Annual St. Patrick's Banquet Is Held

Large Attendance Is Present At St. Patrick's Day Banquet. Very Good Program Is Presented

Three hundred and twenty-five banquet tickets were sold at the annual St. Patrick's Banquet given by St. Mary's church of Pinckney. About 200 tickets were sold at the dance that followed.

The bill of fare had creamed chicken as it's principal item and was tastily prepared by the ladies of the parish. The newly remodeled community hall where it was held was decorated with St. Patrick's Day favors in which shamrocks predominated.
Following the banquet, Rev. Lewis Dion, pastor of St. Mary's church welcomed the assembled banqueteers and introduced Don Van Winkle, Howell attorney, who officiated as toastmaster. Mr. Van Winkle, after getting off a few wisecracks introduced Rev. Fr. Cook, assistant pastor of St. Joseph's church at Howell and Rev. Fr. Hermes, assistant at St. Patrick's church, Brighton. Rev. Current Comment

Just whether all the schools in this state will be able to run their fuil terms this year sound to be a question rather confusing. A bill has been pucsented in the legislature providing for $25,000,000 in emergency rand to aid schools. This has been signed by leading educators in this state, including both Democrat and Republican candidates for superintedent of public instruction. However, the governor is opposed to it and it will probably have hard sledding. Flick sent a delegation to Lansing last week to seek relief; for their schools whose funds will have become exhausted by April 1, 1935. They were turned down by the governor on the grounds that they had already had their shade of the emergency funds. At the time the Flint superintendent stateli unt Grand Rapids, Detroit and other city schools were in the same fix. Later, on returning to Flint, he stated that funds had been borrowed elsewhere and the schools would continue to function. Mayor Couzens of D troit also said that Detroit schools, by borrowing $2,000,000 more from the city, bringing their total debt up to $5,500,000, would be able to finish out the school term. More than this will have to be horrowed if the schools run until May 24. The trouble semes to be that a large enough sum is not placed in budget for school purposes which would take into account the amount of taxes coll sted.

some Years Dast,

If you are a little tired of the general run of house frocks you'll enjoy the trimly tailored lines of this design, with its unusual buttoned-down collar and buttonedover sleeves. For it's one of those casual shirtwaist styles—so very popular nowadays—and it has a slenderizing panel up the front, to make it very becoming to the larger figure. The way the bodice is gathered to the youthful yoke and slotpleated at the back is not only very smart but it gives the comfortable fullness that women demand of house frocks. Made of cotton broadcloth, or printed pique this dress would be charming and every bit as chic as a sports frock!

Pattern 2163 is available in sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 36 takes 41/4 yards 36-inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

SYNOPSIS

Theodore Gatlin adopts a baby, "Penelope," in an effort to solve his matrimonial troubles. But his wife has never wanted her, and their affairs end in the divorce court. At a baseball game a ball strikes ten-year-old Penelope on the nose. Mrs. Gatlin spirits the child to Europe, Gatlin wills Penelope all his money, and is about to begin a search for her when a motor accident ends his life. Some ten years later, in San Francisco, Stephen Burt, rising young psychiatrist, is presented by Dan McNamara, chief of police, with a new patient-Nance Belden, a girl with a dual personality, for which her "saddle nose" is in part responsible. McNamara does not think she is a criminal and obtains Burt's testimony in court. Lanny, the doctor's office nurse, is also won over. Nance's criminal record outweighs Doctor Burt's explanation of her case and the is sent to San Quentin penitentiary. Nance escapes, although shot, and goes to Lanny's apartment, from which, by Mc-Namara's orders, she is removed to the chief's home. From one of the men in the boat on which the girl escaped Mc-Namasa learns that Nance's real name is Penelope Gatlin. He also discovers that she is heiress to $750,000. Fearful of McNamara, in his official capacity, Nance flees. Lanny finds her in her apartment, asleep. Knowing detectives are on her trail, she disappears.

