Pinckney Slaughtered By Hamburg Sunday

Wins One-Sided Game Here by 17 to 0 Score. Poor Fielding and Pitching Cause of Wied Contest

The Hamburg Tri-County league team knocked Pinckney out of first place Sunday, by trimming them 17 to 0, before the largest crowd of the season. The boys started the game with a patched-up lineup, as Jack Dillway, regular shortstop, was missing. Harlow Haines pitched a game in Detroit in the morning and was not in very good form. He was relieved by Dr. Howell in the 6th inning with the bases full and only one out. Two more runs scored before the side was retired. In the last three innings only one run was scored off Howell.

In the first inning Hamburg scored in order. Pinckney got three men on. Lamb walked, Culver doubled to left, and Lamb who tried to score on it, was out at the plate. Searles beat out a hit and Dinkel ended the rally by flying to center. In the second for Hamburg, Radtke singled, Johnson walked, Winkelhouse hit an easy one to short and it went for a hit when Dillway failed to get it. Then Hamburg scored 5 runs when they should have been retired scoreless. They kept adding a run or so every inning until, at the beginning of the 6th they had ten. Then they got 6 more when Haines tired. Pinckney got men on bases right along but couldn't score them. They scored their first run in the 6th when Lamb hit. So did Searles and Culver got on when the catcher dropped his third strike. Ferrell was walked, forcing in Lamb. Lamb again started a rally in the 8th with a single. Searles hit a triple and was out trying to make a home run out of it. Dinkel singled and scored on Ferrell's hit. Ferrell was out at the plate when he tried to score on Ward's hit.

It was a tough game to lose and the one the boys wanted to win badly. The Pinckney team did not in the least resemble the outfit which won its first two games.

Next Sunday, Pinckney will go to Grass Lake to play that team.

Box Score

Home run, Todt. Three-base hit, Searles. Two-base hit, Radtke, Culver. Struck out by Haines, 3; Johnson, 7. Double play, Johnson to Herbst to Radtke. Left on base, Pinckney, 7; Hamburg, 5. Bases on balls, off Haines 5; Johnson 2. Umpires: Conk and Taylor.

NOTES OF THE GAMES

Jimmie Lamb played a nice game. He got three hits in four times up. The last time he hit one down the left field foul line, good for two bases, which was foul by inches.

Don Searles also got three hits. He tried his best to make a home run out of his triple, and kicked strongly when called out, claiming he had not been touched with the ball.

The play which put three of the Pinckney team up in the air, was a peculiarity. With first and second occupied, Winkelhouse was set to bunt. Culver was to field the bunt and Dillway to cover third. However, the hit went straight to shortstop instead of third, and Dillway, facing to cover the sack, was unable to reverse himself in time to field it.

In the two previous games he pitched. Haines had fine control, only walking one man a game. In the Sunday game he walked 5 and hit one man in six innings.

A large crowd saw the game. The largest we have seen here in several years. We hope that they keep coming.

Of the old Hamburg bunch who battled Pinckney in the little world series six years ago, only Spencer and Winkelhouse remain. Earl Lehr did get in for a couple of innings for the first time this year.

Todt's home run was an infield hit through short which got past Lefty Reason in left field.

Dinkel played short an inning or two but had trouble with grounders. One hit him in the face, but he recovered in time to throw out the hitter. Several others got away from him.

We wonder if all the players had hit the hay by 10:00 p. m., would the game have been closer?

School Operetta Is a Success

"Forest Court" Put on Friday Night by the Grades of Pinckney School Pleases All. Parts Well Taken

A well-filled house greeted the musical operetta, "Forest Court" put on at the Community Hall on Friday night by the grade classes of the Pinckney school, under the direction of the musical director, Mrs. Iva Meyers. Over fifty children, mostly of tender years, took part in this production. The stage and lighting effects were by Henry Shirey. The stage itself, was trimmed with tree branches, giving it a realistic appearance as a forest.

The operetta concerns a small boy who ruined flowers, muddied streams and otherwise desecrated the forest where the fairies hold forth. He goes to sleep and is captured and tried by the folks of the forest with Judge Owl presiding. He is about to be sentenced when the tortoise and the rabbit, played by Gerald Darrow and Ross Lamb intercede for him and tell of his freeing a butterfly from the web of an enchanter. The butterfly proves to be Silverwings, messenger of the fairy queen.

The costumes showed much work and ingenuity, especially the tortoise one, made we believe by Mrs. M. J. Reason. All children did especially well. Rieta Kennedy made a dainty little fairy queen and was well supported by numerous fairies, elves, etc.

Mrs. Meyers played the musical score and a chorus of voices rendered the songs. An accordion player from Howell high school performed in an able manner and little Miss Barbara Jean Walsh, daughter of Mrs. Meyers, the director, did tap dancing in a very able manner. This little girl lives in Lansing.

CIRCUIT COURT NEWS

Judge Collins opened the May term of court last week but excused the jury, as apparently there are to be no jury cases. He admitted the following to citizenship: Eli Aron, Pinckney; Arthur Smith, Howell; Maureen Jensen and Evelyn Throne, of Fowlerville; Agnes Parke, M. S. C. Howell.

Clyde Green pled guilty to a disorderly conduct charge and was released on $200 bail to appear for sentence later. The three damage suits filed by Mrs. B. M. Earle, totaling $80,000 against Harold Smith of Hamburg, were dismissed by motion of her attorney, Carl Stubbberg.

Edward Drewery, receiver for the First National Bank, was given a judgment against Howard Reed for $432.17. Ernest W. Homan and Frank Bernier, charged with fraud, were ordered to appear this week for sentence.

Thursday and Friday were occupied in trying the suit of Grace vs. Julia Wilcox. This has to do with settling up and dividing up an estate. The judge, after hearing considerable testimony, took the matter under advisement. Decision will be given later.

Saturday was occupied in trying a case in which a man sought to recover his driver's license which he lost through drunkenness. The judge refused his request.

The case of Mrs. Louise Glenn vs. Kenneth Edwin Purchase has been set for June 1. This is an injunction suit.

OFFSET

Some New York political analysts are willing to bet even money that Franklin D. Roosevelt rolls up a bigger national popular vote in 1936 than he did in 1932.

They base their confidence on the youth vote. Roughly 10,000,000 young men and women have reached the voting age in the past four years. The death rate among voters is estimated around 4,000,000 over the same period. It is figured that two-thirds of the net gain—or from 3 to 4 million votes—will go to Roosevelt and that this will more than offset probable losses from the ranks of his 1932 supporters. Lansing State Journal in National Forum.

The general consensus of opinion seems to be that the Townsend Pension investigation has not hurt the plan at all, but strengthened it. The bitter attacks made on it by such radicals as Rep. Hoffman and others are regarded as persecution by the adherents of Dr. Townsend and have won him many followers. The net result will be a Townsend candidate in every congressional district. Many congressmen have seen the handwriting on the wall and shied away from the investigation.

DICKINSON.—Lawn Mower Grinders will be in Pinckney to receive lawn mowers at Lee Lavey's oil station, 1-15 of June.

Clare Miller made a nice catch in right field. He misjudged it slightly and had to leap in the air to catch it. He fell, but managed to hang onto the ball.

The Hamburg umpire was Rev. Taylor. We don't recall ever seeing a preacher work behind the bat before.

Memorial Day

McCleer-Tobin Wedding at Detroit

Rev. Fr. Francis Hewlett, Coadjutor of the Bride, Conducts Ceremony.

The wedding of Miss Carolyn Tobin and Lawrence Clyde McCleer, which took place Monday morning, May 25, at 10 o'clock in St. Charles Borromeo church in Detroit, was one of quiet and beauty. Rev. Fr. Francis Hewlett, cousin of the bride, solemnized the nuptial mass in the presence of relatives and friends from Jackson, Grand Rapids, Stockbridge, Gregory and Howell. Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Nell McCleer sang Gounod's "Ave Maria."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Richard Tobin, was attired in white chiffon made on Grecian lines and a small bridle cap of white net. Her bridal bouquet was of white roses and valley lilies. Miss Mary Tobin attended her sister as maid of honor, and Dr. Nell McCleer, brother of the bridegroom, performed the duties of best man. Miss Tobin's gown was of Flemish blue chiffon with accordeon pleated skirt and short shoulder cape. She wore a large leghorn hat and matching accessories.

The guests were ushered by E. J. Tobin, Jr., and Joseph Tobin, brothers of the bride; Wilfred McCleer, the bridegroom's brother, and Joseph McCleer, a cousin.

Mr. and Mrs. McCleer left for a short wedding trip to Chicago. For traveling, the bride chose a navy blue suit trimmed in gray caracul with matching accessories. She is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Tobin of this city, and Mr. McCleer's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence McCleer of Gregory.

Among those attending from Jackson were the Misses Eileen Duffey, Arlene Geiger, Phyllis Tayer and Ellen Finan.

GOLDKETTE BLUE LANTERN OPENS FRIDAY, MAY 29th

The Blue Lantern Ballroom at Island Lake again under the well-known Goldkette management, with the opening date set for Friday, May 29th. The entire ballroom has been completely redecorated and the floor sanded and waxed which again brings it to the status of the best ballroom floor in Michigan.

A new novelty will be presented in the form of sound pictures. During intermission sound cartoons will be presented with RCA High Fidelity sound equipment.

As an added feature, the composers, Genevieve Everett and Lee Mitchell will sing their new song hit, "Lullabye of the Stars," nightly.

The opening orchestra Mr. Goldkette is saving as a surprise, but commencing Saturday, Ray Williams and His Indiana University Boys will furnish the music.

