

Doings of the State Legislature

Sales Tax Elimination of Food Stuffs Due to Fail. Bills to Abolish Property Tax and Continue Moratorium on Mortgage and Land Contract Foreclosures for Two More Years Are Introduced.

The promise that the present legislature will complete its work in 90 days is not likely to be fulfilled. It has now been in session since January 2 without enacting a single bill. All of Governor Fitzgerald's reform measures are still reposing in the committee room.

There is not much danger that the number of senators and representatives will be cut in two. This has caused no enthusiasm among the lawmakers, most of whom wish to continue in their office.

Governor Fitzgerald will probably be unable to carry out that part of his program calling for the elimination of the tax on foodstuffs.

There are three potent factors which seem likely to forestall the passage of such legislation:

The legislators are unable to understand how the financial necessities of the State can be met if this revenue is lost.

They entertain a serious doubt, based on unofficial opinions from numerous attorneys, that such exemptions would be constitutional.

They are fearful of the legislative tangle that might ensue if this bill was reported out which might wreck the entire legislative program. Ten million dollars was received from the tax on foodstuffs last year.

A bill was reported out Thursday to entirely eliminate the state tax on property. In 1933 this was all abolished except the one mill tax for the city of Michigan and Michigan counties. This will encounter opposition as it would mean a loss of $10,000,000.

A bill was also introduced to make a six months auto license stick permanent.

Bills extending the mortgage and land contract moratorium acts two years were adopted by the House Thursday and sent to the Senate.

The present law allows the courts to suspend mortgage and land contract foreclosure proceedings until March 1, 1935. The pending bill would make the final date March 1, 1937.

Circuit judges throughout the state have advocated the proposed extension. A committee of Detroit judges was in Lansing last week to argue for the bill.

IS OUT ON $5,000 BAIL

Justice Glenn Yelland finished his opinion in the case of George Hays, charged with negligent homicide last week but has not yet announced his finding. This was held behind closed doors in the court house, like a grand jury investigation. Hays is now out on $5,000 bail supplied by his father, Mrs. Minnie Weppman, of Grand Rapids, died from injuries received when a car driven by Hays collided with one in which he was riding on Grand River. It is claimed Hays was intoxicated.

CENTENNIAL MEETING

At the next meeting of the Pinckney Board of Commerce to be held Monday, Feb. 4, plans for the Pinckney Centennial and Home Coming to be held July 4, 5, and 6 will be discussed. Therefore, all those interested in making this event a success and willing to help are asked to attend. Committees will have to be appointed and we will expect a good attendance at the meeting next Monday night.

P. W. Curlett, Sec'y.

BOWDISH-ISHAM

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Bowdish of Southbridge announce the marriage of their daughter, Mabelle Arlene, to Claude M. Isham of Chelsea. It took place at Kalamazoo on January 16. They were attended by Harold Bowdish and Miss Pearl Dinsmore of Kalamazoo. The bride is a graduate of Pinckney High School and the Western State Normal of the class of 1928 and the groom of Pinckney High School and also the University of Michigan conservatory of music and the Detroit Institute of Music. They will live at 1133 East Ann St., Ann Arbor.

MAY HAVE OPPOSITION

Although endorsed by the Democratic county convention for re-election to circuit court judge, Joseph H. Collins of the 35th judicial circuit, comprising Livingston and Shiawassee counties, may have opposition in the primaries. All of the members of the Shiawassee bar association signed Judge Collins petitions but two. One of these, a prominent Owosso lawyer, admitted that he was considering running against the judge in the primaries. This was the last date for filing.

FIRE ENGINE CALLED OUT

The fire engine was called to St. Mary's rectory about 8 o'clock this morning by a fire in the roof caused by sparks from the chimney. It was extinguished by using the chemical hose after it had burned a hole in the roof.

Pinckney to Have Local Band

Efforts are Underway to Organize a Thirty Piece Band. Will Practice Wednesday and Sunday Nights.

If plans go through Pinckney will soon have a band of her own. Joseph Guinan of Detroit has held two meetings here and already has 16 enrolled in a band. About 30 are wanted. Mr. Guinan is leader of the Catholic Boys Band of Detroit which numbers 144 pieces and has a reputation all over the state. The following from here have enrolled in the band and part of them already have instruments, the rest will be supplied by this week: Floyd Haines, Jason Haines, Joe Singer, James Singer, Wm. Darrow, Jack Dillon, Wm. Dillon, Jack Dillway, Robert Dillway, Bernard Dillway, Katherine Dillway, Mark McClain, Edward Drost, Phillip Gentile, and Francis Sheehan.

The band will practice Wednesday and Sunday nights. Anyone wishing to join is cordially invited.

It has been many years since the village of Pinckney had a band. Fifty years ago or more the Isham boys had a band here, which gained considerable popularity. Thirty years ago Caspar Sykes organized a band. As far as we know this was the last band to be organized here.

EUCHE RE TOURNAMENT AT DEXTER THURSDAY

Pinckney and Dexter lodges will play their third contest of the euche tournament at Dexter on Thursday eve, January 31. At the present time Dexter leads with 65 points to Pinckney's 60. All those who have no way to go please call the secretary.

WARDEN'S RULE ON EXTRA TIME

When Joseph Armstrong of Detroit, leading advocate of euche, pushed his rule was rejected by the warden. This was the first time a rule was rejected by the warden. This was the first time a rule was rejected by the warden.

In this matter, however, he has been overruled by Governor Fitzgerald's new prison commission. A resolution introduced last Friday at a meeting of the board by Harry Bennett of the Ford Motor Co. and new member of the prison board was adopted without argument. It provided for the continuing acceptance of the good time recommendations by the warden. Bennett branded Armstrong's policy as unfair as the warden would no longer have an inducement to encourage the prisoners to good conduct. Bennett also suggested that the prisoners be segregated according to their offenses and that Iowa prison be used for its original purpose, for first offenders only. There are now 653 boys between the ages of 16 and 20 in Jackson prison.

Harry Bennett is an old time Pinckney boy, being the son of the late John and Gene Hanges Bennett, and was born in the house now occupied by James Martin.