McNamara chuckled, Flynn and Angelloti would waste a great deal of time watching that apartment house in vain. Nance discovering Ella Cates had moved, had sought quarters elsewhere. What puzzled McNamara, however, was the girl's failure to communicate with him or Lanny; and he knew now that she did not intend to. The fact that she had purchased a letter of credit was proof that she intended leaving the country, and the more the excellent fellow contemplated this inpending move the more inclined was he to regard it as a not unmixed blessing.

The more he thought the matter over, the more inclined did he become to take a practical and policeman-like view of the situation. While Nance remained in San Francisco she would be a constant menace to himself and Lanny; if captured she might, during one of her uncontrolled moments, consider it a great joke to tell the world how she had been enabled to escape capture so long.

"I can't baby the world," he decided. "I'll let her go. She'll probably live abroad, and when her letter of credit is gone she may remember who she is long enough to draw more checks. I can always get a line on her through the bank, and if Steve and Lanny still insist on salvaging this nut I'll tell them where to find her. Me, I'm through. If I keep this pace up I'll be as big a nur as she is."

There is more than a modicum of truth in the ancient adage, "Out of sight, out of mind." Dan McNamara lived a very full life; and when Nance Belden had definitely passed beyond his ken and he knew himself safe at last from the prying of Messrs. Flynn and Angelloti into his private affairs, he forgot the girl, for pressing matters of great importance claimed his attention and he required more first-class assistance than he was receiving. He resolved, therefore, to give Flynn and A Angelloti a week in which to make up their minds they had lost the trail; then to call them in.

On the sixth day, however, he received information that the doughty pair were still as busy as two pups with a feather duster. A beautiful lady called on him at his office and told him so.

"And who might you be?" he demanded.

"I'm Susan Engelbright." "I am not aware that I have the easure of your acquaintance. Miss Engelbright." "You haven't. I was sent up from

heard of you lately." "Perhaps. - I hocked three twelvecarar sapphire rings to raise money, and the papers called me Supphire. Susie after that."

"I see you got them out of hock again, Susie." The girl nodded. "Nance Belden got them out for me." "Part of the bargain for smuggling that letter out of San Quentin for her:

I suppose." "Never mind what it was for." Sapphire Susie smiled archly and unafraid. "I earned it and she kept her word." "Check or cash?" McNamara was frightened. If Sapphire Susie had been given a check, then she knew Nance Belden's real name and the name of her bank. And that would be fatal. "I don't know. I gave her the pawn tickets and she got back the rings. I don't know just how." "When?" He was relieved.

"A week ago tomorrow." "And you say Detective Sergeant Flynn has been giving you a bad half hour?" "Yes, he bas."

"Well, that's his business. Nance Belden escaped from San Quentin and naturally he's interested in apprehending her. You were recognized by the guard at the main gate two weeks before Nance escaped. Miss Lanning, a friend of the Belden girl, had visited the prisoner that day, and since Miss Lanning was the only visitor Nance Belden had in San Quentin, naturally she was suspected of carrying a letter for delivery to the men who helped Nance escape. You rode down to Greenbrae with Miss Lanning, and she slipped the letter to you, of course. Flynn knows that. But why come to me with your tale of woe?"

"I've run straight since getting out of the pen. I served my time and I want to be let alone—that's why! Flynn told me that if I didn't come through and tell him where he could find Nance Belden he'd see to it that something nasty happened to me. don't know where Nance Belden is. And I want protection from Patrick Flynn."

"You seem pretty sure of me, dan't you?"

"Well, Nance told me that you were one human being. And I called on Miss Lanning last night to tell her to warn Nance that the dicks were after her, and Miss Lanning told me to see you about it. She said you'd see I got | If, on the other hand, Penelope Gata square deal."

'She did so, now? How did Miss Lanning treat you otherwise?"

"She kissed me and gave me a hundred dollars and told me to be as good as I could. The old girl is sure a darling."

"Did you ask her for the hundred?" "Of course not."

The chief eyed her owlishly, for he distrusted Sapphire Susie and wondered if she might not be working in the interests of Flynn and Angelloti.

