Home Coming

Pinckney Board of Commerce Advisability of Holding Home Coming and Centennial Celebration
This Year

At a meeting of the Pinckney
Board of Commerce held Monday night, Floyd Weeks, William Dilloway and C. H. Kennedy were appointed a committee to consider the advisability of holding a Home Coming and Centennial Celebration in Pinckney
this summer and to find the sentiment towards it. They will report back to the Chamber of Commerce on Jan.
21. This celebration would be a three-day affair with street parades, ball games and races, midway, dances and program. Pinckney has not had one since 1914.

A meeting to consider taking further steps to get M-36 blacktopped will be held at the Board of Commerce rooms on Monday night, Jan.
14. All townships and cities located on M-36 will be asked to send delegates. All persons in Putnam interested in this improvement are also invited to attend.

MRS. MARY CHALKER
Mrs. Mary Chalker, 81, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Etta Hopkins, at Jackson Monday after a long illness. She was formerly Mary Doyl, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs.
James Doyl of Pinckney and was married in marriage to Llewellyn Chalker of Pinckney. For many years they lived here later removing to Fowler ville where Mr. Chalker died about ten years ago. Since his death she has made her home with her daughter in Jackson.

Besides her daughter she is survived by two brothers, William and James of Pinckney, two sisters, Mrs. Patricia Kennedy of Pinckney and Mrs. B.
Dyer of Lansing and a number of nieces and nephews. The funeral will be held at St. Mary's church Wednesday at 10:00 A. M., with burial at Fowlerville.

DETROIT EDISON GAINS
23,000 CUSTOMERS
According to a dispatch in the Detroit News appearing under the signature of Alex Dow, president of the Detroit Edison Co., this company gained 23,000 customers during the year of 1934. Many of these were former customers who were forced to close their homes and double up temporarily with other families. Increased employment has now enabled them to re-establish their homes. Indications are that the total sales of electricity
have increased from 1,908,672,000 kilowatt hours in 1933 to about 2-202,000,000 kilowatt hours in 1934, an increase of approximately 15 percent.

"COLLEGE RHYTHM" AT THE
HOWELL THEATRE JAN. 10, 11
What a gorgeous medley of girls,
music, comedy and stirring football
scenes awaits you when you see Para-mount's "College Rhythm" with Joe Penner, America's favorite radio star, heading the cast in his first feature length picture.

Supported by a magnificent cast,
which includes Lanny Ross, Jack Oakie, Helen Mack, Lydia Roberti
and Mary Brian.

"College Rhythm" introduces Penner to the film public in a hilarious story of deadly college rivals, the football star and the picnic player, who finally agree by disagreeing and falling in love with different girls.

In between are some gorgeous chorus scenes, executed by the 150
All-American co-eds, some grand footing by Penner and Lydia Roberti and some sweet caroling by Lanny Ross.

There are a raft of new tunes in "College Rhythm" all by these wizards
of the key board, Gordon and Royal,
and several of which are bound to be hits.

This picture is sponsored by the Junior Class of Howell High School.

Swag Hoover is Given a Verdict of $10 by Jury in the Hay Deal Suit Against Ebsen, Swann, Only
Chancery Cases This Week

The Livingston circuit court convened here again Wednesday for the adjourned, December session, when the case of Ebsen A. Swann - Harry Hoover was taken up before a jury of 10 men and 2 women and was taken up all of the court sessions since. The suit grows out of a partnership deal between the two men formed in the spring of 1931 when Swann
and Hoover secured the rights to cut the hay on the General Motors property grounds, and for which they paid $600 on a 50-50 basis. The hay was cut and baled, Hoover disposing of his share and Swann storing his share,
which was said to be about 90 tons,
in the old Robert barn near Howell,
and which was later rented to Hoover,
who is engaged in the cattle buying business here and who keeps many cattle there. Swann sold about 10 tons, it was brought out and claimed that Hoover appropriated the remainder of the hay to his own use. On the other hand Hoover claims Swann debited to him and the case has been bitterly fought on both sides. Swann is represented by D. W. VanWind and Hoover by Shields and Smith and Jay P. Sweeney, former prosecutor.

The jury after being out for two days gave Hoover a verdict of $10. He admitted that he fed 20 tons of the hay but claimed Swann owed him 10 months barn rent. The jury was as follows: L. D. Chubb, Howell; W.
Donaldson, Howell; T. R. P. Jones,
Iosco; Louis Schuckard, Putnam;
Bert Hicks, Putnam; Joe Stralman,
Hamburg; Beale Jones, Howell;
Kathryn Lowe, Brighton.