LESLIE CHUBB

Leslie Chubb, 47, died Monday at a farm near Webberville. Surviving are his wife, Florence Fawcett Chubb, and two daughters, Gladys and Lois, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Chubb, a brother, Glen, of Marion, and three sisters, Mrs. Fred Swarthout of Lowell, Mrs. Urban Dugan of Dearborn and Mrs. Carlton Dean of Howell. The funeral will be held at Howell Wednesday.

The deceased was a musician of ability and at one time conducted a band known as the West Marion band.

WELL KNOWN
DEROITERS INJURED

Five prominent Detroiters were injured Monday night when their car skidded on the ice on Grand River, five miles west of Howell and turned over in a ditch. Prosecuting Attorney Dunham McLean, of Wayne County, suffered a broken collar bone and other injuries. Attorney Sid A. Erwin who was driving, had an ankle broken. Fred Harward, candidate for circuit judge received scalp wounds. Clare Wilson and Louis Cohen, two other attorneys, minor injuries, and Ray T. Head was not injured. They were taken to McPherson Hospital, Howell, for first aid.

GOLDEN GLOVE FATALITY

Frank DeYoung, 21, amateur boxer of Jackson, died Tuesday at Foote Hospital from intracranial hemorrhage. He was entered in the Golden Glove contest and suffered a technical knockout in a bout held at the high school gymnasium Monday night at the hands of Eddie DeWese, 19, when his head struck the floor. This is the first fatality in a Golden Glove contest since these bouts were started several years ago.

WILL PAY FINAL DIVIDEND

The Pinckney State Bank will make its seventh and final dividend this week. It will be for a percentage of 25% on deposits since the bank closed on April, 1932. At that time the bank had liabilities totalling over $172,000. The assets were listed at $120,000. Of these $80,000 were in bonds, $32,000 in loans and $20,000 in mortgages.

Gregory Kings
Daughters Meet

Hold Annual Election of Officers and Make Plans for Coming Year.

The January meeting of the Kings Daughters was held at the Town Hall, January 23rd. The second division served a lovely dinner at 1:00 to about 30 members and their guests.

The business meeting was called to order by the President, Mrs. Pearl Marshall, with Mrs. Madge Young leading in the song of the order.

The President then read an ode to the work of the Circle for the old year and the new.

"Another year is dawning, the New Year speaks the Past is gone, we cannot recall it. Its aspirations, its plans, its deeds belong to history. A merciful Providence holds the future from view and only by careful sowing and reaping can we in any sense forecast the harvests of our tomorrow.

A clean heart, a motive pure, a service ardent and we may know today, and may it be said of a TRUE DAUGHTER OF THE KING, "She hath done what she could."

The New Year of 1935 offers 365 spotless pages, may we write well upon them and do our best for the KING.

The ladies arose and repeated the prayer of the order.

Roll call and minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary. The flower committee reported many cards sent and $18.07 expended on flowers and fruit for the sick and for funeral sprays.

The treasurer's report showed $150 taken in during the year by luncheons, socials and dues, with a total membership of 48. The different committee reports of expenditures gave evidence that the money had been used for a good cause.

The sewing committee reported 176 garments completed for the U. of M. Hospital at Ann Arbor, 4 comforters completed for the Government Emergency Relief of the County, besides sewing and presents donated and sent to the hospital and for our own Christmas baskets at Christmas time.

The Junior Circle reported 4 scrap books made by the boys and doll sewing boxes packed by the girls for the hospital at Xmas time. They each have some money in their treasury. The two circles are planning a play to be given soon.

Mrs. Louise Bates and Mrs. Lucile Prescott were the new members admitted to the Circle.

The following officers were elected for the new year: President, Mrs. Young; Vice President, Mrs. Hazel Bromberg; Secretary, Mrs. Bess Marshall; Treasurer, Mrs. Gertrude Crossman; Adv. Agent, Mrs. Lillie Hartley.

During the meeting the ladies sewed on hospital garments.

A dinner was planned for February 12th at the town hall, Prices 25c and 15c. Everybody welcome.

Meeting was closed by the new president, Mrs. Young.

SUPERVISORS WOULD SAVE TOWNSHIP

Resolutions opposing any plan to eliminate the township as a governmental unit, and favoring legislation to give the boards of supervisors the right to abolish the office of coroner and proposing a constitutional amendment increasing terms of office of supervisors and township treasurers from one to two years were adopted by the Michigan State Association of Supervisors at their meeting here Thursday.

The convention ended shortly after noon. Other legislation favored by the association would increase the per diem allowance of tubercular patients to $125 and would make optional the printing of proceedings of boards of supervisors, now mandatory.

Before their 36th annual meeting ended, they also asked additional revenue from the state for county governmental operation other than from the property tax, and went on record as opposing house bills No. 32, which would abolish the present tax commission, and 34, which would do away with township officers.

It was also decided to ask the state for not less than $25,000,000 for the schools.

WORK-RELIEF BILL
WINS 329 TO 78

President Roosevelt's relief bill was passed by the house of representatives last Friday by an overwhelming vote of 329 to 78. All the Democratic representatives from Michigan, and two Republicans, McLeod of Detroit and Mapes of Grand Rapids voted for the bill. It carries an appropriation of four billion dollars. If this passes, it seems likely it will, a goodly share will come to Michigan and many cities and villages are getting projects in shape now to present them. A good share of this will be spent for state separations which are largely needed in this state.

Our representative from this district, William Blackney, was one of the 78 who voted against this bill. Judging by this he does not favor government relief for the unemployed but sticks to the old theory that prosperity is just around the corner, providing you don't starve to death waiting for it.

NOTICE

The Kings Daughters will meet with Mrs. Percy Swarthout Thursday, February 7, 1935 at one o'clock.

Current Comment

The sheriff's of Michigan seem to have all seen the great light and hit the sawdust trail, judging by the letters Gov. Fitzgerald is receiving from them promising him 100 percent in his battle to wipe out the slot machines. With such co-operation civilization would seem to be near at hand for the slot machines have nearly gone into hiding, showing that they expect the agitation against the machines to blow over. Most of the papers, while applauding the action of the governor, are frankly skeptical of any lasting effect. The slot machines, in any form or other, have been with us many years and all action heretofore has been too spasmodic to be effective.