MICHIGAN WOMEN TO GO TO CAPITOL

More than 50 Michigan farm women and at least two men will represent the state when President and Mrs. Roosevelt welcome those attending the third triennial conference of Associated Country Women of the World in Washington, D. C., in a week's program that opens Monday, June 1, in the White House gardens.

Mrs. Helen Hill, Davison, state chairman of the advisory committee for home economics extension work in Michigan, will be the official representative of the delegation. She has been invited to participate in one of the discussion groups during the program.

According to Margaret Harris, assistant state home demonstration leader and member of the extension staff at Michigan State College, has helped make reservations for parties from different communities in the state. Early reservation included 10 from Wayne county, 7 from Washtenaw county, 2 from Ingham, 4 from Jackson, 5 from Branch, 4 from Oakland, 4 from Midland, 2 from Ocea and one from Genesee county.

Keeping Right Flavor in Milk

This Article Is Printed by the Request of the Pinckney Creamery and Is Especially Intended for Farmers of This Section.

By W. H. Riddell

The presence of any off-flavor in milk deprives the consumer of full enjoyment and may mean the loss of good customers. If the folks who like milk get the impression that off-flavor or milk may be unsafe to drink. Time was when any undesirable flavor was blamed on the feed of some barn odor absorbed by the milk. There wasn't much discussion between off-flavors.

These present days, however, find the matter of milk flavor a live subject, among producers as well as consumers, and a good deal of investigation has been carried out in recent years. The dairymen who see fit to make intelligent use of these findings should have little trouble with consumer complaints.

The list of feeds which cause off-flavors includes cabbages, sorghum, alfalfa, rye or barley and other silage crops. Fed green one or two hours before milking these are among the worst offenders in causing bad flavors.

The natural conclusion is that the best time to provide these succulent feeds is after milking. Likewise, cows being grazed on the object of the pasture, in some cases at least, five hours before milking, if milk of good flavor is to be produced.

To most of us silage seems a perfectly innocent feed, capable of little mischief. In many herds it is still being fed prior to milking. Some fifteen years ago, investigators in the United States Department of Agriculture pointed out that silage fed one hour before milking was absorbed quickly enough for the flavor to be noticed in the milk.

But that was back in the days when milk was milk and an off-flavor was something to get used to. As a result the warning passed on or less heeded. Today, however, the recommendation that silage be best fed after milking finds many converts.

Another old favorite which few of us would think of blaming for undesirable flavors is alfalfa hay. But at the Oklahoma station they found that alfalfa hay fed 1 1/2 to four hours before milking has a pronounced effect on milk flavor. It leaves a slightly bitter taste which can be confused with the more familiar "cowy" flavor. This grass is called after-milking feed. Moreover it is the best daily practice from a sanitary viewpoint.

Fortunately for the dairymen the common concentrate feeds used in the ration do not affect flavor to any appreciable extent. Wheat bran has even been found to improve milk flavor. When fed in quantities up to seven pounds, one hour before milking, a more pleasing flavor was noted in the milk.

There is a marked difference in the flavor of milk from individual cows. In tests made at the California station of milk samples from over 500 cows approximately 12 per cent produced milk with undesirable tastes or flavors.

A salty taste was observed most frequently. This was typical of certain cows well advanced in their lactation and generally milking more than a year. In herds with considerable mastitis infection salty taste in the milk may be a matter of considerable annoyance until the cow's responsible are located and eliminated.

In tests run on some Michigan herds, nearly 75 per cent of the milk samples from gargety cows was criticized for salty flavor. This was in marked contrast to the results from a herd free from this trouble, where only 14 per cent were open to this criticism, these being cows almost dry or far advanced in lactation.

Also quite objectionable is the presence of certain cows producing milk with a rancid flavor. This, too, is usually a product of advanced lactation. It is due to the presence of an enzyme, lipase, which acts on the butterfat in the milk.

A small quantity of rancid milk contains enough of this fat-splitting enzyme to contaminate a batch of normal milk mixed with it. Offending cows are readily detected by setting aside samples of milk from six to twelve hours at room temperature for examination.

Exposure to sunlight may be good for most of us, but it is anything but desirable for milk. When milk in clear glass bottles is exposed to sunlight during delivery, or on the consumer's doorstep in the summer months, a tallowy flavor will usually result.

Cooling Prevents Off-Flavors

Another cause of off-flavors is insufficient cooling. In Michigan investigations this seemed to be the primary cause of some off-flavors. In one case the milk was being rejected daily. Examination showed the evening milk had not been cooled below 60 degrees F.

The future will see more attention paid to milk flavor. In this, the producer will play the most important part. Regular examination of the milk from individual cows for abnormal flavors will be a recommended practice. Farm Journal, June, 1936

Current Comment

The character of Memorial Day observance seems to change rapidly with the passing years. In the editor's youth this was G. A. R. Day and the boys of '61 in their blue uniforms were in charge from Sunrise to Sunset. There was the outdoor program with its speakers and musical numbers; the march to the cemetery; decoration of graves and the salute by the firing squad. With the passing of the "boys in blue" the character of the day has changed. In some places the Legion and Boy Scouts still carry on, but in many more there has been no Memorial program, such as sponsored by the G. A. R., in years, and apparently there never will be. The day is now noted chiefly for the Indianapolis auto races, double-header baseball games, etc. In fact, it is just another holiday. However, to the old-timers, it will always be remembered as the day when the "boys in blue" ruled supreme and marched to the tune of the fife and drum.

Last week's Jackson Citizen Patriot carried a picture of a "bee" held on the N. B. Hanceck farm in Pulaski township, to plow land for a farmer who is sick. Ten plows were at work, operated by some 30 horses. A large amount of work was accomplished. These "bees" used to be popular in the gay nineties, but have now gone out of style. Barn raisings in which the whole country side joined in were real social events of years ago. In this fast-moving machine age such things are considered too slow and the supply of men on the farms is inadequate anyway. However, the farmers still exchange work in threshing and silo-filling time.

Ex-Gov. Comstock has emulated Al Smith in his famous perambulating movement. Comstock for years was the angel of the Democrat party in Michigan and ran for governor when he knew there was not the slightest chance of victory and kept the party alive during the years of famine. The Democratic tidal wave of 1932 made him governor of Michigan. He placed several excellent laws on the books including the sales tax and a quar commission system, but failed of re-nomination when he could not reconcile the differences of members of his own party. Michigan went Democratic in 1932 because many independent Republicans and former "Bull Moose" voted that ticket.

This was especially true in Wayne county. The administration at Washington thought this group should be recognized by being given an amount of patronage. Mr. Comstock could not see things in this light, but decided to hand out the patronage himself. However, he was not recognized and hence his walk.

The Detroit Free Press, in their National Whirligig, relate the cause of the Liberty League's hatred of President Roosevelt. When this league was first organized the five charter members submitted their charter to President Roosevelt. According to them, the president endorsed their aims and said that an educational organization such as they contemplated would prove helpful. However, in a press interview, he stated that the league had a lot to say about property rights but nothing about human rights. From that time on the war has been on. However, this group is not being welcomed by the Republicans as they consider their support a liability.

The extent of the animosity of big business towards the administration is revealed by the sizeable donation given the Sentinels of the Republic by Alfred Sloan of the General Motors. All he apparently knew about this organization was that it was against the New Deal. On being told that one of their main objects was to promote religious intolerance, he withdrew his support.

Say what you will about the Guffey Act, recently ruled unconstitutional by the Supreme Court, it is the first real honest effort made to regulate working conditions in the coal mines which have been a blot and stench on this country from time immemorial. This decision did not hurt the New Deal at all among the workers in the mines, but will cause them to wonder.

The Detroit police in their raid on The Black Legion have uncovered an organization which had for its purpose of 100 percent Americanization and to uphold the constitution. However, murder was their method of accomplishing this. The organization was laid bare when they killed a man for allegedly beating his wife. They masqueraded under the name of the Wolverine Republican Club. These organizations which suppress violence with violence are worse than the evils which they are organized to cure. In the raid on the Wolverine Republican Club, police seized the membership list which included the names of prominent politicians, including former members of the legislature, city and village officials, etc. To a man, however, they denied being members of the club.

Guffey Coal Act Is Declared Invalid

SIX members of the Supreme court of the United States ruled that the Guffey act to control the bituminous coal industry is invalid, and another of the New Deal experiments goes into the discard. This is the act which President Roosevelt urged congress to pass notwithstanding doubts of its constitutionality "however reasonable."

Five justices—Sutherland, Butler, Van Devanter, McReynolds, and Roberts—joined in the majority opinion which invalidated the whole act. Justices Cardozo, Brandeis, and Stone joined in a dissenting opinion in which they upheld the act. Chief Justice Hughes held in a separate opinion that the act was constitutional with respect to the marketing provisions but unconstitutional with respect to the labor regulations.

The court in the majority opinion held that there is no authority in the Constitution for the control of the coal industry attempted in the Guffey act. The act was not valid either under the commerce clause or the welfare clause. Power was unlawfully delegated to set up a coal code similar to the codes of the invalidated NRA and the regulations establishing working hours of miners were a violation of the fifth amendment prohibiting the taking of property without due process of law. Mining, the court declared, is a local industry, the state jurisdiction whereof the federal government has no authority to invade.

Congress provided that if one part of the act were held unconstitutional other parts should not be affected. But the majority declined to accept that arrangement, ruling that the price fixing provisions were inextricably interwoven with the labor regulations.

Senator Guffey, author of the act, declined to comment on the opinion, but it was said he was preparing a substitute measure. John Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, said that "it is a sad commentary upon our form of government when every decision of the Supreme court seems designed to fatten capital and starve and destroy labor."