Emma Beata Clark has filed for a divorce from Dr. Charles J. Clark, former Howell and Fowlerville physician, charging non-support and extreme cruelty. The couple was married at Port Huron, June 24, 1930,
and separated December, 11, 1934,
while Doctor Clark was practicing physician at Fowlerville. They have two children, aged 3 years and seven months, which are in the custody of Mrs. Clark, a former anesthetic nurse in the University Hospital at Ann Arbor. Both are graduates of the Michigan university.

A hearing for temporary alimony
and custody of the children and also the family car, was heard before Judge L. H. Collins in the local court
Wednesday, alimony being denied Mrs. Clark for the present as the physician is without a job. Mrs. Clark was given the custody of the children, however, also the car, which she took
with her when she left in December.

Mrs. Viola Read and Elects Officers
For the Forthcoming Year

The January meeting of the Pinckney King's Daughters was held at the home of Mrs. Viola Read on the 7th of January. Although the weather was threatening, the meeting was well attended, 13 members and 3 guests enjoyed a tasty pot-luck luncheon after which the meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Atker, with the reading of the Order. In place of the Devotional, Mrs. Lulu Linn read the New Year's Message from the President,
Mrs. Leibert.

Annual reports were made by the secretary and the treasurer, Mrs. Viola Read reported for the Sick and Flower Committee and Mrs. Sadie
Read for the Sewing Committee.

The following officers were elected
for the coming year:
President... Mrs. Florence A. Lee
Secretary... Mrs. Clara Palmer
Treasurer... Mrs. Lulu Linn
Mrs. Bowdler, County President, told the splendid work which was being done in the hospital, schools, Mrs. Crossman and Mrs. Burns of the Gregory Circle also spoke a few words.
A new member joined the Circle, Mrs.
Zuse, the Admission Service being read by Mrs. Duffer.

Mrs. Atker gave a detailed report on the amount of welfare work the Circle had done for Christmas, which was much larger than during previous years and more will have to be done during the winter. Naturally, the funds will be inadequate. They, however, were resolved to continue on the payment of 1934 dues, and request the members to have their dues by September 1st. All old dues should be taken care of as soon as possible, in order that no one be kept out of the good work.

After the meeting, the members were entertained with a meal of "Social Handicaps" which constituted
a very interesting afternoon.

Making The Home More Livable

—With End Lamps for the Davenport

By Jean Prentice

Did you ever notice how your family or guests gravitate toward the davenport when entering the living room? They usually do.

So it's really not surprising how much pleasure and livableness can be secured by adding, as perfect complements to the davenport, good lamps—properly placed!

Like an artist with a pallet of paints, end tables, can create a balanced arrangement that is beautiful to the eye—and more than that—good to the eye from the standpoint of lighting.

How to go about it when one's davenport is placed against a wall is illustrated in the accompanying sketch.

Although the lamp arrangement looks casually and gracefully simple, it embodies several technically correct things over which a lighting specialist would nod his head in approval.

To begin with, the lamps (quite modest as twins!) are just the right height for this arrangement. Two 60-watt bulbs in each lamp insure adequate light. The shades are open at the top and sufficiently opaque to avoid undue brightness and glare even when both bulbs in a lamp are in use for reading, sewing, or studying.

Since the end tables in this living room are relatively low, the lamps selected are tall in order to send a sufficient spread of light on the book to be read beside it. However, if the end tables used were higher, the eye would catch raw glaring light from beneath the lamp shades. In that case a lower lamp standard like that at the right in the underneath sketch, or a still lower one, as at the extreme left, would be used. Be mindful of the height of your end table and select your lamps accordingly!

Many of the better lamps of course have adjustable upper stems and movable sockets, allowing for change in height or spread of light.

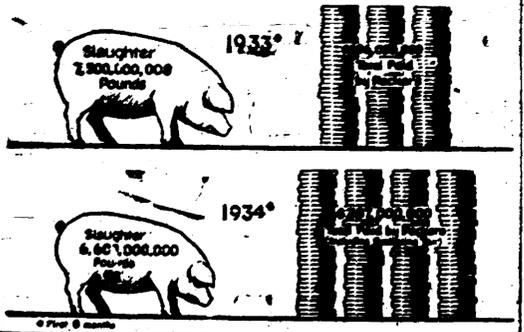

Bridge or floor lamps, of adjustable types like those sketched in the center, are second choice for this davenport arrangement. They should be placed at either end, the former with a 60 or 75-watt bulb in each lamp and the latter with two 60 or 75-watt bulbs in each one.

