

Pinckney Community Centennial Committees Hall Opening To Meet Monday

Remodeled Auditorium To Be Opened to the Public by a Band Concert and Dance Friday Evening. Joe Guinan's Military Band and DeLux Orchestra to be the Attraction.

After months of being closed, due to extensive repairs, the Community Hall will be opened in fitting style on Friday evening, March 1st.

One of the best known musical organizations in the country will not only give a fine band concert with a full military band but combined with this will be a dance orchestra that will come directly from Detroit to furnish the music for dancing which will immediately follow the band concert.

Pinckney, in obtaining this wonderfully trained group of young musicians, will be furnishing a program to its people comparable only to those put on in the largest theatres.

This military band, the Catholic Boys' and Girls' Band of Detroit under the direction of Mr. Joseph Guinan, who, with his wife, Mrs. Guinan, started a band here in Pinckney, Michigan, at the White House in Washington and gave concerts for four days at the Century of Progress, played at the Toronto Exposition.

They have become a civic institution in Detroit taking part in all patriotic and religious program of prominence.

In hearing this excellently trained group of boys and girls, parents with boys and girls in the band here at Pinckney can realize the opportunity offered the boys and girls of this community in the way of the splendid cultural development possible through the finest of all the arts, music.

It is only a matter of a few months with experienced and nationally known teachers like Mr. and Mrs. Guinan before our own band will make its debut. Pinckney is looking forward to March 1st. It will surprise you. Hear this famous band of boys and girls. You will marvel at their ability. Dance to the rhythm of a real metropolitan orchestra. A night of real entertainment and enjoyment is in store for you.

The proceeds of this entertainment and opening will assist our own band in Pinckney, which is now well organized and many of our own boys and girls will soon have the means of assisting themselves while bringing hours of real enjoyment to others.

Get behind this Concert March 1st. Help Pinckney. Help the boys and girls of your community.

SOPHIE HOFHANESEAN

Sophie HofhaneSean, 14, died at the University of Michigan Hospital, Ann Arbor, Wednesday, of bullet wounds in the head received in the shooting affair here on the morning of February 16.

The body was brought to Pinckney and the funeral was held from St. Mary's Church Saturday morning. Rev. Lewis Dion officiating. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Sophie was a pupil in the 10th grade, Pinckney high school. Many beautiful floral offerings were received.

A large number of her classmates attended the funeral and six of them, Charles Clinton, Marcin LeGwidem, Telesphore Bourbonnais, Robert Richardson, William Meyers Jr. and Jack Reason acted as bearers.

Sophie was a very good scholar and was well liked by her schoolmates. It is a pity that she was cut down in early life.

DEMOCRAT CAUCUS

There will be a Democrat caucus held at the Putnam township hall on Monday, March 9, at 2:00 P. M. for the purpose of nominating township officers and the transaction of such other business as may come before it.

NOTICE

The regular meeting of the King's Daughters will be held at the home of Mrs. Wayne AtLee Thursday afternoon, March 7th. Luncheon at one o'clock.

BOARD OF COMMERCE MEETING

The next meeting of the Pinckney Board of Commerce will be held on Monday evening, March 4. On this occasion further plans will be discussed for the Centennial Celebration. All committee members are asked to be present if possible.

Secretary.

Publicity, Finance, Sports, Dance and Parade Committees and Chairmen Are Asked to Meet at Board of Commerce Hall on Mon. March 4

The Publicity, Finance, Parade, Sports and Dance Committees and their chairmen are asked to meet at the Board of Commerce hall on Monday evening, March 4. On this occasion plans for the three day's observance on July 4, 5, 6 will be discussed and the general program outlined.

Just what day the parade will be held has not been decided. There will be a base ball game each day and, in all probability, a dance each night. On one of the nights there will be a play at the Community Hall. Besides these there will be two speaking programs, Ferris wheel and midway. It is also suggested that there be water events. Prizes will be given for all contests. A Miss Pinckney contest will also be put on by the merchants.

The general committee has been receiving much commendation for undertaking this home coming, especially from those who have received an invitation will be mailed to all of these. If you have anyone you wish to receive an invitation, you should hand their name to the secretary.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY CONVENTION

The Republican county convention was held at the court house in Howell on Thursday afternoon, Putnam township was represented by Floyd Weeks, W. C. Miller, Ross Read W. H. Meyer and Bert Daller.

County Chairman John Strick of Brighton acted as chairman pro tem and called the meeting to order. Hiram Smith was elected permanent chairman of the convention. Harry VanDorder acted as secretary.

No resolutions were adopted except one calling for the re-election of Mrs. Harold Crandall to the state central committee as a representative from the sixth district. No candidates were endorsed for the state convention.

H. E. Johnson, Pontiac attorney, was introduced and in an excellent speech asked that the convention endorse Edgar Downs, superintendent of Ferris schools, for the nomination of public instruction. Mr. Downs was formerly associated with Highland Park schools and was twice elected mayor while there. Mr. Johnson's resolution failed to be adopted. M. E. Osborn, a retired teacher, now living in Oceola, then took the floor and asked that R. M. Keyforth, superintendent of Hamtramck schools be endorsed for the nomination for superintendent of public instruction. This also failed so the Livingston county delegation will go unimpaired.

Twenty-two delegates will be sent to the state convention at Detroit March 1. Rep. Chas. Adams will be chairman and there will be one from each county and two each from Howell, Brighton and Fowlerville. They are as follows: Putnam, Floyd Weeks; Unadilla, Fred Rose; Hamburg, L. E. Quail; Iosco, Lynn Gardner; Marion, Wirt Smith; Tyrone, N. Chestnut; Green Oak, Wm. Duncan; Brighton Twp., A. Shaw; Brighton City, Albert Boylan, John Strick; Fowlerville, J. B. Munsell, C. C. Fen-ton; Howell Twp., Don Barrett, Howell City, Hiram Smith, Fred Cronen-wett, Charles Adams; Conway, Cecil Bohm; Oceola, M. E. Osborn; Ivelin, Hibner, Hartland; James Morgan, Brighton; Leslie Latson, Genoa.

