With the abundance of color found in the furnishings for the modern house, the result will either be color "chaos" or color "ecstasy". The amount of intelligence used in selection will determine the matter according to the individual's instruction at Michigan State College.

Learning that color has upon one another, the only way to develop color is to turn to their selection. Balance of a feeling of repose is the principle underlying the most important color law called the "law of contrast". The substance of this law is that the colors should be either dark and dull (grayed) and the smaller areas light and bright (tints). As areas grow smaller they may become more intense and thus give contrast in size of area as well as intensity. The center of good color harmony is "balance and contrast".

Equal amounts or equal intensities of complementary colors will prove monotonous. For example, a room furnished in tan and brown, with some dull orange areas would be very monotonous for the tones would all be warm. If a contrast of some opposite color, blue, purple-blue, or blue-green in the form of pottery, pillows, candles, or upholstery on a chair, the room would be much more satisfying. Complementary colors, when used together, produce such strong contrasts that only a small touch of a bright opposite color is needed to give balance.

Balance can also be obtained by repeating some of the same colors or values, in various parts of a scheme. A room with walls and woodwork of warm grey and walnut furniture will appear balanced if rose draperies are used at the windows at one side of the room and some rose accessories in the other areas which have no windows.

Emphasis is another important point in handling color. In any color arrangement there should be one outstanding color effect, whether the scheme is very quiet and simple, or complicated. Keep the floors and walls quiet and subdued, for they are the background for the other colors.

Color combinations which give a sense of rest and harmony are unity. They give the impression that all the colors really belong together and yet at the same time there is sufficient variety so that the arrangement does not become monotonous. The most beautiful color schemes are those which give a single impression, and impression of warmth with a note of coolness for variation, or of coolness with its accent of warmth.

DEPARTMENT OF CONSERVATION BULLETIN

Approval of the establishment of a project for the retirement of sub-marginal lands surrounding the village of Waterloo in Northwestern Washington and north eastern Jackson counties, has been announced by the Department of Conservation.

The Waterloo Project involves approximately 7,700 acres of sub-marginal lands and represents an investment of between $150,000 and $200,000 on the part of the Federal Government, it was announced.

Under direction of DeForest Platt, project investigator, options have been taken in the area since last summer. It is understood that the Federal Government is beginning actual purchases.

The Waterloo project includes property in Grass Lake, Waterloo and Leoni townships in Jackson county and Lyndon and Sylvan townships in Washtenaw county. A large portion of the area is in poor or deserted farms. Nine lakes are included as well as a considerable marsh. About 135 persons are now residing on the property.

The Waterloo project represents the first evidence in Michigan of the federal program for the retirement of sub-marginal lands from agriculture and the establishment of an area for the practice of practical land utilization.

It is a part of the program under which the Federal Government is looking toward the shrinking out of competitive production of some 50,000,000 acres of sub-marginal farm lands, as a permanent remedy for overproduction of farm crops. Under the plan these first affected lands are to be made too poor or so poor as to permit decent living conditions and where farms were obviously failing and becoming economic or social liabilities.

The Waterloo area was selected because of the low average quality of its soils, according to Director P. J. Hoffmaster of the Department of Conservation. "While there are several million acres of such lands in southern Michigan, the Waterloo section was picked for the reason that it is surrounded by one of our best farming districts and is close to the metropolitan areas of the state which require the recreational facilities the project will offer in the future."

Much of the preliminary work which resulted in Washington acceptance of the project was done through a committee appointed by the State Planning Commission and headed by Dean E. L. Anthony of the Department of Agriculture, Michigan State College. The committee membership represents several interested agencies. With the government now actually making purchases in the area a person living on the property will probably be given alternatives: Of selling for cash and moving from the project; of using rehabilitation machinery to relocate elsewhere; or to obtain life leases of home-sites to stay on and work neighboring lands.

It is expected that through the practice of a sound land utilization program in the area, the project will eventually become self supporting. It is probable that CCC camps will be assigned to Waterloo to carry on development work. Small isolated plots of good land will remain in production as subsistence farms for project workers. Land best adapted for forestry will be reforested. Erosion will be controlled.

However, use of the project for recreational purposes will be dominant in considering development. Hoffmaster said. All standard "park" facilities will be included. Bathing beaches and picnic grounds will be built. Camp facilities for boys and girls will be constructed. Lakes and streams will be improved to increase the fish population. One tract of marsh will be reflooded to maintain a capacity population of ducks.

