Pinckney Team Wins 4th Game

Defeats Ann Arbor at Island Park There Sunday, by a 10 to 3 Score. Haines Pitches Good Ball.

The Pinckney Tri-County League team won their fourth straight game when they defeated the Ann Arbor team at Island Park, Ann Arbor last Sunday, 10 to 3.

Pinckney's regulars were all back after their Decoration Day vacation, and Pinckney presented a strong lineup with Smith, Lamb, Culver and Dilloway composing the infield, and Dinkel, Ferrell and Miller, the outfield. Searles did the catching and handled Haines in fine style. The only thing lacking to make the setting 100 percent was Lefty Reason, who was celebrating a "blessed event."

Ann Arbor strengthened their team by adding the two Busters and the Judson brothers. Pinckney got to Buster in the second inning for five runs which would in itself have proved sufficient. Searles led off with a triple, Culver singled, Ferrell flied out, Dilloway was safe on an error and Haines also tripled; Dinkel singled, Smith forced Dinkel at second and Lamb grounded out. Searles scored in the third, Miller in the fifth Lamb in the seventh, and Dilloway and Dinkel in the eighth. Haines shut out Ann Arbor until the fifth when they got two runs on doubles by Rufus and Buster and a single by Squeak Judson. They got another in the seventh. The rest of the time Haines had them baffled.

NOTES OF THE GAME

Stanley Dinkel's big batting spurt ended in the 4th inning when Buster struck him out. Previously he had singled over second, (his favorite spot) in the second inning. His record was eight hits in eight times up. Unfortunately, one of these games was the Decoration Day contest with Jackson and does not figure in the league averages.

The Pinckney lineup was switched around. Searles caught and Ferrell played centerfield. The latter had a good day out there, snagging five flies.

Pinckney was lucky that they bunched hits on Buster in the second inning. Searles and Haines' three-baggers and Dinkel's single wrecked the Ann Arbor team.

The two Judsons and the two Busters play on the Moose team and were supposed to strengthen the team. However, outside of C. Buster, they couldn't touch Haines.

Haines pitched a typical Haines game. He took it easy most of the time, only being down when necessary. Only one batter was struck out by him.

The Pinckney outfield had a busy day, catching 11 flies. The Ann Arbor batters invariably hit under Haines' curves.

Pinckney plays Saline here and that team should be all set to give Pinckney a stiff argument. It took Hamburg 11 innings to trim them 10 to 11 last Sunday.

ACCEPTS POSITION IN PITTSBURG

Russell Read, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Read of Pinckney, who graduates from the University of Michigan this month, has accepted a position with the Westinghouse Electrical Co. at Pittsburg, Penn., and starts his duties there July 15. Russell ranked high in scholarship while at the University and was business manager of the Michigan Daily, the University publication.

This position is only awarded to Class "A" students. We congratulate Russell on his success.

Philathea Notes

The June Sunday school offering for Missions last Sunday was very gratifying. The Barncas were a dime ahead of the Philatheas. Also our teacher was absent, being busy with Children's Day rehearsals. Mrs. Zuse is a faithful and capable leader of the Philatheas, and greatly missed when not in class. Our members will make special effort to be on hand during these summer months, and all newcomers in the community are invited to join our group as often as possible.

We are not meeting for business and the social hour this month unless later notified, the June committee taking August instead.

The next Sunday's lesson is, "Jesus Crucified." Luke 23: 33-46. "It took the best of Heaven to save the worst of earth."

Justice Court News

Local Case Involving Hauling Costs Is Settled Out of Court.

The case of Clifford Haines versus Bruce Euler was tried in the court of Justice N. O. Frye, Monday morning. It was held in the town hall, and Hiram Smith of Howell represented Euler. Haines acted as his own attorney.

The case involved work done by Haines when Euler, remodeled his tavern and grocery store at Lakeland and landscaped the grounds. Haines drew some 55 loads of black muck for the grounds and some gravel. The muck was obtained from Orval Amburgey, who lives south of Pinckney on what is known as the Peter Kelly farm. The total amount due Haines was a little over one hundred dollars. Haines had traded out about $17.00 with Euler while doing the work. Euler gave him a check for $47.00 and a note on Orval Amburgey for $38.00. This note had Abel Haines and Lyle Cone, as signers. Haines had previously agreed to accept the note with the understanding that it could be cashed at the bank. This he claimed, he was unable to do and he asked Euler to take the note back and pay cash instead. The latter refused and the suit resulted. No jury was called. The witnesses were Mr. Haines, Andrew Singer, who works with him, and Mr. Euler. Justice Frye gave Haines a judgement for the amount of the note and $7.10 additional for gravel drawn. The costs were also assessed to Euler. They amounted to about $7.00. Mr. Euler at once offered bond for appealing the case to the circuit court.

Orval Amburgey was called, and stated that he had $25.00 coming for the black muck sold to Haines. Also that he expected to pay the note when due. A conference was called of the interested parties. Haines agreed to accept the note and give Amburgey credit for the $25.00. Amburgey agreed to pay the additional $13.00 in two weeks. In case he did not, Euler agreed to pay it. The costs were split 50-50.

P. H. S. ALUMNI ATTENTION!

Invitations will be sent out this week for the annual gathering. Supper will be served by the O. E. S., after which a short program will be given in the Community Hall, followed by a dance at which a five-piece orchestra, led by Ed. Maar, with Virginia Mutter as first violinist, will play.

Plan to come.

SCHOOL PROPOSITION CARRIES AGAIN

At the special election held at the Pinckney school last Friday night, both propositions carried again for the fourth consecutive time. One provided for bonding the district for $25,000 for a period of twenty-five years. The other increased the 15 mill tax limitation 4 mills higher for a period of five years.

There were only 26 votes cast, all of which favored the proposition.

IRA COOK

Ira Cook, a former resident of Pinckney, died at his home in Brighton, Friday. He had been ill for some time and recently returned to Brighton from the University Hospital.

Surviving are his wife and one granddaughter, Mrs. Virginia Reiner, of Ann Arbor.

The deceased conducted a barber shop in Pinckney some 50 years ago and was very prominent in the social life here. He was a good singer played a bass viol in the famous Larue orchestra, composed of Chas. Larue, Wm. Hoff and Nelson Potter. While here he joined the Masonic lodge. When he moved to Brighton he transferred there. He served as master of the Brighton lodge, and two years ago was given a life membership by them.

His only daughter, Florence, died several years ago. Ira was a hail fellow, well met and an asset to any community.

GARDEN CLUB MEETS AT WOODWORTH HOME

About 50 members of the Livingston County Garden Club met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Woodworth, Friday evening.

The Woodworth home is a beautiful place, being located on a high wooded bluff, surrounded by gardens, waterfalls and pools in a natural setting.

The program was held in the living room of the log residence and consisted of trumpet solos by James Hoff, and a talk by Miss Sarah Cooper, county president.

An invitation was received to meet with the Battle Creek Club on June 14. It was decided to send an exhibit to the Detroit Dahlia Show in September. Several new members were received, and on motion of Mrs. Harold Crandall, it was voted to make application to the Davy Tree Surgery Co., for a showing of their films, Albert Springstein, Detroit florist, gave a demonstration of flower arrangements. Ice cream and cake was served by the hostess and her daughters.

TIPLADY FARM SOLD

The old Tiplady farm, taken up by Johnson Tiplady nearly 100 years ago, has been sold to the Old Newsboy's Association of Toledo, Ohio for a summer camp. This farm is located on the north side of Big Silver Lake, adjoining the Y. M. C. A. camp and has a large frontage on the lake. Work has started now on building cabins for the boys, who will camp there this summer. This section has many such places. The University of Michigan has a large camp at Patterson Lake for boys which usually runs from July 1 to September 1. The Y. M. C. A. has the one at Silver Lake and the Red Cross girls has a similar one at Red Lake.

Following the death of Johnson Tiplady, the farm was owned by his son, Frank for many years. He died several years ago and the place was placed on the market by his heirs. We understand Norman Reason made the sale.

