Local Team Beats Manchester 12-7

Local Team Takes Loosely Played Game from Manchester to Stay Within Striking Distance of Lead. Play Hamburg Here Sunday.

Pinckney took a game from Manchester, Sunday by a 12 to 7 score. Next Sunday they play Hamburg at Pinckney and if they win this game they will be in first place. In two league games played with Hamburg so far, each team has won one.

Harlo Haines started Pinckney's offense on Sunday. Haines hit a home run in the first inning, but did not do much with him after that. Pinckney scored six runs in the third inning and four more in the fourth which proved to be sufficient. Kappeler relieved Scully and held Pinckney to two runs the last five innings. Jack Dilloway was the leading hitter with 3. Maycock and Bob Smith each got two. Two fast double plays by Manchester cut off two Pinckney batting rallies. Pinckney had to change her lineup on account of the absence of several regulars. Bud Dilloway played third base in place of Culver, who has a sore arm. Culver played left field. Maycock played center and Don Searles caught. Pinckney's fielding left much to be desired, but they made up for this by some lucky clotting, their 6 hits in the third inning, combined with two Manchester misplays, being responsible for 8 runs.

Next Sunday, Hamburg plays here. This will be Pinckney's big game of the year. A victory will put Pinckney in first place. The boys think they can take Hamburg and will bend all efforts to that purpose.

In the other games Sunday, Hamburg defeated Ann Arbor at Ann Arbor, 4 to 3 in 18 innings. Chelsea won a 27 to 0 victory over Saline in a one-sided game.

We received a copy of the Los Angeles Herald Examiner from Berne McCluskey of that place. Monday on the front page, with big headlines, was an account of the drowning of William Blackman at White Lake. The latter story stated that he drowned when his companions pulled the helmet off his head in 80 feet of water. Said helmet was made of an old paint can with lengths of rubber hose and an old rotary pump.

EISEL FAMILY REUNION

About 100 people attended the picnic in Eisele's woods, north of here Sunday, honoring Mr. and Mrs. Louis Eisele and son of New Mexico, who are visiting here. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Eisele and family and Miss Clara Eisele of Detroit. Chas. Eisele and family and Joe Eisele and family of Pontiacville, and Mrs. Sprentall. A basket dinner was served, and a fine time enjoyed by all.

Mill Pond May Hide More Victims

Detroit Officials Are Inclined To Believe That The Black Legion May Have Thrown More Victims Into Pinckney Mill Pond

Representatives from the office of Prosecutor McCrea of Wayne County and the Detroit police headquarters again visited Pinckney last Thursday afternoon and spent all of the afternoon and early evening questioning people here and in Howell. They are said to have expressed the opinion that more Black Legion victims have been disposed of in waters of the Pinckney mill pond. In the party were Assistant Prosecutor Wm. Dowling, Serg. O'Day of the homicide squad attached to the prosecutor's office and Detective Jack Harrell from police headquarters. There were 8 in the party and they came in two cars.

Among the Pinckney people they interviewed, were Mr. and Mrs. Lucius Doyle, Dr. C. L. Sigler, Mrs. Anna Reason, ye editor and several others. Lucius Doyle operates a boat livery on the Pinckney mill pond, and he and his wife remembered renting boats to both Dayton Dean and Harvey Davis, alleged Black Legion colonel, off and on for the past three or four years. According to them, Dean and Davis would arrive sometimes at 11:00 or 12:00 p. m. with several companions and rent a boat for the purpose of fishing for bullheads. Even if the night was wet or rainy they went just the same. Mr. Doyle was asked by Detroit officers if the same number always returned that went out in the boat. This he could not say as he was usually in bed when they brought the boat back. Davis and Dean were recognized by several in this section. Fred Teeple has sold ice at times when he was camping at Rush Lake. When Dean saw Mr. Doyle, Thursday, Wm. Doyle was. The latter often attended to the boat livery.

The Detroit party went from here to Howell where they conferred with the sheriff and prosecutor for two hours or more. We understand they inquired as to deaining the pond. Re turning to Pinckney about 4:30 p. m. they went to the home of Mrs. Anna Reason whom they were informed had some available pictures taken at the scene of the Coleman murder near Nash's bridge on May 26, 1935. The Dispatch editor talked with them there and lent them some pictures he had taken at Nash's bridge on May 25. He was introduced to Mr. Dowling, Serg. O'Day and Jack Harrell. Serg. O'Day, when asked by the Dispatch editor if he honestly believed there were any more human bodies in the Pinckney mill pond, said:

"Absolutely I do." By this time a crowd of 75 or more people had arrived to give Dayton Dean, the killer, the once over. Dean, the killer, the once over, was seated in one of the police cars, was seated in one of the police cars, was seated in one of the police cars.