Tugwell's Housing Hit by Court Decision

THE resettlement administration headed by Rexford Tugwell was declared by the District of Columbia court of appeals to be "clearly unconstitutional delegation of power," in a case involving a model community project in Somerset county, New Jersey. Going beyond the issue before them, the justices of the Appeals court called the entire relief appropriations act of 1935 into question. The act is invalid and hence RA was invalid, according to the court. Legally, however, none of the rest of the act will be affected by the decision because the other multitudinous activities of the New Deal under the appropriation were not before the court.

Solicitor Gen. Stanley Reed said an appeal would be taken to the Supreme court at once.

Uncle Sam Stands by Nine Power Pact

NEWS that Japan was greatly enlarging her force in North China led the State department in Washington to announce that the position of the United States is the same as that outlined last December by Secretary Hull affirming its support of the nine power pact that guarantees China's territorial integrity. At that time Mr. Hull said this country has a binding faith in the fundamental principles of its traditional policy. This government adheres to the provisions of the treaties to which it is a party and continues to bespeak respect by all nations for the provisions of treaties solemnly entered into for the purpose of facilitating and regulating, to reciprocal and common advantage.

At the State department it was said that the reaffirmation of support of the nine power pact does not mean that the administration will abandon its policy of declining to take the initiative in any attempt to curb Japan for violations of the pact. This was attempted by Henry L. Stimson, secretary of state in the Hoover administration, with the gain of nothing but Japanese ill will. Japanese military strength in North China south of the Great Wall is now said to be fully 15,000 men. There are about 80,000 more in Manchukuo and still others in Inner Mongolia.

War Debts Will Be Defaulted Again

NEITHER Great Britain nor France has any intention of paying the installments on the American war debt due June 15. And almost certainly all the other debtor nations except Finland will follow the example of the two big ones and again default. British Foreign Minister Eden talked about the debts with Leon Blum, who probably will be premier of France soon, but there was no indication that either one was planning to make a payment. Blum told the American club in Paris he hoped the war debt "misunderstanding" might be cleared up, but he was just trying to be pleasant to the people of both America and France without spending any money.

Of course the debtor nations would like to have the issue cleared up, for as long as they are in default they are subject to the restrictions of the Johnson act which makes it unlawful for any person in the United States to purchase or sell the bonds, securities or other obligations of any foreign government or to make any loans to such a government while that government is in default in payment of its obligations to the United States.

President of Bolivia Is Compelled to Resign

JOSE LUIS TEJADA SORZANO was forced to resign the presidency of Bolivia by a junta of army officers and Socialists who staged a bloodless coup d'etat in La Paz. Col. German Busch, acting chief of the general army staff, leader of the coup, will be at the head of the government until Col. David Toro, hero of the war with Paraguay, returns from the Chaco, when Toro will be installed as president.

The immediate objective of the new administration was complete settlement of a general strike which the officers asserted was imperiling the country's economic stability. The labor federation quickly suspended the strike movement, expressing solidarity with the army-Socialist coup.

Italy Releases Alleged Leader in King's Killing

DR. ANTON PAVELIC, alleged leader of Ustashi, the Croatian terrorist organization, and accused as one of the "master minds" in the assassination of King Alexander of Yugoslavia in Marseille, has been set free by the Italian authorities. Released with him was his lieutenant, Eugene Kwaternik. The two were arrested at Turin in October, 1934, soon after the murder of Alexander, but the French authorities who were working on the case were never permitted to question them and an Italian tribunal refused the request of the French government for their extradition to France for trial.

General Is the New Premier of Poland

POLAND feels that another European war is more than likely to break out soon, and she intends to be ready to take part in the conflict. A new government has been installed with Gen. Felicjan Slawoj-Skladkowski as premier and minister of the interior. The general took the oath of office wearing his uniform, which was taken as symbolic of the government's program. Poland will be adequately armed. Opposition leaders are warned that they will be prosecuted, as they were by Pilsudski after 1930.

Borah Is Loser in the Ohio Primaries

SENATOR WILLIAM BORAH banked heavily on success in the Ohio Presidential preference primary, but the Republicans of that state turned him down decisively in favor of their "favorite son," Robert A. Taft, son of the late President Taft. Of the 82 delegates to the Cleveland convention, Borah captured only five, the others, including the delegates at large, being Taft men. The winning delegation will be virtually unpledged, because it will vote for Taft only on the first ballot. Mr. Borah did not take this defeat calmly. He gave out a statement in Washington accusing the Republican organization leaders of manipulating the votes of colored citizens against him by promising the passage of federal anti-lynching legislation which he has opposed as unconstitutional.

Ohio Democrats polled about 500,000 votes in the primary, nearly 100,000 more than the Republicans, and they expressed their preference for Mr. Roosevelt over Col. Henry Breckinridge to the tune of 16 to 1. They also renominated Gov. Martin L. Davey, who will be opposed by John W. Bricker, Republican, in November. About twenty of Pennsylvania's delegation to the Republican convention were pledged to support the popular choice of the state, which turned out to be Mr. Borah, no other name being officially entered at the April 28 primary. The delegation, which is unstructured, has now voted that those members must keep their pledge on the first ballot or until it becomes manifestly impossible for their choice to win. This action was taken on motion of former Senator David A. Reed.

Former Governor Small of Illinois Dies

LEN SMALL, twice governor of Illinois and prominent in the politics of the state for nearly forty years, died suddenly in a Kankakee hospital from an embolism resulting from an operation. He was seventy-three years old. Mr. Small's career was rather stormy. His enemies were many and bitter, and he fought them courageously; his friends were devoted to him, and he was always loyal to them. In addition to his eight years as governor, he served two terms as state treasurer. Moreover, he was defeated for governor four times. He sought the Republican nomination again in the recent primary but was defeated.

Tugwell's Report on Resettlement Work

RESPONDING to a senate resolution, Rexford Tugwell made a report on the activities of the resettlement administration of which he is the head. He showed that it has 15,804 employees on the administration pay roll and has been allotted $275,543,944 to spend. Of this amount, the report stated, $98,347,005 has been spent and a total of $173,091,823 obligated, leaving $102,452,121 uncumbered.

Up to April 15, according to the report, the resettlement administration had taken options on 9,670,000 acres of land, of which options on 8,490,000 acres, costing $36,344,000, had become legal commitments. As of May 1, the report said, 59,521 persons, including 3,581 on the CCC pay roll, were employed in connection with the land acquisition program.

Of 33 subsistence homestead projects, construction has been completed on 18, is in progress on 11 and final plans have been drafted for 4. The report lists four suburban housing projects, financed from a $31,000,000 allocation for this purpose. They are in Berwyn, Md., Bound Brook, N. J., Milwaukee, and Cincinnati. On rural rehabilitation, the report says the RA has cared for more than 800,000 families. For its rehabilitation advances to individual "clients," the administration will expend $108,000,000 through June 30.

Inflation Bill Defeated by the House

WE ARE not going to have any currency inflation, at least before the next session of congress. The Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage refinancing bill, dragged out of committee by a petition signed by 218 house members, and then hotly debated for a day, was defeated by the decisive vote of 235 to 142. The bill called for the printing of three billion dollars for its financing. The petition signers included 159 Democrats, and before the vote every one of them was told by Pat Boland of Pennsylvania, the party whip, that the President didn't want the measure passed at this time and that if the member voted for the bill it would be just too bad for him. Besides this potent argument the Democratic leaders induced President William Green of the American Federation of Labor to intervene and he called together the federation's executive council and had it write a letter saying it was opposed to the bill because of the inflation feature.

President Still Wants Ship Canal and Quoddy

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT was supposed to have abandoned for the present the Florida ship canal and Passamaquoddy tidal power projects for which the house refused to appropriate further funds. But Senator Robinson of Arkansas was called to the White House for a conference and returned to the house to introduce a resolution authorizing the President to appoint engineering boards of review for the two schemes. The boards would present their findings by June 29, and, if favorable, the President would have authorization to set aside $10,000,000 for the canal and $9,000,000 for Passamaquoddy out of available relief money.

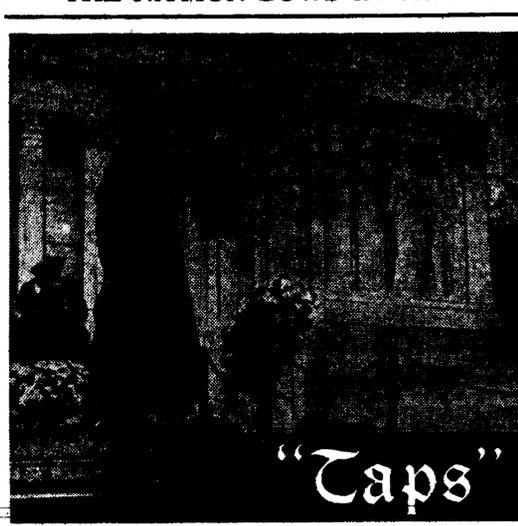

Starhemberg Ousted From Austrian Cabinet

CHANCELLOR KURT SCHUSCHNIGG of Austria has long been at odds with the vice chancellor, Prince Ernst von Starhemberg, and now he has got rid of that active young man and is practically the sole dictator of the country. This was accomplished by the resignation of the cabinet and its reconstruction immediately with Von Starhemberg left out.

Italy May Withdraw From League of Nations

BECAUSE the League of Nations council would not immediately recognize Italy's annexation of Ethiopia and the creation of the new Roman empire, Premier Mussolini recalled his representatives from Geneva, and before long Italy may quit the league entirely. At present it is merely "not participating" in its activities. The Italians at Addis Ababa are executing many natives for espionage or murder, among them being the giant umbrella carrier of Haile Selassie. A number of newspaper men have been expelled because of "anti-Italian activities and espionage." Among them were George Steer, correspondent for the London Times and the New York Times; Isidore Nebenzahl, a representative of the Havas (French) News agency; Alkeos Angiopolos, a Hearst correspondent; and M. D. Robillard, director of an Ethiopian newspaper.

