Howell and with Deputy Irvin Kennedy of Pinckney conducted the investigation. The burglars first broke into the cellar through the window in the coal bin but were unable to force the trap door in the floor leading to the store. Then they broke into the rear door and gained entrance to the store room and from there into the store. The first thing they did was to fit themselves out with new shoes and discard their old ones which were found by the officers. Then they opened canned goods and treated themselves to a lunch. A large amount of goods were taken. Included in the list were shoes, arctics, rubbers, table clothes, napkins, hats, caps, yard goods, towels, shirts, pants, neckties, underwear. Almost the complete stock of cigars and cigarettes was taken and some candy. The till was broken into but nothing was found of value in it but a box of old coins which were taken.

At about this time a Buick coach was on the school grounds abandoned. It was a hammer and screw driver stolen from the Kennedy store. It bore a Michigan license, 147-286. This was taken out by Dana Yessell of Russell St., Detroit, but was reported stolen some time ago. It has evidently been driven without oil or water as it was not possible to start it. A number of people saw the car about town early in the evening with two men or boys in it. About twelve o'clock they took off a tire and patched it in front of the residence of Barney Lynch. It was left on the school grounds about twelve thirty as several saw the two trying to start it.

The state police arrived later and announced that they could find no finger prints as the men had evidently worn gloves.

This is the second such robbery here in the last few months. W. W. Barnard was robbed several months ago of several hundred dollars worth of merchandise and the robbers were never found or traced.

Sheriff Ouster Case Is Heard at Howell

Hearing of Ouster Proceedings Against Howard Gentry Instituted by Hugh Hurd of Eaton Rapids were Held at Howell Last Friday

Testimony was taken Friday in the court room at Howell before Judge Willis Lyons in the removal proceeding instituted against Deputy Sheriff Howard Gentry of the Livingston county sheriff's department. The state was represented by Assistant Attorney General Richards, and Deputy Gentry by Prosecutor Sweency and Don VanWinkle. The trouble originated last June when Hugh Hurd, an Eaton Rapids business man was arrested by Deputy Gentry who found him asleep in a parked car on Grand River Ave., three miles west of Howell on the evening of that day. Gentry testifies that when he arrested Hurd, the latter kicked him in the stomach, started his car and got away. Gentry pursued him and stopped him near Hurd's corners by shooting one of his tires. He took him to the jail where Hurd was seen by a number of people who testified that he was intoxicated. Dr. L. A. Davis of Howell testified that he found no broken arm but suspected Hurd's knee was fractured and asked him to submit to an x-ray examination. Hurd refused and asked some medicine for a hangover. In the morning on account of Hurd's plea the charge of drunken driving was reduced to simple drunkenness and Hurd was assessed a small fine by Judge Farrell in justice court.

Hurd claims he was not intoxicated although he admitted having a few drinks in Detroit before leaving for Eaton Rapids. He became tired after leaving Howell and parked his car along the pavement and went to sleep. When Gentry arrested him he took him for a bandit, threw him off and drove away. He claims he did not park on the pavement while Gentry claims two wheels of his car were 18 inches inside the cement. An Eaton Rapids physician testified that Hurd's arm was fractured. Hurd is director of the Eaton Rapids bank, member of the Chamber of Commerce and the Iwanis club also. A number of character witnesses testified for both Gentry and Hurd. Among the witnesses called were Sheriff Finley, Undersheriff Murningham, Deputy Phillips, Justice Farrell, Prosecutor Sweency, Treas. Clare Burden, Russell Smith, Howell Ford dealer, Wm. B. Reader, bank president, and others. The taking of testimony required all day. The typed pages of testimony will be sent to Gov. Brucker who will decide whether or not Deputy Gentry will be removed.

To us the case seems as plain as day however, Mr. Hurd has considerable influence politically as the ouster proceedings were instituted by Representative Brown of Bellevue.

NEW LICENSES ON SALE

The confusion of a year ago due to the change from Ohio and Michigan license plates, will be eliminated by Michigan 1933 license plates on December 1.

A year ago both Ohio and Michigan used white numerals on a blue background. The 1933 Michigan plates have black numerals on a white background while Ohio is using black numerals on an orange background. The closest approach to the Michigan plates in the 1933 Minnesota plates which have black figures on a silver background. Illinois and Wisconsin plates for the coming year are using the same color combination as Michigan and Ohio used in 1932. This may cause some confusion in these states.

Home Talent Play Draws Good House

Old Time Drama "Among The Breakers" Well Attended Last Friday Evening at Local Community Hall

The old time Pinckney favorite, "Among the Breakers" was put on at the Pinckney Community Hall last Friday evening to a well filled house. This play has been put on at intervals here for the past 40 years and many of the older inhabitants have had roles in it. The last time it was put on here was in 1911. It is a different type of play than the amateur actors of this section have been staging and they found some of the deep tragic roles rather hard. Never the less, they turned in a creditable performance. Mrs. Pauline Vedder was especially good as Mother Carey, the fortune teller, Virginia Hoisel as Bess Starbright, Henry Shirey as Clarence Hunter and Wayne Carr as the Honorable Bruce Hunter. Mrs. W. H. Myer took the role of Scud, the colored servant, and the way she jumped through the barrel and cut up capers was a caution. Glenn Slayton in the hard role of David Murray, the light house keeper gave a creditable impersonation of that villain. Dorothy Carr as Minnie Daze, Irving Richardson as Peter Paragrath and Calvin Hooker and Mrs. Ethel Smollett in the two Irish roles of Larry Devine and Biddy Bean also did very well.

The specialties were a solo by Mrs. Florence Baughn, a dramatic recitation by Mary Jane AtLee and a song and tableau by eight girls: Constance Darrow, Janis Carr, Jean Graves, Marjorie Merrill, Margaret Curlett, Willa Myers, Madge and Mildred Jack. The Isler orchestra furnished music before and during the play. The King's Daughters wish to thank each and every one who helped make the play a success. The money raised will be used for charity work in the hospitals.

GIVES CAST OF 1898

Francis Carr of Detroit was in town Sunday and we are indebted to him for the complete cast of "Among the Breakers" when it was put on by the senior class of the Pinckney high school in 1898. It proved very popular and was also taken to Dexter, Stockbridge, Gregory and Hamburg where it drew good crowds at each place. The cast was as follows: David Murray Charles Grimes Larry Devine Andrew Buon Hon. Bruce Hunter Francis Carr Clarence Hunter Lyle Martin Peter Paragrath James Carroll Scud P. H. TAX TIME SOON

Supervisor Fred Slayton has completed his task of making out the tax roll and it is now in the hands of Treasurer Dede Hinchey. The total tax to be levied in Putnam township is a little more than $26,000. This is considerably less than last year as both the special paving tax and the paving tax at large have been taken out. These will be paid by the state and the truck weight tax.