LAST CALL FOR TAXES

Thursday, March 2, is the last day on which I shall collect Putnam township taxes. During that week I will also be at the Lavey Oil Station on Wednesday, February 27th, to take in taxes. All taxes must be paid to the county treasurer after March 2.

Gorman Kelly, Twp. Treas.

REPUBLICAN CAUCUS

The Republicans of Putnam township will hold a caucus at the Putnam township hall on Saturday, March 9, at 3:00 P. M., for the purpose of nominating township officers and to transact such other business as may come before it.

CARD PARTY AND DANCE

There will be a card party and dance at St. Joseph's Hall in Dexter on Monday evening, March 4. Everyone invited.

Frechette Hearing Set For Thursday

Trunk Murder Suspect Arraigned at Howell Saturday. Jay P. Sweeney Is Appointed His Attorney

Clarence Frechette, charged with the murder of Robert Brown at Howell on January 29, was arraigned before Justice Glenn Yelland at Howell Saturday morning.

Frechette, it will be remembered, fled to California with Brown's body and was brought back after a two-day trip by Sheriff Fawcett, Deputy

John Barrett and Prosecutor Stanley Bertram. They arrived here in Howell last Thursday. A photograph and a woman writer for the Detroit Times were present and a number of snapshots were taken of the scene which took place in the court room.

Frechette pled not guilty and Justice Yelland appointed Ex-Prosecutor Jay P. Sweeney to defend him. The hearing was set for Thursday, February 28.

The scene of the crime has not yet been definitely established. Frechette has repudiated his story that a shooting took place on the highway road, 9 miles north of Howell. Now he claims it happened on Grand River, 2 miles east of Howell near the Red farm at 10:00 P. M. If the two men fought in the road at that point no one has reported seeing them. As the bullets went through his head and no bullet holes were found in car, it is not thought that he could have been killed in the car.

A large crowd attended the hearing and for this reason it was held in the court room.

EMIL R. BROWN

Emil R. Brown, son of the late Christian and Harriet Brown, died at his home in Los Angeles, California, on Feb. 23 after a year's illness. He was 64 years old. He was united in marriage to Myrta Finch of Pinckney and she survives him with one daughter, Mrs. Shirley Anderson of Los Angeles and a granddaughter.

The deceased lived here until 1910 and was prominently identified with village activities here. He learned the blacksmith trade under his father and conducted the shop following the latter's death. He interested himself in public affairs and served several terms as mayor of Pinckney. On the occasion of the first home coming here he made the address of welcome and presented the key of the village to Edward Kearney. He was made a member of Livingston Lodge, No. 1, on January 20, 1896 and served as secretary of that organization for many years.

In middle life he decided to look for easier work than blacksmithing and took a correspondence course. Later he passed a civil service examination and obtained a position as clerk in the Detroit post office. In 1914 he moved to Detroit. Later he transferred his Masonic membership to Friendship Lodge, Detroit.

About ten years ago he moved to California to reside and has since made his home there. In 1933 he visited Michigan and spent some time with friends here. We understand that the funeral and burial will be in California.

The recent gold standard decision of the United States Supreme Court has been interpreted various ways and argued pro and con. The main point is that it is not necessary to make the American dollar worth $1.00 in gold any more and that no legal action to force the government to do this is possible. Ex-Gov. Chas. G. Byrne in a letter published in the Detroit Free Press gives a few angles on it. He says that the supreme court cannot ask the impossible. That there is not enough gold in existence to redeem all the money in use or pay all the obligations and as the gold obligation is impossible it is without force in law.

NOTICE

On the night of Wednesday, February 27, the National Commander of the American Legion will deliver a coast-to-coast broadcast over the Columbia Broadcasting System in which he will discuss vitally important matters concerning the legislative situation with regard to immediate payment of the Adjusted Service Certificates. The time of the broadcast will be from 11:45 to 12:00 midnight, eastern standard time. I urge every veteran to listen in and learn the true situation regarding the so-called bonus.

ABOUT 50 PERCENT COLLECTED

The township treasurers are beginning to settle with the county treasurer starting this week. According to reports coming in about 50 percent of the taxes are being collected.

Current Comment

In the state capitol at Lansing Gov. Fitzgerald seems to be having similar troubles to those experienced by Gov. Comstock. In the senate a block has been formed among the Republican senators, disgruntled, it is said, over patronage, to oppose him. By combining with the Democrats they have already scored two victories over the governor. Through their efforts the amendment to make the supreme and circuit court judges appointed by the governor for life was defeated. By getting two more senators appointed to the committee that handles all appointments, they have blocked patronage matters. A leading member of this anti-Fitzgerald block is Senator Harry Hittle of Livingston and Ingham counties. The press report has the following to say about it:

Credit for the defeat of the administration bill to make all judges in the State subject to appointment by the Governor, rather than elective by the people, certainly goes to Senator Harry F. Hittle, of Lansing.

Senator Hittle, who normally has little to say, proved that he was very effective when he did speak. In an address to the Senate lasting less than fifteen seconds in which he declared that "the people in his district were better qualified to select their judges than was some Governor who had never seen the man he was about to appoint to office, and the people are qualified to select their own judge if they so desire", he undoubtedly killed this bill.

Echoes of the famous "Monkey" trial in Tennessee were heard last week in that state when the house of representatives there refused to repeal the law against teaching evolution by a vote of 67 to 20. While this is what might have been expected from the Tennessee Mountaineers who have gone through life with the book of Genesis on one knee and a pill on the other, on the other hand, although the Genesis theory of creation cannot be proved, neither can Darwin's theory that the human race descended from apes.

A bill is before the legislature to submit an amendment to the people at the spring election providing for county government reorganization. This is similar to the amendment which was defeated last fall. The vote in the rural counties will probably be sufficient to again show it under. Under it most of the rural districts would lose their representation by being combined with more populous districts.