The Townsend Old Age Pension Plan seems to have gained an overwhelming victory in the Senate of Florida, was demanded that it be adopted on the floor of the senate. No more of the one number of signers that this one and Senator Bowers' constitution, that it can not be passed, and instead that its merit and value should be debated on the floor of Congress. It will take it many months for the towns and cities to be slightly in advance of the times, in the park of a great movement for the welfare of the country.

The deadline for our state license plates has now been set for long to March 1. Why not have a date permanent. For a number of years this date has been shifted, built and postponed until it is usually the final date. The people have come to expect it now and finally anyone bothers to get that and then January 1 is an awkward date for taxes, the Christmas shopping, and other things fall due at the time. As far as finances are concerned, it does not seem to make any difference once to the state, so why not make March 1 the permanent date.

A number of people seem to be against the appointment of William Blackney as Governor of Michigan. Governor Fitzgerald, during his term, had a party of a woman's organization, through her efforts, Grant Hudson was defeated by Seymour Person in this district. It was when William Brucker was elected for governor he was elected friendly to the dry, the prohibition organization was in the state and had much to do with his election. His appointment is clearly an attempt to live up the support of the organization.

We noticed a letter in the New York Times the other day in which it states that W. J. Rogers, should be removed from the position of Governor of Michigan. Rogers is a man of no account, a big trial on January 6. We have heard most of Rogers' promises. He cannot recall any such thing. Rogers is a man of no account, a big trial on January 6. In line with the other old age pension projects, the college education of Ann Arbor are not escaping. The bloomers, and long sleeves for those who prefer them, come with the pattern.

Supreme Court
Has Last Word

Washington.—It is seldom that any genuine widespread interest is evidenced in decisions by the Supreme Court of the United States.

Although that distinguished body of nine men holds in its hands power co-equal to that of the President and of Congress, some way it has never been a part of the government to which attention has been directed. Of course, there are more people who are not lawyers than who are familiar with laws and that may be the answer to the fact that the Supreme court can be said to be little known.

But it seems now that the court is to be a center of attraction just as interesting as either the executive or legislative branches. The reason is that the highest legal tribunal in the land has before it for decision some of the most momentous legal controversies to engage the country since the days of the Civil war. Through many months, questions concerning the New Deal, their legality and constitutionality, have been wending their slow, tortuous way through the lower courts, through the courts of appeals to the court of last resort under the structure which we know as our government.

One of these, as I reported to you previously, has already been decided. In that instance, the Supreme court by a vote of eight of the nine judges determined that President Roosevelt had gone beyond the powers accorded him under the Constitution in prohibiting export of oil from the state where it was recovered.

Within a very short time, now the most important case of all affecting the New Deal will be decided. I refer to the so-called gold cases. Five questions are before the court and if it decides adversely to the government's claim on any of them, the monetary policy upon which the New Deal has been operating becomes virtually null and void. The court heard lengthy arguments by high powered lawyers on the part of the government and on the part of private citizens who claim that their rights have been abridged by the Roosevelt money policies and they naturally are seeking redress.

No one dares to make a prediction concerning pending action by the Supreme court. It can be only a guess at any time in advance of a rule by that group of men because with one or two exceptions since the nation was founded, its decisions have never looked out ahead of the time they are formally handed down from the bench. Lawyers throughout the land are watching and waiting for the court's findings. But the most dizzy of all lawyers are those in the government who recognize that an adverse decision by the court will flatten out the New Deal and force a wholesale revision of policies. I am told that this group of lawyers is none too certain of its ground. True, they made what is recognized as a strong argument in support of the government's position but the difficulty seems to be from their standpoint that the Constitution was written before the brain trust came into action and the Constitution itself provides the only ways by which it may be changed. Brain trust ideas, however good they may be, necessarily are worthless and useless if they contravene the basic provisions of the Constitution to which the nation adheres.

Important Question

Among the questions before the Supreme court in the gold cases, that one brought forward by a suit to compel the government to pay gold in redemption of its own bonds is by far the most important. Indeed, that case can be said to have an overwhelming importance. If the court rules that the government cannot void its contract—for a bond is generally recognized as a contract—to pay back the borrowed money under the term named in that bond, then the seizure of gold by the government in 1933 likewise is voided. In other words, every person holding a government bond containing a promise to pay in gold is entitled to have that gold from the treasury. It takes no stretch of the imagination to see what effect that will have on the whole money program.

Likewise, if the court determines that an individual who has promised to pay in gold must observe the terms of that agreement, the administration is again in a hole. Since contracts, agreements or bonds containing the promise to pay in gold are in general use and have been written since time immemorial the amount of such payments is virtually incalculable. I have heard many estimates of the total amount of money involved by the so-called gold clause but I hesitate to use any of them because it is patent on the face of things that an accurate figure is impossible.

One can get down to brass tacks on the effect of affirmation of the gold clause, however, by the simple application of the ratio of gold to the present dollar. When those gold contracts were written a dollar in currency was redeemable for a dollar in gold. At that time gold was valued at around $21 an ounce. The Roosevelt administration arbitrarily increased that value to a few cents over $35 an ounce. Without going into all of the details it means that to gain the same amount of gold now which a dollar would have brought prior to the Roosevelt administration action one will have to pay $1.69. To state it another way, if the gold contracts involve $1,000,000,000, those who are obligated to pay in gold will have to pay $1,690,000,000 at the present rate. Obviously, debtors under that circumstance will find themselves between the upper and nether millstones, well squashed, if the court rules adversely to the government's policy.

Attorney General Cummings in his plea to the Supreme court made the argument that an adverse decision would mean chaos to the country. I believe there can be no doubt about that. But the point is deeper. Roosevelt administration policies were hammered through Congress and received the legislative body's rubber stamp by direction of the President.

What's to Be Done?

What is going to be done about it? I don't know. Further I don't believe the administration knows what it is going to do in event the court rules against the government in these cases. There have been numerous conferences, frequent speculations by subordinate officials and many guesses by individuals. The President himself said in a press conference the other day that he would not discuss the gold question while the matter was pending before the Supreme court. It was a simple way to avoid expressing his hopes or his fears.

It is to be noted, however, that during the ten days in which the court heard arguments in the gold cases, a considerable number of senators and representatives sat glued in their seats in the gloomy old Supreme court chamber under the dome of the Capitol. They were obviously wondering. None of them thus far has offered publicly a suggestion as to what he will do in event the monetary policies are overturned. After all, if the Roosevelt program is upset, Congress simply will have to enact some new laws and that was the chief reason why so many of the congressional leaders were seen in attendance at court.

