

The Pinckney Centennial Is a Grand Success

Aided by Fair Weather, the Pinckney Centennial and Home Coming
Drew Mammoth Crowds and Proves a Big Success.

The Pinckney Centennial Celebration is now a matter of history and all things considered, it must be reckoned another grand success. Aided by fine weather throughout the attendance was good and all things went off in good shape.

It is a long time since Pinckney attempted anything of this kind. We believe the last home coming was in 1914. Consequently the task of mapping it out fell on inexperienced shoulders for the most part and this caused a few mistakes. However, we are informed that sufficient revenue was taken in to pay all expenses.

The morning of July 4th was pretty cloudy until noon and showers threatened. Some rain fell in nearby places but Pinckney was immune and did not get a drop. About noon the sun came out strong and the heat was intense during the rest of the day and the following one.

The parade was the chief and leading attraction and most of the morning was spent in preparing for it. Many did not get their floats done until nearly noon. The parade was called for 1:00 P. M., but it was nearly 1:30 P. M. before it finally got underway.

Archie Gorton acted as marshal of the day and led the parade. Mrs. Louise Glenn on an old fashioned side saddle, followed carrying the United States flag. In all there were some 25 horsemen and horsewomen in the parade. They were W. Euler, Lyle Euler, L. J. Henry, Leo Farley, Wm. Darrow, Lloyd Hendee, Wm. Brown, Carl Soper, Frank Brenningstall Sr., Frank Brenningstall Jr., Lambert Hinchey, Grace Hinchey, Tel Bourbonnais Jr., Jimmie Noecker, Mrs. Zimmerman, W. C. Atlee, Reg. Terry, Mary Kelly, Mary Jane Atlee and others from the Atlee and Diem Riding Academies. Also a boy who lives with Mr. and Mrs. John Martin. Many of these horses had never been ridden before and although they showed considerable nervousness at times, behaved fairly well.

Next came the float representing the village of Pinckney. This was in red, white and blue with American flags and shields and on it rode Uncle Sam, in his red, white and blue costume, swallow tail coat, plug hat and all.

Then came the Pagan float carrying Miss Pinckney, Margaret Curlett; Mrs. Columbia, Betty Clinton; and the ten Ladies in Waiting, Madge Jack, Esther Berquist, Margaret McKee, Jean Graves, Leota Reason, Nellie Euler, Helen Devereaux, Janis Carr, Marjorie Hendee and Arlene Thorpe.

M. J. Reason's entry was next consisting of a fine team of oxen drawing a covered wagon. This team is a handsome pair belonging to a Mr. Curtis of Elsie.

Following this came the Chubb's Corner's entry consisting of a horse-drawn covered wagon bearing the motto "Chubb's Corners or Bust".

Reason & Sons had an ox team and covered wagon representing them in the parade. This was the Rushlow team from Green Oak on an emigrant white covered wagon.

P. H. Swarthout's float, showing "The Birth of the First White Child in Livingston County" was next. This was a replica of the one Pinckney entered in the county centennial at Howell in 1930.

Following this was a float entered by the churches of Pinckney, depicting two angels kneeling before an altar. Then came the Pinckney Dispatch float showing an old time printing office, then the float entered by Pinckney Chapter O. E. S., in which five little girls dressed in appropriate colors formed the five points of the star. A company of cowboys was next and then a decorated car entered by the Teeple Hardware. Roy Clark's contribution was a car bearing a banner. Lee Lavey entered a handsome float on which was a Flying Red Horse and a Goodyear Tire, each about five feet in height.

A very handsome float entered by the City of South Lyon was next. This was probably the fanciest one in the parade and aroused much admiration. Fred Slayton & Son entered a 1935 decorated Chevrolet car. The U. of M. Fresh Air Camp and Unadilla had a float with a number of boy bathing beauties and one of which was poised on a diving board.

Bill Lamb and Doni Spears in a Ford of ancient lineage were next in a blackface Amos and Andy stunt. S. H. Carr's float was decorated with ferns, etc. and carried several small girls advertising spring water ice.

Mr. and Mrs. Ora Haines in an old fashioned horse and buggy depicted a bride and groom of 100 years ago. Harlow Haines and Clara Miller and lady friends, who represented the modern bride and groom came next.

Following Richardson had a decorated Dixie oil tank-truck and Edward Parker had two Standard Oil trucks in the parade.

Rush Lake on Wheels entered by F. A. McKelvey and associates, consisted of a launch mounted on a decorated truck.

Frank Larue entered a decorated car. The Citizens Mutual Insurance Co. had a handsome float and so did Fred Teeple and Son of Howell.

Stockbridge had a float decorated in white and yellow and carrying a huge key advertising the Stockbridge

Centennial in August.

The loud speaker truck of the Cream Top Brewing Co. was next. Ladonis Spears, Marcial Ledwidge and Co. had another ancient Ford and so did M. L. Hinchey.

E. E. Mann of Detroit had a decorated car and James Shirley, a car advertising wrecker service. The Co-operative Oil Co. had a decorated oil truck and Mike Damascus a horse and mule team entry. Fire Chief Meyer drove the village fire engine.

The funniest truck in the parade was a float entered by the Blue Valley Creamery Co. and W. H. Meyer. It contained the five Dionne quintuplets impersonated by Percy Fish, Wm. Pasick, Clive Pemberton and others, all decked out with nursing bottles and rattles.

The parade formed on Pearl St. and paraded down Main St. then around the square and twice made the circuit.

The Unadilla Band on a truck was also part of the parade and furnished the musical end of it.

Taken all together there were nearly 100 entries in the parade.

THE PET PARADE

On Friday afternoon the pet parade took place. This formed on the school grounds and started about 1:30 P. M., making one complete circuit around the square and then back to the school. This occasioned a lot of mirth and was the first thing of its kind ever pulled off in Pinckney. The parade was headed by Marilyn Glenn on her pony carrying an American flag. Other entries were Megan Meyer with a pet lamb, Pat Jeffreys with a clown outfit, Merlin Lavey on a decorated bicycle wearing a clown outfit, Helen Reason driving a goat on a cart, the Chubb's Children riding a pony, the little girl standing upright on its back, Russell and Maynard Clark with a pet dog, Shirley Reason wheeling a paper mache goose, Betty Baughn and Jean Bird with a Persian cat in a wagon, Geraldine Vedder with five kittens in a doll cab, the Smollett boys dressed as a Red Cross nurse and doctor with five kittens in a baby cab, Don Thorpe with a dog, Allan Dinkel driving a calf on a cart, Mike Harnaack Jr. with a dog, Thorpe Bros. with a decorated cart, Peachy Palmer in a cowboy suit, Hobby Martin with a similar outfit, Albert Dinkel riding a Shetland pony, Henry Reason driving a goat on a cart, Junior Doyle with his pet dog, John Onohue with his pet dog, Donald Gardner leading a pet lamb, Junior Wagner on a decorated bicycle, Ross Lamb with a pet dog, Joe Lavey with five tiger kittens, the Plummer children with a pet dog, Gale and Rex Hendee with a pet lamb, Robert Veder driving a bumpy pony on a cart, Fred Teeple in a clown outfit and Mike Damascus with a horse on a cart drawing a phonograph. At the head of the parade was the Ford Mountaineers, the popular radio team who sang and played popular airs. They were sent free gratis by the Ford Motor Co., through the courtesy of W. C. Atlee. Other entries in the parade were Lily Matthews, M. Ranta, Gilbert Grainger, June Bokrus and Bobby Lavey. Miss Pinckney float, the First White Child, the Village of Pinckney, the Pinckney Churches and Lee Lavey's floats were also in the parade. This pet parade was something new and novel and went over big although the dogs barked, the cats howled and the lambs and goats bled continuously. All children participating were given free rides in the merry-go-round swing.