St. Mary's Church will hold a social meeting at the home of Mrs. J. H. Swarthout on Wednesday evening.

High School Football Banquet Takes Place

Pinckney High School Football Team Are Guests at Banquet Given By Citizens of This Vicinity In Honor of Their Undelected and Undefeated Season.

The banquet in honor of the undefeated and untied football team of the Pinckney high school took place at the Congregational church parlors last Wednesday evening. The banquet was under the direction of Mrs. Frank Battle assisted by the mothers of the members of the team. One long table was set in the dining room. This was tastefully decorated with flowers, favors and candles. At it were seated the players, their fathers, the coaches and the persons on the program. A chicken banquet was served to them. At the conclusion of this Frank Bowers took charge of the meeting and called on Rev. E. J. Berquist for a speech. Mr. Berquist said that he had never played football and in fact knew little of the game. However, this year when his son became a member of the team he had become interested. The benefit of the game as he saw it was that it promoted class spirit and clean wholesome living. For it is necessary for a good football player to keep in fine physical condition. At the conclusion of his remarks he was warmly applauded.

The Misses Madge and Mildred Jack sang two parodies written by Mrs. Eloyse Berquist who also accompanied them on the piano. The songs were "The All American Girl" and "The Girl of My Dreams". Mayor P. H. Swarthout of Pinckney was called on and made a brief address. He said that he was a member of the first football team of Pinckney high school and played in the days before headgears, pads, etc. were invented. Then strength and brawn were the main essentials. He also said that he was pleased that he had a son who had starred at football for Pinckney high school. His remarks drew long applause. Miss Eloyse Berquist sang two songs playing her own accompaniment on the ukele. Coach Tommie Howlett was next on the program and said that the credit for the teams showing should go to Coach Doyle as he was main one while he himself was merely the gravy. The main quality which carried the team to victory he thought was their determination which overrode all difficulties. His remarks were punctuated with wise cracks and were well received. Three boys, Marshall Meabon, Arnold Berquist and Clifford Miller favored with two songs, "Coming over the Mountain" and "Hand Me Down My Walking Cane" Supt. Doyle was called upon. He reviewed the records of this team and other teams turned out by the local high school in the past ten years. He said it was the first undefeated team since 1924. For the past ten years Pinckney football teams had scored 1026 points to their opponents 250, had won 86 games and only lost 20 and had averaged three touchdowns per game. He said he had been asked who was the best local player ever developed and what year turned out the best team. Both of these questions he said he could not answer. The team this year had started with but three veterans and had far exceeded all expectations. He then presented the letters to the 24 members of the squad and in doing so reviewed the records and achievements of the different players. Of the number, eight, Murray Kennedy, Stanley Dinkel, Clifford Miller, Casimir Samborski, Glenn Clark, Curtis Chamberlain, Bob Smith and Leo Blades are seniors. The other members of the team are Eugene Soper, Arnold Berquist, Ambrose Kennedy, Lambert Hinchey, Ladonis Spears, Desmond Ledwidge, Lynn Battle, Fritz Gardner, Loraine Brown, John Amoroso, Lucius Wilson, John Wylie, Bob Read Ted Adosh, Lemuel Martin and Harold Campbell. Mr. Doyle was warmly applauded. Miss Mildred Haines favored with a piano solo and the Misses Rita Young and Nellie Gardner both rendered vocal solos.

Current Comment

Just what seems to be the matter with the milk market in this section? For the last year or more the creameries in this section have been closing up shop. Dexter, Howell, Pinckney and Chelsea have suddenly been informed that they were to be without market for their milk. The reason given in many places was that milk could be bought cheaper in other sections. This however does not altogether explain it. It appears that the creameries are allowed so much for hauling milk. The further they haul the more the allowance. Therefore by hauling 200 or 300 miles their milk costs less than that hauled only 40 or 50 miles. The Gordon Co which owns the Pinckney creamery found it more profitable to close down and haul their milk from Indiana. This system of going into another state for milk to be sold in this state hardly seems to be the right thing to do, especially when the farmers are left entirely without a market for their milk.

The numerous unsolved burglaries in this village again bring up the question as to whether or not this village should hire a night watch. At the time of the Barnard Store robbery this question was very much to the fore but eventually it died out. In the long winter night when the stores close at 6:00 P. M. burglars have a long period in which they may work uninterrupted. The cost of a night watch in some places is paid by the merchants and in other places by the village. In the latter case the watchman is expected to watch over the entire town. Undoubtedly a night watch would do much to abate the robberies which seem to persist in this village.

The Pinckney mill pond froze hard enough last week to permit fishing through the ice and quite a number of fine fish were caught on bobs. Game Warden Dorrance showed up Wednesday night and seized a number of bobs which had been left on the pond by their owners. According to the law a person can have only so many bobs and they can not be left alone but must be watched every hour.

The Spanish War Veterans Assoc. takes a fall out of the National Economy League headed by Phelps Newberry which would deprive all war veterans of their pensions who were not actually disabled while in the service. It denied the statement made by the league that the tax levied on homes and farms go to pay the soldiers' pensions. The pension is paid exclusively from income taxes, tariff receipts, and license legislation. It charges that the league was formed by rich men who objected to paying income taxes. And their only idea of economy is to deprive the veterans of their pensions. It also says that the members of the league evidently do not believe that economy starts at home as one of them draws a pension of $21,000 per year and a number of others $5,000.

HURT IN AUTO WRECK

Last Thursday morning while on their way to Jackson, the car driven by James Lachlan of Rushton blew a tire and tipped over just west of Anderson. Mrs. Lachlan was quite badly cut by broken glass. She was brought to the Pinckney Sanitarium where 17 stitches were taken to close a wound in her head by Dr. Hollis Sigler. Miss Helen Tiplady was also bruised but Mr. Lachlan, Lee Tiplady and Gerald Kennedy, the occupants of the car were not injured and continued on to Jackson.

WEEK OF DECEMBER 4

...inquiries as to how we tell the weather so far in advance has led us to inaugurate a system of explanation...

We base our conclusions of the weather changes on different positions of planets and moon in relation to the sun...

