School Issues Carry at Election Thursday Night

Both Propositions Get Top-heavy Majorities. New Modern School
Facilities Are Now Assured for Pinckney

The remark made some time ago by Ex. Gov. Al Smith of New York that "Nobody Ever Shoots Santa Claus" was aptly illustrated here last Thursday night in the special school election when the voters of the Pinckney school district adopted both propositions on the ballot by overwhelming votes of about ten to one. This put it all over. Dexters where similar propositions only carried eight to one.

The proposition to bond the school district for $25,000 for a period of 25 years carried 106 to 11. The proposition to raise the school tax from 108 to 11. There were 120 votes cast. One ballot was spoiled and on two the size of the majority surprised even those who sponsored the election. Several weeks ago considerable opposition developed and fears were entertained that the propositions could not get a favorable vote. However, the fact that the school facilities here would have to be increased and there was an opportunity to accomplish this with the federal government by paying half the cost and also that if this was not accepted here some other school would get the funds offered was hammered home. Also the fact that the people would have to pay their share of the four billion dollar work fund whether they got any of it or not was also stressed. The result was that the opposition began to melt away and many who were at first against it switched over and voted for it. The fact that no leader of those opposed to the new school addition came forward also worked against it. Those against the bond issue evidently sensed the result and many of them did not vote at all.

The election board was composed of Fred Read Floyd Weeks, Mrs. Ella Lavey and Roger Carr of the school board and Miss Nellie Gardner, P. H. Swarthout and Ona Campbell. Voting started at 7:30 P. M. and ended at 9:30 P. M.

In approving these propositions Pinckney has taken a big step forward and is lifting her self up to a place in the sun. She cannot help but benefit as the improved school facilities will draw more scholars who are attending other schools on account of improved educational facilities.

The new addition plans call for a gym, 42x85 and four class rooms 22x30. These plans are not definite yet as the state dept. of education wants the gym made wider than this and it is not known if this can be done and stay inside the $45,454 appropriation. Much work yet remains to be done. The complete plans and figures have to be completed by Nov. 5. Then the bonds have to be advertised and sold. The government will take them at 4% but it is sometimes possible to sell them at 3%. After this the bids for construction have to be advertised and let. The federal government has set Dec. 15, as the date for letting the bids. So in the six weeks much work is necessary.

EXPENSE OF DOG

WARDEN $589.60
Floyd English, Livingston county dog warden, collected a total of $1,552 in dog taxes disposed of 289 dogs, spent 78 1/2 days in the work and traveled 4,764 miles, the total expense of his work according to the report presented to the board of supervisors being $589.60.

This amount included special calls on sheep and chicken killing dogs and all labor involved.

The tax collected and number of dogs disposed of where owners refused to pay the license tax, by townships is as follows: Putnam, $95 collected, and 25 dogs disposed of; Isco, $76 and 9 dogs killed; Marion, $139, and 24 dogs killed; Green Oak, $121, and 21 dogs disposed of; Hartland, $62 tax, and 10 dogs killed; Brighton, $57 tax, and 16 dogs killed; Unadilla, $62 tax and 12 dogs killed; Hamburg, $41, and 12 dogs killed; Brighton City, $130 tax, and 21 dogs disposed of; Howell, $77 tax, 14 dogs killed; Oceola, $78 tax, 13 dogs disposed of; Tyrone, $75 tax, 13 dogs killed; Cohoctah, $91 tax collected, and 16 dogs disposed of; Howell city, $133 collected, and 29 dogs disposed of; Deerfield, $61 tax collected, 6 dogs disposed of; Genoa, $28 collected 17 dogs disposed of; Handy, $45 collected, and 14 dogs killed.

Mrs. Villa Richards and Mrs. C. L. Sigler were in Ann Arbor, Monday afternoon.

The Misses Fanny Monks and Nellie Gardner were hosts to their Bridge Club Monday evening.

Mrs. Arthur Bullis entertained her Contract Bridge Club at a desert luncheon Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. J. R. Wylie and son, Jackie, of Howell were Monday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bert VanBlaricum.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Bowers had a week-end guests, Mr. and Mrs. Earl H. Schlotz and family, and Mr. Stephen's of Detroit.

Mrs. Elizabeth Curlett, Mrs. Mae White, Mrs. Paul Curlett and Miss Katherine Hoff were Tuesday afternoon callers at the home of Mrs. Cynthia Wellman in Pingree.

Rebel Creamery To Get More Milk

Local Creamery Expects Much Larger
Amount of Milk About Nov. 1

The supply of milk being sent to the Rebel Creamery at Pinckney increased last week and another still greater increase is looked for about Nov. 1, 1935. At this time many farmers who have been building milk houses and fixing up their barns will have that part of their work completed and be ready to pass inspection. The Rebels, usually accompanied by members of the board of commerce committee have been out nearly every day visiting the farmers and have been able to obtain promises from many of the farmers to send milk here. In the course of a few months when many of the farmers will have fresh cows, Thomas Rebel informs us that he expects to have about 100 cans of milk.

At the present time Virgil Amburgey and W. H. Myers are the only haulers but Ben White expects to start about Nov. 1. His load will come from the section west of Pinckney, Myers from the section north of Pinckney and Amburgey's from the east and south of here. We understand that still another route may come from the far south of here.

The milk war is still raging in this section and we understand on good authority that the Wayne County Creamery has offered a 100 percent base to some of their biggest shippers. This undoubtedly will not make those shippers who were not given this offer feel so good.

MILK HANDLING COST ATTACKED

The Consumer's division of NKA Thursday criticized what it termed the "high cost" of distributing milk. The first of a series of studies on milk costs published by Walton A. Hamilton, director of the division and an adviser to the President on consumer problems, led up to the criticism of distribution costs by discussing what was termed an "absolute fiction."

This fiction, it said, is the idea that there is a "buyer's choice" with regard to milk. There is no such thing, it argued, because the milk for a community comes from a limited area, the farmers must meet the same public health regulations, pasteurization is a purely mechanical matter of manipulating temperatures, and distributors must meet the same local health laws.

"Nevertheless," the announcement said, "the fiction of choice is maintained and the consumer besieged to choose. The result of this competition is duplication of delivery routes, and high distribution costs, for which the consumer must pay."

The report also said:
1.—That the dairy farmer, not selling in an open market and without cost accounting on which to base his statistics, is at a disadvantage in bargaining for "the price he deserves."

2.—That the job of testing milk purchased from farmers by distributors might be given to a "public weigher and tester" to eliminate any chance of "cheesing."

3.—That retail milk prices at present represent a compromise agreement between organized producers and distributors with the consumer "too unimportant even to be consulted."

The announcement emphasized that it was dealing only with the background of the milk industry and was not making any recommendations for public utility control.

It did say, however, that "the distributor has become really the center of the milk problem for since taking over the distribution and processing job as a natural consequence when it became too big for the farmer the middleman took on the ways of business and began to ape the practices of higher business. Now, it is said, milk has become a means to a profit. Out of this change there developed a scheme of social arrangements which conspired towards making milk a peculiar sort of monopoly."

AUTO PLATES RECORD

County Clerk John A. Hagman is in receipt of the 1936 automobile license plates which are light gray with black figures. The assignment to this county consists of 200 pairs of passenger plates numbered from 301 to 500; 4,500 pairs numbered from 11-401 to 15900; 150 pairs passenger plates for war veterans numbered from 598-101 to 598-850 and 550 trailer plates numbered from 75051 to 75600.

BOARD OF COMMERCE MEETING

There will be a meeting of the Pinckney Board of Commerce on Monday night, Nov. 4 at which time the milk situation will be further discussed. Refreshments.

Another Tie Game At Hartland Friday

Second 3-6 Tie Game of the Season.
Pinckney Shows Lots of Power and Outgains Opponents.

Pinckney high school played another football game with Hartland last Friday there and the result was the same as the one played here scored mostly by means of forward passes while Dennis VanBlaricum scored Pinckney's only touchdown on a line plunge. Pinckney made about four times as many first downs as Hartland but were unable to cross their opponents goal line when they got inside the scoring zones. Hartland kept the air filled with forward and lateral passes and by this means kept Pinckney from scoring. Pinckney on the other hand used mostly line plays and did not pick up enough yardage to score. Fumbles were frequent and the referee handed out a number of penalties for offside, holding, etc.

[This week Friday Pinckney will play Manchester here. This team has had a very successful season. They have only lost one game and that to Milan, champion of the Huron Valley League last year. Springfield, Clinton, Vandercook Lake and Men. Center have all been defeated by them. They depend on a forward pass attack and a fast back in action. In the Clinton game he sprinted 55 yards for the winning touchdown. In the Vandercook Lake game they scored three times on passes. This game should be a good one and a good attendance is asked.]

EDWARD WARREN McDANIELS

Edward Warren McDaniels, 74, of Ed. Daniels as he was better known died at his home in Chelsea last Thursday following a stroke. He lived on his farm at North Lake until last November when he moved to Chelsea. Through his capacity as auctioneer he became well known all over Southern Michigan and officiated at many auctions in Pinckney and vicinity. He is survived by his widow, two sons, a daughter, a sister and a half brother. The funeral and burial were held at North Lake Sunday, Rev. Harvey Pierce of Detroit and Rev. Victor Longfield of Dexter officiating.

MORE ROAD PROJECTS APPROVED

Livingston county has been granted more funds for road work. Last week the federal government granted them $11,000 for 13 miles of blacktop road and this week they received a grant of $45,450 for secondary market roads. As far as we know just where these roads have been built has not yet been definitely decided. Other counties also received similar grants. Manchester received one of $44,500 for a school unit.