THE BALL GAMES

In the base ball games Hamburg beat Pinckney the first day 12 to 1. Batteries for Pinckney: Tate and Smith; Hamburg: Johnson and Bennett.

Annual School Meetings Held

M. J. Reason Is Re-Elected to Pinckney School Board. Plans for New Addition to the School Discussed. District Schools Re-Elect Officers.

Monday night was the annual school meeting. Only about 22 attended the Pinckney meeting. M. J. Reason was re-elected to the Pinckney school board to succeed himself. The vote was as follows: M. J. Reason 13, Lee Lavey 7, Eugene Dinkel 2.

Plans for building a four-room addition to cost $10,000 on the Pinckney school, which is greatly overcrowded, was discussed. This would be a PWA project with the federal government furnishing 45 per cent and the district 55 per cent of the cost. An extra teacher would also be hired.

In the district schools the results were as follows:

Harris school—Wm. Clark re-elected moderator, Earl Baughn is director and Paul Clark, treasurer. No teacher yet hired.

Sprout school—Frank Gibson elected director, Guy Hinchey is moderator and Philip Sprout, treasurer. Teacher for next year is Bernice Isham.

Reeves school—W. H. Garner re-elected moderator, Mrs. A. VanSickle is director and Mrs. Louise Glenn, treasurer. Teacher for next year not yet hired.

Marble school—Mrs. Edna Spears elected moderator, director is Royal Kellenberg. The treasurer is Mrs. Percy Euler. Teacher for next year is Miss Dene Hinchey.

Ricks school—George Clark was re-elected treasurer. Arthur Sheehan is moderator and Mrs. L. J. Swarthout, director. Teacher for next year is Joyce Isham.

Waters school—J. Keator was re-elected moderator, Wray Hinchey is director and Robert Jack, treasurer. Teacher for next year is Miss Don Swarthout.

Pettyville school—Fred Blakes was re-elected moderator, Mark Nach is director and Clifford VanHorn, treasurer. No teacher yet hired for next year.

Haus district—No meeting held on account of illness of Orville Smith, director. W. H. Euler is moderator and Lynn Hendee, treasurer. Teacher for next year is Mrs. Thorpe.

Chubb's Corners—Albert Dinkel re-elected treasurer, M. J. Hoisel is director and Mrs. Roy Smollett, re-elected teacher for next year is Helen Bland.

Unadilla—110 votes were cast and Howard Mayhall and Glenn Bishop were both re-elected. Other board members are Guy Kuhn, Robert Reid and Norman Toppenberg.

Burgess school—Fred Burgess was re-elected moderator, Roy Dillingham is director. The treasurer is Dene Hinchey. No school will be held there next year.

Younglove school—John Martin re-elected treasurer, Mrs. Edna Line is director and Thomas Lavey, re-elected teacher is Miss Dorothy Slayton.

SLOT MACHINE RAIDS
The officers of this section staged a number of slot machine raids Monday. In Washington county Sheriff Amers raided six places, mostly in the lake resorts. Places visited were Whitmore Lake, Northwest Territorial road, Portage Lake and Sugar Loaf Lake. Many machines were found in operation but no arrests were made or machines seized.

In Livingston county, the section Benjamin visited a number of places in this section including resorts at Lakeland and Patterson Lakes and ordered the slot machine out. No arrests were made or machines seized, however.

This removal of the war against slot machines was aided by a sweeping order issued by Governor Fitzgerald to the sheriff and prosecutors of the law or answer to the state government. The law provides a fine of $100 for anyone having a slot machine in their possession but has not been enforced. A similar order issued by Attorney General Toy last February caused the slot machines to disappear but all returned in the course of a month. Whether the same thing will happen now or not, only time will tell. In the meantime the machines are on a temporary vacation.

CENTENNIAL SOUVENIRS
There are still a number of souvenir programs of the Pinckney Centennial for sale at 10c each. This will make a nice gift for a friend or relative who was unable to attend the Centennial. They contain a historical viewpoint of Pinckney, program of the three day's events, including a story and full text of the Paganant. These can be obtained at the stores.

We also have a few copies of the special Centennial addition of the Pinckney Dispatch for sale.

SOFT BALL GAMES
The Pinckney soft ball team will play the Y.M.C.A. team at Silver Lake on Thursday night, July 11. All players please be on hand at the Dispatch office at 6:45 P. M. sharp.

On Monday night Pinckney will play the Michigan State Sanitarium team at the Sanitarium. Players will leave Pinckney at 6:30 P. M. The following players are asked to be on hand: D. Swarthout, R. Swarthout, A. Singer, James Singer, P. Singer, G. Clinton, the Lamb Bros., Floyd Dinkel and any others who wish to go.

Current Comment

Now that the liquor business has been legalized bootlegging seems to be turning to other industries. A short time ago, several years, in fact, the selling and shooting off of fireworks was outlawed in Michigan except on special occasions, at which time it was necessary to secure a permit. This law held for a few years but this year it was broken in a number of cases. This was done, it is claimed, by bootlegging fireworks in from Ohio where the laws are less stringent. Quite a lot of them were brought into Pinckney during the Centennial Celebration of the past week. In one instance a horse which was being prepared for the parade became frightened by them, ran away and struck an auto. Both car and horse were badly banged up. At the Paganant a number of smart alikes amused themselves by shooting off fireworks near the oxen and horses used in the different episodes. Finally they were chased away by the sheriff's officers and state police. This law against fireworks evidently needs stringent enforcement.

The recent Dickinson slaying in Detroit and the arrest of Merbolt Goodrich has started an agitation in favor of capital punishment again. The argument is that with such a law in force these crimes would not have occurred. We don't see the argument. If Goodrich had been kept in the asylum where he belonged he would not have been free to commit any crime. In the case of Ferris, Dickinson's murderer, in the only case in which he was brought to trial he was found not guilty. Strict enforcement of the laws and abolishment of political pardons and paroles is the answer to the Michigan crime problem. In other words, enforce the existing laws instead of passing more new laws. The American people have a mania for passing laws and then not enforcing them.

Four drownings occurred in this section on July 4th, and in all cases the victims were Detroiters out to the lakes for the day. One tragically took place at Island Lake, in this county and the other at Hudson on the Huron River, just over the line in Washtenaw county. Native of the lake and river districts know the dangers of the streams of Michigan and very seldom are drowning victims. Just how the city dwellers who are usually the drowning victims can be educated sufficiently to reduce the deaths by drowning is a problem.

Despite the large crowds at the Centennial things as a rule went off orderly. As far as we know there was only one arrest made. There were alterations, mostly verbal, which were settled without the aid of John Law. The state police and sheriff's department should be congratulated in this excellent manner in which they preserved order.

Leo Ferris, of Switzburg, the confessed Dickinson killer in Detroit, claims to have gotten religion and spends his time in the Wayne county jail reading the Bible and preaching against crime to the other prisoners. Recently he got permission of Sheriff Bonhardt to conduct a big revival service in the jail chapel to which the public would be admitted. However, this caused such a storm of protest that the sheriff withdrew his permission. The consensus of opinion is that Ferris, racketeer extraordinary, is trying to put over another racket in order to get a light sentence.