For the week beginning December 4th we find Neptune, Jupiter, Mars and Mercury all playing their part in the weather for the week.

The heavy black line just above the dates and beneath all the planetary lines in the chart represents the tail end of a first quarter moon storm period.

We look for showers and snow flurries during early part of week with some high winds and change to much colder following Sunday or Monday.

The 8th of December, marked in heavy type, signifies an intermediate storm period will appear about that time.

When, at length, the man came to say that "the lady is on the line, and very angry, sir," Molly again started to her feet.

Mr. Frazier came not long after. "Do you mind my eating breakfast while I talk to you?" he asked.

His guests would, with pleasure. Molly's hand shook as she lifted the cup, so frail and thin that it felt as if she might crush it in her hand.

"What did you find out?" he asked. "It was Bob who answered—Molly was too occupied in watching the servant who fitted back and forth.

"We went right upstairs again, after you left," he said. "Mrs. Potter had put Mary Holmquist in bed with a hot-water bag."

Mr. Frazier laid down his spoon. "Decker was that her own name?" "That's what she said," Molly answered.

"Evangeline is right," muttered the man. "But Decker—" he paused. Then he added, obscurely: "Still—Frazier."

Molly and Bob both were perplexed. His remarks did not make sound sense. "Can you get her by telephone?" he asked.

He motioned her to sit down. "Give him the number," he said, nodding his head at the servant. "He'll call you when she's on the line."

"Well," said Molly, "you call—" she gave the number—"and that's a delicatessen store. The lady there will send a boy to get Mrs. Potter."

"Rather complicated, isn't it?" inquired Mr. Frazier, offering them the rack of toast. He went ahead to talk of telephones and other casual things.

"When, at length, the man came to say that 'the lady is on the line, and very angry, sir,'" Molly again started to her feet.

"Please tell her I'll send my car for her," said Mr. Frazier, "and that it is urgent that she should come."

The matter required much argument, over the line. "But, please, Mrs. Potter," Molly begged, "Mr. Frazier says it's important. Yes—important to Mary Holmquist."

"Looks like a theater to me," she said. "What have you got such an old mantelpiece for? Can't you afford a new one?"

"That," said Mr. Frazier apologetically, "came from Italy. I bought it there."

"Probably second-hand," observed the woman. "Yes, quite so. It is about five hundred years old."

"When I buy anything, I buy new," said Mrs. Potter, settling herself in a huge armchair. "What do you want, anyway, rousing me out on Sunday morning?"

"I thought it was some of your impertinence," she said. "What business is it of yours what my maiden name was?"

"A great deal," he answered. "Was Decker your real name? Was that the name of your parents?"

up to Pontiac looking for a baby, and they adopted me."

"Did you have a brother?" "My folks said there was one—a year or two older than I was. I never saw him. Why?"

He arose and laid his hand on her shoulder. "My name was Elton, too. I'm your brother, Evangeline."

Mrs. Potter sat for a moment, frozen with astonishment. Then she rose to the occasion.

"Pleased to meet you," said she, offering her hand. "What are you traveling around under a false name for?"

CHAPTER XLIV. Molly and Bob—even little Swedie, pale and silent in her corner—sprang to their feet when Mr. Frazier announced that Mrs. Potter was his own sister.

Involuntarily the three compared the features of the man and woman, facing one another there.

There was no doubt of the resemblance. The strong nose and jaw of the man were reflected, more sharply, in Mrs. Potter's face.

"What's the idea," Mr. Potter persisted, "of lying about your name?" He sat down again. "I was adopted, too," he said.

"What did you do with the Fraziers after you grew up? Let 'em slide, I suppose?" Mrs. Potter crossed her legs and rested her elbows on the arms of the chair.

"By accident," he said. "When I was hunting for Miss Holmquist's husband, I was in the town where you used to live, you know."

"Do you know what Mrs. Potter wanted that thousand for?" he inquired. "She wanted it for Mary!"

"I never heard anything like it in all my life!" his wife announced. She was still thinking deeply of Mary Holmquist and her thousand dollars when she herself set forth for Mrs. Buck's to begin her first full week as a literary typist.

"I don't believe life is just," she said to Mrs. Buck, as she laid off her coat and hat. "I declare, I feel like going out and being a wild woman!"

CHAPTER XLV. The lady writer threw up her hands in delight. "How darling!" she exclaimed.

"I don't mind," said he. "All right!" She studied the matter briefly. "I'll have to get those girls out of my place and tell the landlord what I think of him—"

"Leave my flat?" She blinked. "Move here?" She looked around the great room.

"But we'll scrap all the time!" "I don't mind," said he. "All right!" She studied the matter briefly.

to her room and make her go to bed again. I was afraid to leave her there alone."

Mr. Frazier's chauffeur took her away. Mary Holmquist leaned wearily on the older woman's arm, so lost in her own thoughts that she did not hear Molly's friendly goodbye.

"Did you ever see such a queer reunion?" Molly asked Bob as they drove off in their own car.

"I'm glad for Mrs. Potter," he said. "She's as kind-hearted a soul as ever lived, and she's had a rough time."

"Old Frazier'll have a rough time now," his wife predicted. "I wonder if she'll keep on calling him 'Frazee'?"

"It looks awfully plain and bare beside Frazier's place," Molly said as they entered.

"But I wish it was nicer." Their noonday sandwich had been taken long before, and they were hungry. Molly rummaged in the kitchen and found a can of corn and another of tomatoes, and some boiled potatoes ready for frying.

"Let's go to a restaurant," he proposed, looking over the provisions that she had laid out on the kitchen table. "I feel as if I hadn't had a square meal in a week."

"I don't think we ought to," she said. "I had to draw money from the bank yesterday, and there's the rent coming due—I'll hurry and heat these things up. They ought to be all right."

They talked until late, sitting at the dining table over the vegetables that Molly had warmed. Both were curious over Mrs. Potter, and what changes she would make in Mr. Frazier's home.

"And the woman has agreed not to testify against him!" "That's the absolute limit, Bob! Does it mean that he'll go free?"

"Well, the prosecutor can go ahead with the case, but I don't see how he can do much if the woman won't testify. Swedie was around the office this afternoon happy as a lark. She's sure that crook'll be out of jail this week some time."

"But how about the diamond ring, and marrying two wives? Don't they punish men for doing things like that?"

"I don't know. But Swedie split her money in two, and gave half of it to the woman and half to Mr. Frazier. She's flat broke again."

until lately how hard it is to get money." Mrs. Buck brought out the manuscript that Molly was to copy.

