SYNOPSIS

The youthful and comely "Widder" Marcia Howe has as her guest her late husband's niece, Sylvia Hayden. A stranger, on the verge of exhaustion, finds his way to Marcia's home. Secretly, he asks her to hide a package containing jewelry. She does so. Elisha Winslow, town sheriff, brings news of a jewel robbery nearby. The stranger gives his name as Stanley Heath. Sylvia discovers the jewels, and naturally believes Heath is a robber. She realizes that Marcia must have hidden them, and decides to say nothing. Marcia feels she has altogether too deep an interest in her guest, but is powerless to overcome it. Heath wires "Mrs. S. C. Heath," New York, saying he is safe. He also orders a man named Currier to come at once. Sylvia, in her room, bedecks herself with the jewels. At Marcia's approach she hides them there. Heath asks Marcia to bring them to him. They are gone! He kindly makes light of the loss. Sylvia restores the jewels to their original hiding place. Elisha Winslow, visiting Marcia. discovers the gems and has no doubt they are the stolen gems, and that Heath is the thief. Leaving the jewels, he makes plans for arresting Heath.

CHAPTER VII

-10-Dawn was breaking over Wilton when a trim motor car, bearing a New York number plate, slipped quietly. into the village and drew up at the town garage.

From it stepped a man, small and somewhat bent. "May I leave my car here?" he inquired of the lad who was sweeping out the building.

"Sure!" "Fill her up for me, please. And you might clean her a bit."

"Been riding all night?" The stranger nodded. "I like traveling at night," he volunteered. "Less traffic. Can you tell me where a Mr. Heath is staying?" "Heath? The chap who ran aground on the Crocker Cove sand bar? He's over to The Widder's." "Where's that?"

"The Widder lives out yonder at the Homestead." "How does one get there?"

"Wal, the only way to reach the house when the tide's full, as 'tis now, is to row." "Where'll I find a boat?"

"That I couldn't say. The Widder keeps hers t'other side of the channel. Mebbe, though, if you was to go down to the beach some fisherman would give you a lift across. 'Most any of 'em would admire to if you're a friend of Marcia Howe's."

The stranger bowed but offered no comment. If curiosity stirred within him concerning the information the lad vouchsafed, at least he gave no sign.

"Thank you," he replied briefly. "Will this road take me to the beach?"

"Straight as an arrow." Without wasting additional words or time, the stranger nodded and started off briskly in the direction indicated. When he reached the beach he halted, scanning eagerly the silvered house beyond the channel. Discovering no one in sight, he dragged from the shore a yellow dory, clambered into it, and catching up the oars began to row toward the dwelling silhouetted against the water and the glory of the morning

In the meantime, both Marcia and Sylvia had wakened early and were sky.

The kitchen fire was already snapping merrily in the stove, however, and the table was spread before the latter made her appearance.

She came in, carrying a thick envelope.

"Why, Sylvia, how you startled me!" Marcia exclaimed. "I did not hear you come down stairs. Why are you up so "I'm going to town to catch the morning mail. I have to get off this letter." "Have to?"

"Yes-to Hortle. You see, if I didn't answer promptly he might think the candy had gone astray," explained the

"Oh, of course, you must thank him for the candy," Marcia agreed, "Still, is it necessary to do so in such a rush -to walk to the village this morning?"

"I mean to row over." "I'm afraid you can't, dear. I discovered last night the boat was gone. Eleazer Crocker must have appropriated it when he was here yesterday. I shall give him a good lecture when I see him. It is a serious thing to be letf out here with no way of getting to land. In fact, here we are with this tremendously important letter that must be posted immediately—willy-nilly." With eyes brimming with laughter. Marcia shot a mischievous glance at her companion.

"But it is only the last of April, beloved." "Men need to know such things well in advance. They have to adjust their business."

"I see," smiled Marcia. "Under such letter is sent the better."

