

High School Loses the Opening Game

Brighton High School Defeats Pinckney in Curtain Raiser, 13 to 0. Local Team Lacked Team Play.

The Pinckney high school football team opened their season last Friday by dropping a game to Brighton, 13 to 0. The Pinckney team is inexperienced, only having three of last year's regulars in their lineup and had no offensive to speak of only making one first down. They made several fumbles which Brighton recovered and by this means the play was mostly in Pinckney territory. The Pinckney line put up a good game and turned back the Brighton offense twice on their own 20 yard line.

Foiled in this manner of offense, Brighton started forward passing and in the second quarter Bidwell threw a forward pass to Timmons for a touch down. Young circled end for the extra point. In the third quarter Bidwell again successfully passed to Timmons for a second touch down but Brighton failed to make the extra point.

The key did not try a single pass centering themselves with straight football, which they failed to gain success with. Their tackling was good and their defeat was caused by their inability to break up Brighton's passes. Billy Meyers made most of Pinckney's gains, through the line.

The team showed lack of practice having only been out a week and had perfected no plays. With another week's practice they should look like a different team.

Pinckney School Notes

After years of endeavor Brighton finally won a football game from Pinckney. The last time Brighton beat Pinckney, we believe, was way back in 1928. This was the time Mike Blades made a 50-yard run for a touchdown. However, he mistook the 5 yard line for the goal line and stopped running there. Brighton won the game 6 to 0.

At the half the Brighton rooters paraded up and down the field carrying a stretcher bearing a bandaged man. On the stretcher was a sign "This is for Dear Old Pinckney."

The Pinckney rooters were few and far between and did no yelling at all. Brighton, on the other hand, had a large bunch of fans present.

Stitt, who refereed, is a former Michigan Normal baseball and football star. He later played professional baseball in the Michigan-Ontario League.

In Bidwell, the Brighton team seems to have a capable quarterback. He showed good judgment in his choice of plays and threw passes just when they were needed. Without the passes Brighton could not have scored.

The most encouraging thing about the game for Pinckney was the work of their line. Brighton's line plunges and end runs got nowhere against it. When the Pinckney backfield gets its plays perfected this combination should win their share of games.

All Brighton school children were admitted free to this opening game and as a result a large crowd was present.

Janice Merrill, class of 1934, left Monday morning to enroll in the University School of Nursing.

Miss Marjorie Hendee has enrolled in Cleary Business College and Miss Helen Devereaux also.

There is no football game scheduled for this week but a skirmish is booked in which the first and second teams will oppose each other.

Thomas Young has rejoined the team and will be in the lineup next week when Pinckney meets Hartland. He is an experienced player and should strengthen the team.

BLACKTOP ROAD COMPLETED

The county blacktop road from Pinckney to Chubb's Corners was completed last week by the county road commission and is now open to traffic. It will be allowed to pack and settle for one year. Then it will be given a surface coat of oil and fine sand and rolled with a steam roller. This makes a fine road and it is a pleasure to drive on it.

MRS. EVAN BUSH
Mrs. Evan Bush, 61, died at her home south of Pinckney, near Patterson Lake, Wednesday night after a long illness. She was formerly Lillie Pewsey and was born at Mancelona, Mich., in 1874. Surviving are her husband and two sisters. The funeral was held from the Swarthout Funeral Home Saturday afternoon with Rev. C. H. Zuse officiating. Burial was in the Waterloo cemetery.

The Huron River Waterway Route

Letter of Lucius Wilson to FERA Director Asking Improvement of This Water Highway Is Printed Here for the Benefit of Our Readers.

Lansing, Mich.
August 21, 1935

Dr. William Haber
Director, F.E.R.A.
609 City National Bank Building
Lansing, Michigan.

Dear Sir:-

In allocating Federal funds to projects that will employ labor and at the same time justify the expenditure from any point of view, we ask your careful consideration of the improvement of the Huron River, throughout the distance from the point where it crosses Grand River Road (east of Brighton) to the dam above Ann Arbor, approximately twenty-five miles; so that pleasure craft could negotiate the trip.

Along the River, and on the shores of the lakes that drain into the River are the summer homes of many thousands of people who work in Detroit, Toledo, Ann Arbor and smaller places in southeastern Michigan. It is fair to say that the valley of the Huron River is the recreation ground of more Michigan people, more days in a year, than any other distinct geographical area in the state. Individual citizens have spent more money on cottages (not elaborate homes) and on improvement to grounds, shore lines, adjacent groves, and grading and draining available lowlands than in any other area where recreation and energy of the thousands of summer people in the Huron Valley should commend itself to the Federal authorities.

The improvement of the Huron River could be effected at relatively low cost, and the character of the work required is such to employ a high percentage of labor per dollar expended. Beginning at the slack water above the dam at Ann Arbor the accumulations of boulders at various points along the channel should be removed. At the point where the old mills at "New Hudson" once stood there are remains of old dams that would require work. At the site of the old Dover mill a similar condition exists. From that point upstream to Portage Lake there are many boulders and old logs. At the outlet of Portage Lake and above, there is need for small locks, to canalize the River, or wing dams that would allow power launches to pass. Above Base Lake the River is quite wide and shallow for a short distance. At the entrance of Strawberry Lake another sand bar prevents the passage of any boat except a skiff. Farther up the River there are other obstructions of one sort and another.

A survey should be made by a competent engineer and satisfactory plans developed. There is nothing complicated about the situation, however, and the survey would be a simple matter. The maps prepared by the U. S. Geological Survey show the contour of the country and indicate a difference in level of only six feet in twelve or fifteen miles. If this project were completed it would offer the finest inland waterway for pleasure power boats in the Middle West. If the improvement provided no more than sufficient depth to safely handle a motor boat twenty Continued on last page

McCLEER-JONES NUPTIALS

A pretty fall wedding was solemnized at St. Mary's church, Pinckney, Saturday morning, September 21st, at 8:30 o'clock when Miss Margaret Alice McCleer of Gregory, became the bride of Arthur William Jones of Howell.

Nuptial high mass was read by the Rev. Fr. Louis Dion before the bridal altar decorated with autumn flowers and cathedral candles.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was lovely in her gown of white satin. Orange blossoms trimmed the cap of her finger-tip veil. She wore white satin slippers and carried white roses.

Miss Marian McCleer, sister of the bride, attended her as maid of honor. Her gown was dark brown celanese taffeta with brown and gold sandals. She carried an arm bouquet of Tallis-man roses.

Mr. Gerald Jones, brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man.

The ushers were Mr. Robert Acken and Mr. Gerald Hughes of Howell.

Mr. Emmett Harris of Howell sang "Ave Maria" and "O Promise Me" accompanied by Miss Nellie Gardner who played the traditional wedding marches as the bridal party entered and left the church.

A wedding breakfast was served the immediate families at the home of the bride's parents. The house was prettily decorated with fall flowers.

Mrs. Jones is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence McCleer of Gregory and Mr. Jones is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Jones of Howell.

The bride and groom left on a short trip in the East.

For traveling the bride wore an olive green suit with brown accessories.

Corn Husking This Year Is a Problem

Local Team Wins from South Lyon

Defeats South Lyon 13 to 7 In Free-Hitting Game on Sunday.

Pinckney won from South Lyon at base ball Sunday by a score of 13 to 7. Don Seales, South Lyon pitcher, was not with the team. Frayer, a left hander, pitched for the visitors. He was wild, issuing six bases on balls. His team made some six errors behind him which figured materially in the Pinckney scoring.

Both pitchers allowed 10 hits. South Lyon got three home runs off Howell. One was over the left field fence and the others were high flies which the outfield lost. Boyle got 4 hits in five times up for South Lyon and Ward got three hits in four times up for Pinckney. Pinckney got a 4 run lead in the first inning and led all the way and as a result did considerable clowning.

No triple plays were made in this game as Triple-Play Reason was absent and did not appear in the Pinckney lineup.

Sunday Pinckney will play a return game at South Lyon. The following Sunday they will play Hartland. Whether this will end their season has not yet been decided.

Philathea Notes

"Church Night" is over once again and we had an evening of splendid good fellowship. The Philatheas enjoyed the role of sponsors for the occasion and put on an interesting program, including music and readings, following the pot-luck supper. The committee merits our thanks for their efforts in connection with this pleasant evening.

A number of our class were among those chosen as delegates to the Jackson Association of Congregational and Christian churches at Ann Arbor on Tuesday.

The Philathea Class had a wonderful helpful session on Sunday and a good attendance.

Next week we have a splendid theme, "A Friendly and Hospitable Church." Do you feel at home in your local church? If not, how do you account for it? If you do what contributes to your feeling of welcome? Come out Sunday and be friendly.

L. A. S. MEETING

The L. A. S. met for a social and business meeting in the church dining room, September 18th. After dinner had been served our president, Mrs. Elliott, called the meeting to order. We sang America and Mrs. Zuse offered prayer. Reports were read by the secretary and treasurer and approved. Following items were discussed and decided upon.

Price of meals must be raised to 35c for adults and 20c for children under 12. The chicken dinner which we always give in October will be on October 5th, and bill for adults will be 50c and children 35c. A committee with Mrs. Euler as chairman has charge of this.

Our annual bazaar will be held the first Saturday in December. Committees to be appointed by president. Our pledge of $20.00 per month for church budget remains the same with more if possible and necessary.

Election of officers resulted as follows:
Pres. Mrs. R. K. Elliott
Vice-pres. Mrs. P. H. Swarthout
Secretary Mrs. W. H. Euler
Assist. Sec. Mrs. C. H. Zuse
Treas. Mrs. C. Swarthout

The Question Is Who Is Nellie Bly?

Mike Roche is the Only One Who Knows and He Refuses to Tell.