The typing of "Her Maiden Passion"—the newest work of Evelyn Ellis Ellison—proved as deeply interesting on the second day as on the first. Molly's lips were parted and her breath was coming hard before she had copied two pages, and from then on until five o'clock she scarcely paused.

The villain was such a cold devil—smearing in the heroine's face every time she prayed for release! And he was so handsome in his black-eyed, dark-complexioned way, and the heroine was so helpless!

The only thing that Molly didn't care for in the story was that the heroine was a blonde. She mentioned this to Mrs. Buck, just before she left for the day.

"The girl who got the thousand dollars is a blonde, and the story keeps reminding me of her," she said. "I don't think these light blondes make such good heroines. Do you?"

"Well, she has to be a blonde in this story, because the man's dark," explained the author. "When the man's blonde, then the girl's dark. I alternate 'em."

"Jehosaphat, I'm tired," Bob announced, as he came in. "Office work is worse'n running around the streets, any day of the week. Molly, I've lost four pounds!"

"I had to buy this at the delicatessen," she admitted. "There isn't time to cook anything but chops after I get home. But those professionals cook better than I do, anyway."

"What do you think's happened now?" he asked. She waited in the doorway for him to continue. "Little Swedie went at lunch time and gave that woman five hundred dollars—the woman who had Swedie's husband arrested!"

"Well, the prosecutor can go ahead with the case, but I don't see how he can do much if the woman won't testify. Swedie was around the office this afternoon happy as a lark. She's sure that crook'll be out of jail this week some time."

left them outside, likely out in the country! And they had to walk into town. And my husband—didn't have the money to pay the hotel bill. It was lucky for him Mr. Frazier came—he paid the way back to the city."

"How'd he get the money to go to Somerville?" Bob wanted to know. Little Swedie flushed. "I had some—"

"Of course," said Mary Holmquist. "I'll be making enough for both of us—after the ring and my clothes are paid for."

Molly got up and crossed the room, and stood before the pretty blonde. "You've only got thirteen dollars a week left, and you have to pay five a week of that for rent," she accused.

"What are you eating?" Little Swedie reddened again. "I eat—why, I eat lots," she said. "It doesn't take much to feed a girl."

Without further comment Molly went to the kitchen, and with a clatter of aluminumware and china, got together a plateful of food.

"You come out here and eat something, Mary Holmquist!" she commanded. "You've been starving yourself!"

"Tell me, Mary," Molly asked, after a time, "how did your husband get out of his trouble about marrying two girls?"

"I did something terrible," the blonde answered. "I fixed it for him." She leaned over and whispered in Molly's ear.

STATE TO GUARD AGAINST THEFT OF CHRISTMAS TREES

With the Christmas holidays just around the corner, Director George R. Hogarth says the raiding of state-owned lands for the Christmas tree business will result in prosecutions if the guilty parties are apprehended.

Each year hundreds of tree merchants disregard ownership of woodlands in the north and help themselves to thousands of trees ranging in age from 5 to 12 years.

"The state would not for a minute want to deprive any youngster of a Christmas tree," the director says, "but the trade has become so irresponsible that there is a huge over-production, prices hit bottom and literally thousands and thousands of trees are wasted. Trees on state-owned lands must not be cut and a closer watch will be maintained this fall than ever before, in an effort to protect them."

Recently the Timberland Owners' conference, meeting in Ann Arbor, deplored the wasteful use of Christmas trees and the fact that many harvesters disregard ownership. Trespass on private as well as state lands is not uncommon, they said.

Acid Boosts Production

Announcement was made recently in Mt. Pleasant of phenomenal results in two instances from the application of acid to non-flowing wells. The Stapleton No. 2 of Braden-Sanders in Section 13, Greendale, was boosted from a negligible showing to about 650 barrels daily. The Jones-Woodruff No. 2 in the same locality was turned from a very light producer to about 700 barrels a day.

Grim Wreckage of Stunting Plane in Which Three Died

Above, the tragic ruins of the cabin monoplane recently piloted to a fatal crash near Randolph, Mass., by Frederick Lothrop Ames, Jr., wealthy young sportsman of Bolton, Mass. Ames and his two passengers, Miss Francis Burnett of Southboro, Mass., and Frank P. Sprout of Pittsburgh, Pa., were instantly killed as the plane, during a series of stunts, tail-spun to earth. The trio had taken off from Boston bound for Newport, R. I.

MORE CAMPERS GO INTO STATE PARKS

While there was a slight drop in the number of visitors at Michigan's state parks in the 1932 season, the number of campers increased, it is shown by a report issued by the parks division of the department of conservation.

The report lists 9,616,000 visitors at the parks in 1932 as compared with 9,634,000 in 1931. The number of campers this year was 178,842 as compared with 177,967 last year.

Forty three states, the Philippines and Canada were represented among park campers.

The Bay City park again exceeded all others in number of visitors and campers. More than a quarter of the entire population of the state spent some time at the park in the last summer. The actual figures are 1,630,000 visitors and 20,093 campers.

Grand Haven park ranked second in popularity with 1,431,200 visitors and the Walter J. Hayes park third with 777,427.

Twelve other state parks reported attendance records for 1932 of more than 100,000. They are: Bloomer No. 2, Dodge Brothers No. 2, Dodge Brothers No. 4, Dodge Brothers No. 10, East Tawas, Holland, Island Lake, Mears, Muskegon, St. Clair and Wilson.

Will Sink Oceana Well To Greater Depth

Oceana county's second wildcat oil well, the Cochrane No. 1, will be sunk to a greater depth, according to drillers in charge. The well came in recently in the upper Traverse formation as a dry hole.

Drilling is proceeding rapidly at the L. E. DuVall well on the Wallace estate in Elbridge township, after a three-week shutdown.

Operations at the Reed Oil Co. well on the E. L. Mitchell farm in Hart township have been temporarily suspended as has drilling at the Varner & Lockwood well on the O. I. Flood property in Pentwater township.

A rig is being set up on the Robert Knox farm in section 8, Ferry township, and drilling is to start. This is the first attempt to strike oil in that township.

Michigan Waters Yield A Large Fishing Crop

Almost 10,000 tons of commercial fish were taken from Michigan waters of the Great Lakes during the seasons of 1931, a recent report issued by the Fish Division of the Department of Conservation shows.

The 31,624,687 pounds reported as having been taken by commercial fishermen had an aggregate value of $2,899,888.39, it is estimated, the figures being based on prevailing market prices for the year.