The court will rush its decision. Of that there can be no doubt. Always, it has put cases of paramount importance to the nation ahead of those that affect only a small number of private litigants. Everyone believes, therefore, that in this instance the Supreme court has laid aside most of its other work in order to devote its attention to a thorough-going examination of the present problems.

Lawyers tell me that if the court rejects the Roosevelt policies as untenable under the Constitution, Congress will have to put through some new laws on the subject at break-neck speed in order to avoid a hiatus that would flood the courts with an unprecedented number of suits.

To Restrict
Cotton Output

The agricultural adjustment administration has fixed the cotton crop for the coming season at 10,500,000 bales—

the same as last year. At the same time, we have begun to hear talk in Washington of a plan to seek a world agreement restricting the output of cotton after the manner of the attempt to restrict the world production of wheat, a move that went exactly nowhere.

Determination of the same production for cotton in 1935 that was used as the base in 1934 is accepted as in line with the administration's plans for raising prices artificially through curtailment of production. It had been expected that the 1935 crop might be as high as 12,000,000 bales. But since the administration has decided to carry on further its experiment into artificial price raising fields by production limitation, some of the background of that policy and the American relationship to world conditions warrant examination.

The American production until a few years ago was about 60 per cent of the world's cotton output. Now it is down to about 43 per cent of the total. Last year, the world consumption of cotton, according to the Department of Commerce figures, declined by about 700,000 bales whereas the world consumption, excluding that used in the United States, increased by something over 1,300,000 bales. It is to be noted further that although American exports in general increased last year, the quantity of cotton shipped last year fell off by approximately 28 per cent.

For several years now, we have been hearing more and more of efforts by foreign nations to increase their cotton production. Brazil has been making a determined drive to develop cotton as a major product. Mexican cotton production has increased in a substantial way. Egyptian cotton production is on the increase. The British guidance has served to spur production of cotton in India and at the moment there is no sign of any slackening of the increase there. All of this is happening while our own southern cotton fields are being limited in their capacity to produce that staple commodity.

Velvet Hostess Gown Is Favorite

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

EVERY hostess owes it to herself and to her home to look her most charming when entertaining, and the way to do it is to wear velvet. This call for gowns not too formal and not too informal, which shall "add to the picture" of one's home environment, flings a challenge to designers to create dramatic effects which shall be in a class all their own. The result is that some very marvelous things are being accomplished in most picturesque fashion. For these lovely garments which gracious ladies wear in their homes, velvet has unmistakably proved a favorite medium.

Typical of the newest trends in hostess gowns are the three lovely fashions pictured. The center model, which is so sweetly simple yet so utterly sophisticated when it comes to meeting the demands of a fastidious mode, is fashioned of white transparent velvet with flowing sleeves of chiffon-lined red onlure velvet, the same dyed by hand. The gothic in the side of the skirt is treated in the same way.

The cunning with which shirring is manipulated at the back of the bodice of the striking hostess gown, to the left in the group, is enough to cause one to order her dressmaker to go and do likewise when designing the next formal dress. If the lady in the picture would turn around a high cowl front would be seen, in contrast to the low-cut decollete at the back. A double silver cord girdles the waistline with heavy silver tassels finishing at the front.

A daring color scheme glorifies the sumptuous hostess gown to the right.

In the picture, Red velvet and gold cord is the formula for this beautiful creation. The neckline is gathered on a gold cord which is repeated at the front of the gold braid girdle.

It is good style to use contrasting velvets for the hostess gown. We have in mind such fetching combinations as dark green velvet with a bright tangerine velvet girdle, also tangerine facings for the long winglike sleeves. Black with aquamarine blue, also black fuchsia with cerise, are likable color alliances.

One of fashion's latest whims is the tailored velvet hostess gown which has a shirred top. A very effective model answering this description is made shirred waist fashion of French blue velvet, the skirt, of course, being floor length with a tendency to trail slightly. There are touches of coral at throat and at waistline.

Then there is the hostess gown with the peasant-waist top. So called since its neckline gathers up on a drawstring. The full bishop sleeves are embroidered in brilliant peasant colors.

A new feature is the velvet gown with quilted cordings, or more ornate motifs which are fantastically quilted both on the sleeves and at the neckline, also here and there about the hemline. Speaking of hemlines the new slashed effects are as popular for hostess gowns as for evening dresses.

SILVER AND WHITE

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

The hue and cry for white with silver is heard throughout all fashionland. This lovely evening dress is made of white and silver lame. A new way to wear orchids, as you plainly can see is to tuck them through your belt and wear them to the side.

Dress Accessories Follow
Up Closely-Ensemble Idea

The ensemble is now being followed more closely than ever in the line of dress accessories. Colpel, of Paris shows ensembles composed of a handbag and the little sports jacket to match in the same supple brown kid leather that are both fastened with heavy buttons in imitation tortoise shell. Many of these buttons are in square shapes.

At the same house is a handbag and gloves to match in supple leather in two shades of deep and lighter brown. Both the frame of the handbag and the glove cuffs were fastened by a clip in brown plastic material combined with dull gold metal. A model quite similar had the clips replaced by the wearer's initials.

DRESSMAKERS MAKE
OUTFITS FOR BEACH

All the dressmakers are concentrating on beach outfits and ski ensembles. They have done about all they can in the regular town and country ensembles for morning, afternoon and evening. The smart set, incidentally, either is frolicking in the snow, or splashing in the Mediterranean, or getting ready to do so.

Madame Georgette Renal has made a popular beach ensemble of white linen, printed all over with sailor caps in blue and red. The red caps have blue pompons and the blue ones red ones. The blouse buttons in front in the form of a wide panel with two large pearl buttons on each side. The shorts are plain white linen and there is a jaunty looking jacket to keep the sunburn off the back and arms. Bright red wooden sandals with wide bands of blue canvas complete the outfit.

Shoe Fashion World Comes Out With Some New Ideas

New shoes take us in pleasant paths. Extreme, toeless slippers are out of favor for the nonce, and the pump returns, more high cut than of yore. A new shoe is in navy blue suede with a very high throat. It is trimmed with navy blue kid draped up the sides of the midfront. The heels are of blue kid. The same shoe is made in deep wine red and dark green. Colored shoes for town in the winter is a new and nice departure. For southern wear there is a beige antelope slipper, high and smooth in front, with a button fastening over the big cut-out at the side. It is piped in black patent leather, which, in turn, is piped with narrow silver.

