St. Marys Annual Picnic Is July 31

Pinckney Church Will Serve Their Big Chicken Dinner In Lapham's Grove on That Date. Ball Game and Amusements on Program

On next Wednesday, July 31, St. Mary's Parish of Pinckney, will hold their annual chicken dinner and picnic at Lapham's Grove, south of Pinckney, where this event has been held for many years past. The big chicken dinner served by the ladies of the church is noted for its excellence throughout the state and always assures a large attendance. Dinner starts at 11:00 A. M. and continues until all are served.

Following the dinner there will be amusements and booths for all and a cash prize of $25.00 will be given away. The Farm Crest broadcasting truck will furnish music.

The ball game this year will be between the Ford V-8 team of Detroit and Pinckney. This team is managed by Archie Cochran, brother of Mickey Cochran, Detroit Tiger manager and has won about every game played this year. They were obtained through the courtesy of the AtLee Motor Co. The Pinckney team expects to have a good lineup for this occasion.

In the evening there will be a dance at the Pinckney Community Hall, with a crack orchestra furnishing the melody. This will be a big day in Pinckney and all roads will lead here on that date.

CLARE COUNTY IS MOPPED UP

Governor Fitzgerald and Attorney General Toy seem to be determined to make Clare county the purest spot in Michigan and have put on a campaign there to enforce the law against slot machines, punch boards, etc. one hundred per cent. If their plans succeed there is a possibility that this cleanup may extend to other counties despite the unwillingness of some of those who have charge of law enforcement. At the present time Clare county must resemble England in the days of Cromwell and the Puritans. The following is taken from the Lansing State Journal:

"On the Good Ship, Lollypop..." It was ironic, that popular tune, to the ears of Clare's 1,400 citizens as the lollypoppers and slot machine operators here awaited the state's next move Monday in Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald's announced war on gambling devices.

Attorney General Harry S. Toy was threatening a grand jury investigation that may drive all the lollypoppers from this city, which draws most of its summer business from tourists.

Fifteen persons here were under arrest on misdemeanor charges, facing hearings July 29 as the result of the state's first roundup of 'gamblers' here.

One man was taken into custody because he bought a ticket to a baseball pool. He was the city clerk and so the arrest did not rest well with official Clare.

Have Many Signers In fact, many citizens signed a petition asking the state to go away and leave law enforcement to the town constables who do not become offended at the panging of a slot machine in operation.

After rounding up prominent citizens here for operating alleged slot machines, selling lollypops which pay the premium of another lollypop if they contain a lucky color, baseball pools and displaying penny punchboards, Toy threatened the grand jury probe.

"I am considering a grand jury investigation in Clare to provide protection for witnesses we want to call in our investigation," he said.

Arrests here, besides the city clerk, included four drug store operators, two restaurant proprietors, an automobile dealer and the head of an oil company.

Prosecutor T. G. Bowler, who conferred with Gordon Tappan, assistant attorney general before the campaign was opened, demanded the arrest of a clergyman here who was promoting an automobile lottery for charity and a ban on chicken raffles and betting on dog trials.

SPECIAL AID MEETING

A special business meeting of the Ladies' Aid of the Congregational church will be held in the church parlors this week Friday at 2 P. M. Reports and special business will be presented. All ladies are urged to be present. Important!

COMMUNICATION

Lansing, Mich. July 22, 1935
Mr. F. E. Weeks, Gen. Chairman, The Pinckney Con. Homecoming, Pinckney, Michigan
My dear Mr. Weeks:

Your letter of July 15th reporting the success of your celebration has reached our office during Mr. Perry's absence on a rather extended trip. We are all pleased to learn of the successful outcome of your Homecoming and wish to congratulate the Pinckney people who helped bring about this result.

We also wish to thank you for the newspaper copies and supply of programs which we will use to a very good advantage in our office.

Yours very truly,
Henry A. Perry,
Mich. Centennial Joint Com.

Fred Read took Robert and Howard Read to Grayling this morning from where they will start a canoe trip to Mackinac Island.

First Old Age Pension Checks Out

$8.00 Per Month to be Sent Out to 20,000 Persons. Amount May be Increased Later.

The first old age pension checks under the Michigan Old Age Pension Law were mailed out last week. Mrs. Jennie Johnson, 74, of Ada, Mich., received the first check. Director Callahan of the pension department said, however, that it will probably be six months before all of the 20,000 receive their pension checks. These people will be investigated and paid according to their needs. The maximum amount will be $15 per month and in some cases this will be scaled down to $2 per month. No federal assistance in paying these pensions will be received until Congress passes the social security bill.

The original head tax pension bill still provides funds for some 5,000 persons. This is expected to fit the burden from counties and poor farms. At Kalamazoo, in Wayne county, 150 of the 1,000 able-bodied inmates have applied for pensions.

The matter of distribution is much the same as welfare relief. The applicant is investigated and his entire needs are taken into consideration. It is expected that the state pension funds will eventually be matched by an equal grant of federal money.

IS GIVEN 30 DAYS

Lyle R. Brown of Midland was arrested in Ann Arbor, charged with robbing the Louis Wagner cell station at Chubb's Corners on July 11. Part of the articles taken, consisting of tobacco, cigarettes and a radio, were found in his car. He was taken to Howell where he pleaded guilty and was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail on a lacy charge.

TRUCK DRIVER IS KILLED

George Feeney, 20, employed as a truck driver by Henry Calkins of Fowlerville was in a tank car about 8:30 Thursday morning when his truck and a car driven by Raymond Maditzke, 15, collided at a corner one mile south of Fowlerville. Oscar Weinskaup, also employed by Calkins, was riding with Feeney and was injured.

The truck overturned and Feeney's neck was broken. Weinskaup sustained cuts about the head. The truck was empty and headed south and the other car was coming from the west. Feeney is a son of Mrs. Lillian Osgood of Fowlerville.

YOUNG DEMOCRATS TO MEET

There will be district convention of the Young Democrats' Club of the National for Michigan, the Sixth Congressional district, held in the City of Brighton at the Weiss Barbecue on Saturday, July 27th, 1935, at 7:30 P. M. for the purpose of selecting delegates to attend the National Convention in Milwaukee on August 23 and 24, 1935. And to transmit any other or further business that may come before the convention.

NOTICE

The Willing Worker's Club will hold a party on Peach Mountain on Thursday evening. They will hike to the mountain and each is to bring what he wants to eat. All will meet at the Congregational church Thursday at 9 P. M.

MOTORCYCLIST IS INJURED

Howard (Jack) Engel, 26, of Howell, is in the McPherson Hospital, Howell, with a fractured arm and other injuries suffered when he fell off his motorcycle at 2:00 P. M. Sunday. The accident occurred when he left the blacktop road at Chubb's Corners and went off on the gravel road.

DROWNS AT BENNETT LAKE

George Copeland, 31, of Detroit, was drowned at Bennett Lake, 25 miles northeast of Howell early Thursday morning. The body was found in three feet of water at 6:30 A. M.

Copeland and his employer, W. H. Cole, were guests of George Hobson at his cottage on the lake. Wednesday night he and Miss Maybelle Brown of Flint, after visiting a beer garden, went for a ride on the lake. The boat tipped over and Miss Brown swam to shore. This was at 12:30 A. M. Thinking Mr. Copeland had done likewise she did not give the alarm until several hours later when it became known he was missing. Coroner Claude Rounsaville of Fowlerville was called and said no inquest would be held.

FARMER'S UNION PLANS

FOR 4,000 DELEGATES
More than 4,000 persons are expected September 25 and 26 to attend the second annual convention of the Michigan Farmers' union, to be held in Owosso, according to union officials. The first convention was also held in Owosso with about 2,000 attending, and double this attendance for this year is predicted.

Realizing that the hotel facilities here are totally inadequate to accommodate so many people, the Chamber of Commerce has already started to line up rooms in private homes for the visitors.

The program for the convention will not be ready to announce for some weeks, it was stated by union officials.

The City Cousin

Soft Ball Games

Pinckney turned the tables on the Y.M.C.A. team from Silver Lake Wednesday night when they won them on the Pinckney diamond. The Emmetts, who shut them out with runs the week before, failed to repeat. Pinckney got 12 hits in this game. Gori pitched for Pinckney and allowed four hits. The Laker second baseman, the first inning when he got two hits and Pinckney made errors. Pinckney tied the score in the second and scored the winning run in the fifth inning. Jim Singer was Pinckney's leading batter with two doubles and a single. Dr. Clark was Pinckney's last run unassisted in the seventh inning when he hit a home run over the right fielder's head.