The difficulty is that the taller floor lamps cannot be placed far enough to the back of the davenport (because of the wall) to keep unshaded light from striking the eyes.

If your davenport, however, stands away from the wall, well, that's another—a coming story.

PRELIMINARY studies indicate that a substantial increase in hog income is resulting from the adjustment in hog marketing effected by the 1933-34 emergency hog-buying programs and the 1934 corn-hog production adjustment program of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. The graph above shows that the total estimated net to packers for hogs slaughtered under Federal inspection during the first eight months of 1934, including the processing taxes due, was approximately $100,000,000 larger than for the corresponding period in 1933.

This represents an increase of about one-third in total cost and of more than one-half in the hundred-weight cost of live animals. At the same time, the total inspected slaughter of hogs for the first eight months of 1934 was about 12 per cent under the total for the corresponding period for 1933.

An increase in gain has been due to a part of this gain has been due to an increase in consumer's income and to some adjustment in tonnage effected by the shortage of feed supplies resulting from drought, but production control under the Agricultural Adjustment Act has been a large factor. Hog prices throughout the current marketing year are expected to average higher than for several seasons.

Corn-hog farmers of the United States will have an opportunity to hold gains made this past year by cooperating in the 1935 corn-hog program now being offered by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

BREWER IS GRANTED PARDON

Willis M. Brewer, former head of the Howell Sanitarium, has been granted a full pardon, according to a Lansing paper. Sentenced in June, 1931, to a term of 6 to 15 years for embezzling $2,500 belonging to the American Legion children's billet at Otter Lake, his sentence was reduced to 2 to 15 years and he was paroled. He was later given a job on the CWA in Oakland county.

Brewer was very prominent in the Legion for years and was at one time national vice-commander. He and Mark McKee were the two most prominent Legionnaires in the state for some years. He was appointed to the Howell position by Gov. Fred Green,

ENCLOSED KNEE ACTION OPTIONAL ON MASTER'S

Amplifying his announcement of prices of the two new Chevrolet lines for 1935, W. E. Heiler, general sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company, today stated that enclosed knee action, optional on the Master and Luxe models, will be available at an additional charge of $20. Mr. Heiler predicted that at least 50 per cent of persons buying Master models in 1935 would exercise the option and obtain knee action at the small price difference involved.

Mr. Heiler emphasized the fact that knee action will be built in at the factory, not installed by the dealer.

"Chevrolet's knee action mechanism," he said, "is an integral part of the car. It cannot be installed as an accessory. There will be no conversion in the field. Cars will be available both with and without knee action, but they will be built completely at the factory, where special machinery, skilled workers, and other factors all focus on the production of this major feature, which is offered only by Chevrolet and builders of higher-priced cars."

HOMEMAKER'S CORNER

Home Economics Specialist Michigan State College

Durability is not emphasized to the extent that it used to be in buying table linens, according to Mrs. Julia E. Tear, home economics instructor at Michigan State College. Small cloths or doilies have replaced the large damask cloth for all but the more formal dinners. These small cloths are attractive, very practical, reduce the laundry problem, and are inexpensive.

Cloths for the table come in a wide range of materials and colors, all cotton or part cotton, and part linen or all linen. Some of the cotton crepe cloths are inexpensive and launder easily. Linen comes in many low priced varieties and is more desirable because of its more satisfactory appearance and lustrous luster which improves with repeated washings. It is smooth and does not gather lint or dust. Stains can be removed more easily from linen than from other materials.

In buying linen, no matter what type, one very important thing to consider is the fact that there are many grades on the market. Many women feel that the statement "all linen" is sufficient information, ignoring the fact that there are many grades of linen and that the poor grades will not wear so well as others.

To give real value, linen should be closely woven. The firmness of the material should be due to compactness of the yarn and not to starch, and this may be determined by rubbing the material between the hands to see if the starch rubs out. The yarns should be even.

