

The Michigan State Board of Education has announced that life certificates will no longer be recognized held by persons who have not taught in five years. They will be revoked and it will be necessary for such persons to take a special college course before they will be allowed to teach again. The reason given for this is that during the depression many retired teachers hunted for their old certificates and went out and got teaching jobs by underbidding other teachers. This does not seem fair. Teachers earn their life certificates by hard work and we do not see wherein they should be de-

New French Premier Helps Labor Win All Demands

STRIKING workers who paralyzed the industrial life of France at the moment when the "popular front" socialist majority was taking over the reins of the government, won complete victory with the aid of Leon Blum, new premier, as the general strike was settled, a disquieting note was added by a walkout of 150,000 coal miners and textile workers in northern France.

Labor won the following five demands:

1. Wage increases from 7 to 15 per cent.
2. Recognition of workers' rights to organize in unions.
3. A forty-hour work week.
4. Vacations with pay.
5. Collective bargaining contracts.

Settling of the strike marked a significant victory for the new government which assumed extraordinary powers to devise measures to bolster France's financial system and revitalize national defenses.

"White collar" workers were the only group excluded from the general agreement which was signed by employers at the behest of the government, but the premier promised relief for them. Premier Blum gained support from conservative forces with his announcement that "The People's Front is and will remain hostile to devaluation of the currency."

The end of the strike restored a measure of confidence to a panic-stricken nation faced with possible famine due to the tie-up of its transportation, processing and distribution systems by 1,400,000 striking workers.

Texas Opens Its Great Centennial Exposition

TEXAS celebrated the one-hundredth anniversary of its independence by opening a $25,000,000 centennial exposition in Dallas. Foremost among distinguished visitors attending the world's fair the first week was President Roosevelt. To obtain the centennial exposition Dallas made available more than $9,000,000 in cash and property. The exposition will be open until November 29. Numerous other celebrations marking the state's 100 years of freedom have been held in various cities and towns of Texas. The exposition presents educational, historic and recreational features associated with a major world's fair.

Largest building on the exposition ground is the $1,000,000 Texas Hall of State, which cost an additional $200,000 to equip. The building was erected as a memorial to the patriots and pioneers of Texas, and is the largest historical museum on the North American continent.

Other buildings and their erection cost include:

United States building, $325,000, largest federal building ever erected at a world's fair; Negro Life building, $100,000, also erected by government funds; Exposition Farm Center, consisting of five great buildings, erected at a cost of $1,000,000; Travel and Transportation building, $385,000; Varied Industries, $440,000; National History museum, $250,000; aquarium, $180,000.

Speaker Byrns of House Is Taken by Death

DEATH, sudden and unexpected, came to Joseph Wellington Byrns, speaker of the house of representatives, and put an end to a notable career. The veteran Tennessee congressman suffered a heart attack, followed by a cerebral hemorrhage, and passed away within a few hours in his apartment in the Mayflower hotel, Washington. For 27 years Mr. Byrns had represented the "Hermitage district" of Tennessee in the house, and he was elected speaker when the Seventy-fourth congress convened in January, 1935. He was a master of parliamentary strategy and so fair-minded a presiding officer that all, even his political opponents, praised and admired him. Before becoming speaker he served long years on the appropriations committee, as member and chairman, and he also was leader of the Democratic majority and chairman of the Democratic congressional campaign committee.

Grief for Mr. Byrns' death was general and sincere in Washington officialdom. "I am shocked beyond all imagination," said Representative Bertrand H. Spell of New York, the minority leader. "It is a terrible thing. It is an almost irreparable loss."

Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, the majority leader, after expressing his own sense of loss, added: "His work during the session has been very difficult and trying. He was a great speaker."

President Roosevelt in a statement from the White House expressed well the high esteem in which Mr. Byrns was held. Said he:

"Fearless, incorruptible, unselfish with a high sense of justice, wise in counsel, broad of vision, calm in adversity, and modest in victory, he served his state and the nation with fidelity, honor, and great usefulness. I personally mourn the passing of a steadfast friend of many years."

Impressive funeral services were held in the chamber of the house, the President, members of the cabinet and numerous diplomats being present in addition to all members of congress.

Senate Passes Its Own Tax Revenue Measure

THE senate passed the $229,000,000 compromise revenue measure by a vote of 38 to 24. The bill then went to conference with the house of representatives which had enacted a revenue measure carrying out tax proposals made by President Roosevelt. The senate measure called for a 15 1/2 to 18 per cent tax on net corporate incomes as compared with the present 12 1/2 to 15 per cent levy; a new type of 7 per cent tax on undistributed profits; repeal of the existing exemption of dividends from the 4 per cent normal income tax; an increase of 1 per cent in the individual income surtax on surtax brackets between $8,000 and $50,000. The house measure called for a tax on corporate net income scaling up to 42 1/2 per cent, depending upon the amount of undistributed profits.

Chester Davis Appointed to Reserve Board

AGRICULTURE was given representation on the federal reserve board through the appointment by President Roosevelt of Chester C. Davis, administrator of the AAA to that body. In discussing his appointment, Mr. Davis said: "The fiscal policy of the federal government has never been tied in closely enough with agricultural problems." Mr. Davis has spent most of his life in agricultural activities. He was born on a farm in Iowa, was graduated from Grinnell college and later owned and operated a farm. For some years he was a newspaper publisher and then became editor of the Montana Farmer.

Mr. Davis was succeeded as AAA administrator by Dr. Howard R. Tolley. Nationally known as a soil expert, Doctor Tolley helped Mr. Davis draft the soil conservation plan, enacted after the United States Supreme court decision invalidated the AAA. He has been carrying on this program during the absence of Mr. Davis in Europe.

Filene Plan Urges Ban on Unfair Trade Practices

IN A report just made public the business advisory council proposes a simplified basis for industrial self-regulation through the medium of voluntary joint agreements on unfair trade practices enforceable by the federal trade commission. The report was prepared by the council's committee on unfair trade practices of which Lincoln Filene of Boston is chairman. Outstanding among the committee's proposals were suggestions that each branch of an industry, such as wholesale, retail, and manufacturing, police the activities of each other through confidential reports to the federal trade commission and that no attempt be made to include trade practice and labor provisions in the same agreements.

Sir Samuel Hoare Back in British Cabinet

CALLED back to the British cabinet, which he left some months ago as a political scapegoat, Sir Samuel Hoare was made first lord of the admiralty, to succeed Viscount Monnell. Sir Samuel, who boldly faced a hostile house of commons last December to defend his part in the Anglo-French peace plan which would have given Mussolini only a part of Ethiopia, will face the task of solving problems arising out of British-Italian fleet difficulties in the Mediterranean. The biggest task facing Hoare, however, is restoration of the British navy to an undisputed position of supremacy on the seas.

Industrial Mobilization Plan Is Condemned

THE so-called industrial mobilization plan of the War department, providing for a military dictatorship over labor, capital and industry, as well as censorship of the press in wartime, was severely condemned in a report to the senate by the munitions committee.