This week Thursday night Pinckney will play the U. of M. Freshman Camp at Portage Lake. An open place is on hand at the Detroit office at 6:45 P. M.

PINCKNEY LOSES TO DANVILLE

The Pinckney team lost to Danville Sunday by a score of 10-0. Danville started pitching for Pinckney but retired in the second inning after Danville had scored runs on four hits and a couple of Pinckney errors. Harlow Haines pitched him and shut Danville out for the balance of the game. Pinckney was unable to hit M. Walker effectively, who pitched for Danville. They got two runs in the second on hits by Pink Dillaway and Miller and an out at first and another one in the 8th on a hit by Bill Lamb and a couple of outs at first. Ferrell scored the last Pinckney run in the 9th when he and Jack Dillaway singled in succession.

Pinckney will play the Blazing Arrow team at Island Park, Ann Arbor, next Sunday. They beat the team by a close score several weeks ago.

SCHOOL PROJECT HELD UP

The project for an addition to the Pinckney school is held up for the time being. It was intended to apply for a $10,000 addition of four rooms to the school under the W. P. A. However, the W. P. A. does not consider any projects of which the school is under $25,000. This would mean that before a bond issue could be floated, the $15,000 that would have to be raised by a bond issue. The W. P. A. is now all projects under $25,000. However, they furnish only labor and the material must be taken from the welfare fund and it would be doubtful if enough carpenter and brick layers could be found there to do the work.

At present the district has on hand over $5,000. It is suggested that this be used as a sinking fund and the district build the addition itself. Also there is a possibility that the W. P. A. project limit will be lowered and for this reason there will probably be no course of action adopted for the time being.

Week End Jamboree Here Saturday

Pinckney Experiences the Usual Number of Week End Disturbances. 4 Arrests Are Made

Pinckney seems to be becoming the week end dumping place for all the undesirable elements of the rest of the state. Drunkenness and disorderliness seemed to predominate here over the week end and all told the sheriff's department made four arrests last Saturday.

All of those arrested were from Detroit who were week ending in this section.

Saturday afternoon Deputies Kennedy and Bassett arrested Harry Hansen of Detroit, who has been employed as butler at Portage Lake by Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Cadwell for some time. He inebriated too much of the stuff that cheers and created a disturbance.

Saturday evening about 7:00 P. M. two deputies made another flying trip here and took into custody George Evans, Charles Miller and John Wilson of Detroit who staged a five-for-all fight on the streets of Pinckney.

These three men came out from Detroit in a car driven by Harry Morgan. They had a disagreement and in the fight that followed in which all seemed to have participated, Evans received a bad cut in the face which required three stitches to close. Morgan, after a lively scrap, dumped the other three out on the lawn of Dr. C. L. Sigler and went back to Detroit alone. They were taken to Howell and spent the week end in jail after Evans had received medical aid.

Sunday night Sheriff Fawcett and Deputy Kennedy were once more called over after two cars had collided on the Pinckney Main street and a noisy debate followed. No arrests were made.

We understand that another fight took place at the corner of M-36 and the Howell Road about 2:00 A. M. Sunday morning, between two men and two women in an automobile.

Just why Pinckney experiences so many week end disturbances is not clear unless it is the fact that Pinckney has no police protection. There is no village marshal or resident deputy here and in case of a disturbance it is necessary to call the jail. Many believe that a resident deputy would restore order here.

Monday the four were arranged in justice court at Howell. Hansen was fined $5 and given ten days in jail. Evans, Miller and Wilson were each fined $5 for disorderly conduct and were warned not to repeat the offense.

STATE PAYROLLS SHOW BIG INCREASE

According to an article by Carl Rodow, Detroit News writer, the State of Michigan payrolls may be $2,000,000 higher this year, 1935, than they were in 1934. Payrolls in the first six months of 1935 were $2,000,211.26 as compared to $6,124,163.31 for the same period in 1934. Records on file show that for each month the payrolls have cost more than in 1934. The total increase for the six month period is $1,070,777.95.

The highest comparative increase is in the sales tax department. This is partly explained by the fact that there are now 335 employees, as compared to 226 a year ago. Director Fordy stated that although about 20 men on the field staff will be let go next month, the office force will be increased. Virtually every department except the governor's office and the department of Education show a payroll increase.

No figures are given on the state liquor control commission.

Economy in government is easy to incorporate in a party platform but putting it into effect is something else again. Former governors Green and Brucker each made economy a part of their platform but both failed to accomplish it. With the state adding more departments and commission each year it would seem a folly to promise economy in payrolls.

PLAINFIELD HOLDS CHURCH HOME COMING

The church home coming Sunday at the church was a decided success. Rev. E. A. Benedict, president of the M. P. Conference, Rev. Hoff and Mr. A. J. Vannatten, the evangelists, assisted Rev. Swadlow in the forenoon, and Rev. England of Lapeer, who preached here 47 years ago, to help in the afternoon. He gave a wonderful address. The platform was filled with three generations, the children of today, the young people who sing now, and the remainder of the old choir who sang here 47 years ago. Each gave a selection from the good hymns. Mr. A. L. Dutton, the only one able to sing of the old choir, gave a solo accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Jessie Topping.

The church was filled all day. About 100 ate dinner, together making a real home coming. The colored spirituals of Ann Arbor added to the evening service. The history of the church was read by Mrs. A. L. Dutton from old records available from 1852 until the present time. The church was beautiful and a large banner of welcome made all remember the old church times.

Current Comment

The old saying that "Prohibited Pastures Are Always Greener" seems to be proving true in the case of Arthur Rich, former Battle Creek youth. He was given a life sentence in Ingham county for attacking Miss Louise King in 1925, the trial attracting much attention. This sentence was afterward commuted and he was paroled in 1933 on the condition that he leave Michigan and never return. He went to California. Now he is in to return to Michigan, the scene of his crime and disgrace and has so petitioned the parole board who will put the matter up to Gov. Fitzgerald. His grounds are that his father is starting a factory in Battle Creek and he wishes to go into business with him. While in California Rich has been employed as a brush salesman.

The slot machine suit in Clare county which was to decide whether the machines were legal property or not has petered out. There Sheriff Bates seized a number of machines belonging to Bert Kane, who is known as the slot machine czar of upper Michigan, and refused to return them. Kane announced that he would start civil suit to get them back. Attorney General Toy announced that he would support the county in their contention that the machines were illegal and forfeited to the county or state when seized. Kane has withdrawn his suit.

A new and unexpected angle seems to have developed in the treatment of wealth y prisoners. For some time the board has been collecting from inmates of our asylums and poor houses if said inmates were able to pay it. Now the state government would extend this to all inmates of our prisons. Starting with Balfie McDonald, the Flint matricide who is worth a considerable sum of money it will endeavor to collect a weekly board bill from him. As he is serving an indefinite sentence, this amount would probably be considerable. Of the 8,000 inmates of Michigan penal institutions, it is estimated that 400 of them would pay $300 per day or $100,000 per year. Assistant Attorney General Hughes has been appointed to administer this act. He will have each inmate fill out a questionnaire, giving a list of his real and personal property. This will then be verified. Then the prosecutor in each county from where the inmates came will file suit and obtain a judgement on the full amount of the board bill and a guardian must be appointed to administer the estate. Any person receiving an army or navy pension now serving time in prison would be liable to pay board. This is rather a drastic step and difficult in carrying it out may be encountered.

In the Italian-Ethiopian imbroglio, the same thing seems to be happening that has happened in India, Manchuria, Morocco and other countries. Ethiopia or Abyssinia is an undeveloped country rich in oil and mineral deposits. Most of its inhabitants are semi-civilized and no move has been made to develop these resources. Italy, with a population 10 times larger for her country and with exhausted resources, has determined to annex Ethiopia for a colony. Also Mussolini desires a foreign war to strengthen his position. It is the same old story of a strong country exploiting a weak and ignorant one.

Later developments in the Clare county slot machine war are that eleven people in whose establishments slot machines were found have been arrested on warrants charging them with possession of illegal machines. Assistant Attorney General Tappan has been sent by Attorney General Toy to assist the Clare county prosecutor.

Raiding the gambling houses at Mackinac Island just as the country editors were departing wasn't even a good judgment. They should have waited until the idle rich arrived and the machines showed a profit.