While definite information has not been received as to the actual mechanism for future administration, it was probable that development will be under the direction of the U. S. Parks Service, with the tract to be turned over later to the State Department of Conservation for administration.

Approval of the Waterloo project came as the result of recommendations made by Paul V. Brown of the District office of the United States Parks Service, Indianapolis; and R. I. Nowell, regional director of the Federal Land Program, Madison, Wisconsin.

It is expected that actual development work will begin April 1 when it is probable that CCC camps will be established near Waterloo with the beginning of the fourth enrollment period.

"A charming home?" Yes.
"Well lighted?" NO!

Here is a living room that apparently has everything such a room should have. It is attractive, comfortable, inviting; and the parents of these children probably think they have overlooked nothing in providing pleasant, congenial surroundings. But they have forgotten one important thing.

THESE CHILDREN WILL BE NEAR-SIGHTED if they continue to strain their eyes in the poor light on the living room floor. (Figures show that twenty out of every hundred children of school age have defective vision.) This lovely room does not guard against eye-strain because it does not provide light for all occasions. Unknowingly, the parents are slowly DAMAGING THEIR CHILDREN'S VISION because the light in the room is simply decorative and not bright enough for comfortable, easy seeing.

Chevrolet Announces Two New Lines for 1935

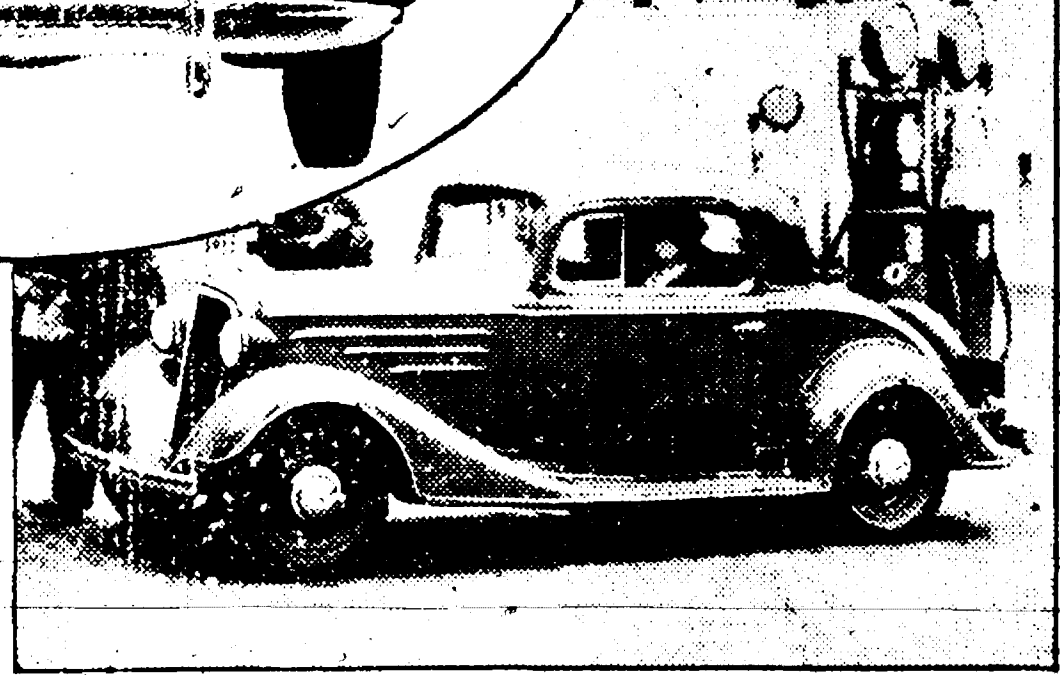

The Coupe model typifies the beauty and style of Chevrolet's New Master De Luxe series for 1935. Improved performance and exceptional economy also characterize these cars.

Fleet, graceful lines also mark the New Master De Luxe Sport Sedan. Ample luggage space is provided by the built-in trunk, and a luggage compartment behind the rear seat cushions.

Picture: Front view of New Master De Luxe Coupe, showing roominess and graceful lines. Below: The Sedan model in the New Standard series, which is powered by the time-proven Master engine, combines maximum performance with its smart, new and style.

Another attractive model in the New Standard series is the Coupe pictured here. Numerous body and chassis refinements, in conjunction with the Master engine, unite to make these cars outstanding values in the lowest-priced field.