"Who is Nellie Bly?" That is the big question of the hour. The question that has been asked over and over again since the scandalous Breach of Promise Case of Bly vs. Roche was first announced. As this goes to press no one besides Mike Roche has been able to find out the exact identity of the notorious Nellie Bly.

The name of Nellie Bly brings many fond memories to our minds. For one thing there used to be a lot of horses named Nellie. Then there was a quotation from Snakespire or somebody that went like this, "On Where is Our Little Nellie? On our little Nellie is up in them tall mountains. On, don't be alarmed for our little Nellie. Our little Nellie can ride a bicycle."

Anyway, it seems as though someone and done right by our little Nellie, and poor Roche is the victim. The best that we can do is wish him luck.

One thing certain is that Sept. 26 and 27 are going to be red letter days in Pinckney and in Mike Roche's life. Attorney Smith of Howell says he thinks he can pull Mike through. But Judge Yelland says justice must be done in any court where he presides. Wm. Lamb, Mrs. Smollett, Mildred Jack, Mr. Miller, Mr. Howlett, Mr. Zuse, Mr. Lavey, Mr. Ross Read, Mr. Fred Schaefer have all said they are prepared to give a truthful testimony when they go on the stand. At the same time, the jury, with such prominent names as Mrs. Rose, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford VanHorn, Mr. Piau, Mr. Huff, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Teeple, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bullis, Mrs. Louis Clinton, Mr. John Pinckie, Mrs. Gorman, Mr. Martin, Fred Read say that they will be firm and uninfluenced by any of the respective testimonies offered. And, of course, there is going to be considerable entertainment while the jury is out.

C. A. Lee, Percy Ellis, Mr. Meyer, W. C. AtLee, Percy Ellis, Mr. Meyer, Herman Vedder, Mrs. Vedder, Irving Richardson, Nelly Hois, Walter Clark, Wirt Hendee, Mr. Hannett, Wm. Kennedy, Mr. Piper, Mr. Daller, Albert Dinkel, Mr. Meabon, Claude Reason, P. Swarthout, Mr. Cambyrn, Ed. Spears, Gordon Lamb, Madge Jack, Hank Shirey, Margaret Curlett, June Lamb, Charlotte Harr, Jean Clinton, Mary Hois, Arlene Thorpe, Julie Stackpole, Virginia Darrow, Mrs. Alta Meyers and the Delphine Singers of Howell will do their share to take up the time while the jury is out deliberating.

All in all, the event on Thursday and Friday evenings, Sept. 26 and 27, will be the "Trial of the Century". Tickets are now on sale for this unusual affair by members of the Pinckney King's Daughters. Advance reports indicate that the Community Hall will be packed to see that justice is done.

NEW DEAL POLL RESULTS

There is no general trend either away from or toward the Roosevelt administration in communities scattered across the state, a cross section of sentiment expressed by more than 30,000 persons indicated tonight.

Approximate complete returns from 13 of the 14 cities, co-operating in a poll conducted by the Gannett newspapers on the New Deal, showing a plurality of 2,467 endorsing policies of the present Administration.

The vote was 18,142 favoring, to 15,675 opposed.

On all, 34,810 ballots were cast. Of those taking part, 16,314 said they had voted for Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1932; while 14,501 said they did not.

The 3,583 voters who said they now oppose President Roosevelt's policies, although they voted for him in 1932, were almost exactly balanced by 3,553 new adherents who did not vote for him in the last election.

Cities participating were: Albany, Beacon, Elmira, Hopkinton, Ithaca, Ithaca, Malone, Newburgh, Ogdensburg, Olean, Rochester, Rome, Saratoga and Utica, N. Y.; Hartford, Conn.; Plainfield, N. J.; Danville, Ill.; and a number of communities in Pennsylvania.

REIBELL CREAMERY TO START MONDAY

New Creamery Expects to Begin Receiving Milk Next Monday.. Equipment is Being Installed.

We are informed by Thomas Reibell, a member of the Reibell Dairy Co. that his company expects to open the Pinckney creamery for business on Monday, September 30th. At that time four trucks will start hauling milk to Pinckney. They are Ben White, Wm. Kennedy, W. H. Meyer and Virgil Amburgey. It is expected that sufficient milk will be obtained to allow the creamery to operate.

More work was necessary to fit the building for operations that was anticipated. The engine had to be set, a smokestack erected and the ice machine and other equipment installed. To that end four men have been working steadily for the past week.

The Pinckney creamery will be under the management of O. Buecker who was the manager of their Stony Creek station for the past four years. He is said to a competent creamery man and one who knows his business. He and his wife expect to move here as soon as they can find a suitable house.

ELECTED DELEGATES TO CONVENTION

At a meeting of the local Farmer's Union, held at the Putnam town hall on Thursday night, Frank Bowers, Michael Roche and George Long were elected delegates to the Farmer's Union state convention to be held at Grand Rapids Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

WHITE LODGE COUNTRY CLUB

Chicken dinner from 1 to 2, 65c. Dancing to radio at all times. Four miles east of Pinckney.

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Darrow spent Sunday with relatives at Kalamazoo. Dale Darrow of Kalamazoo spent the first of the week with his mother, Mrs. Faye Darrow.

Current Comment

The conference on liquor law reform has closed and the next legislature will undoubtedly be asked to make many changes in the liquor regulations. While we are always for reform if it is worthwhile, we object to adding to the liquor laws any rule or law that cannot be enforced.

Most of the changes asked are praiseworthy but several are foolish and impossible of enforcement except in few cases. One of these prohibits the sale of beer on Sunday and the other would close all places where beer is sold at 1:00 A. M. In the old saloon days the liquor laws contained these last two regulations but except in few cities and villages they were generally ignored. In most cases the front door was locked and the customers admitted at the rear door. As far as the one o'clock closing law goes, what about hotels and restaurants which are open all night? This attempt to make the same laws apply all over the state will fail, for each community will get the amount of law enforcement it desires and no more.

The Jackson Citizen Patriot says that the same fault exists in the liquor situation now as prevailed in the old saloon days, that there are too many dealers and that as long as the townships continue to give beer licenses to every oil station and hot dog stand in the country there will continue to be liquor problems.

Once more the smoke is coming from the Pinckney creamery and the wheels of industry will be turning again. The Reibell Creamery Co. is filling a long felt need in providing the farmers an outlet for their milk which in recent years has been much curtailed. Let's all co-operate with this company and see that their stay here is long and successful.

Pinckney's greatest need now is a bank. At the present time all banking has to be done at Howell and other places. This is not conducive to good business and causes much loss of time. The Pinckney Board of Commerce is preparing to take up this matter and see if some way cannot be worked out by which Pinckney can be provided with a bank. Munith, a much smaller place than Pinckney, has reopened her bank and so has Milford. Undoubtedly there will be another bank in Pinckney some day and it may be that this time can be hastened.

Governor Fitzgerald plans to appoint a civil service commission soon and draw up a plan for putting all state patronage offices under civil service, according to dispatches sent out from Lansing. If further states that fights within his own party over patronage were responsible for the defeat and the failure of enactment of many measures sponsored by him and that the governor will have a fight on his hands to get re-elected on account of disagreements over party patronage. This all sounds nice but we would like to see either the Republican or Democrat party function successfully without any patronage to hand out.

Under the terms of the McNitt act, the counties will take over the balance of the township roads on April 1, 1936. However, Attorney General Toy states that the state constitution provides that the townships shall continue to elect a highway commissioner so this office must continue to be on the ballot. After a search of the statutes Mr. Toy has found that there are still duties for this officer to perform. For instance, the legislature in 1846 passed a law providing that he shall receive $2 per day for acting as a referee between irate neighbors in line fence disputes. Another statute states that he shall seize animals running at large on the highways. Also he shall receive applications for private roads and swear in juries to consider their necessity. However, like the offices of school inspectors, highway overseer and constable, the office of highway commissioner is practically obsolete.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars and American Legion officials are both passing the buck over failure of the bonus bills to pass at the last session of congress. The veterans charge that the opposition of the Legion to the Patman bill providing for payment of the bonus by inflation resulted in its defeat and the head of the Legion, Frank Belgrano Jr., states that the inflationary method of payment caused its defeat as it aroused the sound money men against it and also defeated the Vinson bill under which the funds would be borrowed to pay the bonus. All of this is neither here nor there but we think both organizations are stronger with the bonus unpaid as it gives them a burning issue to rally around and hold their membership.

Washington Digest

National Topics Interpreted
By WILLIAM BRUCKART

Washington.—When President Roosevelt entered the White House March 4, 1893, every dollar of federal money that was expended was accounted for and the vouchers reviewed by the general accounting office. J. Raymond McCarl, comptroller general of the United States, occupied and still occupies an independent position in the accountings he directed and the reviews that were made under the budget and accounting law. But with the arrival of the New Deal and the crisis in government and the nation arising from the depression, scores of new laws were enacted, new agencies of government were created and billions of dollars were appropriated, the bulk of it being spent without reference to the accounting act or the bureau of the budget. Congress, under White House direction, did not make these new agencies or their spending accountable to the comptroller general.

It was almost two years before President Roosevelt saw fit to make any of the emergency agencies, the alphabetical soup, amenable to the general accounting office. Consequently, millions upon millions of dollars were spent and only the spending agencies knew whether they were spent in accordance with law. Now, however, things have changed. Late last winter, the President began extending the broad wings of the general accounting office over emergency agencies and has continued to do so until, only the other day, the last of these were made responsible to the comptroller general. Thus an independent governmental unit—one with no axes to grind—again is in a position to say whether federal money is being spent as congress directed and in a manner which the taxpayers have the right to demand.