Whitefish continued to hold the lead among all other commercial species, fishermen reporting taking 8,453,338 pounds. For three years whitefish have led the list in the number of pounds taken. This is true for the first time since 1889 according to the Fish Division and is being largely attributed to the use of deep water trap nets. In some instances, it is claimed, entire areas have been depleted of whitefish through the use of these nets, and regulation of the use of the nets is being urged.

The 1931 whitefish crop had an estimated value of $1,183,467.

While the herring ranked next to the whitefish in the number of pounds taken, the lake trout was second in value. The report shows 6,724,176 pounds of herring valued at $201,725.28; and 5,568,422 pounds of lake trout valued at $919,579.8. Suckers and mullet had a commercial value of $107,000 and perch $126,631. A million and a half pounds of perch, principally taken in Saginaw Bay were sold by commercial fishermen in 1931.

Of the 31,624,687 pounds of fish taken in Michigan waters of the Great Lakes last year 9,919,657 came from Saginaw Bay, and 9,100,252 were taken from Lake Michigan. Lake Huron yielded 7,724,844 pounds; Lake Superior 3,410,821 pounds.

The largest plant of commercial fish in four years in Michigan waters of the Great Lakes has been completed by the Fish Division of the Department of Conservation.

The Division's report for its 1932 plantings shows 203,162,500 lake trout, pike-perch and white-fish planted from state hatcheries as compared with 131,362,000 in 1931; 202,155,000 in 1930 and 121,333,400 in 1929.

Most of the fish planted were pike-perch advanced fry, the state planting 190,050,000 as compared with 43,200,000 planted in 1931. The large planting was possible because of an unusually favorable season last spring for the taking of spawn.

The state planted 3,272,500 lake trout advanced fry and 50,000 two months old lake trout; and 9,790,000 whitefish advanced fry. The distribution of whitefish was below the average due to an unusually light production of spawn last fall.

Building and Loan Association Make Report

Total assets of the Building and Loan associations in Michigan are $152,933,381.58 according to the annual report of the building and loan division of the Department of State.

The report covers the fiscal year ending June 30, 1932, and shows that the assets of the 66 companies decreased only $12,336,158.30 during the year.

One company, however, increased its capital stock during the year.

The associations have had to contend with unusual delinquencies growing out of unemployment, but have made a good record considering the conditions that have prevailed during the past year.

Saugatuck Grades And Fills Airport

Considerable work in grading and filling is being done on the Saugatuck airport to prepare it for early spring. The airport comprises 175 acres of the former Reed farm and is owned by the state.

Our idea of the summer life in the world is the one who can afford to never get a cold.

Archers Match Bows With Guns For Deer Hunt

Modern Robin Hoods shooting big bows and steel tipped arrows at galloping deer are having a "duel" with hunters using rifles in the woods at Blaney park. With the state recognizing the primitive bow and arrow as a legitimate weapon for hunting buck deer, a 6,000-acre tract of reforested land at Blaney was set aside for the exclusive use of archers who wish to draw a long bow against the big bucks.

This archery preserve, the only one of its kind in the middle west, lies next to another large tract of land in which a limited number of rifle shooters can bag their bucks with rifles and bullets. One stand of wire separates these dueling grounds and expert archers will attempt to show that the more primitive and quieter weapon is capable of bringing home the meat almost as efficiently and with even more sport than the modern rifle.

The 6,000 acres of forest which has been set aside for the bow and arrow hunters was especially selected for this type of hunting. The area is covered with second growth timber, has many tote roads and trails through it, and a number of fairly open spots so that the bow and arrow hunters can execute their shots without interference from thick brush. To make sure that this preserve and other adjacent hunting areas at Blaney are not invaded by pothunters the owners of the land have an air patrol. A plane carrying a pilot and observer takes to the air several times each day during the season to inspect the shooting grounds, maintaining contact with a warden force on the ground and signalling to the archers are sighted.

IRON COUNTY LEADS IN FOREST FIRES

With cold and wet weather continuing prospects are that Michigan will have experienced the least destructive forest fire season in its history.

Figures based on 2,303 forest fires reported to the Land Office to date, show but 36,836 acres burned over during the year, and a small proportion of this acreage contained timber of any merchant value.

The upper and lower peninsulas have experienced about the same number of fires and damage. The administration division's figures show 1,004 fires so far this season of the Straits of Mackinac with 2,000 acres burned over. In the lower peninsula 1,299 fires have been reported with 19,924 acres burned over.

Dickinson and Iron counties, for years have borne the brunt of forest fire damage, again reporting the largest number of fires for any county in the state. Iron county has had 118 fires and Dickinson 118. However, because of the fact that none of the fires in either county has been of a large size, the loss has been reduced to a minimum. In the lower peninsula Mackinac county reported the largest number of fires for the season, recording 110.

The number of fires reported to date for each county in the peninsula are:

Name Wanted for State Public Lands

Michigan has 800,000 acres of public lands upon which the public has the right of way. They are known as Public Hunting Grounds. There are also State forest, and public recreation areas.

Many of these areas contain good fishing waters. A part of the broader program for the protection, development and use of Michigan's game fishing resources should be the orderly acquisition of public access to fishing waters, lakes and streams. That is, it will be if the Conservation Department finds itself in a financial position—by means of a general rod license—to carry out a far-sighted program of this kind.

The Conservation Commission wants a name for the water front already set aside and the areas acquired. A name that will carry the same meaning as "Public Hunting Grounds."

Various suggestions have been made. "Public Fishing Waters" is good but not good enough. "Public Fishing Places." What's your suggestion?

Guinea Pigs Are Barred

It is just as illegal to import a pig with which to hunt as it is to use a ferret, according to the department of conservation.

The department of conservation is taking of the game laws of other states and is making a study of the same.

Reports of the department of conservation are being made to the state.

ROCK ANALYSIS IS SIMPLE WITH INSTRUMENT

One of the most wearisome problems facing the mineralogist, the study of a given rock to determine the amount and proportion of materials in it, has been simplified so as to require about one-fifth of the time heretofore needed by a measuring gauge perfected by Professor Walter F. Hunt of the University of Michigan and Professor C. K. Wentworth of George Washington University.

The mineralogist must frequently determine the make-up of rock, and to do so he cuts a section so thin as to be translucent and mounts it on a microscope slide. In the past he then mounted a screen of known dimensions under the slide and computed one at a time the amount of feldspar, mica, quartz and other rock crystals scattered in the sample, a laborious, eye-straining process.