In selecting table cloths, consider how their color and design will harmonize with the china or glass with which it is to be used. It should be made of it and its quality should be considered in relation to its price and the length of time it is expected to last. With the wide range of material, colors, and designs, there on the market today, it is surprising that one wishes to pay for a

AN APPALLING LOSS

During the first ten months of 1934 the appalling number 1072 persons in Michigan lost their lives in motor accidents, an increase of 21 per cent over the corresponding months of 1933, topping even the all-time record of the country as a whole. Why discuss the reasons for this criminal disregard for human life? Nine out of every ten accidents resulting in the loss of life are caused by reckless driving. Michigan has a driver's licensing law, yet a new accident peak is reached. In the section of our homes we seek to find some remedy for this situation, only to go our way and witness some fool driver tearing down the highway at an 80-mile clip, regardless of traffic or driving conditions. The only remedy seems an aroused public opinion against the reckless operator of a motor vehicle. Even under a campaign of this nature accidents will continue. Nature prevents any substitution of brains in place of what they are now having around inside their skulls.

STATE TEACHER'S COLLEGE CHANGE REQUIREMENTS

In accordance with a standing rule of the State Board of Education to the effect that the entrance requirements for the State Teacher's College shall be the same as those for the University of Michigan, the State Teacher's College will conform in accordance with the new standards established by the University of Michigan. The new requirements applicable upon community of study. The study is introduced by permitting the student to offer sequences in four out of five possible fields of study. It is hoped that this flexibility will permit the preparatory studies to be adapted more to individual needs than has previously been possible.

PLANNING COMMISSION TO COOPERATE WITH GROUPS

The State Planning Commission has been authorized by the federal government and subsidized by the state government to survey needs for state-wide planning. A preliminary report of the proposals of the State Planning Commission has already been issued.

HAS BIG GAIN IN PHONES

The Michigan Bell Telephone Company, according to a dispatch in the Detroit Times, that the first eleven months of 1934 showed a big gain in telephone installations over the same period in 1933. Net gains of phones in the territory served by the company for this period was 20,512 compared with a loss in the same 1933 period.

RESOLVED

for 1935:

"I will try an electric
range in my own kitchen
on this TRIAL PLAN!"

There is only one way to discover the superiority of electric cooking and that is actually to TRY an electric range for yourself. There is no better time to start using a range than NOW—at the beginning of the year. Why put off any longer enjoying electric cooking, when you can install a range in your own kitchen on this Trial Plan
and use it for six months without obligation?
Cook all your favorite recipes on it... test it in every way... satisfy yourself concerning any questions you may have about it... then decide whether or not you want to keep it.

Here are the details of the Trial Plan: We will install an electric range in your kitchen without initial charge, and let you use it for six months,
removing it without charge if you do not like it.
During this trial period, you pay for the service
as registered by your meter, plus a monthly charge of $1 for the range. If you decide to keep the range, your monthly payments will be applied toward the purchase price. If you decide that you do not want it, the range will be removed at our expense. Send in your application for a trial range today!

More Juice From Lemons

Lemon juice is a splendid flavoring for cakes as well as for beverages. Of course you want to get all the juice from them that you possibly can. You will find that you can extract a great deal more juice from a lemon if you place it in a fatty hot oven for five minutes before using.

World Has Long Known

Dates as Staple Food

"Americans who eat dates chiefly as sweets, dessert, or as components of puddings and cakes, seldom realize that dates have been raised and prized from antiquity as one of the most nourishing, satisfying foods in the world," says a bulletin from the Washington headquarters of the National Geographic society. "Over 4,000 years ago, dates were raised on the banks of the Euphrates. Inhabitants of China, Spain, and Greece, supplement their diet with dates. "Persians, Arabians, and North Africans eat them as we eat potatoes. They are the chief source of wealth and the staple article of food in Arabia. Give a desert nomad a few boiled beans, a little olive oil, milk, and some dates, and he considers it a Thanksgiving dinner. In the dry parts of North Africa, dates constitute not only the main meal of the inhabitants, but are consumed by dogs, horses and camels."

Little Girl's Face Inflamed by Psoriasis

Healed by Cuticura

"My little girl's face was so inflamed that her eyes were swollen almost shut. The trouble was diagnosed as psoriasis. She scratched night and day and was not able to obtain rest. The scratching aggravated the trouble and each finger tip was red and swollen with infection. She became so emaciated that she was very pathetic looking. "After three months' suffering I recalled the Cuticura treatment used by my mother. I bought a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment and used them according to directions. The first treatment brought relief and she is now healed." (Signed) Mrs. Marie L. Johnson, 4720 Ames Ave., Omaha, Neb., March 14, 1934. Soap 25c, Ointment 25c and 50c. Talcum 25c. Sold Everywhere. SYNOPSIS