According to press reports the Hauptmann jury is contemplating going on a vaudeville tour. This is an angle in an opportunity with a vengeance. Their death verdict seems to have been more or less indefinite. An appeal has been taken and it will probably be a year at least before he can possibly go to the chair.

The main point is that it is not necessary to make the American dollar worth $1.00 in gold any more and that no legal action to force the government to do this is possible. Ex-Gov. Chas. G. STATISTICS SHOW USE OF TOBACCO ON THE INCREASE

Are we a tobacco-smoking nation? Let's look at the record. Using the late war as a favorite starting point for all comparisons nowadays, we find that in 1916 we smoked 8,000,000,000 cigars and 25,000,000,000 cigarettes. In 1930 we smoked 6,000,000,000 cigars and 20,000,000,000 cigarettes. In 14 years we had lost some of our liking for cigars, but had acquired nearly five times our previous taste for cigarettes.

Examining the record more closely, we find that the war itself, blamed for many things, was plainly responsible for doubling our consumption of cigarettes in three years—from 25,000,000,000 in 1916 to 50,000,000,000 in 1919. From 1922 to 1930 the consumption of cigarettes in the United States again more than doubled—55,000,000,000 annually grew to be 120,000,000,000. The woman smoker had come into her own.

Three subsequent years of depression have been felt by cigarette makers, production falling to 103,000,000,000 in 1932. The use of cigars dropped to about 5,000,000,000.

We have considerably less than 100,000,000 persons in the United States of smoking age; but if we take that number for convenience we find a per capita consumption last year of 50 cigars and 1,000 cigarettes. We also used up three pounds of chewing or pipe tobacco per capita.

Are we a tobacco-consuming nation? Fifty cigars, 1,000 cigarettes, and three pounds of tobacco for each and every one of us, is the answer. For every person we does not smoke, someone else consumes twice the average quantity.—Howard Florence in Reviews of Review, and World's Work.

Swamp Reclaimed

A few years ago a region in Italy known as Littoria was an uninhabited swamp. The government has since reclaimed it by draining the marshes and today it is all being farmed by 60,000 families living on it in modern farm homes. Littoria was received into the Italian empire recently as its ninety-third province.

SYNOPSIS

Theodore Gatlin adopts a baby, "Penelope," in an effort to solve his matrimonial troubles. But his wife has never wanted her, and their affairs end in the divorce court. At a baseball game a ball strikes ten-year-old Penelope on the nose. Mrs. Gatlin spirits the child to Europe. Gatlin wills Penelope all his money, and is about to begin a search for her when a motor accident ends his life. Some ten years later, in San Francisco, Stephen Burt, rising young psychiatrist, is presented by Dan McNamara, chief of police, with a new patient—Nance Belden, a girl with a dual personality, for which her "saddle nose" is in part responsible. McNamara does not think she is a criminal and obtains Burt's testimony in court. Lanny, the doctor's office nurse, is also won over. Nance's criminal record outweighs Doctor Burt's explanation of her case, and she is sent to San Quentin penitentiary. Nance escapes, although shot, and goes to Lanny's apartment, from which, by McNamara's orders, she is removed to the chief's home. From one of the men in the boat on which the girl escaped McNamara learns that Nance's real name is Penelope Gatlin. He also discovers that she is heiress to $750,000. Fearful of McNamara in his official capacity, Nance flees. Lanny finds her in her apartment, sound asleep, curled up on the guest-room bed.

"Did your men scout the street in front of this house before pulling up in front of it?" asked McNamara sharply.

"Certainly. We circled the block twice."

"Feed our Nance, Lanny," McNamara urged happily. "She's a smart girl. How's the shoulder, dearie?"

"Fine. It'll be O. K. in another week."

"So am I," Mr. McNamara grinned. "Flynn's home eating his dinner now, and Angelotti must be on guard in that alley. I'm going to mistake Angelotti for a suspicious character, lurking there in the dark—and put a mark on him so I can recognize him later. He just can't stand to mix it with me, and get recognized, of course, so when he runs I'll fire in the air. He'll know who I am but he'll never suspect I know who he is."

McNamara bade Nance, Lanny and Stephen goodnight and hurried away in a taxi. A block from his home he alighted and walked down the side of the street opposite his own house. He was whistling softly as he came abreast of Angelotti's hiding place, where he turned at right angles, apparently by the intention of crossing in the middle of the street to his own house. A step from the curb he halted, turned, bent his head in a listening attitude, then stepped resolutely into the alley.

"Who's there?" he demanded. Receiving no answer, he got out a small flashlight; he seemed to have some difficulty flashing it on, for he cursed softly, and suddenly a beam from the flashlight illuminated his own face for an instant, but long enough, he decided, to permit the watchful Angelotti to recognize him. The alley was empty, but in a little garden strip a large syringa bush grew, and instinct warned the chief that his prey was behind it. So he walked past it, his flashlight held close to the bush, and as he had anticipated, it was snatched from him.

As he turned, one of his stout legs was jerked from under him by a man crouching low; so, before permitting himself to topple backward, McNamara dropped his good right arm to the level of his knee and swung a short, stabbing punch. He felt a cheekbone and the side of a nose; so he punched again, a little higher up, and then fell over backward. Instantly his assailant rose and fled like a doe.

"Halt! I'm an officer," McNamara shouted, and fired into the air. But the running man did not even hesitate. In the morning he sent for Angelotti for a report on a certain case, and was charmed to note a faintly lemonish spot on the Italian's left cheek and a very noticeable iridescence under the left eye. The chief grinned. "What does the other fellow look like, Angie?" he queried innocently. "He couldn't have been more'n a flyweight or he'd have done more damage! How come you let some runt one-two you like that?"

"It was a dame I picked up for drunkenness," Angelotti lied with the glibness of long practice.

Following some discussion of the report, McNamara dismissed him, and sat down to decide what to do with Nance Belden. That Flynn and Angelotti were keeping his house under surveillance he knew now; undoubtedly they would enter his house at the earliest favorable opportunity.