This spending of money in gigantic amounts always breeds suspicion. It causes people to inquire, whatever the form of government may be or whatever political party may be in control, whether there is waste or graft, whether the then office holders are feathering their own nests, and many another question of the like. It was true in the case of the New Deal. Observers here in Washington constantly were receiving information alleging that this individual or that had been displaying signs of unusual prosperity; that rumors were afloat concerning graft and crookedness in one agency or another and that "somebody ought to expose" the goings-on with respect to a named department of government. It was not an unusual circumstance because in every administration we here in Washington who attempt to see and to hear as much as we can, it seemed to have been worse this time and well it may have been because the amount of money made available to President Roosevelt and his subordinates was so much larger. It is my belief, however, that there has not been more of this intangible thing called graft in government in the present administration than in most others. There has been some crookedness because there have been court convictions of some officials but I expect when and if the future lays bare all facts concerning the present administration and its handling of the vast sums of money available to it, it will be disclosed that most of the New Deal officials have been honest in their disbursement of funds. Their friends may have profited but, if they have, that is just a repetition of an old story, a circumstance always developing in a government managed under the two party system. To the victors always go the spoils.

If Mr. Roosevelt has been able to keep down straight-out crookedness, he is to be commended. It will remove from the forthcoming campaign some of the mud slinging that really has no place in national politics. But, while the President is entitled to commendation for the attempts at honest disbursement of funds, I hear more and more criticism of the way the money has been spent. Indeed, it appears now that the vast expenditures by the administration are likely to be as much of a campaign issue as is his proposal to alter the Constitution to fit New Deal plans.

Every one knows that when an individual's pocketbook is touched, he rises in revolt. By the time the next election comes around individuals will have had their pocketbooks touched rather forcibly by national and state and local taxes of an increased amount. Thus, it is easy to see how the criticism of Roosevelt's spending is growing and can continue to grow. The government has been pushed ten or twelve billion more in debt and the end is not in sight, despite the fact that Mr. Roosevelt has intimated on several occasions lately that he proposes to curtail federal expenditures except for emergency purposes. Those announcements and any future declarations he may make are not going to soften the antagonistic feeling that people have for any public official who wastes money whether the motives be proper or improper.

From this point, one may look into the crystal of the 1936 campaign and it takes no stretch of the imagination to visualize what a pounding the New Deal opposition will give the Roosevelt administration on this question of spending.

When Mr. Roosevelt began spending, he declared it was justified because hundreds of thousands of citizens were starving. His next pronouncement on this subject by way of explaining continued expenditure was that if the government spent freely, it would serve as a priming of the economic pump; that the circulation of federal money would allow industry to sell and that industry would replace by manufacture the things sold. That, too, brought little or no result. Then we entered the current stage where the spending was to be closely supervised and only projects that held promise of actually developing manufacture and retail selling would be approved and financed by federal money. It is regrettable but it is a fact that almost nothing has come of this program.

And to make matters worse, lately, Secretary Ickes, public works administrator, and Relief Administrator Harry Hopkins have locked horns on the bulk of the projects on which federal money was to be used.

It is not strange that these two men should differ. Mr. Hopkins, being a trained, a professional, welfare worker, sees things only from the standpoint of the individual who needs food. Mr. Ickes has a conception of federal spending that embraces the use of money in ways designed to start the great industries in motion. He figures that if these industries get going, they will employ workers; the workers will spend their wages and the retailers will profit thereby and, as the retailers sell from their shelves, they seek replacements from the manufacturers. The controversy between Mr. Hopkins and Mr. Ickes, therefore, is not one to be settled by compromise or by soft words. In fact, it may never be settled until one or the other gets out of his place in the government.

The importance of the Ickes-Hopkins row to the reader of this column, however, lies largely in the fact that the particular reader is a taxpayer.

The connection is simply this: the last congress appropriated $4,880,000,000 for use by the administration in public works and relief. If all of that sum were spent the public debt would be increased by that amount because internal revenue taxes are insufficient to offset more than the ordinary government expenditures. Therefore, if all of this money is not spent, and it cannot be spent if the Ickes-Hopkins dispute continues to hold back administration plans, then the taxpayers will have just that much less of a government debt to meet through this payment of their taxes.

So the President's order placing all administrative agencies under the general accounting office to see that their spending is honestly done and the developments within the administration over a difference in policy must be taken together as a break for the taxpayer.

Agriculture adjustment administration officials are about ready to present to the farmers of this country a detailed plan for control of potato production. It will provide means for boosting the incomes of the potato farmers something more than 100 per cent, and will increase the cost of this item of food to consumers by a proportionate amount, of course. Conferences soon will be held between the AAA and representatives of farmers' organizations to work out phases of the plan requiring farmer approval.

Various thoughts arise if one reflects upon potato control. First, control of potato production marks the fourteenth agricultural crop brought under regimentation and it presents, probably, the toughest of all of them in the matter of enforcing its provisions.

Adoption of the potato control program represents attainment of a point in the life of the AAA where one step has led to another until control of potatoes was essential, or the whole plan of crop control flops. It will be recalled that the declared purpose of the AAA at the beginning was only for the control of cotton. Land withheld from cotton then was planted to tobacco and tobacco had to be controlled; when tobacco was controlled, and the land withdrawn, farmers in some sections turned to peanuts and peanuts had to be controlled.

I understand the AAA is considerably worried about the job of enforcing the potato control law. That law provides compulsion against overproduction in the form of a tax club—a tax of 45 cents a bushel. In addition, there are penalties of an amazingly severe kind—$1,000 fine for the first offense and imprisonment for not more than a year for the second.

Campus Swank Via Knitted Fashions

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

FOR thrills that set your blood tingling to your very fingertips, for enthusiasm that goes skyrocketing to the heights, see the new fall knitted fashions. They are simply grand! Never has a more fascinating chapter been written in knitwear style history.

As to the college girl who is assembling her go-away-to-school wardrobe there is no more direct road to take to arrive at campus swank than via the knitted way.

The new knits are in a riotous color mood. Their bright and handsome hues are as richly colorful and fascinating as the autumnal background against which they are silhouetted. Then, too, pronounced patternings in a bewildering array of checks, plaids and stripes animate the scene in striking display. As to the styling of the new knitted costumes, designers are doing it with incomparable chic and charm. See the three modes illustrated and be convinced.

There is no doubt about the atmosphere of unusual, outstanding and undeniable style that surrounds this trio of chic autumn knits. Consider the spritely checked three-piece suit pictured to the right in the group. It is a stunning affair. It is the sort that is destined to prove the college girl's delight. For that matter every woman will realize in this model her dream come true as to the type of fall costume she has been visioning for about-town wear. Just the thing for motor-ing and traveling.

This entire ensemble is carried out in a hairy soft yarn in a close jacquard knit. For the knitted suit, the latest is a luxurious three-quarter swagger coat such as styles this outfit. A sensible and graceful mode this, since it enables the wearing of this three-piece until well into the winter season. We see also in this model a fetching example of the plaid-with-plaid vogue which is being so widely exploited.

Typical of the many chenilles for spectator sports that are seen wherever women of fashion gather, is the ravishing three-piece suit centered in the picture. Both skirt and blouse are plain, providing a perfect foil for the colorful striped jacket. Peeping out at the top is the jaunty blouse, the knitted in a wide drop stitch. The frog fastening identifies this model as a last-minute creation in that the very newest fashions have these military-looking accents. It is also worthwhile noting that the skirt is finished with a salvage hemline which prevents it from sagging. A pert knitted hat with brim smartly angled at one side completes the ensemble.

What could be more unmistakably style-convincing than the tailored knit outfit to the left? The double-breasted jacket is cut according to best masculine tradition with wide lapels and straight neat fitting sleeves. Across the back is a yoke from which emerges a voguish shirred fullness. A hairy yarn is used for the plaid knit coat as compared to a smooth soft sephyr for both skirt and blouse. The latter sports a crew neck and an initialed pocket. This clever tailor knitted in stunning color combinations.

A most important style point to remember in selecting your fall knit outfit is that soft sephyr closely knit and worked into figure-clinging "lines" are the new order of the day.

SUEDE SUITS

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Here's a newcomer—the suede suit. They are stepping out this fall in the most fascinating colors fancy can picture. To attract the more, they are made of suede as soft and supple as fabric and as delightfully wearable, being comfortably and pleasingly lightweight. In the model pictured—the skirt has interesting panel inlays and three buttons which unfasten to allow freedom of action. Roomy pockets; wide revers and a fine fleece in tailored detail give to this handsome jacket suit an air of unusual distinction. As to the colors for the new suede jackets and blouses, suits and accessories, they are simply fascinating.

MILLINERS SHOW NEW USE OF VEILS

Milliners have taken liberties with the classic lines of hats this season with the result that some interesting and amusing new features have appeared. An entirely new use of veils has been shown and, by the way, veils have been getting coarser and coarser until they somewhat resemble fish nets.

A little sailor is shown in white grosgrain which has been stiffened to give shape to the brim which stands out at the sides and tilts slightly over the forehead. A coarse veil of black silk is attached at the center of the crown and falls in back somewhat in the manner of bride's veil. Another in coarse straw is shaped like a Mexican sombrero with an upturned brim all the way around. A fish net veil extends over the crown to the edge of the brim where it is dotted with small pompons.

Dramatic Berets Show Up on Autumn Fashion Scene

Those big berets of velvet or pliant felt, made in thrilling rich dark colors, came onto the fall style scene early, but they will be still in good order when we get into our first warmish tweeds and fannels.

They set off a cotton sports dress with a refreshing dash for the present, but they will be the handiest kind of ensemble when we begin to wear all the strange new colors which autumn models are promising.

For a peek at coming tweeds shows muddy violets and sulphurous greens on the way, and plaids made of most unusual combinations—schemes that demand just the right accent in hat and blouse to show them off. These berets have the color, and they are becoming to almost any type of coiffure, besides.

Hoods, Pantaloons Many hooded dresses and coats are shown in Paris; also some trousersed sports and street skirts. Some designers even show satin evening pantaloons instead of petticoats.