The committee objected particularly to the proposed conscription of labor as being dangerous to democracy.

Thomas Held Responsible for British Budget Leak

J. H. THOMAS, until recently British colonial secretary, was found responsible by a special government tribunal for the leak in budget secrets which enabled some of his friends to profit largely through insurance against tax raises. Final disposition of the case was left to the house of commons. Thomas, once an engine wiper and later a powerful figure in organized labor and politics, termed the tribunal's verdict "cruel." He said: "My own conscience is clear. I repeat what I previously stated upon oath: that I made no disclosures of budget secrets to anybody."

South China Declares War on Japan

WITH a declaration of war against Japan by the Canton (south) Chinese government, first steps were taken in what may become a nationally concerted effort to resist further encroachment by Nippon on China's territory.

Leaders were hopeful that a coalition of the Canton and the Nanking (north) governments might give China a united front against Japan for the first time. Should the South China war lords succeed in enlisting the support of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek and his Nanking forces, a substantial movement to expel the Japanese from North China could be undertaken.

Sec. Ickes Complains of Wallace's Encroachments

THE Department of Agriculture recommended to the senate that the administration of the Taylor grazing act, affecting 80,000,000 acres of range land, be transferred to its control from that of the Department of the Interior. Secretary Ickes retorted with the accusation that the Agricultural department had hindered his program to rehabilitate western grazing lands. He said Secretary Wallace's department has insisted upon having so many CCC camps for the forestry service that the Interior department could not get enough CCC help to administer efficiently the Taylor act.

Is Father Once More at the Age of 96

GEORGE ISAAC HUGHES, ninety-six-year-old Confederate veteran, amazed the medical world by becoming a father again. This time a girl was born to Hughes' twenty-eight-year-old wife, Libby Hill Hughes. The Hughes' first born is now a lusty lad of seventeen months. Surprisingly vigorous for his age, Hughes was the only veteran in his area to attend recent Confederate memorial exercises. The veteran's mental faculties are clear. He is able to do considerable physical work including caring for a garden, chopping wood and doing odd jobs.

Marshal Badoglio Is Given Roman Triumph

MARSHAL PIETRO BADOGGIO, conqueror of Ethiopia and now viceroy of that part of the reconstituted "Roman empire," returned to the Eternal City in triumph and was vociferously welcomed as a hero. Sixty thousand Romans welcomed him as he stepped from his train, and Premier Mussolini modestly waited in the background until they had shouted their greetings to the veteran warrior. Then Il Duce came forward and kissed the viceroy on both cheeks, and the high ranking Fascist military leaders paid homage. With the premier and the picked troops forming the escort of honor were the entire cabinet. Several days later a great military review was held.

The other side of the picture was seen in London, where Haile Selassie, the deposed emperor of Ethiopia, arrived in tears and sadness, though he was given an ovation by the cheering thousands that had seldom been accorded to visitors to England. Many of the Londoners carried Ethiopian flags or scarlet banners reading "Welcome to the Emperor." With the white sympathizers were many African chiefs in native robes, Somalis, negroes, Hindus, Chinese, and colored people from all parts of the world.

There was an outburst of wild cheering when Selassie, bareheaded and wearing a long black cape, stepped from his private sleeping car and was greeted by many notables, including O. C. Harvey, private secretary of Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary. Harvey was the lone representative of the British government.

Red Cross Mourns Death of Clara Dutton Noyes

MISS CLARA DUTTON NOYES, sixty-six, director of the American Red Cross nursing service, died in Washington a few minutes after she was stricken while driving to work in her car. Miss Noyes was assistant director of the American Red Cross nursing service during the World war. She also had been superintendent of nurses at the Bellevue and allied hospitals in New York.

Making Snow Shoes in Maine.

Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNU Service.

WITH warmer weather gripping the southland, vacationists feel the appeal of northern climates. Each section of the country has its cool spot. Many easterners are lured to Maine, which is noted not only for its invigorating summer climate but also for its historic background.

The name of Maine may or may not be French; it certainly is not Indian, like Massachusetts or Connecticut. Of the sixteen counties, five recall the mother country, being named for English shires; five others honor American personages of the colonial or Revolutionary periods, and the remaining six retain the Indian names of the rivers within their borders.

As for the other names which have received specific legislative sanction for something over 400 cities, towns, and townships, the larger part are simply descriptive, or repetitions of towns in other New England states. Of the rest, so far as the origin of their names is known, 66 bear Old world names, so that in that delightful tale by Laura E. Richards, "Narrative of the Road to Rome," the roadside signpost might have pointed to Vienna, Belgrade, or even China, and kept within the jurisdiction of the County of Kennebec.

Proprietors and first settlers are known to have given their names to 58 towns; governors, generals, and Presidents to 16, 12, and 6 towns, respectively; while Indian names, which so plainly tell their own origin, number only 23.

An interesting touch of idealism was the selection of such distinctive town names as Harmony, Amity, and Hope; Freedom, Liberty, and Unity, these last three being neighbors in Wildo county.

From the beginning the economic life of Maine was founded on fish, fur, and forest. These three furnished powerful incentives for exploration and the chief rewards for settlement.

The fisheries of the Gulf of Maine were even an issue between king and parliament early in the Seventeenth century, when the English fishermen won their fight for free fishing along the Maine coast, despite the monopoly granted by James I in his patent to the council of New England.

Fisheries a Major Industry. So it came that the earliest sites of permanent settlements were chosen not for mildness of climate, but by reason of proximity to the cold waters where dwelt the fish that could be converted into a profitable export, without license fee being paid to any patentees of the crown.

The fisheries continue a major industry. The value of the state's fishing products as marketed approximates six million dollars, the two largest items being the pebble herring and the aristocratic lobster.

Along with the ancient business of fishing a place must be given to the popular sport of angling, for which Maine offers unsurpassed inducements, in the lakes and streams and also offshore.

Last year 35,000 fishermen and fishermen from outside the state, and nearly five times that number of residents, obtained licenses. The fees received went directly to hatching, planting, and protecting a new crop of game fish.

The state maintains 36 fish hatcheries and rearing stations, and from these last year sent 17,000,000 trout, brook, and salmon for stocking the brooks, streams, and lakes. Nearly half of these "planted" fish were above legal size, and 10,000 weighed from 3 to 6 pounds each.

The policy of protecting wild life is enforced by a corps of 100 game wardens, who seek to be big brothers to the youth of the state in training them to be good sportsmen. In the severe winter of 1934, airplanes were used to locate deer yards and then cedar trees were cut to feed the starving deer confined there by the deep snow.

Moose are far from being extinct. They can be shot only with a camera; but deer continue plentiful, 18,983 having been killed legally in 1935. More bears are killed in Maine than in any three other states. Grouse, woodcock, and ducks complete the game offering, with pheasants promised as a future attraction.

The Early Explorers.