THE NATION BOWS IN TRIBUTE

With heads bowed, and minds at rest, we pause once more to pay our brief tribute to the soldier dead of this great nation. They were ready and willing when their homes needed protection, when the land that was theirs was in need. They have given their all that we today might be free; to them we owe a gratitude greater than we can show. "Greater love hath no man than this—" Let us accord them due honor.

Poem Stilled Strife

By the flow of the inland river,
Whence the fleets of iron have fled,
Where the blades of the grave-grass quiver,
Asleep are the ranks of the dead:
Under the sod and the dew,
Waiting the judgment day:
Under the one, the Blue,
Under the other, the Gray.

These in the robings of glory,
Thou in the gloom of defeat,
All with the battle-blood gory,
In the dusk of eternity meet:
Under the sod and the dew,
Waiting the judgment day:
Under the laurel, the Blue,
Under the willow, the Gray.

No more shall the war-cry sever,
Or the winding rivers be red;
They banish their anger forever
When they laud the graves of our dead!
Under the sod and the dew,
Waiting the judgment day:
Love and tears for the Blue,
Tears and love for the Gray.

THE first spring following the close of the Civil war found a group of southern women decorating the graves of the soldier dead. They placed their floral tributes on all the graves regardless of the color of the uniform the buried men wore. That these mothers, sisters and widows could remember the northern soldiers with the same tribute of love that they remembered their own dead brought about a feeling of tolerance all over the country. This little ceremony inspired the poet, Francis Miles Finch, to write his poem, "The Blue and the Gray."

Later it was set to music, and the singing and reading of it did more to re-establish harmony than any of the well thought out plans of reconciliation of the diplomats. The second spring after the war, the northern women decorated the graves of the southern men as well as the graves of their own dead.

In 1868 General Logan commanded all the soldiers' graves to be decorated. The same year New York declared Memorial day a legal holiday and state after state followed its example. So one day toward the latter part of May the dead are honored and a just tribute is paid to memories.

PRIZE BUST OF LEE

Among the thin ranks of the G. A. R. veterans there may yet be a man to whom a portrait bust of Gen. Robert E. Lee, carved in fine old American walnut, will be a stirring memory of the days of '64.

For this bust was the trophy of a Union infantryman, taken by him from a captured Confederate gunboat. But little is known of the bust's history; a battered gunboat, raked and shattered by gunfire, drifted helplessly upon a sand bar off Natchez during one of those historic engagements on the broad bosom of the Mississippi. Once aground her crew put up a brief but fierce resistance to the Federal forces, but the odds were against them and before long the Union men were aboard the little vessel.

There one man found this bust—half buried, but unharmed—a tribute to the hardness of the good American walnut from which it had been carved. Who had been its carver no one knows.

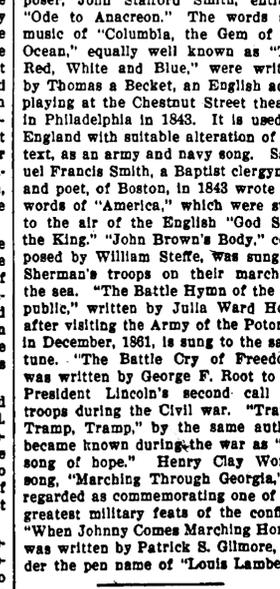

Displaying the Flag

WHEN the flag is displayed on Memorial day, it is hoisted to full staff, then lowered to half staff and left in this position until noon. It is then hoisted back to full staff and kept there until sunset. The hour which should be regarded as noon is the time in use, whether standard or daylight saving.

OUR PATRIOTIC MUSIC

WILLIAM BILLINGS is credited with being the author of the first American patriotic song, one that became popular with Colonial troops in the Revolutionary war, although there was no specific title for it. Another early one was "The Liberty Song," published in 1768, calling on the people to unite for liberty. The first American-made patriotic sea song was "The Yankee Man-of-War," written about 1778, to commemorate the exploits of Capt. John Paul Jones. "Yankee Doodle," known as an American patriotic ballad, was an English song at the beginning of the Revolution and an American song at its close. It was ordered played by General Lafayette at the surrender of the British forces at Yorktown. Joseph Hopkinson wrote the words of "Hail Columbia," which were adapted to the air of the "President's March," the composer of which is not definitely known. "The Star-Spangled Banner" was written by Francis Scott Key after witnessing the bombardment of Ft. Mchenry in 1814. The air is from a song by the English composer, John Stafford Smith, entitled "Ode to Anacreon." The words and music of "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean," equally well known as "The Red, White and Blue," were written by Thomas a Becket, an English actor playing at the Chestnut Street theater in Philadelphia in 1843. It is used in England with suitable alteration of the text, as an army and navy song. Samuel Francis Smith, a Baptist clergyman and poet, of Boston, in 1843 wrote the words of "America," which were sung to the air of the English "God Save the King." "John Brown's Body," composed by Sherman Steffe, was sung by Sherman's troops on their march to the sea. "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," written by Julia Ward Howe after visiting the Army of the Potomac in December, 1861, is sung to the same tune. "The Battle Cry of Freedom" was written by George F. Root to aid President Lincoln's second call for troops during the Civil war. "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp," by the same author, became known during the war as "the song of hope." Henry Clay Work's song, "Marching Through Georgia," is regarded as commemorating one of the greatest military feats of the conflict. "When Johnny Comes Marching Home" was written by Patrick S. Gilmore, under the pen name of "Louis Lambert."

Ever Faithful

There's a study in devotion here, as this loyal veteran snaps on his drum in preparation for what may be his last march. Even as he answered the bugle when his country called, so now he will not fall when comes the time to pay homage and respect to his fallen comrades. He'll march today with the last remnants of what was once a great army, faithful in peace as he was in war. May his spirit never perish from the hearts of men.

Fashions' in Weather, Study Over Long Periods Discloses

Research into weather conditions over long periods in the United States has convinced the experts that there are definite "trends" or "fashions" in weather which recur at intervals of many years. In Washington, 19 of the 23 winters between 1912-13 and 1934-35 have been warmer than normal. All but one of the last 15 have been mild. A similar cycle of warmer winters occurred nearly a hundred years ago. Similar observations have been recorded throughout America of this upward temperature "trend."

The study of past records has also convinced climatologists that in America, at any rate, the warm and dry "fashion" has reached its zenith. They now expect a reversal of conditions, with a general run of colder and wetter weather in prospect for many years to come.—Pearson's Weekly.

No Need to Suffer "Morning Sickness"

"Morning sickness"—is caused by an acid condition. To avoid it, acid must be offset by alkalis—such as magnesia.

Why Physicians Recommend Milnesia Wafers

These mint-flavored, candy-like wafers are pure milk of magnesia in solid form—the most pleasant way to take it. Each wafer is approximately equal to a full adult dose of liquid milk of magnesia. Chewed thoroughly, then swallowed, they correct acidity in the mouth and throughout the digestive system and insure quick, complete elimination of the waste matters that cause gas, headache, bloated feelings and a dozen other discomforts.

Milnesia Wafers come in bottles of 20 and 48, at 35c and 60c respectively, and in convenient tins for your handbag containing 12 at 20c. Each wafer is approximately one adult dose of milk of magnesia. All good drug stores sell and recommend them.

Start using these delicious, effective anti-acid, gently laxative wafers today. Professional samples sent free to registered physicians or dentists if request is made on professional letterhead. Send Products, Inc., 4402 23rd St., Long Island City, N. Y.

Pinckney high school baseball team lost at Brighton last Saturday, 10 to 9.

Miss Lucy Culhane closed her school at Pettysville, Friday, with a farewell party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David VanHorn.

Neighboring Notes

The special school election at South Lyon last Monday to vote on bonding the district for $18,000 to build a new school addition, resulted in the defeat of the proposition by a vote of 55 to 56. A petition is being circulated to call a second election.

Northville electors have voted to bond the district for $27,000 to build a school to replace the one recently burned. In addition they received $30,000 from the insurance company and a federal PWA grant of $42,000.

The Village of Chelsea has petitioned the postoffice department for city mail delivery.

Mrs. Helen Monks Berry of Stockbridge, accompanied by Orson Garris of Munith and Mrs. F. M. Bowdish of Gregory, attended the National Convention of King's Daughters in Richmond, Virginia, last week.

Dr. Max Durfee of Dexter has received notice of his appointment as a physician in the Health Service of the University of Michigan.

The Dexter high school alumni reunion will be held at the Episcopal church house on June 13.

The Strick Store at Brighton was badly damaged by fire recently.

88 rural school pupils in this county had perfect attendance records for the past year.

The Livingston county road commission will apply dust laying oil at $2.75 per hundred feet.

The Howell Masonic orchestra played at Grand Rapids last week at the Grand Council meeting there.

Fred O'Conner was killed instantly Thursday morning on US-16, four miles west of Howell, when his brother Pierce, lost control of the truck with which he was taking eggs to Detroit, and crashed into a tree. The deceased is from Lake Odessa, and leaves a wife and infant child.

Fowlerville plans a celebration for July 4, 5. 26 horses have already been entered in the horse races.

Mayor Mark Sugden of Saline has sold his drug stock there to Hugh Keveling of Ann Arbor. Mr. Sugden formerly lived in Brighton.

Notes of 50 Years Ago
DISPATCH OF MAY 27, 1886

The new board sidewalks are now being laid.

Thos. Read and J. T. Eamen are both buying wool this year.

Rev. Fr. Doherty of Brighton will lecture on "The Irish Race" at St. Mary's church tonight.