PINCKNEY DEFEATS HOLT 5-1

The Pinckney baseball team won from Holt at Pinckney Sunday by a score of 5 to 1. Dr. Howell pitched for Pinckney and only allowed three hits. Holt getting their only run on an error. Ferris was Pinckney's leading hitter with a single and a three base knock. The following were the lineup:

Lays Out Work for Congress

Washington. — President Roosevelt has submitted to congress a list of the legislation he deems necessary to have passed before the present session adjourns. He has divided it into two categories—"must" and desirable. If congress enacts only the list of "must" legislation and passes over the other group of bills which the President considers desirable, it is made to appear that the membership of the house and senate is due to suffer some of the torrid temperature and the uncomfortable humidity of a Washington summer. The President said he must have legislation extending the National Recovery administration, providing social security, eliminating public utility holding companies, increasing the loaning power of the Home Owners Loan corporation, extension of the so-called nuisance taxes which expire by limitation of law on June 30, and revision of the banking laws.

In addition, the President made known that he would like to have enacted legislation to take the profits out of war, whatever that may mean. He previously had sent a message asking enactment of a law providing for expansion of the American merchant marine through the use of ship subsidies, and he also desires to have enacted legislation setting up machinery for the settlement of labor disputes. This legislation is in the congressional hopper in the form of a bill by Senator Wagner, of New York.

The President would like to have amendments to the agricultural adjustment act in order to eliminate some of the weaknesses which the AAA people admit exist. The airmail contract situation is another matter with which Mr. Roosevelt has been concerned.

Seasoned observers recognize that this list of "must" legislation, not to mention the desired legislation, is sufficient to keep congress grinding away far into the summer. They recognize likewise that if the desired legislation later becomes of such concern that the President wants to place it on the preferred list as well, the membership of congress must be prepared to forego summer trips of any kind.

Since a good many members of congress have grown tired of being called rubber stamps for the administration, they naturally have turned attention to legislation which they think will be helpful to their own bailiwicks, to themselves personally or from a party standpoint. Thus there have been promoted numerous pieces of legislation for which some individuals, at least, entertain greater fervor than they do for measures that were drafted by President Roosevelt's official family and transmitted to congress as administration legislation. It is the general observation that an individual, representative, or senator frequently will go much further in fighting for legislation that is his own brain child than for legislation placed before him on a silver platter such as administration proposals have been. Consequently, individual or group measures are constantly cluttering up house and senate legislative calendars. This is a factor meaning delay for administration bills.

Pets of Their Own

It is to be remembered, as has been reported in these columns, that Mr. Roosevelt is unable to ward off criticism of some of his proposals. Indeed, there have been Democratic criticisms and Democratic opposition to a greater or lesser degree to all of the legislation he has proposed since congress convened last January. All of which is by way of saying that congress faces weeks of committee work and floor debate despite the fact that the House Democratic leaders still retain rather solid control of a sufficient majority in the lower house of congress to drive through any pet measures for the administration. In the senate the situation is decidedly different.

Included in the legislation being fostered by individual members is the bill that would permit cabinet officers to appear on the floors of congress for questioning and explanation, such as occurs under the British and French parliamentary systems. The administration does not want this bill. It will have to exert some pressure to avoid passage. The reason is that the Roosevelt administration is no longer one in which the cabinet is dominant. Cabinet officers are only part of the scheme, and if congress wanted to inquire about the handling of relief money, which it probably will desire, it must talk with Administrator Hopkins. Mr. Hopkins is not in the cabinet. The same is true of NRA and to some extent of the AAA, although Secretary Wallace of the Department of Agriculture theoretically is a superior officer to Administrator Davis. The administrator is definitely opposed to the passage of bonus legislation for the former soldiers, sailors and marines and it looks like a Presidential veto will be necessary there. The same is true of inflationary proposals of which there are many. The situation is one, therefore, in which Mr. Roosevelt must be constantly on his guard to prevent action which he does not want as well as being fortified at all times with pressure to put through the legislation he has described as necessary. Thus it is seen he is confronted with many complications which did not disturb him in the first two sessions of New Deal congresses and these complications mean a longer life for the current session.

Some "Must" Legislation

Let us examine the status of the legislation which the President said must be passed. The outlook is something like this: The extension of the National Recovery administration is still far off. Senate hearings are just ended and the house is still further behind. No action can be expected in either body for several weeks. The present law expires June 16.

Recently Mr. Roosevelt sent to congress a very bitter message denouncing public utility holding companies and demanding legislation eliminating them from our economic structure. The house committee considering this legislation is just winding up its hearings and the senate committee which will have jurisdiction has taken no action at all. It must be said that a hard fight is in prospect if and when this legislation reaches the stage of debate because investors in these companies are not going to have their equities destroyed while they sit idly by. These investors are doing more now than just making faces at congress and the volume of letters which members are receiving in opposition to the holding companies legislation transcends anything that ever has happened in the memory of this correspondent.

The banking legislation which Mr. Roosevelt has proposed, or which was proposed for him by Governor Eccles, the New Deal and radical governor of the federal reserve board is faced with opposition equally as bitter and as well organized as that confronting the holding companies bill. Perhaps it can be said that opposition to the banking legislation is even stronger because in that fight the President will be opposed by Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, who must be regarded as the most virulent of all the Democrats in the senate. The house banking committee has about done its job with hearings on this bill but the senate committee where the full force of the Glass opposition will be felt has not even set a date for committee consideration.

The social security bill about which Mr. Roosevelt has done much talking, because it is distinctly a reform measure, has finally been redrafted in the house while senate leadership is unable to get together on any policy respecting it. Some senators want to split up this bill and pass the section providing for old age pensions, allowing the other parts of the bill to die a slow death.

The legislation to increase by $1,750,000 the loaning power of the Home Owners Loan corporation probably will get through the senate without much more ado. The house passed the bill because it could not do otherwise with individual members realizing that there was a chance that some of this money would go into their particular districts. Included in this bill is a line that promises a good many hundred jobs for politicians and it is natural that the party in power is not going to overlook this possibility.

There remains on the "must" list, then, only the proposal to extend the nuisance taxes which expire at the end of June. It is probable that the bulk of these levies will be accepted by congress as necessary.

One cannot fail, in tramping around Washington these days, to note the frequent expressions concerning the outlook for the New Deal and for President Roosevelt's personal political future. In fact, some hardboiled observers lately have been heard to say that Mr. Roosevelt is suffering from too much ballyhoo. He was put up on a pedestal that made of him in the eyes of many persons something of a superman. He himself is regarded as having contributed to this condition by his many campaign promises, some of which he has found absolutely impractical as remedies in leading the country out of the morasses and on to a more satisfactory economic plain.

About the Future

In truth, the President's own political colleagues have continued to depict him as an individual capable of things which no human can accomplish and this combination of circumstances is declared by many keen minded persons as likely to bring, if indeed it has not already brought, a definitely bad political reaction from the President's standpoint. It is still fresh in the minds of men and women throughout the country how President Hoover was over-advertised as a superior person in an administrative way. Mr. Hoover suffered from too much ballyhoo to an extent greater than any other man who has served as President with the possible exception of Woodrow Wilson. When the depression came and the current turned against Mr. Hoover he was utterly powerless. With a recalcitrant congress on his hands and a dissatisfied people, Mr. Hoover met the fate that must have been expected.