Typical of Chevrolet's two new lines of cars are the models illustrated here. The Master De Luxe series reveals strong emphasis on beauty and style. Mechanically, the Master De Luxe series and the New Standard series have much in common, including the Master engine, in which numerous refinements have been made to increase performance, durability and economy. As these pictures reveal, the New Master De Luxe departs distinctly from previous Chevrolets in the striking advance which has been made in body design and trim.

Revival of Railroad Purchases is Necessary to National Recovery

The railroads are not only sellers of transportation; they are billion-dollar buyers of equipment and supplies. In 1929, their purchases meant jobs for 2,000,000 workers.

Today the railroads are not buying. Their revenues have been so curtailed by unfair, unregulated competition that their buying power is sharply restricted.

The railroads want to buy. They will buy when and if their purchasing power is restored.

To increase railway purchases railway earnings must be increased.

Legislative fair play for the railways will mean railway recovery.

Railway recovery will mean increased railway buying and jobs, again, for millions.

Our State Legislature and National Congress, now convened, should eliminate the unfairness in the competition between the railways and other agencies of transportation.

BAGGAGE-FREE

Junior's velocipede and Betty Jane's doll buggy no longer will be an excess baggage problem to mother when she travels on Michigan trains, and "Pandermonium", the family pooch, will be only half his former baggage liability, according to Col. Roy C. Vandercook, manager Michigan Railroad's Association. The lines making up the Association, he announces, like those elsewhere, have just put into effect a new baggage allowance policy.

Under it, parents traveling with small children may now include in their free baggage allowance such articles as baby carriages, go-carts, velocipedes and tricycles on which separate charges heretofore were assessed.

Sportmen invading the deer, fishing and partridge country also get a break under the new policy as do other outdoor enthusiasts. Guns, fishing rods, golf clubs, etc., bicycles, steamer chairs, sleighs, toboggans, skis, snowshoes, camping outfits including boxed provisions and other sporting paraphernalia now enter the category of regular baggage.

The rate on dogs, cats and birds has been cut 50 percent. Present restrictions as to shape and additional charges for over-size trunks are generally abolished. Single pieces of baggage now may weigh up to 300 lbs., but present value and weight limit on baggage transported free are continued.

Storage charges at stations on trunks and hand baggage are considerably reduced, and the list of destinations to which baggage may be checked for delivery direct to hotels or residences at a moderate charge has been greatly expanded.

New Theory Put Forth to Explain Bird Flight

Flight of birds as a kind of rocket action, like that imagined for stratosphere rockets or for the still more fantastic vehicles conceived as traveling some day to other planets or to the stars, is a new idea proposed in France by Dr. E. Batault, life-long student of bird behavior.

A bird's muscles are larger and stronger in proportion than the muscles of animals which do not fly, but Doctor Batault says there is no proof that this difference is great enough to justify the conventional flight theories. Gliding flight is easy to explain, on the same basis of taking advantage of air currents as is used by human aviators, but this does not account for abilities of birds to do many things inexplicable by gliding; for example, to rise in still air.

Doctor Batault's new theory is that the feathers of a bird's moving wing create a continual stream of air backward along the wing surface, like the exhaust gases of an airplane engine or the gaseous discharge of a rocket. The forward reaction created by this he believes to be the force that drives the bird ahead. Calculations of the muscular force necessary require forces much smaller than those needed by the conventional theories and more in line with what a bird's muscles actually produce.

All-Important Little Dinner Hats

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

FROM the supreme court of fashion comes the ultimatum that with the formal dinner gown some sort of a flattering little hat must be worn. Likewise a pretty frivolous and feminine bit of headgear is an absolute necessity for wear during the cocktail hour, at the theater and for cafe dancing and other midwinter social events. So on with the dinner hat!

Just how might a dinner hat be defined? Well, for one thing it is ornamental if not useful. Yes, indeed, this whimsical little headpiece simply must add a truly decorative touch to the costume, which it does most dramatically this season. It may be created of most anything fine and fanciful, a wisp of tulle, a bandeau of glittering sequins or sparkling rhinestones with perhaps a dash of velvet or taffeta, satin or gleaming lame. Most important of all is a veil. By all means add a veil, a flirtatious veil, a cunning veil, a veil with a "come hither" look, a veil that flatters in that it accents your good points and conceals the others. In short, it must be a veil that crowns your head and hat with glory.