A Three Day Jubilee is being held at St. Mary's church in honor of the new pope. Three services are being held daily with preaching in the evening. Revs. Doherty of Brighton, Considine of Chelsea, Bicey of Jackson, and McMannils of Dexter are in attendance.

A school meeting has been called for Monday night to consider purchasing a site and building a new school. The site committee appointed several weeks ago, reports that the balance of the property in the block, 6 lots, can be bought for $900. The question is what kind of a school to build. The cost is estimated all the way from $3,000 to $10,000. The Dispatch thinks the last figures are much too high and would mean going into debt too much. $5,000 would be about right.

Hon. Chas. Mosher of Mosherville spoke at the Congregational church on the "Home vs. the Saloon" last night.

Dave Chalker took his engine to Ypsilanti, Tuesday to have a rip sewed up. Dave Burden helped him.

The Whitney Family Circus will exhibit at Howell this week.

Both roads will run excursions to Howell on July 4.

Miss Maggie McClear is substituting in District No. 3 Isosco, where the teacher is sick.

MARRIAGE LICENSE ISSUED

A marriage license has been issued to Lawrence Clyde McClear, 35, of Gregory, and Carolyn Tobin, 26, of Jackson.

TILLERS OF THE SOIL

Sketches of the Farmers of the Township of Putnam.

(Dispatch of May 27, 1886)

Justus Swarthout was born into this world 39 years ago, the event happening in this township and since that time he has tried to do unto others as he should be done by. With the exception of two years in Marion township, he has resided continually in Putnam. May 1, 1871, he was married to Miss Annett Hendee, of Ingham. In 1876 he bought the farm he now occupies, part of which lies in the south-east corner of the village, and has since prospered by good management and economy. Four years ago he built a fine brick house which is very pleasantly located. He owns 135 acres of land—mostly improved. They have had 5 children, 4 of whom are living.

M. Eugene Dunning occupies now for the third year the 200 acres south of Mr. Swarthout's owned by Chas. F. LaRue, a fine farm, with plenty of buildings. Mr. Dunning is 30 years of age, and was born in Hamburg, as was also his wife, Miss Mary A. Burgess, whom he married Oct. 24, 1878, she now being 28 years old. Two children have been born unto them, only one living.

Chester O. Burgess aged 62 years, was born in New York; came to Michigan 50 years ago and settled with his parents in Hamburg. In 1848 he married Miss Mary M. Placeway, of the same place, and also from the same place in N. Y., age now 55. In '51 he bought a farm in Hamburg, upon which they lived happy and contented just 35 years—selling out this spring. They raised a family of 9 children, 6 of whom remain among the living. They now live upon the farm with their son-in-law, Mr. Dunning.

Orley B. Jackson is a thrifty farmer owning 280 acres of good land just south of the LaRue farm—200 acres of which is under the plow. He is 39 years of age and was married to Miss Ella Brown in 1868, soon after which event he purchased the farm which he has since worked with advantage and prosperity. He has good buildings and some fine horses; also speculates some on buying and selling of stock. He has never known the joy of being called "papa" but for all that he seems to be happy.

Albert Jackson has 160 acres of fine land joining Orley on the south, all but 50 acres of which is improved. He is 41 years of age, was born in Ingham and has resided on his present farm 18 years, the 18th of June next. He was married to Miss Estelle Brown, Dec. 9 1868. They have one son.

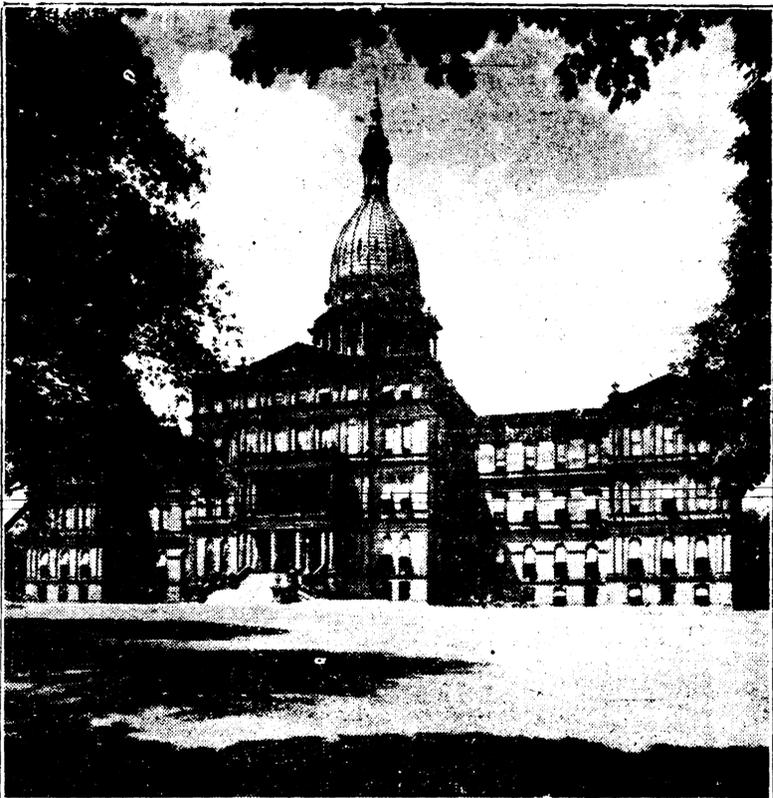

George A. Sigler Putnam's township treasurer, is 30 years of age; was married to Miss Nennie E. Eykes, Jan. 1, 1874, and Oct. 23, 1880 she died. He married again Feb. 3, 1882 to Laura Darrow, by whom he has one child, a boy, born Oct. 27, 1884. His farm of 200 acres lies south of the Jacksons' and was settled upon by his grandfather in 1833, the first township meeting of Putnam being held at this place May 2, 1836. At the death of his grand-father the property reverted to George's father, Jacob Sigler, Jr., who died in March, 1882, after which it passed into the present owner's hands. Geo. is a good farmer, if he is a "jack at all trades." Mrs. Jacob Sigler also lives upon the place.

Alfred Monks aged 33 years, was married Nov. 8, 1880 to Miss Bid Shannon, of this township. They have one child, a girl. Alfred is a son of Capt. Monks one of the first settlers in these parts and owns 107 1/2 acres of land about half a mile south of the village which originally belonged to the old Monks homestead.

John W. Harris was born early on a bright July morning 48 years ago upon the splendid 320-acre farm which he now owns and manages to the enjoyment of himself and family and to the benefit of his pocket-book. 200 acres of this is under fine cultivation. His father purchased the land of the Government in 1831 and moved upon it the following year. His parents have both passed away; two sisters live in the state and a brother in Louisiana. John was married to Miss Agnes Morgan, of Unadilla, Nov. 19, 1867, and has since lived upon the farm where he was born and raised. They have two children—both boys—Henry Casper and James Morgan. Some of the best blooded stock of this section belongs to Mr. Harris. He has some fine Holstein and Jersey cattle—both registered—and registered merino sheep of the best quality. Also some young horses that are beauties—three by Pasacas and two by Old Napoleon.

Joseph Furguson is 83 years of age, a former resident of N. Y. where he was married in 1832, his wife living only 11 years. June 16, 1844 he was again married to Miss Emilina Foster. He removed to Michigan in 1861, living for two years in Dexter township, when they moved to the farm they now occupy adjoining Mr. Harris. Mr. and Mrs. Furguson were the parents of 14 children, 8 of whom are living. Wm. M. Furguson, aged 24 years, born in N. Y., unmarried, lives with his parents and works the 4 1/2 acres which they jointly own.

Henry W. Harris is the owner of 80 acres about one and one-half miles due south of Pinckney, which place he purchased 7 years ago. He was born 33 years ago in N. Y. and came to this town-

HAVE YOU SEEN THE SIGHTS IN Michigan?

TO MANY PEOPLE, the ideal vacation is one devoted to sightseeing. In order to enjoy themselves fully, such vacationists require three things: Sights worth seeing; something to travel in; and good roads to get there.

Very few parts of the Union offer as much in these respects as the State of Michigan. Here are many spots well worth visiting—historic buildings and grounds, interesting cities, and open country of unsurpassed scenic beauty. The journey itself becomes a separate pleasure, a real addition to the joys of vacation. Splendid highways, fine lake liners, trains, buses, planes—all these means of transportation, comfortable and economical, stand at the service of those who are planning to see the sights.

Have you considered Michigan for your own sightseeing? Have you told your out-of-State friends of the exceptional advantages here? If so, you have done them a favor—and promoted good will for the Wolverine State.

As our part in such promotion, this series of advertisements is being published throughout the State of Michigan by an organization that can prosper only as the other citizens of Michigan prosper.

Danger of tripping over dark basement steps with possibility of receiving injuries can be greatly eliminated by painting the bottom step white, according to home economic extension workers at Michigan State College, East Lansing. Stairways are often a hazard in the home, they say, and painting the bottom step white makes it easier to see.

The last word in convenience . . . "AUTOMATIC ELECTRIC HOT WATER!"

Electricity has provided so many comforts and conveniences for the home that it is not surprising to discover one more, the newest contribution to better living—automatic ELECTRIC hot water. Here is one of the finest services that electricity can bring to your household . . . and it is the last word in hot water convenience.

This new service is completely automatic: It requires no attention whatever. Whenever you need hot water, simply turn the faucet—and there is your hot water on tap. This carefree service frees you forever from such bothersome details as running up and down stairs to light a manually operated heater, the annoyance of "tank patting" and waiting for water to get hot, the inconvenience and delay caused by having only lukewarm water in the pipes.