With the new apparatus a platform bearing the specimen slide is moved across the line of vision, driven by five dial marked screw grips. This way five of the component mineral crystals may be read straight across the specimen at one time, by giving one dial to each, and by reading off each dial the size of the crystal as measured by the turns required to bring it clear across the sample. The dial register to five thousandths of a millimeter and one millimeter is about four hundredths of an inch, so that quick and accurate computations are easily made.

Stamp Out Tuberculosis

Tuberculosis robbed Michigan of more boys and girls last year than the next few most deadly diseases working together. Finding tuberculosis at an early age speeds recovery. Examination of 4,000 school children means of the tuberculin test and has been placed at the top of list of things to be done by the Michigan Tuberculosis Association with funds to be realized from the sale of penny Christmas seals. How many young lives can be saved depends entirely upon the generosity of the citizens of Michigan, since Christmas seal funds offer the most state-wide means of challenging childhood's greatest disease enemy—tuberculosis.

STATE TO GUARD AGAINST THEFT OF CHRISTMAS TREES

With the Christmas holidays just around the corner, Director George R. Heath says the raiding of state-owned lands for the Christmas tree business will result in prosecutions if the guilty parties are apprehended. Every year hundreds of tree merchants disregard ownership of woodlands to the north and help themselves to thousands of trees ranging in age from 12 years.

The state would not for a minute want to deprive any youngster of a Christmas tree," the director says, "but the trade has become so irresponsible that there is a huge over-production, prices hit bottom and literally thousands and thousands of trees are wasted. Trees on state-owned lands must not be cut and a closer watch will be maintained this fall than ever before, in an effort to protect them.

Recently the Timberland Owners' conference, meeting in Ann Arbor, deplored the wasteful use of Christmas trees and the fact that many harvesters disregard ownership. Trespass on private as well as state lands is not uncommon, they said.

Acid Boosts Production

Announcement was made recently in Mt. Pleasant of phenomenal results in two instances from the application of acid to non-flowing wells. The Stapleton No. 2 of Braden-Sanders in Section 13, Greendale, was boosted from a negligible showing to about 650 barrels daily. The Jones-Woodruff No. 2 in the same locality was turned from a very light producer to 700 barrels a day.

Ames and his two passengers, Miss Frances Burnett of Southboro, Mass., and Frank P. Sproul of Pittsburgh, Pa., were instantly killed as the plane, during a series of stunts, tail-spinned to earth. MORE CAMPERS GO INTO STATE PARKS

While there was a slight drop in the number of visitors at Michigan's state parks in the 1932 season, the number of campers increased, it is shown by a report issued by the parks division of the department of conservation. The report lists 9,616,000 visitors at the parks in 1932 as compared with 9,634,000 in 1931. The number of campers this year was 178,642 as compared with 177,967 last year.

Forty three states, the Philippines and Canada were represented among park campers.

The Bay City park again exceeded all others in number of visitors and campers. More than a quarter of the entire population of the state spent some time at the park in the last summer. The actual figures are 1,630,000 visitors and 20,093 campers.

Grand Haven park ranked second in popularity with 1,431,200 visitors and the Walter J. Hayes park third with 777,427.

Twelve other state parks reported attendance records for 1932 of more than 100,000. They are: Bloomer No. 2, Dodge Brothers No. 2, Dodge Brothers No. 4, Dodge Brothers No. 10, East Tawas, Holland, Island Lake, Mears, Muskegon, St. Clair and Wilson.

Operations at the Reed Oil Co. well on the E. L. Mitchell farm in Hart township have been temporarily suspended as has drilling at the Varner & Lockwood well on the O. I. Flood property in Pentwater township.

A rig is being set up on the Robert Knox farm in section 8, Ferry township, and drilling is to start. This is the first attempt to strike oil in that township.

Michigan Waters Yield A Large Fishing Crop

Almost 10,000 tons of commercial fish were taken from Michigan waters of the Great Lakes during the seasons of 1931, a recent report issued by the Fish Division of the Department of Conservation shows.

The 31,624,687 pounds reported as having been taken by commercial fishermen had an aggregate value of $2,899,888.39, it is estimated, the figures being based on prevailing market prices for the year.

Whitefish continued to hold the lead among all other commercial species, fishermen reporting taking 8,453,338 pounds. For three years whitefish have led the list in the number of pounds taken. This is true for the first time since 1889 according to the Fish Division and is being largely attributed to the use of deep water trap nets. In some instances, it is claimed, entire areas have been depleted of whitefish through the use of these nets, and regulation of the use of the nets is being urged.

The 1931 whitefish crop had an estimated value of $1,183,467.

While the herring ranked next to the whitefish in the number of pounds taken, the lake trout was second in value. The report shows 6,724,176 pounds of herring valued at $201,725.28; and 6,568,422 pounds of lake trout valued at $919,579.8. Suckers and mullet had a commercial value of $107,000 and perch $126,631. A million and a half pounds of perch, principally taken in Saginaw Bay were sold by commercial fishermen in 1931.

Of the 31,624,687 pounds of fish taken in Michigan waters of the Great Lakes last year 9,919,657 came from Saginaw Bay, and 9,100,252 were taken from Lake Michigan. Lake Huron yielded 7,724,844 pounds; Lake Superior 3,410,821 pounds.

The largest plant of commercial fish in four years in Michigan waters of the Great Lakes has been completed by the Fish Division of the Department of Conservation.

The Division's report for its 1932 plantings shows 203,162,500 lake trout, pike-perch and white-fish planted from state hatcheries as compared with 131,362,000 in 1931; 202,155,000 in 1930 and 121,333,400 in 1929.

Most of the fish planted were pike-perch advanced fry, the state planting 190,050,000 as compared with 43,200,000 planted in 1931. The large planting was possible because of an unusually favorable season last spring for the taking of spawn.

The state planted 3,272,500 lake trout advanced fry and 50,000 two months old lake trout; and 9,790,000 whitefish advanced fry. The distribution of whitefish was below the average due to an unusually light production of spawn last fall.

Building and Loan Association Make Report

Total assets of the Building and Loan associations in Michigan are $152,933,381.58 according to the annual report of the building and loan division of the Department of State.

The report covers the fiscal year ending June 30, 1932, and shows that the assets of the 66 companies decreased only $12,336,158.80 during the year.

One company, however, increased its capital stock during the year.

The associations have had to contend with unusual delinquencies growing out of unemployment, but have made a good record considering the conditions that have prevailed during the past year.