"This is interesting," he admitted heavily. "Of course I only keep in touch with the upper office through the captain of detectives. If he set Flynn on this job he should have interviewed you a couple of weeks ago. Seems to me he has overlooked a good bet. If ago he'd have picked up Nance Belden | York during the past three days. when she came to you to deliver the rings. Flynn's a crackerjack detective," he added sadly, "but this looks as if he's slipping."

"That bird don't slip very far, take it from me, Chief. He met me on the street the day before yesterday and noticed I was wearing my big ring and my eardrops. 'He'lo, kid,' he says, 'I see you got your sapphires on again.' I says to him, 'Fall dead, you bum,' and walked on. And the next night he came up to my room. 'Nance Belden got them sapphires out of hock for you,-Susie, my dear,' he says kindly, 'I want that frail. Where is she?'"

"He's Got Me Scared to Death," Sapphire Susie Declared.

"And you wouldn't rell him, even if you could?"

"That's a fact. I wouldn't snitch on

"You wouldn't expect me to inferfere in the work of a derective sergeant when he appears to be doing a good job, would you, Susie? But I give you my word. Susie, that if you run straight in this city I'll see to it that you're not harassed. Of course you helped Nance Belden to escape from San Quentin, and I know it, but I can't prove it; if I could I'd put you in the birdcage this minute. And I'll not put Flynn off the case, although if he gets too rough I'll stop him."

"He's got me scared to death," Sapphire Susie declared, and commenced to weep a little: whereat McNamara realized she had been really frightened. She shook his hand warmly, thanked him and departed.

For several minutes McNamara sat thinking, a smile, faintly tender, illuminating his rugged countenance. So Lanny had kissed Sapphire Susie and given her a hundred dollars and begged her to be a good girl in the future. What a rare good sport Lanny was! And how good God had been to all concerned! In their pursuit of Nance. Flynn and Angelioti had followed such a hot trail they had forgotten Sanphire Susie was a pal of Nance's, but afterwards, when the trail grew cold, they had suddenly remembered her:

That Flynn was a marvel, and Mc-Namara sighed to think the fellow could not be promoted instantly. In all probability he had not at first connected Nance Belden with the glory of Susie's sapphires. Undoubtedly he had jumped to the conclusion that the girl had been up to her old trick of blackmailing some wealthy and socially prominent masculing jackass. So he had looked up her record in the police files. Here he had discovered something that must have convinced him of Susie's total innocence of sapphires during her trial; certainly she had not carried them to San Quentin with her. and the obvious conclusion was that she had pawned them to raise money to pay her attorney. In the hope of discovering the identity of Susie's latest victim (who, he assumed, had redeemed them for her) Flynn had thereupon made a round of the pawnshops and located the one from which the jewels had lately been redeemed; from the pawnbroker he had secured a description of the one who had redeemed them. No pawnbroker would be likely to forget Nance Belden's nose!

McNamará shuddered. If Nance should visit Sapphire Susie now, she would undoubtedly walk straight into the arms of the waiting Flynn or Angelloti.

Well, Nance Belden had stolen a dozen pairs of silk hose, but apparently Penelope Gatlin paid her debts. The chief wondered if he had loaned Nance Belden or Penelope Gatlin two bundred dollars, for of course they were two separate and distinct personalities inhabiting the same body. If Nance Belden had accepted the loan, then Mc-Namara could kiss the money good-by. lin had accepted it, then, some day, when Nance had changed places with Penelope, he would get it back. Well, he could trace her progress through the world by the drafts she would cash. Her bank in San Jose would give him that information.

He took down the telephone and called the bank. Yes, a draft had just come in. Drawn for four hundred and thirty-five dollars in favor of the French line, dated three days previously at New York. It had come across the continent by air mail. McNamara thanked the president of the bank and called up the French line's San Francisco office. After some difficulty he discovered that four hundred and thirty-five dollars was payment of one first cabin passage to Havre and that the he'd had you under surveillance a week | He de France had sailed from New Instantly Dan McNamara shot a straight telegram to police headquarters in New York, requesting that the passenger list of the Ile de France be checked to see whether Nance Belden. or Penelope Gatlin had taken passage on her. Four hours later he received a reply to the effect that Nance Belden was not aboard but that Penelope Gatlin was.