The illustration offers a few hints as to dinner hat trends. The fascinating little hat with a muf—of course, you sighted the muf at first glance, for it is so new, so chic and so charming it needs must attract attention. "Lucky muf," they call them, brings good fortune to the one wearing it. So the story goes in fashionland. A very versatile muf it is, too, for it is as practical and useful as it is pretty, since its attractive exterior conceals within its depths pockets for your vanity case, your "hanky" and your purse.

The hat and muf pictured are fashioned of brown velvet with bandings of gold sequins. The little veil is stiffened just enough to impart sprightliness. Muf and hat sets of this type made up of mulline and flowers are ideal for bridesmaid wear.

The toque sketched in the upper left-hand corner is styled of taffeta and mulline. Order it in black or any color of your choice. The scalloped edge about the large circular mulline veil is a new feature this season. This model in sweet pea colorings makes a ravishing headpiece for the bride's attendants.

Sketched immediately below is the new wrap-around turban, a type which is very smart for the matron. Erect folds of mulline spiral around and around like a winding staircase to the very pinnacle of the crown. A banding of jet sequins encircles the headline.

A youthful off-the-face hat is next shown. The mulline shape has a molded turn-back cuff with a flange of mulline on the crown to give it height. Recurring folds of taffeta with tiny bows of the same form the trimming.

The picturesquely veiled hat in the lower left corner features the very smart Marina coronet, the same formed of intricately braided folds of black velvet. The veil is a huge circle with a cut-out in the center which slips over the crown and is then brought down under the chin in a bride effect.

Each of the remaining two hats work satin folds and mulline together. The one is a jockey cap type with a wee stiffened eyebrow veil. The veil with the big beauty spot of black satin is one of fashion's latest novelties.

QUILTED TAFFETA

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Designers are doing many interesting things these days with quilted and stitched effects. It is not only that dresses and coats are trimmed with quilted collars, cuffs and belt, for the latest movement is for wraps which are all-over quilted. In the picture the coat which is styled with a flaring hemline and cape-sleeves according to latest fashion dictates, is made of quilted cerise taffeta. The dress is of the same taffeta minus the quilting.

Collars and Cuffs

New collars and cuffs show a fishnet effect, and another splendid idea—there is a wider assortment of collars to be had without the necessity of buying cuffs, too.

Dinner Gown

An unusual material is used for a luxurious dinner gown of white taffeta with stripes of chenille and gold lame.

HAT BRIM SMALLER; BACK IS TURNED UP

There's an epidemic of small vivid hats and scarfs to brighten up the winter scene.

Brimmed hats are still with us, but the brims are smaller and turned up in back, so as not to interfere with the sables and the silver fox.

Debutantes are going for the high-hat Cossack caps of corduroy and velvet, with matching neckerchief or Ascot, to wear with dark winter suits and coats.

They are round, Russian effects, high-crowned and brimless, that have an undeniable dash.

They come in such cheering colors as scarlet, emerald green, chartreuse, coral and old rose, and add nice accents of color to sober winter costumes.

Popular Afternoon Frock

Gray waffle crepe combined with navy taffeta is used to create a very smart formal afternoon frock. The navy blue taffeta forms the high waisted bodice which has a Pierror collar shirred on a cord and fastens with a small knot at the back.

The ankle-length skirt of gray waffle crepe features a slit on the left side to just below the knee. A box coat of the crepe has wide and full three-quarter sleeves lined with navy taffeta. Gray suede pumps are worn with the dress.

Shades in Spring Hosiery

Are, inspired by Cuisine Fashion will turn to the cuisine for inspiration in the spring hosiery shades. Among the new colors will be "ice tea," "ice coffee," "egg nog," and "frappe." The first is a dark suntan, the second a medium suntan, the third a nude evening shade and the fourth a light neutral shade.

Since fabric colors will be bright for spring, hosiery tints will show a livelier quality.

Skirt Formula

Straight and narrow, slashed and slithering—this is the skirt formula for morning, afternoon and evening. Lengths vary with hours.

Cookies Seem to Take High Place

By No Means Out of Favor Even When Holidays Are Ended.

The holidays may come and go, but some of my readers seem to remain interested in the question of cookies, says an expert on the subject. In spite of previous articles devoted to their home manufacture, readers are still avid for more recipes. I also had a letter from one reader, saying that she had not been able to make brownies and walnut wafers, though she followed my recipe exactly. I, myself, have made them hundreds of times, and always with success.