The chief wondered what he would do if he stood in the shoes of his two detectives. "I'd wait for a night when I wouldn't be disturbed for a couple of hours," he decided. "What night would that be? Why, Thursday night, when the board of police commissioners meet and I am in attendance there. Stephen will make his usual early evening call—and as soon as he leaves the house those two will slip into it. The cellar door, of course, I'll make it easy for them. I'll leave the door unlocked."

He concluded, that until then, Nance would be safe at Lanny's house. In the meantime, however, he must arrange to get her out of the city at an early date. The detectives were both absolutely satisfied Lanny had once given Nance sanctuary for a brief period; trust them, therefore, to keep an eye on Lanny's house.

He had in his office a telephone line that did not connect with the private exchange system in the central station, so he called Lanny on his phone at Doctor Burt's office now.

"Dan speaking, Lanny. Tomorrow morning you had better buy our pet nuisance a lot of clothes, so she'll be all ready to get out of town when I send for her. I think I'll have to fly her out and down to Tia Juana, Lower California."

"What will she do there?"

"I don't know. We'll think about that when she gets there. At least my two dicks won't be there and Tia Juana is one place where that saddle nose of hers won't surprise anybody. And when she acts rough and tough in Tia Juana nobody will pay any attention to her. They have experts down there in that line."

"I'll think that Tia Juana stunt over," Lanny decided. "It has possibilities. Is there a good hospital there?"

"I don't think so. Why?"

"You nubbskull, Dan McNamara! We have to find a quiet hospital where we can have her poor nose operated on."

"Well, if we can get her beeper restored and change that black bob of hers to a movie-tone gold, she could take Flynn and Angelotti out to dinner and they'd never suspect her."

"Stevie says her nose must be operated on first. Her present state of dissociated, personality probably started in an inferiority complex, and the inferiority complex probably arose out of the knowledge that her nose made her unlovely. When it's safe to bring her back to this city, Stevie will take her soul out and look at it, dust it off, put it back and do a Little Jack Horner."

"Can he do that?" McNamara's heavy voice was freighted with awe.

"He can, provided he can find a starting point for his investigation into her past life. There is always a reason for a dissociated personality. The ground for the mental shock that causes it is usually prepared long before the psychosis occurs. Rebellious thoughts, unhappiness, brooding—all these eventually have a serious effect upon sensitive and highly intelligent people and particularly, women of the hysterical type."

"All women are hysterical," McNamara said with conviction.

"You're a dear booby, Dan. Eight women out of ten can throw a fit of hysterics as easily as you'd break an egg, particularly if there is a man to be impressed. They never simulate hysteria to impress a woman, however, because they know better. However, there are women who have hysterics that are real, but it has been the experience of this office that most of these are just a trifle balmy—neurotics."

"Well, you get our girl a trousseau and warn her to keep away from the window and not to answer the doorbell, or do any telephoning, or leave the house until she has my permission. I don't expect she'll obey, so tonight when you go home have some hysterics to impress her."

"Dan, dear, I couldn't. I'm hard as a picnic egg. Did you stage your little comedy after leaving us last night?"

"I did—and it worked out exactly."

"Good gracious. Well, I'm busy. Good-by."

Nance Belden's personalities were a source of keen professional interest to Lanny, who regretted that for the present Doctor Burt was unable to share her observations with her. She had, as yet, had no opportunity for ascertaining anything regarding the girl's past history, but she had a suspicion that Nance had had advantages superior to most girls.

Her hands were the very first thing (with the exception of her poor wrecked nose) that Lanny had noticed. They were soft, shapely, small and well kept, decidedly not the hands of a factory girl. While her vocabulary was a trifle "balmy," running at times to the idiom of the ill bred and ignorant, her voice was soft, with well bred intonations. Her clothing, on the occasion of her visit to Stephen Burt's office, had been, in Lanny's judgment, in splendid taste; rich but not flashy, up to the mode but not beyond it. Then, too, Nance had a slow, leisurely walk, she knew how to enter a room, she was sure of herself at all times without display assurance. In Lanny, the girl, in his abandoned moments, appeared to be amateurish, a bit of a showoff, unreal.

Thus far she had observed the girl only in this showoff phase of her personality. She was amazed, therefore, on coming home from the office after her conversation with McNamara, to find her a complete changeling. As she entered the house she caught the odor of cooking, and going into the kitchen, she discovered Nance, with one of Lanny's kitchen aprons on her, preparing dinner.

"Good evening, Lanny dear," she saluted her hostess. "It occurred to me it must be a very great trial to you, coming home night after night from the office, tired, and having to prepare dinner for yourself. I'm sure you're too tired most of the time to prepare more than a very sketchy meal, and that isn't good for you." She smiled. "So I thought I'd have a nice dinner for you."

"Now, I can't eat that real sweet, Nance."

"My name isn't Nance, Lanny. It's Penelope."

"Penelope what?"

"Penelope Gatlin. Silly old Lanny, how could you forget?"

"You've placed your finger on my dread secret, Penelope. When I'm tired my memory fails me."

Lanny knew that during the day a psychological door had opened and Nance Belden, otherwise personality B, the abnormal, had walked through it and emerged Penelope Gatlin, or personality A, the normal. Also, she knew now that Penelope Gatlin probably had more or less amnesia for her former personality as Nance Belden. Lanny had heard Doctor Burt discuss such rare cases and she glowed with pride in the knowledge that at least she had secured a perfect specimen.

"I decided we wouldn't have broiled a menace to organized society. I had lamb chops, Lanny," the girl went on brightly, "so I've made a ragout." "You mean, in good old Americanese, when he ran away from home, to follow you've concocted an Irish stew," low the career of a gambler? I always "You're so amusing, Lanny. A stew, following news of his career," related of course. The difference between a ragout and a ragout is entirely geographic. A ragout in France, an Irish premonition of fate that was going to overtake his later career, and he didn't run away from it."

"Have you lived in France?"

"Eight years, Lanny. Went to school in Switzerland and learned French there."

"Are you people French?"

"I think I was there alone." The girl appeared puzzled. "I don't remember my mother, but I had a father. He was such a dear, but he's dead."

"Were you happy there?"