"Nothing is lost if you know where it is," McNamara decided happily, and sent a cable to the prefect of police at Havre, requesting him to pick up Penelope Gatlin on her arrival at that port, shadow her and report by cable. collect, the girl's destination, the names and addresses of those who should meet her and any other information that would aid in keeping track of the girl.

The following day McNamara sent man who worked in my company had for Detective-Sergeants Flynn and Angelloti. As they ranged themselves, more or less at attention, in front of his desk, the chief leaned back in his chair and bent upon the pair a long, severe and penetrating look. They grew a little fidgety before he spoke. "Well, boys, how are your private affairs prospering?" Both shrugged, unwilling to be definite. "They are unprosperous," the chief challenged, "so I have called you in to express the hope that you are now quite willing to abandon your private practice and return to work for the city and county of San Francisco. You draw salary from the taxpayers, you know. I may have been mistaken, Angelloti, but I thought I saw you out supposed to be working on that racketeer killing over in North Beach. However, I'll overlook that on the assumption that you permitted yourself to be led astray by Flynn, Flynn, you lay off Sapphire Susie until that enterprising young woman does something you can pin on her. Then bring her in."

"She's done something and I'll pin it on her yet," Flynn growled, "and you know what it is." Flynn, being Irish, was unwilling that his chief should regard him as deficient in intelligence and enterprise. "We understand each other thoroughly. Flynn. You've been after that Belden girl and you've made a mess of it." He opened his desk drawer and drew out two envelopes. One was adgelloti and both envelopes bore the return address of a prominent New York hotel, but were neither stamped nor postmarked. "These two envelopes to me," McNamara explained. "They're around him. sealed!" He handed each detective his letter and watched as they opened them and drew forth typewritten letters and two hundred and fifty dollars in bills. Flynn's letter was, undoubtedly, a carbon copy of Angelloti's.

Flynn perused his letter and handed it to the chief, who read: "Dear Mr. Flynn:

"You poor dear, you have worked so hard and so intelligently and in such dreadfully hard luck that my heart goes out to you. You were working for the reward, of course-no doubt because you needed the money. You and Mr. Angelloti would have had to divide two hundred and fifty dollars had you recaptured me, but just to prove I'm a sport and not holding any mean little grudge. I'm sending you each two hundred and fifty dollars. Please be good and try to forget all the unpleasant incidents. You will never get me now. so do give:up your attempts, like good bozs."

The letter was unsigned. "How much did you get, Angelloti?" McNamara queried softly. "Two fifty, Chief."

Performance and Economy

There are two principal reasons for the popularity of the new Chevrolet car. One is the performance of its engine. The other is economy. Excellence of performance does not mean that more fuel must be consumed. Greater nower does not double the fuel consumption. The new Chevrolet brings a high class car within your reach—in cost, operation and upkeep. Cost records show that the new Chevrolet is the most economical Chevrolet ever built.

*Use these 5 Principles of GOOD LIGHTING

Your boy curled up in a chair, reading a book, gives little thought to his eyes. He does not consider whether the light is good or bad or whether he has proper illumination on the page. Although he may be straining his vision, although he may be permanently injuring eyesight, it is almost certain that he will do nothing about it, because children do not think of these things. That is a concern of PARENTS!

There are 5 rules by which you may secure good lighting in your home. They are simple and easily followed. First, use correct size lamp bulbs __"WATTS." In table and floor lamps with three sockets, use 40 watts in each socket; with two sockets, 60 watts; with one socket, 100 watts. Second, have at least one-tenth as much light in the rest of the room as you have on your book, newspaper, sewing, etc. Third, use SHADES on all lamp bulbs to prevent GLARE. Fourth, use shades with light-colored linings to get the most light. Fifth, have enough lighting fixtures or portable lamps to insure the proper intensity of light throughout the room.