"It isn't just to thank Hortie for the candy that I'm writing," that young lady replied sedately. "You see, he asked if he might come to Wilton for his summer vacation. He has to know so he can make his plans."

"The sooner I start, the sooner I shall be back, I suppose," Sylvia answered with feigned reluctance. "Men are so unreasonable. Any errands?"

"Not today, thanks. Just the mail." "I'll wait for it." The eagerness betrayed by the reply left not the slightest doubt that Sylvia would wait, and gladly. As the door closed behind her, Marcia smiled whimsically. She prepared Heath's breakfast tray, and was about to take it upstairs when there was a gentle knock at the

A stranger stood upon the threshold. "Is Mr. Stanley Heath staying here?" inquired he. "Yes."

"I am Currier. Mr. Heath sent for

"Of course! Come in, won't you? Mr. Heath is expecting you. I'll tell him you are here."

"You needn't do that, madam. If you will just show me where he is-" "At the head of the stairs." "Very good. Thank you, madam.

I will go up." Marcia soon heard the invalid's voice, imperative and eager, each sentence ending with an interrogation. The lapses of silence which intervened and which at first she took to be pauses, she presently decided represented the inaudible and subdued replies of Currier. To judge from the sounds, Heath was pouring out an avalanche of questions. Once he broke into peals of hearty laughter, followed by a paroxysm of coughing. "He has forgotten all about breakfast," murmured Marcia. "I'll carry it up." She mounted the stairs softly that her coming might break in as little as possible upon the conversation of her "She was alone in the library when went in." Heath was saying, "and turned so white I feared she might faint or scream. Luckily she did neither.

"'You know what I'm after,' I said -the jewels. Come, hand them over.' "At that, she began to cry. "'Quickly,' I repeated. 'Someone may come.' "With that, she produced the jewel case, pouring out a torrent of explanations.

"I stopped no longer than I had to. I assure you. In no time I had made my getaway. Every detail of my plau would have gone smoothly but for the fog. I lost my bearings completely.

Imagine my amazement at finding myself here." Marcia waited to hear no more. So Heath really had taken the jewels from the resisting woman who owned them—taken them against her will and made off with them! He owned it! Nay, more! Far from regretting what he had done, in his tone rang a note of satisfaction in his accomplishment. She had never believed him guilty. Not until she heard the bitter, irrevocable confession from his own lips did she waver, and even then she battled against the truth, refusing to be convinced. There must be some explanation, she told herself. Nevertheless, the shock was overwheiming. Her head swam. Her heart beat wildly. "I must not give way!" she reiterated to herself. "I must put on a brave front. He must not suspect I

It took a few moments for her to regain her grip on herself, to drag back her ebbing strength. Then she knocked at the door.

"Here is your coffee, Mr. Heath," she called. "Come in, Mrs. Howe. I'm afraid we've delayed you. I had entirely forgotten about breakfast and so, I'll be bound, had Currier. You met my righthand man down stairs, I take it." "You found the house without trouble?" Marcia inquired, making an effort to address the newcomer in a natural, off-hand manner. "Yes, Mrs. Howe. A young man at the garage directed me." As Marcia turned to go, her unfailing courtesy prompted her to say: "Mr. Currier is welcome to stay if he wishes to, Mr. Heath. We can put him up perfectly well." "Oh, no. He is returning directly. Nevertheless, I greatly appreciate your kindness."

"Mrs. Heath is anxious," put in Currier. "She begged me to come home as soon as possible that she might know how Mr. Heath was. Naturally she has been much worried."

"There, there, Currier—that will do." broke in Stanley Heath, flushing. "And now, since Mrs. Howe is here and is in our secret, I may as well tell you that part of the mission on which you came cannot be accomplished. You cannot take the gems back with you to New York. A calamity has befallen them.".

"A calamity, sir?" "Mrs. Howe helped me conceal the lewels downstairs in a hiding place under the kitchen floor," continued Stapley Heath. "When she went to get them they were gone."