We are informed by Norman Reason that ten cabins are now in process of construction, and a 45x60 ft. mess hall will be built. The camp will operate approximately two months each year.

NOTICE

The Junior King's Daughters (Blue Bird Group) will meet at the home of June Lamb on June 15 at 8:30 P. M. Pot-luck.

Current Comment

The Ann Arbor City Council may have started something when they passed an ordinance to license baffle boards and other amusement devices, last week. The ordinance provided that these machines must be licensed. The license fees are $50 for the first baffleboard and $10 for each additional one. As these gaming machines are numerous and some places have as many as 25, this will put considerable cash into the city treasury. Why back as far as the memory of man runs, there has been some kind of gaming machines. Years ago they were called nickle machines; later as dime and 25 cent machines were manufactured, they were called slot machines, as in all of them the money was dropped into them by means of a slot. They were invariably in disrepute and at times the officers of the law gathered them in and smashed them up with sledge hammers. These cleanups were too sporadic to have any effect, and they continued to flourish. Following Gov. Fitzgerald's much-blaunted cleanup, the machines were re-ordered and christened "baffle boards." They were supposed to give the customer an even break for his money. In most places they were allowed to operate unmolested. Ann Arbor's idea seems to be the proper solution. So far it has been impossible to keep them out of operation, so why not make them pay their share of governmental expenses.

Through Ronald Hibbard, the little town of Byron is receiving much favorable notice. Hibbard graduated from there, starting in baseball, football and basketball, while attending high school. He competed against Pinckney several times. Through the recommendation of Coach Paul Bennett of Howell, he was given a scholarship at Western State Normal College, Kalamazoo. He played on the baseball team there three years. Last year he was picked as the best college player in Michigan and was a member of a team which toured Japan. This year he was the only baseball player picked in Michigan to represent this state at the Olympic games at Berlin, Germany. No money is appropriated for baseball, and the money must be raised. 3,500 Kalamazoo fans turned out last week at a Hibbard Day game and Byron held a Hibbard Day last Friday to raise money. All these small town athletes need, apparently, is a chance to make good.

The Black Legion investigation in this state still seems to hold the first page. Charges and counter-charges continue to be bandied about, and at the present rate it will take ten years to investigate them all. On the floor of congress last week it was stated that the Michigan investigation would get nowhere, as prominent politicians were involved. The National Guard of this state was also brought into it when it was claimed that the Legion used National Guard horses and were drilled by a National Guard officer. This man, a former Monroe physician denies the charge. At the meeting at Pontiac last week a list of the Legion members were read which included many prominent people.

We have often wondered why more attention was not paid to the muck lands of this section. The principal crops raised on them are onions and celery, and of late the onion crop is rapidly increasing in Michigan. Many farmers from Ohio bought muck farms last year in Ingham and Jackson counties, and this was the cause of the increased onion crop.

Car lot shipments by counties were as follows: Allegan, 954; Arenac, 10; Barry, 19; Bay, 2; Branch, 13; Calhoun, 585; Clinton, 39; Eaton, 113; Gratiot, 3; Hillsdale, 161; Huron, 4; Ingham, 140; Ionia, 161; Jackson, 327; Kalamazoo, 3; Kent, 62; Lapeer, 3; Lenawee, 25; Livingston, 6; Montcalm, 36; Monroe, 9; Muskegon, 49; Newaygo, 660; Ottawa, 40; Saginaw, 1; St. Joseph, 2; VanBuren, 23; Washtenaw, 19.

There was such a heavy crop of corn last year that many farmers had more corn fodder than they could use. This laid out in the fields all winter, was burned this spring so the land could be used for other crops. This seems a crime, especially as several farmers were arrested for storing their stock on complaint of the Humane Society. Why some of the fodder which was burned, could not have been utilized, is a problem.

For stealing slot machines from a beer garden, according to the Jackson Citizen Press, Ted Danielwicz, Ora Smith and Walter Slaby were given prison sentences by Judge Williams last Thursday. Danielwicz 3 to 15 years, Slaby 2 to 15 years and Slaby, 1 to 15 years. We wonder if the effect of this sentence will be to legalize slot machines. In many cases, slot machine hi-jackers have been freed on the grounds that machines are illegal, and according to the law, have no legal rights.

OPENING IS POSTPONED

On account of the vast amount of work involved, the opening of new drug store has been postponed a week by C. H. Kennedy. The opening is now set for 20. Watch next week's paper for announcements.

Rural Housewives of World in Convention

RURAL housewives from many countries began their third triennial conference in Washington with Mrs. Alfred Watt of Canada presiding. Their first meeting was held in 1930 in Vienna, and the second in Stockholm three years later. Secretaries Hull and Wallace and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the President, extended greetings to the visitors, but beyond that there were no set speeches and little formality. Instead, the farm wives held "exchange of experience" sessions, viewed elaborate exhibits of rural needlework and crafts of organized countrywomen of the participating nations, and attended "open houses" held by all branches of the federal government in which countrywomen are particularly interested. In exchanging experiences the women learned, among other things, that:

English groups have stimulated a remunerative revival of quilting to supplement the family income. Australian countrywomen maintain seaside homes for convalescents. Canada's Federated Women's Institute promotes clubs for rural youth and combats maternal and infant mortality. By conducting evening classes for young girls Danish countrywomen have helped to check their migration to town to seek factory work. The East Africa Women's League visits native women in prisons and hospitals and provides information to prospective white settlers.

Huge Deficiency Bill Passed by Senate

THE senate by a vote of 62 to 14 passed the deficiency bill carrying $2,375,000,000, of which $1,425,000,000 is handed to the President to spend as he pleases for "relief and work relief." As passed by the house, the measure turned the entire amount of relief money over to WPA Administrator Harry Hopkins. Three Democratic senators voted against the bill—Tydings of Maryland, Bulkeley of Ohio and Byrd of Virginia. By a senate amendment, the bill authorizes the President to order a re-study of reports on the $200,000,000 Florida ship canal and allocate another $10,000,000 to carry on work upon it during the coming fiscal year. Efforts to do anything for the Pasmaguddy tidal project in Maine had proved unavailing.

New York's Wage Law Is Held Invalid

NEW YORK state's law providing minimum wages for women and minors was declared unconstitutional by the United States Supreme court on the ground that it conflicts with the fourteenth amendment by violating freedom of contract. The decision, written by Justice Butler, was concurred in by Justices Van Devanter, McReynolds, Sutherland and Roberts. Chief Justice Hughes and Justices Stone, Brandeis and Cardozo dissented. A number of other states have statutes similar to the one thus held invalid.

Zioncheck Nabbed for Test of His Sanity

MARION ZIONCHECK, the peculiar representative from Seattle, Wash., could all his previous performances in one day of wild deeds and landed in the Washington municipal hospital where his sanity was to be tested. He had made two attempts to see the President, saying he wanted to ask for machine guns and tanks to blow up a hotel where he suspected his bride was hiding, sought a warrant for the arrest of Vice President Garner on the belief that he knew where Mrs. Zioncheck was concealed, and in various other ways persecuted the authorities that his mental condition should be investigated.

Civil War in A. F. of L. Expected Soon

NINE of the richest unions in the American Federation of Labor, having more than a million members, probably will be suspended soon by the federation's executive council, and at the next convention they will be expelled if the council can command the necessary two-thirds majority. This will come to a crisis in the inter-union contest between the craft unions led by President William Green and the industrial unions led by John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers. Green wants "a multitude of organized industry by skilled groups while Lewis would seek to unite all workers, skilled and unskilled, by industry into one big union. The craft unions, it was learned, intend to suspend the charters of the industrial unions at the July executive council session, a power granted the council under the A. F. of L. constitution. Lewis' group of unions includes 400,000 miners, Sidney Hillman's Amalgamated Clothing Workers, David Dubinsky's International Ladies' Garment union, the oil workers, typographers, flat glass workers, hat, cap, and millinery workers, mine, mill, and smelter workers, and textile workers.