As early as 1605 Capt. George Waymouth and his companions on the Archaengel—many of them world travelers for that day—were deeply stirred by their first views of a Maine river which the captain named St. George's (now St. George).

An exploratory trip inland, toward the great mountains, the Canadian hills, convinced them of the "beauty and goodness" of the land, as recorded by Rosier in his True Relation of that "most prosperous voyage." And the author boldly affirmed St. George's "to be the most rich, beautiful, large and secure harboring river that the world affordeth."

A few years later (1614), Capt. John Smith was less attracted by this eastern part of the region he named New England. Yet he saw fit to say of this coast, "Those barren lies so furnished with good woods, springs, fruits, fish and fowls, that it makes me think though the coast be rocky, and thus affrightable, the valleys, plains and interior parts may well (notwithstanding) be very fertile."

So moderate a statement must have been exceeded by other testimony of that day, since only a dozen years later another explorer on the Maine coast, Capt. Christopher Levett, a member of the Council of New England, felt it necessary to "debunk" certain other travelogues, not preserved for the modern reader. In reporting on his voyage of 1623-4, he remarks: "Nor will the Deare come when they are called, or stand still and looke on a man, until he shute him, not knowing a man from a beast, nor the fish leape into the kettle."

And he continues: "But certainly there is fowle, Deare, and Fish enough for the taking if men be diligent," which equally well describes the Maine of 1623 and 1635.

The discovery of this part of the North Atlantic shore is usually credited to John Cabot of Bristol, on his second voyage in 1498.

The honor of making the first detailed contributions to accurate geographic knowledge of Maine must, however, be shared by a Frenchman and an Englishman: Samuel de Champlain and the aforementioned Captain Waymouth.

In 1605 both Champlain and Waymouth were sailing along the Maine coast. So near did they come to meeting that in midsummer Champlain heard from an Indian chief on the Kennebec of the presence of an English ship ten leagues to the eastward, which was undoubtedly Captain Waymouth's Archaengel.

The race was on between the French and the English; and the Maine region was destined to be eventful borderland for a century and a half in the contest for control between New England and New France.

Settled by Sieur de Monts. The first settlement in Maine was made by Sieur de Monts, who in 1603 had obtained from the king of France a trading concession for Acadia, then defined as extending from Cape Breton Island to the latitude of Philadelphia. With Champlain as his lieutenant, de Monts set sail for the New world fully equipped for his colonization venture.

Some three months later, on June 28, 1604, a small island in a sheltered river was selected as best adapted for a fortified settlement and trading post. This island was named Saint Croix and was not far above where the river now bearing the same name empties into Passamaquoddy bay. Here, on what is now also known as Dochet Island, was erected a group of dwellings in part built of timber brought from France, with a storehouse, dining hall, kitchen, and blacksmith shop. Gardens were laid out, all carefully planned by Champlain.

The site of this earliest but short-lived settlement in Maine, which antedated Jamestown, Quebec, and Plymouth, was not wholly obliterated. Before the Pilgrims.

In a speech in congress 100 years after statehood was granted to Maine, Representative Robert Luce of Massachusetts, himself Maine born, remarked that Maine might more fittingly be called the older sister of Massachusetts than her daughter. And the records of early settlement and trade well bear out this contention.

On Capt. John Smith's map of New England of 1614, for example, the site which is now York was named Boston, thus locating in Maine, so far as maps go, the first New World Boston—and all this before the Pilgrims even landed!

When the Pilgrims set foot on Plymouth Rock, not a few Englishmen had already been sojourning on the Maine coast and even had wintered there. The welcome of the Indian sachem Samoset was in the Pilgrims' own tongue, learned from the fishermen on the Maine coast. Indeed, thirteen years before, in 1607, the Popham colonists built a fort in "that northern colony" which mounted 11 pieces of ordnance. They also erected a church and launched a 30-ton vessel—a fine record of English piety and preparedness.

"Morning sickness"—is caused by an acid condition. To avoid it, acid must be offset by alkalis—such as magnesia.

Why Physicians Recommend Milnesia Wafers

These mint-flavored, candy-like wafers are pure milk of magnesia in solid form—the most pleasant way to take it. Each wafer is approximately equal to a full adult dose of liquid milk of magnesia. Chewed thoroughly, then swallowed, they correct acidity in the mouth and throughout the digestive system and insure quick, complete elimination of the waste matters that cause gas, headaches, bloated feelings and a dozen other discomforts.

Milnesia Wafers come in bottles of 20 and 40, at 35c and 60c respectively, and in convenient tins for your handbag containing 12 at 25c. Each wafer is approximately one adult dose of milk of magnesia. All good drug stores sell and recommend them.

COUNTY FARM AGENT'S LETTER
FARM PRICES TOP AVERAGE IN U. S.

Michigan potato and bean prices rose while general livestock prices fell for the 30 days ending May 15. The index of Michigan farm prices dropped from 106 to 103 for the period ending May 15. It is still two points higher than the nation's average, as estimated by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Beans showed a gain of eighteen cents a bushel over the preceding months as they brought an average price of $1.41. Potatoes brought seventy cents a bushel for a five cent gain over the preceding period, and a twenty cent increase from the beginning of the year. Michigan livestock prices brought an average of $6.20 per hundredweight, which was lower than prices in other midwestern states. Probably due to the fact that Michigan farmers sell many dairy cows and calves for beef purposes. Many midwest states sell only high grade beef stock.

Hogs showed a drop of seventy cents per hundredweight for the best price since January. Sheep and lambs prices rose slightly to offset a drop in two previous periods. Sheep brought $3.80 and lambs $9.00.

Nature's Tiny Dams Stop Floods at Grass Roots

Flood control begins at the grass roots. Run-off should be controlled for an entire watershed; from the crest of the hills right down to the mouth of the rivers. In the uplands, at the headwaters of all streams, the water is retarded run-off by throwing across practically every foot of land under forest or grass cover—a maze of "slow," "stop," and "detour" signs, an interlacing system of tiny dams. A dead leaf, a blade of grass, or a root tangle stops a raindrop from running—changes its direction again and again, makes it creep away. Floods are made up of raindrops infinitely multiplied and brought together in a hurry.

Farmers are adapting nature's method of flood control when they keep their fields rough and plant sod-binding water-retaining crops.

Red Raspberries
Red Raspberries should be picked from 7 to 9 o'clock in the morning, according to extension workers at Michigan State College, East Lansing. Picking them early in the morning makes them keep better. If it is impossible to pick them early, extension workers advise that raspberries should be picked in the late afternoon.

Neighboring Notes

J. B. Munsell of Fowlerville has been acting as prosecuting attorney while Prosecutor Berriman is in Calumet, called there by the illness of his father.

On June 8 the oil station of Maurice Nash at Dexter was broken into and cigarettes, candy and other articles taken. Wednesday the Jackson police were called to the Frost Geer factory by the report that a stranger was offering cigarettes there for 75c a carton. He was arrested and 25 cartons of cigarettes, a number of socks, a flashlight and matches carrying the advertisement of Nash's oil station, was found in his possession. The man, James Anderson, Norristown, Penn., confessed and was turned over to Washtenaw county authorities.