You will find a plentiful supply of hot water a great comfort in your home . . . for bath and shower, for shaving and washing, for cooking, cleaning, laundering, dishwashing and countless other daily tasks. You can make housework easier and pleasanter with the liberal use of hot water. Once you have enjoyed the convenience of this automatic hot water service, you will wonder how you ever did without it. It was little only in comparison; it had a great garden, gay in summer with phlox, sweet William, larkspur and Canterbury bells. It had intimate, cheery fireplaces, and next the sunny rooms which had been Agnes and Bee's, had been Papa's and Mama's room wherein had been their big bed.
Agnes thought of that house as having been always happy; and she could remember when she was a child, and would run into Papa's and Mama's room in the morning in her white flannel "teddy" with "feet," and Papa would pick her up and kiss her and then bounce her down between Mama and him in the big bed.
Father must have been making plenty of money then. Of course he had much more now, very much more. Millions, Agnes realized; yet the money had not greatly altered the pattern of her dreams, which had been shaped to satisfaction in the little house; nor had it greatly changed the actual course she pursued. She had left Country Day school for a very expensive girls' school in Connecticut when she was fifteen; and that might not have happened from the little house; but soon she went on to Smith college, as always she had planned; and had been graduated last June. The summer abroad; and now she was at home, which meant, when she was in the house, that she was with her mother, mostly; and when she was out, she was with Bee, who had married four years ago and had two babies; or she was hurrying about, being busy with Junior League errands; and she was waiting for the man she was to marry.
Agnes did not pretend anything else with herself. To be happy, a girl must blind herself in utter intimacy with a man; she must be a wife; Agnes wanted to be a wife and have babies, like Bee's dear adorable little boys. But she did not want a husband like Bee's, though Bee argued she was happy. Agnes knew that A. L. Nelson was a good man; she showed it—

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. Jennie Kingsley wishes to thank all her friends who so kindly remembered her during her illness. Also Wrights Corners Sunday school and the King's Daughters of Pinckney.

The two men involved in an accident in Pinckney, Saturday, were both fined small amounts.

The last word in convenience . . . AUTOMATIC ELECTRIC HOT WATER!

Electricity has provided so many comforts and conveniences for the home that it is not surprising to discover one more, the newest contribution to better living—automatic ELECTRIC hot water. Here is one of the finest services that electricity can bring to your household . . . and it is the last word in hot water convenience.

This new service is completely automatic: It requires no attention whatever. Whenever you need hot water, simply turn the faucet—and there is your hot water on tap. This carefree service frees you forever from such bothersome details as running up and down stairs to light a manually operated heater, the annoyance of "tank patting" and waiting for water to get hot, the inconvenience and delay caused by having only lukewarm water in the pipes.

You will find a plentiful supply of hot water a great comfort in your home . . . for bath and shower, for shaving and washing, for cooking, cleaning, laundering, dishwashing and countless other daily tasks. You can make housework easier and pleasanter with the liberal use of hot water. Once you have enjoyed the convenience of this automatic hot water service, you will wonder how you ever did without it. COMMUNICATION

Sioux City, May 23, 1933.

Mr. P. W. Curlett:
I thought as we are here today and taking a couple of days rest, that I would give you some of the delights of our trip so far.

We have had fine weather, lots of wind and dry until about 30 miles south of S. C., when we ran into real rain. They are getting lots of rain here. It has rained every day for 10 days. Will send on postcard clipping of the storm yesterday. Rained very hard in night also.

The trip through Indiana was fine. Peach trees and grape vines in Indiana are nearly all dead. Crops are good. The roads are good in Illinois but are very crooked; some detours. Corn is up to as high as 6 inches and some is just being planted. Wheat is fine and lots of it. Cross river into Mo., and the crops are fine. There you will see no end to the amount of tractors and six-horse or mule teams. Lots of wheat and clover which is partly in bloom. Wheat is nearly all headed out. Lots of strawberries, which they are picking now. Now we cross over into Kansas. There you will see wheat fields, both large and many. Some detours here. Enter Nebraska. Wheat is good and lots of it. Corn is not quite so far ahead. Some still being planted. Clover and alfalfa are a very good crop with lots of cattle on dry feed. Hogs galore.

All are fine here, now. Will leave for west Monday.

John Dinkel.

Plainfield

Mrs. Frankie Baker of Gregory is caring for Aunt Maggie Greines. Mr. and Mrs. Heil Grubaugh of Howell attended church and called here Sunday.

The mothers and friends of Plainfield school surprised the teacher and pupils Thursday. The pupils and some of the grownups enjoyed a game of ball, after which all were seated in the schoolhouse and enjoyed light refreshments of cake and lemonade which everyone liked.

Mrs. Minnie L. Adams, Maccabee Field Commissioner of Lansing, was an over-night guest Tuesday of Mrs. A. L. Dutton and both attended the County Convention at Fowlerville on Wednesday. Mr. Baker, chairman of the Maccabee Building Commission of Detroit, Deputy Commissioner of Ann Arbor, were present. A good crowd attended and a lovely dinner served, besides the afternoon entertainment.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Dutton called Saturday on Rev. and Mrs. Swadling at the parsonage.

Mrs. A. Dutton called on Mrs. Fred Hoffmeyer at Rowe Memorial Hospital last Tuesday.

Mrs. Fred Hoffmeyer came home Thursday and Rev. and Mrs. Swadling called Friday and found Mrs. Hoffmeyer much better.

Mr. Carl Topping of Midland and Mr. Norman Topping and family were Sunday guests of Mrs. Jessie Topping and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Dyer and Vivian were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Roberts.

Mr. and Mrs. John Roberts and Mrs. H. A. Wasson attended a eulogistic funeral, Mr. Burr Foster, who died very suddenly, Saturday at Lansing.

Mrs. Roy Gladstone and baby spent one day last week with her sister, Mrs. Albert Vogel at Lansing.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Marshal of Uxcella attended Sunday school and church Sunday, and were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Heine.

Dr. Braley and two daughters of Highland Park were Sunday guests of Mrs. E. N. Braley, Mrs. Braley's mother being very low prevented her coming also.

REGULAR COMMUNICATION

Regular communication of Livingston Lodge No. 76, F. & A. M. will be held on Tuesday evening, June 2. There will be work in the FC Degree with the Senior Warden and Past Master John Martin putting it on. Reports of the grand lodge convention will be read. Refreshments to be served following degree work. Let's have a good turnout on this occasion.

CONSERVATION DEPT. NOTES

Michigan has 12 state forests containing a total of approximately 950,000 acres of land.

The lake herring and the cisco are members of the whitefish family. The former, which is not a true herring at all, is perhaps the commonest representative of the whitefish group in Michigan waters.

Predatory animals of Michigan are actually helping the state to manage its game, and to rear pheasants and fight forest fires. Nearly 500 predator pelts, acquired by Conservation authorities under the bounty system, were sold at an auction here for more than $1,000. The receipts of this sale, which is the second held this year, will go into the game protection fund.

The pike-perch is commonly referred to by commercial fishermen as the "yellow pickerel" or merely "yellows," but to the sport angler it is the "wall-eye" or "wall-eyed pike."

A license to take or sell frogs during the open season on frogs is not required in Michigan.

A four-page circular, "Planting of Food Catches for Wildlife," has been published by the Department of Conservation and a limited supply made available for free distribution. The circular contains data on planting types of seeds and shrubs to be used and instructions for preparing the soil and seed bed.

Farmers in southern Michigan were among the first to "mine" iron ore. Bog iron-ore, an inferior quality mineral formed by water deposits in bogs, was used by small foundries in the early days of Michigan as a source of cheap iron for local needs.

The Oden state fish hatchery northeast of Petoskey is unique among the fish hatcheries of Michigan in that its water supply is derived entirely from artesian wells.

Hartwick Pines State Park in Crawford county northeast of Grayling is the largest state park in Michigan having a total area of more than 12,000 acres.

CONSERVATION DEPT. EXAMS

The new eligibility plan, whereby future Conservation Officers, Fire Wardens and Towermen will be selected in Michigan, is to go into effect with the first of a series of competitive examinations for all applicants here June 2 to 5, inclusive.

This examination is to accommodate all applicants south of and including Huron, Tuscola, Genesee, Shiawassee, Clinton, Ionia, Kent and Ottawa counties. There is nothing, however, to prohibit applicants from other parts of the state from taking this examination. The deadline for the filing of formal applications at the Lansing office was May 20.

All applicants for positions of Conservation Officer, Fire Warden and Towerman in the lower peninsula north of these counties may take the examination at Roscommon June 2 to 26, inclusive. The formal applications for this examination must be on file at the Lansing office not later than June 10.

All applicants for the positions in the upper peninsula must file before July 10 for the examination to be held at Marquette from July 20 to 24, inclusive.

Formal applications may be obtained from each of the District Conservation offices and the applicant must indicate on the form whether he wishes to take the examination.

Those who take the examination will be rated on the basis of their written and oral examinations and the men with approved ratings will go on the eligibility list from which appointees will be selected, as needed, to fill vacancies.

JUNIOR CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINER EXAMINATION

The United States Civil Service Commission has announced that applications will be received until June 10, 1936, for the position of Junior Civil Service Examiner. The entrance salary is $1,620 a year, less a retirement deduction of 3 1/2 percent.

Applicants must have been graduated from a 4-year course at a college or university of recognized standing with the completion of at least 118 semester hours, except that applications will be accepted from senior students under certain specified conditions.

The examination will consist of a mental test and of a general test. Full information may be obtained from the Secretary of the United States Civil Service Board of Examiners at the post office or customhouse in any city which has a post office of the first or second class, or from the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C.

MICH. STATE COLLEGE SHORTS

Last chance of the year to prevent increased damage in 1936 from the corn borer is found in the warning that all corn refuse must be plowed under or burned up within the next seven days to prevent moths hatching. This is the advice of C. B. Dibble, extension worker in insect control at Michigan State College, East Lansing. Corn borer moths have already hatched at the college laboratory and will soon hatch outdoors. After the moths have emerged from the cocoons, nothing can be done to prevent damage, Mr. Dibble declares.