Liner Queen Mary Falls to Equal the Record

BRITAIN'S magnificent new liner Queen Mary was given an uproarious welcome at New York as she completed the first leg of her maiden transatlantic passage. The giant steamship behaved well in every way but fell short by 42 minutes of equaling the record set a year ago by the French liner Normandie. The Queen Mary's officers offered no apology for this, but it was public knowledge that her speed had been cut down by a fog of the American coast. The Queen Mary averaged 29.13 knots on a measured course of 3,158 nautical miles, between Cherbourg breakwater and Ambrose light, completing the journey between those two points in 4 days 12 hours 24 minutes.

Business Men Oppose New Guffey Coal Bill

BOTH the United States Chamber of Commerce and the National Association of Manufacturers are firmly opposed to the new Guffey-Vinson coal control bill designed to replace the act declared invalid by the United States Supreme court.

Harper Sibley, president of the chamber, and James A. Emery, general counsel for the manufacturers' association, recalled, in almost identical language, that the most widely discredited phase of the defunct NRA was price fixing through codes. The new Guffey-Vinson bill, they said, like the old bill, is designed to establish price fixing by levying a prohibitory tax on products of mines which do not submit to its provisions. "It is time," Mr. Emery said, "that we began to analyze these stop-gap, drafted hurriedly in an attempt to make permanent law of the things that are beyond control of congress and of the federal government; things which must, in the end, be harmful to the nation as a whole. Those who object to the new Guffey-Vinson bill did not even have an opportunity to present their valid reasons for objecting."

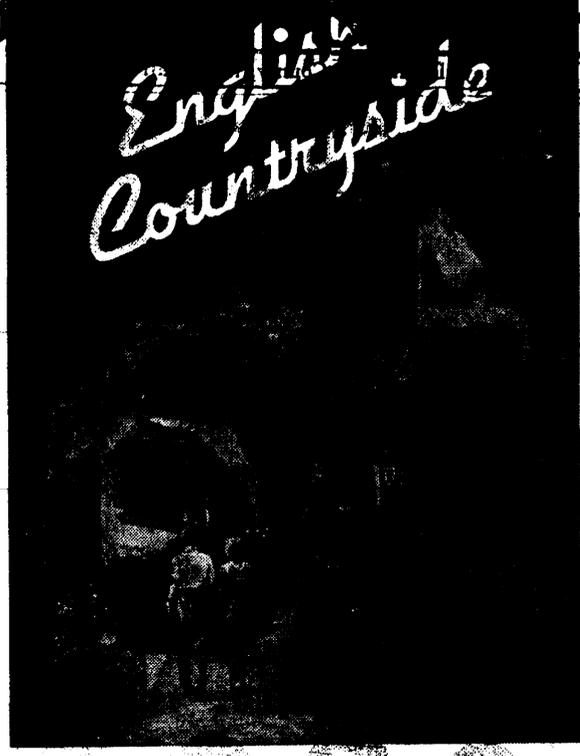

Pope, on His Birthday, Denounces Communism

CATHOLICS the world over celebrated the seventy-ninth birthday of Pope Pius XI, and the pontiff himself marked the day by attending a solemn mass in St. Peter's in the presence of 40,000 pilgrims who went to Rome especially for the occasion. These were mainly members of the Catholic Action organization which Pius XI founded, and to them he spoke for nearly an hour. He denounced communism, as he has done on other occasions, and declared the Catholic press was one of the best forces in combating the communists. It was evident to all observers the pope's age is beginning to tell on him and that he found the long ceremony very much of a strain. That the pope's health is causing some concern also in Vatican circles was shown by the fact that the plans that were originally made for the pope to bless the crowd gathered to St. Peter's square from the outer balcony of the Basilica were abandoned at the last minute.

Japanese Find Excuse for Action in China

THERE was every reason to believe that Japan had found, or manufactured, excuses for further encroachments in northern China, and that serious conflict between the two nations would ensue unless China were submissive. The Japanese alleged that a bridge on the railway line between Tientsin and Tientsin was destroyed and that there was an attempt to wreck a troop train. The highest Japanese officers in North China were summoned to a conference in Tientsin. Yachihiro Sams, Japanese consul general in Nanking, declared publicly that China must choose either "mutual independence with Japan or war with Japan," and he said he had informed Generalissimo Kai-shek, Chinese dictator, of this viewpoint. "Japan has gone too far in retreat now and must advance straight ahead with immutable convictions," Sams said. The Japanese military command, meanwhile, disclosed frankly some of their demands upon China. These included:

- 1. Privileges of building railroads, military and civilian air bases and army barracks.
- 2. Establishment of regular air service between China and Japan.
- 3. An economic, political and military position for Japan in China.

At the End of an English Sylvan Path

Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNU Service.

IF ANYONE wants to know the English countryside, let him go house hunting. On such a quest he will discover Nature's cozy corners the casuals never find. They are everywhere, but as ingeniously concealed as a bird's nest. There may even be a sign which says, "Dangerous narrow road. Enter at our own risk." But that is just the kind of place to insist upon penetrating.

Enter on foot if you are afraid, but the car can squeeze in. You find yourself in one of those incomparable roads like tunnels of living green. Earth's banks of ivy and wild flowers rise ten feet high to be topped by tall trees sprung from the original hedge planted a hundred years ago. The road keeps you guessing by making such curves that there is no penetrating the secret of what lies ahead.

All at once a gate. Within, a bit of woodland, flower-brightened; beyond that, a sunny garden, moidy mossy walls, lattice windows, creepers all about and reaching to the roof tiles, which are toned from dull red to gentle green by two countries of soft rains and sun.

Who would not penetrate the wood to gaze closer—especially when armed with a handful of permits from a real estate firm? You pass through the bit of flowered woodland gay with yellow primrose patches and massed bluebells. But on emerging from the screening trees and seeing the open garden lying in the sun and the house forming a part of it, you gasp and halt.

This is the house of your dreams. A servant appears and explains that the house is to-be-let and is at your service; the lease is for sixty-five years! Exclamation marks rattle about in your head. You stagger away, feeling a kinship with Adam and Eve.

Remember Rental Customs. You select another house which you consider a perfect gem, only to be told that it is not available for "instant possession." The present tenant has the place for four years longer.

These, and other interesting rental customs you may learn in English real-estate offices. Mayfair is full of fascinating real-estate offices, most of them seeming like private homes, with their open fires, Chippendale chairs, and bookcase desks.

"Mr. Upperton and Partners" is the diverting and reticent sign over the door of one of these. Lovely way of expressing it; Upperton, Stoggs, Chair and Jones is outdone by the dignity of "and Partners."

Any of these gentlemen can teach the eager American client new uses of English words and phrases in real-estate jargon, whether or not he offers the ideal ancient house and romantic garden. And it is here that you learn that the rent of unfurnished houses is denoted in pounds sterling, while the furnished house stoutly demands guineas—an extra shilling on each pound.

You also learn that company's water "laid on" merely means that domestic water flows from taps instead of being pumped up from well or cistern. Indeed, one must not visibly shudder to learn that for 200 years houses have been occupied by gentry, modern smart people among them, who have had no running water, no lights except kerosene lamps, no telephones. Incredible! Without the tireless English servant, the English gentry must have died out for lack of comfort. One of the Partners may ask you strange-sounding questions. "Are you prepared to pay guineas?" That is disconcerting. "But I don't want a house that is actually in a state of decay." The Partner patiently explains that any sort of damage or breach must be restored by the tenant's bond bill for dilapidations—usually ten shillings about one dollar, for a flower holder. But it often happens that one must assume the dilapidations of the previous tenant, which may include repairs and decorations of importance. He it is a word to excite suspicion. Best days are not the prosaic first of the month. They come four times a year. They are full of big game—New Year, Midsummer, Michaelmas, Christmas. It makes a romantic pleasure of paying rent.

Hunting a Country House. The hunt for the ideal takes on the aspect of a tour. It is possible to get about by commodious omnibuses. They set you down on the main roads, where local motor cars with drivers can be hired.

