Hays Negligent Homicide Jury Disagrees. Case To Be Retried, Other Suits Are Listed For Trial

The jury in the case of George Hays, charged with negligent homicide failed to agree after being out 11 hours and was discharged by Judge Collins, Friday morning. It is said they stood 10 to 2 for conviction. It was composed of six women and six men. Two of the men held out for acquittal. On last January 6, the car driven by Hays collided with one driven by Edward Wepman of Grand Rapids and the latter's mother, Mrs. Minnie Wepman received injuries resulting in her death. Three others in the car were injured. It was alleged Hays was intoxicated at the time of the accident. His companion, Clyde Kimball of Marion, has been in the McPherson hospital at Howell since the accident with a smashed leg. Prosecutor Stanley Berriman represented the people and Attorneys Don VanWinkle and Jay Sweeney appeared for Hays.

Prosecutor Stanley Berriman has announced that Hays will be tried again on the negligent homicide charge.

The following cases have been set for trial: Cook versus Forest Lyon, April 12; James Watson versus Tony Shap, April 12; James Shap versus Tony Shap, April 10; the divorce of Ruby versus Howard Davis, April 11; Guy Butler versus Laura Butler, April 11; Norma Demond versus Alfred Demond, April 11; Jennie Harris versus Jack Harris, April 12.

The case of School District No. 10, Fractional vs. township clerks of Putnam and Hamburg townships is also ready for trial. This involves changing the boundary line of the House school district.

The following cases have been set for trial: Henry Weinmaster versus Carl S. J. Kuitens versus Walter Glover. Most of the other cases on the docket have been put over until next term.

SLAYTON &amp; SON PURCHASE HOWELL AGENCY

Fred Slayton & Son, local Chevrolet dealers have purchased the Chevrolet agency at Howell of Murphy & Swingle and will take possession at once. Their Pinckney agency is for sale or rent. Glenn Slayton, the junior member of the firm will move to Howell at once. Fred Slayton, the senior member, will continue to reside at Pinckney for some time.

Fred Slayton, in company with Edward Park, came here from Dexter about ten years ago and purchased the Garage and Ford agency of the Bird Bros. Later they gave up the Ford agency and took the Chevrolet agency. They sold many cars in this section, and also did a big business in the repair line. About six years ago, Park sold his interest to Glenn Slayton, and the firm has since been Slayton & Son.

During their residence here, the Slaytons have been prominently identified with local activities. Fred Slayton has been supervisor of Putnam township and is now mayor of Pinckney, and also president of the Pinckney Board of Commerce. His son, Glenn, was secretary of the local Masonic lodge for several years, and is now serving as master. Their departure for a new and larger field will be much regretted by their many friends here.

PINCKNEY WINS FINAL CONTEST

Livingston Lodge No. 76 F. & A. M. of Pinckney won the final contest in the checker contest played with Wastaw Lodge of Dexter by a score of 33 to 37. Six contests, in all were played. Dexter won the series by 15 points.

POPPY DAY, HERE MAY 25

Children whose fathers were killed or disabled on the poppy-killed fields of France will be among those benefited by "Poppy Day", Saturday, May 25, when replicas of the French poppies will be worn throughout the United States in tribute to the World War dead.

The funds donated for the little red memorial flowers will go to support the work of the Legion and Auxiliary for the welfare of the disabled veterans and the children left fatherless by the war. The bulk of the funds collected here will be used by the local Legion and Auxiliary organization in placing the needs of disabled veterans and needy children of veterans in this city during the coming year.

The welfare of veterans' children is a constantly expanding responsibility of the American Legion Auxiliary. "Injuries and disease of the War are taking a steady toll from the ranks of the veterans, and nearly every veteran now dying or becoming disabled has dependent children. My committee is at work continuously bringing aid and care to such children, and we must look to poppy contributions for the chief support of this work.

Every penny of the dimes, quarters and dollars dropped into the contribution boxes of the poppy workers Saturday, above the bare cost of the materials in the flowers, will go to the disabled and children. The poppies have been made by disabled veterans and the workers, who will distribute them on the streets have volunteered their services. When the people of Pinckney contribute for their poppies, they can be sure they are giving directly to the welfare of the war's living victims.

History of Pinckney

Relates to the Growth of Pinckney. Its Political Beliefs and Other Incidents of Early Life.

The growth of Pinckney must have been slow at first. Undoubtedly many lots were sold when the platted lots of the village was placed on sale. However it was in the era of frenzied land speculation, and many lots undoubtedly reverted to Mr. Kirkland. This would seem to be shown by the fact that in 1844, seven years after the village lots were placed on sale, there were but 15 people in the village paying taxes. They were Timothy Allison, Isaac Brown, Henry Bennett, Joel Brooks, James Canfield, Charles Colom, James Eamen, James Hughes, George Hood & Co., Henry Judd, Alvin Mann & Eamen, Leonard Noble, F. G. Rose and James W. Stansbury. Putnam township seems to have had a more rapid growth for the reason that the principal occupation was farming. In 1837, the population of this township was 367, and in 1874 it had increased to 1219.

In looking over the list of township officers, it would seem that this section had always had strong Democratic leanings although George Crofoot, S. G. Teeple, G. W. Teeple, and Charles Wood seem to have been elected to different offices frequently. James Stansbury, born in law of Prof. Kirkland was the first postmaster. He was a Whig. This party was powerful for a time to such an extent that they elected several of their members to two and three offices. Finally the Democrats, led by F. G. Rose organized, and an election ended in a tie. In the special election the Democrats won all offices.

The Democrats defeated the Whigs in the national election. As a reward for services performed, F. G. Rose was appointed postmaster at Pinckney. James Stansbury refused to surrender the office. Rose took possession of the mail and at length the office was turned over to him. The citizens had been watching the affair and Freeman Webb had loaded a small cannon to fire when the dispute should be decided. However, James Pullen a friend of Stansbury wet the powder and the salute was never fired. Just before the Civil War, political feeling reached a white heat in all parts of the country. Political organizations sprang up everywhere. In Pinckney the Democrats organized the Douglas Guards in honor of Steven A. Douglas. The Whigs organized the Wide-Awakes. The Guards wore red vests and the latter all cloth hats. A period of intensive drilling ensued on the public square which then contained no trees. Each organization tried to outdo the other. Captain Christopher Monks was drill master for the guards which also boasted of a fife and drum corps. Jonah Young commanded the Wide-Awakes. It is said that Capt. Monks demonstrated his ability to handle the situation on a certain memorable occasion when his guards refused to allow Nigger Jake, who lived with Freeman Webb, to march with them. Disorder was rife, and mutiny was in the air when the gallant captain showed himself as master of the situation by waving his sword on high and commanding, "Every Man Kiver A Man, Fortness, Kiver the Nigger." The storm passed and the drill continued to the end. The Wide-Awakes carried torches and at a command, squatted on their haunches to demonstrate "Squatter Sovereignty," a leading Whig doctrine of the day relating to slavery. These drills drew huge crowds and the village was packed on these occasions. However these two hostile organizations got along fairly well without any great disturbance.

When the Civil War days came, Douglas Guard and Wide-Awake alike fought shoulder to shoulder in the northern army.

MRS. EDNA CAMPBELL
Mrs. Edna Campbell, 60, wife of Eugene Campbell, died at her home, east of town, after a long illness, Tuesday. She was formerly Edna Mowers, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. David Mowers. Surviving are her husband, a daughter, Mrs. Thelma Esio, of Detroit, and five sons, Gilbert and Roy of Detroit, Andrew of Dexter, and Ona and Merwin of Pinckney. Also two brothers, Nelson of Cadillac, and George of Oregon, and a sister, Mrs. Frank Johnson of Pinckney.

The funeral will be held from the home Friday at 2 p. m., and at the Pinckney Congregational church at 2:30 p. m. Burial will be at Pinckney.

ATLEE MOTOR SALES IN NEW LOCATION

Wayne Atlee, operating as the Atlee Motor Sales, has leased the building of Slayton & Son and our new Ford Sales & Service will take possession on Monday, April 15. An expert mechanic, Mr. James Radcliff, will have charge of the service. He comes from Detroit, and will reside in the Barnard house. Mr. Radcliff has a background of long experience as an expert service man, and is acknowledged by the Ford Motor Co. as one of the best. Standard gas and oil will be continued and all makes of cars will be serviced.