See America First —in Michigan!

ARE you ready to begin studying maps? To pick out places you would like to visit, and sights you would like to see during your vacation? Then you can find a wide and wonderful assortment in a map of Michigan. It is the map of a state with an area of fifty-eight thousand square miles. Within its borders you can find many of America's outstanding points of interest. Scenes of historic association; great cities; beautiful modern buildings; vast open country crossed by the finest of highways; primeval forests; five thousand lakes, large and small; scenic beauty of every kind—all these lures, surpassing many of those which people travel abroad to see, are spread before you when you look in a map of the Wolverine State. We urge you to consider Michigan when planning your vacation. Let your friends in neighboring states know what holiday pleasures can be found here. You will be doing them a favor—and promoting good will for Michigan. As our part in such promotion, this series of advertisements is being published in newspapers throughout the State by a Michigan organization that can prosper only as the other citizens of Michigan prosper.

Manufacture of Manure
Manufacture of manure by treatment of straw or weeds with chemicals has proved successful in experiments at Michigan State College, East Lansing. One ton of dry straw was converted into two and a half tons of wet manure at a cost of seventy cents per ton of wet manure. Tests on college and experimental plots showed a fertilizing value superior to that of ordinary barnyard manure and equal to that of phosphate barn manure.

Philathea Notes

Since we are not holding a regular business and social session this month we should not forget some of the objectives that the Union is placing before us at this time. One is definite prayer for the convention which meets in Montreal on July 22-26, 1936, for the 37th World-Wide Baraca Philathea convention, or "Mountain Top convention," as it is known. President Lyons and General Counselor, Miss Henrietta Heron, will be "at home" at the convention church on Thursday, ready to assist delegates by personal talks. Rev. Andrew Telford will conduct a period of real Bible study. The keynote address will be given by Charles Forbes Taylor, D. D., known a few years ago as the English boy evangelist. Interesting features that may be enjoyed by the delegates, include an airplane and bus trip, a St. Lawrence River boat trip of four hours, a banquet, a mountain top trip by bus and branch-
os. They are looking forward to one thousand Baracas and Philatheas in Montreal.
Children's Day exercises last Sunday drew a large crowd and were much enjoyed.
Next Sunday the lesson subject is "Jesus Exalted" Luke 24: 36-58.

LIKE THE OLD DAYS OF THE KLU KLUX KLAN

An article in The American Weekly, with next Sunday's Detroit Times, reveals how the lawless activities of the Black Legion, recently exposed in Detroit, are much like the outrages of the notorious nightriders which terrorized parts of the country after the Civil War.

Public Confidence

Challenging a recently published statement that there is an "apparent loss of public confidence in banks," William A. Boyd of Ithaca, N. Y., asks why, if this were true, bank deposits are constantly increasing. "I maintain that any banking institution which has continued to serve its community since the trying days of 1929 must be enjoying the respect and confidence of that community, and I am sure that the very large majority of banking institutions which have come through this depression have never had to 'regain public confidence' as my

"AUTOMATIC— but not as automatic as electric hot water!"

Set the automatic timer clock on your electric range, and it will turn the oven on and off automatically, cooking your dinner while you are out for the afternoon. But as time-saving as this convenience is, it is not as automatic as a new electric service for the home: ELECTRIC HOT WATER. Here is the last word in hot water convenience, and it is completely automatic—it requires no attention whatever. Summer and winter, day and night, year in and year out, you need only turn a faucet... and there is your hot water on tap.

This carefree service frees you forever from such bothersome details as running up and down stairs to light a manually operated heater, the inconvenience and delay caused by having only lukewarm water in the pipes. You will find an unlimited supply of hot water a great comfort in your home... for bath and shower, for shaving and washing, for cooking, cleaning, laundering, dishwashing and countless other daily tasks. Stop in at any Detroit Edison office and let us give you complete information—without obligation—on electric water heating.

THE DETROIT EDISON COMPANY

NEW STATE HIGHWAY MAP

The map contains the latest corrected information on the various types of highways in Michigan, individual maps of the principal cities of the state, a mileage table of travel, line points, the Michigan State Ferry schedule, location of airports, State Parks, Forest Areas, State Posts and other pertinent information.

A new feature of the map this year is an improved type of section fold to provide easier access to any section of the map side. Many county roads now more heavily traveled than last year have been shown.

A wider scope has been given to the pictures and written material on the reverse side this year. Sports, points of interest, Michigan's industries and the highway system are illustrated. This side also includes the index of State Parks and an index of cities and villages listing their population and key to map location. This is the first edition of the 1936 map, others with necessary corrections will be available in July and September.

These maps are available at no charge and persons desiring copies may obtain them by writing to the State Highway Department. Please write me for additional copies if you need them.

Sincerely,
M. D. VanWagoner,
State Highway Commissioner.

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Shields, W. G. McQuillan and daughters, Barbara and Mary Elizabeth were visitors on Sunday at the L. G. Devereaux home. Barbara remained for a visit.

Trust Institutions

A directory of trust institutions published by the Trust Division, American Bankers Association, lists 2,853 institutions having aggregate capital funds of $4,416,000,000 and total resources of $35,443,000,000. It shows a total of 6,949 men and women engaged in this phase of bank work. The trust institutions comprise 1,356 state-chartered trust companies and banks and 1,497 national banks with trust departments located in 1,194 cities and towns.

Gardening Needs

With seeding and gardening time right at hand a new set of garden tools with which to do the work will make it much easier and pleasanter.

A new lawn mower will trim that grass down to a smooth even size when it is mowed. The kind we sell runs easy and smooth and will please the most particular person. Get a wheelbarrow to use as a "handy wagon" around the place; it will pay for itself in a season in back-breaking carrying by hand.

A full line of high grade garden tools awaits your selection. We sell nothing but the best.

Mrs. M. E. Darrow, Louis Clinton, P. W. Curlett and Miss Betty Clinton were in Ann Arbor, Monday.

Clarence Blades of Foltville and Miss Florence Racy of Detroit were married on June 6 by Justice Eric Singer of Brighton.

Mrs. Nettie Vaughn, who has been matron of the Pinckney Sanitarium since it was started about 50 years ago, has resigned and will move to her home on Unadilla street, recently occupied by Mrs. C. E. Bucher.

Garet Flintoft of New York, who has held a similar position at the Pherson hospital at H. A. Flintoft time.

Miss Helen Fiedler was home from Detroit over the week end.

Mrs. Gene Dinkel and Miss Carmen Leland were in Ann Arbor, Saturday.

Mrs. Will Nash, her daughter, Ruth, and son, Dr. James, motored to Chicago, Tuesday to spend the week with relatives.

Sealed bids have been asked for the Macabee Hall at Plainfield. This was a great community center years ago but is little used now.