Simplicity and Chic in Morning

PATTERN 9316

It's as fresh as the morning dew! And it was designed for all those clever women who like to put in a smart appearance at the very beginning of every new day. Three or four dresses made up by this pattern would solve all your house frock problems. And the expense will prove trifling. Moreover, this pattern has been designed so simply that to follow it will seem like a first lesson in sewing. The yoke and sleeves all-in-one with a bit of bodice fullness below, and the decorative pocket make this frock very smart indeed! Percale or gingham in gay plaids or small geometric designs would be effective. Add nobby cork or wooden buttons.

Pattern 9316 may be ordered only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32. Size 16 requires 3 1/2 yards 36-inch fabric.

SEND FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE.

Complete, Diagrammed Sew Chart included. Send your order to Sewing Circle Pattern Department, 232 West Eighth street, New York.

Public Debt Mounts

Washington.—Back in 1916 before the United States became involved in the World war our government had a national debt which was regarded as large at that time. It was only $1,200,000,000, but that was sufficient in those days to cause concern.

On the first of July, 1935, the treasury started a new set of books. This represented the beginning of a new financial year for the government. One of the items it had to enter on those books was a public debt of about $28,800,000,000. We of today think that is a huge debt and when it is compared with the outstanding obligations of the federal government a score of years ago its magnitude seems titanic.

When the treasury closed the fiscal year books on June 30 and counted the cost of the preceding 12 months of government it was found that there had been expended roughly $7,300,000,000. In the same period it had collected through income and other forms of taxes, including duties laid at the customs houses, a total of approximately $3,800,000,000. This means that in the last 12 months the government operated with a deficit of something over $3,500,000,000. In other words, its operating costs were virtually double the amount of revenue it received. This deficit together with the deficit that was created during the earlier months of the Roosevelt administration added something like $8,000,000,000 to the national debt. President Hoover while in office added about $4,000,000,000 to the national debt through deficits in the last two years of his administration. So there are two outstanding phases in the financial affairs of the federal government as it starts the fiscal year of 1936, which began July 1.

There is bred these questions: How long can the federal government continue to spend money like water and thus increase its public debt, and how long will the American people continue to permit expenditures by their government in excess of the revenues it collects?

They are related questions. Neither can happen without the other. But it seems to me that the time has come for taxpayers and voters generally to take note of the condition of the government's finances.

Mr. Roosevelt justifies these heavy outlays under the necessities of an emergency. He contends that when prosperity returns and business is normal, citizens will pay their taxes without complaint and that these taxes will be sufficiently large in their total production to whittle down the gigantic outstanding debt. Hence there is at this moment an urgent need for examination of the whole tax structure. This is necessary to maintain the credit of the United States. If people doubt or lose faith in government bonds, the credit of the government can be said to be impaired. No nation of self-respecting people desires that thing to happen. It has long been a recognized truism that if a United States government bond was not worth its face value, the money we have and the rights we exercise as citizens likewise become impaired in value and benefit.

Careful analysis of government finances in the last 12 months shows that federal revenues were sufficient to cover what Mr. Roosevelt characterizes as ordinary government costs. He means by that the expenses of the regular establishments of government and excludes all of the so-called emergency agencies, of which there are now some sixty-odd. This condition reveals that federal taxes are about the only item in governmental affairs or in private business that have completely recovered from depression effects. Recovery has been sufficient to make the total revenues virtually the same as those received under the Hoover administration in the fiscal year of 1929-1930. It shows also that Mr. Roosevelt has not reduced the cost of ordinary running expenses of the government as he had planned when he became President.

I mentioned earlier a comparison of the public debt now and in 1916. Let us take another date, namely, 1910. At that time the outstanding debt was $26,504,000,000. The annual interest charge on that debt was just short of one billion dollars. Today with a much larger outstanding debt, the annual interest charge amounts to only $820,000,000 per year.

This seems almost paradoxical, but the answer lies in the interest rate the government is paying. In 1921 the average rate of interest calculated on all different types of government securities outstanding was 4.34 per cent. At the present time it is less than 3 per cent. So credit must be accorded the treasury for its gradual reduction in interest rates. Ten years ago an effort was made to market securities at gradually lower interest rates. It did not succeed fully because private business was demanding capital and private business was paying higher interest rates. In the last five or six years private business has called for very little money. Government securities and the law of supply and demand operated to allow the treasury to sell its bonds and notes at much reduced interest.

On the one hand, therefore, the Roosevelt administration has run up the public debt by about $8,000,000,000 but has succeeded in actually reducing the carrying charge of this great debt structure by more than $100,000,000 per year. That is the situation as of today. Restoration of business activity and the resultant demand for capital may change the market for treasury bonds almost overnight but the prospects for such business activity are not immediate.

Starts Something

One of the interesting things that often occurs in government affairs is the explosive effect of a single incident or a single remark by an important official. It is a characteristic of changing conditions and it is a circumstance which causes Washington observers to be on their toes continuously because they never can tell when such an incident will occur. Thus it was the other day that Representative Brewster, Republican, of Maine, a former governor of that state, arose in his place in the house of representatives and charged that the Roosevelt administration was threatening individual members of the house who declined to support the administration view on a particular piece of legislation. Mr. Brewster named one Thomas Corcoran as the administration emissary and bearer of the threats. He told of details of the circumstance and informed the house that the legislation which the administration demanded he should support was the so-called "death sentence" provision in the bill to eliminate utility holding companies. Suffice it to say that Mr. Brewster did not yield.

The point of this incident, however, is that immediately there came from many quarters in the house a demand for an investigation of lobbying activities. There had been many charges theretofore that the public utility corporations were over-running the house with lobbyists in their effort to defeat the "death sentence" section. The real reason back of this sudden outburst, however, lies in dissatisfaction among many members of congress with tactics employed by the Roosevelt administration. They have taken orders constantly since March 4, 1933, but apparently they are no longer going to obey.

So the investigation of lobbying is to be started by a house committee and it will be broader than just the public utility lobbyist. If the undercurrent of information proves to be correct, administration representatives who have frequented the house chambers during consideration of the holding company bill will be placed on the witness stand to tell their story.

Look Into Lobbying

In the meantime and maybe as a result of the excitement over the Brewster charge, Senator Black, an Alabama Democrat, started fireworks in the senate. He is prepared to create investigating machinery in that end of the Capitol to determine what influence the utility lobbyists have exerted. That investigation also will go beyond the utility lobbyist phase. It is scheduled to dig up dirt on lobbyists for other legislation. Thus far there has been little mention of administration activities around the senate.

But, as in the case of the house investigation, it appears now that the senate investigation has a double purpose. It will be recalled that Senator Black fostered a bill requiring all lobbyists in Washington to register at the Capitol, to show their connection, to show what salaries or other compensation they receive and to make public certain types of correspondence passing between them and the people whom they represent. The gossip is that the senator's bill, although it passed the senate without difficulty, will have hard sledding in the house. Senator Black appears to be proceeding on the theory that the investigation will create additional atmosphere and public demand for passage of the lobbyist registration measure.

Actually, I believe that the investigation will do no more than ruin reputations of some few people. Such an inquiry will not stop lobbying. It will not even curb or reduce lobbying. As long as individuals have property the value of which may be affected one way or the other by federal legislation, just so long will individuals seek to influence their representatives and senators in congress. It seems to me to be a perfectly natural and normal thing, and without defending the slimy type of lobbying and the raw or crooked deals that may come from lobbying, the voters have a right to express their views to their representatives.

The irony of the present situation is that undoubtedly there will be no reference in either investigation to the tremendous activity carried on by the American Federation of Labor lobbyists or the lobbyists for the American Legion or the lobbyists for certain groups such as the pacifists or the radical supporters of Russian types of government. Nor is it likely that the correct picture of administration pressure upon the last two sessions of congress will be disclosed.

Novelty's the Word for Swim Suits

and shakes out and dries, moisture injuring its appearance not in the least. See the velvet suit pictured in the center of the group.

JUST what, do you suppose, "are the wild waves saying" in regard to the whimsical, colorful and sometimes amusing water sports fashions which are so merrily splashing, dashing, swimming, bathing, diving and floating and frolic in ocean blue, or lake or river or new fangled swimming pool or wherever enthusiastic water fans happen to be?

Well, one thing is certain, if they are saying anything, they are undoubtedly holding an exciting conversation as to the trend to novelty which is so outstandingly characteristic of the latest in gym and beach suits. This is especially true in regard to media and materials, which are that novel they deny the theory that there is nothing new under the sun.