DOGIES, DEACONS STILL HEARD IN SPEECH OF WEST

Cowboys may not be churchgoers, but they know their "deacons"; they may not be familiar with interior decorations, but they're well acquainted with "batracks."

Although much of the picturesque language commonly associated with the "Wild West" of a few decades ago has been swallowed up in changing times and customs, a few of the terms applied to live stock in another generation still linger on in the modern live stock and meat industry, according to the Institute of American Meat Packers.

"Notwithstanding the fact that tremendous improvements have been made in live stock breeding in recent decades and many new terms have been coined to identify the better grades of cattle, hogs, and sheep, the same names applied to certain grades fifty years ago are still accepted today," the institute explained.

"For instance, a 'deacon' is still a very young calf, and a 'batrack' is still merely an animal that is too thin to be sold for fresh beef."

Other terms which have survived in the face of vast changes and improvements in the live stock and meat industry include "dogies," which are small cattle native to the southern states and made famous in a cowboy song-hit of recent memory; "slingers," which are hogs with narrow backs and straight sides well adapted for lean bacon; "mules," sometimes called "moolies," which are hornless breeds of cattle; "jack pots," for mixed lots of cattle; and "pewees," which are exceptionally small pigs or lambs.

Death to Poisonous Black Widow Spider

One of the most poisonous insects which troubles mankind is the Black Widow spider. While this insect is fairly easily identified by the hour-glass marking on the under side, oftentimes people have been bitten by it before they have had time to discover its dangerous character. The best plan is to regard all spiders with suspicion, and to destroy them as soon as they are discovered.

A reliable insect spray, containing an ample quantity of Pyrethrum, a product derived from Pyrethrum flowers, is not only sure death to spiders, including the dread Black Widow, but kills flies, mosquitoes and other insect pests.

In making up a product of this kind, it is important that ample Pyrethrin be included to give a complete killing effect. Unless sufficient Pyrethrins are contained in the mixture insects may be stunned and rendered groggy for a time, but recover from the effects of the spray.

Sailing Women Among the 34 members of the crew of the Soviet freighter which carries general cargo, five of the sailors are women. One of the group is third officer, another is assistant engineer, two are stewardesses, and another an assistant in the steward's department.

THE FIRST GAME LAW

Two hundred years ago the Indians in Kentucky set aside game refuges for bears and created what may have been the first game law in America, says Vernon Bailey, retired naturalist of the Biological Survey. Bear fat, bear meat, and bear skins were the most prized returns of the hunt. Large areas were set aside as "beloved bear grounds" where only a limited number of animals could be killed each year, so that a permanent supply of these animals would be maintained. Mr. Bailey believes it might be well today to follow the example of the Kentucky Indians, and establish "beloved bear grounds."

MILNESIA
WAFERS

Sleep EIGHT Hours a Night

The trouble with most of us is we eat the wrong foods. We haven't any respect for our stomachs until they start to kick up a rumpus. We go along for years filling ourselves full of acids, the result is we can't sleep nights and always have a heavy loggy feeling. My doctor advised taking Milnesia Wafers to get rid of the acids and now I sleep soundly all night.

MILNESIA Wafers neutralize the excess acids that cause indigestion, heartburn and sick headaches. Each Wafer is a full adult dose, children—one-quarter to one-half. Pleasant to take. Recommended by thousands of physicians—At All Good Druggists.

'GOVERNMENT' CARS FACE STATE CHECK

Applications for 1936 automobile license plates for municipally owned cars will be carefully examined by the Department of State, it was announced Thursday. The cost of license plates for cars owned by the state or any municipality, including counties, cities, villages, and school districts, is only 50 cents for each vehicle, regardless of size.

Instances have been discovered in which these 50 cent plates have been issued on application of municipalities which in fact did not own them. Because of this State Department officials are warning that applications for such 1936 plates in which any question may arise as to the car's actual ownership, should be filed in ample time to permit investigation of the car's actual status. Some plates have been confiscated, the owners of the cars being compelled to pay the regular weight tax.

From 10,000 to 12,000 sets of these plates are issued annually. State Department officials believe that all but "a small percentage" of applicants are actually entitled to them. On advice of Harry S. Toy, Attorney General, however, the practice of issuing "government" plates on application of school boards in districts where children are transported, will be stopped unless the boards actually own the vehicles.

USE RIGHT CLEANER TO AVOID ACCIDENT
Safe Fluid Can Be Used To Replace Gasoline or Naptha in Michigan Homes

Copies of the Public Acts of 1935 are now available at the Department of State at $1.00 a copy. The state pays no postage charges within the state. It pays for copies must be accompanied by remittance in cash.

Accidents caused by the use of naphtha or gasoline for cleaning clothes or linens in homes can be avoided if a carbon tetrachloride is used as a cleaning fluid in place of those inflammable liquids, according to the home economics division at Michigan State College.

Carbon tetrachloride is more expensive than the more commonly used naphtha or gasoline, but the cost of the safe cleaning agent can be kept down if the liquid in which fabrics are cleaned is saved and filtered after use. All cleaning fluids, whether inflammable or not, should be used out of doors. The fumes are unpleasant and sometimes harmful.

In cleaning the fabrics on upholstered furniture, the grease spots should be removed first with one of the grease solvents. A good soap solution then should be used. The solution may be made from three medium bars of mild soap or one and one-half pounds of soap flakes. Dissolve the soap in two quarts of boiling water and later add two more quarts of hot water. One-quarter pound borax and three-fourths cup of household ammonia complete the solution except when a little bluing is added for materials with white in the pattern.

The soap solution should be whipped with a dower egg beater until a very heavy suds is obtained. Use the suds for cleaning, and apply with a circular motion. When the material is clean, rinse the suds off with clear water. Using the suds prevents lamping the fabric too much.

Rugs may be cleaned in the same way, and can not be left on the floor while they are being applied. Only a small portion of a rug or of upholstered fabric should be cleaned at one time. All the soap should be removed by rinsing. A brush will straighten the pile of the fabric or rug after cleaning.

May draperies can be washed with mild soap and water but those which are lined or of types which do not launder well should be dry cleaned. Carbon tetrachloride is excellent for this cleaning. When buying carbon tetrachloride, ask for the technical grade.

NO LAW VIOLATIONS FOUND IN MICHIGAN

Enforcement Officers of Food and Drug Act Watch for Unlawful Products

Michigan shippers of fruits and vegetables apparently are observing the requirements of the Federal Food and Drug Act, as the latest report of enforcement officers does not contain any report of Michigan violations.

Fruit, vegetables, canned goods, butter, fruit juices, drugs, and medicinal preparations are all checked closely to find if they conform to Federal regulations. Fruit and vegetables may have too great an amount of spray residue. Canned goods may be of inferior quality or may be labeled as a grade higher than they actually are.

Inspectors are watching the markets at all times and have power to seize and condemn any goods which do not meet requirements. Actions at law may be started against violators, and stiff penalties given in Federal courts.

The need for such supervision is easily proved by looking at the records on products which have been seized. The latest list cites court actions based on incorrect labeling of canned products, ginger ale containing undeclared caffeine, butter deficient in butterfat, short weights in canned fruit, drugs below certain standards, stock tonics sold under fraudulent claims, and patent medicines labeled as cures for diseases when they actually had no such curative properties.

Some of the claims made for these medicines seem humorous to healthy people, but they are sold to persons suffering from incurable diseases of who are living in sections where it is difficult to get medical care. Most of the sales are made to men or women who can not afford to pay any money for these worthless compounds.

The International Stock Food Company of Minneapolis, Minn., paid fines for selling International Stock Food Tonic which was labeled as digestive medicine and blood purifier for dyspepsia, loss of appetite, epizootic, indigestion, liver trouble, cough, influenza, and worms in hogs. The same company sold International Poultry Food Tonic for blood, liver, and digestive organs, and for chicken cholera.

Some of the remedies sold to humans were heralded as having more wonderful properties. Murrmann's Compound Laboratories, Danville, Ill., sold Murrmann's Compound for functional disorders of the lungs and all ailments arising from coughs and colds, for tuberculosis, bronchitis, asthma, influenza, pneumonia, and nervousness. The company was fined $100.

One company sold "An-Idin" for rheumatism, skin diseases, arthritis, lumbago, neuritis, sciatica, enlarged glands, neuralgia, and catarrh. This company was so enthusiastic about their product that they believed only a small amount was needed and their packages were short in weight.

Lack of a sufficient number of inspectors prevents the Food and Drug Administration from finding all evasions of the law which they enforce. They are always glad to have violations called to their attention.

NEED OF LEADERSHIP SCOUTS GREAT NEED SAYS EXECUTIVE

"The expansion of Scouting is limited only by the eagerness of men to lead scout troops," Walter MacPeck, Scout Executive of the Washtenaw-Livingston Council, told members of the Executive Board at their meeting held in the Michigan Union Monday night. "Unless the men of the community, business and professional men, fathers of boys, and others, see the opportunity of serving as Scoutmasters, some boys who want to be Scouts will be disappointed."

Leaders Course Planned

In order to aid men who want to know more about Scouting's program, methods and procedures, as well as to gain a general understanding of Boy nature, a course of training has been announced for the five Wednesday evenings in October, beginning October 2nd, at the Ann Arbor high school. Leaders and Committeemen to Meet

An afternoon and evening session for leaders and committeemen and other scouts is scheduled for Saturday, September 28th, at the Michigan Union. The conference will open at 4 P. M. A banquet will be held at 6:30 P. M., and the program will be over at 9 P. M.

Advancement Stressed

A board of review for scouts in middle district troops will be held at 324 E. Huron St., Ann Arbor, on Monday evening, October 7th, and one for Scouts of Southern district troops will be held in Ypsilanti Tuesday evening, October 15th.

Monthly boards of review and courts of honor are being planned in 11 districts in order to stimulate and encourage advancement.