Theodore Gatlin adopts a baby, which he names "Penelope," in a final effort to solve his matrimonial troubles. But his wife has never wanted her, and their affairs end in the divorce court. Ten-year-old Penelope is given into the keeping of Mrs. Gatlin. At a baseball game a ball strikes Penelope on the nose. Mrs. Gatlin spirits the child to Europe. Gatlin retires from business, wills Penelope all his money, and is about to begin a search for his daughter when a motor accident ends his life. Some ten years later, in San Francisco, Stephen Burt, rising young psychiatrist, is presented by Dan McNamara, chief of police, with a new patient—Nance Belden, a girl with a dual personality, for which her "saddle nose" is in part responsible. McNamara does not think she is a criminal and obtains Burt's testimony in court. Lanny, the doctor's office nurse, is also won over. Nance's criminal record outweighs Doctor Burt's explanation of her case and she is sent to San Quentin penitentiary. Lanny visits her and Nance persuades her to smuggle out a letter which a confederate of Nance steals.

CHAPTER IV—Continued

For a moment she considered telephoning Dan McNamara, then decided the worthy fellow might prove an embarrassment. So she got a pistol from her bureau drawer—because she was a practical soul and dwelt alone. She had purchased the pistol as a precaution—and went to the door. She cocked the pistol, took a long breath, threw open the door suddenly and raised her weapon.

"Put 'em up," she commanded harshly.

"Don't be silly, Lanny dear," a soft voice entreated her wearily. "It's only me."

"Nancy Belden—you little devil," Lanny almost shouted. "Come in here this instant."

Nance Belden reeled in and Lanny closed the door behind her, turned the bolt, switched on the hall light—and screamed.

"Pipe down," Nance commanded, in that queer, faint, weary voice. "I'm not a corpse, but I'll tell the world I came mighty close to being one just before lock-up time this afternoon. Lanny, dear, I crashed—the gate."

"Well, you'll crash out of here in a split second, you little hellion," Lanny cried sharply. "Get up a dishrag and your hair like a witch's, and covered with blood. Where are you hurt?"

"Bullet through my left arm, high up near the shoulder. That guard could shoot, and he did! If my boy friend hadn't shot back at him and made him hunt his hole I'd be fishbait this minute."

"You've got to get out of here, Nance," Lanny was terrified. "How many visitors have you had since you've been in San Quentin?"

"Just you, Lanny."

"The authorities will look me up and they'll come here. Understand? They'll come here—there, they're on the telephone now. Oh, my good lord, what have I done to deserve this?"

She dashed into her kitchen and took down the telephone receiver. And again a masculine voice said:

"Miss Rebecca Lanning?"

Lanny controlled herself. "Yes," she said calmly. "Who's speaking?"

"Dan McNamara."

"Oh, hello, Dan. How are you?"

"Fine, Lanny. How's yourself?"

"Well, I might be dead for all the interest you've taken in me since you swallowed that good highball you grafted off me the day you came to Doctor Burt's office with that Nance Belden girl." She added archly—"you egg!"

Dan McNamara laughed. "Can I come out now?"

"The very idea. Of course not. It's almost ten o'clock and I'm just about to retire!"

"This is business, Lanny. I've got to see you at once."

"I didn't know the police were after me."

"The police aren't, but the chief is. Lanny, that Nance Belden escaped from San Quentin late this afternoon. She got to San Francisco all right. We know that because we found the speedboat she crossed the bay in tied up in the yacht harbor at the Marina. There was blood all over the cockpit and bullet holes in the hull."

"All of which proves, Dan, that God's in his heaven and all's well with the world. Are you seriously trying to recover the girl and send her back to the penitentiary?"

"I'm not. I'd give two of my big buck teeth to see her make a clean getaway. You know that. But the warden—naturally. It seems you visited Nance two weeks ago and smuggled a letter out for her and mailed it."

"Dan, I give you my word of honor I neither mailed a letter for her nor passed it to somebody else to mail. Nor did the girl discuss with me any plans for escape. If she had I would have told the warden in order to prevent her escape. It wouldn't have been kind not to do so. The girl is mentally irresponsible and it would have occurred to me that, in any mad attempt to escape, a guard might shoot at her."