"No, I was perfectly miserable."

"Why?"

"Because my father wasn't with me. We'd been such pals."

"But you must have lived with somebody."

"There was Laurette, the cook, and Babette, the maid."

"Did you graduate?"

"No, I left school when father died. He was killed in a motor accident en route to Europe. I've always had a feeling he was coming over to see his to a private house in New York city. He loved me very much, to watch the gambling. One night Lanny. He was adorable. He used to be called me for dinner. A Mr. B. told me that it was all that made his life bearable. Somebody—I forgot us—the promise that neither of us would who—told me he wasn't my real father. "This gang," he said, "has ther, that I was a foundling he adopt a code and a language all its own, and I wouldn't believe that at first, you fellows can't play with it."

"What sort of woman was his wife—or did he have one?"

"I haven't the slightest idea, but I remember the will stated very positively that he had settled with her, that she had accepted the settlement in full satisfaction of her dower rights, and 500. He wanted to get away from the money."

"He made my income from the trust place. Just sufficient to support me decently until I should come of age. He said in his will that he did this not because of any lack of affection for me, wait for him, but he refused, Rothstein told him to await him at Dinty Moore's."

"In the meantime, Rothstein was losing. In the end he lost $300,000 to three men. Usually these men in gang, they pay their gambling debts at once, in cash. This time, Rothstein could not pay in cash. However, he promised to pay soon."

"In fifteen minutes, after B's departure, Rothstein called me from the scene which had fascinated me like a bizarre foreign spectacle. He rushed me to Dinty Moore's."

"There, in a panic, in the cold premonition of fear was B. He collapsed before us."

"Perfectly."

"Ever have funny thoughts about it?" to me, he whispered. "When I came The girl stared at her shrewdly, down the steps, three fellows stuck "How strange that you should ask that their guns in me and ordered, "Hand question, Lanny. I do have funny over the $1,500." I never was so thoughts. Sometimes I'm horrified at frightened."

"You'll learn not to gamble with times I think there's something wrong guys like those." Rothstein admon with me, because people often refer lashed. Then, seeing that B. was trem to me as Nance Belden and to things bling, he said, "Give back the money, I've done and which I know very well to the fellows in the corner whom he I haven't done. And yet it seems to me, sometimes as if I had—just a scare, wrath of memory, like an old dream."

But still I'm strong and healthy."

"But a little given to spells of nervousness?"

"I'm bloody." The girl seemed interested in herself to an unusual degree. "Some days I like to do things that are perfectly intolerable to me on other days. Some days I'm so democratic I could go to dinner with a garbage man—other times I can't bear to be with anybody but nice people."

She sighed and turned to me. "I wish I knew what I wanted in life and I wish I knew somebody that wanted have been giving me a ride. I can't through life, but it's terrible to be lonely, Lanny."

She faced Lanny again. "Now, when I decided to cast myself on your hospitality, Lanny, it seemed to me the most natural thing in the world to do, said, 'It's those very boys calling me. But today I'm covered with confusion. They want me to come over to the I've deliberately imposed myself upon hotel."

"Listen here, Penny, my dear. You aren't the only lonely woman in this world. Believe it or not, the first I know what it means, I must go, spring buttercup isn't a bit more well."

"That night Rothstein was fatally come in old lady Lanning's house than shot. He had several chances to tell you are."

"The lost one beamed upon her. "I believe that Lanny. Oh, Lanny, when macabre than thus coming face to face I'm happy I'm so happy and when I'm with a consummated premonition of wretched I'm so wretched."

"You think too much about that nose of yours, my poor child."

The girl's hand flew to that organ (automatically, Lanny thought) as if she would hide it. "Isn't it terrible?" insurance and of scientific annuities she quavered. "I'm so ugly nobody can ever love me."

Housewife's Idea Box

To Remove Scorch Marks From Linen

It is almost impossible to remove scorch stains from linen or woollen materials. However, the following method often works on linen: Rub the spot with a freshly cut onion. Later soak the material in a solution of cold water and a little peroxide. Then wash the garment in the usual way.

Speedy Army Tanks

The United States army now has a new tank, weighing eight tons which, in demonstrations, has reached a speed of more than 60 miles an hour. It is built "caterpillar" style for difficult travel as well as ordinary wheels for use on more level ground. These new war machines are 12½ feet long, 6½ feet high and 7 feet wide. It takes four men to operate one of them. The tank was first used as an instrument of war in the World war and had a speed of 6 to 7 miles an hour.

HOMEMAKER'S CORNER

Home Economics Specialists
Michigan State College

"Children's clothing can be made cheaper at home" is an economic half-truth, according to home economics clothing specialists at Michigan State College. It is quite possible to save some money, if the mother has skill in sewing and is willing to buy a good quality fabric, but the saving is not always equal to the effort.

The biggest advantage is homemade children's garments is that "self-help" and "let-out" features may be included. These features are not as common in the ready-made garments. The extra handwork touches, such as fagotting and embroidering, to be found on little girl's dress, are less expensive when made at home.

Recent studies made by students in children's clothing at Michigan State College on comparative costs of home-made and ready-made garments have shown that the piece goods departments do not carry any fabric as cheap and poor in quality as that found in the cheapest price range of ready-made dresses and suits.

The project for each student in the class was to make a little girl's dress and a little boy's suit. The finished garments were then compared with ready-made garments of similar quality, design, and workmanship.

Ready-to-wear suits for the preschool boy priced under one dollar were made of heavily sized material which was not pre-shrunk. The fabric design in many cases was not pleasing and the garments provided no "self-help" features or "let-out" features for growth. The suits selling at $1.95 were of excellent material, guaranteed color fast, pre-shrunk, of ample cut and good workmanship, and several resins included "self-help" features. The boy's suits made in the class compared favorably in fabric, design, and workmanship with the $1.95 suits, and cost, on an average, $1.26, a saving of 69 cents. The comparative saving on other priced suits was 16 and 22 cents.