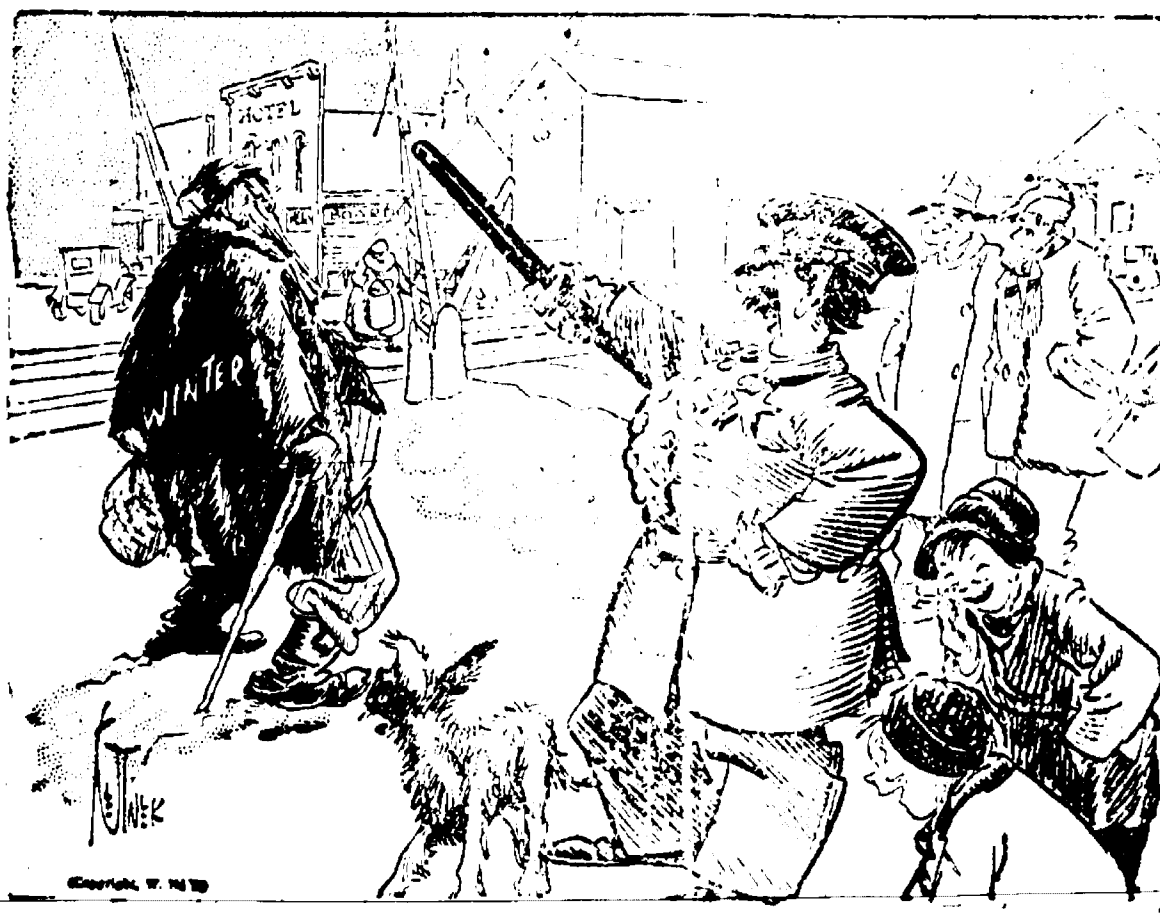

Cheers for Wayne and Jimmie. Let's give them a royal welcome.

Celebrate Their 40th Anniversary

Local O. E. S. Chapter Celebrate Birthday With Program and Banquet. Grand Chapter Officers Present

Pinckney Chapter No. 145 O. E. S. celebrated their 40th anniversary Friday evening, April 5. More than two were present. Guests were from Stockbridge, Dexter, Brighton, Howell, Iowerville and Lansing. We were honored by the presence of Brother Glenn Tupper of St. Johns, Worthy Grand Matron of Michigan, a former Pinckney boy and Mrs. Tupper.

The hall was beautifully decorated in the east by Lucy Reason and Percy Swarthout. It represented an old-fashioned garden made up of columns and arch of white lattice work entwined with numerous wisterias. Looking through the garden was a room with its spinning wheel and chair, a fireplace and parlor were very effectively lighted by various electric lamps of today.

The program was opened by the birthday song by all. Kitty Dinkel, Worthy Matron of Pinckney Chapter, gave the address of welcome.

An interesting history of the Chapter was given by Nettie Vaughn, charter member.

The next was a sextette, composed of Grace Teeple, Florence VanWinkle, Grace Teeple, Roy Teeple, Lydie Martin and Percy Swarthout. They sang "Long, Long Ago," and responded to an encore with "Rock Me In The Arms," accompanied by Blanch Martin at the piano.

Glenn Tupper, Worthy Grand Patron, gave some remarks, stating that he appreciated the invitation, and related some of the instances of his youth while living in Pinckney.

Pauline Vedder, dressed in costume, stated in the chair by the spinning wheel, gave a musical reading of the old Spinning Wheel in the "The Old Home Town," accompanied by Florence Baughn, Past Grand organist at the piano, who also responded to an encore by singing, "The Old Home Town."

Lettie Cook of Brighton gave a reading "Mighty" and responded to an encore with a second reading.

A letter from Lettie Teeple, who was next on the program, not being able to be present, was read by Lucy Reason.

Two musical readings, "The House with Nobody in it" and "Spring is Come" were given by Mrs. Hiram Smith of Howell, accompanied by Florence Baughn.

Jimmie Lamb, accompanied by her mother, rendered two enjoyable selections, "Wizard March" and "Blue Bells of Scotland."

Florence Baughn, accompanied by Blanch Martin at the piano, sang a "Gift of Roses," while presenting the same to Nettie Vaughn and Lettie Cook, life members.

A short, but impressive memorial was given by M. Bullis, Hazel Parker, Kity Dinkel, Carmen Leland and Lettie Dillingham. Mae Bullis recited a few appropriate verses and closed the service by singing "Memories," in memory of those who have passed on to lengthen our Golden Chain over There.

Following the program, we marched to the dining room to the music of our organist, Blanch Martin, where the five tables were prettily decorated with the colors of the Order.

Just preceding the cutting of the birthday cake made by Lucy Reason, and cut by Nettie Vaughn, our Worthy Grand Matron, Georgina Bowers of Hastings, who could not be present earlier in the evening on account of conducting a school of instruction in Howell, arrived accompanied by Mrs. Horning, Worthy Matron, Mr. Willard, Worthy Patron, Mrs. William Past Matron and Mrs. Murphy of Howell.

After lunch, Kity Dinkel, Worthy Matron called on W. G. M. Georgina Bowers who responded with a very pleasing talk. She then called on W. G. P. Glen Tupper and the Matrons and Patrons of the other Chapters, who gave fitting remarks.

Thus closed a very enjoyable evening.

"ROBERTA" FEATURED AT HOWELL THEATRE

The biggest names in music, dancing and fashions contribute to "Roberta" R. K. O. radios' colorful musical feature centering about an intriguing romance in a Paris Style Shop.

Jerome Kern wrote the music for the production, which stars Marie Dunn, Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers. Miss Dunn sings a number of Kern's hit songs, and Astaire and Miss Rogers dance to the rhythm of others.

Fashions for the production were created by Bernard Newman, an internationally known leader in the field of feminine styles. His creations are displayed by the two feminine stars, and twelve mannequins selected as the most beautiful girls in America.

Ruth Randolph Scott, playing the romantic lead opposite Miss Dunn, a strong cast including such favorites as Helen Westley, Vicfor Varconi, Claire Dodd and Bodie Rosing, support the leading stars.

PLANT MUNICIPAL CHRISTMAS TREE

The Civic Committee of Howell, of which Mrs. Bert Hoff is president, has just planted a ten-foot evergreen tree on the Courthouse lawn there to be used as a community Christmas tree. The tree was a gift from the Michigan State College. It is the third one to be planted, the others having died.

Current Comment

A regular revolution took place in our neighboring village of Milford last week, in which the bank was padlocked with chains. All business places were closed and a delegation sent to Lansing. The occasion was the ousting of Eugene Carey as receiver of the First State Bank there, and the appointment of John Carey, who is also receiver for the Farmington bank. Carey is a Milford realtor. Mayor Lovday begged the people and stated that the Milford depositors did not wish the funds of the bank dissipated. Hence the business shut-down and the delegation to Lansing. Nothing came of this, the Milforders being told they would be answered Thursday. They were by a broadcast from Banking Commissioner Fitch, who also gave his answer to the press. He stated that Carey was not making collections and had paid depositors no dividends. That from August 1934 to December, he had collected only about $4,500. That, moreover, the revolt was organized by debtors and not depositors of the bank. That Mayor Lovday alone owed the closed bank about $8,000. This would indicate that Mr. Carey would not be reinstated.