Western Districts Active

The newly organized Western District, serving Manchester, Dexter, Chelsea and Bridgewater, will install the new Bridgewater troop on Friday evening, October 4th.

900 Scouts to usher

900 Scouts from all over Michigan will gather at the Michigan Stadium on October 5th to assist in the ushering for the first game of the season. Each registered troop is assigned a quota of uniformed scouts which will usher.

Camping Plans

Many troops are planning week-end trips throughout the fall and winter months. In addition, some troops are already making plans to attend Camp next summer. While the Council has not conducted a camp since 1932, many Scouters are in hopes that 1936 will see the resumption of the Council Camp.

Cubbing

Cub packs for boys 9, 10, and 11 years of age are being organized in various parts of the council. Cubbing is largely a home centered program, and while it does initiate Scouting activities, cubbing lays the foundation for later Scouting.

Council Survey Being Made

A survey of boys desiring to be scouts is being made in rural schools in both Washtenaw and Livingston Counties, looking forward to helping various communities to set up scout troops and cub packs.

29 REASONS

Why you should be at the Training Course for Scout Leaders Wednesday night at 7:30 P. M. at Ann Arbor High School.

1. The men are organized into patrols and troops and the course is managed as nearly as possible like a troop meeting. Perhaps you will secure some new ideas on program procedure.

2. You will be given considerable activity program material for use in your troop, new games, stunts, stories etc.

3. You will take part in an inter-patrol contest running through a five-week period, just as you might run an inter-patrol contest in your troop.

4. You will make many close and priceless friendships with other leaders.

5. Only "Big Ideas" are presented.

6. You will conserve and keep for future use, new ideas gained, in your Scouting Notebook and Scrap-book.

7. You will receive such mimeographed helps and other valuable pamphlets and materials.

8. You will learn new songs for use in your troop meetings at the 8-minute song fest held each week, under the leadership of a patrol leader.

9. You will see weekly Exhibits of material that will help you help your Scouts.

10. You will gain new concepts on how to develop patrol enthusiasm and patrol leadership, by being a member of a patrol yourself.

There are 19 other reasons. Come Wednesday night and learn about them.

There are a lot of Scouting Fundamentals that we don't talk about in this course but we try to practice them.

Visitors are always welcome. If you cannot enroll for the entire course, come Wednesday night and look over the gang.

Detach and mail to: Committee on Leadership, 324 E. Huron St., Ann Arbor, Michigan.

Please enroll me in the "Leadership of Boy Groups" course to be held on Wednesday nights, beginning October 2, 1935.

"The next three months will be crowded with Scout activities, conferences, training courses, and special events," according to Fielding H. Yost, Scout Commissioner of the Washington-Livingston Boy Scout Council.

Kick-off Meeting Sept. 28th
Scout leaders and committeemen will gather from all parts of the two counties on Saturday afternoon, September 28th, to participate in a Scouters' Assembly, a sort of "Kick-off" meeting of the new Scouting year. Various topics will be discussed and Mr. George Chronic of Chicago, Deputy Regional Executive will be the guest of honor and speaker.

Numerous Other Events
Among the various fall activities of troops are week-end hikes and trips, ushering at football games, and courts of honor for scouts who are to advance in rank.

Training Course
A training course for Scout leaders and leaders of other Boy Groups will open at Ann Arbor High School on Wednesday evening, October 2. All men interested are invited to enroll.
Course for Patrol Leaders Planned
A course of training for Patrol leaders and other boy leaders of Scout Troops is also planned. Announcement of plans will be made soon.

LOCAL SCOUTERS TO DISCUSS THREE-FOLD SCOUT PROGRAMS

Dixie Eight Will Sing at September

Hamburg

About one hundred relatives and friends witnessed the nuptials Saturday evening of Miss Hazel Winkelhaus of Hamburg and Robert S. Ward of Detroit in old historic St. Stephen Episcopal church at Hamburg, which is nearing the century mark. The service was read at 8:30 P. M. by Rev. William F. Jerome of Detroit, formerly rector of St. Stephens.

A half hour of organ music was rendered by Miss Myrtle Trunk of Grosse Pointe Park, a sorority roommate of Miss Winkelhaus last year, preceding the ceremony. As a processional Miss Trunk played the Bridal Chorus of Lohengrin, and Mendelssohn's Wedding March as a recessional; during the ceremony she played, "I Love You Truly."

Miss Winkelhaus was given in marriage by her brother, Louis Winkelhaus, of Denver, Col.

The altar before which the ceremony was performed, was banked with flowers in front of the ferns. The altar was adorned with white flowers and lighted tapers. Old fashioned blooms furnished the other decorations at the church.

The bride, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Winkelhaus of Hamburg, selected for her wedding robe a mainbocher copy of white chiffon velvet, fashioned simple straight lines, the main feature being the unique neckline, square, with a soft draping of velvet around it, on which rested a spray of white gardenias; the front hemline of the skirt was split, the back of the skirt forming a train. She wore a tulle veil of finger tipped length which was held in place by a tulle cap having a halo effect of plaited tulle; cap bound by seed pearls. She wore white satin slippers and carried a white leather-bound prayer book, a gift of the groom.

Mrs. Arthur Doherr of Chicago, Ill., sister of the bride, the only attendant, was gownned in a duobonnet velvet mainbocher copy, made on the same lines as the bride's gown; she wore a hat of same material, moire slippers to match and carried an arm bouquet of white roses.

The little flowergirl, Marlene Doherr, niece of the bride, wore a dress of the same material and color as the matron of honor.

William Shepherd of Cleveland, Ohio, assisted Mr. Ward as best man.

Mrs. Winkelhaus chose for her daughters wedding a gown of blue chiffon velvet and wore a corsage of pernet roses.

A buffet supper was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Winkelhaus, which was prettily decorated with white autumn flowers, for the families and bridal party before the ceremony, which was followed by a reception for fifty near relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward left by plane for New York city, where Mr. Ward is employed in the General Advertising dept. of the Hearst Enterprises Inc., and where they will be at home at 325 West 108th St., New York city, after October 1st.

For her going away gown, Mrs. Ward wore a rust colored wool crepe, set in brown gloves, shoes and parasol of the same material as the dress with tiny eye veil, she wore white gardenias and carried a brown coat with badger fur collar.

Among the out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Louis Winkelhaus of Denver, Col., Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Doherr and daughter, Marlene, of Chicago, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Winkelhaus, Mrs. Mary Stuhburg and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Stuhburg of Ann Arbor, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Winkelhaus of Howell, George VanKleeck of Hulsdale, Ill., Herman Wendlen Jr., Elmhurst, Ill., Frank Bristol, Oak Park, Ill., Alfred Rosenbist, Chicago, Ill., Miss Genevieve Ward, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bristow, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Stevenson, Miss Marjorie Bound, Miss Helen Davis Young, Wilford Crowe and Gordon Purser of Detroit, Miss Gracey Sinkas of Waterbury, Conn., Miss Joan Flockenstine, Bloomsburg, Penn., and Charles Kennedy, N. Y.

As Mr. and Mrs. Herman Earl and daughter, Miss Betty, of Flint, were coming to the wedding of Mrs. Earl's niece, Miss Hazel Winkelhaus, Saturday evening they met with a head-on collision with T. W. Smith and son, Harold of Hamburg village near the Red Cross building at Ore Lake. Mr. and Mrs. Earl and daughter, Betty, and Harold Smith were quite badly injured. George E. Sheridan of Hamburg, who was on his way to Brighton, took the Earls to the Mellus hospital at Brighton; Harold Smith was taken to a hospital in Ann Arbor. The cars were badly damaged.

With the commander, Mrs. Gladys Lee, presiding, Hamburg Hive No. 392, Lady Macabees met in regular session at I.O.O.F. Hall Tuesday afternoon. Following the regular business of the order plans were made for the county convention which was voted to be held Thursday, October 24th, at Hamburg. It was voted to invite Fowlerville Hive to exemplify the initiatory work. It was voted to invite Mrs. Harriet Williamson of Grand Rapids to be the guest speaker for the good of the order Mrs. Ida Knapp conducted a bean contest, first prize being won by Mrs. Jennie Sannon, second by Miss Jule Adele Ball and Mrs. Nellie E. Pearson served ice cream. Those who will act for the good of the order at the next meeting October 1st, are Mrs. Emily Blades and Mrs. Jennie Shannon.

in 20 MINUTES on a

TRIAL ELECTRIC RANGE

PREPARE a whole breakfast—a man's breakfast—in your electric oven in twenty minutes! Muffins, broiled bacon and eggs can all be prepared at the same time, and served together, deliciously hot and appetizing. Enhanced flavor, like that of old English grilled bacon, results from electric broiling. The bacon is evenly browned and keeps its shape—it does not shrivel into unmanageable curls. Even the eggs taste better than when fried, thanks to the "flavor conserving" heat of the electric oven, which does not cook to toughness but cooks thoroughly and gently. Finally, electrically baked muffins are delightfully flaky and tempting—a treat to top off any breakfast! Here is a meal after a man's heart—and with an electric range, it takes only 20 minutes to prepare. Wouldn't you like to try it—in your own kitchen—on a Trial Electric Range?

We will install an electric range in your kitchen without initial charge, so that you may give it a thorough trial. During this trial period you simply pay for the service as registered by your meter, plus a monthly charge of $1 for the range. If you decide to keep the range, your monthly payments will be applied toward the purchase price. If you decide that you do not want it, the range will be removed at our expense. Send in your application for a trial range today!

The following pupils of the Pinckney school attended the State Fair at Detroit last week. From and Lynn Hendle, Walter and Clara Rosen, Hollis and Donald Stier, Helen and Walter Moore, Edward VanHorn, Lois Temple and Thelma Campbell.