Gradually you come to know the districts not too far from London where certain types of the ideal house have sprung from the soil. It is a requisite of the ideal English small house that it should look as if it had pushed itself up from Nature's laboratory of the earth, just as the shrubs, flowers, and trees have done. They are close kin. They all live together in harmony and beauty.

Districts not too far from London contain an entrancing variety of old styles. The house of carved interiors and scrolled gables is a specialty of Kent; the thatched roof hides beside the roads of Hampshire's New Forest; the cottage of light-gray stone makes glad the villages of the Cotswolds; and the Georgian, or rather Eighteenth-century houses, scatter their elegant lines in all parts of the land. Timber and plaster houses tempt one almost everywhere with their Tudor charm.

West of Southampton lies the witching wood of the New Forest, where the leafage piles delicately up and up against the sky, and where the road slips softly into mossy turf of green, sun-spangled. Out in the sunny tangle of open lands the wild forest ponies roam free amid gorse and broom and heather. Farther along, where the road strikes the edge of the wood, stand ideal cottages with thatched roofs. The windows of the second story are veritable eyes which kindly contemplate. The casement of one is thrown back and the rosy face of a girl laughs with pretty boldness.

This is a country of thatch. More cottages watch by the roadside. Some are fine, but are so elegantly kept that only a lover of the picturesque, a potential artist, would be living there.

You come to one of the richest of all districts for those who hunt the ideal house when you arrive at the hills of the Cotswolds. Gradually its little stone houses catch you in the spell of their beauty. They spread themselves beside the road, taking an almost human quality. They lift their gables with dignity; they spread their mullioned windows with frankness. Their chimney, steep of the highest air, set it in said these lovely houses were built of simple, gray stone. They took the warp, light stone of the land, and even the roof tiles are made of it. All seems a peaty gray, and on this ideal color climb the bright flowers of the garden.

Mary, English Places. You wander long and drift from road to lane, from village to farm, drinking in every detail of these houses—the Tudor ornaments over the leaded windows, the neatly set arch of the front door, the beeches of the back of the house, the flowers and a stunning use of shrubs and creepers piling one spilling beauty upon another against the light-gray stone.

In Sussex and Kent hunt out the old cottages and the ancient houses of villages. They have a beauty all their own with their bricks turned to pink and softened brown. Many have an end gable of stone fashioned in the grand curves which fascinatingly recall the Wallacean who brought with them their own traditions of art when driven to England, by religious persecutions. Stone carvellers, gables have, too, a Spanish flavor, a late Renaissance copy of free-drama curves. Fascinating to see, though, a yellow cloth weaver constructed to make the homes of their eaves resemble those they had left.

FROM AROUND MICHIGAN

Jackson—As a part of the economy program of Jackson Prison, No. 8 cell block will be closed. The prison cost the last of May was 4.62%. The peopl population was 5,784 in 1932.

Lansing—Representatives of hospitals who appeared before the State Board of Tax Administration to ask that their institutions be exempted from the 4 per cent sales tax on purchases of their dies.

Grand Rapids—Sixty veteran employees, with service records ranging from 25 to 45 years, were honored by the Leonard Refrigerator Co., celebrating its fifty-fifth anniversary here recently. Gold watches were presented to 33 of the guests.

Detour—Drummond Island will have a new 100-foot steel eye tower built this summer by O.C. boys from Cassi Moran. They also will build a towerman's cabin, five miles of telephone line and a mile of truck trail.

Lansing—Due to lack of funds the Ludington and Indian State Parks, two of Michigan's newest will not be open this summer. P. J. Hofmaster, director of Conservation, announced. Fifty-three State parks were made available for public use beginning May 28.

Detroit—Growing out of the murder of Charles A. Folsa, a WPA worker, investigations are being made to determine the extent and character of the organization and activities of a terrorist band known in Michigan as the Black Legion. A Federal investigation of the Black Legion and similar organizations is probable.

Clinton—St. John's Episcopal church, one of the oldest churches in Michigan, observed its centennial on June 4. The small white frame building remains the same as when built, with the exception of an added chancel, vestibule and vestry room. The church is one of four Episcopal churches established by the Rev. W. N. Lister, Irish missionary, in the 1830's.

Lansing—The State of Michigan has agreed to rent the Mackinac Island. The finance committee of the State Administrative Board has made $8,000 available to be used to repair five State-owned houses on the island. The chairman of the Mackinac Park Commission estimates that profits from rentals would yield the State $1,000 a year.

Tecumseh—Rattlesnakes are increasing rapidly in this section, as a result of thousands of acres being devoted to the raising of soy beans. Previously cows were turned out to pasture along the river bottoms and the grass never grew high. Rattlesnakes had no place to hide and they were controlled easily. Two rattlers have been killed in the village recently and farm employees are under orders not to enter some sections without shoes.

Houghton—The Western Montana Rockies will be the scene of the geology-research trip taken for seven weeks this summer by a dozen upperclassmen of the Michigan College of Mining and Technology. The mining and geology students will set up their base camp 75 miles west of Helena. In addition to mapping areas near Butte, Helena, and in the Little Belt Mountains, they will go underground for mine trips and will visit several smelters.

Helding—In 1910 Walter Kingsley started carrying mail on the dusty, treeless street that led up Peck's Hill here. As a hot summer sun beat down on his head, it presently hatched an idea. Kingsley would make some shade! He began planting seeds and seedlings, but it was slow work for one man, so he recruited the Boy Scouts. This spring Kingsley resigned, but for several years he was able to walk up Peck's Hill in the shade of a man's idea.

Lansing—Recent steps of Lansing officials toward construction of a sewage disposal plant have proven satisfactory to the State, officials of the Michigan Stream Control Commission have indicated. The City Council recently employed consulting engineers to draft detailed plans and created a fund to finance the $90,000 project from delinquent taxes. The City has applied for Federal funds to assist in building the treatment plant, which would end pollution of Grand River.

Mt. Clemens—There is still a possibility that Mt. Clemens may be designated as a site for the $1,400,000 veterans' hospital. The local Board of Commerce has renewed its fight for the project after temporarily slowing up on receipt of word that the Veterans Administration had approved a site donated by Henry Ford in Detroit. Proximity of the mineral baths to the Mt. Clemens site, especially since many veterans suffer from rheumatic ailments, was believed to be a factor in favor of Mt. Clemens.

Lansing—A four-year program for improvement of Michigan State hospitals, involving appropriations of $30,000,000, was recommended to Gov. Fitzgerald by the State Hospital Commission. The report of the commission said that hospital facilities are inadequate and that some of the buildings were subject to serious fire hazards. Gov. Fitzgerald promised to submit the program to the Legislature, but expressed the opinion that the costs should be met by spreading the expenditures over a longer term of years.

Peace of Mind

When we give "a piece of our mind" to someone, we are usually thrown off in a state of anger or excitement. At times we are so angry that we say things that we regret afterwards. We wish that we might have the harsh words that were spoken. But they are gone forever. We know that they have made their impression and that a piece of mind is the result of our control.

Man in the Sun Held Publicly

Historians have long been curious about a man in the sun, but a man in the sun earned a heap of publicity in 1816, says the Montreal Herald. The phenomenon was first seen in Europe, over Austria, just before sunset. A man who appeared to be waving a small flag was embrowned against the sinking sun, and a whole country shuddered at the omen.

The next day England saw the manifestation, and America reported having seen it in due course. But America, naturally, had to be different. They stated that the man was lying down, appeared to be dead, and did not possess a flag. But no one ever explained the Man in the Sun. He was last seen over West America. Quite a number of people, of course, linked him up with Napoleon.

GAS-MAKING STOVE COOKS MEAL FOR 2c

Amazing New Invention of W. C. Coleman Brings All the Modern Conveniences of City Gas to Homes Beyond the Gas Main.

Economically-minded housewives will share the enthusiasm of W. C. Coleman, inventive genius, for his new gas-making stove which cooks a meal for 2c or less.