"How fleet the works of time and man etc." This would seem to be aptly shown by what happened to John Gillespie of Detroit last week. For many years John was a personage of importance. People tipped their hats to him. Governors, senators, etc., slapped him on the back and called him John. When he visited the executive office at Lansing he did not bother to knock, but walked right in. He was hailed fellow well met wherever he went. The reason was that some 400 Wayne Co. delegates took their orders from him and practically controlled the nominations, with the aid of McKeligan of Flint, McKay of Grand Rapids, at Republican conventions. Then in 1934 something happened. A new lord arose in Wayne County when Harry Toy secured control of the convention and its 400 odd votes. This gave Toy the attorney general nomination with the probabilities that the governorship lay just ahead. Shorn of his powers, the public's attitude toward John changed. People kept their hats on when they met him. Important persons forgot him completely or else crossed the street when they saw him coming. Still John had to do something to keep busy, so he sought jobs for a few friends in the liquor office. It is said he claimed to be the personal representative of the governor. George Carroll, head of the liquor office, appealed to Governor Fitzgerald, who denied that John had any pull with him, and ordered Carroll to keep him out of the liquor office. This got John hot under the collar, and he hotfooted to Lansing. Here the governor refused to see him. John announced he would wait until dinner day unless he did. So he stayed for some three hours in the waiting room. The governor was not provisioned for a long siege, so he came out on other business and John got to see him. He denied that he had posed as a representative of the governor in soliciting jobs, and the governor referred him back to the liquor commissioner. So what satisfaction was derived is hard to see. Anyway, John's O. K. was probably not go far at the liquor office from now on.

The University of Michigan authorities have closed the Phi Beta Delta fraternity for serving liquor at a banquet and ordered the 25 house residents to seek other quarters. Some months ago, President Ruthven called the fraternities together and stated that any infractions of rules would result in their being closed. This is the first example made of this.

It is announced that a new cure has been found for people suffering from high blood pressure by means of a surgical operation. In the majority of cases operated upon, improvement has been made, and in six out of ten cures. Dr. Max Peit, surgeon who has perfected this treatment is a former Livingston county boy, having spent his boyhood at Parker's Corners near Howfville.

An obscure factory worker in Flint has suddenly been forced into the millionaire class by the bringing in of a mammoth oil well on the forty acres of land he owned in Montcalm county near Crystal, Mich. He lived on the land until all the buildings burned, when he was forced to go back to factory work in Flint. It is said to be the largest oil well brought in in this state in three years, and was running 250 barrels an hour until capped. It is an entirely new field. We have often wondered just what would happen if such a well was brought in near here.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank all who so loyally supported me in the recent election, for your vote of confidence. It will always be my aim to merit your good will by serving the schools of Livingston County to the best of my ability.

E. Alma Sharpe,
Co. Commissioner of Schools.

Washington Digest

National Topics Interpreted
by William Bruckart
National Press Building Washington, D. C.

Washington.—President Roosevelt has submitted to congress a list of the legislation he deems necessary to have passed before the present session adjourns. He has divided it into two categories—"must" and desirable. If congress enacts only the list of "must" legislation and passes over the other group of bills which the President considers desirable, it is made to appear that the membership of the house and senate is due to suffer some of the torrid temperature and the uncomfortable humidity of a Washington summer. The President said he must have legislation extending the National Recovery administration, providing social security, eliminating public utility holding companies, increasing the loaning power of the Home Owners Loan corporation, extension of the so-called nuisance taxes which expire by limitation of law on June 30, and revision of the banking laws.

In addition, the President made known that he would like to have enacted legislation to take the profits out of war, whatever that may mean. He previously had sent a message asking enactment of a law providing for expansion of the American merchant marine through the use of ship subsidies, and he also desires to have enacted legislation setting up machinery for the settlement of labor disputes. This legislation is in the congressional hopper in the form of a bill by Senator Wagner, of New York.

The President would like to have amendments to the agricultural adjustment act in order to eliminate some of the weaknesses which the AAA people admit exist. The airmail contract situation is another matter with which Mr. Roosevelt has been concerned.

Seasoned observers recognize that this list of "must" legislation, not to mention the desired legislation, is sufficient to keep congress grinding away far into the summer. They recognize likewise that if the desired legislation later becomes of such concern that the President wants to place it on the preferred list as well, the membership of congress must be prepared to forego summer trips of any kind.

Since a good many members of congress have grown tired of being called rubber stamps for the administration, they naturally have turned attention to legislation which they think will be helpful to their own bailiwicks, to themselves personally or from a party standpoint. Thus there have been promoted numerous pieces of legislation for which some individuals, at least, entertain greater fervor than they do for measures that were drafted by President Roosevelt's official family and transmitted to congress as administration legislation. It is the general observation that an individual, representative, or senator frequently will go much further in fighting for legislation that is his own brain child than for legislation placed before him on a silver platter such as administration proposals have been. Consequently, individual or group measures are constantly cluttering up house and senate legislative calendars. This is a factor meaning delay for administration bills.

Pets of Their Own

It is to be remembered, as has been reported in these columns, that Mr. Roosevelt is unable to ward off criticism of some of his proposals. Indeed, there have been Democratic criticisms and Democratic opposition to a greater or lesser degree to all of the legislation he has proposed since congress convened last January. All of which is by way of saying that congress faces weeks of committee work and floor debate despite the fact that the house Democratic leaders still retain rather solid control of a sufficient majority in the lower house of congress to drive through any pet measures for the administration. In the senate the situation is decidedly different.

Included in the legislation being fostered by individual members is the bill that would permit cabinet officers to appear on the floors of congress for questioning and explanation, such as occurs under the British and French parliamentary systems. The administration does not want this bill. It will have to exert some pressure to avoid passage. The reason is that the Roosevelt administration is no longer one in which the cabinet is dominant. Cabinet officers are only part of the scheme, and if congress wanted to inquire about the handling of relief money, which it probably will desire, it must talk with Administrator Hopkins. Mr. Hopkins is not in the cabinet. The same is true of NRA and to some extent to the AAA, although Secretary Wallace of the Department of Agriculture theoretically is a superior officer to Administrator Davis. The administrator is definitely opposed to the passage of bonus legislation for the former soldiers, sailors and marines and it looks like a Presidential veto will be necessary there. The same is true of inflationary proposals of which there are many. The situation is one, therefore, in which Mr. Roosevelt must be constantly on his guard to prevent action which he does not want as well as being fortified at all times with pressure to put through the legislation he has described as necessary. Thus it is seen he is confronted with many complications which did not disturb him in the first two sessions of New Deal congresses and these complications mean a longer life for the current session.

Let us examine the status of the legislation which the President said must be passed. The outlook is something like this:

Some "Must" Legislation
The extension of the National Recovery administration is still far off. Senate hearings are just ended and the house is still further behind. No action can be expected in either body for several weeks. The present law expires June 16.

Recently Mr. Roosevelt sent to congress a very bitter message denouncing public utility holding companies and demanding legislation eliminating them from our economic structure. The house committee considering this legislation is just winding up its hearings and the senate committee which will have jurisdiction has taken no action at all. It must be said that a hard fight is in prospect if and when this legislation reaches the stage of debate because investors in these companies are not going to have their equities destroyed while they sit idly by. These investors are doing more now than just making faces at congress and the volume of letters which members are receiving in opposition to the holding companies legislation transcends anything that ever has happened in the memory of this correspondent.

The banking legislation which Mr. Roosevelt has proposed, or which was proposed for him by Governor Eccles, the New Deal and radical governor of the federal reserve board is faced with opposition equally as bitter and as well organized as that confronting the holding companies bill. Perhaps it can be said that opposition to the banking legislation is even stronger because in that fight the President will be opposed by Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, who must be regarded as the most virulent of all the Democrats in the senate. The house banking committee has about done its job with hearings on this bill but the senate committee where the full force of the Glass opposition will be felt has not even set a date for committee consideration.

The social security bill about which Mr. Roosevelt has done much talking, because it is distinctly a reform measure, has finally been redrafted in the house while senate leadership is unable to get together on any policy respecting it. Some senators want to split up this bill and pass the section providing for old age pensions, allowing the other parts of the bill to die a slow death.

The legislation to increase by $1,750,000,000 the loaning power of the Home Owners Loan corporation probably will get through the senate without much more ado. The house passed the bill because it could not do otherwise with individual members realizing that there was a chance that some of this money would go into their particular districts. Included in this bill is a line that promises a good many hundred jobs for politicians and it is natural that the party in power is not going to overlook this possibility.

There remains on the "must" list, then, only the proposal to extend the nuisance taxes which expire at the end of June. It is probable that the bulk of these levies will be accepted by congress as necessary.

One cannot fall, in tramping around Washington these days, to note the frequent expressions concerning the outlook for the New Deal and for President Roosevelt's personal political future. In fact, some hardboiled observers lately have been heard to say that Mr. Roosevelt is suffering from too much ballyhoo. He was put up on a pedestal that made of him in the eyes of many persons something of a superman. He himself is regarded as having contributed to this condition by his many campaign promises, some of which he has found absolutely impractical as remedies in leading the country out of the morasses and on to a more satisfactory economic plain. In truth, the President's own political colleagues have continued to depict him as an individual capable of things which no human can accomplish and this combination of circumstances is declared by many keen minded persons as likely to bring, if indeed it has not already brought, a definitely bad political reaction from the President's standpoint.

It is still fresh in the minds of men and women throughout the country how President Hoover was over-advertised as a superior person in an administrative way. Mr. Hoover suffered from too much ballyhoo to an extent greater than any other man who has served as President with the possible exception of Woodrow Wilson. When the depression came and the current turned against Mr. Hoover he was utterly powerless. With a recalcitrant congress on his hands and a dissatisfied people, Mr. Hoover met the fate that must have been expected.