If you have tried walnut wafers, you have probably discovered that cure must be used in removing them from pans after they have been baked. They must cool for a moment before they are hard enough to be lifted with a spatula. If you let them stand too long, they will get brittle. In this case they may be put back in the oven for a moment to soften. A little experience will show you that even this one difficulty is not hard to overcome. So far as the brownies are concerned, I often call this recipe my foolproof recipe. A critic said the brownies were not hard at the end of 30 minutes in a moderate oven. Brownies should never be hard. They should be soft whenever taken out of the oven.

I am going to give you a real treat in some of the recipes I publish today. They have been sent in to me by a generous reader who has translated from her German cook book several of her best recipes which have been tried out year after year at holiday and at other times. I know you will appreciate, as I do, her kindness in sharing them with us.

I am giving you by request of a reader, a recipe for one of the most modern types of cookies; the so-called ice box or refrigerator recipe. The dough for these cookies may be shaped into rolls, wrapped in wax paper and stored almost indefinitely in the refrigerator. Whenever you desire a hot cookie, slice the dough with a sharp, hot knife, and bake. This recipe calls for dates and nuts. You may vary it by using other fruits which, however, must always be chopped very fine or run through a meat grinder, so that the rolls may be easily sliced. Sometimes the dough is packed into a small bread pan and sliced in oblongs. If you compare German recipes with this you will notice that they also use a very easy way for forming cookies. In several of these recipes the dough is rolled into small balls, placed on baking sheets on which it will spread into rounds. The filled cookies, or Christmas balls, as they are called, are most attractive little cakes. I know you will like the chocolate macaroons as well.

Chocolate Macaroons.

3 eggs
6 ozs. sweet chocolate
1/2 lb. confectioners' sugar
1/2 lb. chopped almonds
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
Beat three eggs thoroughly, put in double boiler and add 6 ounces sweet chocolate and 1/2 pound confectioners' sugar. Mix thoroughly until lukewarm; take from stove and add the almonds and vanilla. Stir until cooled. Drop batter by teaspoonfuls on well greased cookie sheets and bake very slowly (300 degrees Fahrenheit) for about 15 minutes. Drop batter 2 inches apart. Let stand a few minutes before removing. Macaroons very carefully from baking sheet.

Filled Cookies, (Christmas Balls)

1/2 lb. (1/2 cup) butter
2 egg yolks
1/2 cup sugar
Grated rind of lemon
1/2 cup flour
Chopped almonds
Egg whites
Jam
Cream butter, egg yolks and sugar; add lemon and flour, mix well, form balls size of walnut, and make impression in center. Fill impression with jam; dip top of ball in egg white (unbeaten) and then roll in chopped almonds. Bake in a slow oven at 300 degrees Fahrenheit on well greased cookie sheets for about 15 minutes.

A Doctor Knows!

And doctors use a liquid laxative

There's a very good reason why doctors and hospitals have always used liquid laxatives! You'd use a liquid, too, if you knew how much better it makes you feel.

A liquid laxative can always be taken in the right amount. You can gradually reduce the dose. Reduced dosage is the secret of real and safe relief from constipation.

Just ask your own doctor about this. Ask your druggist how popular liquid laxatives have become. The right liquid laxative gives the right kind of help, and the right amount of help. When the dose is repeated, instead of more each time, you take less. Until the bowels are moving regularly and thoroughly without any help at all.

People who have experienced this comfort, never return to any form of help that can't be regulated! The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara, and these are natural laxatives that form no habit—even in children. Its action is gentle, but sure. It will relieve a condition of biliousness or sluggishness without upset. It's the ideal family laxative because it's a family doctor's prescription, and perfectly safe and effective for family use.

If you are seeking something that will relieve your occasional upsets safely and comfortably, try Syrup Pepsin. Give regulated doses until Nature restores regularity.

"Through the cooperation of the special Committee appointed by President Roosevelt, the National Government has made available a site of nearly four hundred acres at Washington along the Potomac and Columbia Island, with nearby space to be made available if required. This will provide ample area for this great boys camp, and for their leaders, who, like the boys will be drawn from all parts of our country. For the demonstrations, events, ceremonies, and joint activities, during the ten days the Jamboree is in progress, the National Park officials will make available the grounds around the Washington Monument and in the Ellipse immediately back of the White House.