"It is all very mysterious," broke in Marcia, taking up the tale. "I cannot in any way account for their disappearance and am much distressed." "Have you any theory as to who could have taken them?" inquired Ourrier. "Absolutely none. I cannot even see how anybody had the chance to take them. No one knew they were there." "Would you be willing to show me bers.

conditions, I suppose the sooner the where they were hidden and allow me to investigate?"

"Certainly. I'll take you downstairs now, while we have the opportunity. When do you start back?"

"That is for Mr. Heath to decide." "Right off. As soon as you can get under way," Stanley Heath said decisively. "Go down now with Mrs. Howe, since she is so gracious, and have your breakfast. Examine, too, the place where we concealed the jewel case. You may discover a clew she has missed."

Preceding Currier into the kitchen, Marcia went straight to the hearth and

Marcia Could Not Believe Her Eyes

pointed to the brick at her feet. "It was here we put the jewel case."

"I think, with your permission, I will take up the brick," the little man at her elbow quietly announced.

"Certainly," acquiesced Marcia. Taking out his knife, Currier knelt and soon had the brick out of its Beneath it lay the jewel case, wrapped as before in Stanley Heath's monogrammed handkerchief. Marcia could not believe her eyes.

"But-but-it wasn't there when I looked. I could swear it wasn't." "Who could have taken it out? And if some one did why return anything so valuable?" Currier inquired. "I don't know. I do not understand it at all," the woman replied. "There is something uncanny about the whole

"Well, at any rate, the gems are here now," said Currier in a matterof-fact tone. "Mr. Heath will be much relieved. Shall I go up and-"

"I'll go," Marcia cried. "It won't take me a minute. I'll be right back." "As you prefer, madam."

Off flew Marcia. Her haste, the radiance of her face must have suggested to the stranger a thought that had not occurred to him before, for after she had gone, he stood immovable in the middle of the floor looking after her. Then a slow, shadowy smile passed across his features. "So—ho!" he muttered. "So—ho!" He was still absorbed in reverie when Marcia, breathless and flushed,

"I can think of nothing but the jewels and their recovery. I am so happy I had completely forgotten your breakfast. You might run up to see Mr. Heath while I am getting it ready." "I will do that. I shall be leaving at once and he may have final orders for me, or perhaps a letter for Mra. Heath.'

"Mrs. Heath!" Marcia repeated, as M the name suddenly brought before her consciousness something hitherto forgotten. "Yes, yes! Of course."

Then turning her head aside, she inquired with studied carelessness: "How long, I wonder, does Mr. Heath plan to remain in Wilton? I think that as soon as he is able to make the journey he would better go home. This climate is—is—damp and he will, perhaps, pick up faster away from the sea. If you have any influence with him, won't you please advise it?" The man's small, gray eyes nar-

"I have no influence with Mr. Heath," replied he. "Mrs. Heath has, however. Shall I tell her?"

"I wish you would."

An hour later My Unknown Lady weighed anchor and disappeared out to sea, carrying with her Currier and the jewels.

Marcia watched until the last snowy ripple foaming in her wake had disappeared, then she sank into a chair and brushed her hand across her

"And that's the end of that foolishness!" she muttered. "The end!" (TO BE CONTINUED)

TREASURE OF COMPANY K

THERE is gold-$10,000 worth of ft, in good American coin-hidden near Crittenden, Arizona. At least, it is there if reports are true, and if someone has not found it and spirited it away.

Company K was stationed at Fort Buchanan. The Civil War began to call in soldiers from the outlying posts, and Company K was no exception. It was ordered east, and there was no time to take care of the goods and chattels of the organization.

So the quartermaster, a thrifty soul who had no idea of leaving anything valuable to the mercies of outsiders, quietly took the gold, the medicines, and all other stores of value, and buried them. He and the squad who helped dig the hole knew where it was, but no one else was told the secret. Then the company traveled east, and the incident was forgotten.