"Well a guard did, and he hit her, too. But he didn't stop her. Her outside gang opened on him with a Tommy gun from a speedboat off the point, and made him hunt his hole. Nance swam out to the boat under cover of their protective fire; they hauled her in and beat it forty-five miles an hour across San Pablo bay and headed up toward Carquinez straits, while daylight lasted. After dark they doused their lights and sneaked back. The warden telephoned Central office here and gave the alarm. I wasn't on hand, but of course the captain on duty had the water front covered at once. He had two men at the St. Francis Yacht club and they saw a speedboat sneak in and across the little harbor to a vacant berth on the Marina side. Before the cops could hurry across, the people in the boat jumped out and to a waiting car. The cops followed in a police car as soon as they could, but one of Nance's friends riddled their front tires with machine-gun bullets and the trail was lost."

"How exciting, Dan!"

"Yes, and it will be more exciting for you, Lanny. I got home about two minutes ago and my phone was ringing. It was central office trying to report to me. They're just starting a couple of dicks out in a cruiser to watch and see if Nance tries to make your house. You're a trained nurse. The warden's found out that much—matter of looking you up in the San Francisco directory. So he thinks that she'll head for your house to receive medical attention. She got hit, you know. And you must be a friend of hers—otherwise why did you call upon her?"

"Dan," said Lanny desperately, "she's here now!"

"Into your car with her, Lanny, and beat it out to my house with her." He gave her the address. "That's the last place on earth the devil himself would hunt for an escaped convict."

"I've just heard a thump and a crash in my living room, Dan. I think she's fainted. Telephone Doctor Burt to come to your home—that he will have to probe a bullet wound and dress it. Tell him to bring some whisky and two or three hot-water bags, and be on-out—and watch for Stevie and let him in."

She ran to the kitchen, turned on the hot water and set an enameled skillet under the faucet; then returned, undressed the girl. In an adjoining bathroom she found clean towels and placed a cold one on her head. When she returned to the kitchen, the enameled skillet was sitting in the midst of a cloud of steam, so she knew it had been thoroughly disinfected; she filled it with warm water, carried it into the room and with a wet towel mopped the two holes in Nance's arm and examined the wound.

"Missed the bone," she decided. "Bled like a stuck pig, of course, piece of her dress probably carried into the wound."

In the medicine closet, Lanny discovered a small bottle of iodine. So she doused the wound with it, wrapped a cold towel around the girl's shoulder and tucked her into bed.

In the living room she found a brass box with cigarettes in it, so she lit one and sat down beside Nance, with her capable fingers on the girl's pulse. Evidently the count was satisfactory, for Lanny scowled at the girl and growled: "You little devil! And I crashed the gate," she said proudly. "Well, if you aren't the little hell-bender! You've got the nerve of a lion-tamer!"

She found a comb and brush in Dan McNamara's bureau and combed and smoothed the dank, straggly black bob, and when that was done she unbent long enough to implant a kiss on the white brow. "Poor lamb!" she murmured. "Nobody's poor lost darling!"

The girl's eyelids flickered.

"Is that you, Lanny?" the girl murmured faintly.

"Yes, dearie. And you're all right, so don't worry. Nobody's going to take you back to San Quentin."

"The cops chased us at the boat landing, Lanny. Are you sure we shook them off?"

"Of course you did—the big boob! Now, listen, dearie, I'm going to tell you something, but don't let it disturb you. Take my word for it you're safe. Do you remember Dan McNamara, the chief of police?"

"Of course. Old Daniel's my boy friend."

"Well, you're in his bed. The cops

Dan McNamara Reached Into the Car, Lifted Nance Belden Out, Ran Up the Stairs and On to a Rear Bedroom. Lanny Jerked a Small Rug Off the Floor and Threw It on the Bed.

hand yourself to let me in. I can't leave here until I've mopped up any bloodstains she may have left on the sidewalk and my front steps. Good-by."

Lanny was right. Nance Belden lay on the floor of the living room in a faint. She picked the girl up in her strong arms and carried her down a short flight of stairs that led from her kitchen to the garage below. She heaved her into the car, ran back upstairs, got a wet mop, and by the light of the electric lamp over the front entrance searched for drops of blood. She found a few and followed them to the sidewalk, eradicating them with vigorous sweeps of the mop, then dashed back into the house, jammed her hat and coat, ran outside again, threw open the garage door and backed her car out. She paused again, to shut it, then swung up the street as the half-red lamps of a police cruiser came turned the corner. She swung wide to give it a clear berth, turned the first corner and spurted. She followed a zig-zag course until she felt sure she had thrown the police car off her trail—provided they had become suspicious and started to follow her; she turned up a residence street that she felt reasonably certain would not be patrolled by traffic officers at that hour of the night, and speeded up.