Wins Wide Distinction as Collector of Violins

Milwaukee Man Is Expert on Rare Old Fiddles.

Milwaukee, Wis.—Stradivarius to Henry Stirn of this city is something that has not only served as an interesting hobby throughout many years, but has also earned for him the title of connoisseur of such rare old instruments. Not less than twenty-four examples of the famous Stradivarius have passed through Mr. Stirn's hands during the course of sixty years, which is really only a slight detail in the history of his once grand collection.

Mr. Stirn, whose vocation is finance and accounting, has shown a zealous interest in the violins since he was seven years old. This interest, however, never for once entered the professional realm, nor was Mr. Stirn ever a dealer in violins. He played the violin, and played it well. Even now he is head of a string quartet which began way back in the '80s; but the members of this little group play strictly for their own pleasure.

Yet, though but an amateur in all the dealings he has ever had with the violin, Mr. Stirn today is recognized throughout the world as an authority on the instrument. And because of his abundant knowledge in this field, owners of rare old violins often seek his advice, according to the Milwaukee Journal. "It has been the supreme joy of my life that I have been able to make the acquaintance of some of the greatest violins of all time," said Mr. Stirn.

At one time he had in his home close to $500,000 worth of violins, which included two genuine Stradivari and many famous violins of other makes. All of these, however, were disposed of recently and the sole remainder of his once famous collection is a Gaspara de Salo, once owned by Ole Bull, eminent Norwegian violinist.

The Gaspara de Salo is the violin Mr. Stirn plays in the quartet. It was made about the time of Martin Luther's death, Mr. Stirn believes, and came into his possession through the widow of a friend named Rostav, who had acquired it from Ole Bull himself.

Had Big Collection. Inside the Gaspara de Salo, when Mr. Stirn first acquired it, was the name Vuillaume, written in pencil, together with six or seven other signatures. In having it restrung a few years ago, the names were in some way rubbed out, an incident which he regrets, because Jean Baptiste Vuillaume is revered by violin lovers in much the same manner as they think of Stradivarius.

In addition to his private collection of noted instruments, Mr. Stirn has had under his roof more Stradivarius violins at one time than any other person or museum in the world. At various times collectors, dealers and famous violinists have left genuine Stradivari in his home. Among these "guest" instruments are the Emil Saurer and Lipinski Strads. He, himself, has owned the Hammer Stradivarius, one of the two Stradivarius violins that has never been cracked or tampered with.

Although for more than a century and a half Stirn's forefathers lived in

He Learns to Fly in 55 Minutes

After 55 minutes of instruction, Herbert Sargent, twenty-two, of Jersey City, made his first solo flight in a plane at the Jersey City airport and after completing the prescribed maneuvers set his plane down for a three-point landing. Eddie A. Schneider, twenty-three, Sargent's youthful instructor, holder of the Junior transcontinental flying record, said he allowed Sargent to go up alone because he handled a plane perfectly. Taking the air on such short instruction is believed to have brought to Sargent a new record.

Miss Thorn Will Study Beginnings of Eskimo Race.

Edmonton, Alta.—An intensive study of the origin of the Eskimo tribes in Canada's northern Arctic territories will be undertaken next summer by Miss Sue Thorn, graduate in anthropology of the University of California. Miss Thorn is at present in Edmonton laying plans for an extended stay in the Arctic.

The Eskimo language, anthropology, customs and folklore will be studied by the young California scientist with a view to proving or disproving the theory that the Eskimo race originally came from the Orient via the Bering straits. She plans to go north to Akavik, on the Mackenzie delta, early in the summer.

Although this is her first trip north, Miss Thorn has spent considerable time studying Eskimo life, language and customs, and is confident she will have little difficulty in facing the rigors of the Arctic.

After spending some time in Akavik, "becoming acclimatized," she plans to journey east to Victoria island in Coronation gulf and possibly go on to Greenland if she can obtain permission from the Danish government.

Norfolk Church Saves Cannon Ball of 1776

Norfolk, Va.—On January 1, 1776, Lord Dunmore, in command of the British forces in Virginia, sent Norfolk New Year's greetings in the form of round shot, hot and cold. When his men finished, Norfolk lay in smoldering ruins. Only one building remained standing. The building was St. Paul's Episcopal church, still in use today.

All but one shot fired at the church fell to the ground. That shot struck and stuck. When Norfolk was rebuilt after the revolutionary war St. Paul's was repaired, but the tuckpointers carefully placed their mortar around the shot, to preserve it there as a reminder of what happened that fateful day.

Montreal.—The Montreal metropolitan commission has hired a "Tarzan" to bring order to the bankrupt village of St. Michel.

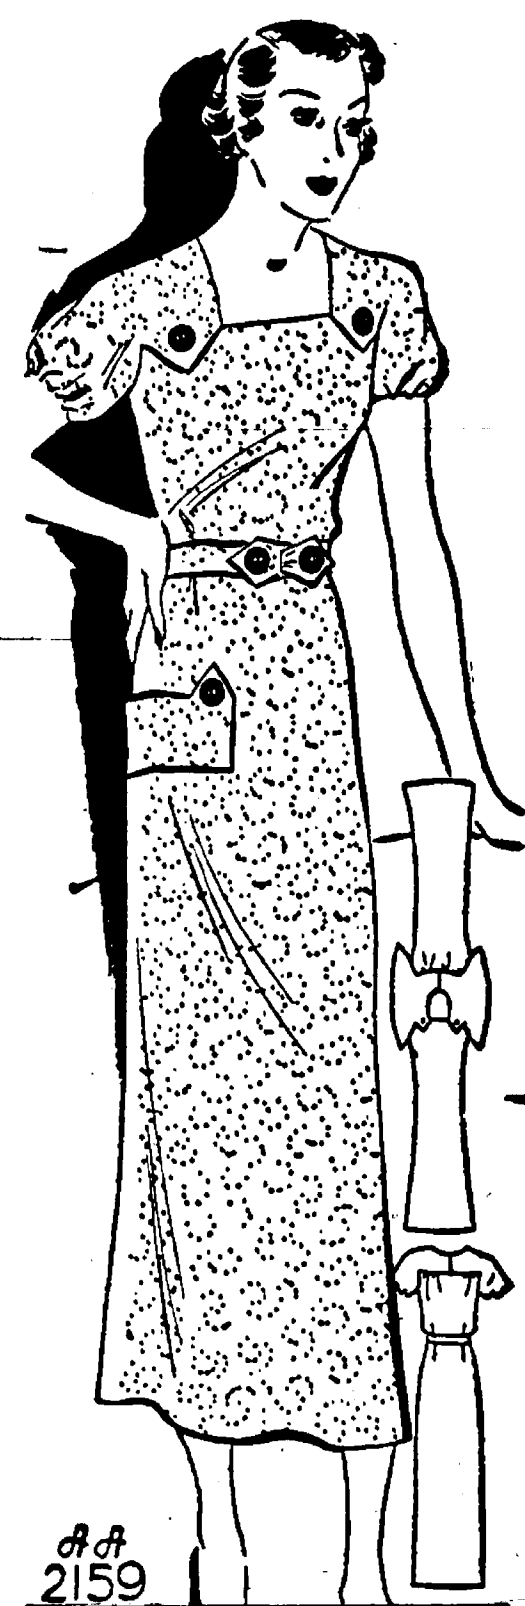

Seeking an inexpensive method of keeping the wilder villagers from creating trouble while they tried to straighten out the village's financial affairs, the commission hired ex-Capt. Z. Desmarreau, former weight-lifting champion of the Montreal police department, and sent him to St. Michel.