After the war, Company K was sent back to its Arizona post, which had been renamed Fort Crittenden. Only one of the original outfit returned with the troop, and as he looked about at the formerly well-known scenes memory stirred, and he remembered that he had helped dig holes, place in them gold and medical supplies, and cover them over again so that no one could tell they were there.

He had no doubt that the places were untouched, for no one that knew of them had been near in all this time. What a treasure there was, just for the taking!

So he told one friend, and the two began to hunt for the precious caches. They went to the place where the stuff was buried, as nearly as the soldier could remember, and here they dug-and dug-and dug again, but for some reason they could not seem to connect with the stores or the money.

The secret leaked out. Soon all the garrison was helping in the search. Trenches were dug all over Sonorita valley, and the men developed mighty muscles and aching backs—but to no avail.

Then, just as everyone was ready to give up in disgust, declaring that the returned soldier had been crazy all the time, a discovery was made. The medical stores were found, just as he had described them. New hope revived the hunt. More trenches were dug, and these went deeper.

They had their work for their pains. Unless, as has been said at the beginning of this story, the gold was found and spirited away under the noses of a whole suspicious garrison. it must be where it was hidden. For no one has found even so much as one coin of it.

At Austin, Nevada, they had the ore tested, and it proved rich enough to excite Bryfogle immensely. The younger men, who felt that they had seen quite enough of desert life, made over their claims to the Dutchman and went on their various ways. But the route seemed to be entirely too long and torturous: Bryfogle led them first in one direction and then in another, and at last, after several weeks spent in wandering about the desert, the old Dutchman confessed that he had lost the way. At first, in the sudden depression of their spirits, the party was wrought up almost to the point of lynching the old man. Still, such an action would not help matters, and second thoughts showed them that there was nothing to do but return to Austin.

Bryfogle did not agree with this decision. He wanted to stay in the desert, to hunt still longer for the ledge which he knew lay out there somewhere. If they would only leave him some provisions, he said, he would keep on searching, and then he was sure to find the place at last.

With the hope that this might happen, the party yielded to Bryfogle's Dieas. They gave him provisions for a long stay, and returned home, while he set out to run down that elusive

He might have found it if circumstances had been favorable. But in his wanderings he met a band of Paintes, and they attacked him, striking him on the head. He escaped with his life, but his memory was gone. After that he wandered about aimlessly, not knowing for what he was hunting.

Others have wandered ever since just as aimlessly, in search of that rich ledge of ore. But it seems to be lost for good.

NO ALKALIES FOR ACID INDIGESTION

MILLIONS have found they do not need to drench their stomachs with strong, caustic affeites. Physicians have said this habit often brings further acid indigestion. So much more safe and sensible to simply carry a roll of Tunes in your pocket. Munch 3 or 4 after meals—or whenever troubled by heartburn, gas, sour stomach. Try them when you seel the effects of last wight's prery, or when you seel the effects of last night's party, or when you amole too seach. Tums contain a wonderful antacid which neu-tralises acid in the stomach, but never over-alkalises stomach or blood. As pleasant to est as candy and only 10c at any drug store.

THE TAX Collector, not the railroad. pay for rail freight or fare.

AND, COULD you trace them, about 40 of the remaining 82 cents also ultimately become taxes—local, state and federal—taxes paid by those who supply the railroad with fuel, materials and labor and to whom the railroad pays bond interest and stock dividends (if any) and by those who supply the suppliers of the railroad, etc., etc.

THE RAILROAD pays the highest rate of tax of any agency of 'transportation. In return it asks nothing in the form of right-of-way publicly supplied and maintained, nor other kind of subsidy. It stands on its own feet-an institution privately maintained and privately operated, yet functioning in the public interest.

THUS WHEN you ship and travel gets the first 8 cents of each $1.00 you by rail you ease your own tax burden by lending support to the one form of transportation that supports itself and gives most to the support of government.