Dan McNamara was standing on the sidewalk in front of his house when she drew up. He reached into her car, lifted Nance Belden out and ran with her down an alley alongside the house to the basement entrance, which he kicked open. Lanny followed. Up the stairs to the kitchen the big chief ran, through the kitchen and on to a rear bedroom. Lanny jerked a small rug off the floor and threw it on the bed.

"Let her bleed on that for a while," she commanded. "No sense in mopping this nice clean bed all up. There must be blood in my car, Dan. Take a wet towel and go out and clean it thoroughly, please, while I'm undressing this poor lamb. Get me one of your wife's clean nightgowns."

"Ain't got no wife, Lanny. Use one of mine."

"Just as good as any. Get it. Who takes care of you here?"

"My mother."

"Can she be trusted?"

"I've sent her to the country for a month," he evaded. "I'm sleeping here and eating downtown."

"God bless our home, Dan. Clear were on your trail, dearie. They suspected you might come to my house, so Dan tipped me off they were coming and to beat it with you out to his house."

"Terror shone in the girl's dark eyes. 'I'd never trust a cop that far,' she wailed. 'Oh, Lanny, you've let him make a sucker out of you.' She began to weep hysterically."

"If you don't stop that," Lanny promised, "I'll bat you over the head with this skillet," and she picked that homely utensil up and shook it at Nance. "Dan McNamara's your friend."

"Yes, and chief of police, too. Lanny, I'll die if they take me back. They'll put me in the dungeon—I'm afraid of the dark."

"Shut up. You're not afraid of anything. You've got your little red badge of courage, you scaramouche! You afraid? My foot! Didn't you crash the gate and swim for that speedboat under fire?"

"Machine-gun fire, at that," Dan McNamara supplemented, from the doorway. "They opened on her and the boat from the towers." He came to the side of the bed and grinned down at the terrified girl. "Don't you worry, Nance. You're safe. I'm a cop, but I'm not without some sporting blood—your getaway earns three rousing cheers from old Dan McNamara." His big hand strayed over her face.

"You're a good old hunk of cheese," she assured him.

She turned her head toward Lanny. "Am I going to die, Lanny?" she asked.

"Not unless I kill you—which I'm liable to do if you don't buck up and believe what I tell you. You've been shot but it doesn't amount to much. You'll be all right in a week or two."

"Then I'll be good, Lanny." The tired eyes closed and while Lanny stood by, wondering what to say next, Nance sank into a sleep of profound exhaustion.

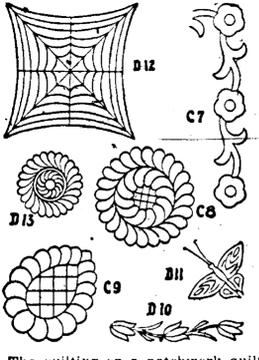

"Let her alone until Stevie comes," Lanny suggested. "The wound has stopped bleeding. Come out into the living room and if you're as crooked as a cog as you ought to be you've got liquor in the house and I've got to have a drink of it." Her middle-aged face was very nervous.

Get Perfect Quilt With This Design

By GRANDMOTHER CLARK

The quilting on a patchwork quilt may make or ruin the entire work, if the design and work is not done neatly. Beauty in the design is necessary, but the needlework and evenness of the stitches bring out the design, and if done right the result will be perfect and always admired. Needleworkers know the best way to transfer a design to cloth is through a perforated pattern. The design is perfectly drawn and perforated so that each stamping is alike and requires very little time. The stamping powder can be brushed off when work is finished, leaving no lines or marks.

Package No. 33B shown above contains seven actual size patterns, perforated on bond paper, also blue powder for stamping and full instructions just how to do it.

Pattern D 12—10 inch Spider Web is suitable for the center of the Wedding Ring Quilt. The outer lines may be omitted if a smaller size is wanted. Few Cases of Arthritis Can Be Left to Nature

Correction of living habits, proper diet and removal of foci of infection do not always result in disappearance of pain or other symptoms in joints in cases of arthritis, according to Dr. Maurice F. Lantman, who writes on "Preventing Arthritis" in Hygiene Magazine.

"Perhaps one of the greatest difficulties encountered in successfully preventing disease is the human tendency to gamble with health," the author says. "Too much reliance is placed on the hope that nature, if not interfered with, will take care of everything. This belief, as far as arthritis is concerned is, unfortunately, frequently disastrous. It is quite true that the individual who is threatened with arthritis has his work cut out for him. The task of preventing arthritis is not an easy one, to be sure, but one has only to contemplate the countless persons who are disabled or hopelessly crippled to realize that as far as arthritis is concerned, the ounce of prevention will be worth tons and tons of cure."