A. M. Roche expects to start his two horses, Diamond Dewey and Ruby Flint, tonight. He will drive Ruby Dewey, a colt, and his brother, Geo., Diamond Dewey.

Ralph Harris, who is employed on the new Pinckney school, fell from the scaffold last Thursday while taking a wheelbarrow load of brick up to the gym. He was taken to the Pinckney Sanitarium where no broken bones were found. He was able to resume work next day.

CARE PREVENTS FOOD POISONING

Food poisoning during the summer is very often caused by improper refrigeration or lack of other protection of foods, in the opinion of extension workers in home economics at Michigan State College, East Lansing.

Church suppers, picnics and fairs take their toll every summer because of carelessness. An example is in handling sandwiches stacked in warm places permitting the growth of harmful bacteria.

"Moist or soft cooked food should be kept in a refrigerator, or where no refrigerator is available, the food should be recooked before serving, even if it shows no sign of spoilage," they say. "Food should never be exposed for more than a few hours to a temperature above 50 degrees Fahrenheit."

"Investigations of the U. S. Food and Drug administration show that carelessness is responsible for practically all the food poisoning cases studied."

Extension workers recommend that food should be kept free from insects and other carriers of micro-organisms; cooked food should be served as soon as possible after preparation; food with an unusual smell or appearance should never be eaten; and extreme care should always be taken in handling household insecticides in the kitchen and pantry.

The state press claims there was discussion in the Michigan delegation to Cleveland over the refusal of Senator Vandenberg to play ball with them. He refused to release his delegates until after Landon's nomination was assured. This was too late for Michigan to get on the band wagon. Then he gave notice that he would not accept the vice-presidential nomination. A boom was then started for Governor Fitzgerald. Frank McKee is said to have had the votes of ten states lined up for the governor, on condition that Vandenberg would nominate Fitzgerald. This he did not do. Frank McKee was not popular with the Michigan delegation for the reason that he is a first cousin of Edward Barnard, bitter Fitzgerald foe.

SIX AMENDMENTS MAY BE SUBMITTED TO VOTERS

With the deadline for submission of initiative petitions, proposing amendments to the state constitution still a month and a half away six proposals have thus far been approved as to form in the office of the Secretary of State. The deadline for the submission of signed petitions is at least four months prior to the election. A total of 125,893 signatures will be required this year.

In addition to any proposals which may be placed on the ballot by initiative petition, two originating in the 1935 legislature will be offered to the voters. These would provide that one, police might offer as evidence any weapon seized near a residence without a search warrant; and two, home rule and tax limitations for counties.

An important initiative petition which has been approved as to form would eliminate the ad valorem tax on real estate and personal property and provide for a tax on the income of property.

The other five, in brief, provide: 2. For the signed legislative body and civil service in state and county government and other changes.

2. Exemptions from the state retail sales tax of the sale of many staple goods.

3. That owners of other than residential property assessed at $50,000 or less, would be compelled to furnish a stipulated amount of employment.

4. For the legalizing of horse race betting in private clubs.

5. For a one-man state liquor control commission for the collection of state taxes, placing liquor sales in private hands.

STATF HAS TROUBLE GIVING BACK $10,000

In 1934, the state legislature reduced the cost of passenger automobile license plates from 55 cents to 35 cents per hundred pounds. A refund was immediately in order for the many thousands of car owners who bought their 1934 plates at the higher rate. Checks were accordingly mailed out to all entitled to refunds, to the addresses given when they purchased their plates.

Envelopes containing the check came back "unclaimed," by the mail sack full, indicated that the addresses given were wrong, or that the people addressed had moved without leaving forwarding addresses.

In 1935, when car owners bought their new license plates, hundreds noted the cost was less, inquired about it and claimed their refund checks. But not in months have claims in any number been made for the refund checks which are in a special filing cabinet. There are about 2,000 of them and they average $5.00 each.

The checks will always be "good." As a matter of actual practice, there is no statute of limitations applicable to checks written by the Treasurer of Michigan, on warrants of the Auditor General. Rebate and refund checks 10 and 12 years old are returned, cashed, to the Department of State, from time to time.

There are from 75 to 100 checks in payment of Michigan's 1921 "soldiers' bonus," which have never been claimed. They were returned by postal authorities to the office of State Treasurer, many years ago, and will be paid promptly to anyone proving claim to any of them.

The mystery of checks never claimed and others claimed but apparently never cashed, is an unfortunate one at the state capital.

PWA ACTIVITIES LED BY SCHOOLS

Harold L. Ickes' Public Works Administration used $175,734,691 adding nearly 30,000 classrooms to accommodate more than 1,000,000 students to the nation's public school facilities. PWA statistics showed today.

Second largest PWA activity was spending $83,306,390 for 512 hospital projects, including buildings that will care for 40,000 additional patients.

The bulk of PWA school loans and grants went for new high schools and elementary institutions. Facilities for general student bodies included auditoriums, gymnasiums, cafeterias, libraries and laboratories.

California led all other states in the number of school projects, 474 new ones and 503 repair jobs. The California program was necessary to construct earthquake-proof buildings or repair those damaged by quakes.

To date, PWA has built or repaired 109 hospitals, and provided new equipment. Institutions were financed in almost every state, and in Alaska and the Virgin Islands.

TO CELEBRATE 25th ANNIVERSARY

The Chamber of Commerce and other civic organizations of Oscoda and Ausable will celebrate the 25th anniversary of that disastrous fire that left both boroughs a mass of smoldering ruins on July 2nd to 5th.

Great preparations are being made by way of entertainment and amusement for those in attendance, as Oscoda is one of the leading tourist camps along Lake Huron, by way of route 23, has a fine bathing beach and good fishing, known to all who enjoy that sport.

A cordial invitation is extended to all citizens and tourists to come, enjoy and share the hospitality of the home folks of Oscoda and Ausable. Dr. McKelvey of Oscoda, son of E. A. McKelvey of Rush Lake, is chairman.

These two towns were cities in the lumbering days, Oscoda having a population of 25,000. Its population now is about 500. After the fire, many went to Detroit. A large Oscoda-Ausable association exists there now, and holds a big picnic once a year.

SYNOPSIS

Jeb Braddon, young and fantastically successful broker of Chicago, is infatuated with Agnes Gleneth, beautiful daughter of a retired manufacturer. Rodney, a doctor, in love with Agnes, visits his brother, Jeb, Rod plans work at Rochester. Jeb suggests that he make a try for Agnes before leaving. In Rod there is a deeper, obstinate decency than in Jeb. Agnes believes to be happy, a girl must bind herself entirely to a man and have adorable babies. Rod visits Agnes and tells her of his great desire, but realizes it can never be fulfilled. Agnes' mother is attempting to regain her husband's love. Agnes has disturbing doubts as to what attracts her father in New York. Jeb tells Agnes he is going to marry her.

He laughed in his honest way. "Two months that I distinctly remember. Vaguely before that—exactly how long vaguely, I don't know. D'you care?"