There's lace, for instance, which as a charming innovation, so far as bathing suits are concerned, has set the fashion world abuzz this season. Dilks, a youthful French designer of renown, conceived the idea. The lace makers obligingly followed along with a fabric that could be used with assured modesty and pleasing effect. Comfortable to swim in, attractive in appearance, lace threatens to be a leader in the race for beachwear popularity. In the picture, the suit to the left is fashioned of lace of firm dependable quality. Even the bathing clogs are of lace, closely woven and snug-fitting.

Another sensation is the debut of velvet as medium for the bathing suit. Of course the velvet has been processed to resist the ravages of water. Then, too, it is crinkled instead of smooth

While there is nothing new in the idea of the bathing suit which is knitted yet there is everything new in knitted effects as brought out this season. Their chief claim to novelty is in the daring and bizarre colorings and patterned effects instead of plain solid tones. The new print or jacquard knits are so spectacular that they easily add as much color to the beach panorama as do the gaily striped parasols and deck chairs.

The style tide in knitted suits is running strongly to the mailiot, or skintight swim suit, because it permits the greatest freedom of action and exposes a maximum of skin surface to healthful sun rays. Mailiots are also most flattering to fine figures, which is another argument in their favor. A smart version of the mailiot, in a jacquard knit with a deep U-back, halter neck and the fitted uplift (characteristic of the majority of 1935 suits) is shown to the right in the illustration. Huge bubble dots, alternating outline and solid, contribute splashes of striking color to its patterning. Among the beguiling combinations are white dots on a skipper blue ground, glorify yellow on brown, rouse on glory blue and white on tropic green.

Many fashionwise water-fans will do their swimming and sunbaking in skintight or skintight, if you so prefer, one-piece suits which have backs formed by adjustable straps drawn together at the back in a ring or some other ingenious and attractive device surrounding the waist as a self belt, carefully tied at the front to give the smart and casual touch.

BEACH TOWEL WRAP

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Immense bath towels with fantastic designs, fish, lobsters, and palm trees being their decorative motifs done in eye-appealing colors are being used at leading summer resorts as rugs and beach wraps. The picture shows how smartly and artfully they wrap themselves about scanty bathing suits. Measuring 88 by 72 inches as they do, these enormous bath-and-beach towels serve as ample rugs on sandy shores, lending color and tone to the scene.

NEWEST STYLES IN OUTFITS FOR BEACH

From tailored severity to lacy languor, the newest beach clothes range, with in-between numbers of quaint pastoral quality and daring modern themes.

There's a gay nineties air about a swim suit of polka-dotted red latex woolen with white ruffles around the top and bottom, and forming the shoulder straps, which cross in the back.

Then there is the English schoolboy outfit, so popular with beach lollers this season, which usually consists of tailor shorts and shirt of navy or polka-dotted twill, a matching ascot and a tailored white pique or linen jacket.

The Bavarian note is with us, too, in pastoral beach frocks of flowered glazed chintz, with lace bodices and sometimes even milkmaid aprons.

There is the Tyrolean trend, in gay chintz shirts and skirt-length slacks, with suspenders and gay belts. You wear these with a plumed Alpine hat.

Summer Prints Are Using Flowers as Big as Plates

Prints splashed with the biggest figures Paris has ever used—flowers the size of a large dinner plate—are next on the summer style scene.

Black or white crepes printed with huge plate-sized yellow and green sunflowers fashion slender gowns whose hemlines and trains are encircled by diagonal founcces. Their tops are sometimes without shoulder straps, leaving shoulders and back bare, the décollete often rimmed by a big ruche of the flowers cut from the material and strung with loops of horsehair ribbon. More prints, this time patterned in saucer-sized tulips, fashion other gowns cut along similar lines.

Gaudy Ornaments

Ornaments for afternoon and evening wear are gaudy and often introduce a contrasting color. Quaint jeweled belts are daring and sometimes have bracelets or other ornaments to match.

HOMEMAKER'S CORNER

Home Economics Specialists

Michigan State College

The combination of hot water and the extra changes of washing need to combine to make a wash day dreaded by most women, but the drudgery of the day can be lightened by methods recommended by home economics specialists at Michigan State College.

Hard water is one of the bad features of wash day which can be avoided by the use of household water softeners. Trisodium phosphate and washing soda are two of the best softeners and cost the least. Lye and ammonia are not so desirable, and borax is expensive although it is especially suitable for washing wool and silk.

The amount of softener to use depends upon the hardness of the water. Soft water needs none, fairly soft water should be treated with one or two level teaspoonfuls of soda or one of trisodium phosphate for each 10 gallons. Moderately hard water requires three or four teaspoonfuls of soda or two of trisodium phosphate; each 10 gallons, and very hard water will need five to seven teaspoonfuls of soda or four of trisodium phosphate for each 10 gallons.

The hardness of the water can be tested by adding not over a half spoonful of the softener to the amount of water needed for washing. Permit to stand for five minutes and then dip out and test a pint of the water with one or two teaspoonfuls of soap. If suds form, the water is soft enough; if no suds form, add more softener and test again after allowing the softener time to react.

When the proper amount of softener has been found, the amount can be recorded and used in the future. The cost of the softener cannot be charged as entire added expense because its use permits the saving of soap, more of which is required for laundering done with hard water.

AUTO STICKER PLAN ADDS WORK, NOT CASH

With the approach of August 1st, the deadline after which all automobiles operated on highways must be equipped with 1935 plates, rather than half-year permits or stickers, few of the hundreds of thousands of car owners using stickers have ever stopped to realize the consideration that successive legislatures have given the problem of keeping as many cars operating as possible, for the benefit not only of the owners themselves, but the state, which collects the gasoline tax, and every dealer in gas, parts, gasoline and accessories.

Even fewer car owners have any conception of the details which must be worked out in the operation of the deferred payment plan of weight tax collection. While the state adds not a penny to the tax collected from individual owners using stickers, the work of collection increases, and as a result, the cost of collection increases. The system presents a large-scale example of extending payment in meeting obligations, without added cost to the payer. The operation of some 150 branches of the Secretary of State, together with the office in the state capital, is made vastly more involved, however.

With the passage of money into a sticker, for sticker or plates, the transaction is completed, so far as the car owner is concerned. The main of events is only about one-third completed, however. Out of the thousands which place the plates on the branch offices, flow the daily reports to Lansing that branch managers make, as to plates sold and money collected. Important, however, is the fact that no cash is sent to Lansing. Duplicate deposit slips on the 100 bank are sent; the State Department draws on these banks to the State Treasury, from which it is transferred to the account of the auditor general.

By law, the entire weight tax is retained by the state, for the 32 counties of Michigan, for the highway purposes. The same collected from each of the counties forms the basis of the state's revenue, in the form of checks, of the weight tax, from the State Highway Department. It is only when the money is expended by the ultimate receiver that actual cash, not even from the time the car owner paid his in, finally changes and goes into circulation, rather than being held in the state of Michigan in picking.

D. 1928, in Liber 130 of Mortgages on Pages 572-573, and further assigned to MICHIGAN LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY, a Michigan corporation, by assignment dated the 25th day of May, A. D. 1930, and recorded on the 21st day of August, A. D. 1930, in Volume 134 of Mortgages on Page 235, on which mortgage there is claimed to be due, at the date of this notice, for principal, interest and insurance, the sum of Six Thousand One Hundred Sixty Nine Dollars and Six Cents ($6,169.06), as provided for by law. No suit or proceedings at law or in equity having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof. Now, therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute of the State of Michigan in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on Tuesday, the 1st day of October 1935, at 12:00 o'clock noon, Eastern Standard Time, said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale at public auction to the highest bidder, at the West door to the Court House in the City of Howell, Livingston County, Michigan, (that being the building where the Circuit Court for the County of Livingston is held), of the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the amount due, as aforesaid, on said mortgage, with the interest thereon and all legal costs, charges and expenses, including the attorney fees, and also any sum or sums which may be paid by the mortgagee for taxes, insurance, etc., to protect the mortgagee's interest in the premises. Which said premises are described as follows: All that certain piece or parcel of land situate in the Township of Genoa, in the County of Livingston and State of Michigan and described as follows, to-wit:

"The southeast quarter of section thirty (30) and the southeast quarter (1/4) of the southwest quarter (1/4) of section thirty (30), Town Two (2) North, Range Five (5) East, containing two hundred acres of land, more or less, in said township and county and state aforesaid. Together with the hereditaments and appurtenances thereof." Dated at Detroit, Michigan, July 1, 1935.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

It's Camp-Fire Picture Time

"Keep a Picture Story of Your Camp-Fire Parties"

WITH the arrival of summer just about everybody, it seems, wants to take advantage of every opportunity to get out to the country, the lake or seashore for camping, marsh-mallow roasts, fish fries, corn roasts, clam bakes, beach parties and what have you.