For Evening

Some of the very newest evening gowns are to be seen in those well-known neutral shades of beige and gray. Both are observed in their most delicate tone and in such materials as satin, chiffon and moire.

Veiled Sequins

If sequins annoy with too much luster their glory can be dimmed with a chiffon veiling. Lelong applies this trick to an afternoon dress of dark blue crepe.

"BOHEMIANS" TO HER

A New York woman who numbers both the great and near-great among her acquaintances gave a function one day which was attended by Mrs. William Astor, then the dowager of the Astor family. A few days later Mrs. Astor met her hostess and remarked casually:

"I am having a Bohemian party, also."

"And whom have you invited to give it the bohemian atmosphere?" she was asked, to which she replied with emphasis:

"J. P. Morgan and Edith Wharton."—Boston Globe.

HOMEMAKER'S CORNER

by
Home Economics Specialist
Michigan State College

The housewife can save time and money by learning to recognize the various types of apples offered on the market, and selecting the type most suitable to the particular purpose for which she intends it. Advice home economics food experts of Michigan State College.

Good cooking apples are often too firm or too acid to be enjoyed as a dessert fruit, for example.

Next to variety, maturity, color and size are important things to consider in making a purchase. Apples should be fully mature with a fairly firm flesh and a bright skin. Over-ripe ones will be soft, dull in color and often shriveled.

Size is not as important as has been generally assumed. Extra large apples are more expensive. Small fruit sometimes lacks flavor and quality, therefore the average size is preferable. Local apples are of medium size, highly colored for the variety, free from blemishes and at just the right stage of maturity.

Of the many varieties of apples, the most popular are the Red Delicious, Golden Delicious, and the McIntosh. The Red Delicious is a late variety and is not yet in season.

There are scores of ways of using apples in the home. They can be baked, cooked, used in jellies, marmalades, butters, and preserves. No other fruit serves as many purposes as the apple, and it has been aptly termed the king of fruits for it is unequalled in the quantities which please the eye and delight the palate.

A tasty dish for the morning meal is breakfast apples. Core and pare as many medium sized apples as are needed. Place them in a baking dish, cover with seasoned sausage into the cavities and make a small mound of meat on top of each apple. Bake in a moderate oven about 40 minutes.

Glazed apple rings provide an excellent garnish for a roast or ham. Rare and remove the core from whole apples. Cut in rings about one-fourth inch thick. Sprinkle with a bit of lemon juice and grated rind. Make a thin batter from 1/2 cup flour, 1/4 teaspoon salt, one egg, 1/2 cup milk, and one tablespoon melted shortening. Dip the rings into the batter and fry in deep hot fat until a golden brown. Drain on paper. Sift powdered sugar over them. Place under the broiler flames long enough to melt the sugar to give a glaze.

Apple sauce cake is one of the most inexpensive desserts which can be served. Cream 1/2 cup fat and one cup sugar together. Add one unbeaten egg. Place one tablespoon hot water on a teaspoon cloves and one teaspoon cinnamon. Mix one cup seeded raisins, halved, with 1/2 cup cake flour. Sift one teaspoon soda, 1 1/2 cups cake flour, and 1/2 teaspoon salt together. Alternately add the flour mixture and one cup unsweetened, thick smooth sauce to the fat-sugar mixture. Finally, add the raisins. Bake in moderate oven for about 40 minutes.

PRESIDENT RUTHVEN SEES REAL VALUES OF SCOUTING

President Alexander G. Ruthven, of the University of Michigan in a statement to Dr. Theron S. Langford, President of the Washtenaw-Livingston County Boy Scouts, commented on the many values of the Scouting movement.

"An interesting survey of the Scouting movement in this country has all come to see that the movement is of real value to the boys themselves, their families, and the community. In the years of boyhood, habits are formed and decisions are made which determine the entire course of the individual's life. He may or may not acquire wholesome likes or dislikes and his attitude toward his friends and society in general may or may not be such as to develop later into genuine and useful friendships on the one hand, and constructive citizenship on the other. I believe that boys who are fortunate enough to join the Scouting movement enjoy a very real and great advantage with reference to their moral, social, and physical development."

6,425,511 IN SCOUTING SINCE ORGANIZED IN 1910

"In its 25 years of service to America, Scouting has enrolled 6,425,511 boys in its program of adventure and training," Walter MacPherson, Scout Executive of the Washtenaw-Livingston Council and today in connection with the plans for the Silver Anniversary celebration that will take place throughout 1935.

During 1934, a total of 1,250,000 different persons were identified with Scouting in its various branches. Of these 122,000 were in Cub Scouts, the program for 9, 10 and 11 year old boys, which lays the foundation for the program for the younger boys in the Scouts at the age of 12.

At the end of 1934 there were 148,500 Scouts (young men from 17 years of age and up) in America.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATIONS

The United States Civil Service Commission has announced open competitive examinations as follows:

Engineering draftsman (highway), $1,000 a year, Bureau of Public Roads.

Junior medical officer (general), $1,000 a year, Elizabeth's Hospital, Washington, D. C.

Associate superintendent of elementary education, $2,200 a year, Indian Field Service.

The closing date for receipt of applications for these examinations is February 19, 1935.

The salaries named are subject to deduction of not to exceed 5 percent during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1935, as a measure of economy and also to a deduction of 3 percent toward a retirement annuity.

All States except Vermont, Virginia, Maryland, and the District of Columbia have received less than their quota of appointments in the various departmental services. In Washington, D. C. the position of medical officer is filled by the State appointment law.

Full information may be obtained from the Secretary of the United States Civil Service Board of Examinations at the post office or telephone office in any city which has a post office or from the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C.

On January 29, 1935, the Michigan State Highway Department announced that it had received a license for the operation of a motor vehicle for the year 1935.

The act was framed in this particular to give the state complete control over drivers who take to the road during periods when their licenses are revoked. The fact was that the consequences of such a situation can be equally serious when arising from willful evasion.

Conviction under act entitles the operator of a motor vehicle to the payment of a fine of $100.00 or imprisonment for 30 days, or both, and the forfeiture of the license to operate a motor vehicle for 30 days.