The new Coleman will do the family cooking at a cost below that of coal, wood or kerosene stoves, and do it quicker and better.

This remarkable new Coleman Safety Range lights instantly just like gas. Makes its own gas from ordinary lead-free gasoline. Its patented, fuel-saving Band-A-Bu Burners are easily regulated to exactly the heat desired for frying, boiling, baking or broiling.

Mr. Coleman uses Everdur Metal for the fuel tank, a big safety feature. Everdur metal will not rust or corrode. In addition to providing every cooking advantage of the finest city gas range, Mr. Coleman's new Range adds beauty in the kitchen by distinctive styling and pleasing color effects in gleaming porcelain enamel finish.

Readers of this paper wishing full information about these wonderful Coleman Ranges will receive illustrated literature and a valuable Stove Check Chart by addressing a postcard to W. C. Coleman, Dept. W.D.-235, Wichita, Kansas—Adv.

COMMUNICATION
Washington, D. C., May 23, 1936
Editor:
Dear Sir:

ANNOUNCES CANDIDACY FOR SHERIFF

Irving J. Kennedy has announced his candidacy for sheriff of Livingston County on the Democratic ticket at the primaries on September 8. He was born and raised in Putnam township, being a son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Kennedy. For the past six years he has served as a deputy sheriff under Sheriffs Henry Finley and Claude Fawcett, the last four years being stationed at the jail. He and Loren Bassett have done most of the road work in recent years. He is a good capable, efficient officer and if elected will make a good official.

Irving J. Kennedy

WILL BE CANDIDATE FOR RE-ELECTION

Harry F. Hittle, Lansing Attorney, and State Senator from Ingham and Livingston Counties, has announced that he will be a candidate for re-election. During the last session of the Legislature he obtained wide recognition in his efforts to amend the forty-two percent small loan law. In addition, he had the distinction of being the co-author of the first Senate resolution to create a Civil Service Commission. During the last session, Senator Hittle was safely progressive, and gained wide recognition as a leader in supporting farm labor legislation, and he was known to be intensely interested in the Old Age Pension plan and Tuesday, commenting thereon, he said: "Michigan's pension system must be revised to make it more equitable, and less embarrassing to pensioners. The amount paid should be substantially increased, and the so-called paupers' oath must be abolished, and no person should be required to deed a little home to the State to get a pension. Senator Hittle is now serving his fifth term, and it is expected that he will put up an active campaign for re-election. No candidate has appeared in opposition to him, and it is generally thought that he will have no opposition.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATIONS

The United States Civil Service Commission has announced open competitive examinations as follows: Assistant petroleum engineer, $2,600 a year, Geological Survey. Teacher in community school (primary, intermediate, special or opportunity or one-teacher day), $1,620 a year, Indian Field Service (including Alaska). Statistical analysts (transportation), various grades, $3,200 to $5,600 a year, Bureau of Statistics, and Bureau of Motor Carriers, Interstate Commerce Commission. Assistant superintendent of brush factory, $2,200 a year, Foreman of brush factory, $2,600 a year, United States Penitentiary Annex, Fort Leavenworth, Kansas. Full information may be obtained from the Secretary of the United States Civil Service Board of Examiners at the post office or customhouse in any city which has a post office of the first or second class, or from the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C.

NEW TELEPHONE RATES

Rates for telephone calls to most foreign countries will be reduced substantially, according to the local manager for the Michigan Bell Telephone Company. Notice of the reduction has been filed with the Federal Communications Commission at Washington. The reductions will apply to both day and night rates and a new reduced Sunday rate will be established. The reductions will be effective on calls made to 45 of the 67 countries that can be reached by over-sea radio telephone from any Michigan point, with proportionate reductions from all points in the Bell System. Reductions also will be made in rates to points in Cuba, which are reached by means of deep sea cable from Key West. The new rate schedule means a reduction of $9 on week-day calls of three minutes each to countries in Europe, $6 on night calls and $15 on Sunday calls. For instance, the rate for a three-minute day-time call to London or Paris will be cut from $33 to $24 and to $18 for calls made at night or any time on Sunday. Three-minute calls to the South American countries of Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Paraguay, Peru and Uruguay will be reduced $9 on week days and $15 on Sundays. Calls to Central American countries—Costa Rica, Guatemala, Honduras, Nicaragua and Panama, will be reduced $9 on week days and $12 on Sundays. Calls to Puerto Rico will be reduced $9 on week days and $9 on Sundays. Rates for calls longer than three minutes, to all or several points affected, will be similarly reduced. Since the Bell System inaugurated radio telephone communication with Europe in 1927, there has been two changes for the service. A three-minute call between New York and London cost $75. In 1928 it was reduced to $45, and in 1930 to $37. The present and third reduction brings it down to $24.

BALLROOM USED FREE OF CHARGE

Several ladies clubs and groups have taken advantage of the invitation of the management of the Goldkette Blue Lantern to hold various activities in the ballroom and on the veranda during these hot afternoons. The ballroom will be opened free of charge to any group who may desire it for afternoon teas and bridge. A new activity scheduled to take place under the management of the Goldkette Blue Lantern and sponsored by the American Red Cross, will be free instruction in swimming for adults and children. Plans are also being formulated for instruction in Red Cross Life Saving Methods. Admission to swimming classes and additional information can be had by contacting W. W. Bleakley of the advertising and publicity department.

WOLVERINE CHAPTER, NO. 10, TELEPHONE PIONEERS OF AMERICA, HAS ELECTED FRANK SULLIVAN OF SAGINAW PRESIDENT FOR THE COMING TWELVE MONTHS.

Mr. Sullivan succeeds George M. Welch, president of the Michigan Bell Telephone Company, who served as chapter president the past year. The vote, taken by mail from the membership of 780 scattered throughout the state, was tabulated in Detroit this week. Vice presidents, elected by divisions of the territory in which the Michigan Bell Company operates, are: Detroit division, Harry L. Mason, of the accounting department of the company; Central division, Phil J. Becker, Flint, manager of the Lapeer-Rochester area; Southern division, Ralph Jackson, Grand Rapids, division traffic superintendent; Northern division, W. L. Moulman, Menominee, division plant supervisor. Frank L. Curtis of Detroit, assistant secretary of the company, was named to serve his sixth consecutive term as chapter secretary, Arthur C. Kuhn, of Pleasant Ridge, the company's auditor of disbursements, was elected to his fifth consecutive term as treasurer. The Telephone Pioneers of America is a national organization of telephone men and women each of whom has served more than 21 years in the business. Its objectives bring both inspirational and social. Mr. Sullivan, the new president, was employed at Marquette by the Michigan Bell Company in 1905 after previous service with the Swaverly Telephone company, which operated between Cadillac and Pellston at the turn of the century. Following service in both the Northern and Detroit divisions, he went to Saginaw in 1919 and was appointed Central division plant superintendent of the Michigan Bell in 1920.

LOW FOREST FIRE DAMAGE

Weather conditions and the forest fire organization combined in Michigan this spring to record the lowest spring damage by forest fires in the history of the state. The spring of 1935, which established a record up to that time for a minimum number of fires, reported 400 fires with approximately 20,000 acres burned over as of June 1. June 1, this year, the Department of Conservation reported a total of 262 forest fires with but 1,679 acres burned over. Excepting unusually dry weather, the state can expect a minimum of fires for the next two months, the Department said. In both upper and lower peninsulas, vegetation is now green, lowering the hazard. Durward Robson, of the Division of Field Administration of the Department, and in charge of forest fire activities, credited both the weather and the organization for this spring's low fire record. "Ordinarily April and May produce high forest fire hazards," Robson said. "The melting snow exposes dried leaves and duff which are highly inflammable. This spring there was considerable rain at regular intervals to lower the hazard. "A complete crew of trained men, together with much specialized equipment and aided by better communication facilities have also proved important in keeping fires which have started to relatively low losses." In commenting on the spring record, Robson also appealed to the summer influx of tourists and campers into northern Michigan. "It doesn't matter much," he said, "how green the vegetation is, there is always danger of forest fire when smokers and campers are careless. Approximately 50 percent of the 1935 forest fires in Michigan were caused by carelessly-tossed cigarette and cigar stubs, pipe heels and lighted matches." Robson credited campers with being increasingly careful not to leave lighted fires. The percentage of forest fires caused by campers has shown a consistent decrease over a period of years, while the percentage of forest fires blamed on careless smokers has shown a tendency to increase proportionately, Robson stated.