Wins Wide Distinction as Collector of Violins

Milwaukee Man Is Expert on Rare Old Fiddles.

Milwaukee, Wis.—Stradivarius to Henry Stirn of this city is something that has not only served as an interesting hobby throughout many years, but has also earned for him the title of connoisseur of such rare old instruments. Not less than twenty-four examples of the famous Stradivarius have passed through Mr. Stirn's hands during the course of sixty years, which is really only a slight detail in the history of his once grand collection.

Mr. Stirn, whose vocation is finance and accounting, has shown a zealous interest in the violins since he was seven years old. This interest, however, never for once entered the professional realm, nor was Mr. Stirn ever a dealer in violins. He played the violin, and played it well. Even now he is head of a string quartet which began way back in the '80s; but the members of this little group play strictly for their own pleasure.

Just an Amateur.

Yet, though but an amateur in all the dealings he has ever had with the violin, Mr. Stirn today is recognized throughout the world as an authority on the instrument. And because of his abundant knowledge in this field, owners of rare old violins often seek his advice, according to the Milwaukee Journal. "It has been the supreme joy of my life that I have been able to make the acquaintance of some of the greatest violins of all time," said Mr. Stirn.

At one time he had in his home close to $500,000 worth of violins, which included two genuine Stradivari and many famous violins of other makes. All of these, however, were disposed of recently and the sole remainder of his once famous collection is a Gaspara de Salo, once owned by Ole Bull, eminent Norwegian violinist.

The Gaspara de Salo is the violin Mr. Stirn plays in the quartet. It was made about the time of Martin Luther's death, Mr. Stirn believes, and came into his possession through the widow of a friend named Rostav, who had acquired it from Ole Bull himself.

Had Big Collection.

Inside the Gaspara de Salo, when Mr. Stirn first acquired it, was the name Vuillaume, written in pencil, together with six or seven other signatures. In having it restrung a few years ago, the names were in some way rubbed out, an incident which he regrets, because Jean Baptiste Vuillaume is revered by violin lovers in much the same manner as they think of Stradivarius.

In addition to his private collection of noted instruments, Mr. Stirn has had under his roof more Stradivarius violins at one time than any other person or museum in the world. At various times collectors, dealers and famous violinists have left genuine Stradivari in his home. Among these "guest" instruments are the Emil Saurer and Lipinski Strads. He, himself, has owned the Hammer Stradivarius, one of the two Stradivarius violins that has never been cracked or tampered with.

Although for more than a century and a half Stirn's forefathers lived in

He Learns to Fly in 55 Minutes

After 55 minutes of instruction, Herbert Sargent, twenty-two, of Jersey City, made his first solo flight in a plane at the Jersey City airport and after completing the prescribed maneuvers set his plane down for a three-point landing. Eddie A. Schneider, twenty-three, Sargent's youthful instructor, holder of the junior transcontinental flying record, said he allowed Sargent to go up alone because he handled a plane perfectly. Taking the air on such short instruction is believed to have brought to Sargent a new record.

American Girl Will Trace Life in the North

Miss Thorn Will Study Beginnings of Eskimo Race.

Edmonton, Alta.—An intensive study of the origin of the Eskimo tribes in Canada's northern Arctic territories will be undertaken next summer by Miss Sue Thorn, graduate in anthropology of the University of California. Miss Thorn is at present in Edmonton laying plans for an extended stay in the Arctic.

The Eskimo language, anthropology, customs and folklore will be studied by the young California scientist with a view to proving or disproving the theory that the Eskimo race originally came from the Orient via the Bering straits. She plans to go north to Akavik, on the Mackenzie delta, early in the summer.

Although this is her first trip north, Miss Thorn has spent considerable time studying Eskimo life, language and customs, and is confident she will have little difficulty in facing the rigors of the Arctic.

After spending some time in Akavik, "becoming acclimatized," she plans to journey east to Victoria island in Coronation gulf and possibly go on to Greenland if she can obtain permission from the Danish government.

Giant Keeps Order in Canadian Town

Montreal.—The Montreal metropolitan commission has hired a "Tarzan" to bring order to the bankrupt village of St. Michel.

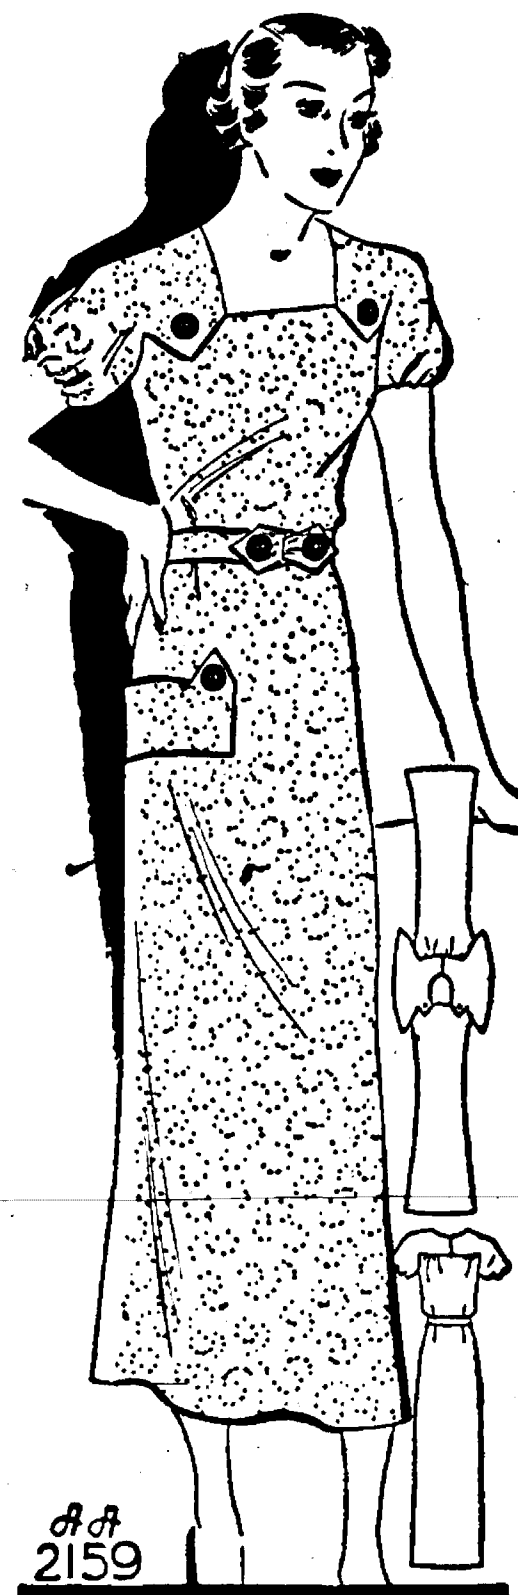

Seeking an inexpensive method of keeping the wilder villagers from creating trouble while they tried to straighten out the village's financial affairs, the commission hired ex-Capt. Z. Desmarreau, former weight-lifting champion of the Montreal police department, and sent him to St. Michel.

Desmarreau is 6 feet 4 inches tall and weighs 280 pounds.

Germany, and the name was changed to Stirn, he is a direct descendant of Count Axel Oxenstierna, chancellor of Sweden under King Gustavus in the early Seventeenth century. According to the genealogy of the Stirn family, Henry Stirn is entitled to the castles and lands now held by the Swedish Oxenstiernas.

SIMPLICITY AND CHIC COMBINED

PATTERN 2159

In spite of its very definite air of chic, this is the sort of dress that an experienced seamstress can run up in an hour or so—and even a beginner really should take no longer than a day to finish it. Just to show you how very simple it is, we've given you a little sketch of how the frock will look before you sew up the side seams. See—there are only four pieces to the whole body of the dress, and the sleeves and shoulders are cut in one, which does away with the setting-in of sleeves! Make it of any pretty inexpensive cotton material—use gay buttons—you'll be sure to pat yourself on the back when you see the result!

Pattern 2159 is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 16 takes 3 1/2 yards 36 inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE. Address orders to Sewing Circle Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth street, New York.

THERE WAS A REASON

"All very well for you to preach economy," said Brown's wife, "but I notice whenever I cut down expenses that you smoke better cigars and spend more for golf clubs and things."

"Well, confound it, what do you suppose I want you to economize for?" Brown demanded.—Boston Transcript.

More Reform

"Do you regard votes for women as a success?" "Yes," answered Miss Cayenne. "But we ought to go a step farther and disfranchise all gigoles."—Washington Star.

Some Variety

Groom—You will always look the same to me, my darling. Bride—Foolish boy! And I have ordered ten new gowns already.

Others, Maybe

"I'm sorry—I quite forgot your party the other evening." "Oh, weren't you there?"—London Tit-Bits.

Practical Jokers Ruin Saloonkeeper's Peace

New Orleans.—Christian Bethencourt, saloonkeeper, regretted exceedingly recently that he had so many friends. Their number prevented him from nominating the particular friend he would like to crown with his bung starter.