"Have you always done that?" "Spotted buildings for a start with some one? Yes, I guess I have. But I've never brought a girl to her building before."

The building was a tall, new apartment structure of splendid spread and height, with an agent in the ground-floor offices only too glad to show them through.

Of course some one might enter and recognize them; some acquaintance might step into the elevator which lifted them from floor to floor. That made it more exciting; yet it was disturbing enough to step into an empty apartment, and having inspected the front rooms, follow a pattering little spectacle man into another chamber, and have him turn to Jeb and you and say: "If you like separate rooms, here are two perfect ones with a bath between. On the other hand, if you prefer the same room, this is beautifully adequate for twin beds, and of course for a double."

This was more than last night. Oh, this was much more! To think upon things definitely, to look upon life here with Jeb.

He sent the little chattering Mr. Colver pattering off on an errand, and in this room so beautifully adequate for "them," Jeb swung her up in his arms.

"Let's make it soon, Glen; not wait! Why should we wait? We'll marry with a wedding, as we ought to do. At church, and a reception at the house; but all that need be only a month away. Your ring's being made; I'll have it tomorrow. Today, I'll leave this place; we'll furnish it together."

She was trembling in his arms. "You want to, Glen?"

"Yes; I want to."

"All right, then!"

"No! Not all right! I can't say it, Jeb! Oh, I wish I could!"

"Then for God's sake, why can't you?"

For at that moment he did not doubt himself at all. Some day this overwhelming want, this desire, might die as he must die—some day. But he was all lover now.

"I can't."

Other sounds returned to them; the blare of radio so loud that it was audible from below, even through these solid and sound-deadened floors.

Agnes thought: "Some child downstairs is doing that."

Mr. Colver was returning, and before he re-entered the room, Jeb dropped her feet to the floor and released her.

"I might show you how this arrangement looks when furnished," Mr. Colver offered.

"That's a good idea," said Jeb. "You'll look, won't you?" He turned it upon Agnes. "I'd like to, too," he said, for the agent's benefit, "but I ought to be back at my office. But you'll look further."

"Yes," said Agnes, "I'll look." For she realized that, by agreeing, she was lessening his chagrin.

It was astonishing afterward to look back and consider that this crack in his character—this moment's pique to his pride and her response to it—could so profoundly affect the rest of her life. Except for it, she would have left the building with him. As it was, the three of them got into the elevator together; Agnes and Mr. Colver got out on the next floor; Jeb descended to the street.

The radio, which Agnes had heard when in the empty apartment above, was roaring from within the door before her. Evidently it had a large and powerful amplifier which must have been turned on full. It was impossible to ignore the noise.

"Mrs. Lorrie," said Colver, raising his voice to be heard, "must have had the radio tuned to some quiet program and forgotten it and gone out. Then this came on."

Colver tapped on the door, evoking no response. He rapped louder. "Don't come in!" a girl's voice screamed. "Don't come in!" And its timbre of terror thrilled through the door, while the radio uproar continued. "For God's sake, come in! Come in!" the girl now was shrieking.

Little Mr. Colver went pale as Agnes stared at him. "That's Mrs. Lorrie," he was saying. "She's very young." And he tried to turn the knob of the door.

"For God's sake, come in!" "Mrs. Lorrie! I can't!" Mr. Colver managed to shout. Then Agnes heard the knob turned from the inside, and the door swung in, a girl holding with both hands to the knob and supporting herself upon it.

"Who're you?" She glared at Agnes. Suddenly the terror in her eyes turned to awful, imploring relief, and she thrust the door away from her and seized Agnes, clamoring to her: "Oh, God, I'm glad to see you—glad to see you!"

"Mrs. Lorrie!" the little agent was mouthing. "Why, Mrs.—Mrs. Lorrie!"

It was Colver who must have closed the door; at any rate, it was closed behind them, and the three were within in the apartment. All the time, the radio sustained its roar. At last, Colver went to the cabinet and shut it off and the silence re-echoed.

The girl called Mrs. Lorrie never for an instant relaxed her hold on Agnes. She dragged Agnes down beside her in a big overstuffed chair which had a litter of cigarettes about it.

"What's happened?" Agnes implored.

"Oh, what has happened?"

"Nothing's happened!" the girl declared. "Oh, I'm in a hell of a mess!"

She was soft and moist and warm where her body pressed against Agnes. But her hands were cold and moist in her clamoring terror. There was gin on her breath, but she was not drunk. That was not the trouble with her.

A heavy, sensuous perfume overpowered the gin; it seemed to be all over her, especially in her short mane of hennaed hair. She had arched, plucked eyebrows, and mascaraed lashes, and skin splashed with rouge which perspiration had streaked; her wet lips had distorted the crimson smears of lipstick. She was slim but plump-bosomed, and she was in negligee—lacy, fussy underwear and sheer stockings under her lace and pink-silk peignoir.

Her neck and shoulders and arms and her legs curled under her were slender and dainty. She would be pretty, Agnes realized, if she were not in such a state; and she was no older than Agnes herself.

"Mrs. Lorrie, what's the matter?" the little agent Colver begged of her. "Can't you tell me what's the matter, Mrs. Lorrie?"

"Don't go down there!" Mrs. Lorrie cried.

"I'll look for something—salts," Mr. Colver said, and he started toward the bedrooms—whereast the girl screamed, and Colver stopped.

"Go on!" called Agnes. "See what happened!"

The girl pushed back from her and leaped to her feet, but then she did not move; she stood swaying slightly as she stared toward the bedrooms, where the little agent had disappeared.

"Oh!" she heard, and Agnes heard Colver's cry. "Mr. Lorrie! Mr. Lorrie!"

Then there was nothing they could hear clearly till Colver came back.

He was so scared that he looked silly.

"You know what we walked in on? A killing—a killing," he rambled at Agnes almost as if Mrs. Lorrie was not there. "He's dead back there—the blood on the floor!"

"Who?" Agnes managed.

"Her husband—Mr. Lorrie—he rented this apartment from me! He's on the floor in there—with holes shot in him. She shot him! That's what we came in on!"

The girl continued to sway. She had shut her eyes and opened them and shut them. "You don't know a damn thing what I did! What he did, what I did! You don't know a damn thing!" she cast back, with her eyes shut. Then she fell forward, and Agnes caught her.

Pressed down in the huge soft chair by the weight of the girl, Agnes did not move; and the warm, limp form she held was motionless. She held her in her arms and stared over her at the sun slanting in through the south windows; and Agnes recollected that thus the sun was slanting in upstairs in the empty room, the duplicate of this, which she had examined with Jeb—how long ago? Ten minutes ago?

Here, in this apartment, had husband and wife lived together? This wife in her arms, and the husband on the floor in there with holes shot in him.

The wife—she was a widow now; and was she also a murderer—lay limp across Agnes and the soft overstuffed arms of the chair; she lay on her breast, her head hanging down. Agnes roused to an effort and turned her over.