COMMUNICATION

Editor Dispatch: Please allow me the suggestion: The man, Dean, who tells of his killing his own friend, Poole, on order of his superior officer, will never be convicted of the crime of murder. The essence of guilt in murder is "malice aforethought," and it is easy to perceive there was no malice toward the man who was so deliberately killed. Allowing then the truth of my first statement, isn't it the duty of those who are directing public opinion to consider what is back of the philosophy of such cults as this "Black Legion," which just now is in the news, but which will surely be succeeded by some other organization, self-charged with the regulation of public morals. If I were called for testimony by way of helping to find out the reason for the rise of these different movements, I would say, first, there is a great ignorance in this country in spite of enforced education of the schools. I often think this country is at once one of the most ignorant and the most lawless of all in the world. And when I say schools, as in the last statement, there is no distinction as to church and state as far as each carries on the work of education.

KING'S DAUGHTERS MEET

The regular meeting of Pinckney Circle of King's Daughters was held at the home of Mrs. Fred Read, Thursday afternoon, June 4th. After the business sessions, reports of the county convention held at Winans Lake, May 27th were given by Mrs. Smollett and Mrs. Kingsley, county president. There were 11 guests and 14 members present. An interesting contest was enjoyed by all, Mrs. Richards of Lakeland winning the prize. The usual bountiful pot-luck lunch was served.

ATWOOD WOULD STOP DOLLAR BILL TIDE

With each day's mail to the Department of State containing at least several hundred dollar bills, and some days the volume reaching as high as a thousand such bills, Orville E. Atwood, Secretary of State, has asked that checks, money orders or some other form of transfer of funds be used. The primary purpose in seeking more general use of some medium other than currency or coins for the payment of fees of various kinds, is that in case any question arises as to any kind of application, a record of payment can be traced if any negotiable instrument was used in the first place. Fees of a dollar are paid for a variety of governmental services, including issuance of motor vehicle titles, operators' licenses and the like, and the "dollar tide" is running high at this season. Instances of neglect to mail applications, loss in the mails, and other reasons for loss of applications and other records, can generally be run down if records of payment are involved by the use of money orders and the like. Where post office money orders are used, they should be drawn in Lansing.

WISE GARDNER USES CALENDAR

State College Instructor Suggests Schedule for Winter Storage Vegetables and for Succession in Summer.

Schedules for planting in small and large gardens can be extended as far through the summer as late in August, suggests H. L. Egan, instructor in vegetable gardening at will a succession of crops keep the table supplied, but coming and winter storage supplies will not only be the harvest. After the first plantings of string beans and sweet corn have a start, successive patches can be put every two weeks until July 15. For late cabbage, cauliflower and Brussels sprouts, set the plants from June 15 to July 1. "The right quantity of vegetables to plant depends upon the size of the family, preferences for certain vegetables and a guess as to what the soil and weather will produce as a reward for the garden work," says Egan. "Usually about 100 cabbage plants of a good storage variety is sufficient for the needs and turnips for winter storage, about 150 to 175 after early crops are harvested is enough. A good storing variety of carrots should sown in 300 feet in rows before July 15. Late spinach, radishes and green beans can be put in August 10 to catch cooler weather." At the time the cabbage plants are set this month, two or three dozen cauliflower plants and two to three plants of the Brussels sprouts should be transplanted, while Chinese cabbage can be sown directly in the garden plot.

RETAIN VITAMINS IN CANNING FOODS

State College Nutrition Studies Indicate Commercial and Home Methods Can Aid Value of Product.

To retain vitamins in commercial home canning, vegetables and fruit should be canned as soon after picking as possible. This is the advice of Flora M. Hanning, research fellow in nutrition at State College, East Lansing. Miss Hanning is making a three-year study of the effects of cooking and canning processes on vitamins. "Vitamin C, contained in fresh raw vegetables and fruits, varies with the methods of canning," she says. "The fresher the vegetables, the more vitamin C is there. So, whether in the home or in the canning factory, the shorter the time from field to garden to the finished product, the more vitamin C is contained." The amount of air included in the can or can also affects the vitamin content, she says. Experiments at college have shown, however, apples which have been allowed to stand in salt water a short time before canning have more vitamin C apples canned immediately after picking. The salt water permits some oxygen to escape. "It is very important that the food be tightly packed in the can so all the bubbles of air are forced out and as little air as possible left in the lid. Heating with the lid on air destroys some of the vitamin C," she says. Hanning also stresses the fact that cooking vegetables and fruit too long always needlessly wastes the vitamin content.

NO MATTER how you classify your expenditures for car up-keep — it's your total expenditure that counts. How much "dollar mileage" is your car giving you?

Dollars do go farther in the Ford V-8. Modern improved carburetion gives you unusual gasoline mileage with brilliant V-8 performance. Most owners of today's Ford change oil only every 2000 miles and add none between changes.

And after the first few thousand miles you begin to understand what Ford V-8 "dollar mileage" really means.

It gives you more miles per dollar because it gives you all-round economy — low first cost, low up-keep cost, low depreciation and long life — as well as low gasoline and oil consumption. All these are big items if you aim to buy the most economical car.

ELECTRIC HOT WATER!

Set your automatic toaster going, and in a minute or two, up pops your slice of toast—golden brown and done to a turn, just the way you want it. Here is automatic service, surely . . . yet this popular breakfast-table appliance is not nearly as "automatic" as a new convenience for the home—automatic ELECTRIC hot water. Electricity has provided so many household comforts that it is not surprising to discover one more. And this new service is one of the finest of all—a genuine contribution to better living.

With automatic electric hot water, you need worry no longer about vexing problems of water heating. You are freed forever from such bothersome details as running up and down stairs to light a manually operated heater, the annoyance of waiting for water to get hot, the inconvenience and delay caused by having only lukewarm water in the pipes. This new service provides an unlimited supply of hot water. Yet it is completely automatic: It requires no attention whatever. Whenever you need hot water, simply turn the faucet—and there is your hot water on tap.

Stop in at your Detroit Edison office today and we will gladly give you complete information about automatic electric water heating.

SYNOPSIS

Jeb Braddon, young and fantastically successful broker of Chicago, is infatuated with Agnes Glenith, beautiful daughter of a retired manufacturer. Rodney, a doctor, in love with Agnes, visits his brother, Jeb. Rod plans work at Rochester. Jeb suggests that he make a try for Agnes before leaving. In Rod there is a deeper, obstinate tenacity and much sterner restraints than in Jeb. Agnes believes to be happy, a girl must bind herself entirely to a man and have adorable babies. Rod visits Agnes and tells her of his great desire, but realizes it can never be fulfilled. Agnes' mother is attempting to regain her husband's love. Bob Glenith arrives from New York. Agnes has disturbing doubts as to what attracts her father there.

There was no mark of deterioration upon him. It was plain that his impulses and his needs for closest, emotional contacts had not fled or even retreated. Plain too, it had been for some time, that they had failed him here. What was he "doing"? What had he done?

"Don't think about it," instincts warned her.

He swung about to her. "When I was in New York, I got out of something I got into awhile ago; and I made half a million. . . . Tell me what you want, little Light One."

"I don't want anything, Father," she answered before she realized how much she was disappointing him; for she was thinking once more of her mother. He would offer to buy her, too, anything she liked; but it was nothing that he needed buy which Mother wanted from him. And this half-million additional in his hands would not help her. No; it would not help Mother at all.

"Bob?" they both heard her voice.