There are no substitutes for the services of your eyesight specialist, but proper lighting will protect eyesight and assure easy, comfortable seeing,

GREAT CITY'S TRAGEDIES

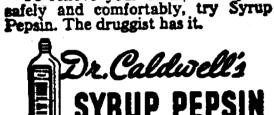

There are 500 stone slabs in the morgue of Bellevue hospital, New York city, and most of these are occupied continuously with human bodies brought in from all parts of the city. They are for the most part victims of murders, accidents, suieddes, even starvation. Sometimes additional resting places for corpses must be improvised.

Doctors Know! ... and they use liquid laxatives

You'd use a liquid, too, if you knew how much better it makes you feel. A liquid laxative can always be taken in the right amount. You can gradually reduce the dose. Reduced dosage is the secret of real and safe relief from constipation.

Just ask your own doctor about this. Ask your druggist how popular liquid laxatives have become. The right liquid laxative gives the right kind of help—and the right amount of help. When the dose is repeated, instead of more each time, you take less. Until the bowels are moving regularly and thoroughly without aid.

People who have experienced this comfort, never return to any form of help that can't be regulated! The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara, and these are natural laxatives that form no habit. It relieves a condition of biliousness or sluggishness without upset. To relieve your occasional upsets are now treading lead to taffeta. The furore and excitement over this crisp, up at such a maddening pace, those who launch the new fashions are almost talking taffeta in their sleep while during their waking hours they are voicing a spring-song of taffeta which is reaching to every style center far

And such taffetas L Taffetas which baffle description so persuasively levely and dramatically chic are they. Printed, plain, metal-interwoven, plaided, striped-just say taffeta and the salesperson will show you such a versatile assortment as to almost bewil-

According to the new style program taffeta is as smart for dresses, daytime or evening, it matters not which, as it is for suits, wraps and ensembles. It is equally as important used in a trimming way and for hats, big bows and accessories of every description.

The latest news about taffeta is the little separate jacket of this pert swishy silk which may be worn with your spring frock of light woolen or crepe or "what have you." It may be quilted or plain and it may be in black, navy or other dark street color with prospects of pastel shades later on in the summer.

Demonstrating taffeta in a trimming way, the three costumes pictured tell a fascinating story of what's what to wear this spring. Of course the upand-going dress to the left in the group is navy, for navy blue outranks even black in importance according to reports. Metal-plaided navy taffeta forms the wide girlish collar, also the deep cuffs which extend halfway up the sleeves. The rhinestone hook-and-eye fastening adds an intriguing touch.

The dress going arm-in-arm with the afore-described may be considered in terms of either black or navy. The deep cape collar is in taffeta in the same color accurately matched so as to carry out a perfected monotone. The huge animated taffeta bow interprets a fashion which is all-prevailing this Comes next in the ricture to complete the group a stunning suave, sleek and clim-of-cut two-piece tailleur fashioned of a novelty weave woolen in a rich-toned green. The decorative bow is of gold-striped taffeta with the same color combination repeated in the square buttons. Note the fashionable breton sailor which tops this smartly costumed woman's carefully coiffed head. If you are asking about the millinery outlook there is much could be said in regard to the race for supremacy which is now going on between sailors of varied type and quaint picturesque "way-back-when" looking bonnets to which add a third competitorthe very new brims which lurch toward the front narrowing at the sides being thoroughly modernistic in their streamline movement.

TULLE IS IN VOGUE By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Reports from style centers all agree as to the tremendous importance of laces, sulles, nets, chiffons and other like diaphanous media for evening and coming summer fashions. Enthusiasm for stiffened tulle is manifested throughout couturier showings in Paris. Georgette Renal, one of the up-andcoming designers, fashions the exquisite gown pictured of midnight blue tulle, the sequins on the cape being in matching blue. She uses three tiers of the tulle fabric to form an interesting silhouette starting with the sequincovered cape with its sprightly flare, continuing with a peplum for the little jacket, adding a corresponding flare in the back swing of the skirt.

KID BOOTEES TRIP ONTO SHOE MARKET

You should see the new kid bootees that have just tripped onto the shoe market.