JOIN SAFETY FIRST CAMPAIGN

At St. Mary's church Sunday morning Rev. Lewis Dion talked on reckless driving and urged all present to enroll in the safety first campaign. He also pledged himself to an observance of careful driving in the future. This followed his announcement of the tragic death of Rev. Fr. Morrison in an auto accident.

CIDER MILL NOW OPEN

My cider mill is now open every day for custom work. I also have cider for sale. My location is six miles north and one mile west of Pinckney.

The Old Age Benefit Aid

Old Age Pension is Explained and Described by Philip Callahan

It is the intention of the Old Age Assistance Bureau to speed up as much as possible the work of investigations and the granting of assistance to deserving persons of our State who are in need. Dr. Philip A. Callahan, Chief of the Old Age Assistance Bureau, said today in a session of the bureau is well aware of the importance of the amount of time that is required, but is unable to increase the number of the present emergency through limited funds with approximately 48,000 applications. The work of checking these applications is being delayed because of the unusual unusual turning of work of the Old Age Assistance Bureau.

The new law which amended the 1933 Old Age Law now allows a person under certain conditions to be aged residents of the State of Michigan who are in need. Dr. Callahan said, such assistance in no way can be considered as a pension or something to which a person is entitled simply because he or she is old. It is public policy to provide a general fund of the state.

A person to be eligible for assistance under the Act must meet the following requirements: must have attained the age of 70 or over; must be a full citizen of the United States; must have been a resident of the State for at least one year immediately preceding his application; must have no other source of income sufficient to support him; must not be because of physical or mental condition or lack of such continued institutional care; whose total estate does not exceed $500.00 or whose personal property, such as a car or a house, is valued at less than $500.00 does not exceed $500.00. Per cent having real or personal property of this value or more are ineligible for assistance.

This Act is not intended to supplement the income of persons who are already receiving a pension or other source of income. There is a much emphasis on the understanding relative to the signing of real and personal property of the applicant. Dr. Callahan said, the applicant is required to have a true and correct statement of real estate that he or she owns. The announcement, control and all other obligations of the property, such as a car, a house, a boat and a house, is to be reported by the applicant. If a person's personal property is valued at more than $500.00, the applicant will be required to submit the amount of assistance granted, plus 3 1/2% per annum. This lien will be collected by the Bureau in the Probate Court when the estate is probated. After this amount is deducted the balance will be returned to the beneficiaries of the deceased.

Application for Old Age Assistance should be received and filed with the County Welfare Agent in the County in which the applicant lives. These applications are forwarded by the Agent to the Bureau Office, Lansing, where the investigation is made for investigation. Every application will receive a prompt and personal attention by the Old Age Assistance Bureau.

ARE ABSOLVED OF MASON MURDER

The Mich. State Police have announced that a test shot from the gun of Dale Watkins and James J. Webb, two Unadilla youths who pleaded guilty to robbing the Juhl and Bennett Oil station near Howell, Mich., has shown that the shot which killed Bert Webb, Mason farmer and money lender on Oct. 19, was not fired from their weapon. Both boys denied being implicated in the Webb murder. They confessed robbing a gasoline station in Howell at the time of the Mason murder.

Suspicion was first directed to the boys by the fact that a Ford model T was used by the robbers. One robbery gun was tape-bound and it was learned that they had such a gun. Watkins will be sentenced this week. Fields has not yet been arraigned.

JESSE AMBURGEY

Jesse Amburgey, 66, died at his home here Tuesday. The funeral will be held from the home at 2:00 P. M. Thursday with burial at Pinckney. Surviving are his wife, four sons and three daughters. They are: Orville, Virgil and Boone of Pinckney, Frank of Detroit, Inez of Detroit, Mrs. H. McCarty of Brighton and Mrs. Don Reiley of Ferguson, Mo.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Wagener of Detroit spent Sunday with his father, A. F. Wagener.
Miss Rosalie Peters of Port Huron, and Mrs. Wm. and Chas. Burroughs and son, Paul, of Howell were Pinckney callers Sunday.

Current Comment

State Highway Commissioner Murray VanWagoner announces that he received a federal grant $20,600,000 for state highway work. Of this amount only $7,600,000 has been allocated as yet. The only Livingston county projects listed so far are construction of a three-lane highway on U. S. 16 between Brighton and Howell and Fowlerville and Webberville. Now is the time to get M-3 blacktopped while the money is available.

We see by an associated press dispatch that the shipping steamship lines and Standard Oil Co. of N. J. haven't announced that they will ignore the United States government's order to boycott Italy in accordance with the president's neutrality proclamation and will continue their trade with them. In case any of their boats are sunk or employees killed they should not expect intervention. This illustrates the futility of a neutrality proclamation.

There are said to be reasons for the poor showing of the Michigan football team. Those who control the eligibility of the members of the team are said to have become righteous and barred enough promising athletes corralled by the alumni to wreck the team. The present team as a result is composed of a bunch of mediocre players, which lost to Mich. State in the opener and won unimpressive victories over Indiana and Wisconsin. Couple of weak members of the Big Ten. Just why all this hypocrisy concerning athletics is necessary is to see. The people demand a winning team and want stars like Freeman, Ostermann, Newman and others. Everyone knows that they come to college to play football so why encourage it. The football revenue builds huge stadiums, and pays the bill for the whole athletic program so why not cut out the pretense and give the cash customers what they want.

According to the bulletins from the state dept. of agriculture you will not have to buy eggs by the pound for a while yet as a 60 day extension has been granted. The first notices were that the new law would go into effect on Nov. 1. The farm would sell its eggs by weight and the grocer would grade them in three classes and sell them with the weight marked on each package. Just how this was to be done was not explained. Now they have been given a 60 day extension. This law is said to have been passed because of the prices of producers keeping their big eggs and selling the small ones.

Now that a creamery has been secured for Pinckney and the school issue has been overwhelmingly approved, the next object for a major move should be the blacktopping or improvement of M-26, the state highway which runs from Lansing to the outskirts of Detroit through Pinckney. Now that some twenty millions are available for highway work in this state it should be possible to put this across.

The Pinckney Board of Commerce is making plans to hold a big M-36 meeting to which all communities located on M-36 will be invited. Persons of prominence will be there. The date will be announced later.

Gov. Fitzgerald once more has had a break and is now setting pretty in many respects. At the time of the Republican state convention last November he favored David Crowley for attorney general. However (protesting Attorney Harry Toy of Wayne county was an active candidate for the office and with his prestige, gained by being the only Republican candidate to survive the Democratic landslide in Wayne county in 1932 he gained such headway that Crowley was forced to withdraw. His victory gave him added prestige and he was prominently mentioned as the next Republican candidate for governor. He started the state wide slot machine war with some 60 arrests in Clare county, it was claimed with the governor's approval. When this proved a failure he stepped out from under leaving the governor holding the bag, and the governor issued another proclamation, leaving it up to the counties to enforce the slot machine laws. Toy was really too big for his office and when the governor got a chance to elevate him to the supreme court he availed himself of it, and from now on he will not be obliged to share his place in the sun with Mr. Toy. David Crowley who he appointed attorney general in place of Toy was a Democrat until recently. He came from Leslie, and served as assistant attorney general under Governor Ferris and also railroad commissioner. He is said to be a good lawyer but never has gotten a tenth part of the publicity accorded Mr. Toy. Few had heard of him until the convention last year.

NEWLY-WEDS GIVEN SHOWER

Washington Digest

NATIONAL TOPICS INTERPRETED
By William Bruckart
NATIONAL PRESS BLDG. WASHINGTON, D.C.

Settle Controversy

Washington.—President Roosevelt has settled a controversy by the simple expedient of transferring two men from responsible positions in the Virgin Islands to jobs in Washington. He has taken Paul M. Pearson from the post of civil governor of the Virgin Islands and has made him assistant director of housing in the Interior department and has transferred Federal Director Judge T. Webster Wilson from his post in the islands to the federal parole board here in Washington. Each man has accepted his new appointment and in so far as a current controversy is concerned, the book is closed.

It will be recalled that Governor Pearson and Judge Wilson long have been at loggerheads over Virgin island affairs. The battle was bitter. It came to a head when Paul Yates, executive assistant to the governor and a former Washington correspondent, resigned his job and came back here with a bag full of charges against his former chief. The Yates allegations ranged all the way from minor charges of poor judgment to gross accusations. He succeeded in getting a senate committee investigation and it was at that time that the Pearson-Wilson feud flared so openly that administration officials here were dragged in and the whole scope of differences aired.

As a matter of fact there is every reason to believe that Governor Pearson was far from a successful executive in the islands. He frequently aroused the ire of natives and, according to testimony adduced by the senate investigation, had very little to show for the sums of money he expended in attempting to give the Virgin Islands a new lease on life. All of the information tends to establish that the islands continue to be "an effectual poorhouse" just as President Hoover described them on the occasion of a visit during his term as Chief Executive.

But Governor Pearson had his supporters in the administration. Chief among these was Secretary Ickes whose department is responsible for administration of the islands. Just why Mr. Ickes has been so enthusiastic about Governor Pearson's regime is not fully disclosed in any evidence here except that the interior secretary has certain ideas about social reform that some unkind critics refer to as pure socialism which Governor Pearson had been attempting to impose upon the island inhabitants. Governor Pearson has expended vast sums of PWA funds in the islands in his efforts to carry out the Ickes program of reformation. It seems, however, that the schemes were not as practical as they might have been and so trouble started in a rather extensive fashion.