Some interesting statistics are contained in the Secretary of State's annual abstracts of sheriff's reports, compiled this week, for the year ending June 30, 1934. Total jail commitments for the year then ending were 51,369 people; average duration in jail was slightly over 11 days; 1,740 were convicted of crime and sent to state prisons. Total cost of jail maintenance was $1,514,192.53, of which $633,062.54 was for the sheriff's salaries, fees, board and keep of prisoners was $14,100 per person.

Extension of time for purchase of 1935 motor vehicle licenses, until midnight, Feb. 28, 1935, has been ordered by the Secretary of State in consideration of pending legislation which, if approved, would establish the two payment plan for plate purchases annually.

Production at the Sorenson Independent Gear factory at Dexter will be increased to 6,000 gears per day. Additional machinery to make this possible is now being installed.

Hamburg

The scheduled meeting of the Pinckney Union of Hamburg, was held at the Pinckney Hall Monday evening, January 21, with about forty in attendance. The meeting was in charge of the president, Charles L. Bennett. Walter N. Nelson, of Detroit, was the speaker of the evening, who gave a fine talk. Short talks were made by others.

● It isn't a pleasant fact . . . but figures PROVE the scarcely credible story of crippled eyes in the United States. At school age, twenty children out of every hundred have defective vision. At college age, the number has increased to 40 out of every hundred. And at the age of 60 years, 95 PEOPLE OUT OF 100 have defective eyesight. This is tragic proof of the terrific strain put upon eyes by the needs of our present day civilization, and oftentimes—of the

MANY BANKS LONG LIVED

In the United States—
150 Banks over 100 years old.
2,722 Banks over 50 years old.
1,251 Banks over 25 years old.

There are in the United States 168 banks that have been in continuous existence for more than one hundred years. There are 2,472 banks over fifty years old, while 84% of all the banks in this country, or 10,331, are twenty-five years old or older.

In other words, practically two-thirds of the banks in this country have come through several successive periods of depression and panic, including 1867, 1914, 1929 and 1933-34.

The Oldest Bank

The oldest bank in the country, which is in Boston, was chartered February 17, 1784.

In the 64% of banks that are twenty-five years old or older is lodged a major portion of the banking resources of the nation. In commenting recently upon the stability of a great majority of the banks in the United States, Dr. Harold Steiner, Educational Director of the American Bankers Association, said:

"The fact that we have so many banks that have been in existence a long period of years is an eloquent tribute to the genius of American managerial ability, for no other country has experienced such wild gambling eras and resultant periods of business stagnation as those through which our country has passed at frequent intervals during the past century."

SYNOPSIS

Theodore Gatlin adopts a baby, "Penelope," in an effort to solve his matrimonial troubles. But his wife has never wanted her, and their affairs end in the divorce court. Ten-year-old Penelope is given into the keeping of Mrs. Gatlin. At a baseball game a ball strikes Penelope on the nose. Mrs. Gatlin spirits the child to Europe. Gatlin wills Penelope all his money, and is about to begin a search for her when a motor accident ends his life. Some ten years later, in San Francisco, Stephen Burt, rising young psychiatrist, is presented by Dan McNamara, chief of police, with a new patient—Nance Belden, a girl with a dual personality, for which her "saddle nose" is in part responsible. McNamara does not think she is a criminal and obtains Burt's testimony in court. Lanny, the doctor's office nurse, is also won over. Nance's criminal record outweighs Doctor Burt's explanation of her case and she is sent to San Quentin penitentiary. Lanny visits her and Nance persuades her to smuggle out a letter which a confederate of Nance steals. Nance escapes, although shot, and goes to Lanny's apartment. Lanny tells Chief McNamara, who orders her to bring Nance to his apartment. Details of Nance's escape are made public.

CHAPTER V—Continued

"Nance had no right to be there," the man protested to McNamara. "The poor kid's queer." He tapped his forehead. "But she framed a sweet getaway, if it would work, and we figured it might. So we thought we'd give the girl a hand. She's all right. I've got a blind brother that would have starved to death if it hadn't been for Nance Belden; as for the man the doctor's working over now, Nance took care of his wife while he was in the str. Helped her when she had a baby. Chief, that girl's a saint. The only trouble with her is that she's a devil, too. You never know how to figure her."

"You've figured her right. She's queer. And what's your wounded friend been doing since he got out of str? What did he get in for?"

"He got in for bootlegging and he's been bodyguard for a boss bootlegger since he got out."

"H-m-m-m! And what's your specialty?"

"I don't know what line I'll take up, Chief. I've only been out of the United States army disciplinary barracks on Alcatraz island a month. I was a soldier—and I poked an officer."

"Oh, you're the machine-gunner, eh? Learned to shoot in the army, I suppose?"

"If I hadn't, I'd have killed that guard. I could have gotten him if I cared to, but instead I scared him with overs and shorts. Did I sweep the roof of that lookout tower?"

"You certainly did—and rattled the man at the Browning gun there. Well, you're quite a fellow! What does your friend, the chauffeur, do?"

"Delivers bootleg. He took a chance for a friend."

"You may go," said Dan McNamara to the chauffeur. "Take your car and beat it. But I'll remember you and if you pull any rough stuff in this city I'll land you out in the grass. On your way."

The man fled promptly, and Dan turned to the ex-soldier. "I've got Nance out at my house," he explained. "Doctor Burt has fixed her up and I'm not going to turn her in. Neither am I going to turn her out, because she wouldn't be out two hours before she'd be picked up. That saddle nose of hers is a dead-give-away."

The man nodded lugubriously.

"We've got to find a quiet spot for your friend, too," the chief went on meditatively. "A man with three bullet holes in him is in an embarrassing fix—when he's wanted. So we'll take him out to my house, too. That's the only safe place I can think of."

"How about me?"

"You've been a soldier, so I suppose you can carry out orders?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well, your orders are to come out to my house, too, and take care of your friends. The doctor will call every day and tell you what to do. And you'll have to do the cooking."

"I can do that, too. Not fancy, but they can eat it."

"All right, you've got a job and a holding-up place as well. I'll go home now and get my car and come back for you and your friend. Meanwhile don't you get cold feet and disappear. I want to talk to you some more. I want to find out all about Nance Belden, and you and your friend might be able to give a line on her."