"What you want?" the girl complained as if from sleep. Agnes shook her. "Did you do it?" "Maybe I did."

But again Agnes shook her. "What you want?"

"When was it? What time did you do it?"

"Two o'clock. The damn clock was striking when I come out here."

Two! Now, by the ticking, gold-faced clock on the mantel, it was a quarter past three.

"You sat here all the time?"

"Sure I sat here." And this recollection now roused her to pity for herself. "All alone. All alone!"

Suddenly, startlingly, a phone bell rang.

The arms about Agnes clenched tighter and then let go. The girl pushed back and leaped up and scurried to the instrument on the stand in the corner. "Hello! Hello!" Then she heard a voice, and she dropped to one knee as she made response, whispering; but in the stillness of the room her voice came clear. "Oh, God, Bert!" she said; and she listened again.

She wanted to speak, but she stared at them and did not.

"Bert," she repeated the name, "something's happened. . . . Yes; to hourly! He died today." And she slammed down the phone on its rest.

Now Colver seized the phone.

"Operator?" he clamored. "Operator? Give me the police!"

Halfway from the phone, the girl, Mrs. Lorrie, had stopped and turned, but she made no interference at all; she merely listened to him call the police.

Agnes had risen from the great soft chair, and the girl seized her hand.

"Now you help me," Mrs. Lorrie demanded. "Get me a lawyer. I've a right to a lawyer, the best damn lawyer in this town. You don't know what happened here—or anything! Get me that lawyer!"

"What lawyer?" said Agnes.

"O'Mara. Martin O'Mara; that's his name. Oh, do that for me, won't you? Just get him on the wire; and I'll talk to him."

She was back at the telephone and fumbling at the pages of the directory so pitifully that Agnes took the book from her hand and found the name Martin O'Mara; and then she made the call.

First a woman's voice answered; then a man's said: "O'Mara."

"Here he is," said Agnes, but the girl had slumped to the floor.

"I am calling," said Agnes into the phone. "I am calling from an apartment where a man has been killed."

"All right," said the voice O'Mara. "Go on. What apartment? Where is it?"

Agnes told him. "I do not know the people," she proceeded. "Only their name. It's Lorrie. I just happened in. I am here with Mrs. Lorrie now."

"All right. Go on. Who's killed?"

"Her husband."

"How was he killed?"

"She shot him."

"All right. Go on. Who are you?"

"I'm Agnes Gleneth."

"Related to Robert C. Gleneth?"

"He's my father."

"Did you say you didn't know the Lorries?"

"I didn't."

"All right. Go on. Then how did you happen in?"

"I was with the agent. I was looking at another apartment in the building."

"All right. Have the police been called?"

"Just now, they were."

"All right. Now try to remember this: Tell Mrs. Lorrie I am coming at once. Tell her to talk to no one, not to any one—not even to you, until I get there. Especially and absolutely she is not to talk to the police. Tell her they cannot make her talk. No one can; no one has a right to. Tell her to stay there and not to try to go away, and not to let any one take her away."

"And you must stay there too; and you had better not talk till I get there. You are going to be a witness in this case; you cannot possibly escape it. I am very sorry for you, but there is now nothing that I or any one can do about it. I will be there as soon as I can."

Agnes put down the phone. No man had ever sought, by his voice, to rule her so. She felt, as she faced about, that she ought to resent it; but she did not. She felt herself, instead, depending upon it—upon the assurance and domination of that man (a voice and a name O'Mara) who was on his way to her.

The girl on the floor had sat up. "You got him for me?"

"Yes," said Agnes, "I got him. He's coming now."

Little Mr. Colver was at a window. "Here's the police," he said. "A—a homicide squad, I suppose."

"You're not to talk to them," Agnes said to Mrs. Lorrie. "You're not to say a word to any one. They have no right to make you. You're not to say a word about anything till Mr. O'Mara gets here."

FROM AROUND MICHIGAN

Lakeview—Lightning ripped the sole off one of George Behnwald's shoes here recently and knocked him down but did not burn him.

Cadillac—The city has agreed to donate a site for a State Police post as soon as funds are allotted for the building. The plan has received WPA approval.

Ann Arbor—University of Michigan graduates have better opportunities for jobs before them this year than have existed at any time since 1929, department heads at the University declared.

St. Johns—A Michigan Peppermint Growers Association has been formed with headquarters here. It was pointed out that because of soil and climate, Michigan farms produce a peppermint oil which can be obtained nowhere else in the world.

Mt. Pleasant—The Appleblossom Club, student organization at Central State Teachers College, has leased a 53-acre plot of ground north of Edenville on the Tittabawassee River to build a lodge and summer camp for underprivileged children in Central Michigan.

Capac—Run over by a 400-pound field roller, Wyla Mae Harrison, 11 years old, suffered a fractured right leg and face abrasions. Three teeth were crushed out. The girl fell while trying to climb the tractor drawing the roller on the farm of her uncle, Donald Dobbins, near Capac.

Grosse Ile—Beating the scheduled air transport time by more than an hour, Lieut. Charles F. Greber, commanding officer of the Grosse Ile naval reserve base, flew from Detroit to Washington in two hours, 12 minutes and two seconds in the first speed trial between the two cities. The National Aeronautical Association made the announcement. Lieut. Greber flew a Grumman F-2.

Lansing—Members of the National Sportsman Pilot Association will congregate July 20 in Detroit for a formation flight toward Mackinac Island, where they are to hold their annual rally. Ninety pilots in their own planes will meet at Detroit, fly to Northport Point and then to the St. Ignace airport. The association is composed of amateur pilots interested solely in the advance of aviation.

Alpena—Nine lifelong friends, ranging in age from 80 to 96 years, gathered here to celebrate the 88th birthday of Philip LaRose, Sr., of Alpena. The combined ages of the 10 men aggregated 868 years. Guests included, Lewis Pake, 80, renowned deer hunter; William Baker, 82; Ovilia Robinson, 86; Prudence Bedard, 82; Louis Aure, 82; Andrew Wagner, 82; Joseph Baker, 96; Gilbert Grenier, 86; and Mr. Lafleur, 84.

Ann Arbor—President Alexander G. Ruthven of the University of Michigan is giving new consideration to a request of law enforcement officers that a complete crime detection laboratory be set up at the university. Such a laboratory would establish the university as a pioneer in the field. The laboratory would have equipment for obtaining ballistics, pathological and other evidence requiring scientific training and knowledge.

Cheboygan—Salvaging of 125 tons of coal and the equipment of a vessel sunk for six years in 40 feet of water in Georgian Bay will be attempted next fall by Capt. E. J. Laway, Cheboygan's red-bearded alderman and diver. The boat was his freight steamer, the E. J. Laway, Jr. Salvaging work will be directed from his new steam barge, the M. H. Stuart. The value of the coal alone would compensate for the cost of raising the craft, he says. He hopes to raise the ship and convert it into a scow.