The President stayed outside of the row until in the course of the senate inquiry Senator Tydings, a Maryland Democrat and usually an anti-Roosevelt Democrat, received a letter from Mr. Ickes. Mr. Ickes accused the investigating chairman with having whitewashed a witness whose testimony was all anti-Ickes and anti-Pearson. The senator flared up in a big way at that letter. His reply is likely to become a classic in official correspondence. He did not mince his words. After voicing his general conception of the attitude exhibited by Mr. Ickes and accusing him of attempting to interfere in the investigation, Senator Tydings informed the interior secretary that he may as well attempt to run the Department of the Interior and let the senators run the senate. He used just about those words.

That was the signal for Mr. Roosevelt to take a hand. It was easy to see that a few outbursts of that kind and Mr. Ickes might have found himself in a splendid position to resign from the cabinet. So the President got the feudists into his office, singly of course, and when those conferences were over the senate investigation into the Virgin island situation was suspended for two weeks. The transfer of Governor Pearson and Judge Wilson resulted.

Why the Agitation?

One might properly inquire why all of this agitation has occurred about the Virgin Islands. They are many hundreds of miles from Washington. They lie in the Caribbean sea, considerably out of the usual pathway of ships; they are populated by about 22,000 individuals, 95 per cent of whom are negroes and may generally be described as a "backward" place.

They may have some military and naval value. That has never been fully demonstrated. But the fact remains they are possessions of the United States and if our government is to be their protector, it is responsible for a sane administration of their affairs.

The Washington fight may have had its start in the Virgin Islands, but it has progressed beyond that point and is a domestic battle now. It is safe to say that for 15 years, which is the time the islands have been under United States rule, there has been a dire need for a plan of government suited to those people. Each year congress has been appropriating thousands of dollars for the island government and each year there has been miserably little in the way of improvement to show for these funds.

Almost as frequently as congress has appropriated money it has made changes in the administration methods in use there. There has never been a long term program laid out and there has been nothing whatsoever done showing the sympathy of a so-called intellectual people as we claim to be for those downtrodden masses that populate the Virgin Islands.

All of this, it seems to me, shows the woeful need for careful consideration of that situation. It seems to me equally apparent that as long as congress keeps meddling in and as long as politicians from the mainland are sent there purely on a political basis we will continue to have a pack of trouble bundled up in those Virgin Islands.

Several attempts have been made to work out a governmental system worth while but the politicians are not among those who will let plums escape. It is certain, therefore, that the Pearson-Wilson-Ickes-Tydings battle royal is an outcropping of what amounts to a festering sore in American governmental policy.

Long Session Severe Strain

If congress continues in session past August 15, and it is now apparent that it may, it will be in session 225 days, some two weeks longer than the average of the so-called long sessions of congress. Prior to adoption of the "lame duck" amendment which did away with sessions of unequal length, the shorter sessions of congress averaged about 170 days. The longer terms were around 215 days before final adjournment was taken. Thus, the current session stands in a fair way to be among the list of hardy sessions.

All of which is by way of saying that the current session of congress has worn down its members both physically and mentally to an extent quite unusual. I was talking a few days ago with a veteran senator, a man who has served almost 25 years in the upper house of congress. He is known as a physically strong individual and usually lasts very well through the work that piles up before senators and representatives. I inquired of him concerning the general health of congress and his reply was:

"I regret to say we are just a bunch of debilitated old men, incapable of doing the job that is expected of us and everyone is hoping against hope that we can live through this work and this heat."

As a result of that conversation the thought came to me that there was an answer to the oft repeated declaration that members of congress fail to earn their salaries of $10,000 per year. I have observed congressional proceedings almost a score of years and it is my mature conviction that few times in that period has congress failed to earn its salt.

When Sorens Are Tired

There is another reason why congressional sessions should not run so long and should not be carried on in the intense heat of a Washington summer. One condition nearly always has obtained near the close of a long session. As the days drag by, persons with axes to grind and individual interests to serve have a way of digging up questionable bills that theretofore had been side-tracked and assumed to be dead. With resistance low, the average senator or representative is unable to fight off legislation which he knows to be bad with the same spirit that accompanied his activities earlier in the session. Likewise, he is unable to battle as successfully as before for legislation which he knows to be good.

This condition opens the way for a revival of lobbies. They are back in Washington in numbers now despite the disclosures being made by the two congressional committees that are investigating the lobbies that operated to defeat, temporarily at least, the legislation killing utility holding companies. One would have assumed justly with the investigations under way after the utility legislation was passed that lobbyists and self-serving representatives would have been frightened away from Washington. Such was not the case. They are here in such numbers that some observers believe Mr. Roosevelt has made a mistake in demanding that congress stay until it has enacted the share-the-wealth-tax bill and the legislation which will prohibit lawsuits against the government for damages resulting from abrogation of the promise in government bonds to pay them in gold. Mr. Roosevelt is insisting on these laws. He will get them. But in the opinion of many authorities he stands a fair chance also of getting some other legislation which he may not want.

Linen Suit a Midsummer Favorite

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

THE present vogue for linen is nothing short of sensational. Whether you go dining, dancing, swimming, flying, motoring, golfing or shopping, or play tennis, there's a linen for every occasion from rustic crashes and peasant weaves and colorful Tahitian prints to alluring novelties in stripes and plaids and in sheer lovely effects for high-style evening wear.

Midsummer days are proving that linen suits, especially in white and natural tones, are of first interest among best dressed women for about-town wear. A linen suit and a wardrobe of blouses and the problem of being smartly apparelled during the daytime hours is solved not only for the immediate moment but for well on into the fall, since the very newest linens are in wide shades, in Dubonnet red, in beetroot, purple and orange tones.

Just now, while the weather is warm, it's the white and natural linens that are lending their immaculate and well-groomed appearance to the summer scene. The trio of stunning suits pictured represent the very creme de la creme in linens as now featuring on the style program.

The young woman seated shows that she knows fashion in that with her suit of moogashel linen, in natural color, she is wearing a dark blouse, the same being brown with white polka dots. You are doing the right thing this season if to wear with your white and natural linens you choose dark accessories. The coat is single breasted with buttons all the way up to the collarless neckline. A novel idea is introduced in the placement of deep large pockets above the belt line. Raglan sleeves add a final touch of smartness to this linen classic.

The other two suits are also of moogashel linen. It is rather interesting to know in this connection that King George sends the flax grown on his royal estate at Sandringham, England (supposed to be the finest flax in the world) to Moogashel, Ireland, there to be woven, because the workmanship is so fine—quite a royal pedigree for these linens.

The two-piece centered in the group has a tight-fitting basque coat with no belt to disturb the natural line. It is of white linen with navy buttons and tie. The double breasted in the coat which gives a vesting effect is new and smart. The sports flap pockets are chic, too.

Handstitching around the notched collar and the pockets gives a distinctive touch to the white linen suit to the right. The stitching and the belt are in matched coloring. The coat is double-breasted, and a polka dot shirt is worn under it.

A very fashionable thing to do is wear a bright colored linen coat or jacket with your white linen skirt. Lilac colored linens for these coats are the rage with beetroot or Dubonnet red close seconds.

Then, too, novelty linens with nubby surface or loose porous weave are in good style for suits and for coats. These heavier suits are mostly in oyster white. Very "nifty" ones are shadow-checked in gray and some stunning weaves are in herringbone pattern flanked with brown.

There are lovely embroidered linens shown for dressier wear and sheer striped linens are made up into fascinating evening gowns, as formally as if they were stately silks. With the new fall tweed suits designers are creating clever blouses of line handkerchief linens in colorings related to the costume entire.

SMART BEACHWEAR

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

This beach ensemble is out of the ordinary. It is fashioned of purple fishnet lace over a linen foundation. Which again proves that lace goes everywhere this season. The ensemble consists of a pair of shorts and blouse with a wrap-around skirt. The large hat is of purple straw.

SHOE COMFORT IS MOST IMPORTANT

To be footloose and free during the season of pleasant week ends and after-dark breathing spaces, one must have foot comfort.

Cool shoes with flexible construction are a likely way of getting this comfort, with preference given lightweight numbers, and those that are ventilated by perforations, lattice and cut-outs.

Novelties in shoes are out-arts at their peak in the summer season, and they are usually far more moderately priced than the novelties thought up for evening shoes to complement formal winter costumes.

Sandals of printed linen or crash, slippers covered with gay flowered chiffon, oxfords of splendid supporting strength, perforated into lacy prettiness, plaid cotton or linen shoes of any color you can name, plaid linen in natural tones, checked gingham in kitchen apron designs, lightweight suede in any pastel hue or gay flag hue and crocheted string shoes are just a few of the kinds you can choose from in the shops.

Oriental Influence Seen in Evening Clothes Styles

The Hindu influence, inspired by the Maharajah of India, has initiated a definite swing away from fitted, bias lines to softly draped designs in evening clothes. Allied influences, such as Persian, Arabian, and a new version of Grecian folds, contribute to the same effect. These flattering, age-old drapery details are difficult to make and hence are not easily copied, a point being stressed now in high style circles.

Alas, the Parisian couturiers, has turned a thrilling array of Oriental formal gowns. Most of them are topped with seductive saria, those long, scarf-like affairs which start out by wrapping around the body and then proceed to cover the head in the manner of a monk's hood.

THE STORY OF LAS PLACITAS

THEY were sitting on their heels in the shade of a corral fence, these two southwesterners, one day in the spring of 1880. It was at a place not far from Santa Fe, that center of romance and excitement for the whole western country. As they talked about things old and new, never dreaming what madness was in store for them, old Jesse Martin came riding up, all steamed up over something.