AND THE freight fee or the fare you pay is the final payment. No "hidden cost" looms later in your tax bill to plague and penalize you for the so-called saving which some subsidized transit agency held out for your patronage.

GIVING BUSINESS to the trucks means giving it to a tax-consumer whose operations only add to our taxes and SHIP AND travel by rail and the first 8 cents of your freight or fare dollar will always come back to you as a discount in your tax bill.

A YOUNG PIONEER

When several hundred families were sent to Alaska from the Middle West to settle the Matanuska Valley, the Red Cross sent a nurse, Madelsine de Ferze, to remain with them for a year to help protect their health. Among the first friends she made were the little pioneer, Arthur Hook, 4 years old, and "Prince," the pup who went with his young master to Alaeks.

DOCTORS KNOW

Mothers read this:

Why do people come home from a hospital with bowels working like a refleregulated watch?

The answer is simple, and it's the wer to all your bowel worries if you will only realize it: many doctors and hospitals use liquid laxatives.

If you knew what a doctor knows. you would use only the liquid form. A liquid can always be taken in gradually reduced doses. Reduced dosage is the secret of any real relief from constipution.

Ask a doctor about this. Ask your druggist how very popular liquid laxatives have become. They give the right kind of help, and right amount of help. The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara — both natural laxatives that can form no habit, even in children. So, try Syrup Pepsin. You just take o regulated es till Nature restores regularity.

Makes It Good In a good neighborhood there are not so many noisy nuisances.

Find

From Your Doctor if the "Pain" Remedy You Take Is Safe.

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well - Being to Unknown Preparations

BEFORE you take any prepara-tion you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches; or the pains of rheumatism, neuritis or neuralgia, ask your doctor what he thinks about it - in comparison with Genuine Bayer Aspirin.

We say this because, before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin, most so-called "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as being bad for the stomach; or, often, for the heart. And the discovery of Bayer Aspirin largely changed medical practice. Countless thousands of people who have taken Bayer Aspirin year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct.

Remember this: Genuine Bayer Aspirin is rated among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains ... and safe for the average person to take regularly.

You can get real Bayer Aspirin at any drug store — simply by never asking for it by the name "aspirin" alone, but always saying BAYER ASPIRIN when you buy.

It's a Season of Glamor and Chitter

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

dress. According to the signs of the pictured with a view to studying each times women will sparkle from morn- individually since they are so charming to night this fall and winter.

Their silk velvets will be embroidered with strass. Their wool-like silks will be elaborated with gilt braid. Sleeve ends and collars worked in a solid mass of huge sequins will challenge the supremacy of fur on evening coats. Silk chiffons will be beaded and silk crepes pailletted for formal wear either in allover patterning or confining their glitter to belts and angel sleeves or scarfs. Gorgeous silk lame lapels will adorn evening tailleurs with which matching lame turbans and blouses, bags and belts will be worn. Jeweled ornaments will hold the drapes of harem, skirts and clasp shirred and bloused bodices. Seed nearls will make chokers (new high collar fashion) and form passementerie embroidery-thus the story of glitter and glamor might run on ad infinitum.

Fabrics weighted down with beading, embroideries, sequins and jeweled ornamentation must hold and not pull out of shape. Women want their cloky surfaced silks to stay in, their crinkles to remain crinkled. They want to be assured that their taffetas will stay crisp, their chiffons and crepes not to grow sleazy and sloppy and so they are coming to realize more and more that care and discrimination must be exercised in choosing quality-kind fabrics. Which explains the reason why the demand for silks that are pure silk (the inherent elasticity of silk is important) is more insistent this season than it has been in many a previous year. So

The beauteous model to the left is fashioned of rich silk lame in a delectable tone of blue, shot with silver. The square decolletage is set off by jeweled clips the like of which also form the buckle for the belt. The short sleeves are interestingly cut on kimono lines, giving fullness to sleeves and shoulder.