Caro—One of the world's largest privately owned collections of Indian relics is housed in the farm home of William J. England, seven miles north of Caro. Forty years ago England began collecting Indian relics and he has made a detailed study of his hobby as his specimens grew in number. His collection ranges from the largest of Indian mortars and pestles to tiny arrowhead "bird" points. Every specimen is catalogued with a description of where it was found and the kind of material.

East Lansing—Dr. H. J. Stafseth, professor of bacteriology at Michigan State College, said that he had isolated a germ which has been responsible for killing apparently healthy dogs within a few minutes. It is a streptococcal organism which seems to be more or less harmless to mature dogs but causes swift death if transmitted to puppies. Many kennel owners have lost heavily, some of them losing entire litters. Dr. Stafseth developed the vaccine to immunize the mothers but was still seeking an immunizing agent for the young.

Lansing—Retail food prices in Michigan were 8 per cent higher in May than in April but 5.1 per cent under prices of May, 1935, the Department of Labor and Industry announced. Irish potatoes reached a new high, jumping from 25 cents a peck to 34 cents. In May, 1935, the price was 13 cents. Department statisticians figured the cost of feeding a family of four persons at $7.01 a week for April of this year and at $7.22 for May. The figures are based on a list of 32 staple items prescribed as necessary for a balanced diet.

Bedspreads Welcome Delicate Lilac Motif

Dark and light lilacs, tied with a flourish into the loveliest of floral sprays, is far and away the nicest—and easiest—flowery touch one can give a bedroom. Even an amateur will find the large spray easy to embroider on a bedspread with four smaller sprays on the bolster, or scarf ends. The flowers are entirely formed of lazy-daisy stitch and French knots, the leaves of blanket stitch—the rest is in outline. With cotton or rayon floss the designs are seemingly done in no time, in shades of lilac, orchid, or palest yellow.

Pattern 1152 comes to you with a transfer pattern of a motif 18 by 21 inches and two reverse motifs 4 by 5½ inches. Color ideas; illustrations of stitches; material requirements.

Send 15 cents in coins or stamps to The Sewing Circle, Needlecraft Dept., 82 Eighth Ave., New York, N. Y.

QUAKES RARE IN ENGLAND

Earthquakes are rare in England, the average being one a year. The world average is about 600 a year.

Iron the Easy Way

GENUINE INSTANT LIGHTING Coleman SELF-HEATING IRON

The Coleman is a genuine instant lighting iron. All you have to do is turn a valve, strike a match and it lights instantly. You don't have to insert the match inside the iron—no burned fingers. The Coleman heats in a jiffy; is quickly ready for use. Entire ironing surface is heated with point the hottest. Maintains its heat even for the fast worker. Entirely self-heating. Operates for 1½ an hour. You do your ironing with less effort, in one-third less time. Be sure your match iron is the genuine Instant-Lighting Coleman. It's the iron every woman wants. It's a wonderful time and labor saver—nothing like it. The Coleman is the easy way to iron.

New Way to MEASURE OIL VALUE

After you drain and refill your crankcase, how far do you go before you have to add the first quart? If you don't know, it's worth checking. This simple test gives you the real measure of oil economy and of oil quality, too. Because the oil that stands up best between refills is giving your motor the best lubrication. Try the "First Quart" Test with Quaker State. See if you don't go farther than you ever did with any other oil under similar driving conditions. Quaker State Oil Refining Company, Oil City, Pa.

Dillon and Singer Teams Win Again
Paul Singer Pitches 2-Hit Game.

In the Pinckney softball league games last week the two leading teams were again victorious, Dillon winning from the Singer team, 9 to 8, and Clark defeating Ledwidge, 5 to 1. The first game was an upset. Singer went into the 7th inning with an 8 to 3 lead, but Dillon scored 6 runs to win. In the Wednesday contest Paul Singer only allowed two hits.

Hubert Ledwidge was the only hot-crun hitter last week.

Springtide Renewal

TO THOSE who love to watch the changing seasons, the dawning of springtime in the fields and woods and even along the city streets, is ever new. Each returning year one welcomes signs of earth's awakening—the bursting buds, joyous bird songs, the delicate unfolding of the first wild flowers. Surely this ever-recurring miracle of spring has some significance of permanent value to those who love to watch it.

Once a woman sat by her kitchen window burdened with the languor and weariness which she had been accustomed to associate with the spring season. Outside, in her little garden, a song sparrow perched on the fence, and the air was filled with his cheery song. Lilies were in bud and delicate shoots of grass were springing up. Suddenly she remembered the words of the Psalmist (Psalms 104:30), "Thou renewest the face of the earth." "Thou renewest," she thought, as she watched the signs of joyful awakening before her. Then she realized that she herself needed spiritual renewal and that in order to experience that renewal, she only needed to turn to God, who is the source of all life. She only needed to realize that her strength, vigor, and vitality depended upon Him, and not on times and seasons. The words of the prophet Isaiah (40:31), "They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength," came to her with a deeper significance, and she found herself suddenly rejoicing in her freedom from pain and weariness.

It is related of the prophet Moses that he was "an hundred and twenty years old when he died: his eye was not dim, nor his natural force abated" (Deuteronomy 34:7). As the seasons come and go, the human so-called mind is apt to measure life by their passing. But Christian Science reveals that man's life is not measured by the turning of the earth on its axis, nor by its revolution around the sun, for God is Life, and man reflects Life, because he is the image and likeness of God. As this scientific fact of being is understood, men will enjoy better health and longer life. In "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" (p. 248) Mary Baker Eddy writes, "Except for the error of measuring and limiting all that is good and beautiful, man would enjoy more than three score years and ten and still maintain his vigor, freshness, and promise."

The renewal of strength which results from a scientific waiting upon the Lord can be experienced at any time and at any season. It is not dependent on time or circumstance, but upon the understanding of the ever-presence of God, divine Mind, who is the source of all vitality and strength and activity. There is "no variability, neither shadow of turning" in the truth of God's ever-presence.

Mrs. Eddy also writes (ibid., p. 246), "Let us then shape our views of existence into loveliness, freshness, and continuity, rather than into age and blight." Are we sorrowfully looking forward to "age and blight," or are we expecting every day a renewal of "loveliness, freshness, and continuity"? Are we companioning with these latter thoughts, or are we fearing the dark shadows of age and decay?

If our work seems burdensome and the day drags wearily, it is well to remind ourselves of the divine promise that "they that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run, and not be weary; and they shall walk, and not faint." This promise is available now, at the present moment. We can avail ourselves now of the ever-presence of divine Life, Truth, and Love. If the need is for more energy, that need is supplied through the understanding that God, divine Mind, is the source of all strength and activity. If to human sense the need is for rest, there are "green pastures" prepared for those who have need of such refreshment, and Love, the divine Shepherd, leads the discouraged and weary pilgrim beside "the still waters," where he may renew his spiritual strength and drink deeply of that which will satisfy and sustain him.—The Christian Science Monitor.