"Look at this, boys," he said, fairly stuttering. "I've got the richest thing on top of this here earth."

"This" was a handful of ore—ore so rich that the two friends caught the contagion and grew as excited as Martin.

"Where'd you get it, Jess?" they asked, eagerly.

"I ain't a-goin' to tell you," was the answer. "Not now, boys, I ain't. I got a partner in Santa Fe, and I'm goin' to tell him first. Then when we git everything filed, I'll let you in on it."

All the pleading they could do would not move Martin from this decision. He rode off finally toward Santa Fe with his ore and his news, leaving them to wonder where in the world he had found such a bonanza. Had he run across the Adams diggings, or the Hatchet mine? Pshaw, those places were too far south for Martin to find. This must be something a lot nearer home.

Nearer home—why, perhaps they could ask some questions of the Mexicans and Indians thereabouts, and find out where old Martin had been. That was the idea! Hastily they caught up their horses, rode forth, and began to take up Martin's trail. Oh yes, said someone here and someone else there, the old man had passed this way, or he had ridden yonder. We saw him just a day or so ago. He was coming from thus-and-such a direction. So the pair rode in that direction. And sure enough, they finally came to a claim, all regularly staked. In the prospect hole was ore—ore like that he had showed them—very rich ore.

The two men were greatly pleased with their forethought in tracing down the location. With business-like promptness, they staked their claims alongside Martin's. From these new mines-in-the-making they gathered a few samples, and then they raced back to an assayer, wild with curiosity. How would the ore turn out?

The assayer gave excited with them. Hastily he prepared for the business of extracting gold, as they watched the process with eager eyes. At last—

In the bottom of the crucible lay a button of something. Now for the acid test—would it prove to be gold? With trembling hands the assayer poured in the acid—and the button did not cut! Eureka! They were worth fortunes!

They rushed back to their claims. The news had already spread, in that strange manner with which the word of new-found gold always has spread, and men were coming in to stake claims as near to theirs as possible.

Then came a crowd from Santa Fe. At its head were Jesse Martin and Governor Lew Wallace! So that was the partner! The news ran ahead of them—Jesse's samples had assayed $75 to $100 to the ton. Everyone laughed with glee—everyone cheered.

In three days Las Placitas accumulated a population of 10,000 souls. Everyone was gold-crazy—the golden phantom had led them to fortune and they had left their wits behind when they set out to follow her. And yet—

Some of the more sober souls began to quiet down. It was time to make more assays, to see just how far the gold spread out, to learn just how rich it would run.

The assays were made. They showed no value at all.

The shock was tremendous. Men refused at first to believe it. They argued angrily that there was some mistake. They knew that they had found gold. The assayer must be a fool, not to know his business. He could not find gold when it was right under his nose.

Then someone thought of looking for Jesse Martin. He had "the richest thing on top of this here earth," did he? Well, he'd better explain himself.

But Martin had vanished from sight—and with him disappeared about $4,000 in real money—money that he had obtained from Lew Wallace and other prominent men of Santa Fe. He had "lit out" for parts unknown as soon as the rush set in. He was too keen an old codger to risk discovery and retribution.

But the mine—that was still there, and the rich ore had most certainly come from his claim! So it had—but not originally. Martin had salted the hole with high-grade from another mine.

And the assay—that button of gold which the acid would not cut! It was merely a crystallization, and not gold at all.

Ten days later Las Placitas had again become a desolate spot in the hills. Only thousands of tin cans sparkled and glittered in the New Mexico sun—just as shining as had been the hopes of the ten thousand, just as worthless as the claims they staked.

WITH AN EYE TO COOL SIMPLICITY

PATTERN 9354

The smart girl has one eye on the budget and the other anticipating a rise in temperature—and makes a cool decision to include several summer sports in her wardrobe right now. It took a lot of ingenuity to design that clever yoke-cape-panel in one. It makes sewing so easy, and briefly, that cape is much cooler than a sleeve. Pattern 9354 sports an action pleat back and skirt just to help you "get places." If you find a simple flat neckline becoming, omit the dashing revers (but we like 'em). Very correct for spectator sports, office wear or week-end jaunts. Make it up in washable sport silk or shantung. Try a novel "cork" buckle and buttons.

Pattern 9354 may be ordered only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 4 yards 30 inch fabric.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, the STYLE NUMBER and SIZE.

Complete, diagrammed sew chart included.

Send your order to Sewing Circle Pattern Department, 232 West Eighth Street, New York.

AUTOMOBILE GAINS SHOWN IN REVENUE

Total receipts of the Michigan Department of State, composed almost entirely of revenues from the use of automobiles and gasoline, show an increase of more than $5,000,000 this year over the same period in 1934. The gain is more than 17 percent, reflecting improved business conditions.

Few people realize the amount of money handled by the Department of State in a year; revenues for the first eight months of this year totalled $35,797,063.65 for the actual increase of $5,205,492.65 for the period. Collections so far this year show a breakdown of the largest items as follows: sale of automobile license plates (weigh. tax) $15,061,147; gasoline tax, $14,970,594; title fees, $537,901; chain store tax, $1,664,438; operator's and chauffeur's licenses, $667,440; refunds to local governments for sale of operator's and chauffeur's licenses (15 cents per license,) 178,935.

While every item of revenue showed an increase, the bulk of the total gain in revenues is accounted for by these approximate figures: weight tax increase, $2,500,000; gas tax, $1,000,000; chain store tax, $1,500,000. To handle this increased revenue, total disbursements of all kinds increased from $920,644 to $984,908. The cost of collections increased but 1.2 percent.

FIND FARM BUSINESS IS GROWING BETTER

Several indications point toward a real improvement in the economic conditions of farmers, according to the economic department at Michigan State College.

Federal land banks find that they have fewer requests for mortgage loans, more prompt payment on outstanding loans and a decrease in the number of loan applications which fall in the emergency classification. Albert S. Goss, land bank commissioner, reports that in six of the land bank districts 90 per cent of all due installments had been paid by Sept. 1, and that the average for all 12 districts was 82 per cent of installment paid of the due dates.

Mr. Goss says that most of the applications now coming in for loans are made by farmers who wish to refinance their indebtedness and take advantage of the lower interest rates. Emergency requests to the farm credit administration for loans made by farmers facing foreclosure dropped below 100 per week for the first time since the fall of 1933.

The reentrance of insurance companies and banks into the mortgage loan field is additional evidence of a belief in better times. Private credit agencies made loans of $306,000,000 on farm mortgages during the first six months of 1935 as compared with loans of $241,000,000 in the same period in 1934. This was a greater volume of loans than was handled by the federal farm mortgage agencies.

The total amount of farm mortgages in the first half of 1935 in the United States was $401,000,000 less than the amount written the first six months of 1934. Life insurance companies showed a larger increase in farm mortgages written than any other lending agency.

HUGE STOCK SHOW TO OPEN NOVEMBER 30TH

Preparations are under way to receive a record breaking entry of live stock and farm crops at the 1935 International Live Exposition which will be held for the 86th year at the Chicago Stock Yards. The Exposition will take place from November 30th to December 7th.

The show will be staged in the mammoth new amphitheatre, constructed last year on the same site as the buildings that had housed this largest stock show on the continent since 1900 and which were destroyed by fire in the Spring of 1934.

RECORD SHOW PREDICTED

Secretary manager B. H. Heide predicts that the Exposition will break its own past records for both attendance and exhibits this year. He bases his opinion upon the notable success of recent State Fairs, many of which established all time records for both number of exhibits and visitors.

In anticipation of the large turnout this year, extensive though the new quarters for the show are, the management is constructing an additional building to be connected with the amphitheatre and which will be used to stable horses. Construction was recently begun on the new building which will be completed shortly before the Exposition opens.

Though a final check on entries in the live stock departments which close November 1st, has not yet been made, the management feels confident that the tally will be well above 12,000 animals by the time all nominations are in.

EXHIBITS FROM AUSTRALIA

Held in connection with the live stock exposition is the International Grain and Hay Show, largest competitive crops contest in the world. Growers of nearly every state in the Union and province of Canada will be represented in this competition by samples of the past season's harvest. First entries were made by seven farmers from New South Wales who will exhibit wheat that earlier in the year had been awarded prizes at Australian shows.

Railroads entering Chicago have indicated that special excursion rates at attractive low round trip fares will be offered from points along their lines to Chicago during the first week of December for this event.

WARNING TO MOTORISTS

Auto owners purchasing 1936 plates now are urged for their own protection to destroy their 1935 plates. It is unwise to leave these old plates lying around to come into the possession of others who might use them illegally. If these old plates should be illegally used, the original owner may be held responsible for accidents which may occur.

CAN REDUCE BUDGETS BY HOMECURING MEAT

Preserving Permits Quantity Buying and Use of Cheaper Cuts

Michigan housewives who want to hold down the family budget and to keep the family pleased with the food supply are advised by the home economics division at Michigan State College to consider the possibilities of home cured meats.

Salt pork can be used to flavor many tasty dishes as well as to furnish the meat course for meals. Pork to be salted should be thoroughly cooled, this usually takes a day or longer after slaughter. Each piece of meat should be rubbed with coarse barrel salt, and the salt should be forced in around the bone of hams & shoulders. Lay the meat where it can drain for 24 hours and then place it in a clean barrel or crock.

The heavier pieces of meat should be placed at the bottom with their skin sides down. Cover the meat with a brine made at the rate of 10 pounds of coarse salt, two ounces of salt peter, and four gallons of water for every 100 pounds of meat. The meat should be weighed to hold it beneath the brine. Repack the meat at the end of the first and of the second week.