A revolution in footwear, is the way most people feel about them. Cecil's little black kid ones already are a success. The effect is achieved by eight straps that lace across the instep until close under the ankle bone. This particular bootee lunched at the Crillon and Madame was wearing at the same time a belted three-quarter coat, whose high neck and accompanying lofty Russian roque obviously demanded the bootee touch. Cecil has another bootee deserving mention. It is of black kidskin with patent leather lacing at the outside.

Tailored Styles Will Be Popular for Spring Wear

As a fashion foreword to spring, a prominent stylist says that women areasking for models that have a minimum of fancy trimming and a maximum of tailoring. With these requirements in mind, this authority believes in interpreting Regency and Empire themes to spring sportswear.

He refers to Empire skirts being cut very high, a good three inches higher for spring than this winter. Swallow tail jackets as novelties, vests, loads of them in all different colors, in patterned silk or in plain pique, wing lapels faced in contrast fabric—these are some of the Regency developments which he believes in borrowing, developments taken from the masculine phase of the Regency period and assimilated in sports fashions minus the decorative trimming of this period.

New Blouses

Blouses with very feminine lines and flattering fullness in medium pastels. rose tones and beige are going to be seen worn with spring suits of the "dressmaker" sort. Chiffon blouses will soon replace the more opaque sheers.

New Jewelry Some of the most interesting jewelry being shown for formal wear copies military or royal orders, suspended on heavy metal or jeweled chains.

MATTER FOR THE CHILD TO DECIDE

Supported by The Parents' Magazine, which prints the charge that may influence adult thought in regard to juvenile reading. Josette Frank accuses the nation's fathers and mothers of impoverishing their children's literary diet-letting them starve in the midst of plenty.

"Mother does not always know best, and no book is a good book for a child if it fails to interest him," emphatically declares Miss Frank, her conviction born of experience in the Child Study association.

"There is ample reason for doubting parental infallibility on this point when we realize how often parents have changed their minds as to what is and what is not good reading for children," says this authority, recalling that it is not so long ago parents regarded storybooks with suspicion; then grudgingly approved painfully pure tales and only lately countenanced literature which addresses children as reasoning people. "There are no best books for children, only best books for the particular child. What is real meat to the girl of twelve may be 'applesauce' to the boy of the same age. Nor is there a law of heredity that makes children like what their parents liked before them. Our Jane may find 'Little Women' boring or 'Gulliver's Travels' dull."

Like the horse in the old adage. evidently one may lead a child to a good book but cannot make him read it. This being the truth, however much it may hurt, Miss Frank sanely concludes that about all parents can do is to make available to their children the best there is in the world to read and let nature take its course.

Savings-Banks Gains

Mutual savings banks deposits in 18 states increased in 1934 by $163,-080,092 to $9,757,690,937, and total assets of these banks gained by $199. 497,834 to $11,055,498,096, both deposits and assets being only slightly under record figures for 1932, according to Philip A. Benson, president of the National Association of Mutual Savings banks.

There also was an addition of $25,-756,405 to surplus, bringing that fund to $1,192.628,224, or 12.2 per cent of deposits. New York state's mutual savings banks led the nation in gains and assets, their increase being $109,-

A SERVICE OF SINCERITY

That funeral details are seldom discussed is only natural. Often, however, the confusion that is a result of bereavement is so great that there is little time for wise consideration of the matter. Let us tell you, now, and without cost, the real facts regarding ethical direction. Ours is a service of Sincerity.

Washington News Made Understandable

The vast amount of news emanating from the national capital today is apt to be confusing to the average reader. The rapidly changing scenes, the many new projects that are being undertaken, are difficult to follow. To help you to get a clear understanding of the events taking place in the capital we are providing for you each week the written by William Bruckart, noted capital correspondent. Mr. Bruckart's clear interpretation of what is going on makes the Washington scene understandable. No matter what your political beliefs you will find Bruckart's column interesting and fair because it is always unbiased. Make a habit of reading this feature every week if you want to be well informed.