Hair-Raising Loyalty

An officer in a Highland regiment lost his hair as a result of his war experience, and for a time had to wear a wig.

When in a crowd watching the trooping of the color at the Horse Guards parade, he raised his hat as the color went past. By a mischance his wig stuck in his hat.

A Cockeyne behind him who noticed it remarked admiringly: "Coon, ain't he loyal!"—Vancouver Province.

Precautions Called for With Perishable Food

Study of human reactions to tin have been exhaustively investigated by the food research laboratory of the bureau of soils in Washington. These studies show that no toxic action need be feared from the use of tin containers. For that reason it has been widely stated that food-stuffs need not be removed from the can after opening because of any danger from tin poisoning.

It must be apparent, on the other hand, that products like milk or canned fruits, vegetables, and meats are perishable substances. Once the can is open, they are subject to contamination from the bacteria of the air just like any fresh product. For that reason it is certainly not desirable for perishable foods to be allowed to stand in open containers any appreciable length of time unless they are kept very cold. Furthermore, though cold delays the growth of these bacteria, it does not entirely prevent their growth. Hence foods cannot be kept in refrigerators in open containers indefinitely.—Dr. Walter H. Eddy, Director of Good Housekeeping Bureau.

BANKING EVOLUTION

By R. S. HECHT
President American Bankers Association

BANKING at one time was a private profession, but more recently has developed into a profession—a semi-public profession. This change has not come suddenly but is the result of an evolutionary process. Banking has grown and changed with the growth and change of our country.

R. S. HECHT

The banker who has survived the trials and tribulations of the past few years has proven himself a man of courage and sound judgment. He has met the problems that lie before him with courage and sound judgment. He has met the problems that lie before him with courage and sound judgment. He has met the problems that lie before him with courage and sound judgment.

It has become the fashion to say that the banking system all over the world is in a state of depression. We hear that the banks are in a state of depression. We hear that the banks are in a state of depression. We hear that the banks are in a state of depression.

The best results can and will be accomplished by normal processes and gradual adjustments of our present private banking structure—suitably supervised by proper authority—rather than by the passage of still more drastic laws, edifying panaceas in the form of government-owned or government-controlled financial organizations.

The Basis of Good Laws

Existing laws relating to any phase of human life are formed and modeled in the rough school of practical human experience and are usually the result of evolutionary processes rather than of sudden impulses to change fundamental principles.

It is not enough that bankers merely practice banking imposed by law. The evolutionary banking reform must be more aggressive than that. Banking reform itself, without completion of law, and should reflect the changes and demands of the times and difficulties through which the nation has passed, and even to a greater extent than the reform banking more than a good public servant by voluntary reform. In no small measure this is accomplished by the better thinking of the members of the banking reform party and by instilling confidence in the public mind that they are not responsible for bank mismanagement.

As we march on into the world of tomorrow the banker has a greater opportunity for usefulness than ever before, and I hope that the service he will render to society will be so constructive and so satisfactory as to merit general approval and secure him his logical high place and leadership.

NATIONAL SAVINGS MARK INCREASES

NEW YORK.—The annual savings compilation of the American Bankers Association for the year ending June 30, 1934, shows that for the first time since 1929 total savings in all American banks recorded an annual increase. A statement by W. Esney Albig, Deputy Manager of the association in charge of its Savings Division, in the organization's monthly magazine "Banking," says that savings deposited in banks as of June 30, 1934, gained 3.5 per cent as compared with a year earlier.

The aggregate is an increase over last year of $742,132,000, the first since the year which closed June 30, 1930," he says. "This is a notable achievement, for the decline since 1930 had been precipitous and all-embracing. In that year savings had reached the all-time high of $21,125,521,000. A year ago the amount was $21,125,521,000, a loss in three years of $7,557,000,000. This year the figure stands at $21,867,653,000."

"Of particular note have gained in number, from 39,282,112 on June 30, 1933, to 39,582,111 on June 30 this year, a gain of 299,999. Four years ago there were 37,720,429 depositors, and in 1934 there were 39,582,111 depositors."

IN USING
this organization, he knows that his own wishes decide what the cost of the service will be. This is an assurance that means much to the family of moderate means and it enables anyone calling us to satisfy himself that he will not be called upon here, to pay one dollar more than he feels our service should cost.