"I don't know anything about her, Chief, except that her real name is Penelope Gatlin."

Dan McNamara clasped his corrugated brow in both hands and pondered. "Gatlin! Gatlin! Penelope Gatlin! Now, where have I run across that name in my business? I don't usually forget names, and I seem to remember I had a call once for somebody by that name or else somebody by that name called on me. It was a long time ago. I'll have to look that up—I wonder if there's anything in the files at headquarters."

It was midnight before Nance Belden's two friends were installed with her in Dan McNamara's house. Lanny looked both men over carefully and confided to the chief that she wouldn't trust either one of them as far as she could throw a bear by its tail, to which Mr. McNamara replied that one of them couldn't raise any devil if he wanted to, while the other dared not. Moreover, this latter was the only practical nurse he could secure. A trained nurse might talk; on the other hand, this friend of Nance's had been educated to keep his mouth shut. "And a very great virtue," McNamara added. "His freedom is in my keeping and my honor is in his, so we have to trust each other. Besides, it's high time you got home."

"How about those two cops waiting for me?"

"Greet them kindly, ask them their business and invite them to talk it over before they can tell you what it is. When they tell you permit them to search your home, and be cheerful about it."

The phone rang and Dan answered it. When he rejoined Lanny he was smiling broadly. "You're a bum mopper-up," he accused. "That was Flynn, one of the detective sergeants on watch at your house. He found two drops of blood you overlooked, so he thinks you and Nance are in the house but refuse to answer the bell, and he wants permission to break in, in the name of the law. He says he can slide the latch on your front door lock nobody's business. I told him to wait another hour and then try it, but to be careful."

Lanny's independent and belligerent nature was instantly aroused. "If I couldn't give a snooper like that cards and spades, the four aces, big and little casino, and beat him to death on the sweeps, I'd kiss a cow," she declared. "Guess I'll go home and make those big boobs feel ashamed of themselves for disturbing a lady."

"Whatever you do, be nice to them," he warned earnestly. "If you get snooty with them, Lanny, they'll just wait you down to central station and stow you away for the night—with the excuse that the chief wants to see you. And I've decided I don't know you. If I did I'd go home with you."

He escorted Lanny out to her car

Then Lanny Almost Screamed. Instantly She Switched Off the Light, Got Her Little Pistol Out of Her Bag and Switched the Light on Again.

and with a flashlight examined it very carefully again for signs of blood. He found two dried spotsches and wiped them away before permitting her to depart.

As Lanny entered the driveway and paused in front of her garage, there were no detectives in sight, although there might have been had she deemed it the part of wisdom to glance carefully about her. She unlocked the garage door, climbed back in her car, drove in, stopped the motor and switched off the lights. Then she got out, closed and locked the garage door and turned on an electric light switch on the doorpost to light her way upstairs to her kitchen.

Then she almost screamed. Two big fellows wearing soft hats were standing behind her car, gazing at her owlishly. Instantly Lanny switched off the light, got her little pistol out of her bag and switched the light on again.

"Now what do you two handsome devils want?" she demanded.

Like automatons the pair threw back their lapels and disclosed their shields. "Cops or no cops," Lanny announced. "My garage is my castle, and you can't come into it uninvited without a search warrant."

The two detectives looked at each other and Lanny realized that they appreciated her very much indeed. "She's a lawyer," said one of them. "Not a very good one, though," the other replied. "However, Pat, let her have her own way. A woman—the outrageous fellow bowed low—and particularly a young and beautiful woman—with a pistol—always makes me nervous. If you will be good enough to open your garage door, Miss Lanning, we will go out, come up your front stairs, ring the bell like gentlemen, and ask if we can't come in and have a little chat with you. Is that satisfactory?"

"Eminently so," Lanny was as polite as the speaker now. She felt for the bolt in back of her, slid it back and kicked the door open without taking her eyes or her pistol off the pair. They went out, closed both doors behind her and held them closed until she had shot the bolt home again. Then she went upstairs and let herself in just as her doorbell rang; so she switched on the lights, removed her hat and coat, went to the door and opened it. Instantly two large hands thrust two cards at her; whereupon she was aware that she was about to entertain Detective Sergeant P. Flynn and Detective Sergeant A. Angellotti.

"Good evening, gentlemen," Lanny hailed them cordially. "Come in and rest your big flat feet."

P. Flynn nodded wisely to A. Angellotti. "She resents us, Amadeo," said he.

"Oh, I hope not, Pat. Let us hope it is not us she resents but our honorable profession." The wretch bowed again. "Thank you, Miss Lanning." And both gentlemen entered.

Lanny led them down the hall to her tiny drawing room. Angellotti, like a hound, followed close behind her, but Flynn was in no hurry. He swept the runner in the hall with a flashlight first, then followed his partner into the drawing room, and sat down heavily on a divan.

"Is this to be a long interview?" Lanny asked cheerfully.

P. Flynn shook his head. "A minute or two."

"Then I'll not bother giving you anything to drink."

"Well, it might take ten minutes, at that," Flynn countered.

"At least that," Angellotti agreed.

"Besides, Pat, she works for a doctor

Habitual Users of Coca Dead to All Ambitions

Every one who has suddenly forgotten pain in anesthesia has been grateful ever after for this benign achievement of surgical science. With splendid skill the evil effects that often accompanied the older anesthetics and early methods of administering them have been lessened or overcome. We usually think of the chemical conquest of suffering ourselves of the terrors of surgery as late as the Civil war. We count ourselves lucky to live in a time and society that knows harmless ways of dulling pain.

Yet no further away than Peru a kindly and effective anesthetic was in common use for centuries before civilization discovered its power—and remains in too common use, perhaps, to permit much progress to be made by those who turn to it daily from lives of unbearable hardship and hopelessness. In his book of adventure in Peru and Bolivia Dr. Henry Hurd Rusby, dean of the Columbia College of Pharmacy, has interesting and characteristically unorthodox things to say about coca, anodyne of the Andes. Admitting that chewing the fresher leaves produces a drug habit, he doubts that their effect is actually poisonous to the accustomed constitution, or harmful as continued use of their extracted essence is harmful. How can it be, when lifelong addicts and descendants of generations of addicts perform prodigious feats of strength and endurance which would appall coca-less men?