Taking pictures at night around the camp fire is a lot of fun and the results pleasing and out of the ordinary. Since the introduction of the Photoflash lamp there has been a tremendous interest in camp-fire pictures for this lamp is so simple to operate. The Photoflash lamp is similar in appearance to a common electric bulb and can be screwed into a special holder resembling an ordinary hand flash-light tube. These holders are very inexpensive and can be purchased at almost any store selling photographic supplies. The flash is set off by pressing the flash button and it gives an intense light without any noise or smoke.

This is how you take a camp-fire picture. The people should be grouped as close to the fire as comfort will permit. The arrangement of the group can be viewed in the finder of the camera by having someone hold a pocket flash-light or fire-brand at each side of the scene. This will indicate just what and who are included in the picture.

And let me warn you—be sure you have everybody in full view in your finder. Otherwise you may find the decapitated body of a dear friend appearing in the finished print.

It is well not to have the fire too bright, nor yet allow it to die down to embers when the picture is made.

With the camera resting on a tripod or firm support, set it at stop f/8 or U.S. 4, open the shutter, and set off the flash bulb and then be sure to close the shutter immediately. When using the Photoflash bulb hold it to one side of the camera, and slightly behind it. The latter position prevents possibility of lens flare from the flash. Here's one simple precaution—see that the camera is placed where possible smoke from the fire may not be blown towards the lens or between it and the subjects.

Remember too it is not necessary to own an expensive camera to take camp-fire pictures at night. You can take such pictures—and good ones—with a box camera by using the largest stop.

So if you are planning on an outdoor party at night over this week-end, or a camping trip, be sure to be prepared to take some fascinating Photoflash pictures. Here's wishing you a lot of fun and good pictures.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles De Fries and daughter of Ann Arbor are spending a few days in their cottage at Bass lake.

Hamburg

With the township of Hamburg dotted with lakes, some large, some small, with the Huron River running across it and a connecting link between many of these lakes, the township is one of the most picturesque to be found for many a mile. There are but very few of these many lakes that have not one or more cottages built on their shores.

While seemingly not as many are spending the summer here this summer as have some years, there are many. In many instances the man of the family is here only for the week end. At "Bob White Beach," Strawberry Lake, Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Baldwin, Mr. and Mrs. Webb Bayless, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Watson, Mr. and Mrs. George Clement, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer J. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Fisher, Mr. Barbara Green, and Mrs. Bert Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Wolfman and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Donkai, and families, others are here and then for a few days. But few of the more than 40 cottages, most of them log cabins, but what are occupied for the week end, nearly all being from Detroit.

At Buck Lake, Mrs. Elizabeth Hiss of Lansing, Mr. and Mrs. Brooks of Battl. Creek, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nigle, Mr. and Mrs. John Nigle, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Higgins, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wagner, Mr. and Mrs. John Behnert and John Smithson, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Geddy and families of Detroit and Mr. and Mrs. Jake Swartzkopf of Toledo, O., Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Blum of Detroit on the bank of the Huron River. At "Davaja" camp, at Nocker Lake, about 25 young-sters from Detroit, Ann Arbor and other places.

So we might continue regarding the many other lakes in the township, a few of which are Ore, Winans, Island, Zuky, parts of Bass and Portage, near which last named lake La-Salle, with four companions and an Indian guide, camped in Hamburg and Webster townships for two months in 1929. Ruth, Cordley, Bishop, Loon, Devil's Basin, Brighton, Whitewood, Butternilk, Bass and part of Patterson, at all of which many are enjoying the summer in the country and all the many water sports.

Hamburg Hive, No 392, Lady Macleod, met in regular session at I.O.O.F. hall Tuesday afternoon with the commander, Mrs. Gladys Lee, presiding. PUT THIS ELECTRIC RANGE IN YOUR KITCHEN and discover truly "modern" cooking!

Enjoy These Advantages of Electric Cooking!

- CLEAN. Electric heat is as clean as sunlight. There is no smoke or soot to soil kitchen walls and curtains. Cooking utensils remain bright and shiny after long use.
- HEALTHFUL. Electric cooking seals in nourishing juices and natural elements in meats and vegetables. Important food values are retained.
- WATERLESS COOKING. With your electric range you use no water for roasts and only half-cup for vegetables.
- MODERN. In attractive and striking designs, these electric ranges do much to brighten and add a feeling of newness to your entire kitchen.
- FULL FLAVORING. Electric cooking has a deliciously different flavor—a natural flavor in foods. Meats and vegetables cook to melting tenderness in their own juices.
- INEXPENSIVE. Electric cooking costs less than a cent a meal per person.
- SAFE. An electric range supplies only pure heat from a glowing wire—there is no flame, no matches, no fumes.

MANY so-called "modern" stoves are no different than the stoves in vogue 50 years ago. They look up-to-date in appearance, but they still use the same old-fashioned fuel burning method of cooking. They still have the features that were a part of the fuel-burning stoves of the nineties. The flame, the smoke and the soot are still there . . . and as a result, so are the soiled kitchen walls and curtains, the blackened pots and pans, the hot uncomfortable kitchen.

Only an electric range is truly MODERN—and what a difference it makes! Nothing but pure heat from a glowing wire, heat as clean as sunlight. Kitchen utensils bright and shiny after long use. A sparkling range—gleaming with spotless porcelain and polished metal—and a cool, attractive kitchen, as pleasant as any room in the house. And delicious meals with an entirely different flavor—a tempting natural flavor in foods. These are the things that a truly "modern" range brings you . . . and you have a right to demand them in the stove you buy.

You can own a modern electric range for $89.50—completely installed and ready to cook. See the latest models on display at your dealer's or the Detroit Edison office.

Anchors Aweigh —in Michigan

THE vacation you are planning is almost sure to include, as one of its attractive features, the flash of sunlight on water—a swimming pool, a stream that invites your rod and line, a lake for sailing or motor-boating.

For pleasures of this kind, no part of the globe is more bountifully equipped than your native State of Michigan. Here are some of the finest fishing streams in America; here are lakes of unsurpassed variety—five thousand lakes of every shape and size.

You can set up your camp on a pine-shaded bank and swim in a lake no larger than a private pool. Or you can weigh anchor in one like an inland sea, letting your sail or outboard motor carry you away from the workaday world—out into a vast expanse of flashing silver and running white-caps.

In addition to water-sports, Michigan provides almost everything the pleasure-bent vacationist can desire: Hundreds of miles of highways that increase the joys of touring by automobile; varied scenery; invigorating climate; an endless choice of golf courses.

Spend your own vacation in Michigan. Urge its excellent advantages upon your vacationing friends in neighboring states. By doing so you will increase the pleasure of their holiday. In addition, you will help to promote the popularity and prosperity of your native State.

It is for the purpose of doing our share in this promotion that this series of advertisements is being published by the Michigan Bell Telephone Company, a Michigan organization that prospers only as the citizens of Michigan prosper.

RAIL TAXES 44 PER CENT OF SCHOOL FUND
The taxes of Michigan's railroad make up 44 per cent of Livingston county's share of the state primary school fund, according to a study by David E. Drake, executive secretary of the Michigan Railroad Employees and Citizens League.
This county's current allocation of the fund totals $90,024.00. Drake explains, which is at the rate of $10.41 for each of its 6,766 school-age children. Of the $14,444,239.35 in the fund, the railroads through taxes paid $6,600,125.40, or a claim equal to 44 per cent of the total. On this basis railroad taxes made up $26,536.29 of this county's share of the fund.
The primary school fund is one of our state's most sacred funds and, backhandedly, finances the education currently of 1,387,135 Michigan children," Drake said. "Without this fund their education would be seriously impaired. The biggest contributors to the fund are the railroads, whose taxes by law go directly into it. Thus, of the $10.41 the state gives through the fund toward the schooling of each child, $4.55 is supplied from the railroads' taxes. Based on an average annual per pupil cost of $77.87 for education in this state, the railroads' taxes equal a year's education for 82,005 of our children. On the basis of rural school district costs, the rail's taxes would meet the annual educational expense of well over 100,000 children.
"These rail contributions to our schools are further proof of the vital part the lines play in our economic life, a part now threatened by the competitive inequality, the excessively regulated railroads are being subjected to by unregulated other forms of transportation, none of which, incidentally, contribute a penny to public education in this state."