Desmarreau is 6 feet 4 inches tall and weighs 280 pounds.

Germany, and the name was changed to Stirn, he is a direct descendant of Count Axel Oxenstierna, chancellor of Sweden under King Gustavus in the early Seventeenth century. According to the genealogy of the Stirn family, Henry Stirn is entitled to the castles and lands now held by the Swedish Oxenstiernas.

SIMPLICITY AND CHIC COMBINED

PATTERN 2159

In spite of its very definite air of chic, this is the sort of dress that an experienced seamstress can run up in an hour or so—and even a beginner really should take no longer than a day to finish it. Just to show you how very simple it is, we've given you a little sketch of how the frock will look before you sew up the side seams. See—there are only four pieces to the whole body of the dress, and the sleeves and shoulders are cut in one, which does away with the setting-in of sleeves! Make it of any pretty inexpensive cotton material—use gay buttons—you'll be sure to pat yourself on the back when you see the result!

Pattern 2159 is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 16 takes 3 1/4 yards 36 inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

Address orders to Sewing Circle Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth street, New York.

Saloonkeeper's Peace

New Orleans.—Christian Bethencourt, saloonkeeper, regretted exceedingly recently that he had so many friends. Their number prevented him from nominating the particular friend he would like to crown with his bung starter.

Bethencourt's day was scheduled thus by the anonymous practical joker:

8:00 a. m.—Ambulance arrives at saloon to pick up Bethencourt, who, hospital understood, was "very sick."

10:00 a. m.—Twenty-five catfish and ten pounds of shrimp arrived. C. O. D.

Noon—Three drug store delivery boys dash in, one after another, exclaiming: "Here is the emergency medicine for Mr. Bethencourt."

1:30 p. m.—A rug arrives C. O. D. from a furniture store.

2:00 p. m.—The undertaker's wagon arrives for Bethencourt's body.

3:00 p. m.—A radio sent C. O. D. arrives.

5:00 p. m.—A carpenter arrived to repair the screens.

5:45 p. m.—One hundred pounds of sugar arrive C. O. D.

5:46 p. m.—Bethencourt decides to go home early.

New Needle Threading Champion Is Proclaimed

Ottawa, Ont.—Step up, folks, and meet Tailor J. Serrell—the new needle-threading champion of Canada and the United States.

Serrell defeated Mrs. Jeanne Cloutier, Suncook, N. H., housewife, in a stirring international contest, 250 to 224.

The contest started when Mrs. Cloutier read of how Serrell thought nothing of threading a needle with a couple hundred strands of cotton, and set out to beat his record. She jammed a standard darning needle with 224 strands of white cotton thread and sent it to Serrell. Serrell sat down, jammed another 26 strands into it and returned it.

HALF YEAR PLATES GO ON SALE SOON

On Thursday, July 25, automobile license plates for 1935 will go on sale at half price, Orylle E. Atwood, Secretary of State, has announced. The plates will be available from that date on, at the Department of State, and all branch offices throughout Michigan.

Cars that have been on the highways without 1935 plates have been equipped with 1935 half-year permits or "stickers". Cars placed in operation on the highways prior to July 25 must be equipped either with half-year permits or with 1935 plates purchased at full price, it is pointed out.

Owners of cars which have been equipped with half-price "stickers" have at all times had available the privilege of purchasing 1935 plates upon payment of the balance of the 1935 license plate tax. But in any event, "stickers" must be replaced with 1935 plates by mid-night, July 31, Atwood warns. No extension of time can be granted without express authorization of the legislature. Motorists are asked to bring their "sticker" registration certificates with them when they apply for their 1935 license plates.

WASHINGTON SCOUT ASSIGNED AS GUIDE TO GROUP

Word was received here today that Scout William McMillan of Troop 678 of Washington, D. C. will be assigned to serve as the guide for the group of Scouts from Washtenaw and Livingston counties who will take part in the National Jamboree in Washington, D. C. from August 21st to the 30th.

Scout McMillan in writing to Scout Executive Walter MacPeck writes: "I have taken all the lessons in the Guides Course except the examination and have been chosen as one of 25 to go out and teach the course in some troop."

2500 scouts will visit Mount Vernon each day making the trip by boat down the Potomac. Other events of the ten-day program include sight seeing tours in Washington, a review by the President, visitation and getting acquainted with the scouts from foreign countries, and some free time devoted to following out particular interests.

The local group which is going under the leadership of T. Bruce Kider, accompanied by assistant scoutmasters Ivan Parker and Donald Palmer, as well as the Scout Executive of the Council are studying books and pamphlets of things to see in Washington. They plan to see the Capitol, the Library of Congress, Shakespeare's Library, Supreme Court building, the Union station, the Government Printing office, the old Ford theatre, and the Peterson house, department of Commerce building, the Smithsonian Institution, the Washington monument, the Lincoln Memorial, the White House, Georgetown, Alexandria, and of course the tomb of the unknown soldier in Arlington Cemetery.

BETTER HOUSING PROGRAM
How modernization and repair of properties is going forward in Michigan points generally as well as in Pinckney, as shown in reports received at the office of the State Director of the Federal Housing Administration from Better Housing Program chairman and from field representatives. Significant are these reports received during the last week:

Fremont. City industries are working full time. A lumber dealer has had five times as much business as in any year since 1929. Every carpenter, painter and others engaged in building trade is not only employed but booked ahead.

Port Huron. A second house-to-house canvass has thus far resulted in $54,500 in modernization loans and plans for new home construction.

Cheboygan. Fred Mitchell, president of the Chamber of Commerce, is setting an example by preparing to build a new home which will be used as a model home.

St. Johns. Contractors in all lines are busy. It is impossible to get a painter or carpenter unless he is engaged weeks ahead.

Grand Rapids. The Grand Rapids Press is setting an example in modernizing its building and plant.

Bay City. House-to-house canvass completed. Total of 1,344 modernization jobs pledged.

Rochester. Total of 428 repair jobs estimated as result of canvass, with an estimated expenditure of $67,442.

East Tawas. One exhibitor reports that he transacted $5,000 worth of business during the recent three-day building show.

Escanaba. The total amount of construction work completed or under way is $106,237 as a result of the Better Housing Program. Fifty-two modernization loans for a total of $22,501 have been made to date. H. H. Lynch, manager of the Better Housing Program committee, expects to see half a million dollars worth of construction work completed this year.

KEYWORTH'S DEATH RECALLS HISTORY

The death, June 22, of Maurice R. Keyworth, eight days before he was to assume the post of superintendent of public instruction, recalls instances in which major state officials have died while actually in office. Only three such instances are indicated by records contained in the Michigan Manual, official publication of the state issued every two years.