The little girl's dresses which were made in the class were of color fast fabric of good quality, designed with both "self-help" and "let-out" features, and each had some kind of decorative trim, such as fagotting or smocking. Their average cost was $1.23 and compared favorably with ready-to-wear dresses at $2.98. This saving is undoubtedly worthwhile if the mother has time in which to make them, and the ability to sew well and easily.

The value of the time taken from other household tasks and the amount of effort required to make the garment should be taken into consideration when the homemaker plans to make the children's wardrobe at home. Instead of saving by this means, she may discover that homemade garments are actually costing her more than ready-made ones.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATIONS

The United States Civil Service Commission has announced open competitive examinations as follows:
Assistant statistical clerk, $1,620 a year, departmental service, Washington, D. C.

Chief dietitian, $2,300 to $2,900 a year, head dietitian, $2,000 to $2,500 a year, staff dietitian, $1,800 to $2,160 a year, Public Health Service and Veterans' Administration.

All States except Utah, Iowa, Vermont, Virginia, Maryland, and the District of Columbia have received less than their quota of appointments in the apportioned departmental service in Washington, D. C. The dietitian positions are not affected by the State apportionment law.

Full information may be obtained from the Secretary of the United States Civil Service Board of Examiners at the post office or customhouse in any city which has a post office of the first or the second class, or from the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C.

EDUCATION PROGRAMS FROM DETROIT RADIO STATIONS

Radio broadcasts over five Detroit stations are designed to present to the general public five distinct types of radio programs dealing with various aspects of public education.

Plans are complete for four of the five types of broadcast. A "Newscast" is heard over WJR from 6 P. M. to 8:15 P. M. on Mondays. A "Travelogue" is presented on WWJ Wednesdays, starting at 2:45 P. M. Dramatic programs from WJBK are on the air from 7:30 to 7:45 P. M. every Thursday. A series of radio interviews, discussions and speeches on educational matters are given over WMBC every Friday evening from 8:30 to 8:45. The Wayne University School of the Air is presented over WXYZ and the Michigan Network every Tuesday. Child welfare problems are discussed over the same chain on Tuesday mornings at 10:30.

Eyesight Specialist!

AN eyesight specialist can lengthen the life of eyes young and old. He also knows that correct lighting is essential to perfect vision. Unless you use exactly the right amount of light for each seeing task—unless you have enough light for comfortable, EASY SEEING—eyestrain will result and your eyes will be injured. We suggest these four simple rules to guide you in obtaining good lighting for your home: (1) Use correct size lamp bulbs—"WATTS". (In table and floor lamps, use 40 watts in each socket for 3-socket lamps; 60 watts in 2-socket lamps; 100 watts in 1-socket lamps.) (2) Use SHADES on all lamp bulbs to prevent GLARE. (3) Use shades with light-colored linings to get the most light. Wide shades, open at the top, are best. (4) Have at least one-tenth as much light in the rest of the room as you have on your book, newspaper, sewing, etc.

TRAFFIC ORDER NAMED

To promote safer driving conditions on the trunk line highway system, which totals approximately 9,000 miles or road, an acting traffic engineer in the State Highway Department was named today by Commissioner Murray D. VanWagoner.
 R. E. Hefron, formerly assistant maintenance engineer, was made acting traffic engineer, responsible to the maintenance engineer, and Lloyd B. Reid, formerly assessment district engineer, is taking over the duties of assistant maintenance engineer. The Department will no longer have an assessment district engineer, since the work in this office has been gradually diminishing.
 "With the increasing speed and volume of present day traffic and the resulting growth of accidents and fatalities on the highways," said Commissioner VanWagoner, "I feel it is of utmost importance for the State Highway Department to take further precautions to safe-guard motorists.
 "The duties of the acting traffic engineer will be to deal with the problems of safety, traffic signs and signals and other similar measures. As assistant maintenance engineer, Mr. Hefron devoted a considerable part of his time to traffic matters."

PLAN FOR INSPECTION OF FIRE HAZARDS PROMOTED

The National Board of Fire Underwriters has prepared a short inspection form to be used in checking fire hazards in school buildings. General use of the plan, with such modifications of detail as may be needed to meet local conditions is recommended by the Department of Public Instruction. Copies of the appraisal blank are being mailed with the current issue of the "News Letter."
 The National Board of Fire Underwriters suggests that best results are obtained when the monthly inspection is made jointly by a member of the local fire department and a representative of the school staff. Each inspection should be followed by a report to the superintendent of schools by the chief of the fire department, with such recommendations as the fire department considers necessary to minimize the fire hazards.
 The National Board of Fire Underwriters, 85 John Street, New York City, will furnish, without cost, a sufficient supply of the school inspection blanks for the current school year. The application should indicate the number of school buildings involved.

SCOUT EXECUTIVE PRAISES LIVINGSTON SCOUT WORK

Full Schedule of Activities Being Planned for Spring Months
 "I am delighted with the high standards of Scout work being carried on in the troops of Livingston County," Walter MacPeck, new Scout Executive of the Washtenaw-Livingston Boy Scout Council, said yesterday. "Everywhere I go I find an enthusiasm on the part of Scouts and Scouters to do more and better work. Your Courts of Honor sessions have been well attended. The presence of many of your troop leaders at recent Training Courses for Scout Leaders has been most encouraging."
 Mr. Ralph Weeks of Brighton is Chairman of the County committee, and Dr. H. M. Noble of Howell is Scout Commissioner for the District. Committee chairmen of this Northern District, which includes all of Livingston County are: Court of Honor, Supt. John S. Page of Howell; Finance, John MacDonald of Howell; Camping, Winfield Line of Howell; Troop Organization, Paul Kingsley of Brighton; Civic Service, Rev. W. H. Simmons of Brighton; Educational, Wm. Cansfield of Howell; Health and Safety, D. J. Noecker of Hamburg; Older Boy Activities, Edwin Gatesman of Howell; Reading Program, Troy Clawson of Hartland; and Dr. H. M. Noble of Howell. Each of these committee chairmen plans to develop a county wide committee with one or more representatives from each community on that committee.
 A meeting of the Scout Leaders of the county will be held at the Howell High School on Monday evening, March 18th.