A better brine for curing meat which is to be smoked can be made from seven pounds of salt two and one-half pounds of sugar, two ounces of salt peter, and four gallons of water for each 100 pounds of meat. Nine or 10 pounds of salt should be used for this brine if it is to be used in warm weather. Large pieces of meat should remain in the brine for three or four days for each pound of weight. Bacon requires from two to three days for each pound weight.

Cornd beef can be made from plate or chuck. The pieces should be about four or six inches square, and 10 pounds of coarse salt is needed for each 100 pounds of meat. A layer of salt should be placed on the bottom of the crock, then a layer of meat and of salt should be alternated until the meat is packed, with a layer of salt covering the meat.

This meat is allowed to stand for 12 hours and is then covered with a brine made from four pounds of sugar, two ounces of salt peter, and four gallons of water for each 100 pounds of meat. The sugar and salt peter should be thoroughly dissolved before the brine is poured over the meat. Use a weight to keep the meat under the brine.

A close watch should be kept to be sure that the brine remains clear in color, does not sour, nor becomeropy. If any of these abnormal conditions occur, remove the meat, rinse it with tepid water, wash out the receptacle, and use new brine. The amount of salt in the second brine should be reduced according to the length of time the meat was in the original brine.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Suit pending in the Circuit Court for the County of Livingston in Chancery at Howell, Michigan, the 23rd day of October, 1935.

It appearing from the sworn Bill of Complaint as filed in said cause that the plaintiffs have not been able after diligent search and inquiry to ascertain whether the said defendants are alive or dead, or where they may reside if living or if they have any personal representatives or heirs living, or where they or any of them may reside, or whether the title, interest, claim, lien or possible right of these defendants have been assigned to any other person or persons, or whether such title, interest, claim, lien or possible right has been disposed of by will by the said defendants.

And it further appearing that the plaintiffs do not know and have not been able after diligent search and inquiry to ascertain the names of the persons who are included as defendants without being named.

Upon motion therefore of Stanley Berriman, attorney for plaintiffs, it is ordered that the above named defendants and their unknown heirs, devisees, legatees and assigns cause their appearance to be entered herein within three months from the date hereof and that in default hereof said Bill be taken as confessed by said defendants and each and all of them.

It is further ordered that the plaintiffs cause this order to be published within forty days in the Pinckney Dispatch, a newspaper printed, published and circulating in said County, once each week for at least six successive weeks.

It is further ordered that the plaintiffs cause this order to be published within forty days in the Pinckney Dispatch, a newspaper printed, published and circulating in said County, once each week for at least six successive weeks.

Joseph H. Collins
Circuit Judge.

A true Copy
John A. Hagman,

FRED. J. BURNETT

Fred. J. Burnett of Green Oak township died Thursday afternoon of a heart attack while husking corn on the farm owned by M. Queal in Hamburg. He was the son of Charles and Mrs. Noble Burnett and was born in Hamburg township about 60 years ago. His grandparents, George and Mrs. Emilie Seely Burnett were among the early settlers of Hamburg township. When a young man he was united in marriage with Miss Edie Williams of Green Oak, who survives him. Besides the widow he is survived by two brothers, George Burnett of Harvey, Ill., and Rex Burnett of Hamburg and one sister, Mrs. Howard J. Ball of Webster and three nieces and nephews.

Funeral services, which were very largely attended were held at his late residence Sunday afternoon, with Rev. C. H. Zuse, pastor of the Congregational church of Pinckney, officiating. Mrs. Nellie E. Haight and Mrs. George E. Sheridan with Mrs. Edward J. Sheridan at the piano sang two selections, "Abide With Me" and "No Grave There." Interment was in Green Oak cemetery where the burial was conducted by the Methodist church of which Mr. Burnett was a member. He was also a member of Hamburg lodge, I. O. O. F. Pall bearers were, William Roberts, Fred. Leese, Fred. Carter, Albert De Wolf, George E. Sheridan and William A. Sheffer.

Among those from away who attended the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Howard J. Ball and Rex Burnett of Webster; Edwin Ball of Ann Arbor township; Miss Lora Burnett of Ann Arbor, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur DeVoe of Eaton Rapids, Rex Doane and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Doane and children of South Lyon; Hon. and Mrs. Lynn Gardner of Isco; Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Holt of Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. Fred. Abbot and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Donohue of Howell; William Lister and daughter, Miss Francis Lister and Harry Pinckney of Ypsilanti; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Young of Dearborn; Miss Eunice and Edgar Parrie and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wiggins of Fenton and others from Ann Arbor and other places.

Mrs. Idah Reason left for Florida by auto last week. She was accompanied by Mrs. Lola Flintoff Lobdell of Howell. Mr. and Mrs. Mylo Kettler and children expect to leave for Florida next week for a three weeks stay. Mrs. Lobdell will return home with them.

Neighboring Notes

Edward Wigglesworth, Linden rural mail carrier for the past 30 years will be retired on Nov. 30, next.
Dr. Walton Hale Hamilton, former Yale economist and sociologist, special advisor to the President on consumer problems, aided by a cabinet of experts, has discovered, "after exhaustive research" that the "milk business is just a gigantic racket."
Isn't it wonderful how a brain-truster can discover in three years study something that everyone outside of Washington and Yale College has known for years—Springport Signal.

Don Searles has sold his Standard Oil agency at South Lyon to Merle Bradley.
The Kensington Baptist church, just off Grand River, recently celebrated its 100th anniversary. It was once the center of a thriving village. Kensington bank notes are still prized by collectors.

Another penny-grafting scheme is the key registering racket. Recently some boys found a large bunch of keys and brought them to this office to advertise. On the key ring was a metal tag asking anyone finding the keys to notify the Am. Registering Co., of Washington, at a certain street address. We wrote the company, and in time the letter was returned marked "left city." The owner of the keys probably gave a dollar to have the keys registered and is still waiting for the registry company to find the keys for him—Springport Signal.

Vincent Young of Gregory broke his ankle while shingling a building last Wednesday. Dr. Sigler put the broken ankle in a cast.

The annual meeting and election of officers of the Michigan Milk Producers Assoc. will be held at the Union Bldg., Lansing on Nov. 7. An effort is expected by the Farmer's Union to obtain control of the association.

The Soldier's Relief Com. for this county, chairman, Floyd Weeks, Sec., and Thomas Wood.

St. Joseph's new parish hall built on the site of the Recreation Bldg., in Howell is completed and was opened Sunday. It will be the scene of a big home-coming and festival on Nov. 7, and 8.

The date of the trial of Thomas Bommerito for murder has been set for Nov. 4.

In the case of the Interstate Realty Co. of Florida versus the Estate of Floyd Reason tried at Howell last week, Judge Collins affirmed the decision of the commissioners on claims in disallowing the claim of $6,126.50 filed against the estate by the realty company.

In order to get enough revenue to pay damages to live stock by dogs and cost of administration, the Washtenaw county board of supervisors raised the dog tax. Female dogs will now be taxed $5 instead of $4 and male or unsexed dogs at $1.50. A full time dog warden will also be hired at a salary of $1,500 per year.

A drive has been started to get the balance of U. S.-23 from south of Brighton to Fenton paved. This is a strip of gravel road about 16 miles long. U. S.-23 is paved from Ann Arbor to Brighton and from Fenton to Flint. Hartland is the only village this 16 mile strip of gravel road passes through.

Brighton high school football team as a result of a 6-6 tie game with Milford is now tied for first place in the Southwestern Oakland County League.

The County Road Commission is reconstructing two important bridges this fall; the big iron bridge over the Huron river north of Hamburg, and the narrow bridge near the entrance to the Hi Land Lake sub-division south and west of Pinckney. The long steel bridge over the Huron north of Hamburg village was constructed in 1895, developed a weakness in the steel floor stringers, and although the abutments and span steel were strong enough for present day loads, the five inch floor stringers were not considered safe for the weights now carried by motor trucks.—Republican-Press.

Notes of 25 Years Ago

Rev. Fr. Edward P. Graham, lecturer, will be the second number on the Pinckney lecture course. He is pastor of the Holy Angels Church of Sandusky.

The Bachelors Club of Pinckney will give a dance at the opera house on election night, Tuesday, November 5, and also get the election returns. Music by the Fisher's Orchestra of Ann Arbor. Bill 50 cents.

The Pinckney high school seniors will give a shadow social at the home of Chris Brogan Friday evening.

Paul Brogan and Joe Brady have purchased the grocery store at Chilson of Albert Smith.

John M. Harris is preparing to build a new barn. Frank Moran is building the wall.

The dwelling house on the Reynolds farm, northwest of Pinckney was destroyed by fire Sunday night. Cause unknown.

J. L. Roche returned from Washington, Ill., this week with a fine trotting horse he purchased there.

Barney Wellman was operated upon for appendicitis at the Sanitarium last week.

A letter from Ed. Kearney informs us that he has just returned from Mexico where he purchased 2250 acres of land.

Floyd Jackson took the following persons to Dimondale last Thursday to attend a sale of Holstein cattle. Michael Roche, Chas. Bullis, Fred. Mackinder, John Dunn. They made the trip in his Run.

John Dinkel and wife who have been living on the Gardner farm have moved to Pinckney.

The woods are full of candidates for orange these days.

WELFARE DEPT. PURCHASES WILL BE NAMED AFTER FOUNDER

HOOVER PROPERTY

Notwithstanding the objections of neighboring property owners the Michigan Welfare dept. has purchased the Hoover property on Washtenaw Ave. in Ann Arbor and will move the State Coldwater Orphan Asylum there. Fred. Woodworth of Pinckney state welfare director signed a contract to purchase the property last Wednesday, and announced that D. F. Ramsey will be head of the institution.