IRON COUNTY LEADS IN FOREST FIRES

With cold and wet weather continuing prospects are that Michigan will have experienced the least destructive forest fire season in its history.

Figures based on 2,303 forest fires, the number reported to the Lansing office to date, show but 36,836 acres burned over during the year, and but a small proportion of this acreage contained timber of any merchantable value.

The upper and lower peninsulas have experienced about the same number of fires and damage. The field administration division's figures show 1,004 fires so far this season north of the Straits of Mackinac with 16,912 acres burned over. In the lower peninsula 1,299 fires have been reported with 19,924 acres burned over.

Dickinson and Iron counties, which for years have borne the brunt of forest fire damage, again report the largest number of fires for any county in the state. Iron county has had 121 fires and Dickinson 118. However, because of the fact that none of these fires gained any considerable headway, the loss has been reduced to a minimum. In the lower peninsula Muskegon county reported the largest number of fires for the season, recording 110.

The number of fires reported to date for each county in the upper peninsula are:

Name Wanted for State Public Lands

Michigan has 800,000 acres of public lands upon which the public has the right of way. They are known as Public Hunting Grounds. There are also State forest, and public recreation areas.

Many of these areas contain good fishing waters. A part of the broader program for the protection, development and use of Michigan's game fishing resources should be the orderly acquisition of public access to fishing waters, lakes and streams. That is, it will be if the Conservation Department finds itself in a financial position — by means of a general rod license — to carry out a far-sighted program of this kind.

The Conservation Commission wants a name for the water frontage already set aside and the areas to be acquired. A name that will carry the same meaning as "Public Hunting Grounds."

Various suggestions have been made. "Public Fishing Waters" is good but not good enough. Someone facetiously offered "Public Piscatorial Places." What's your suggestion?

Guinea Pigs Are Barred by Law

It is just as illegal to use a guinea pig with which to hunt rabbits as it is to use a ferret, according to the department of conservation. The law forbids the taking of rabbits from their burrows or holes by artificial or mechanical or any other means, which would automatically bar the use of guinea pigs, the department claims.

Several reports of rabbit hunters using guinea pigs as snappers were received by the department.

Archers Match Bows With Guns For Deer Hunt

Modern Robin Hoods shooting big bows and steel tipped arrows at galloping deer are having a "duel" with hunters using rifles in the woods at Blaney park. With the state recognizing the primitive bow and arrow as a legitimate weapon for hunting buck deer, a 6,000-acre tract of reforested land at Blaney was set aside for the exclusive use of archers who wish to draw a long bow against the big bucks.

This archery preserve, the only one of its kind in the middle west, lies next to another large tract of land in which a limited number of rifle shooters can bag their bucks with rifles and bullets. One stand of wire separates these dueling grounds and expert archers will attempt to show that the more primitive and quieter weapon is capable of bringing home the meat almost as efficiently and with even more sport than the modern rifle.

The 6,000 acres of forest which has been set aside for the bow and arrow hunters was especially selected for this type of hunting. The area is covered with second growth timber, has many tote roads and trails through it, and a number of fairly open spots so that the bow and arrow hunters can execute their shots without interference from thick brush. To make sure that this preserve and other adjacent hunting areas at Blaney are not invaded by pothunters the owners of the land have an air patrol. A plane carrying a pilot and observer takes to the air several times each day during the season to inspect the shooting grounds, maintaining contact with a warden force on the ground and signalling when poachers are sighted.

Natural gas franchise proposals have been presented to eight central Michigan towns by Detroit interests headed by Lee S. Miller and J. P. McCloskey, gas engineers. They are acting for a company to be set up later, which will seek a pipe line permit from the State Public Utilities Commission. Mr. Miller stated. The franchisees are being sought from Shepherd, Alma, Ithaca, St. Louis, Breckenridge, Merrill, Wheeler and Hemlock.

The company has ample capital assured, said Miller, and will be ready to start construction of a 40-mile pipe line from the Central Michigan oil and gas field next spring, if the franchisees are granted. He also stated that surveys indicated a gas reserve of 21,500,000,000 cubic feet in the Michigan field, and estimated that far greater supplies would be developed. Both Miller and McCloskey are former Tulsa, Oklahoma engineers, who now reside in Detroit.

With the new apparatus a platform bearing the specimen slide is moved across the line of vision, driven by five dial marked screw grips. This way five of the component mineral crystals may be read straight across the specimen at one time, by giving one dial to each, and by reading off each dial the size of the crystal as measured by the turns required to bring it clear across the sample. The dials register to five thousandths of a millimeter and one millimeter is about four hundredths of an inch, so that quick and accurate computations are easily made.

ROCK ANALYSIS IS SIMPLE WITH "M" INSTRUMENT

One of the most wearisome problems facing the mineralogist, the study of a given rock to determine the amount and proportion of materials in it, has been simplified so as to require about one-fifth of the time heretofore needed by a measuring gauge perfected by Professor Walter F. Hunt of the University of Michigan and Professor C. K. Wentworth of George Washington University.

The mineralogist must frequently determine the make-up of rock, and to do so he cuts a section so thin as to be translucent and mounts it on a microscope slide. In the past he then mounted a screen of known dimensions under the slide and computed one at a time the amount of feldspar, mica, quartz and other rock crystals scattered in the sample, a laborious, eye-straining process.

With the new apparatus a platform bearing the specimen slide is moved across the line of vision, driven by five dial marked screw grips. This way five of the component mineral crystals may be read straight across the specimen at one time, by giving one dial to each, and by reading off each dial the size of the crystal as measured by the turns required to bring it clear across the sample. The dials register to five thousandths of a millimeter and one millimeter is about four hundredths of an inch, so that quick and accurate computations are easily made.

NOW! EASE A SORE THROAT INSTANTLY

Feel Rawness, Irritation, Go At Once

These Pictures Tell You What To Do

1 Crush and Dissolve 3 Bayer Aspirin Tablets in Half a Glass of Water.

2 GARGLE Thoroughly—Throw Your Head Way Back, Allowing a Little to Trickle Down Your Throat.

3 Repeat Gargle and Do Not Rinse Mouth, Allow Gargle to Remain on Membranes of the Throat for Prolonged Effect.

Remember Only Medicine Helps A Sore Throat

Modern medical science now throws an entirely new light on sore throat. A way that eases the pain, rawness and irritation in as little as two or three minutes.

Results are among the most extraordinary in medical science. On doctors' advice, millions are following this way... discarding old-time "washes" and "antiseptics." For it has been found that only medicine can help a sore throat.