Bethencourt's day was scheduled thus by the anonymous practical joker: 8:00 a. m.—Ambulance arrives at saloon to pick up Bethencourt, who, hospital understood, was "very sick."

10:00 a. m.—Twenty-five catfish and ten pounds of shrimp arrived, C. O. D.

Noon—Three drug store delivery boys dash in, one after another, exclaiming: "Here is the emergency medicine for Mr. Bethencourt."

1:30 p. m.—A rug arrives C. O. D. from a furniture store.

2:00 p. m.—The undertaker's wagon arrives for Bethencourt's body.

3:00 p. m.—A radio sent C. O. D. arrives.

5:00 p. m.—A carpenter arrived to repair the screens.

5:45 p. m.—One hundred pounds of sugar arrive C. O. D.

5:46 p. m.—Bethencourt decides to go home early.

Norfolk Church Saves Cannon Ball of 1776

Norfolk, Va.—On January 1, 1776, Lord Dunmore, in command of the British forces in Virginia, sent Norfolk New Year's greetings in the form of round shot, hot and cold. When his men finished, Norfolk lay in smoldering ruins. Only one building remained standing. The building was St. Paul's Episcopal church, still in use today.

All but one shot fired at the church fell to the ground. That shot struck and stuck. When Norfolk was rebuilt after the revolutionary war St. Paul's was repaired, but the tuckpointers carefully placed their mortar around the shot, to preserve it there as a reminder of what happened that fateful day.

New Needle Threading Champion Is Proclaimed

Ottawa, Ont.—Step up, folks, and meet Tailor J. Serrell—the new needle-threading champion of Canada and the United States.

Serrell defeated Mrs. Jeanne Cloutier, Suncook, N. H., housewife, in a stirring international contest, 250 to 224.

The contest started when Mrs. Cloutier read of how Serrell thought nothing of threading a needle with a couple hundred strands of cotton, and set out to beat his record. She jammed a standard darning needle with 224 strands of white cotton thread and sent it to Serrell. Serrell sat down, jammed another 26 strands into it and returned it.

MORE CARS ON ROAD AS TIMES IMPROVE

Supplementing reports of increased collection of automobile license plate collections, recently published, Orville E. Atwood, Secretary of State points out that on March 31, there were a total of 690,160 cars on the highways equipped with either 1935 license plates, or half year permit "stickers". While this was less, by 330,000 cars, than the total number licensed in 1934, the total number of cars licensed for operation on highways, by March 31, 1934, was less than for the preceding year, by a margin of 602,544 cars. The disparity between the number of cars registered in 1934 and the total number registered in the same year, is accounted for by cars whose owners do not purchase plates or stickers until warm months, together with the sales of new cars in the heavy sales period of early spring and early summer.

The gross increase in collections from the sale of license plates, stickers for 1935 registration, exceeded, on March 31, the collections for the same period last year, by $2,071,974.35.

Issuance of operators' and chauffeurs' licenses under the provisions of the 1931 act of the legislature which requires renewal of these licenses every three years, has been of benefit not only to the state at large, through its treasury, but to the local communities in which the licensees have been issued, records show. From May 1, 1931, when the act became effective, until Jan. 1, last, the county's of the state have received $319,851.39 from collections, under provisions of the act. After deductions for returns to counties and costs of enforcement and collection, the bulk of collections go to the state police for the maintenance of the state's highway patrol system.

IRVING LATIMER

TO BE PARDONED

According to press dispatches released Monday, Gov. Fitzgerald has announced that he will issue a full pardon to the late Latimer, Michigan's most famous criminal, as soon as Latimer can find a job. It is stated that Mr. Latimer will employ him.

Latimer, who has lived in Stockbridge, where his father owned a drug store, later the family moved to Jackson, Mich. Latimer began to travel a few years ago. His father died and Latimer took over the drug store. His extravagance soon got him into financial difficulties. His mother was found murdered. Latimer claimed an alibi, stating that he had spent the night at a Detroit hotel. The police ruled this out and proved that he had left the hotel about 10 p. m. and not returned until early the next day. The crew of Detroit-Jackson train testified that he had taken a late train to Jackson from Detroit and got off at a stop this side of there and returned to Detroit by an early train. Blood stains were found on his clothing. On this testimony, he was convicted. He was employed in the drug store. He escaped by pushing his guard, but was captured at Grass Lake. He gave the guard an overdose from which the latter died. Since then Latimer has been in a model convict and now is caretaker at the old prison. He has served 46 years of his sentence. Many efforts have been made to pardon him, but Governor Fitzgerald has refused to do so.

The Heart of the Community

The yellow moon drops below the horizon. One by one the houses darken as silence settles over the countryside. It is a time of rest, of slumber.

But there is one building where rest does not enter, where the windows never darken; for the work of the telephone exchange, like the work of a sleeper's heart, must go on by night no less than by day.

Here trained operators, alert and skilful, sit at the junction of many wires. Here are linked all who would speak across the miles of darkness. . . . Somewhere an anxious mother is awakened by a childish, fretful cry. . . . Somewhere furtive footsteps betray the presence of a prowler. . . . Somewhere, in a cellar, smouldering rags send warning smoke drifting through a home. . . . At some lonely crossing two cars crash and overturn.

In these emergencies, help is as close as the nearest telephone. Over a waiting wire speeds the call for aid—for the doctor, police, fire department, an ambulance. If that wire were not waiting, there would be heavier penalties of grief and loss; help, at times, would arrive after help had ceased to be of use. Faithfully rendering a vital service both night and day, the telephone exchange plays a part which makes it, in a sense that is very real, the heart of the community.

Making The Home More Livable

The Indirect Lamp Enlivens the Card Table

By Jean Prentice

A. L. work and no play makes Jack a dull boy. To which we add, play without good lighting makes Jack a dull partner!

Most of us enjoy entertaining guests, don't we? We get pleasure from providing attractive decks of cards, nice tallies and tempting candies. And then, when every detail seems perfection for the comfort of our visitors, we sometimes fall down miserably.

We pull up to the card table a lamp whose small shade serves only two persons at the best, or else fails to cover the raw light from the bulbs so that the glare on the dimmy hand makes us twist and fidget.

Or perhaps the bulbs are woefully small with the result that before the evening's over our energy has seeped away with our efforts to see. (I've been guilty of such provisions myself, but know better now.)

From lighting scientists who have considered our needs at play as well as at work, this advice has been secured: Provide an indirect lamp of either the metal or glass reflector type, similar to the ones in the sketches, for your game table.

They give a light as soft as that on a shaded porch upon a summer day, an adequate smooth light that distributes itself impartially to all four contestants and lays no complimentary shadow lines on faces.

The new two-filament bulb in each lamp allows three different intensities of light. In the lamp in the larger sketch the 40 or 60-watt bulbs in the candle sockets are to be turned on in addition to the central bulb for especially intensive seeing tasks.

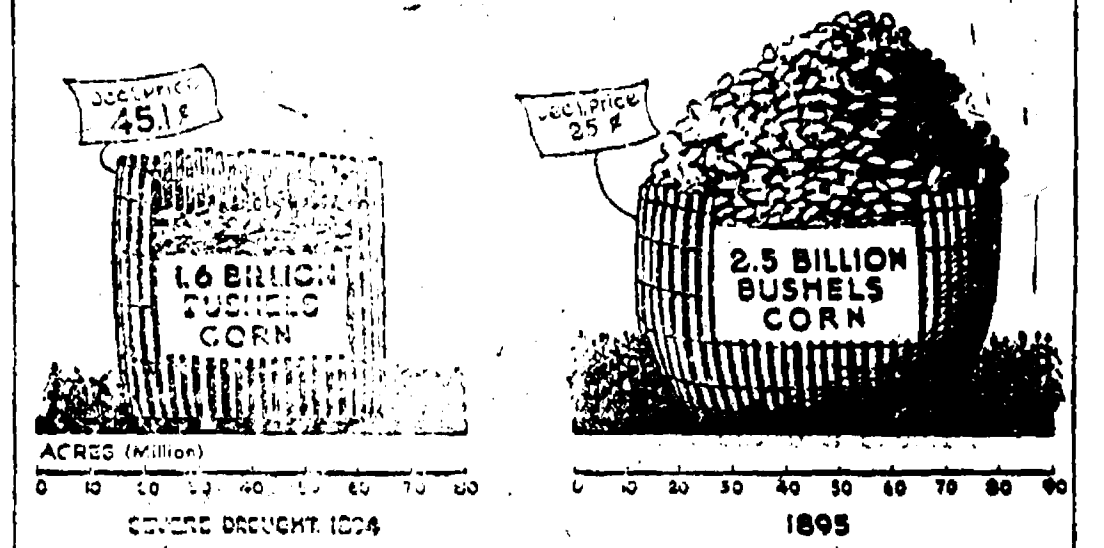

A practical point about a lamp of this kind is that, since it is a "major" lamp and not a small one totally unsuited for the job, other lamps in the room need not be disrupted from their locations when the table is set up. The large lamp does a man-size job, sending light up as well as down and eliminating harsh contrasts.