"The idea is to have every tent of the encampment in sight of the Capitol, the Washington Monument, the Lincoln Memorial and the Robert E. Lee Mansion at Arlington to provide a constant reminder of these 30,000 boys of what it means to be an American. We want the Boy Scouts who attend to gain the utmost in citizenship values and experience from their ten day's encampment in Washington, and the visits to the national shrines around the Capital.

"The Scouts will live under canvas throughout their own tentage and camp equipment and the great camp will be a revelation to the hundreds of thousands of expected visitors as to the methods of camping in various parts of the United States and, incidentally, of the ability of boys adequately to take care of themselves in the open.

"Our great task will be to limit attendance to the 30,000 Scouts and their leaders for whom it is possible to provide camping space without crowding. Membership in the Jamboree will be on the basis of one representative to each of about 30,000 Scout troops throughout the country. The hope is that by this method each Scout troop in the country will have the value that will come from attendance at the Jamboree. There are already indications that applications for the opportunity to attend the Jamboree will be far in excess of the capacity of the camping space available in Washington.

"An invitation will go to each of the forty-four foreign countries who are members of the Boy Scout International Bureau to send a representative group if they so desire. Several of the foreign nations have already indicated their intention to participate which will insure that the Jamboree will have an international flavor.

Arrangements are being made for the Jamboree Scouts to see Washington, Arlington, Mt. Vernon and the great national points of interest in and about the capital city. I should like to emphasize again that it is our earnest hope that the occasion will be of the greatest value to the attending Scouts in stimulating a better understanding of the value of citizenship."

COMMUNICATION

Washington, D. C.
January 19, 1935

Editor, Dispatch,
Pinckney, Mich.
Dear Sir:

As a student of history and government, for many years I have been vitally interested in the Congress of the United States and the affairs of our Government. The average man and woman today in every community is vitally interested also in the affairs of his or her government. For that reason I thought it might be appropriate for me to write you some of the interesting facts and data with reference to Congress.

You will recall that Article 1, Section 1, of the United States Constitution says: All legislative powers herein granted shall be vested in a Congress of the United States, which shall consist of a Senate and House of Representatives."

For the first time in my life, through the courtesy of the voters of the Sixth District, I am now able to study these governmental affairs first hand. When I came to Washington, the first place that I went to was naturally the Capitol, that old historic building, that for over 130 years has been the place where the laws of this nation have been enacted.

The cornerstone of the original capitol building was laid on the 18th of September, 1793, by President Washington, with Masonic ceremonies. The north wing of the capitol was finished in 1800, and the south wing in 1811. In 1818 the central portion of the building was commenced. This building is built of Virginia sandstone and white marble.

The Capitol as constructed, cost $15,000,000 the ground $10,400,000, making a total of $25,400,000. The entire length of the building from north to south is 551 ft. and its greatest dimension from east to west is 350 ft. The building covers an area of 153,112 square feet.

The dome of the Capitol is 287 ft. high and is surmounted by a bronze statue of Freedom, which is 19 ft. 6 in. high and weighs 12,985 pounds. The Senate chamber is 118 ft. in length and 80 ft. wide, with galleries accommodating 682 people. The Representative Hall is 139 ft. in length by 93 ft. in width and 36 ft. in height.

I mention these facts and figures to give you some idea of the size of the building and of the cost of its construction.

I have been intensely interested since coming to Washington in the sessions of Congress, because every student of history knows that Congress has been a vital factor in the progress of this nation.

Congress convenes at 12 noon, the Democratic party sitting to the right of the Speaker and the Republican party to the left of the Speaker. The present House has 322 Democrats, 7 Progressives, 102 Republicans, 3 Farmer-Labor, 1 vacancy, total 435. The Senate has 69 Democrats, 25 Republicans, 1 Progressive, 1 Farmer-Labor, total 96.

It is an impressive thought to me each noon as I go to Congress to think that every section of our great nation is represented in that body, and that naturally the House of Representatives represents the thought and feeling of every section of this nation of ours. I have been here but a short time, but being intensely interested, my whole thought is that constitutional government shall proceed in the United States in a progressive and orderly manner.

I shall be very glad to write you from time to time with reference to Congress and its activities should the readers of your paper be interested.
Sincerely yours,
Wm. W. Blackney.