Eastern influence in evening fashions is most pronounced. Note the sari shawl of gold sequins which envelopes head and shoulders, adding brilliance to the stately black gown pictured to the right, which is made of a handsome silk velvety sheer. A tunic effect is simulated via an adroitly positioned ruffle on the skirt whose princess lines are slenderizing in a subtly sophisticated way. This ruffle ties at the back in a clever pose. The smartest dressed women regard black with the glittering note as first in fashion this season. Greatest enthusiasm is shown for the cocktail dress or suit that adopts street length, it being a new entrant in the formal realm. The girl seated is wearing such a suit, its formality attested in the silk metal cloky tunic jacket with the now-so-fashionable frog fastening at the waistline. The afternoon dress is of a grainy silk crepe in the same agua blue shade as the metal cloky which fashions the jacket. A jeweled clip accents the draped neck. The peaked beret with its ornamental

This dress is in brown wool with the back of the bodice and the sleeves of the taffeta in brown, green and red plaid. The accompanying jacket of brown wool has wide revers of brown caracul and turn-back cuffs of the same fur. The costume is completed by the Paton thimble hat in brown felt. The narrow brim turns way up in back and fat down in front and a bright red quill is its only trimming.

Goldfish Used as Buttons Tiny metal roldfish, with black tipped fins and tails in approved goldfish style are used to button a kneelength tunic of a tea gown.

Narrow Braid Used Narrow embroifered braid is set to gether with gold metal threads to form a colorful and unissed coller and cult set worn on a black crops frock.

located in the basement of the Library of Congress. In the modern day it goes by the name of the Polyglot Division of the Government Printing Office.

Recently bound for distribution through the printing office, a technical pamphlet absolutely unique in printing annals, which will go to every city of any consequence in the civilized world, was turned out in this little-known branch. It is called the "Style Manual of Foreign Languages," and is for the universal use of printers and transliterators. contains the alphabets, vowels and consonants, diphthongs, grammatical and etymological oddities, and rules for the division of words of more than fifty foreign languages and Conscience is not merely a quality. that inspires regret; it is often a principle that removes the faintest desire to do wrong in the first place.

Washington's Tower of Babel is | mology carried on by some of this nation's ablest philologists.

> The Polyglot Division, with its 29 highly specialized employees, and operating but ten linotype machines, runs off 2,250,000 library cards for the libraries of the world every month in the year. It turns out all the routine job printing work required by the Library of Congress and the Copyright Division-blanks, stationery, publishers' cards and bulletins.

Every linotyper and make-up man in the division has to have a working knowledge of the major portion of the 62 languages and dialects in which the library cards are printed. Special Type Fonts Used.

Every one of the variety of languages and dialects used in the printing of the cards has its special fonts of type for the linotype machines. There are few exceptions: Japanese and Chinese card entries, for example, are set in Latin characters. A complete set of type characters for either of these languages would occupy more space than is available for all the others put-to-

Since no type for Hebrew, Greek, the five Slavic tongues, Anglo-Saxon, or Gaelic, has been supplied for the Polyglot Division, all cards with entries in these languages must be set laboriously by hand. The men who do this particular work are the real specialists of the genuinely exclusive printing shop. - Washington Star.

Nature's Ice Box O. K.; Keeps Food 33 Years

Nature's ice box has even the best of mechanical refrigerators skinned when it comes to food preservation. Keeping food in good condition for years is no trick at all for natural cold storage plants such as the Antarctic wastes. According to Dr. Dana Coman, physician and dietician for the Lincoln Ellsworth-Sir Hubert Wilkins expedition, food left in a shack in the South Polar region 33 years ago was found to be still edible when discovered. The long-preserved food supplies were left by a Norwegian explorer, Otto Nordenskjold, in 1902.—Washington Post.