The "torchier" type sketched in the panel has a softly luminous glass bowl taking the place of the shade on the first lamp. The lovely toned glass gives life to the unit and adds a striking decorative effect to the room.

Both lamps have been made by a number of manufacturers according to specifications of the Illuminating Engineering Society, national group of lighting experts.

The use of shades may be black, but the use of hospitality is light with one of these "indirects" at your bridge table.

WILL HISTORY REPEAT ITSELF IN 1935?

EXCESSIVE production of corn may be expected in the fall of 1935 unless a large percentage of farmers agree to hold plantings for the year within reasonable limits. It is pointed out by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. The normal response to severe, though temporary feed shortages and high feed prices occasioned by severe drought is a planting of a larger than average acreage to corn the following year. At the same time, yields per acre usually return to normal and a record crop with low feed prices results. Then, after a year or two, livestock production, particularly of hogs, becomes excessive, and livestock prices also are forced down.

For example, in 1935 following the severe drought year of 1934, farmers increased their corn plantings by over ten million acres. The yield per acre followed the usual trend and returned to two bushels above average. As indicated in the above graph, a record crop resulted. On December 1, 1935, the price of corn was 25 cents per bushel as compared with approximately 45 cents per bushel the preceding year. By 1937, hog production had been greatly stimulated and prices were lower.

The 1935 corn-hog production adjustment program offered by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration provides farmers with an opportunity for avoiding a similar reaction to the current drought situation.

PRODUCTION CREDIT ASSOCIATION NEWS

Ernest Lawson, Director, reports increased business in the Pontiac Production Credit Association. Over 100 applications totaling approximately $500,000.00 have been handled thru the Local Association.

The Capital stock of the Pontiac Production Credit Association has been increased to $160,000.00 in order to provide ample credit for the farmers of this community according to Mr. Lawson.

The Association makes loans in Oakland, Macomb, and Livingston counties to farmers who have personal security to offer and some ability to repay.

Contrary to the general opinion, the Production Credit Associations were not set up as emergency organizations, but as permanent organizations to provide credit to eligible farmers at a low rate of interest, which is 5 percent per annum.

Mr. Lawson states that loans are made for any agricultural purpose including the purchase of livestock, machinery, fuel, seed, etc. The refinancing of debts incurred for agricultural purposes, and for repairing or erecting new farm buildings. Many farmers are taking advantage of this source of credit and are obtaining substantial discounts by paying cash for their purchases.

Owing to the necessary procedure in closing loans, farmers should anticipate their requirements and make application in advance of their need.

Further information may be obtained by inquiring of application writers, Mrs. Margaret Manley of Howell in the County Agent's office, or the office located in the postoffice building in Pontiac. In order to contact the borrower, the Secretary, Fred J. Beckman is in the County Agent's office at Howell from 10 to 3 every Tuesday except holidays.

SYNOPSIS

Theodore Gatlin adopts a baby, "Penelope," in an effort to solve his matrimonial troubles. But his wife has never wanted her, and their affairs end in the divorce court. At a baseball game a ball strikes ten-year-old Penelope on the nose. Mrs. Gatlin spirits the child to Europe. Gatlin wants Penelope all his money, and is about to begin a search for her when a motor accident ends his life. Some ten years later, in San Francisco, Stephen Burt, rising young psychiatrist, is presented by Dan McNamara, chief of police, with a new patient—Nance Belden, a girl with a dual personality, for which her "saddle nose" is in part responsible. McNamara does not think she is a criminal and obtains Burt's testimony in court. Lanny, the doctor's office nurse, is also won over. Nance's criminal record outweighs Doctor Burt's explanation of her case and she is sent to San Quentin penitentiary. Nance escapes, although shot, and goes to Lanny's apartment. From one of the men in the boat on which the girl escaped McNamara learns that Nance's real name is Penelope Gatlin. He also discovers that she is heiress to $500,000. Fearful of McNamara, in his official capacity, Nance flees. Lanny finds her in her apartment, asleep. Then she disappears, and McNamara learns that she is living in Paris. He also discovers he is in love with Lanny.

"The instructions are fine, but why commit forgery by signing Dan's name? If the original is traced—"

"I have signed it Mac, and the world is filled with Macs. When Dan has reached his office, telephone him and tell him to do something that will prove in any court he was in his office when I filed this cablegram."

Lanny relented. "You might make a detective, at that."

Twenty minutes later Dan McNamara was listening to Lanny reading Stephen's cablegram over his private line. "Excellent," was his sole comment, "but print it in block letters. Even a typewriter can betray one. When Steve files this telegram have him pay for it with a hundred-dollar bill, and have him wear large black goggles and the rim of his hat pulled down all the way round. The girl who receives it will think one crook is cabling another. If she's ever asked what sort of man filed it, her description of the sender, plus my own perfect alibi, will put me in the clear."

"How are we to manage after she has eluded the Paris police?"

McNamara sighed gustily. "Flynn will be in touch with her bank, and every time she cashes a draft on her letter of credit, Flynn will have a line on her address."

"You're no help," Lanny snapped, and hung up. Half an hour later, from the cable company's main office, Stephen dispatched the cablegram.

With Dan McNamara definitely out of the fight, Stephen felt lonely and apprehensive. He wondered why the girl had fled to Paris in the face of Dan McNamara's instructions to flee to Lower California, to enter which no passport is required. He asked Lanny.

"Oh, that's no mystery, Stevie. I brought home from the office, intending to show it to Dan, an article by a celebrated plastic surgeon of Paris. Penelope read it with great interest. She went to Paris to consult this French plastic surgeon and also to have samples of her new nose drawn by a competent artist."

"So that's how the Paris police informed Dan she was having her portrait done by an American artist, eh? I suppose it will be her luck to be in a hospital undergoing the operation when the Paris police receive word to deport her."

"I'm afraid she's baited everything up, Stephen. Flynn will have the number of her passport and Dan will have no time to fix a new passport photograph on to it. They'll not trust to the photo to identify her if she tries to land. They'll check up on the passport number also."

"Will you never cease discussing this miserable business, Lanny?" Stephen burst out irritably. "If it hadn't been for you we wouldn't be in this wretched predicament."

When the captain of detectives called in Detective Sergeant P. Flynn and related to him the tale told to him by Mrs. Rudolph Merton, Flynn gave no sign of being particularly interested. Carefully and methodically he arranged in his mind the facts as stated, and when he left the presence of his superior, all he knew was that he was to strive to recover a lost heiress by name Penelope Gatlin, and that she had a nose that should make her recognizable anywhere.

After nine hours of refreshing slumber, Flynn proceeded to ponder the case of Penelope Gatlin of the saddle nose. "I seem to be getting my fill of girls with saddle noses who disappear mysteriously," he decided lazily—and instantly something clicked in his brain and he knew he was on the trail of Nance Belden again. An heiress, eh? McNamara had hinted at powerful influences back of Nance Belden, and she certainly must have hired the expert help she had had in her escape from San Quentin penitentiary.

"McNamara knows who she is," Flynn decided. "He's getting his chunks for helping her. I'll bet it's the same girl."

San Quentin, and that somebody should be P. Flynn.

He went to San Jose that day and interviewed the officials of the bank, who, when he flashed his shield, gave him all the information they possessed. Dan McNamara had artfully destroyed all the girl's police photographs, but if she had secured a passport, Flynn argued to himself, she had left two of her passport photographs with the passport office, and Flynn knew he could borrow one of them.

Flynn's shield was an open sesame to the man in charge of the passport office. Two minutes after his arrival he knew Nance Belden had secured a passport.

Employing identically the same means McNamara had employed, he traced Penelope Gatlin to Paris within three days. But he had now to prove that Penelope Gatlin and Nance Belden were one and the same person, so he interviewed the United States marshal, who secured for him one of the girl's passport photographs. Armed with this, Flynn crossed the bay to San Quentin.

"Is that Nance Belden?" he asked the matron.

"That is Nance Belden," was the reply.

From the ferry he went at once to the home of Mrs. Rudolph Merton. He stuck the photograph under her nose and asked gruffly: "Is that Penelope Gatlin?"

A tremor ran over Mrs. Merton's face. It seemed to Flynn that she was frightened, disturbed.

"Well?" he demanded. "You can't expect the police to find your missing daughter if you don't help. Is this her picture or isn't it?"

"I—I don't know. I have never heard of her before."

"Never heard of her? Why, she's your daughter!"

"I haven't any daughter."

"Why, you called on the captain of detectives and asked him to find your daughter. What do you mean by telling me you've never heard of her?"

"I can't remember. I don't know. Oh, please, please don't ask me! Something terrible will happen. I—I—"

"You refuse to identify this photo as that of Penelope Gatlin?" Flynn was growing irritated.

Finally she had hysterics and a maid came in and asked P. Flynn to leave the house.

Flynn was profoundly irritated. He knew Penelope Gatlin was at 27 Rue Instantly Something Clicked in His Brain and He Knew He Was on the Trail of Nance Belden Again.