Most recent was the death, January 18, 1935, of John K. Stack, auditor general, who was succeeded by John J. O'Hara, appointed by Gov. Frank M. Fitzgerald for the balance of the two-year term. Prior to that, Fred L. Kocher, superintendent of public instruction, was the last elective official to die in office. He served from 1913 to April 4, 1919. Thomas E. Johnson was appointed by former Gov. Alex J. Groesbeck to fill the vacancy. The first recorded instance of death taking one of the governor's official family, was on January 19, 1889, when James H. McDonald, lieutenant governor since 1887, was killed in a railroad accident. His place was taken by William Hall, who was named acting lieutenant governor.

Peace in the World

THE question of peace has never more insistently occupied men's attention than it does today. And yet, in spite of all the thought that is being given to this question, peace seems still afar off.

We have advanced to the point of looking for a world peace—a comprehensive peace—but mankind generally does not understand the idea of peace in its essence. Apart from the multiplicity of problems to be resolved into harmony, there is a complexity of beliefs regarding what constitutes peace. Men believe there are many phases of peace—the peace of the individual, of the home, of industry, of the nation.

Peace is not primarily the absence of sickness, the elimination of strife in the home or society, nor the absence of war among the nations. The absence of these things is assured as peace is gained, but it is not peace in itself, for peace is the realization of the omnipresence of God, good. All strife is strife within the human soul, and strife as between the highest good and the lowest evil.

Even when two or more individuals seem to be engaged in strife the problem is reducible to the conflict between good and evil within the consciousness of those concerned. If good predominates in one's consciousness the strife will in that measure diminish; for whilst hate cannot cure hate, nor selfishness eliminate selfishness, the substitution of love for hate, and unselfishness for selfishness, must finally bring about a complete cessation of clamor for all. Mary Baker Eddy says in her Message to The Mother Church for 1900 (p. 8): "When a man begins to quarrel with himself he stops quarrelling with others." The quarrel with himself is the strife of good with evil, the strife of the higher with the lower; and it is a strife which can have but one end, namely, peace, for the divine Mind consciously expressed dissipates and destroys that which is unreal and false.

SYNOPSIS

Theodore Gatlin adopts a baby, "Penelope," in an effort to solve his matrimonial troubles. But his wife has never wanted her, and their affairs end in the divorce court. At a baseball game a ball strikes ten-year-old Penelope on the nose. Mrs. Gatlin spirits the child to Europe. Gatlin wills Penelope all his money, and is about to begin a search for her when a motor accident ends his life. Some ten years later, in San Francisco, Stephen Burt, rising young psychiatrist, is presented by Dan McNamara, chief of police, with a new patient—Nance Belden, a girl with a dual personality, for which her "saddle nose" is in part responsible. McNamara does not think she is a criminal and obtains Burt's testimony in court. Lanny, the doctor's office nurse, is also won over. Nance's criminal record outweighs Doctor Burt's explanation of her case and she is sent to San Quentin penitentiary. Nance escapes, although shot, and goes to Lanny's apartment. From one of the men in the boat on which the girl escaped McNamara learns that Nance's real name is Penelope Gatlin. He also discovers that she is heiress to $750,000. Fearful of McNamara, in his official capacity, Nance flees. Lanny finds her in her apartment, asleep. Then she disappears, and McNamara learns that she is living in Paris. He also discovers he is in love with Lanny.

"The instructions are fine, but why commit forgery by signing Dan's name? If the original is traced—"

"I have signed it Mac, and the world is filled with Macs. When Dan has reached his office, telephone him and tell him to do something that will prove in any court he was in his office when I filed this cablegram."

Lanny relented. "You might make a detective, at that."

Twenty minutes later Dan McNamara was listening to Lanny reading Stephen's cablegram over his private line. "Excellent," was his sole comment, "but print it in block letters. Even a typewriter can betray one. When Steve files this telegram have him pay for it with a hundred-dollar bill, and have him wear large black goggles and the rim of his hat pulled down all the way round. The girl who receives it will think one crook is cabling another. If she's ever asked what sort of man filed it, her description of the sender, plus my own perfect alibi, will put me in the clear."

"How are we to manage after she has eluded the Paris police?"

McNamara sighed gustily. "Flynn will be in touch with her bank, and every time she cashes a draft on her letter of credit, Flynn will have a clue on her address."

"You're no help," Lanny snapped, and hung up. Half an hour later, from the cable company's main office, Stephen dispatched the cablegram.

With Dan McNamara definitely out of the fight, Stephen felt lonely and apprehensive. He wondered why the girl had fled to Paris in the face of Dan McNamara's instructions to flee to Lower California, to enter which no passport is required. He asked Lanny.

"Oh, that's no mystery, Steve. I brought home from the office, intending to show it to Dan, an article by a celebrated plastic surgeon of Paris. Penelope read it with great interest. She went to Paris to consult this French plastic surgeon and also to have samples of her new nose drawn by a competent artist."

"So that's how the Paris police informed Dan she was having her portrait done by an American artist, eh? I suppose it will be her luck to be in a hospital undergoing the operation when the Paris police receive word to deport her."

"I'm afraid she's bailed everything up, Stephen. Flynn will have the number of her passport and Dan will have no time to fix a new passport photograph on it. They'll not trust to the photo to identify her if she tries to land. They'll check up on the passport number also."

"Will you never cease discussing this miserable business, Lanny?" Stephen burst out irritably. "If it hadn't been for you we wouldn't be in this wretched predicament."

When the captain of detectives called in Detective Sergeant P. Flynn and related to him the tale told to him by Mrs. Rudolph Merton, Flynn gave no sign of being particularly interested. Carefully and methodically he arranged in his mind the facts as stated, and when he left the presence of his superior, all he knew was that he was to arrive to recover a lost heiress by name Penelope Gatlin, and that she had a nose that should make her recognizable anywhere.

After nine hours of refreshing slumber, Flynn proceeded to ponder the case of Penelope Gatlin of the saddle nose. "I seem to be getting my fill of girls with saddle noses who disappear mysteriously," he decided lazily—and instantly something clicked in his brain and he knew he was on the trail of Nance Belden again. An heiress, eh? McNamara had hinted at powerful influences back of Nance Belden, and she certainly must have hired the expert help she had had in her escape from San Quentin penitentiary.

"McNamara knows who she is," Flynn decided. "He's getting his—chunks—for helping her. I'll bet it's the same girl."

San Quentin, and that somebody should be P. Flynn.

He went to San Jose that day and interviewed the officials of the bank, who, when he flashed his shield, gave him all the information they possessed. Dan McNamara had artfully destroyed all the girl's police photographs, but if she had secured a passport, Flynn argued to himself, she had left two of her passport photographs with the passport office, and Flynn knew he could borrow one of them.

Flynn's shield was an open sesame to the man in charge of the passport office. Two minutes after his arrival he knew Nance Belden had secured a passport.

Employing identically the same means McNamara had employed, he traced Penelope Gatlin to Paris within three days. But he had now to prove that Penelope Gatlin and Nance Belden were one and the same person, so he interviewed the United States marshal, who secured for him one of the girl's passport photographs. Armed with this, Flynn crossed the bay to San Quentin.

"Is that Nance Belden?" he asked the matron.

"That is Nance Belden," was the reply.

From the ferry he went at once to the home of Mrs. Rudolph Merton. He stuck the photograph under her nose and asked gruffly: "Is that Penelope Gatlin?"

A tremor ran over Mrs. Merton's face. It seemed to Flynn that she was frightened, disturbed.

"Well?" he demanded. "You can't expect the police to find your missing daughter if you don't help. Is this her picture or isn't it?"