"Bob? Are you home?"

She had come to the top of the stairs and was calling down.

Agnes saw him start slightly. "Hello, Tricky," he called back. "Wait up there. Coming!"

They screened their first meetings, these days, from their daughter.

"Anybody for dinner tonight?" he inquired of Agnes, as he turned.

"Jeb, I guess, Father." And she added: "Rod was here this afternoon."

"The Deep Sea," her father said, and suspected, aloud. "Why was he taking off the afternoon?"

"He was going away. He's gone."

"I see," said her father, satisfied with that, and he did not inquire whither. "Good fellow. But his brother—how that young man does know his way about!" And he started, at last, for the stairs.

Headlights played on the windows and swung away as a car skidded to a stop.

Jeb came in, cold and stamping and all alive.

She was his goal, this girl who braved her bare arms and shoulders to the chill from the door to meet him. She, above all others and all else in the world tonight, was the sole object he sought, and nothing could keep him from her. That was how Jeb made you feel when you faced him.

"Hello, Glen!" He held her, making her palms press his. "Hello, Glen!"

"Jeb, why did you drive tonight?"

He laughed, and his happiness at the triumph of this arrival thrilled down her arms from her palms held to his.

"Thought the train might not get through, Glen. I had to. Are you glad, a little?"

"Oh, yes, I'm glad, Jeb!"

He jumped open his overcoat and threw it on and upon a chair for Cravath to pick up.

"Rod came?" he asked, as they passed the blazing hearth before which her father had halted.

"Yes, he came. He—wonderful, Jeb. Wonderful. We talked in there."

Why did she indicate the room—and avoid it? She had no idea of taking Jeb to it. Something quite separate from Jeb had transpired in there, and she would not have him intrude upon it.

"But you couldn't do it?" said Jeb.

"No, I couldn't do it."

They were in the great drawing-room, where, on this stormy night, a huge wood fire also was blazing. He turned to her in the warm light, tall as his brother, and straighter. There was no ready-made veil, no marks of carelessness, nothing could make Jeb appear pitiful.

Her mind flew to her mother's room, where there was another man whom she could not picture pitiful.

The four were alone at dinner.

Her mother and father had dressed, for they were going out. There was always, in these days, something for them to go out to, if they wished; and tonight, though he was just home, they utilized this escape from their evening together. So Father sat at the end of the table in his dinner jacket, and Mother at her end, in décolleté.

She was forty-seven, for she had been twenty-two when she had borne Bob; the Dark One, the daughter like herself. But Bee, after barely three years of marriage and two babies (so Mother had had) was not now so happy as Mama had been for the twelve years in the "little" house where she had been a bride.

ended it, once you had it—both of you—as he at his end of the table, and she opposite him, had had?

"We're together! Isn't it good! Good! Good to be together, together so!" That was how the old house had felt. Here it was gone. Most particularly tonight it was gone from Father and Mother. You could feel no current of closeness.

Across the table Jeb sat. He was happy to be here, and to have her here. Of course it was because he was close to her, the table temporarily separating them, that he was happy.

He was in business clothes, as he had come from his office. He and Agnes were not to go out, to seek escape from themselves tonight. Quite to the contrary! Why did conversation drag so?

Her father mentioned insult to Jeb. "Stronger every minute," Jeb said. "I'm putting all my people into Midwest Utilities."

There Mother sat, alone, no longer the closest, most necessary person to any one. Her figure, once as slender, was by no means heavy. Women complimented her upon it, but men had like a little Japanese room, with softly padded straw mats fitted together to form the floor, and with a slightly raised section, laid with thicker and softer mats, for lounging upon and sunning.

Here, in the soothing sun, you could play with your boys' round, strong little bodies, and imagine them men—great men, splendid men, inspiring, important and thrilling. When you did this, you omitted imagining them like their father. They must be more than Davis ever would be. Davis, your husband, who was only thirty but for whom you no longer held illusions of greatness or of real importance, though you loved him. Of course you loved him.

He lacked something that, for one, Jeb Braddon had. Jeb, who had been at "the house" last night, as Beatrice had learned when she phoned her father after dinner, to say hello. How much further had Agnes and Jeb "gone" last evening?

Bee wished that Agnes would hurry over.

There she was! They faced each other in the sun, but Agnes immediately bent to the babies, rubbing her hands briskly to be sure of their warmth before she touched the brown little bodies. Bobbie kissed back on her cool cheek after she kissed him; she swept with her lips the soles of Davy's chubby little feet, one after the other.

"How's Jeb?" asked her sister, seating herself before her.

Agnes held to one of Davy's feet. "All right, Bee," she answered.

"Did you go anywhere last night?"

"Not us. Father and Mother went to the Stinsons'; but we stayed home," said Agnes a bit breathlessly.

"What'd you do?" demanded Bee.

"Bee, I guess Jeb and I got sort of engaged."

Beatrice's gaze jerked up. "Don't you know?"

"I know he said we were, Bee."

Agnes leaned over and resorted to clasping both of Davy's feet, and pulling him gently along the mat.

Beatrice quickly touched a bell behind her. "They've been long enough in the sun," she decided suddenly, and bundled her babies into robes. When the nurse knocked, she handed the children out and secured the door again.

"All right now," said Bee, dropping to the mat.

"I liked him a lot last night, Bee. I let him know it."

"How about this morning?" Beatrice demanded.

"I'm going downtown to have lunch with him today."

"But are you engaged? Did you say you'd marry him?"

"I didn't; for I didn't know I would. I don't know now."

"You mean you don't know whether you want to?"

"I guess I want to marry him, Bee."

"Then what in heaven's is it you don't know?"

"What it will be like to be married to Jeb," said Agnes. "I didn't want to talk to Mother about it, at all. She's too unhappy. You aren't?"

"No," said Bee quickly. "How was Father when he got home?"

"No different. He made a lot more money in New York."

"I gathered that. . . . But you and Jeb?"

"He thinks we ought to get married as quick as we can arrange it. Oh, Bee, I never, never had such a day. Rod came in the afternoon."

"Rod?"

"I can't tell you about that. I can never tell anyone about that! . . . Then Father came home; and Mother was making ready for him. . . . Bee, they'll separate when I get married, I know."

"Then I should think you'd hardly rush off and marry."

"But that makes me want to, don't you see? Oh, if you were in the house, you would."

"I wouldn't," said Bee.

Agnes proceeded to Chicago on the noon train. As she neared the city, she wondered, more practically, what plan he had made for her and himself? For she felt that today, of all days, he would have a special surprise for her.

Agnes started when she saw him. How much more here, since last night, was this man at whom women gazed; and for whom they turned, after they had passed. Now he saw her!

Oh, this was something! She was shaking from excitement as hardly she had last night.

He took her away in a taxi, and still, saved the tension of their restraints. He named a restaurant where a few of their set were sure to be. So they sat side by side at a little table, looking out upon the wide, gay room just as if nothing at all had happened, since they had been seen together.

So many people gazed at them; and Agnes knew that they whispered to each other: "That's Jeb Braddon."

Agnes' hand on the seat beside her touched his, and his closed on hers, briefly only.

"Nothing today," he told her, "or more!"

More than last night? What could he mean? Marriage today? Had he a license in his pocket?

They left the restaurant, and Agnes watched the women looking up at him; he watched the men's eyes on her, and was very satisfied.

He took her into a taxi and gave an address on the North Side.

"I'm going to show you a building, Glen," he told her then, "where I've had you and I would start."

"Oh?"

"I spotted it for us—you with me, and I."

"How long, Jeb?"

Lovely Lace Makes Lovely Brides

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

COMES now fashion's big moment to play up romance and the picturesque for the June bride-to-be is calling, calling for lovely gowns for herself and her attendants that shall group into a "perfect picture" on her wedding day.

What bride is not a "vision of loveliness"? Her gown is so carefully selected, and fitted, her veil is made just so—to tune perfectly to her individuality, to drape correctly, at the same time beguilingly over the head and down while the train must hang in just the right proportion and line with the dress.