AIR ICICLES

Ice is almost as dangerous to aireraft as fog. It has forced planes to fly into the ground, and has driven them so low that they have struck obstacles. Block ice, forming round wires and all edges designed to cut the wind, sometimes causes a fatal increase in weight and head registance, as well as distorting the flying surfaces which supply "life" to the machine. The thickening of one bracing wire will decrease speed by 15 miles per hour.—Tit-Bits Maga-

Quick, Complete Pleasant MINATION.

70 Fifth Ave., New York City

Let's be frank. There's only one way for your body to rid itself of the waste matters that cause acidity, gas, headaches, bloated feelings and a dozen other discomforts—your intestines must function.

To make them move quickly, pleasantly, completely, without griping. Thousands of physicians recommend Milnesia Walers. (Dentists recommend Milnesia wafers as an efficient remedy for mouth acidity).

These mint flavored candy-like waters are pure milk of magnesia. Each water is approximately equal to a full adult dose of liquid milk of magnesia. Chewed thoroughly in accordance with the directions on the bottle or tin, then swallowed, they correct acidity, bad breath, flatulence, at their source and at the same time enable quick, complete, pleasant elimination.

Milnesia Waters come in bottles of 20 and 48 waters, at 35c and 60c respectively, or in convenient time containing 12 at 20c. Each water is approximately an adult dose of milk of magnesia. All good drug stores carry them. Start using these delicious, effective waters today.

Professional samples sent free to registered physicians or dentists if request is made on professional letter head. SELECT. PRODUCTS, Incorporated

CAMPAIGN AGAINST

RECKLESS DRIVING

Michigan's permanent all-yearround campaign against reckless driving and to school automobile-drivers generally in the most advanced ways of avoiding accidents to themselves and others is in motion.

Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald, summoning all state administrative heads to a meeting at the Detroit Athletic Club formally launched the work of the new State of Michigan Safety Council Friday.

Outstanding steps now being taken or in contemplation are:

1. The State Highway Commission is widening two-lane highways to three lanes, and adding extra footage for bus traffic, increasing the vision of the driver at danger spots and on local club with 13 members, assistant hills to 1,000 feet by lengthening superintendent of the Eaton county curves, grading down hills and filling 4-H fair, and was in charge of the in valleys, reflectorizing all road signs as far as possible and prohibiting resectorization of private advertising on highways. The Department, it was announced, also will initiate a campaign against roadside stands where they have a tendency to confuse traffic by blocking the highway.

2. The State of Michigan Safety Council, under the direction of Henry T. Ewald, publicity director, will institute a campaign of newspaper and billboard advertising of educational character, suplemented by radio and movie appeals.

3. Asserting that educators are unanimous in believing that safety is more vital subject to the young than Latin and some other studies previously considered paramount, Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, state superintendent of public instruction, announced that safety would be a required topic inthe approved state course of

4. Orville E. Atwood, secretary of state, reported completion of arrange-ments with General Motors by which profes of the corporation's "We D. ivers," a booklet devoted to right and wong ways of driving, will be distributed by the State Department's State Fair during the past two years. branch offices to all applicants for

5. The State Police Department, charging that 14 per cent of the drivers are responsible for the casualties, announced that 200 reckless drivers are being banished from the see how we could have a vigorous roads monthly by revocation of driver's license and other methods and that the number might be wisely raised if the driving public refuses to take its driving obligations seriously.

CHARLOTTE BOY WINS STATE CHAMPIONSHIP

Success with Livestock Put Youth in Line for National Honors

Thomas Bust, Charlotte, has been awarded a 50 dollar gold watch as the state champion in the Thomas E. Wilson 4-H club meat animal achievement contest, according to A. G. Kettunen, state club leader. Richard Lannen, R. No. 4 Howell, was Livingston county champion in this contest.

The prize is given for success in producing livestock, for ability as a leader of younger club members, and for making a profit from his livestock project. Has Kardel, county agricultural agent in Eaton county certifies that the winner made a profit of $427.85 from his livestock work. Boys from 15 counties competed in the contest.

The state champion has been active in club work, serving as leader for a