Simple To Do. All you do is crush and dissolve three BAYER Aspirin Tablets in half a glass of water. Gargle with it twice—as pictured above. If you have any indication of a cold—before gargling take 2 Bayer Aspirin Tablets with a full glass of water. This is to combat any signs of cold that have gone into your system. Keep on taking if cold has a "hold." For genuine Bayer Aspirin will not harm you. Your doctor will tell you, it does not depress the heart. Get a box of 12 or a bottle of 100 at any drug store.

Reduces Infection, Eases Pain Instantly. Gargling with Bayer Aspirin will do three things: Relieve soreness at once. Allay inflammation. AND—reduce infection; which is the important thing in fighting a sore throat.

It requires medicine—like BAYER ASPIRIN—to do these things! That is why throat specialists throughout America are prescribing this BAYER gargle in place of old-time ways. Results are quick and amazing.

Be careful, however, that you get real BAYER Aspirin Tablets for this purpose. For they dissolve completely enough to gargle without leaving irritating particles. Watch this when you buy.

BASKET BALL SEASON TO OPEN

Pinckney will soon open her basket ball season. There will be two teams in the field as usual here, the high school and independents. The Independent's first game is with Chelsea here on Dec. 17. The high school will probably not start their schedule until after Christmas but practise will start at once. Both teams will have about all of last year's team back. The high school will have Kennedy, Dinkel, Meabon, Battle, Smith, Wilson, Read and Miller and the Independents, Swarthout, Reason, Carr, Hickey, Hall, Gerycz, Shehan and Read.

This year the basket ball rules provide for four changes. They are as follows:

1. The ten second rule which is intended to eliminate stalling.
2. The three second rule directed at the pivot play.
3. The rules on blocking.
4. The rule governing face blocking.

The first rule is a big asset in speeding up the game on large courts in excess of 75 feet in length. It stops stalling and kills the old delayed offense. The rule stops plays in the back court as the ball must be brought back across the center of the court within 10 seconds. This forces the team with the ball to play an offensive brand of ball and makes the game more of a race horse contest with more scoring in all probability.

The second rule provides that the pivot man, when in the foul line must rid himself of the ball within three seconds after receiving it. This rule will also speed up the game considerably but will probably tax the officials in every game to call it properly.

The legislation on blocking is a bit intricate. Under the old rule the intention of a player was the paramount consideration. If, in the opinion of the referee, the player responsible for the block intended to produce the block, he was guilty of a foul. The new law reads that if a player is standing still and is in the playing area before the play reaches that zone, he is NOT guilty of a foul, even though he intentionally causes interference.

The last changes in the rules, that against face guarding, has to do with the guard keeping his hands far from the face of an opponent. The only advantage in this rule is the protection it offers against an injury to the face such as the sticking of a finger in the eye of an opponent.

CARD OF THANKS

In behalf of the Pinckney circle of King's Daughters, I wish to thank all those who took part or in any way helped with the play, "Among the Breakers" which was presented last Friday evening.

The interest shown was truly a Community Spirit, and we, as a society, do appreciate the efforts put forth in our behalf, as we strive to do welfare work.

Huge Task of Nurses

Red Cross public health nurses, who work in hundreds of communities, are meeting the greatest demands in history for their services, due to the depression. Visits in maternity cases, protecting the health of infants and children, and aiding mothers in distress due to unemployment of the bread-winners have taken them into thousands of homes. The nurses made 1,357,000 visits to or on behalf of individuals, and inspected 949,000 school children. More than 58,000 adults were instructed in home hygiene and care of the sick.

Blind Readers Get Books

Books in braille for reading by the blind are made by women under Red Cross direction. Last year 2,813 such books were produced in single copy and 3,538 in double copies. Fiction, biography, history, economics and school books were among those printed in braille. The Red Cross gives them to libraries for free distribution to blind readers.

FOOTBALL BANQUET

it. Capt. Murray Kennedy received it on behalf of the team.

Lucius Wilson, captain elect of next year's team, was the last speaker. He expressed the appreciation of the team for the banquet and extended their thanks to Mrs. Battle for her zeal in making it a success. Toastmaster Bowers then called upon the assembly to give Mrs. Battle and the ladies a rising vote of thanks for the banquet. It was given and so ended a very enjoyable evening which it is hoped will become an annual event.

COMMUNICATION

Dexter, Dec. 3, 1932

Editor of Dispatch:

Are your readers noticing the failure among the broadcasters in radio pronouncing?

In old times "the King's English" had laws to protect its purity. Now we have mobilized (Pres. Hoover), gratis bureaucracy, haled into court, financier and so on, to mention only a few occurring lately.

Radio reaches farther probably than the printed word but matter for publication is submitted to revision and proof reading while radio speakers seem to take no care at all for correct pronouncing.

HERD IMPROVEMENT REGISTRY TESTS

Lloyd Miller of Howell owns the pure bred Holstein cow that finished the highest record in Herd Improvement registry tests for the state in November according to the Michigan Holstein Friesian association. As a mature cow, milked twice a day, she made in 10 months 439 pounds of butter fat from 11,207 pounds milk, testing 3.9.

In the national Holstein herd test on three times a day—milking—the Sanitarium herd at Howell lead the two year olds to finish last month. The Sanitarium two year old made 425 pounds fat, 3.6 test, 11,820 milk.

54 cows in the Sanitarium herd averaged a pound of fat a day on test. The Miller herd of 9 cows on twice a day—milking averaged 1.2 pounds fat. The McPherson Estate herd had the highest two year old, 410 pounds fat, to finish a record in the state in November.

Things You Never Knew That Soap Would Do

Make the Crease Stay in Trousers
 To make trousers keep their "press," rub the inside of the crease with a slightly moistened piece of Ivory soap.

Fill Cracks in Calomined Walls and Ceilings
 To fill cracks in calomined or whitewashed walls, ceilings, and the like, shave two ounces of soap (or dissolve two ounces of Flakes) into about three-fourths of a pint of water. Boil until thoroughly dissolved; then add a teaspoon of flour paste and stir well. Apply when cold. It will dry smooth, hard and white.

Clean and Improve Phonograph Records
 To clean and improve phonograph records, dip them into light suds made of Ivory soap and water and wash. Rinse each record briskly in the suds for a quarter of an hour, cleaning every portion of the surface of the record carefully. (Do not touch the record with your hands.) Then wash in clean water. This treatment will not only clean and improve old records but remove ones as well. Old records cleaned and washed every thirty days will last longer.