Seventeen property owners met at Ann Arbor Wednesday and discussed steps to be taken to prevent the home being established there. The Hoover property is located in a highly restricted section of Ann Arbor and the location of the asylum there with its great number of inmates would they claim lower property values. The zoning system of Ann Arbor, they claim has been upheld by the courts. It was desired to move the Orphanage to Ann Arbor so as to be better able to enjoy the facilities of the university hospital.

The Linden State Bank paid all depositors claims filed against the bank in full last week. It is the first bank in the state which went into receivership to pay depositors 100 per cent.

Oakland county will vote on Nov. 25, on a bond issue for a new $125,000 county office building.

For many years Washtenaw county got along with an old ramshackle outmoded structure for a poor house which was erected nearly 100 years ago. Bond issue after bond issue to erect a new one was defeated. In 1914, Louis Yeager, a well-to-do bachelor of Lima township died and left $20,000 to the county to build a new one if they would raise $40,000 additional. They did so and in 1917, the present county infirmary was built on the 130 acre tract. Its eventual cost was $85,000. At the recent session of the board of supervisors it was voted to name the institution after Louis Yeager, the person who was responsible for the county's having the building.

Neighboring Notes

Edward Wigglesworth, Linden rural mail carrier for the past 30 years will be retired on Nov. 30, next.

Dr. Walton Hale Hamilton, former Yale economist and sociologist, special advisor to the President on consumer problems, aided by a cabinet of experts, has discovered, "after exhaustive research" that the "milk business is just a gigantic racket."

Don Searles has sold his Standard Oil agency at South Lyon to Merle Bradley.

The Kensington Baptist church, just off Grand River, recently celebrated its 100th anniversary. It was once the center of a thriving village. Kensington bank notes are still prized by collectors.

Another penny-grafting scheme is the key "registering racket. Recently some boys found a large bunch of keys and brought them to this office to advertise. On the key ring was a metal tag asking anyone finding the keys to notify the Am. Registering Co., of Washington, at a certain street address. We wrote the company, and in time the letter was returned marked "left city." The owner of the keys probably gave a dollar to have the keys registered and is still waiting for the registry company to find the keys for him.—Springport Signal.

Vincent Young of Gregory broke his ankle while shingling a building last Wednesday. Dr. Siger put the broken ankle in a cast.

The annual meeting and election of officers of the Michigan Milk Producers Assoc. will be held at the Union Bldg., Lansing on Nov. 7. An effort is expected by the Farmer's Union to obtain control of the association.

The Soldier's Relief Com. for this county has organized with John St. Louis, chairman, Floyd Weeks, Sec., and Thomas Wood.

St. Joseph's new parish hall built on the site of the Recreation Bldg., in Howell is completed and was opened Sunday. It will be the scene of a big home-coming and festival on Nov. 7 and 8.

The date of the trial of Thomas Bonnerito for murder has been set for Nov. 4.

In the case of the Interstate Realty Co. of Florida versus the Estate of Floyd Reason tried at Howell last week, Judge Collins affirmed the decision of the commissioners on claims in disallowing the claim of $6,126.50 filed against the estate by the realty company.

In order to get enough revenue to pay damages to live stock by dogs and cost of administration, the Washtenaw county board of supervisors raised the dog tax. Female dogs will now be taxed $5 instead of $4 and male or unsexed dogs at $1.50. A full time dog warden will also be hired at a salary of $1,500 per year.

A drive has been started to get the balance of U. S. 23 from south of Brighton to Fenton paved. This is a strip of gravel road about 16 miles long. U. S. 23 is paved from Ann Arbor to Brighton and from Fenton to Flint. Hartland is the only village this 16 mile strip of gravel road passes through.

Brighton high school football team as a result of a 6-6 tie game with Milford is now tied for first place in the Southwestern Oakland County League.

The County Road Commission is reconstructing two important bridges this fall; the big iron bridge over the Huron river north of Hamburg, and the narrow bridge near the entrance to the Hi Land Lake sub-division south and west of Pinckney. The long steel bridge over the Huron north of Hamburg village was constructed in 1895. Developed a weakness in the steel floor stringers, and although the abutments and span steel were strong enough for present day loads, the five inch floor stringers were not considered safe for the weights now carried by motor trucks.

Rev. Fr. Edward P. Graham, lecturer, will be the second number on the Pinckney lecture course. He is pastor of the Holy Angels Church of Sandusky.

The Batchlors Club of Pinckney will give a dance at the opera house on election night, Tuesday, November 5, and also get the election returns. Music by Ike Fisher's Orchestra of Ann Arbor. Bill 50 cents.

The Pinckney high school seniors will give a shadow social at the home of Chris Brogan Friday evening.

Paul Brogan and Joe Brady have purchased the grocery store at Chilson of Albert Smith.

John M. Harris is preparing to build a new barn. Frank Moran is building the wall.

The dwelling house on the Reynolds farm, northwest of Pinckney was destroyed by fire Sunday night. Cause unknown.

J. L. Roche returned from Washington, Ill., this week with a fine trotting horse he purchased there.

Barney Wellman was operated upon for appendicitis at the Sanitarium last week.

A letter from Ed. Kearney informs us that he has just returned from Mexico where he purchased 2250 acres of land.

Floyd Jackson took the following persons to Diamond Lake last Thursday to attend a sale of Holstein cattle: Michael Roche, Chas. Bullis, Fred Mackinder, John Dunn. They made the trip in his Red.

John Dinkel and wife who have been living on the Gardner farm have moved to Pinckney.

WELFARE DEPT. PURCHASES WILL BE NAMED AFTER FOUNDER

Notwithstanding the objections of neighboring property owners the Michigan Welfare dept. has purchased the Hoover property on Washtenaw Ave. in Ann Arbor and will move the State Coldwater Orphan Asylum there. Fred Woodworth of Pinckney state welfare director signed a contract to purchase the property last Wednesday, and announced that D. F. Ramsey will be head of the institution.

Seventeen property owners met at Ann Arbor Wednesday and discussed steps to be taken to prevent the home being established there. The Hoover property is located in a highly restricted section of Ann Arbor and the location of the asylum there with its great number of inmates would they claim lower property values. The zoning system of Ann Arbor, they claim has been upheld by the courts. It was desired to move the Orphanage to Ann Arbor so as to be better able to enjoy the facilities of the university hospital.

For many years Washtenaw county got along with an old ramshackle outmoded structure for a poor house which was erected nearly 100 years ago. Bond issue after bond issue to erect a new one was defeated. In 1914, Louis Yeager, a well-to-do bachelor of Lima township died and left $20,000 to the county to build a new one if they would raise $40,000 additional. They did so and in 1917, the present county infirmary was built on the 130 acre tract. Its eventual cost was $85,000. At the recent session of the board of supervisors it was voted to name the institution after Louis Yeager, the person who was responsible for the county's having the building.

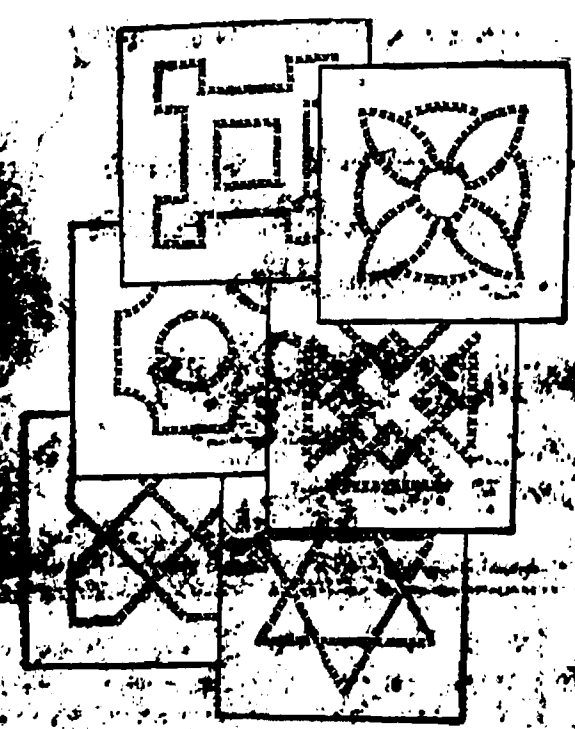

The Linden State Bank paid all depositors claims filed against the bank in full last week. It is the first bank in the state which went into receivership to pay depositors 100 per cent.

Oakland county will vote on Nov. 25, on a bond issue for a new $125,000 county office building.

SYNOPSIS

The future of the youthful and comely "Widder" Marcia Howe is a conversational throb among housewives of Wilton. Eligible bachelors and widowers also are interested. Marcia has as her guest her late husband's niece, Sylvia. A stranger, on the way to Marcia's home. Secretly, he asks her to hide a package containing jewelry. She does so. Elisha Winslow, town sheriff, brings news of a jewel robbery. Sylvia, the stranger, gives his name as Stanley Heath. Sylvia discovers the jewels, and naturally believes Heath is a robber. She realizes that Marcia must have hidden them, and decides to say nothing. Marcia feels she has altogether too deep an interest in her guest, but is powerless to overcome it. Heath wires "Mrs. S. C. Heath," New York, saying he is safe. He also orders a man named Currier to come see on Sylvia, in her room, bedchamber, and elsewhere. At Marcia's approach she hides them there. Heath asks Marcia to bring them to him. They are gone! He kindly makes light of the loss. Sylvia restores the jewels to their original hiding place.