"I—I don't know. I have never heard of her before."

"Never heard of her? Why, she's your daughter?"

"I haven't any daughter."

"Why, you called on the captain of detectives and asked him to find your daughter. What do you mean by telling me you've never heard of her?"

"I can't remember. I don't know. Oh, please, please don't ask me! Something terrible will happen. I—I—"

"You refuse to identify this photo as that of Penelope Gatlin?" Flynn was growing irritated.

Finally she had hysterics and a maid came in and asked P. Flynn to leave the house.

Flynn was profoundly irritated. He knew Penelope Gatlin was at 27 Rue Instantly Something Clicked in His Brain and He Knew He Was on the Trail of Nance Belden Again.

St. Honore, Paris, but he did not know that Nance Belden was! Back at central office, he compared the passport photograph with the substitute photograph Dan McNamara had pasted on Nance Belden's fake police record card—and knew it for a fake.

Suddenly it occurred to Flynn that he had had an official interview with everybody connected with this mysterious case, except Dr. Stephen Burt. "You're a long time getting around to see me, Sergeant," Stephen charged, and indicated a large, comfortable armchair.

"I called on you once, Doctor, but you didn't know it. That was the night after Nance Belden escaped from San Quentin. Me an' my partner trailed you to the chief's house."

"I've always thought you and the excellent Angellotti didn't make the best of your opportunities," Stephen murmured. "Still, I suppose you were playing with dynamite."

"We were," said Flynn, "but no more. The chief's one of the biggest-hearted men in the world, but a picnic egg if you rub him the wrong way. So we pussy-footed."

"No fair man could deny the excellence of your pussy-footing. I know all about it. How about a wee Dock an' Doria?" Stephen suggested.

"There's an idea for you, Doctor."

Stephen summoned the butler and ordered the drink. Flynn, with great deliberation, produced Penelope's photograph.

"Do you know the lady?" he queried. "I think I do, Sergeant."

"Who is she?"

"Is there any reason why I should express an opinion?"

"Not unless you choose to be good-natured. I suppose you know you're in Dutch for aiding and abetting an escaped convict."

"Well?"

"Naturally we don't want to make the going hard for a man of your standing," Flynn continued.

"My dear sergeant, you would have started the fireworks long ago if you had anything tangible to proceed upon."

Flynn sipped his highball. "You're being well paid for shielding this girl, of course. I don't blame you a bit, but—you're too big a figure in your profession to get into trouble with the police."

"Dan McNamara is my friend."

"Well, Mac is out of it. He can't protect you because he must protect himself. It might interest you to know that Nance Belden and a lost heiress, Penelope Gatlin, are the same person, and I have the Paris police watching her right now."

"Are you quite certain the girl is still at that Paris address?" asked Stephen.

"I know it."

"I know she isn't—and the Paris police do not know where she is."

"Do you?"

"No, but if I did I wouldn't tell you."

"Look here," said Flynn. "What's it worth to your young girl friend to have me lay off the case?"

"I'll give you twenty dollars in Confederate currency. You were offered real money once and refused it."

They looked at each other searchingly, then both laughed. "I see there ain't much use pumpin' you, Doc," Flynn admitted. "Well, a fellow can't be ruled off for trying."

"When were you to see a doctor last?"

"At the age of twenty-two. Why?"

"How old are you?"

"Forty-two."

"Well, just to prove I'm friendly I'll give you a quick physical examination. It may save you a fee later from some other physician. Mind if I give you a quick look-see?"

"Go to it," said Flynn.

Stephen tested Flynn's heart action and lungs and took his blood pressure.

"You're up thirty-six points," he told him.

Flynn was distinctly perturbed. "What does that mean?"

"It means that you have a fairly well developed case of hardening of the arteries. If you were to be re-examined physically—for promotion, you might be retired on pension."

"I couldn't afford that," cried Flynn. "I've got a wife and five children."

"Nevertheless, I would suggest you apply for a six months' leave of absence and have me treat you. How's your eyesight?"

"Grand," P. Flynn mumbled.

"I doubt it, Sergeant. I'll bet you a hundred dollars you cannot look into this little mirror fifteen minutes without averting your gaze. Want to earn the hundred?"

"I can't afford that much of a bet, Doc."

"Well, then, we'll not bet, but if you can I'll give you a hundred dollars."

Stephen produced a hand mirror and held it two feet in front of Flynn and about six inches above the level of his glance. He took out his watch. "Go!" he said. "And remember I'm watching you. If you get through this test successfully there's hope for your arteriosclerosis."

P. Flynn grinned and gazed. In three minutes the effort oppressed him. Stephen's voice reached him as from a distance.

"You are going to sleep, Sergeant."

"Then, 'You can't stand it, Sergeant. You're going to sleep, I tell you—to sleep.'"

"I'm not," Flynn protested drowsily, just as his eyes closed and his head fell forward on his breast.

Stephen's soft hands stroked the detective's brow. "Why did you call to see me?"

"To get you to identify the photograph," Flynn's voice was faint.

"Why was that necessary?"

Flynn hesitated, struggled a little, but lay back quietly again as Stephen's facile hands resumed their light massaging. "Are you going to oppose me, Sergeant?"

"No, Doctor."

"Will you answer questions truthfully?"

"Yes, Doctor." The tones were dead and lifeless, for Flynn slept a hypnotic sleep.

"Why was it necessary that I should identify the photograph?"

"I've got to know before I act, Doctor. The matron at San Quentin says it's Nance Belden, but the photograph is on the passport of Penelope Gatlin."

"Why do you want this girl?"

"She's made a fool out of me—and she can pay well to be let alone."

"You're not interested in seeing her returned to prison?"

"Not a d—n bit, Doctor. Why should I?"

"That name, Penelope Gatlin, is bad luck," Stephen warned. "Never repeat it to a human soul. If you do it may mean your death. And your oldest child will be kidnapped, tortured and killed."

"Oh, God, no!" Flynn cried out in agony.

"You must forget Penelope Gatlin and Nance Belden. Will you?"

"Yes, Doctor."

Look to Your Accessories for Chic

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

WHAT'S smarter, if you please, for this spring, than a good looking black, navy or tweed suit or frock "set off" with fetching accessories to a nicely down to the slightest detail? We confess we do not know the answer, unless it would be "more accessories." However, this we do know, that fashion has gone so unmistakably accessory-conscious, this season, the very fate of your costume depends on the chic and the charm and the correctness of the accessory items worn with it.

Which leads us to predict that you will be tempted to spend as you have never spent before on the dainty lovely neck fixings which are simply lavished on the new spring frocks and suits. Neither will you be able to resist the appeal of the intriguing costume jewelry together with ingenious little gadgets of every description.

Speaking of accessory ensembles, a veritable chamois spring fever has broken out both among fashion-alert Americans and chic Parisiennes. To demonstrate how utterly swank from head to fingertip yellow chamois accessories on navy are proving to be, we are illustrating a stunning ensemble to the right in the group. The pert V-back beret and classic pull-over gloves are of this soft butter-colored chamois leather. The tailored scarf with hand-stitched chamois is real news. The four-inch belt with circle buckle and the new flat hat with braided handle are also of the fashionable chamois. Yes, we agree with you that these new chamois sets are outstanding and greatly to be coveted by those who appreciate the air of distinction they impart.

The costume worn by the girl seated has about it that note of sophisticated simplicity which is high-style convincing.