This must be granted. Steadily chewing coca leaves, Ayмара and Quechua will stand all day long chest deep in icy mountain waters, digging up mud that covers a railroad. They will climb with heavy loads into the desolate and breathless puna brava, unwearied. Chewing coca, they can sneer at poverty, hunger, thirst, exhaustion, pests of the selva, lack of sleep, of clothing, of shelter from bitter cold. Babies given coca never cry, and grow up to labor. This is wonderful to behold, and the conclusion is—that the coca bush and the penny foster excellent poems and coolies; that the southern Indians will continue to endure their burdens and their wretched lot as long as handfuls of coca leaves are a stipulated part of wages.

This is the one disadvantage that science has not been able to remove from coca anesthesia, so employed. It makes life a dream instead of a fight. As long as humans scale the sun heights of South America with sacks of coca leaves from the sunny valleys conditions there can be borne just as they are. For this illusory leaf, so betrayingly kind, takes the place of ambition.—New York Herald Tribune.

RUG WELL NAMED "BED OF ROSES"

By GRANDMOTHER CLARK

The original rug shown measures 44 inches and requires four pounds of rags to complete. It is braided with three strands, but can be crocheted. A crocheted rug has better wearing properties. Many colors are used in the following combinations: Center circle in white, yellow, red, and black. Three of the outer circles in various rust shades. The other three circles in two shades of blue, and yellow. Outer edge is rose, yellow, black.

This rug shows that beautiful rugs can be made of rags. The regulation or common rag rug is either round or oval, with various color combinations, and when finished has no particular beauty. In making the above "Bed of Roses" rug, make seven small round rugs about twelve inches in diameter, and set together as shown here, then work rows all around to size wanted. It's a different rug and only another idea of what can be made of rags.

The best material for making rag rugs is "Linkraft." When using this new material no cutting or matching of sizes is necessary. Linkraft is a round knitted material like Jersey. It comes in links about five inches long, but stretches to about nine inches when linking together. These links are to be linked together in solid colors or mixed as desired. Linkraft is very durable, does not fray like rag strips and Linkraft rugs weigh about 20% less than rag rugs.

If you are interested in making rag rugs, send for Grandmother Clark's Book No. 25 on Crocheted and Braided Rugs. Twenty-six rugs are illustrated, with instructions. A wonderful selection to pick from when having a good-looking rug in mind.

Send 15c to Rug Department for Book No. 25.

CONSTIPATION Can be Helped!

(Use what Doctors do)

Why do the bowels usually move regularly and thoroughly, long after a physician has given you treatment for constipation?

Because the doctor gives a liquid laxative that can always be taken in the right amount. You can gradually reduce the dose. Reduced dosage is the secret of real and safe relief from constipation.

Ask your doctor about this. Ask your druggist how popular liquid laxatives have become. The right liquid laxative gives the right kind of help, and the right amount of help. When the dose is repeated, instead of more each time, you take less. Until the bowels are moving regularly and thoroughly without any help at all.

The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara, and these are natural laxatives that form no habit—even in children. Your druggist has it; ask for—

Training for Bankers

The American Bankers Association has been active for many years training young men and women in order that they may be duly qualified for the business of banking. Standard courses are furnished with able and experienced teachers. This work is done under the direction of the American Institute of Banking Section of the association. Over two hundred chapters, or local banking schools, are in active operation throughout the country and thousands of the younger generation of bankers are being graduated each year. These students are taught not only banking practices and policies, but they are also well grounded in the highest ideals and standards of business ethics. A proposal is now under consideration to establish a central school, which will offer advanced or graduate work to a selective list taken from those who have completed the standard course.—F. M. Law, President American Bankers Association.

ADS. WILL TELL BANKERS' STORY

American Bankers Association President Announces Move to Stimulate Newspaper Advertising

NEW YORK.—Plans for stimulating wider use of informative newspaper advertising by banks in promoting public understanding and confidence in regard to existing banking conditions and methods have been announced by R. S. Hecht, President of the American Bankers Association, as a part of his organization's activities in aid of business recovery.

A general groundwork was laid through a nationwide survey of advertising by banks relative to their willingness to extend assistance to industry and trade. This, he said, revealed that a large number in all parts of the country are pursuing a conservative policy along this line and are encouraging their customers to develop sound-looking business plans. "It is our aim to aid in fostering this conservative attitude wherever possible," he said.

The Theme of New Advertising

The association's Advertising Department, under the direct supervision of the general executive committee, is prepared, at the headquarters in New York City, an informative advertising series, or the use of radio or television in their own communities to bring general public understanding to banking, or Hecht said.

"The underlying theme of this advertising is that sound banking is essential to helpful human relations and that it is a unity of interest with the people of its community which binds them together with a common purpose," he said.

"We are confident that better understanding of this is bound to come to the people in all our banking communities, it will go far to restore the public confidence which has been shaken since the crash of 1929," he said.

PREDICTED COLD WAVE SENDS SLOT MACHINES INTO HIDING

The cold wave predicted by the weather bureau Monday had an undreamed-of effect upon the city and country slot machine business. Like many other businesses, the slot machine industry was hit hard. One unnamed victim reported a State Trooper when he arrived in Howell Tuesday morning.

Monday night, when all slot machines in Howell and vicinity suddenly disappeared. Nobody seemed willing to play the machines. The reason, it was said, was that the machines were not working. The machines were not working because the weather was so cold that the machines were frozen. The machines were not working because the weather was so cold that the machines were frozen. The machines were not working because the weather was so cold that the machines were frozen.

GUARDED OR HOBBY?

It is a question that has been asked by Gov. George A. Romney, against slot machines, whether they are a guarded industry or a hobby. The governor has asked the question because he has heard that some people are using slot machines as a hobby. NEW WEALTH FROM SOIL
New wealth which comes from the soil is of special interest to those to whom falls the responsibility of maintaining our credit structure.

Unless agriculture is successful farm borrowers cannot ultimately succeed, neither can the banks they serve. Foreclosure sales are not a sound basis for good farming or good banking. Bankers, therefore, are much interested in the permanent success of the agricultural industry as are the farmers, whether the deposits come directly from farm patrons, or indirectly through the ordinary channels of business.—D. H. Otis, Director of Agriculture, American Bankers Association.