"Guilt to be in my breast pocket," thrusting his hand inside his pea-coat. "My eye! If I ain't forgot that telegram!" he abruptly exclaimed. "The station-master at Sawyer Falls gave it to me when he handed out the mail. It came went out of my mind. It's for that chap Heath who's stayin' over at the Widder's."

"Heath? you been wool-gatherin' you might," given it to Sylvia to take back with her. She was here only a little while ago," Silas Nickerson said. "I know it."

"S'pose I was to take it over," Elisha Winslow suggested eagerly. "I'm willin' to."

"Fur's that goes, I can carry it," Capt. Philias Taylor piped.

"Now, there's no use in all you fellows volunteerin'," Eleazer Crocker asserted. "I'm goin' straight over to Marcia's, as it happens, soon's I've at my dinner an' I'll take the telegram."

With an air of authority, he held out his hand.

The crowd fell back.

Early afternoon found Marcia alone in the Homestead sitting room. Sylvia had gone up the beach. Stanley Heath was asleep; and at last the delicious interval of solitude which the woman coveted was here.

The basket at her elbow overflowed with mending, but she had not yet taken up her needle.

She, too, would not work. Try as she would, her mind wandered off into byways too fascinating to be resisted—byways which no matter how remote their windings, invariably led her back to Stanley Heath.

In retrospect she lived over again every incident, every word, every look that had passed between them, until she came to the barrier of the unknown which her fancy bridged with intricate rainbow-hued imaginings. She twisted possible explanations this way and that and would contentedly have continued the pastime had not Eleazer Crocker knocked at the door.

Eleazar could not have chosen a more inopportune moment to drag her back to earth.

With a frown and a deep sigh, Marcia went reluctantly to let him in.

"Wal, now ain't it nice to find you by yourself?" was his greeting. "The kitchen looks cozy as can be. Where was you settin'?"

"Anywhere you say. Wherever you are huffs me."

"I'll just run in and put the screen round the fire and get my mending," Marcia replied a trifle uneasily. "I'll be right back."

Left to himself, Eleazar smiled a smug satisfaction.

The kitchen was warm. Marcia was alone and apparently not busy. Could circumstances be more propitious? For the first time since his arrival, today, he was really with her.

Today, he would take his future in his hands and put to her the question he had so often determined to ask.

When Marcia came back, he was armed and ready to begin his declaration.

"Weather's been fine, ain't it?" he started out.

Marcia took up her sewing.

"Wal, yes, now you mention it I do recall a few nice days," Silas, springing up.

"I'd like to shingle the south all this spring," announced Marcia, giving a disconcertingly practical twist to the conversation. "How many shingles do you reckon I would take?"

The dialogue was proceeding along the lines he had mapped out.

"I'd have to reckon that out. It's a good notion, though, to make the ell tight. That's what the birds are doin'." They're gettin' their nests built an' under pickin' out their mates."

"I did not realize you were so much interested in birds, Eleazar," Marcia exclaimed. "I have a fine bird book I must lend you. It's in the other room. I'll fetch it."

Springing up, she disappeared.

"Drat it!" murmured Eleazar. "Could anything be more exasperatin'! An'

me neither knowin' nor carin' a hang whether a bird's a robin or a sparrow." He wandered to the window. "Oh, heavens, who's this comin'?" If it ain't 'Lish Winslow! Now what in thunder does he want, buttin' in?" Eleazar threw open the door.

Before he could speak, however, Elisha puffing and out of breath bawled:

"Where in the name of goodness did you put the engine-house key, Eleazar? Whipple's hen house is afire an' we've hunted high an' low for it!"

"My soul an' body," Eleazar gasped. "I clean forgot to leave it. Must be in my pocket."

Wildly he began to search.

"You're a fine head of the fire department, you are!" roared Elisha. "If you'd put your mind on town business 'stead of on Marcia Howe, we'd all be better off. Traipsing over here to see her in the middle of the day, palmin' off that telegram as an excuse. You better go straight back to the village fast as you can leg it an' carry the key with you," went on the accuser. "Don't wait for nothin'. I'll explain matters to Marcia."

"But I've got to see her. I've got to speak to her private," protested the wretched official. "I want to give her something."

"Give it to me. I'll hand it to her." Elisha's extended palm was not to be ignored.

"This—this—telegram," quavered Eleazar. "I ain't had a chance to—"

"Do you mean to say you ain't given her that telegram yet?"

"I was intendin' to. I was just about to when—"

"Wal, of all the—" words failed Elisha. "Here, give it to me," he commanded. "I can be depended on to deliver messages if you can't. I'll see she has it. In the meantime, the best thing you can do is to hoof it to town quick's ever you can."

"Ain't you comin'?"

"No. Fire's ain't in my line. Long's Marcia's here by herself an'

When Marcia Came Back He Was Primed and Ready to Begin His Declaration.

ain't busy, I'm goin' to pay her a call," Elisha grinned. "I've got to deliver the telegram."

"You might be needed at the fire," "I shan't be," was the calm reply. "Not unless there's somethin' criminal about it."

"It might be arson."

"I'll take a chance on it startin' from Dan Whipple's cigarette. In fact he owned as much. Now, hop along, Eleazar, else the whole conflagration will be out 'fore you get there."

The unlucky fire chief had no choice.

"Drat it!" raged he, as he strode off across the sand. "Drat it! Ain't that just my luck!"

Either the book for which Marcia searched was not to be found or she was in no haste to return to her awaiting suitor.

Whatever the explanation, her absence lengthened from a few moments into a quarter of an hour.

In the meantime Elisha, like his predecessor, was formulating his mode of attack. Might not this be his own golden opportunity?

Before another snatched the prize from him; before Heath with his yacht and his monogrammed silken garments recovered his strength, he would put his fate to the test.

He strolled up to the stove and, standing on the hearth with his back to the fire, rocked back and forth on his heels reflectively.

As he did so, a brick beneath his feet rocked with him.

Elisha looked down.

He saw it was quite loose.

"That thing's goin' to trip up somebody some fine day," commented he. "It oughter be cemented."

Producing his knife, Elisha pried the brick from its place.

As he lifted it out, a handkerchief came with it disgorgeing at his feet a flat, blue leather case.

If the sheriff's eyes bulged when he caught sight of it, they all but popped from his head when, egged on by curiosity, he pressed the catch on the box.

Quick as a flash the whole situation clarified in his mind. These were the widely heralded Long Island jewels; and the thief who had stolen them was here beneath this roof!

It was as plain as a pikestaff. Elisha den by fog he had escaped in his boat and inadvertently run aground at the mouth of Wilton harbor.

Of course Marcia did not know. Even though a friendship existed between herself and Heath, she was unquestionably ignorant of the nefarious means by which he earned his living.

Far from cherishing anger or resentment toward the person who exposed his villainy and prevented her from sacrificing herself to such an unprincipled adventurer, would she not regard her rescuer with deepest gratitude? Elisha's head whirled.

Nevertheless, confused though he was, it was clear to him he must not make a mis-step and neglect to perform his official duty with dignity.

Heath was ill. There would be no danger of his leaving the Homestead at present, especially as he had no suspicion the jewels had been discovered.

The best plan was for him to return to the mainland; get his badge and handcuffs; find out what formalities such a momentous event as an arrest demanded; and return later and round up the criminal.

He did not dally. Carefully putting the gems back where he had found them, he placed the telegram upon the table and went out, softly closing the door behind him.

It flashed into his mind that as the tide was coming in it might be well to borrow Marcia's boat and row back to shore.

This would serve two purposes. He would reach home sooner; and Heath, cut off by the sweep of the channel, would in the meantime be unable to escape.

Never had Elisha rowed as he rowed that day! The dory fairly leaped through the water. Reaching shore, he sprang from it and dragged it up on the sand. Then, trembling with excitement, he set out for home.

He was almost at his gate when to his consternation he saw Eleazar puffing after him.

"You didn't make much of a stop at The Widder's, I see," jeered he.

"No. Had other business," came crisply from Elisha.

"You 'pear to be kinder stirred up, 'Lish," Eleazar commented. "What's the matter?"

Elisha determined upon a sudden and bold move.

"Say, Eleazar," began he cautiously. "Did you ever see a man arrested?"

"Wal, I dunno as I ever did—not really. I've seen it done, though, in the movies."

"That oughter be up-to-date an' proper. Just how was the proceedin' put through?"

Thoughtfully Eleazar regarded the toes of his boots.

"Wal, near's I can recollect, the policeman went up to the criminal an' grabbin' him by the arm says: 'You villain! I've got you now. Scram!'"

"I s'pose the policeman wore a badge an' carried handcuffs."

"Oh, law, yes. But what's the game? What do you want to know for?"

Furtively Elisha glanced up and down the empty road and after peering over his shoulder, he dropped his voice to a confidential whisper and hissed:

"'Cause I'm goin' to make an arrest—a big arrest! I've tracked down the thief that committed the Long Island burglary. Moreover, I know this very second where the jewels are. I'm goin' to phone the New York police I've got their man," he concluded.

Eleazar's cunning mind worked quickly.

"I don't know, 'Lish, as I'd do that," he cautioned. "In the first place, you might be mistook in your calculations an' not only get yourself into hot water but make the town a laughin' stock. Furthermore, was you wrong, you might get sued for defamin' the accused's character."

"I ain't wrong. I'm right."

"Wal, even so, I'd move careful," urged his companion. "Most likely there's a reward out for this criminal. Why split it with a host of others? Why don't you an' me divide it? I'll help you land your man, since you're a bit—"

Eleazar, fearing to offend, hesitated. "—a bit out of practice 'bout arrestin'."