St. Honoré, Paris, but he did not know that Nance Belden was! Back at central office, he compared the passport photograph with the substitute photograph Dan McNamara had passed on to Nance Belden's fake police record card—and knew it for a fake.

Suddenly it occurred to Flynn that he had had an official interview with everybody connected with this mysterious case, except Dr. Stephen Burt.

"You're a long time getting around to see me, Sergeant," Stephen charged, and indicated a large, comfortable armchair.

"I called on you once, Doctor, but you didn't know it. That was the night after Nance Belden escaped from San Quentin. Me an' my partner trailed you to the chief's house."

"I've always thought you and the excellent Angeliotti didn't make the best of your opportunities," Stephen murmured. "Still, I suppose you were playing with dynamite."

"We were," said Flynn, "but no more. The chief's one of the biggest-hearted men in the world, but a picnic egg if you rub him the wrong way. So we pussy-footed."

"No fair man could deny the excellence of your pussy-footing. I know all about it. How about a wee Dock an' Doris?" Stephen suggested.

"There's an idea for you, Doctor." Stephen summoned the butler and ordered the drink. Flynn, with great deliberation, produced Penelope's photograph.

"Do you know the lady?" he queried. "I think I do, Sergeant."

"Who is she?"

"Is there any reason why I should express an opinion?"

"Not unless you choose to be good-natured. I suppose you know you're in Dutch for aiding and abetting an escaped convict."

"Well?"

"Naturally we don't want to make the going hard for a man of your standing," Flynn continued.

"My dear sergeant, you would have started the fireworks long ago if you had anything tangible to proceed upon."

Flynn sipped his highball. "You're being well paid for shielding this girl, of course. I don't blame you a bit, but you're too big a figure in your profession to get into trouble with the police."

"Dan McNamara is my friend."

"Well, Mac is out of it. He can't protect you because he must protect himself. It might interest you to know that Nance Belden and a lost heiress, Penelope Gatlin, are the same person, and I have the Paris police watching her right now."

"Are you quite certain the girl is still at that Paris address?" asked Stephen.

"I know it."

"I know she isn't—and the Paris police do not know where she is."

"Do you?"

"No, but if I did I wouldn't tell you."

"Look here," said Flynn. "What's it worth to your young girl friend to have me lay off the case?"

"I'll give you twenty dollars in Confederate currency. You were offered real money once and refused it."

They looked at each other searchingly, then both laughed. "I see there ain't much use pumpin' you, Doc," Flynn admitted. "Well, a fellow can't be ruled off for trying."

"When were you to see a doctor last?"

"At the age of twenty-two. Why?"

"How old are you?"

"Forty-two."

"Well, just to prove I'm friendly I'll give you a quick physical examination. It may save you a fee later from some other physician. Mind if I give you a quick look-see?"

"Go to it," said Flynn.

Stephen tested Flynn's heart action and lungs and took his blood pressure.

"You're up thirty-six points," he told him.

Flynn was distinctly perturbed.

"What does that mean?"

"It means that you have a fairly well developed case of hardening of the arteries. If you were to be re-examined physically, for promotion, you might be retired on pension."

"I couldn't afford that," cried Flynn.

"I've got a wife and five children."

"Nevertheless, I would suggest you apply for a six months' leave of absence and have me treat you. How's your eyesight?"

"Grand," P. Flynn mumbled.

"I doubt it, Sergeant. I'll bet you a hundred dollars you cannot look into this little mirror fifteen minutes without averting your gaze. Want to earn the hundred?"

"I can't afford that much of a bet, Doc."

"Well, then, we'll not bet, but if you can I'll give you a hundred dollars."

Stephen produced a hand mirror and held it two feet in front of Flynn and about six inches above the level of his glance. He took out his watch.

"Go!" he said. "And remember I'm watching you. If you get through this test successfully there's hope for your arteriosclerosis."

P. Flynn grinned and gazed. In three minutes the effort oppressed him. Stephen's voice reached him as from a distance.

"You are going to sleep, Sergeant."

Then, "You can't stand it, Sergeant. You're going to sleep, I tell you—to sleep."

"I'm not," Flynn protested drowsily, just as his eyes closed and his head fell forward on his breast.

Stephen's soft hands stroked the detective's brow. "Why did you call to see me?"

"To get you to identify the photograph," Flynn's voice was faint.

"Why was that necessary?"

Flynn hesitated, struggled a little, but lay back quietly again as Stephen's facile hands resumed their light massaging. "Are you going to oppose me, Sergeant?"

"No, Doctor."

"Will you answer questions truthfully?"

"Yes, Doctor." The tones were dead and lifeless, for Flynn slept a hypnotic sleep.

"Why was it necessary that I should identify the photograph?"

"I've got to know before I act, Doctor. The matron at San Quentin says it's Nance Belden, but the photograph is on the passport of Penelope Gatlin."

"Why do you want this girl?"

"She's made a fool out of me—and she can pay well to be let alone."

"You're not interested in seeing her returned to prison?"

"Not a d—n bit, Doctor. Why should I?"

"That name, Penelope Gatlin, is bad luck," Stephen warned. "Never repeat it to a human soul. If you do it may mean your death. And your oldest child will be kidnapped, tortured and killed."

"Oh, God, no!" Flynn cried out in agony.

"You must forget Penelope Gatlin and Nance Belden. Will you?"

"Yes, Doctor."

Look to Your Accessories for Chic

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

WHAT'S smarter, if you please, for this spring, than a good looking black, navy or tweed suit or frock "set off" with fetching accessories to a nicely down to the slightest detail? We confess we do not know the answer, unless it would be "more accessories." However, this we do know, that fashion has gone so unmistakably accessory-conscious, this season, the very fate of your costume depends on the chic and the charm and the correctness of the accessory items worn with it.

Which leads us to predict that you will be tempted to spend as you have never spent before on the dainty lovely neck fixings which are simply lavished on the new spring frocks and suits. Neither will you be able to resist the appeal of the intriguing costume jewelry together with ingenious little gadgets of every description.

Speaking of accessory ensembles, a veritable chamomile spring fever has broken out both among fashion-alert Americans and chic Parisiennes. To demonstrate how utterly swank from head to fingertip yellow chamomile accessories on navy are proving to be, we are illustrating a stunning ensemble to the right in the group. The pert V-neck beret and classic pull-over gloves are of this soft butter colored chamomile leather. The tailored scarf with hand-stitched chamomile is real news. The four-inch belt with circle buckle and the new flat bag with braided handle are also of the fashionable chamomile. Yes, we agree with you that these new chamomile sets are outstanding and greatly to be coveted by those who appreciate the air of distinction they impart.

The costume worn by the girl seated has about it that note of sophisticated simplicity which is high-style convincing.

CHIC SPRING FURS

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Dainty furs and fur trimmings tuned to spring are conspicuously in the limelight at present. For sportswear or for early springtime this cunning snow-flecked weasel jacket is an excellent choice for a young woman of fashion. Shading from a yellowish beige to a soft brown it harmonizes with browns or the new pastels which are so popular this spring.

Turquoise Jewelry

Turquoise jewelry is enjoying quite a vogue at present. Long strands of small beads are worn, twisted several times around the neck or the arm, with one detachable clip to match holding the different strings in place.

FEMINE CURVES COME INTO FAVOR

The perennial question of the great American figure is before us again, and this time the consensus is decided—we are to have feminine curves this year.

Not the Mae Westian curves of yesterday, nor yet the wasp waist of the Gibson girl, but a happy compromise—a return to natural contours.

Rosina McDowell Lynn, of the McDowell school of costume design says the new trend toward natural curves is all due to Mussolini and Hitler, and their policy of encouraging women to concentrate on the nursery.

She says the American figure follows the trend of the times, toward a more normal state of mind, and predicts that the spinach and grapefruit diets of the last few years are on the way out.

Flecked White Linens Are Popular for Spring Frocks

Heavy white linens splashed with multicolored flecks (achieved by sprinkling in small bright bits of cloth while the material is being woven) and cream linens embroidered in red and black figures are used for frocks. A new "blotting paper pink," flame and pastel tints are favorite colors for linen frocks this year; green, brown and gray are smart for suitings.