Many a spring bride this 1936 found the expression of her dream of a vision of loveliness in a lace gown and veil. With its importance in the current fashion picture generally it but follows in the natural sequence of events that lace should become first choice with brides. Now that the early brides have demonstrated how really lovely lace is for the wedding gown, June and midsummer brides-to-be have taken their cue and are enthusiastically planning their trousseaux in terms of beautiful lace.

Not only does the lace gown in itself enhance feminine charm to the utmost but lace for the bride brings up the splendor and richness of former periods, when lace played so important a part in the costumes of historical and royal brides. The fact of the lure of lace for brides was dramatically brought out in a "Bride-of-Two-Centuries" sewing recently held in New York, in which fifteen period bridal costumes copied from those worn by prominent brides in the last two hundred years was the feature. This bridal show was topped by the modern bridal party, done entirely in lace, in shades of azalea pink.

Which brings us to a very important subject—that of the fashion approval of color for the bride instead of the traditional all-white. A modern bride may wear lovely bluish pink or ice blue or any tone or tint of her fancy.

One of the attractions of a "lace wedding" is that lace offers every opportunity to work out fascinating color schemes, for this existing flair for lace is not exclusive with the bride but the theme is carried out for bridesmaids as well. One of the newest features is that of lace dresses, with cunning lace capes for each bridesmaid.

Brides, too, are looking into the future in the selection of the wedding gown, having in mind a dress that may be worn later to social events. This feature is admirably interpreted in the very chic and lovely gown in the illustration. Since the full long train is detachable at the waist, the dress alone becomes perfect for the cocktail or dinner hour. The sweep of the train, and the smooth silhouette of the gown cut on true princess lines are the more lovely because of the lace of fine alençon of which this bridal gown is designed. The dress with its narrow waist and tailored neckline, buttons all the way down the front. Tulle is used for the veil which falls in a beguiling drape over the face and hangs quite long at the back.

The bride in the foreground chooses exquisite chintilly lace for her gown. It bespeaks an elegance of simplicity in every detail. The effective arrangement of the tulle veil adds greatly to the glory of the "picture."

HER SMART COAT

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Mannish tailoring in suits and coats for grown-up ladies of fashion has its echo in boyish tailoring for the younger misses from toddlers to teen-agers. The cunning little girl here pictured in the double-breasted flannel coat is ready for her outing in the park, in a coat her little brother would envy. Broad lapels and wide notched collar are becoming. Fitted slightly at the waist for chic the coat is roomy and comfortable. Six smart bone buttons, masculine and substantial, trim the high double-breasted closing. This little model is the very sort that little girls are teasing their mothers to buy for them.

PASTEL TONES IN SUMMER TAILLEURS

Summer tailleurs are more fanciful than ever and synthetic fibers either are mixed with wool or replace wool entirely. Thiebaut-Brion has made a specialty of novel fabrics for this type of tailleur. His collection includes several rayon crepes with a woolen appearance and some rayon serges, either plain or chined. Some of his woolen fabrics show the same chine effect produced with twisted rayon yarns that fleck the surface.

There are new mossy crepes with a woolly texture, also a number of pastel-colored fine woollens, spotted with brown or black rayon nubs or tufts. Some of these fabrics have a tweed-like appearance and are seen in very delicate pastel tones, including sweet pea colors.

Be Tops at Paris Show

Lace dresses continue to be tops in Paris. They're shown in amazing variety and startling numbers by all the leading designers. To emphasize the importance of this material in the feminine costume, a ball was held recently at the Hotel George V at which only lace dresses were worn. Dull silences were much in evidence, particularly in dark shades such as midnight blue, purplish blue, green, eggplant and a dark tone of tortoise shell brown.

Evening Sandals

Outset sandals of gold or silver mostly with high heels are first in evening shoe fashion. It is considered very chic to wear these with very sheer pastel-colored hose to either match or contrast with the dress instead of the perennial flesh colored ones.

Beaded Necklaces

Beaded necklaces as wide as collars and taking the place of collars are in vogue in importance and desirability.

AN EXCLUSIVE DRESS SIMPLE TO CROCHET

Even the butterfly enamoured of his little charmer's newly crocheted frock—a style that's winsome and dainty for tots of four to eight. So easy to crochet, too, in a simple all-over pattern, topped by yoke of plain mesh which serves as sleeves and collar. Use white or colored string.

In pattern 5638 you will find directions for making the dress shown in sizes 4, 6 and 8; illustrations of it and of all stitches used; material requirements.

SOFT BALL LEAGUE SCORES

Dillon Beats Clark, 9 to 3, and Ledwidge Wins Game from Singer 5-1

In the local soft ball league last week the Dillon team won from Clark's team 9 to 3, and Ledwidge beat Singer, 5 to 1. In the first game Paul Singer won a pitching contest from Swarthout, mostly on account of errors made by the latter's supporting cast. In the game Thursday night Hube Ledwidge only allowed 5 hits and would have had a shut-out except for an error.

Home-run hitters last week were Paul Singer, Andrew Singer, and Hube Ledwidge.

An Aim in Life

A WRITER once said, "An aim in life is the only fortune worth having; and it is not to be found in foreign lands, but in the heart itself." The trend of education lies more and more toward establishing "in the heart itself" higher aims and motives for living. It is to the advantage of society that wrongdoers are being taught repentance and reformation, and are in many cases being given extended opportunities to develop their talents and usefulness. Education that promotes temperance, honesty, gentleness, reciprocity, is an asset, for as higher, holier aims are firmly planted and unshaken within the heart of each world citizen, so will community, national, and international relations be measurably improved. Righteous aims are to be esteemed above money and jewels, for the fortunes they bring are indestructible and of inestimable worth.

Certain Bible characters had aims in life, holy and commendable. Who, after reading of Daniel's spiritual insight and ability to subdue lions, has not felt a greater desire to know Daniel's God, who "delivered and rescued"? Daniel did not claim to be unique. He explained his rescue on the basis of infirmities before Darius, his king. Previously, when called upon to interpret the dream of king Nebuchadnezzar, he said (Daniel 2:30), "This secret is not revealed to me for any wisdom that I have more than any living." Who that has studied the life of Moses, his meekness, courage, spirituality, has not experienced a deeper incentive to live according to God's plan? And surely those who read the words and works of the master Christian long to do and do likewise, even though they do not fully perceive the spiritual import of the message. To attain moral excellence is a worthy aim for anyone.

In "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" Mary Baker Eddy has given the world this viewpoint: "God is a soul and faith should be to find the footstep of Truth, the way to health and holiness." And a few pages farther on she tells how this may be accomplished: "Mortals must gravitate Godward, their affections and aims grow spiritual,—they must near the broader interpretations of being, and gain some proper sense of the infinite,—in order that sin and mortality may be put off" (pp. 241, 245).

Jesus urged all to love God supremely and to regard their neighbor with loving-kindness. It is quite true that if we did this, there would be no temptation to break the Ten Commandments; that is, we should live purely and honestly, resisting with success temptations to kill, steal, bear false witness, covet, or commit adultery. We should honor the Father-Mother God, and keep every day holy unto Him.

Aspirations and motives to live rightly are natural and normal to children who have been correctly taught. Often a child is so conscious of love and goodness as to be protected from harm. He is often so conscious of expressing loving-kindness that he is totally unaware of another's evil thoughts. Parents may early establish in their children an aim in life that incorporates fellowship, generosity, industry, thoughtfulness, and is expressed in daily occupation.

More mature students, also, may guard and guide their thinking in accordance with Truth and Love. One who welcomes and appropriates even faint desires for better living, clarifies them, early in his heart, and strives openly to produce them, finds his life becoming productive, progressive. Consecration to Truth is a character builder, promoting the welfare of the individual and thus elevating world conditions. Still thoughts and aims like the house built on the sand, fall eventually, even if for a time they seem prosperous and incident. The Bible gives us firm foundations for our individual building. —The Christian Science Monitor.