OPERA UNDER THE STARS

Monday, July 29th, will see the opening of the week's engagement of "Countess Maritza" Emmerich Kalman's great musical success, being presented by "Opera Under the Stars" at Navin Field. The current production of Oscar Straus' "In Last Waltz" with Gladys Baxter has its last performance Sunday night.
"Countess Maritza" will be the seventh of the outdoor musical shows to be presented this summer, although it probably will rank first in the matter of beautiful melodies, brilliant production and romantic interest. Rated as among the most tuneful of all recent operettas this fanciful romance of Gypsies and Princesses, produced on the mammoth outdoor stage, and with spectacular settings, will be one of the most ambitious productions of the season. Gladys Baxter, who starred in "Bitter Sweet" and "Last Waltz" was retained to play the lead in this outstanding operetta.
The score is by Emmerich Kalman, a trained and successful Viennese composer who, in the score of "Countess Maritza," turned out the greatest work of his career. The score abounds in solos, trios, quartets and the finest examples of the Czardas. The music was picked up by orchestra, radio and concert singers, and these mediums keep the delightful music alive. There is a chain of romance in the story of the high born countess who invents a fictitious fiancé to avoid the importunate suitors who seek to share her wealth and her position. She loses her heart to the over-seer but doesn't discover it until a fascinating Gypsy addler threatened to win him from his neighbor's mistress. There are complications when a very real personage with the name the countess has invented appears to claim her hand. Ultimately, the Gypsy breaks her fiddle, the over-seer is discovered a nobleman in his own right and there is a promise of wedding bells as the curtain falls.
The most outstanding and popular of all the great musical numbers in "The Countess Maritza" is of course "The Gypsy's Dream." Others to be heard are "Golden Dreams," "The One I'm Looking For," and "The Music Thrills Me."
The brilliant cast will be headed by Gladys Baxter, star of "Bitter Sweet" and "The Last Waltz." Leonard Ceely, Hope Emerson, Barnett Parker, Jack Good, Harry K. Morton, and Desirée Tabor are among those who will be seen in leading roles.
Opera Under the Stars performances are given nightly at 8:30 and all of the seats are reserved. Tickets may be ordered by mail or be secured at any one of four box-offices located at Navin Field, Cass Theatre, Grinnells and the lobby of the General Motors Building.
Robert and Howard Read leave on a canoe trip to the Straits of Mackinac this week. They go up the Shiawassee River to Saginaw Bay and then follow the shore-line of Lake Huron to Mackinac. They will camp along the way.

WINTER RANGE

The murmur of Jean's voice within the house had ceased; he heard the faint stir of the door as she came into the room. He stood up, overwhelmed with such pity for this ill-situated girl that he was the victim of an unaccustomed timidity. She came close to him and her hand touched his arm.

"That shadow was a misdeal," he whispered. "There isn't anybody in that shadow. I don't believe there's anybody out there any more." She said, "Oh."

He felt infinitely gentle toward her, and compassionate. Presently he knew that he would have to ask her why that gun was concealed in her mattress. He was unable to ask her yet. "What was the phone call?" he asked.

"That was for you," she told him. It was Mark Ferris, that gunsmithe at Waterman. He's still trying to trace Zack Sander's gun for you."

"Yes? Quick! What did he say?" "He said—" Jean was shivering so violently that she could hardly control the chattering of her teeth.

"Wait a minute," Kentucky picked her up, sweeping her off her feet with an arm under her knees, and laid her on the open bed; then pulled the blankets over her, and pressed the edges close about her throat. "Now go on," he said.

"He said that he has a record of such a gun. He sold it second-hand about a year ago."

"In G—d's name, woman, who did he sell it to?"

"To Joe St. Marie."

For perhaps half a moment Kentucky Jones was completely still. Then he sucked in a deep breath and began to swear through his teeth with the vicious intonation of a man who puts his whole heart into it. He had suddenly become aware that he had perhaps put off the formation of one theory for a little bit too long.

Suddenly he whirled to the window, crouched low to avoid the sash, and vaulted the sill. He heard Jean speak his name behind him, but he was racing

"What is it to you where I go or what I do? Men put their hands in the lion's mouth for you, and you tell them nothing—not even enough so that they can take care of their own lives!"

She stared at him a moment in utter bewilderment, and one hand went to her throat. "Why, Kentucky—why, Kentucky—I've told you more—more than—"

He said, "You trust no one, you work with no one; everyone trusts you, and you let us all ride blind."

He turned furiously to his horse and drew the latigo up with a snap that jerked a grunt out of the animal. And he set his teeth in his lip lest he utter the belief which had overwhelmed him; that Jim Humphreys had died because of the reticence of this slim girl, now standing beside him in the snow.

"But—but—" Jean Ragland's eyes looked enormous in her white face. She shivered, the untrampled snow beyond the corral poles was no whiter than her blue-reined ankles, or her knuckles as she held the robe close about her throat. Kentucky Jones loomed above her like a tree, so that even in his anger he saw that she was a pitiful and desolated figure. Yet he was seeing Jim Humphreys' face as he had seen it last, staring with unseeing eyes at the first stars; and, believing that Jim Humphreys' death could have been prevented, had Kentucky known what this girl must know, he could not forgive her. His low, uncompromising voice cut hers down.

"I've been taken for a fool and used as a fool," he said. "But I tell you this: I'm going to ride this thing out. I'm going to ride this thing clear through to the end, regardless of what the end is. You hear me? And when that's done I'm through."

Jean Ragland's face contorted tragically, exactly as if he had cut her with his quirt. She managed to say, "What are you going to do?"

"I'm going to try to cut off St. Marie at Hightman's gap. If I don't get him there, I may or may not go on. I haven't decided yet."

"You think—you think he—"

"The man who put the gun into Zack's hand is the man responsible for the death, just as surely as if he shot Zack himself—and that gun was St. Marie's. I'm going to have me that bullet, she had availed herself of his help, he had been able to understand that he remained an outsider here, who could not expect to be told in what sort of thing he had assisted her. But in spite of Old Man Coffee he had assumed that she was at least co-operating with the interest of her father and her father's brand.

But the discovery of the hidden rifle told him at once that she was co-operating with no one; that, incredibly, she was playing an utterly lone hand—at least, he reflected bitterly, as far as the Bar Hook was concerned. For certainly no man had had anything to do with hiding a rifle in a bed. Only a woman would select a cache so close under the light.

She was acting, then, without co-operation with her father, or any other of the Bar Hook personnel. The association of this fact with the circumstances of Jean's rendezvous with her father's enemy was unavoidable.

To this unhappy situation the revelation of St. Marie's connection added a sharp immediacy. He believed now that the materials for solution had been under their hands; and were now perhaps lost to them because Jean had concealed the very signs that would have shown the trail. Because of her concealment of evidence, the Bar Hook had moved uncertainly, helpless in the dark; and the result was that a good tall boy was dead, and others would perhaps join him before it was through.

In his present state of disillusionment and the dregs of anger, he was supported by no particle of faith. He could not put her out of his mind. But she seemed to him to be like a mirage, which lures all the sanity out of a thirsty man, yet contains nothing of honesty, nor sincerity, nor faithfulness, when finally it is reached.

He pushed on steadily, counting upon the toughness of his pony. His hope that he would be able to make Hightman's Gap before St. Marie was very like a prayer. Until now the smash of six-guns had never been associated in his mind with anything more desirable than the raw, sickly smell of blood. But now, for once in his life, he had a stubborn ugly urge to throw bullets into something alive, and blow it off the face of the earth. He hoped fervently not only that he would head Joe St. Marie, but that St. Marie would fight.