CHIC SPRING FURS

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Dainty furs and fur trimmings tuned to spring are conspicuously in the limelight at present. For sportswear or for early springtime this cunning snow-decked weasel jacket is an excellent choice for a young woman of fashion. Shading from a yellowish beige to a soft brown it harmonizes with browns or the new pastels which are so popular this spring.

Turquoise Jewelry

Turquoise jewelry is enjoying quite a vogue at present. Long strands of small beads are worn, twisted several times around the neck or the arm, with one detachable clip to match holding the different strids in place.

Her navy novelty silk frock be-speaks discriminating taste. The wide patent leather belt is according to latest dictate of the mode. The jaunty hat is a smooth ballbunt for which Paris fashionables are expressing a decided preference this spring. The real sensation about this costume is the novel gold jewelry worn with it—looks as if it were a frilled collar and cuff set. It is, however, of gold metal which is light as a feather. It would be difficult to find anything in the way of a neckline and wrist adornment that will impart a finer finesse to a simple navy or black afternoon dress, than these very unusual jewelry sets.

Frilly, fluttery—neckwear means everything to the new costumes. If your yearning leans to animated little lingerie pinnings and rufflings and frilled jabots and lace collars and cuffs which carry alluring feminine appeal now is the moment to see your fondest hopes realized, for fashion makes fanciful neckwear the center of attraction this season. The sheer white finely pleated jabot at the top to the left in the picture is typical of the new trend. The hat worn by this vivacious star is excellent style since it is of quilted tullea banded with shiny rough black straw. Milliners are making a feature of quilted fabrics for spring. Her little galyak shoulder cape is also up-to-the-moment, for dainty fur separate pieces are very important in the current mode.

The lingerie blouse with a very frilly frill has come into its own this season. Note the attractive organdie and lace model to the left below in the picture. It has wee crocheted buttons—two dozen or more down the front. The fifty little pill-box turban is hand made of the new glass ribbon straw.

FEMINE CURVES COME INTO FAVOR

The perennial question of the great American figure is before us again, and this time the consensus is decided—we are to have feminine curves this year.

Not the Mae Westian curves of yesterday, nor yet the wasp waist of the Gibson girl, but a happy compromise—a return to natural contours.

Rosina McDowell Lynn, of the McDowell school of costume design says the new trend toward natural curves is all due to Mussolini and Hitler, and their policy of encouraging women to concentrate on the nursery.

She says the American figure follows the trend of the times, toward a more normal state of mind, and predicts that the spinach-and-grapefruit diets of the last few years are on the way out.

Flecked White Linens Are Popular for Spring Frocks

Heavy white linens splashed with multicolored flecks (achieved by sprinkling in small bright bits of cloth while the material is being woven) and cream linens embroidered in red and black figures are used for frocks. A new "blotting paper pink," flame and pastel tints are favorite colors for linen frocks this year; green, brown and gray are smart for suits.

Linen corsets, lingerie, gloves, bags, hats and shoes are among the novelties launched this spring. Golf suits and tea gowns, evening frocks and flying suits, summer dresses and tennis shorts are also being fashioned in the new flax weaves.

Velvet Ensemble Favored
Velvet ensembles or velvet dresses with long narrow fitting capes of graceful line are being worn with matching gloves and hats in London.

Crocheted Rug in "Cubes and Stars"

By GRANDMOTHER CLARK

This is another rug design that our readers will recognize as taken from the "Cubes and Stars" quilt design that is possibly a hundred years old. This rug measures thirty inches and requires about two pounds of material to crochet. It is made up of 12 diamonds and slip stitched together to form a star or blocks, depending on the way the color scheme is worked out. It is always an interesting rug to study (count the cubes) and well adapted for a child's room.

This is one of the twenty beautiful crocheted rugs shown in colors with directions in rug book No. 24. If this rug interests you send 15c to our Rug Department and get the instructions for making this rug and nineteen others.

City Still Spanish

Most travelers who have visited both Spain and South America assert that Cartagena, in Colombia, is more Spanish in atmosphere than the cities of old Spain. The oldest living city of South America is as medieval as ever in its narrow cobble streets winding about between old Moorish Spanish houses, in its sixteenth century monasteries, old dungeons and moats, and the same grim fortresses which were attacked by Drake and Morgan and the buccaners of the Spanish main.

STOMACH TROUBLE?

Mrs. Cora E. Cain of 34 Spruce St., Akron, Ohio, said: "A little less than a year ago my daughter, Marie Avalon, (picture shown) was a physical wreck due to stomach trouble. After giving her Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery I soon secured a change in her and she kept on improving. She was a different girl—no more crying spells, ate and slept well, and her teachers often remark about the difference in her school work." Now she, tablets 50 cts, liquid $1.00.

OPERA UNDER THE STARS

The recent Opera Under the Stars production at Natick Field of "The Student Prince" will be followed by the musical opera "Blossom Time".

Following "Blossom Time" which opens Saturday, there will be presented "The Student Prince" and "The Student Prince". The musical program will be an unusual one.

The coming production of "Blossom Time" on the main stage will see a number of new faces in leading roles. Roy Schaeffer of "Student Prince" and "The Student Prince" will be seen in the first time with the "Opera". In the role of Baron Schaeffer, Franz Schaeffer will be played by Paul Ross, who has appeared with Grand Opera in New York and Chicago, and in the role of "Blossom Time" will be played by "Blossom Time" casting. Dennis King, who has appeared in these productions, will play the role of "Blossom Time".

"Blossom Time" is the new musical opera which is the greatest opera of the history of the stage. The story is based on the life of the great composer, Franz Schubert, who was, for an artist, unable to express himself in music, and who left behind him one of the richest treasures of the world has known. Although the story is purely fictitious, it is a true story of a man who, in his life, owes much to the music of Franz Schubert.

Opportunity

PERHAPS one may say there is no opportunity for him; another, that opportunity is dependent upon personal influence and social position, both of which he seems to lack. Another has some wonderful opportunity of which he takes advantage, and through which he gains his fortune. Opportunities for service are open to some while closed to others. Sometimes an individual goes to a country or a city other than his own, seeking opportunity to achieve the goal of his dream, seeking to gain that which means happiness and success. Another finds his opportunity at home.

What is opportunity? This thing which aids or hinders the progress of man? In a dictionary the word is given as "before the hand" and a harbor is a port through which a ship enters a country; therefore, an opportunity. The dictionary says: "Open to the eyes of the mind; a chance; a chance of success; a chance of opportunity to do something well, as it is written, 'The way of opportunity is to do well'." It is a chance of opportunity to do something well, as it is written, "The way of opportunity is to do well."

One who has not succeeded in his honest endeavor will search his mind, he may find that what he needs in order to gain success is not so much an opportunity as a stronger faith in God, a firmer conviction of his omnipotence, an increased expectation of receiving, which, in turn, inspires greater effort towards attainment of the good already provided by the loving Father. The faith which leads to achievement is founded on the truth that God, good, is all-powerful and His goodness available to all. It may be that one has for years believed he is the victim of circumstances or is handicapped by his environment, or, perhaps, is held in bondage to material circumstances or conditions. Understanding this, no one need remain behind the closed door of false beliefs; he may begin immediately to know and declare the truth regarding the situation. . . . Holding thought steadfastly to the truth leads to realization of the truth, and realization to achievement, thus proving that the door of opportunity is always open.