HAS CAPTURED TEN MOOSE

According to a bulletin issued by the Michigan Conservation Department, Paul Hickie, who is spending the winter on Isle Royale in Lake Superior studying the moose herds, has captured ten moose in his corral. They have quieted down and Hickie is optimistic of being able to carry them through the winter. They are being fed balsam, birch, poplar cedar, red osier, dogwood and mountain ash tops as hay, also grain. However, they eat only a small amount of hay and no grain to speak of. They report many moose in the vicinity of their camp up to date have found only two dead ones.

SCHOOLS SHOW INCREASE IN PROPERTY LEVY FOR 1934

A recent report of the State Tax

Commission shows that the total amount of property tax levied for school districts for the current year is approximately the same as that of 1933-34.
 The new levy is approximately $30,000,000 less than the amount assessed in 1930-31. A slight rise in the average tax rate for 1934-35 is offset by a decrease in valuations. The report further shows that many school districts include within their allocation under the 15-mill limitation levies for debt service which might have been levied in excess of the limitation.
 The school property tax levy for the current year is $50,821,299.49 as compared with the total sum of $49,443, 035.11 in 1933-34. Operation levies increased from $84,909, 402.81 to $37,958,648.60.
 While the debt service, levied above the 15-mill limitation, decreased from $14,553,632.30 in 1933 to $22,822, 580.80 for the current year, the decrease is partially accounted for by the inclusion of debt service levies in many instances within the 15-mills allotted to the state, county, township and school districts. This inclusion of some debt service within the 15-mills makes possible a lowering of the total tax spread by the school district. The normal expenditures for debt service on outstanding obligations which total $160,000,000 require approximately $16,000,000 a year for principal and interest, while only 12,822,580.80 is so recorded.
 Average Tax Rate in the State Shows Slight Increase
 Although the total levy for all purposes on general property is reduced from $159,459,980.75 in 1933 to $158, 030,434.85 in 1934, the decrease in valuation, is from $5,821, 072,889 in 1933 to $5,495,259,340. While the average tax rate for the state which is used to determine the tax levy upon public utilities paying taxes into the Primary School Interest Fund is increased from $27.39 to $27.79 this rise will not materially affect the amount of the Primary School Interest Fund to be distributed in 1934-35, provided the utility valuations are not changed.

JUST RIGHT FOR WEAR IN KITCHEN

This "kitchen ensemble" would make a delightful present for some member of your family—that is, if you don't decide to keep it yourself, after it is finished. The apron, made especially to fit the frock, is cut amply full for protection, and boasts a convenient patch pocket and slenderizing half-beited waistline. The frock has a disarmingly demure ruffle to emphasize its nice square neckline, and cunning puffed sleeves to set off pretty arms. Vertical tucks at the waistline keep it trim, yet provide comfortable fullness in bodice and skirt. Both the apron and the frock are included in one pattern. Pattern 9846 may be ordered only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 16 requires 4 1/2 yards 36-inch fabric and 3/4 yard contrasting.

SEND FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE.

Complete, diagrammed sew chart included. Send your order to Sewing Circle Pattern Department, 232 West Eighth Street, New York.

THE SWEET FLAVORED GUM

Prints Gay With Color Now Arrive

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

surprising variety of colorful materials that are just as practical as they are good looking.

PLAYING the game of fashion, the next move is to acquire a bright simple daytime wearable frock which has the freshness of the new season in its looks, to wear under your fur coat during lingering snows and departing wintry chill. Later this gay little gown will companion admirably with a chic light wool topcoat in role of a smart springtime ensemble.

If it is your custom to buy ready-made a casual saunter through leading dress departments will be your budget's undoing, for the new between-season's dresses are not to be resisted. A most exciting feature about the early spring arrivals in the shops is the abundance of frilly ornate neckwear which lends a delightfully feminine air to the new modes.

The woman who likes the fun of making her own simple daytime frocks will find inspiration-plus in the spring fabric displays which in their gay colorings have turned winter into spring within store walls. Walking through the aisles and aisles of fascinating, joyous-looking prints and the rows and rows of voguish linens that flaunt their vivid peasant colorings before enchanted eyes, and the novelty cottons which were never more novel, no matter how conservative you may have been up to this season in matter of colors and patternings you will throw discretion to the winds and indulge to your heart's content in the giddiest, prettiest, most flattering materials you have known for this many a day.

As to the new prints the arrival of the first robin in your garden is no surer sign of spring than is their appearance on the style horizon. You will be delighted, if bewildered, by the

The three frocks shown here illustrate but a fraction of the perfectly beautiful washable prints that are in good taste now for wear under a coat and for later on when no coat is necessary. These attractive dresses are made up in rayon chilla crepe, in the brightest of colorfast colors.

For campus or office wear or for resort wear with light accessories, the tailored frock to the left, of print in a spaced conventional dot design with its ascot type scarf and cuffs of self-fabric, is both smart and practical. There are no fussy details or tricky places that your iron cannot reach in a hurry, and you probably know that you can wash and iron these chilla crepe frocks with no more special care than fine cottons.

The frock with the two-tone tie will carry you through a day that includes shopping, luncheon, matinee and tea. The lines are becomingly simple, the better to accentuate the beauty of the design of colorful leaves against a dark background. It is easy even for the amateur to work with this crepe tie stays so accurately in place as you cut out the pattern, with no frayed or curled up edges as you baste it together.

The print that fashions the dress on the seated figure is stunning. Solid black dots together with white dots that are cross-lined with fine red and black lines stand out boldly against a bright red background. The button fastening and the touch of knife pleating are important style details. As you see from the smart models pictured, you do not have to sacrifice any style points this spring when you look for washable dresses.

TAFFETA TUNIC

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Taffeta all for tunics for blouses, for the frock entire; for trimming touches is the great hue and cry for spring. The knee-length tunic-blouse pictured is of printed taffeta in exotic coloring. The skirt is black crepe and the accessories are black, introducing white stitchings on shoes and bag. The hat is a very modish sailor of shiny black straw.