Then, unexpectedly, he found that he was in country that he knew; and in

THE STORY FROM THE OPENING CHAPTER

At the inquest into the death of John Mason, banker, Jean, daughter of Campo Ragland, owner of the Bar Hook ranch, where Mason met death, surreptitiously passes to Kentucky Jones the bullet which had killed Mason. Kentucky goes to work on the Bar Hook ranch. The Mason verdict is accidental death. Bob Elliot, owner of the adjoining range, drives his cattle on the Bar Hook land. Lee Bishop, Ragland's ranch boss, expostulates. And Bill McCord, Elliot's foreman, insults him. Bishop and Jones are surrounded at Ragland's indifference to Elliot's action. Bishop urges Kentucky to try to influence Jean to arouse her father. He does so, unwillingly, and her reaction mystifies him. Zack Sanders, Bar Hook cook, is found dead, murdered. Sheriff Hopper announces his knowledge that Mason also was murdered. Jones seeks to trace the ownership of a gun found on Zack Sanders, as having a bearing on the mystery. Jean sells him her share in the Bar Hook ranch, thus giving him a free hand with Elliot. In a gun fight with riders of the "88" ranch Jim Humphreys, Bar Hook cowboy, is killed, and his partner wounded. Jones sends for fighting cowmen, but Ragland countermands the order. Jones finds proof that Jean has concealed evidence connected with Mason's death, and his faith in her is shaken.

man. When I've got him, I'm going to turn and get me the man that killed Mason. And I don't care who it is, or how close to home, or if it splits the rimrock wide open when he's caught."

It had been on his tongue to tell her that she might shield whom she wanted to, lie to whom she wanted to, conceal what evidence she wanted to, but he would see the killer of Mason hung in the end; but he bit this back. Still jerky and explosive with his anger, he vaulted into the saddle.

He did not look back; but as he slammed out of the Bar Hook layout, he somehow knew that she was still standing there in the snow, as she watched him as far as he could be seen. And he wondered if it was impossible for this girl to go to pieces, like other women, and lose herself in tears.

For four miles he held steadily northward, then turned and swung a broad circle, seeking to cut a trail which would verify the supposed direction of St. Marie. He was far to the eastward when he at last cut a straight-drawn track made within the hour. He judged that the bronc rider was pushing northeast at a cat-trot, trying—as Jones had guessed—for Hightman's gap.

The hours passed and the pony tired, and it seemed to Kentucky Jones that that ride was perhaps the longest and loneliest he had ever made in his life. He could not keep Jean Ragland out of his mind.

He remembered the strong sharp pressure of her fingers, and the touch of her cheek, and the pliant, yielded curve of her body in his arms; he could see the stir and drift of her loose hair as they had stood in the corral. This girl had become the center of all living, as a waterhole is the center of a range, or a fire the center of a camp. He had never been called upon to admit this to himself, until suddenly circumstances had asked him to accept also the certainty that she had betrayed them all.

For he could not avoid recognition that Jean's concealment of the rifle had a different meaning than had that extraordinary feat of hers at the inquest, when she had lifted the bullet that killed Mason from under the very nose of the sheriff. Her concern with the bullet had told him that she was shielding someone—if not the killer, then at least someone who might otherwise have been open to an unfair suspicion. Although, in the case of the three hundred yards more he recognized the trail into Hightman's gap. He approached with caution, stopped his horse and swung deep out of the saddle, not daring to set foot to the ground. Carefully, with ungloved hand, he explored a section of the trail inch by inch, until he was satisfied that no man had passed this way before him in the last twenty-four hours.

He proceeded into the gap, ice cracking under foot where the snow had been crushed by passing hoofs. A little way above the trail, in a twisted bunch of junipers, he easily found cover for a man and a horse. Kentucky Jones brushed the snow off a bit of rock, rolled himself a cigarette, and listened to the quiet.

He had time for a second cigarette, and a third, leisurely smoked, with long waits between. He presently began to think that he had misread Joe St. Marie's purpose, and that the man had taken some other way. But there was nothing to do but wait, his brain tired out with its own running, like the horse.

When at last he heard an approaching horse it startled him. It had come so close before he heard it at all. He rose cautiously, freed his gun in its leather and put his left arm around the pony's head to hold down its nose, preventing its whinny to the stranger.

Around a shoulder of rock seventy-five yards away the rider appeared; and he recognized the broad-banded black and white Mackinaw that Joe St. Marie wore.

Kentucky Jones could see now why he had been so late in hearing St. Marie's approach. St. Marie was riding not in the center of the trail but in the rougher going at the side, avoiding the ice formed by the hoof-crushed snow in the trail itself. Even then, Kentucky had a moment of admiration for the horsemanship of this man. Under Joe St. Marie's saddle the sleepest old plug always looked alertly awake, and spoiled horses, with mouths tougher to the bit than the grip of a man's hand, took on an unexpectedly decent sensitivity. It was as if something about St. Marie put into horses the fear of God.

St. Marie was now within the twenty-five yards; he was leaning a little sideways in the saddle, peering into the junipers so directly that Kentucky thought the bronc rider was looking him straight in the face. Yet St. Marie came on. Kentucky drew his gun, and waited until St. Marie was almost behind him.

His voice was low as he spoke, but coming unexpectedly out of the quiet from within ten yards it lifted St. Marie like a fired gun. "Just a minute, Joe!"

The result was as if Kentucky had snapped a strip of hide from St. Marie's horse with a bull whip. The animal snorted and went forward in a great bound as St. Marie's spurs struck. Joe St. Marie himself in the same instant flung himself half out of the saddle and behind his horse. He had hooked his spur on the side nearest Kentucky into the cantle of his saddle and was riding low on the far stirrup, but the effect from where Kentucky stood was as if he had disappeared.

Kentucky's horse, startled by the other's contorted, half freed itself with a great stamping of feet, throwing Kentucky off balance as he fired; but the shot caught St. Marie's horse in its third jump. As the gun spoke the horse went down on its knees, nose into the snow, as if it had hit the end of a rope.

Kentucky, gun in hand, sprang across St. Marie's downed horse to where the rider lay.

St. Marie lay on his back, his hands above his head, one of them still holding his gun, cocked but unfired. Kentucky took the gun with his left hand. He would have eased the hammer down, but St. Marie's horse, shot through the shoulders, was trying to get up, straining its neck toward its withers. Using St. Marie's gun, Kentucky put a bullet through its head.

The bronc rider was breathing heavily, but except that he had been knocked out by the throw, Kentucky could not find anything wrong with him. When he had satisfied himself that St. Marie had no other weapon of any account, he unfastened St. Marie's bed-roll from the fallen horse, kicked it out flat, and dragged St. Marie onto it. Then he sat down on the horse to await results.

CHAPTER IX

It was a quarter of an hour before St. Marie propped himself up on an elbow and looked at Kentucky with comprehension. Kentucky saw the bronc rider stealthily ascertain that he was no longer armed.

"Go ahead," Kentucky said, reading his mind, "pick up a rock. But when you do I'm going to blow your arm right off at the wrist."

St. Marie sat up and rubbed his head with both hands. Once more he stared at Kentucky Jones.

Kentucky smoked, and idly twirled his gun by the trigger guard; but he did not open conversation. He wanted St. Marie to begin that.

"I suppose," said St. Marie at last, "you're waiting for the others to come up."

"I'm waiting for you to talk."

"I got nothing to say."

"If you don't want to talk," said Kentucky, "I'm not a d—n bit interested in trying to make you. Just keep your mouth shut tight enough and long enough and you're through—and that suits me."

St. Marie studied him again. "Listen," he said at last, "listen. You guys got no call to rub me out. If I only make it worse for you in the end—Campo ought to know that. Just as likely as not, running me will be the one thing that turns around and hangs all the rest of it on him, before he's through."

"You're mixed up," Kentucky grunted. "I've got no doubt you'll be rubbed out all right. But it won't be here or now, and it won't be by me. You're going up the chimney by due process of law, Joe."

St. Marie seemed mystified. "You think you're having a lot of fun with me, don't you?" he said at last. "But don't you think for a minute that I don't know what you're here for, and why you were sent, just as well as you do."

St. Marie leaned forward, hitching nearer Kentucky. "Listen—"

"Stay where you are," Kentucky warned him.

"All right. I'm not trying anything funny. Listen—who's with you?"

"How many of me do you think it takes to take you where you're going?"

Denmark Has Many Islands. Surrounded as it is by the sea on nearly all sides, Denmark possesses a wealth of islands and peninsulas, verdure-clad islets and wood-clad points and promontories. It is a fair and fertile land composed of the islands, Zealand and Funen, and the peninsula of Jutland.

LIVE IN TOWNS WITH NO TAXES

People of French Communes Should Be Happy.

Just the spot we have been seeking all our lives. Towns where no taxes are paid and where on the contrary one is paid to live there.