A bulletin that will be of interest to landscape gardeners and to students of Michigan nature has been published by the extension division of Michigan State College, East Lansing. Entitled, "Ornamental Trees," it contains descriptions and illustrations of trees which thrive in Michigan and are admirable for ornamental purposes. It can be obtained by writing the Bulletin office for extension bulletin No. 160.

STICKERS USED ON ONE-THIRD OF CARS

Though the sale of automobile half year permits or "stickers" had on May 15, exceeded the entire sticker sale for 1935, the percentage of all motor vehicles equipped with stickers continued the same—slightly more than 82 per cent of the total registration.

On May 15, 1935, stickers sold totaled 881,992, with total plate sales recorded at 798,781, making a total registration of 1,180,723 motor vehicles. On August 1, 1935, deadline for use of stickers, 414,300 had been sold. Plate sales in 1935 totaled 1,349,951, the total 1935 motor vehicle registration.

On May 15, last, 426,386 stickers had been sold along with 899,553 plates, making a total registration, on that date, of 1,225,939 motor vehicles on the streets and highways of Michigan. Several variable factors prevent an estimate of the probable ultimate increase in registration for 1936, over 1935.

The increase of 145,216 in total registration on May 15, 1936, over the same date last year, was composed of an increase of 100,822 in plate sales, and an increase of 44,394 in sticker sales.

Of interest is the fact that sales of both stickers and plates, and consequently total registration, last May 15 as compared with the same date in 1935, show almost uniform increases of about 12 per cent. In both years, the percentage of total registration of motor vehicles equipped with stickers, was almost identical, or slightly more than 82 percent indicating a sustained demand for the half-year permits.

WHY PAIN NEVER BECOMES QUITE UNBEARABLE

An article in The American Weekly, with next Sunday's issue of The Detroit Times will disclose the findings of a distinguished English doctor which suggest that pain may even become a pleasure when the agony grows too great.

Mrs. Alma Harris of Detroit is spending the week at her farm near Pinckney.

ORDER APPOINTING TIME FOR HEARING CLAIMS STATE OF MICHIGAN, The Probate Court for the County of Livingston.

At a session of said Court, held at the Probate Office in the City of Howell in the said County, on the 21st day of May, A. D. 1936.

Present, Hon. Willis L. Lyons, Judge of Probate.

In the Matter of the Estate of Mary Whited, Deceased.

It appearing to the court that the time for presentation of claims against said estate should be limited, and that a time and place be appointed to receive, examine and adjust all claims and demands against said deceased and before said court:

It is Ordered, That creditors of said deceased are required to present their claims to said court at said Probate Office on or before the 28th day of September, A. D. 1936, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, said time and place being hereby appointed for the examination and adjustment of all claims and demands against said deceased.

It is Further Ordered, That public notice thereof be given by publication of a copy of this order for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing, in the Pinckney Dispatch, a newspaper printed and circulated in said county.

Willis L. Lyons, Judge of Probate.

CHAPTER I

Jeb wrote his name, Judson E. Braddon, with a flourish, on the last of the checks before him; and he flung his fountain-pen accurately into its bell-shaped holder. He liked to hit it like that, after signing checks for four hundred thousand. And it was his money, or funds under his control. His name, written by himself, converted these green slips of paper into cash. Sometimes, sitting here, he had signed for more than half a million; once for a million. And he could sit back and spear that holder with his pen so that it stuck in, two out of three tries. That was showing your nerves were in shape; that was staying twenty-eight and beating business at the same time.

Miss Gilbert came in to gather up the checks. "Who's waiting?" Jeb asked. "Mr. Saunders about Insull Utilities; Mr. Hazen . . . And have you forgotten your brother, Mr. Braddon?" Jeb laughed. "Good Lord, I did! Is he still out there? Shoot him in first." Left alone, Jeb swung about slowly in the winter sunlight and gazed out his windows over the city. All Chicago, except a rival pinnacle or two, lay below him; for the offices of J. E. Braddon and Company claimed two floors high in one of the tallest towers. Roofs white with last night's new snow reached away, square after square.

Hidden under those roofs, and in the deep runs of the streets between, were three millions of people. The conflict of their lives, in its innumerable forms, set beating this tense, eager impulse that you felt here in Chicago.

Crude and cultured; pagan and Puritanic; savage and overcivilized; incredibly cruel and extravagantly, absurdly maudlin in many of its mercies. A city, like all the nation, superseded for making money, it put millions into many hands that never before had fingered either wealth or privilege.

Judson Elliot Braddon's were far from the least familiar with these. He had much more behind him than most of these young men of destiny of 1929; and the place he won for himself in this city had surpassed theirs.

How important it was, his splendid impressive offices declared; and at the sound of the door, Jeb swung back, giving a glance around his big room. It had not ceased pleasantly to impress him. It never impressed his brother. No display of Jeb's swift success ever aroused Rodney. He did not envy or disdain it; he simply seemed not to be affected by it. Rod always had been that sort, utterly different. Jeb could not remember that Rod ever had expressed a desire to make money; neither as boy nor man. Some day, both boys had known, each of them would "come into" forty thousand dollars left in trust by their grandfather.

That day, when he was twenty-one, had come for Rodney eight years ago; and in the bank at Andover reposed the identical forty thousand dollars, in bonds of the city of Andover and the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, which eight years ago had been formally delivered to Rodney Braddon.

The day, for Judson, had arrived seven years ago; and the forty thousand in bonds had become four millions in stocks and equities; in fact, nearly five—if Jeb sold out at today's prices.

The door opened. "Hello, Rod."

"Hello, Jud." "Jud" was the old familiar nickname when they were boys; but after he went to Yale, Jud had cast it off for the name made from his initials—J. E. B., like "Jeb" Stuart. Rodney had not gone to Yale; he was then at Johns Hopkins, going in for medicine and biology. "Come in!" invited Jeb; and Rod closed the door behind him. "Busy?" asked Rod, absolutely without offense.

"Didn't mean to be, old fellow," said Jeb as the lifetime of affection for this impractical, unselfish brother, so different from himself, flowed over him. "Tell the truth, Rod, I just forgot."

"I just thought I'd look in to see you, since I'm leaving town," said Rodney.

"Leaving Chicago? For how long?" "A full month, anyhow." "Where you going?" "Rochester—Minnesota, Jud, where the Mayos are. They're doing some work in immunity up there that I've got to see."

Actually Rod had been invited to take part in the work, but that was something he would never volunteer, not even to his brother.

"Then you're coming back here, Rod?"

"Probably not. Germany—Leipzig. I think, on the same trail."

"That'll take more than another month."

"Six—or a year, I guess, Jud, once I get in Europe."

"When you leaving?"

"I'm taking the train tonight."

"That means you're practically clearing out tonight—for a year."

"I guess so, Jud."

The two tall brothers gazed at each other in silence. In all their lives, they had never held a hope or a desire which brought them into conflict, until now.

"How much has Agnes Gleneth to do with this?" Jeb inquired.

"Agnes?" repeated Rod in his quiet way. "Agnes is not in it, Jeb."

"But you don't want to go alone. Do you?"

"No, Jud, I don't," answered Rodney honestly.

"Then why don't you make a try for her? For the first time in your life you want something for yourself—you do want her, like the very hell, don't you?"

"Yes," said Rodney. "I do. And you do, too. Don't you?"

"No," denied Jeb. "Not the way you do."

He did want Agnes; as a matter of fact, he was becoming sure he wanted her for his wife; but he was aware that he was capable of no such singleness and devotion as Rodney. For Jeb to live—really live—was to be in love, more or less excitingly, with some girl of the sort you might marry; and until you married, to have "affairs" with women whom you could not "harm," and whom you kept discreetly screened.

In Rod's life there had been nothing of that sort, never. There was a deeper, obstinate decency in Rod, and much sterner restraints. He offered to Agnes Gleneth an almost totally different outlook; and Jeb was realizing this with something like a pang of shame when he said:

"How do you know she'd not rather have you than me—or anybody else?"

"Do you think she might, Jud?"

Jeb jerked about. "They're funny fools, women, Rod," he said. "Sometimes they'd rather throw themselves away than—" He caught himself as he saw his brother's frown. "I don't mean that Agnes marrying you would be throwing herself away, except from your point of view. I'm trying to tell you, Rod, what they do. They won't care a damn about you when you're sure they should; and when they shouldn't, you've got 'em. And you won't know it; you'll be the last to know it, and you've had 'em all the while."

He moved abruptly to his desk and pressed his buzzer. The prompt appearance of Miss Gilbert forestalled any reply from Rodney.

"Get Miss Gleneth on the phone," Jeb said.

In the house twenty miles north along the lake shore, Agnes Gleneth had been informed that Mr. Braddon wished to speak to her.

"You tell her, Rod; or shall I?" Jeb extended the instrument.

"Tell her what?"

"That you're coming out to her on the first train. Quick! I can hear her near the phone. You're going to tell her—or I will!"

Rod, with a sudden violence that amazed Jud, snatched the telephone, and in a moment he was speaking to Agnes.

Agnes was nearly twenty-three, and she would have said upon that winter afternoon, when snowflakes were beginning to blow from the north even before the clouds floated under the sun, that nothing in the least extraordinary had ever happened to her. She had been born in an attractive, pleasant house only half a mile away from this huge handsome country mansion, on the lake shore, which for the last eleven years—almost half of Agnes' life—had been home.