The advice was good. Elisha, shrewd in his dealings, instantly saw the advantages of the plan proposed.

"Wal, mebbe twould be better if I didn't let too many ignorant city chaps in on a big thing like this," he conceded pompously. "You an' me know what we're about. I s'ger we could handle it."

"Sure we could. We can put it through in first-class shape. First you must change your clothes for your Sunday ones. A black frock coat's what you really oughter wear. Then you must pin your sheriff's badge on your chest where it'll show good an' plain. Be sure to bring along your handcuffs, 'cause you're certain to need 'em with an experienced criminal such as this. He'll have a gun an' put up a fight."

Elisha paled and a tremor twitched his lips.

"That needn't concern you none, though. All you'll have to do will be to steal up behind him, put your pistol 'twixt his shoulder-blades an' shout: 'Stick 'em up!'"

"I ain't got no pistol. I ain't fond of fire-arms. In fact, I don't know's I ever shot off a revolver in my life."

"Wal, I have. I've shot dozens of skunks."

"You might lend me yours."

"I s'pose I might. It ain't, though, workin' very well right now. It's kinder rusty. Furthermore, I'm out of ammunition."

"That wouldn't matter. I ain't cat-culation' to fire it."

"But you'll have to."

Hamburg Steak Is Good Choice
in Preparing Very Quick Meal

Hamburg steak is a good choice for the meat at a quick meal. The easiest and quickest way to cook it is to season the meat and form it into one flat cake. Place this under the broiler or in a hot oven. When it has browned take it out and sprinkle with finely minced raw onion. If it is baked in the oven the onion may be put on top before cooking and browned.

Another way of seasoning Hamburg steak is to make it "white with salt, black with pepper, yellow with mustard" before cooking. I am suggesting rice instead of potatoes to serve with the meat.

Rice can be cooked in about twenty minutes. After it is drained it may be stirred into a frying pan containing about two tablespoonfuls of melted bacon fat and a quarter of a cup of minced green pepper. It should be stirred with a fork over the fire until heated through.

New cabbage, shredded, will cook in boiling water in about ten minutes. Be sure not to cover it while cooking. It is good dressed with a little cream or top milk after it has been drained.

Grape conserve is a favorite winter jam, and if you get an opportunity to buy a basket of grapes at a reasonable price you will get full value for your money, for grape conserve and buttered toast are an unbeatable combination.

The ever-popular dill pickle is one which is usually made in large quantities, but there is really no reason why they cannot be made in smaller lots, if desired.

Dill Pickles.

Grape leaves
Bunch of dill
Cabbage leaves
1½ gallons water
1 lb. coarse salt
1 peck 6-inch cucumbers

Add salt to water, bring to boiling point, skim. Scrub cucumbers, dry, put layer in bottom of crock, add layer of grape leaves, then bunch of dills. Repeat until all cucumbers are used, and cover top with cabbage leaves. Put ten-pound weight on and fill with brine. Cover and let stand until cucumbers are transparent and light in color—two to three weeks.

Indian Curry Sauce.

3 tablespoons oil
3 white onions
3 tablespoons curry powder
½ tablespoon ground mixed spices
1 can tomatoes
1 cup stock
½ green pepper
½ lemon

Use heavy kettle if possible.

CARE IN CHOOSING
BOOKS FOR CHILD HAS ITS REWARD

The story of Abraham Lincoln and his struggle for education gives the cue to Alma H. Jones' article, "Satisfy Your Child's Book Hunger," in Hygieia.

"Books are to the mind what sunshine is to the body," implies that just as the well-cared for child receives daily sun exposure as an aid to physical growth, so also should he receive early "exposure" to lullabies, rhymes and stories, which constitute aids to mental and emotional growth.

Very early the child needs to establish right attitudes toward books. By the time a child is fifteen or eighteen months old he can easily learn to handle a book without tearing the pages, if the paper is strong and the pages are not too large. Young children who are not yet able to read enjoy picture books or picture-story books.

Though considerable emphasis is placed on the importance of children of school-age reading for themselves and in quantity this should not be interpreted as a reason for ending the reading or story-telling hour of parents and other adults. Through such means the young boy or girl may be stimulated to more difficult reading on new subjects, for the parent or adult may interpret through voice or explanation much that would otherwise be lost on the child who does not read easily. There is permanent value as well as present pleasure in the story hour.

The general characteristics of a good book include large clear type, an uncrowded, well-paragraphed page, a pleasing appearance, a lively tale and a well-sustained reader interest.

Brown chopped onion in the oil. Add remaining ingredients, except lemon, and allow to simmer gently all day until cooked down to the consistency of a sauce. Last half hour add the lemon chopped fine. Place in glass or stone crock, cover and store. Serve with lamb, chicken, ham.

Pumpkin Chips.

2 pounds pumpkin lind
2 lemons
1 green ginger root
1½ pounds granulated sugar
½ cup water, if needed

Remove outer skin and seeds and cut into strips about one inch wide. Cut strips crosswise into thin chips. Place the chips in a deep dish with alternate layers of sliced lemon and sugar. Allow to stand twenty-four hours. Add the water and ginger and cook gently until the pumpkin is transparent and tender and sirup like honey. Pour into hot jars and seal with paraffin. Serve with fowl and cold meat.

IT'S NOT IN MANY CEREALS

Nothing anyone can is more important than Vitamin B—the vitamin for keeping fit. Yet it isn't in many cereals, when cereals are supposed to be our best source of this food element.

Many are nervous, poor in appetite, system out of order, because their daily diets lack enough of the precious Vitamin B for keeping fit.

Few things keep them back like a lack of this protective food element.

So give everyone Quaker Oats every morning. Because in addition to its generous supply of Vitamin B for keeping fit, it furnishes food-energy, muscle and body-building ingredients. For about 1/4c per dish.

Start serving it tomorrow for a 2-week test. Quaker Oats has a wholesome, nut-like, luscious appeal to the appetite. Flavor, surpassingly good. All grocers supply it.

NOMINATION OF HOOVER OPPOSED

Former Gov. Chase S. Osborn, in an address before the Young Republicans club at Fenton, warned that the Republican party must guard against the nomination for President next year of any candidate who has been hand-picked by designing forces that reside within the borders of avarice.

At the same time he voiced strong opposition to the possible renomination of former President Herbert Hoover, declaring the nation's one time chief executive showed "his weak fibre and lack of courage" by being "frightened" by Senator James Couzens' opposition to the loan of federal funds to Detroit financial institutions.

The speaker charged that President Roosevelt "is lost in the political woods," but warned his audience that the "devulsion against the present administration in Washington" is not strong enough to carry just any Republican candidate through, asserting that the party must have the best possible man for its candidate.

The former governor suggested the names of Senator William E. Borah (R-Idaho), William Allen White and Theodore Roosevelt as possible presidential timber, paying tribute to Theodore Roosevelt as a man "with as good a record as any man in public life."

"My objection to Charles Dawes," declared Osborn, is that he used his high office and great influence to secure $85,000,000 from the government for his fragile bank in Chicago. That was the first act that frightened the public into a feeling of fear as to banking conditions in America.

"Incidentally, it was exactly that thing which basically prevented Detroit from receiving help. Jim Couzens threatened to scream from the house tops if any money was loaned to Detroit in the same manner that Dawes procured his. President Hoover showed his weak fibre and lack of courage by being frightened by Couzens."

Philathea Notes

May we quote a paragraph from the Autumn greetings of our World-Wide President, Albert F. Lynde, beginning his second year of service?

"To my mind there is no honor in the title of President unless something is accomplished for the Master. That is my aim this year, as it has been last year. The business end of our movement must be attended to, yes; but the thing that far exceeds that in our movement is carrying out our motto: Win the one next to you! Put that first this year, Baracas and Philatheas, and the rest of it will come to us."

Surely our Sunday school classes will do well to take this motto seriously, in its highest meaning, if we expect our school to grow in numbers and spiritually during this next year. And let us not forget the daily prayer of our World Wide Prayer Circle, "God bless Baracas, Philatheas, the work and the workers."

Last Sunday the Baracas and Philatheas and other groups were glad to furnish supply teachers and secretaries, though it depleted our own numbers. We hope for a large attendance next Sunday to study the subject, "Judah taken captive," 2 Kings 24:1-25.

Our last Sunday's temperance subject was a helpful one, and the pastor's message a splendid help to our spiritual life.

The members of our group, which should be distinctively a Missionary class, will be glad to remember, with other attendants, the usual Missionary offering of the month. The Benevolence Treasurer of the church hopes soon to have another Cent-a-meal box opening, so please be as generous as possible in your contribution to this fund. We have only about $20.00 yet to raise of our year's apportionment. The faithful giving of some of our workers has made this record possible. If any of the readers of this column have no box, do not belong to a Missionary group, and do not stay to S. S., yet desire to help, we will be glad to place in this fund, any contribution you wish to make, and so much the quicker complete our payment.

Making Your Own Opportunity

So many times we find people wanting to go into business for themselves. They may have the ability and other qualifications for success, but lack the needed capital to start in and carry their project over the formative period.

We cannot urge too strongly the advisability of starting early in life to build a savings account. With the money you will accumulate you will find many an opportunity to use it to better yourself.

Dun and Bradstreet reports show that more failures come in business from lack of sufficient capital than for any other reason.

Interest paid on Saving Bonds and Certificates of Deposit. Money to loan at reasonable rates. Deposits up to $5,000.00 insured by our membership in the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. Your business always a consideration.