It may sound like a fairy tale. Yet it is a fact, confirmed by official documents, that 24 French communes in the Jura mountains, on the Swiss border, with a population of about 10,000, pay no local taxes. Instead each inhabitant receives a yearly dividend, ranging from 100 to 200 francs.

The explanation is quite simple. In years gone by these communes became the proprietors of spruce and fir woods in the vicinity. These woods are exploited in businesslike fashion by each commune so well that there is a profit after all the communal expenses have been paid. This profit is divided among the inhabitants.

La Chaux des Crotenay, one of these communes, which is an attractive mountain resort, may be taken as one of the best examples. During the present century nobody has paid any local taxes. Instead, each inhabitant, including women and children, has received a yearly check averaging 150 francs.

Further, each family has been furnished with free firewood and since the allowance has been quite generous, half of it has generally been sold, adding to the dividend check.

Whenever a citizen of the commune desires to build a house, he is given a free plot of ground. Also free stone and sand. Finally, the village doctor is subsidized by the commune and, according to the contract, he has reduced his fees.

Many square miles of Jura forest land are owned and exploited by the communes and the villages have literally gone into the wood-cutting and wood-selling business. The profits are devoted to municipal expenses.

The dividend-paying villages are naturally proud of this unusual distinction, and, as naturally, newcomers who may seek to become permanent inhabitants to get their share of the booty are not welcomed cordially.

Sartorial Evolution

Our aboriginal forefathers were in need of abundant hair, for they braved nature in the raw. Body-covering was used only when necessary for protection against extremes of weather or against foes. Modesty in displaying one's limbs arose out of the fact that the habit of wearing skins gradually solidified into a social custom; co-maturing with the clothes-habit was torsorial affability. Whereas, formerly, body hair was a material advantage for the body, it slowly molded itself into an aid toward masculine and feminine beauty.

ADVERTISEMENTS Are Your Guides to Value

● Experts can roughly estimate the value of a product by looking at it. More accurately, by handling and examining it. Its appearance, its texture, the "feel" and the balance of it, all mean something to their trained eyes and fingers.

● But no one person can be an expert on steel, brass, wood, leather, foodstuffs, fabrics, and all of the material that makes up a list of personal purchases. And even experts are fooled, sometimes, by concealed flaws and imperfections.

● There is a surer index of value than the senses of sight and touch... knowledge of the maker's name and for what it stands. Here is the most certain method, except that of actual use, for judging the value of any manufactured goods. Here is the only guarantee against careless workmanship, or use of shoddy materials.

● This is one important reason why it pays to read advertisements and to buy advertised goods. The advertised product is worthy of your confidence.

for the bunk house. A match was already in his hand as he thrust open the door; he struck it on the logs and with quick efficient motions lighted one of the hanging lamps.

"St. Marie—" he said aloud.

Joe St. Marie's bunk was empty. Kentucky swore again, blew out the light, and left the bunk house on the dead run. He headed now for the corral nearest the pump house, and sprang half way up the corral fence.

The half dozen horses in the corral were huddled together near the empty feed box. The ponies moved and shifted, but by the time he had counted them Kentucky knew which horse was gone. This information only verified, however, what Kentucky had already guessed. Joe St. Marie, leaving stealthily, as Kentucky now knew Jean had seen him leave, was certain to take the best-conditioned horse upon the place, in this case a raw-boned claybank.

Kentucky leaned against the fence and pressed the palms of his hands against his eyes. He was picturing to himself the lay of the country, and the probable intricacies of Joe St. Marie's mind. Immediately he came to a conclusion which he had not reason to be certain was sound, but which was the best he could form from what information he had.

Once more he drove through the clogging snow at the run, this time to the house; here he got his hat and his coat, his gloves and his spurs. After that he went to the stable, and put a loop upon the pony which he believed would come the nearest to matching the claybank's performance tonight—a wiry, almost under-sized steel-dust pony, strong with the markings of Indian blood. Kentucky had the blanket on and was swinging his fifty-pound saddle aboard by the horn as Jean, coming out from the house, reached his side.

"What—where are you going? What's happened?"

A sudden crazy anger came into Kentucky, like a stroke of white lightning. At its impact all the compassion, all the tenderness he had felt for this girl seemed to vanish, as if she had held him under a hypnosis, the spell of which had snapped. He turned on her furiously.

PINCKNEY DEFEATS BRIGHTON 8 TO 5

The Pinckney soft ball team won from Brighton here Monday night, 8 to 5. Dinkel pitched for Pinckney and with the exception of the second inning when the visitors scored four runs on two bases on balls, two hits and a Pinckney error he was in control of the situation. Brighton held a lead of 5 to 3 until the 5th when Reason and Shirey hit safely and H. Haines walked. Floyd Haines hit over third scoring two runs and H. Haines scored on a wild throw to the plate. Two more Pinckney men scored in the last inning on a Brighton error, a walk and a hit by Reason. Brighton filled the bases in the 4th with one out but a fast double play, Dinkel to Reason to F. Haines retired the side. Pinckney will play a return game at Brighton next Monday. All players please be at the Dispatch Office at 6:30.

HARTLAND, MILAN, YPSILANTI, DIXBORO AND ANN ARBOR SCOUTS TO MAKE TRIP

A delegation of nineteen leaders and scouts from the Washtenaw-Livingston county will attend the national Scout Jamboree in Washington during the last ten days in August, according to an announcement made today by Fielding H. Yost, Scout Commissioner. Six other Scouts may still qualify for attendance, but the group of nineteen have already filed their registrations with the National Jamboree committee.

Newton Squires of troop 1, Milan, Elbridge Brian and Leon Gannon of troop 1 Hartland, Giles Fox of troop 4, Ypsilanti and Robert Horton of troop 2, Ypsilanti, Thomas Colvin and John Childs of troop 10, Ann Arbor, Ted McOmber, Clark Hubbs and Hal Whittemore of troop 7, Ann Arbor, Roger Wisnogle of troop 14, Ann Arbor, David Kahn of troop 16, Ann Arbor, Warren Crandall of troop 4 Ann Arbor, John Sifers of troop 16 Ann Arbor, and Donald Martin of troop 104, Ann Arbor, will make up the delegation of scouts going under the leadership of Scoutmaster T. Bruce Baker and assistant scoutmasters, Ivan Parker of Dixboro and Donald Palmer of troop 22 of Ann Arbor. The group will be accompanied by Scout Executive, Walter MacVick, who will serve as one of the editors of the publication of the Jamboree Journal.

While July 21st has been announced as the closing date for registrations, there are still several scouts making efforts to complete their applications. It is possible that a few additional scouts may still go.

The group will leave on Monday evening, August 19th and will stop off at Harper's Ferry, West Virginia, Tuesday, arriving in Washington on Tuesday evening, ready for the grand opening on Wednesday, August 21st.

Marion

Mrs. John Redinger returned here Sunday, also her sisters, Mrs. Frank Leary of Saline and Mrs. Leo Detton of Ann Arbor, after a week's visit with their brother in Canada and other places of interest.

There was a misprint in the amount taken in at the social at West Marion. It was $41.00 instead of $14.00.

A number from here attended the high coming at the Methodist church last Sunday. They also enjoyed the colored troupe of Ann Arbor in the evening.

Walter Collins, who is working on one of the Ford farms, spent Sunday here.

Mrs. Alfred Lange and children, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Pfau and son visited Warren Cushing at the Wayne County Training School near Northville Sunday.

Mrs. Summer Frisbee is in Williamburg, Canada, taking treatments for arthritis from Dr. Locke.

Mrs. Lyle Redinger has been entertaining her sister and sister-in-law of Detroit.

The social at the Carl Ward home was well attended, if the rain did spoil having it on the lawn. Proceeds were $21.00.

This community was saddened by the passing of Mrs. Ralph Loomis last Friday in the Howell Hospital where she was taken from the home of her grandmother, Mrs. W. W. Loomis (Jane Batchelor) was Mrs. Loomis' grand-daughter and leaves her husband and four little boys, 10 days old. The funeral was held Sunday at West Marion with burial in the Green cemetery. We extend our sincere sympathy.

Plainfield

The First Crop Report

The United States Department of Agriculture reports crop conditions as of July first to be better than average.

The wheat crop is estimated at 731,043,000 bushels. This is 6 per cent less than the five year average at against 20 per cent less for last year's crop.

The corn crop is estimated at less than the five year average but over 600,000,000 bushels more than last year. These figures are based on the present restricted acreage program.

Rye, oats and barley are estimated to be a bumper crop.