Beatrice, her sister who was two years older, also had been born in that same smaller house; for there her father had brought her mother as a bride. Such was the phrase by which her mother always described that house: "When I was a bride, Bob brought me here to that little house on Easter Lane."

It was little only in comparison; it had a great garden, gay in summer with phlox, sweet William, larkspur and Canterbury bells. It had intimate, cheery fireplaces, and next the sunny rooms which had been Agnes' and Bee's, had been Papa's and Mama's room wherein had been their big bed.

Agnes thought of that house as having been always happy; and she could remember when she was a child, and would run into Papa's and Mama's room in the morning in her white flannel "teddy" with "feet," and Papa would pick her up and kiss her and then bounce her down between Mama and him in the big bed.

Father must have been making plenty of money then. Of course he had much more now. Very much more. Millions, Agnes realized; yet the money had not greatly altered the patterns of her dreams, which had been shaped to satisfaction in the little house; nor had it greatly changed the actual course she pursued. She had left Country Day school for a very expensive girls' school in Connecticut when she was fifteen; and that might not have happened from the little house; but soon she went on to Smith college, as—always she had planned; and had been graduated last June. The summer abroad; and now she was at home, which meant, when she was in the house, that she was with her mother, mostly; and when she was out, she was with Bee, who had married four years ago and had two babies; or she was hurrying about, being busy with Junior league errands; and she was waiting for the man she was to marry.

Agnes did not pretend anything else with herself. To be happy, a girl must find herself in utter intimacy with a man; she must be a wife; Agnes wanted to be a wife and have babies. "Like Bee's dear adorable little boys. But she'd not want a husband like Bee's, though Bee argued she was happy. Agnes knew that when you were, you showed it—you didn't debate it."

Such was the challenge of Jeb Braddon, young, ambitious, fantastically successful broker, wooing Agnes Gleneth from his rivals by the impetuous force of his love. Such, too, was the spirit of the mad, seething city of Chicago, just before the crash—a very maelstrom of madness in which cravings for money and power were like dragons, driving men to incalculable ambitions and follies. Against this stirring background is unfolded a gripping story of a young woman reaching for happiness, losing it in the confusing world about her, and at last finding it again.

FROM AROUND MICHIGAN

Lansing — A bill authorizing the Secretary of Agriculture to sell to the University of Notre Dame 5,000 acres in the Gogebic purchase unit in Michigan was introduced in Congress recently. The land would be used for a forestry, conservation, and biological science school.

Lansing—During April, Michigan oil production declined but not sufficiently to spoil a record of 16 consecutive months of more than million-barrel yield. Total production for the month was 1,025,852, a daily average of 34,195 barrels from 1,210 oil wells. The facts are from a report of the Producers' Committee.

Alma—Emory Church, who spent years in Alaska in a fruitless quest for gold in paying quantities claims to have found traces of the metal on his farm near here and he is now planning further explorations to determine whether it would pay to mine it. A gravel pit on the farm, he asserted, yielded any and copper, in addition to the gold.

Lansing—The Federal Government has allotted $1,300,000 to experiment in the construction of highways reinforced with cotton. Michigan has applied for a sufficient number of cotton mats to build 42.2 miles of roads. The cotton fabric laid upon the soft surfaced roads serves to prevent the upward pressure of the road base and the cracking and buckling of the bituminous surfacing.

Monroe—Plans now near completion call for enlargement of the attack on the growing number of automobile accidents to include Oakland and Wayne Counties within the next few weeks. The Monroe Chapter of the American Red Cross will give a course of 15 hours instruction in first aid and the handling of injured persons to garage and filling station attendants at danger points on State highways.

Detroit—In its monthly analysis of business conditions, the National Retail Credit Association reported that Detroit took the leadership in collections made during April. Out of 60 cities surveyed, records showed a marked increase in collections and credit sales for April, 1936, as compared to the same month in 1935. The average increase in collections for all the cities was 5 per cent, with Detroit in the van with a 26.5 increase.

St. Ignace—Mildewed with age, relics of 1812 life in Mackinac County have been taken from the massive corner stone of the old County Courthouse here. The structure is being rebuilt under a $75,000 WPA project. The oldest article found in the recesses of the stone was a silver dollar, dated 1798, which had been placed with other coins in an envelope by W. P. Preston, president of the Village of Mackinac at the time the Courthouse was built.

Ann Arbor—The first step toward what ultimately may be a complete curriculum in police administration will be taken this fall with the Extension Division of the University of Michigan offering three special courses to officers and men in Police work. Criminal law, public speaking and psychology were the three subjects chosen as most useful to officers. The classes will meet once a week for two hours and will continue over a seventeen-week semester.

Grand Rapids—Rob W. Godfrey, 25 years old, of Grand Rapids, is the youngest artist to sell a painting to the Metropolitan Museum of Art. The museum announced that Godfrey's "Portrait of the Artist's Wife" was one of 111 chosen from 5,000 submissions for the academy show in March. Godfrey has been painting for 10 years. He said his wife, Annie, whom he married last September, and who posed for the picture, persuaded him to exhibit the painting.

Ionia—Two transfers of inmates from Jackson Prison and the Detroit House of Correction brought an increase in Michigan Reformatory prisoners for the first time in six months, the reformatory's report for May shows. The increase was only two above the previous month. It leaves the inmate total at 1,191. Prisoners committed from Wayne County increased 18 to make the first place total 379. Kent County continued in second place with 71. Muskegon was third with 68.

Manistee—Old time log loading and rolling contests and exhibitions and a competition to determine the champion lumberjack of Michigan will be among the major entertainment features of the Manistee National Forest Festival, July 2 to 5. The logging contests will be held in Manistee Lake. William F. Girard, of Gladstone, state champion log roller, and his sons, have agreed to enter. Michigan's champion lumberjack will be named after sawing, chopping and peavy pitching contests.

Lansing—Continuing its efforts to terminate pollution of streams in the Saginaw watershed, the Stream Control Commission summoned 47 oil and gas operators to a hearing. Thirty-two are charged with neglecting to control the pollution from the Crystal field into the Pine River and Fish Creek. Fifteen Vernon Field operators are alleged to be discharging harmful substances into the Salt River. The Dow Chemical Co., of Midland, was summoned to answer charges that it was polluting the Tittabawassee River.

Uncommon Sense

Somebody has said that it is not so remarkable that Columbus discovered America as it would have been if he hadn't discovered it. But, though Columbus never dreamed that he had discovered America, or even that there was an America to discover, the credit for his exploit can never be taken away from him.

Today looking out of a window on the coast of Maine I can see dozens of channel buoys without which steamships would find it as difficult to find their way into the harbor as it was for the Genoese explorer to discover San Salvador. Some of these marks are light houses, some of them are red or black spars, some of them are great iron buoys which blow a warning whistle with every lift and fall of the sea.

To maintain this system of warnings, which is found at the entrance of every port on both coasts of America, required not only a great deal of money, but an almost incredible amount of courage on the part of the lighthouse builders, and the men whose business it is to see that the buoys are always in their place, ready to give their warnings.

Neither storm nor cold can turn them from their watchful task.

Let a single buoy go astray, or a single lighthouse fail to "throw its beam across the wave," and every ship entering or leaving port may be in danger.

To build up this almost perfect system has required many years and a great deal of risk. But were the marks not carefully watched and tended, reaching a port either by night or by day would be a perilous business.

There was once a master mariner who when asked how he could know every rock in the entrance to a harbor said: "I don't. But I know where the deep water is."

In our own little voyages to and fro on our way, we are just as well supplied with channel marks as are the ships that move in and out of the ports along the seaboard.

If we heed these marks we pass in safety. If we are even just a little careless disaster is sure to follow. Make it your business to "know where the deep water is," and you will have no trouble.

Disregard the warning that they carry as they rock on the waves, and not even a little port-to-port journey will be safe.

Many rocks and shoals beset every journey from the cradle to the grave. But ours is an old race, and it has accumulated much knowledge acquired from those who have gone before.

Make use of that knowledge if you want to go safely through existence. "Take chances," and hunt out what you fancy may be short cuts, and you need not be surprised if you pile up your little bark on the rocks, or sink her before you reach the port which is the goal of your ambition.

SOFT BALL LEAGUE GAMES

Clark Team Loses Its First Game. Battle's Home Run Wins for Singer.

In the local soft ball league two close contests took place last week. Don Swarthout pitched a one-hit game Monday night but lost to Dillon 2 to 1. Paul Singer, in the box for Dillon, allowed six hits but kept them scattered. Dillon scored both runs in the third inning when Reason and Cone were safe on errors, and scored on Bill Meyer's double. These were the only three men who got on.

Wednesday night Singer pulled a Detroit Tiger finish to win. He went into the seventh trailing Ledwidge, 8 to 9. Ledwidge lost control after two men were out and walked Amburgey and Reason. Haines beat out a hit, bringing up Battle. He parked one over in Dr. Sigler's yard, emptying the bases and ending the game. Home run hitters last week were scarce. Battle getting the only one made.

Banks are necessarily quasi-public servants. For that reason they are examined periodically by both State and Federal agencies. The nature of our business is essentially service.

We are prepared, therefore, with trained employees to offer you service by supplying a depository for commercial funds for present needs, or savings for future needs. We have Safe Deposit Boxes in which your valuable papers may be kept safe from fire. The use of our name and credit for the payment or collection of out-of-town accounts may be secured by purchase of drafts or use of our collection department.

Money to loan at reasonable rates, all deposits up to $5,000.00 insured by our membership in the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

Two Ways to Do It

FIRST—

Sometime sooner or later, a motorist will have trouble with his car—motor trouble. He'll get out his tools, spend maybe 3 or 4 evenings in fixing it, and if the car runs when all the parts are back together—he's a good mechanic.

SECOND—

The BEST way is to bring to—