Last Monday night, Mr. and Mrs. Breiner of Green Oak entertained a number of friends at a room supper. All of the party were taken ill and Mrs. Carrie Murray of Detroit died Thursday. The rest of the party are in serious condition. Mrs. K. Harris of Dexter is one of the others. Also Mr. and Mrs. Brennan, C. H. and Karl Wood.

The Pinckney Court, O. E. S., installed the following newly elected officers last Friday night: W. M. Mrs. North, Vice at A. H. Mrs. C. V. VanWinkle, W. P. C. V. VanWinkle, Treas. Mrs. Mary Terrell, Sec. Mrs. Mary Roud, Cond. Mrs. Laura Sigler, Asst. Cond. Mrs. Florence Lake, Adm. Mrs. Ada Allison, Ruth, Mrs. Grace Gardiner, Fisher, Mrs. Nina Green, Martha, Mrs. Nellie Briggs, El eta, Mrs. Sadie Roud, Warrier, Mrs. Mary Swadlow, Chairman, Mrs. Marie Gates, Marshall, Mrs. Edith Carr.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Campbell Wednesday, a seven lb. daughter. G. G. Hoyt has purchased the home of Mrs. Sarah Hooker in this village. Morley Vaughn started his third year as a student at the Detroit Medical College, Monday.

Swarthout and Sayles have purchased the Briggs farm at Nash's Corners.

Guy Hinchey was operated upon at his home in Fowlerville Tuesday for appendicitis by Drs. Sigler and Sigler. The Pinckney Independent baseball team played Stockbridge at Gregory Thursday for a purse of $50 and won, 2 to 1. The lineups were as follows:

Pinckney	Stockbridge
Calwell	1st Farmer
A. Lavey	2nd Standish
J. Monks	3rd H. Dancer
F. Swarthout	ss Hollis
H. Swarthout	lf Westmorland
R. Moran	cf G. Dancer
M. Dunning	rf H. Lewis
Ledwidge	c Munsell
L. Lavey	c Berry

Rev. Fr. Commerford has a letter in this issue describing a trip to Montreal and Quebec.

Next week is the one and only Fowlerville Fair. This affair started way back shortly after the Civil War and has been running without a break ever since. Pairs flourished at Stockbridge, Chelsea, Brighton and other places for a number of years and then folded up and were no more. Fowlerville continued to pull off successful fairs year after year and is still doing so. We understand that in only one year and that was during the Spanish War did this fair fail to show a profit. Like Henry Ford this fair apparently has a formula for success all their own.

4-H EXHIBITORS AT STATE FAIR

Livingston County was well represented by exhibits at the State Fair. The 4-H Club boys and girls exhibited in their representative classes, dairy animals, garden products, canning, sheep and handicraft. Some of the club members exhibited the open class in garden material, Chester Clark being the outstanding exhibitor in this class. His exhibit was well arranged and many first premiums were collected by him in the open class as well as in the 4-H garden club.

J. T. Eamen has opened an apple receiving station at South Lyon with Frank Hoff as manager. Mr. Eamen also has stations at Pinckney, Gregory and Stockbridge.

James Pangborn died at his home west of town, Monday.

Plainfield at the present time has three practicing physicians.

R. C. Auld received 8 first and 8 second premiums on his Aberdeen cattle at the state fair.

Citizens of Tomorrow

It is an obligation of good citizenship to pay taxes; it is an obligation of government to spend this tax money wisely. In common with many thousands of other citizens, Michigan Bell Telephone Company recognizes its obligation to pay a share in the support of the functions of government.

The Federal, State and other taxes paid this year by Michigan Bell averaged $7.28 for each telephone in use. In total this amounts to more than $3,225,000, of which $2,737,955.25 is in the form of payments to the State of Michigan. It is particularly pleasing to us that these State taxes go into the primary school fund for the purpose of educating our citizens of tomorrow.

The primary school fund helps support the State's elementary, grammar and high schools. It erects and maintains the buildings, buys supplies, helps pay the salaries of our 32,000 teachers. Into it go the State taxes paid by many of the utilities of Michigan, and of these Michigan Bell Telephone Company pays the largest individual tax. From 1921 to the present year the total taxes paid by us into the primary school fund amounted to $32,643,350.99.

Like all other citizens who have a genuine pride in the progress of Michigan, we appreciate the value and profound importance of an adequate school system.

And to the telephone users of our State it must be a great satisfaction to know that indirectly they make an important contribution to a school system entrusted with the education and character-molding of 960,000 boys and girls—Michigan's school children today, her citizens of tomorrow.

SYNOPSIS

The future of the still youthful and comely "Widder" Marcia Howe, recently released by death from her idling, selfish husband, is a conversational tit-bit among housewives of the little hamlet of Wilton. Eligible bachelors and widowers also are interested. Marcia, despite her unfortunate matrimonial experience, finds pleasure in her life, but is lonely at times, and has invited her late husband's niece, Sylvia Hayden, whom she has never seen, to visit her. The girl arrives and Marcia takes to her at once, while Sylvia, expecting to see a somewhat elderly aunt, finds Marcia more like a sister. A stranger, on the verge of exhaustion, finds his way to Marcia's home.

What disaster had laid him here helpless before them?
As if their questions penetrated his consciousness, the stranger slowly opened his eyes.
"Sorry to come here like this," he murmured. "The fog was so thick, I lost my bearings and my powerboat ran aground. I've been trying hours to get her off. She's hard and fast on your sand-bar."

He struggled to rise and Marcia, kneeling beside him, helped him into an upright position where he sat, leaning against her shoulder.
"I seem to have brought in about half the sea with me," he apologized, looking about in vague, half-dazed fashion.
"No matter. We're used to salt water here," she answered. "How do you feel? You're not hurt?"

"Only a little. Nothing much. I've done something queer to my wrist. I was trying to push the boat off, and something suddenly gave way."
Turning his head aside, he bit his lip as if in pain.

"Well, telephone Doctor Stetson. Meanwhile, you mustn't remain in these wet clothes. There is no surer way of catching cold. Do you think you could get upstairs if Sylvia and I guided you?"

"I guess so—if it isn't far. I'm awfully dizzy. I don't know why. I suppose, though, I must shed these wet tags."

"You certainly must. Come, Sylvia, lend a hand! We'll help him up."
"Oh, I'm not in such a bad way as all that. I can get up alone," he protested. "Only please wait just another minute. The whole place has suddenly begun to pitch again like a ship in midocean. Perhaps I may be faint. I haven't eaten anything for a day or two."

"Why didn't you tell me? The soup, quick, Sylvia. I only wish I had some brandy. Well, at least this is hot, and will warm you up. I'll feed you. Hand me the cup and spoon, Sylvia."
"But I feel like a baby," fretted the stranger.

"No matter. We must get something hot inside you right away. Don't fuss about how it's done," said the practical-minded Marcia. "There! You look better already! Later you shall have a real, honest-to-goodness meal. Run and call Doctor Stetson, Sylvia, and open the bed in the room opposite mine. You might light the heater there, too."

As the girl sped away, Marcia turned toward her visitor.
"Suppose we try to make the rocking chair now. Shall we? But what worries me is your wet clothing. I'm afraid you'll take your death of cold. Let me peel off your shoes and socks. I can do that. And I believe I could get you out of your water-soaked sweater if I were to cut the sleeve. May I try? We needn't mind wringing it, for I have another I can give you."

The man did not answer.
Instead, he sat tense and unsmiling, his penetrating brown eyes fixed on Marcia's face. Apparently the scrutiny crystallized in him some swift resolution, for after letting his glance travel about the room to convince himself that no one was within hearing, he leaned forward:

"There is something else I'd rather you did for me first," he whispered, dropping his voice until it became almost inaudible. "I've a package here I wish you'd take charge of. It's inside my shirt. But for this infernal wrist, I could reach it."

"I'll get it."
"I'd rather you didn't talk about it," continued he, hurriedly. "Just put it in a safe place. Will you, please?"

"Certainly."
Puzzled, but unquestioning, Marcia thrust her hand beneath his sudden clothing and drew forth a small, flat box, wrapped in a bedraggled handkerchief.

"If you'll look out for it, I'll be tremendously obliged."
"Of course I will," smiled Marcia. "Look! Here is my pet hiding-place. This brick in the hearth is loose and under it is plenty of space for this small box. I'll tuck it in there. Just hold it a second until I pry the brick up. They are! Now give it to me."

She reached hurriedly for the package, but as her hands met, the moist, clinging handkerchief became entangled in their fingers and slipping from its coverings a leather jewel-case dropped to the floor.

Out of it rolled a flashing necklace and a confusion of smaller gems. Marcia stifled an involuntary cry. Nevertheless, she neither looked up nor delayed.

"Sorry to be so clumsy," she muttered, as she swiftly scooped up the jewels.

It was well she had made haste, for no sooner was the clasp on the box snapped and the treasure concealed beneath the floor than Sylvia returned, and a moment later came both Doctor Jared Stetson and Elisha Winslow.

"Morning, Marcia," nodded the doctor. "Lish happened to be in the office when your niece called up, and hearin' you had a man patient, he thought mebbe he might be of use. What 'pears to be the trouble, sir?"

"I've done something to my right wrist."

"H—m—m!" With skilled hand, he pushed back the dripping sleeve.

"You're a mite water-logged, I notice," observed he. "Been overboard?"

"Something of the sort," returned the man, with the flicker of a smile.

"Mr.—" for the fraction of a second, Marcia hesitated; then continued in an even tone, "—Mr. Carlton grounded his boat and had to swim ashore."

"You don't say! Well, I ain't surprised. Tain't no day to be afloat. You couldn't cut this fog with a carvin'-knife. How come you to take your boat out in such weather?" the doctor demanded.

"I was—was cruising."