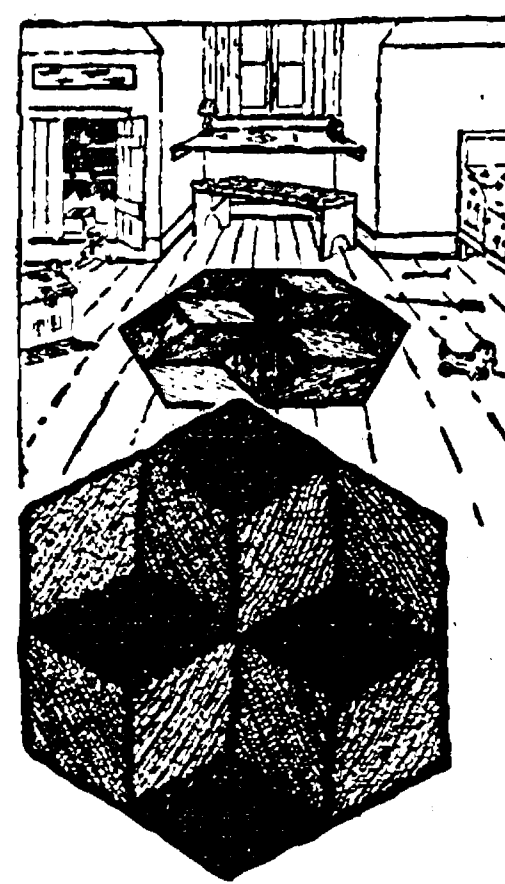

Linen corsets, lingerie, gloves, bags, hats and shoes are among the novelties launched this spring. Golf suits and tea gowns, evening frocks and flying suits, summer dresses and tennis shorts are also being fashioned in the new flax weaves.

Velvet Ensemble Favored

Velvet ensembles or velvet dresses with long narrow fitting capes of graceful line are being worn with matching gloves and hats in London.

Crocheted Rug in "Cubes and Stars"

By GRANDMOTHER CLARK

This is another rug design that our readers will recognize as taken from the "Cubes and Stars" quilt design that is possibly a hundred years old. This rug measures thirty inches and requires about two pounds of material to crochet. It is made up of 12 diamonds and slip stitched together to form a star or blocks, depending on the way the color scheme is worked out. It is always an interesting rug to study (count the cubes) and well adapted for a child's room.

This is one of the twenty beautiful crocheted rugs shown in colors with directions in rug book No. 24. If this rug interests you send 15c to our Rug Department and get the instructions for making this rug and nineteen others.

City Still Spanish

Most travelers who have visited both Spain and South America assert that Cartagena, in Colombia, is more Spanish in atmosphere than the cities of old Spain. The oldest living city of South America is as medieval as ever in its narrow cobbled streets winding about between old Moorish-Spanish houses, in its sixteenth century monasteries, old dungeons and moats, and the same grim fortresses which were attacked by Drake and Morgan and the buccaners of the Spanish main.

STOMACH TROUBLE?

Mrs. Cora E. Cain of 34 Spruce St., Akron, Ohio, said: "A little less than a year ago my daughter, Marie Arden, (picture shown) was a physical wreck, due to stomach trouble. After giving her Dr. Williams' Golden Balm, a change in her condition was noticed. She was able to sleep well, and her teachers soon remarked about the difference in her school work." New size, tablets 50 cts., liquid $1.00.

DID NOT DELIVER THE GOODS WELFARE RELIEF GIVEN

Several weeks ago one G. D. Albright of Ann Arbor canvassed Pinckney, and took orders for tailor-made suits and pants. On the suits he got a $10 deposit, and on the pants, $1. We understand he got about ten orders here. Only one suit and one pair of pants were ever received. Letters to the Lyons Tailoring Company of Cincinnati, Ohio brought the information that only a few of these orders were received. Also that Albright was not a regular salesman, but occasionally sent them orders. Inquiries were made and it was found that he had taken orders in Dexter, Saline and Ypsilanti and failed to deliver over a suit or two.

He was arrested on a warrant sworn out by a Dexter victim, and given a 15-day sentence in the Ann Arbor jail. In the meantime his victims are holding the bag.

RED CROSS AGENCIES SAFEGUARD HEALTH

First Aid, Life Saving, Nursing Care, Promote Health and Safety

Five outstanding services make up the health-conservation program of the American Red Cross, according to the annual report just issued in Washington. These services are first aid and life saving, which together have trained more than a million persons; nursing, with an active enrollment of 36,133 registered nurses; Public Health Nursing, conducted by 750 nurses in 424 chapters last year; and Home Hygiene, which has taught more than 700,000 men and women simple ways of caring for the sick at home.

"The achievements of the Red Cross in public health nursing place it among the leaders in this field," said James L. Fieser, vice chairman in charge of domestic operations. "This service was organized in 1919 to meet needs developed by the World War and the ravages of the flu epidemic which in 1918-1919 took so great a toll of life."

"Since that time Red Cross nursing services have been pioneers in more than one half of the counties in the United States. Many services we established were taken over later by civic, state and federal agencies, and the Red Cross continues to establish services in other new fields. Red Cross nurses made more than a million visits to patients last year, and 629,025 children in schools were inspected."

"Red Cross courses in home hygiene and care of the sick are especially important in times of depression, because they teach families to maintain hygienic conditions in their own homes and to recognize symptoms of illness just compensation is not only essential, but mandatory; for did not the master Christian tell us that 'the laborer is worthy of his hire'? Are we as custodians of the one definite and most meritorious work we are of the highest salaried executive, knowing that, according to God's plan, each man, being in his right place and exercising right activity, is entitled to the same loving consideration? Are we practicing the Golden Rule and loving our neighbors as ourselves?"

SCHOOL NOTES

JUNIOR-SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL PLAY "DIAMONDS"

When a woman's husband has the annoying habit of bringing home any stranger who can tell a hard-luck story she cannot be blamed for being overly suspicious, especially when she has a valuable diamond in the house.

Kate Drummond suspected Phil's old chum, Ed. Lourance, of being a thief. In consequence, she made a great deal of trouble for herself and others. Percy and his mother, and per little Peggy keep the fun flowing, and two lovely hearts find happiness at last.

SCHOOL NOTES

Mid-semester exams Thursday and Friday of this week.

The Seniors are having their class photos taken today by the Covert Studios of Alma, Michigan.

Roy Clinton was absent from school the latter part of last week because of illness.

June Lamb was absent from school last week Friday, because of an injury to her finger. It was found necessary to administer lockjaw serum.

BASERBALL NOTES

The High School baseball team defeated Gregory last Friday, 16 to 8. Gregory was permitted to use a number of outsiders to bolster its team. Among these were Simons, Stockbridge, and "Bill" Drown, ex Pinckney star.

Ledwidge pitched for Pinckney and Young caught. With practice, Ledwidge should develop into a good pitcher.

Nearly every one of the twenty players out for the team saw action in this game.

Of course, the fielding was somewhat ragged, and the hitting spotty, but considering the earliness of the season and the greenness of more than half the players, the team's showing was satisfactory.

Dilloway's five runs in five times at bat, Bill Drown's one-handed stab of a line drive, and the breaking into several widely scattered pieces of Andy Kertland's new bat were the high lights of this game.

Thursday night of this week the Seniors will play the Juniors and Sophmores. The two teams will be evenly matched, and a close game is bound to result. Who will volunteer to umpire?

RURAL SCHOOL READING CONTESTS

Reading contests are being held in the various townships of the county to determine who will represent each township in the county contest to be held in June. 18 pupils from the schools of Brighton township met at the Bethel School on Wednesday, April 3. The winners were: Shirley Bidwell, 2d grade; Doris Hicks, 3d grade; Jean Lepley, 4th grade; Margaret Lepley, 5th grade; Helen Shaw, 6th grade; Virginia Lepley, 7th grade; Josephine Bidwell, 8th grade.

In Cohoctah township, 22 pupils took part and the winners were: Ian Olmstead, 2d grade; June Johnson, 3rd grade; Iris Olmstead, 4th grade; Barbara Jackson, 5th grade; Steve Kuczka, 6th grade; Lyle Olmstead, 7th grade; Onalce Johnson, 8th grade.

Winners in Conway township were: Margaret Bessert, 1st grade; Patty Shrewood, 2d grade; Mark Kelly, 3rd grade; Carolyn Howell, and Betty Eames, 4th grade; George Schormerhorn, 5th grade; George Horton and Darryl Cook, 6th grade; Harriette Sherwood, 7th grade; Russell Fay, 8th grade. 22 pupils took part in this contest.

WAS STRUCK BY TRUCK

Monday, while Ezra Plummer and George Sweeney were on their way to Portage Lake with Stanley Dinkel's well-drilling outfit, the engine on the Dodge truck stalled. The two got out to fix it on the road between Big and Little Portage Lake. A Wolverine beer truck came along on the side where Sweeney was and dragged him about 40 or 50 feet. He received no serious injuries, but his clothing was riddled and nearly torn off of him.

From the foregoing facts it will be seen that we do not reach our desired haven by ignoring evil and drifting with the tide. There is much work to be done, but it is primarily mental and has behind it the omnipotence of God. Our mental state determines our human conditions. With positive and fearless thoughts within, we shall find our human affairs taking on a new aspect. And if at first it seems difficult to listen for God's thoughts, let us begin by expressing the blessed qualities of cheerfulness and gratitude. These are buoyant qualities, uplifting, joyous, and free.

The cheerful and grateful heart will be receptive of the most lovely and gracious ideas of Infinite Mind. Faith and goodness, hope and assurance, intelligence and wisdom, are all ours if we will but avail ourselves of them. And when the frail bark of human effort is steadied and borne onward by the spiritual understanding which comes to all who earnestly seek God, it will bring us safely to the haven of our most cherished desires.—The Christian Science Monitor