NEW STYLES SHOW GREEK INFLUENCE

The Greek influence on current styles has spread so that now it is to be seen in furniture and clothes as well as in the lines of the feminine figure. The popularity of the flat Greek rear profile has made the figure ideal of the Greeks an established vogue.

The influence of this Greek ideal is to be seen in Mainbocher's recent introduction of a gown modeled on the robes worn by ancient Greek dancers. This slimy, graceful garment heralds a turn from the "important" gown, with its stiff formality, to the softness of net and tulle. Its straight skirt is short in front and to the ground in back. There is a garland of fruit or flowers around the waist. Very authentically Greek. And very revealing of the state of one's figure. Hips must be slender, small breasts uplifted in youthful silhouette. The flat Greek rear profile was never more important than to this new and slimly molded style.

To complete the picture, a great vogue for classical Greek furniture is predicted for this spring.

New Fur-Lined Slippers

Slender as Satin Pumps

The fur-lined slipper is probably one of the greatest joys the modern woman has ever known. And because it is fur-lined, doesn't mean that it is bulky or clumsy looking. Not at all. It is as sleek and slender as the sheerest satin pump or sandal, but the sole of the foot is protected against cold pavements by a thin, but warm, layer of rabbit or sheepskin, fuzzy side forward.

The strapless brassiere is another boon to smart women. For even if it has certainly become an indispensable item in the society woman's wardrobe, because of its clever construction of the sheerest and most clinging fabric, it stays perfectly in place without the bothersome need of straps over the shoulders.

Powerful Light Rays Looked Upon as Coming War Weapon, Both Offensive and Defensive

The enemy planes swoop down in a night attack upon the sleeping city. Suddenly, before they reach their goal, blinding flashes of light strike each plane. The blinded pilots lose control of their machines and in a moment the planes spin to earth and destruction.

On the ground, enemy troops charge over the top. Advancing but a few steps, they suddenly stop in their tracks. Some fall to the ground, others stand rigid as though hypnotized. So immediate is the effect of the gigantic blinding beams of light focused on the charging troops by the defending army.

Is this the way cities will repel the attacks of enemy airmen and troops in future wars? Will such walls of blinding light, like the death rays recently proposed by the scientist Telsa, be the means of making countries invasion-proof, and thus make war futile and put an end to it?

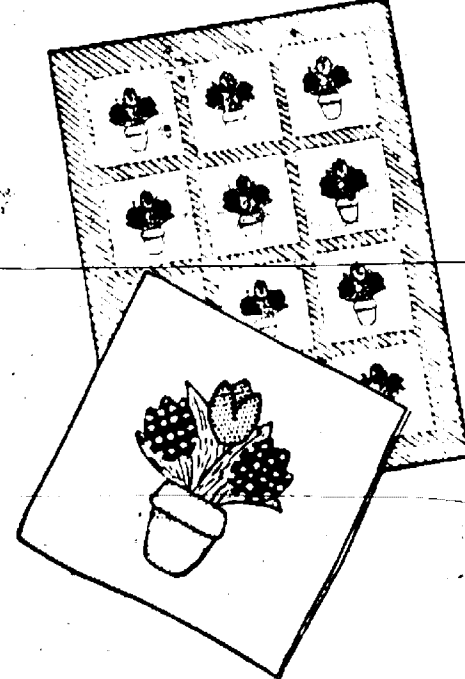

These are the questions French military men, it is reported, are talking about ever since they recently completed tests on a device invented by one Edmond de Christinas which generates blinding flashes of light of millions of candle power.

If you have ever passed an oncoming car with glaring headlights, or had a picture taken at night, you know how blinding light can be. The glaring headlights, momentarily blinding you and causing you to lose control, might send your car hurtling off the road, while the quick brilliant burst of the photographer's magnesium flashlight has you rubbing and blinking your eyes for several moments before you can see again.

Essentially, De Christinas' device is such a super-flashlight, but its brilliance is said to be several thousand times that of the photographer's light or auto headlight.

Tulip Has Won Popular Favor

By GRANDMOTHER CLARK

The tulip adapts itself so well to applique and quilting designs that it is made use of quite frequently. This combination, showing the entire potted plant, gained popularity immediately after it was released. Tulips in bloom always form a beautiful color scheme, and this tulip pot is also brilliant in prints and green applique. These stamped blocks are 18 inches, and twelve are required for a quilt about 70 by 97 inches. If you use a nine inch border and four inch strips between blocks. Strips and border widths can be changed to make a quilt any size.

Send 15c to our quilt department for one of these stamped blocks, No. 96-F, and the stamped applique pieces ready to be cut out. Work this up and see what a beautiful quilt can be made of this design. A set of six blocks will be sent for 75c, postpaid.

TOO MUCH FOOD

They had not seen each other for 15 months. Bill, the shorter of the two, asked, "How's the world treating you these days?"

"Rotten," was the reply. "People are becoming too distrustful. I have not had a penny in my pocket for a week. I go up to a fellow who looks likely, and ask him if he could give me the price of a meal. What does he do? Instead of slipping a coin into my hand, he takes me round to a cafe and watches me eat the meal."

"What are you growling about, then?" asked Bill. "If you get meals, you can't complain."

"Can't I?" replied the other. "I've had 'nine' meals today!"—Smith's Weekly.

A CHILD'S LAXATIVE SHOULD BE LIQUID

(Ask any doctor)

For your own comfort, and for your children's safety and future welfare, you should read this:

The bowels cannot be helped to regularly by any laxative that can't be regulated as to dose. That is why doctors use liquid laxatives.

A liquid laxative can always be taken in the right amount. You can gradually reduce the dose. Reduced dosage is the secret of real and safe relief from constipation.

The right liquid laxative dose gives the right amount of help. When repeated, instead of more each time, you take less. Until bowels are moving regularly and thoroughly without any help at all.

The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara, natural laxatives that form no habit—even in children. Its action is gentle, but sure. It will clear up a condition of biliousness or sluggishness without upset. Every druggist has it.