"Oh, an' the fog shut down on you. I see. Fog has a trick of doin' that, unless one keeps an eye for fog symptoms. Now, what I'd recommend for you first of all, Mr. Carlton, is a warm bed. You look clean beat out. Better let Lish an' me help you upstairs, an' out of your wet things, 'cause with a wrist such as yours, I figger you won't be very handy at buttons. Not that 'Lish is a professional lady's maid. That ain't exactly his callin'."

Still, in spite of belin' town sheriff, he can turn his hand to other things. It's lucky he can, too, for he don't get much sherriffin' down this way. Wilton doesn't go in for crime. In fact, we was laughin' 'bout that very thing this noon at the post office. 'Pears there's been a robbery at one of the Long Island estates. Quantities of jewelry taken, an' no trace of the thief. The alarm was sent out over the radio early yesterday an' listenin' in 'Lish, here, got quite het up an' not a little envious. He said he 'most wished the burglary had took place in our town, excitement bein' at a pretty low ebb now."

Marcia, standing by the stove, spun about.

"Now, Elisha, don't you run down Wilton. Why, I have twenty-five dollars in my purse this minute," she asserted, taking a worn pocket-book from her dress and waving it with challenging candor down upon the table.

"I keep it in that china box above the stove."

"That might serve as a starter," remarked the stranger, regarding her quizzically.

She faced him, chin drawn in, and head high and defiant.

"Besides that, in my top bureau drawer is a string of gold beads that belonged to my great-grandmother," she continued, daring laughter curling her lips. "They are very old and are really quite valuable."

"We'll make a note of those, too," nodded the man, his eyes on hers.

"I'm afraid that's all I can offer in the way of burglary inducements."

"That bein' the case, s'pose you an' me start gettin' the patient upstairs. 'Lish," broke in Doctor Stetson. "If we don't, next we know he'll be havin' pneumonia as well as a bad wrist."

The stranger's admiring glance fixed itself on Marcia's.

"What is my next move?" he inquired.

"I told you before—you must take off your wet things and rest," she repeated.

"You still prescribe that treatment?"

"I still prescribe it."

"In spite of the—the symptoms?"

"Why not?" was her quick answer.

"Very well. I am ready, gentlemen. Erect, even with a hint of defiance in his mocking smile, the man rose to his full height. "Before we go, however, I must correct a slight error. You misunderstood my name. It is not Carlton. It is Heath—Stanley Heath."

CHAPTER IV

"And yet you told me, Marcia, this was a quiet, adventureless place!" burst out Sylvia, the instant the door had closed.

"It doesn't seem so to me. When shipwrecked mariners fall into your arms entirely without warning, I call it thrilling. Who do you suppose he is?"

"He told us his name."

"Of course—Heath. Stanley Heath. It's quite a romantic name, too. But I didn't mean that. I mean where did he come from and why? Didn't he tell you?"

"Not a word."

Obviously the girl was disappointed.

"I thought perhaps he might have while I was upstairs. I was gone long enough for him to pour out to you his entire history. At least it seemed so to me. I ransacked every closet and drawer in sight trying to find something for him to put on. It wasn't until I struck that old sea-chest in the hall that I discovered pajamas and underwear. I hope you don't mind my taking them."

A shiver passed over Marcia.

"No. They were Jason's. I ought to have told you they were there. I kept them because I thought they might sometime be useful."

"Well, they certainly are," replied Sylvia. "They will exactly fit Mr. Heath. Where do you suppose he came from? And how long has he been knocking about in that boat, I wonder?"

"How do I know, dear?" Marcia sighed, as if determined to control her patience. "You know as much about him as I do. I mean," she corrected, honestly forcing her to amend the assertion, "almost as much. I did, to be sure, talk with him a little while waiting for the doctor, but he did not tell me anything about himself."

The moving of chairs overhead and the sound of feet creaking down the stairway heralded the return of Jared Stetson and Elisha.

Marcia went to meet them.

"Tain't a broken wrist, Marcia," was the doctor's greeting on entering the kitchen. "Leastways, I don't think it is. I've bandaged it an' Lish an' me have your friend snug an' warm in bed. Tomorrow I'll look in again. For tonight, the bandage will do. A hot water-bottle mightn't be amiss. Nor a square meal, neither. Beyond them two things, there ain't much you can do at present, but let him sleep. Seems a nice sort of feller. Known him long?"

"Not so very long."

"Why, Marcia—" broke in Sylvia.

"One sometimes comes to know a person rather well, though, even in a short time," went on the older woman, ignoring the interruption.

"S'pose 'twas a-comin' to see you that brought him down this way," Elisha volunteered. "Somehow I don't recall meetin' him before."

"He hasn't been here before," was the measured response.

"Oh, so he's new to Wilton waters, eh? That probly accounts for his runnin' aground. Fine lookin' chap. Has quite an air to him. Nothin' cheap 'bout his clothes neither. They was A1 quality clear through to his skin. Silk, with monograms on 'em. Must be a man of means."

Silence greeted the observation.

"Likely he is—havin' a powerboat an' leisure to cruise round in her," persisted the undaunted Elisha.

"I really couldn't say."

"Well, apparently he ain't one that boasts of his possessions, an' that's to his credit," interposed Jared Stetson good-humoredly.

Elisha's interest in the stranger was not, however, to be so easily diverted.

"Seen the boat?" he inquired.

"No."

"Oh, you ain't! I forgot to ask Heath the name of her. I'm sort of a crank on the names of boats. It always riles me to have a foolish name given a boat. No matter how small she is, her plankin' is all that divides her owner from fathoms of water, an' in view of the fact he'd oughter regard her soberly an' give her a decent name."

"Well, I hope the name of Mr. Heath's boat will meet with your approval," ventured Sylvia archly.

"I hope 'twill," was the glum report, as the sheriff followed Doctor Stetson through the doorway.

The moment the door banged behind them, Sylvia turned toward Marcia.

"Forgive my buttin' in, dear," apologized she. "But I was so surprised. You did say you didn't know Mr. Heath, didn't you?"

"Yes."

"But—but—"

"Sometimes it's just as well not to tell all you know—especially in a place like this," was the evasive response.

Was the reply a rebuke or merely a caution?

Sylvia did not know.

And what was the meaning of the rose color that flooded the elder woman's cheek?

Had Marcia really meant to give the impression that she knew Stanley Heath? And if so, why?

Sylvia wracked her brain for answers to these questions.

She would have been interested indeed had she known that while she wrestled with the enigma, Marcia, to all appearances busy preparing the tray for the invalid upstairs, was searching her heart for answers to the same questions.

Why had she sought to shield this stranger?

The man was nothing to her. Of his past she had not the slightest knowledge, indeed he might be the greatest villain in the world. In fact, circumstances proclaimed him a thief. Nevertheless, she did not, could not, believe it. There was something too fine in his face; his eyes.

True, he had made no attempt either to defend himself or to explain away the suspicions he must have known would arise in her mind. On the contrary, with a devil-may-care audacity that fascinated her, he actually appeared to have tried to deepen in her mind the impression of his guilt.

Still she refused to believe. Even in the face of overwhelming evidence she clung to her unreasoning faith in him.

Suppose he had stolen the gems and fled with them from Long Island? Suppose he had lost his bearings in the fog; tossed aimlessly on the sea for a day and a night; and then run aground at her doorstep? It was possible, quite possible, every probable.

Yet was it?

Not for a man like Stanley Heath, Marcia stubbornly insisted. So deep was the conviction, she shrunk lest he should feel called upon to justify or defend himself.

Golden Phantoms FASCINATING TALES OF LOST MINES By Edith L. Watson

THE HUNTER'S TREASURE

A HUNTER'S trick of shaving out small wooden spades resulted in the finding of a lost gold mine in the Breckenridge district in Colorado. But a prospector's ill luck in losing himself resulted in the losing of the mine again.

Breckenridge, as everyone knows who knows about gold, is a mining town not far from Fairplay and Alma—those rich camps where men still find abundant gold.

In the early '90s a certain hunter used to come into Denver to spend the winters. He brought skins in with him, and also rough gold in pleasant quantities. The skins, he said, were produced by his autumn hunting near Breckenridge, but he was silent about the gold.

He had a peculiar habit of shaving out small wooden spades, with which he shoveled the snow away from the doorstep of his cabin.

It was in the '90s, a good thirty years later, that a prospector rambling about in the Breckenridge district came across an old cabin, a tunnel, and a dump. On the dump were several small wooden spades, worn down almost to their handles. In the tunnel lay another spade of the same sort, which showed very few signs of use. The ore which could be seen was a black, tawny stuff.

The prospector had no receptacle except a tobacco sack. This he filled, and as he left the place he took one of the spades along. He was anxious to get into Breckenridge to see what sort of ore this might prove to be.

But on the way in he became confused. It is not hard to lose oneself in the mountains at any time. Even prospectors, whose sense of direction is remarkably keen, may get turned around. This one certainly did, but at last he got into Breckenridge all right, and there he told his story with all the proper gusto and detail. Here was the spade to prove it. And here was the ore, too—where was that blamed sack? Must be in the other pocket—no—well, he had it when he left the mine. Must have lost it on the way. Oh well, he could go back to the place easy. But somehow he never could find it again.

If you ever go prospecting around Breckenridge, and come upon a cabin, a tunnel, and a dump, worn-down spades and black, tawny ore, try not to get confused before you get back to town. Because it may possibly turn out to be that you have discovered the hunter's treasure.

THE MINER'S PARADISE

AT TRUCHAS, north of Santa Fe, New Mexico, two Frenchmen came along some fifty years ago and found rich ore. They were great friends, and they worked gaily and energetically together, singing and joking, making light of the heavy labor.

Some time passed, and at last the partners had a sizable stake. One day they were discussing the future, which had never seemed more fair, and one of the Frenchmen said to the other: "I know what I shall do, mon ami. In St. Louis is a beautiful girl who loves me and waits for me. Why should I not go and bring her here? You would be charmed with her."

"Marvelous! We would never more be lonely," responded his friend. "Hasten, I beg of you, to go and to return."

So the happy Frenchman hurried—as much as was possible in the '80s—to fetch his sweetheart from St. Louis. She was indeed a beautiful girl, and the other man, who had a Frenchman's eye for pulchritude and a Frenchman's heart for romance, began to express his admiration in pointed terms.

Things went on peacefully until the first Frenchman began to suspect that he was being betrayed. Quarrels followed, and at last, after he had trailed the two one evening and found them embracing, he challenged his erstwhile friend to a duel with knives—a duel to the death.

Both men were young and strong—both wished to live, and both wanted the girl's affections. She, knowing that she was forgotten for the moment in the heat of the combat, quickly packed a burro with as much sacked gold as it would carry, prepared food and water for a journey, and noiselessly slipped away. After all, gold was far more important to her than their tiresome gallantries.

The duel lasted for some time, but at last both men fell to the ground, mortally wounded, and before the sun set both had expired.

About the year 1908 a man named Anderson happened to be roaming about near Truchas, and stumbled upon the evidence of the tragedy. Apparently no one had been near the mine since the girl left, for there were the two skeletons, knives in their bony hands, and there was all the paraphernalia of the mine, just as it had been left twenty-five years before.

Becoming Sports Frock With Jabot Is "The Top"

PATTERN 2341

It is not easy to find a sports frock that plays No Favorites when it comes to showing up the imperfect figure. But here's one that flatters regardless, by the very simple device of a rippling jabot collar. But notice that our designer has not sacrificed one whit of the tailored chic and easy freedom the sports frock needs. The pleated sleeve for arm action—pleats in back bodice and skirt for freedom. Here is just the most perfect model for one of the lovely new printed satins that are being shown in such delicious pastel shades. A tie silk would be lovely and any number of cottons are available for a simpler version. Accent with matching buttons.

Pattern 2341 is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32. Size 16 takes 3 1/2 yards 36 inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

SEND FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

Address orders to the Sewing Circle Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth St., New York City.

Smiles

AND THAT'S THAT

Husband—Will you miss me when I am away.

Wife—I guess I will. You've always been too good a dodger at home.

Speedy

Prisoner—Everything I do, I do fast.

Magistrate—Better do 14 days; see how fast you can do that.

How It Started

He—Your head reminds me of a story when you're asleep?

She—Sleeping Beauty?

He—No. Sleepy Hollow.

An Uplifting Answer

Teacher—Howard, what's raised in countries that have wet climates?

Student—Umbrellas!—Washington Post.

She Awakened

He—What did you do when you got your first kiss?

She—Nearly fell out of my cot.

ONE DAY COURT SESSION HELD

Judge Collins was in Howell Monday and held a one day court session. He returned Wednesday for a two day session but announced that the jury will not be called until Oct. 14.

Ernest Wellman and Frank Pernice charged with defrauding Mrs. Avery of Howell by selling worthless oil stock, again appeared and had their cases put over to the December term. This case has been on the docket for over a year and has been repeatedly postponed on the promise of the men to make restitution which they have failed to do.

The case of George Hays, charged with negligent homicide was also set over to the December term when his attorney, Martin Lavan, asked for more time. He is a new attorney. Don VanWinkle and Jay Sweeney represented Hays in a previous trial in which the jury disagreed. Hays, while driving his car last January, collided with another car and a woman was killed.

Don McGarry of Oak Grove pleaded not guilty to robbing Burke's station on July 20 and this case was postponed and Martin Lavan appointed to represent him.

Russell Hansen pleaded guilty to parole violation and was given 10 days in jail. Hansen, it will be remembered, was brought back from Oregon at considerable expense to the county to answer to a theft charge last fall. He was put on probation for this and has since been arrested twice for theft. Once for stealing articles from parked cars and now for the theft of a radio from William Smythe.

Divorces were granted to Ellen Jensen Lozo of Fowlerville from Russell Lozo and she was given custody of the two children. Ed McGee of Brighton was also given a divorce from Arthur McGee.

APPEAL

Significant economic data is to be expected in the next few months listed by a prominent business man as follows: (1) Higher standard of living. (2) Continued expansion in technical processes of production. (3) Factory built houses, better and cheaper than hand made houses. (4) Cheaper money. (5) Faster travel. (6) News printed by radio. (7) Cotton picker, revolutionizing the South. (8) Cheaper electric power. (9) Better distribution of goods; more chain stores. (10) Another depression five or six years hence, preceded by an inflationary boom.

HURON RIVER WATERWAY

For long and carrying five or six passengers, it would serve the purpose of the river. The effect of such a waterway on the river in general would be decidedly important. With water on which to travel, there are literally thousands of people along the Huron Valley who would buy inboard motor boats and use them throughout the summer months. The River would become a highway. People would drive their boats to Dexter, to Hamburg, to Lake and to the outskirts of Ann Arbor. Detroit residents would motor on Grand River and take their own boat down the stream to their cottages on the lakes.

Unless one has first hand knowledge of the natural beauties of the Huron Valley in spring, summer and autumn, he will not credit it with the attractions it holds. The River above Ann Arbor winds through a valley bordered by high hills. The banks are shaded by noble old trees and at many places the bends in the river have made picnic grounds as beautiful as they could invent. The River drains a beautiful chain of lakes, some having natural outlets into the river and others that could be opened up with a little dredging of the shallow streams that carry the overflow. Portage Lake, Little Portage Lake, Whitewood, Gallagher, Sawyer, Zuke, and Bass and the intervening stretches of the River constitute about nine miles of potential power boat travel unsurpassed in the state west. The Lakes are beautiful basins of water. All are spring fed and into the larger ones flow streams like Portage River and Honey Creek that are outlets of other lakes of considerable size. Compared with the muddy lakes in northern Indiana and Illinois these beautiful lakes are gems in a perfect natural setting. They are the center of a recreational area that already serves a hundred thousand people and would serve many more if properly developed and improved.

In making consideration for this project of a splendid recreational waterway I am speaking unofficially to a large number of people who are ready to crystallize into organized support of the project. There is ample evidence to support the assertion that money may be spent on the project and still be returned many times over. Increase in property values and the production of taxes during the summer years, far more money than the investment cost.

Because this region is located so close to Detroit and the most thickly populated portion of Michigan, it will afford recreation to a larger number of people than any comparable project in the state.

Consideration of this proposal will be appreciated, and the citizens of whom I am speaking are ready to respond with an abundance of evidence in support of the merit of the project.

Yours very truly,
Lucius E. Wilson

SHEEPMEN—IT PAYS TO USE PUREBRED RAMS
ADVANTAGE—The income of your flock will be greater, as good purebred rams sire uniform, fast maturing, easily fattening lambs that grade better. The wool clip is also increased.

THE TYPE OF RAM TO USE—Regardless of breed, use a deep bodied, strong-backed, short-legged, blocky individual with a good dense fleece.

CARE OF RAM—Strong, healthy rams sire stronger lambs. Grain rams before and during breeding season, and if possible, take away from ewes during laytime. Color brisket to check on breeding.

NO EWES PER RAM—Will depend on how handled. If flock run, ram lamb-15, yearling-30 to 40, aged up to 50, in large flock-25.

RAM TRUCK—The Mich. Purebred Sheep Breeder's Ram Truck will stop in this county on Friday, P. M., October 4th, at the Fowlerville Fair. A number of rams of Michigan's popular breeds will be on hand for sale. Other breeds will be delivered on order.

PUBLIC CONFIDENCE RESTORED BY BANKS

American Bankers Association Describes Its Activities to Create Better Understanding Regarding Banks

NEW YORK.—Eight different lines of activity through which the American Bankers Association is constantly aiming to promote better public understanding and opinion in regard to banking and the attitude of bankers toward legislation are described in detail in a statement made public here by R. S. Hecht, president of the association.

The aim, he says, is "to strengthen the real basis for good opinion in regard to the banks," through fostering informative bank advertising in the newspapers and in other ways. The statement was issued in reply to suggestions received urging a nationwide public educational program in regard to "the business of banking and its place in the life of our country."

Mr. Hecht declares that "we have tried very hard to convince the public that the banking fraternity has truly profited by the lessons of the past, is determined to approach all questions of banking policy from the broad viewpoint of public welfare and is prepared to carry its full share of the burden in connection with all efforts to restore sound prosperity in this country."

The Means Employed
In describing the various measures of the association "to exert a beneficial influence on public opinion regarding the functions, methods and operations of banks," Mr. Hecht enumerated the following activities:

1. The Public Education Commission, which prepares plain language talks about banking for use of bankers and others before schools, civic clubs and over the radio.
2. The Constructive Customer Relations program, installed in many banks to better inform and more sympathetic attitude among their customers regarding banking.

3. The Publicity Department, supplying city and country daily and weekly newspapers with articles regarding banking and allied subjects and furnishing the general press with news and information regarding the activities of the association.
4. The Advertising Department, supplying members of the association with a series of informative newspaper advertisements setting forth in brief, popular language the methods and policies under which banks operate, their effective practices for protecting depositors' funds, the services they render and the various ways in which they cooperate with business in their own communities in fostering sound recovery and progress.

5. The Executive Studies, who are active, particularly at Washington, in consulting with Administration and Congressional leaders in formulating proposals for banking reform based on broad lines of public welfare.

6. The Agricultural Commission, promoting among bankers in the farm districts the practice of adding their financial and economic knowledge to the part in improving public relations for banking as a whole, particularly through stressing the public responsibilities and the ethical aspects of practical banking.

7. The American Institute of Banking, having primarily to do with the technical education of the younger banker, but now banking as a whole, particularly through the publication of "Banking," the official organ of the association, election of bank directors, business executives, economists, law men, government departments, libraries, colleges, public schools and other publications, presenting articles regarding banking and banking viewpoints.