Following their departure, the telephone calls came thick and fast. Among these were the United Press, The Detroit Free Press, The Detroit Times, Jackson and Lansing papers. The Free Press sent two men out who took pictures about 9:00 p. m. at Nash's bridge and Rush Lake. The Times men arrived here and also took many pictures. Friday morning an airplane was here taking bird-eye views of the town and Nash's bridge section. According to the Detroit reporters, this is one of the biggest things that ever broke.

Saturday morning, representatives from the Detroit police department and Wayne prosecutor's office again visited Pinckney. In the party were Prosecutor Duncan McCrea, Assistant Prosecutor Wm. Dowling, Serg. O'Day, Detective Jack Harrell, Meehan, Investigator Harry Colburn and reporters from the Detroit Times, Detroit Free Press and Associated Press with photographers. The party obtained two boats from Lucius Doyle and rowed to several spots on the Pinckney mill pond. Then they asked to see the large sink hole, west of Nash's bridge, near the old Donaldson farm. The Donaldson farm was never rebuilt. Since then the road leading to it has become overgrown with brush and is nearly impassable. M. J. Krason guided the party to the sink hole which is about 20x30 feet, and according to some, 200 feet deep. Harry Colburn, in a statement to the associated press, said that it would be impossible to drag the pond with any degree of success at this time. That the aquatic growth on the bottom is ten feet thick and anything thrown in would be quickly covered. Considerable opposition has developed to allowing the pond to be drained. Henry Ford, who contemplates raising the water, has so far withheld his permission, and many

TOO HOT FOR FAN DANCERS?

Fan dancers seem to be having a hard time making a living nowadays. At the recent Chelsea gala days, a fan dancer in the "Streets of Paris" concession was ordered out of town. She reappearance at a land office for a day, four state troopers, who viewed the dance, ordered her to put on more clothes. This she refused to do, claiming excessive draperies spoiled the interpretation of the dance.

We hear she will do her stuff at the Fowlerville Centennial this week. The Fowlerville Postmaster Miller expects to take that in, and if there is any fan dancer there we will tell you all about it in next week's issue.

DOG DID NOT HAVE RABIES

"Joe-Joe" the police dog owned by Gerald Kennedy, which recently bit Vern, the small son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Clark, proved not to have had rabies. The child was bitten while playing in the yard of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Kennedy, who have been keeping the dog. It was kept under observation for 15 days and then taken to Dr. Erwin, Howell veterinary. No rabies were found. It was put to death and the head taken to Ann Arbor by Walter Clark.

DILLINGHAM — HOOKER

Miss Loretta Dillingham of Lansing and Calvin Hooker of Pinckney were married at Saugatuck, Mich., by Rev. H. E. Maycroft, former Pinckney pastor on Saturday, July 25. Both young people are well known here. The bride is a successful school teacher and is now attending school in Lansing. The groom is employed as bookkeeper by the Economy Bailer Co. in Ann Arbor. He was formerly cashier in the Pinckney State Bank. Congratulations.

St. Marys Picnic Is August 6th

On That Date The Pinckney Catholic Church Will Hold Their Annual Chicken Dinner and Dance. Many Notable People Are Expected To Be Present.

On Thursday, August 6, St. Mary's Parish of Pinckney will hold their annual picnic. This has been a regular event for the past 10 years or more. The first picnic was held at Silver Lake. A number of old-timers here remember waiting out there to attend it. In those days the transportation to such functions was by slow lumbering wagons. Later, the location was changed, and for some 30 years the picnic was held at Jackson's, later Lapham's grove. Last year the picnic was held on the church grounds. These proved to be too small, and this year it will be held on the village square.

The day's festivities start with a big chicken dinner to be served from 11:00 A. M. until all are fed. This dinner is unexcelled, both for quality and abundance and one is given all it is possible to consume. In addition there will be games and amusements as well as ice cream and soft drink stands. The Farm Crest broadcasting truck is expected to be present and will make all announcements as well as broadcast musical programs from the air.

In the evening there will be a dance at the community hall. A good orchestra has been obtained and there will be dances for both old and young. So here is your opportunity if you desire to "ride the night fantastic."

As this is political year, the politicians will be in large numbers. This will include all the county candidates and some of the state and congressional ones. Among those expected are Congressman Blackney, Judge Sam Street Hughes, Mayor Boyesen, Andrew Transue and others. There is a possibility that Frank Murphy, Democratic candidate for governor, will attend. Anyway, he will be represented as will also Gov. Fitzgerald and George Welsh.

"Step on the starter and point your car this way. Remember—that on Thursday, August 6, all roads lead to Pinckney."

As we go to press, we are informed that Frank Murphy of Detroit, Democratic candidate for governor, has positively promised to be present at the picnic.

NOTICE

The regular meeting of Pinckney Circle of Good Deeds, will be held at the home of Mr. Bart Dallen on Thursday, p. m., August 13th. Lunch and program will be held by the committee at the hall. Cost of 15 cents. Everyone invited.

Current Comment

The entry of Judge Sam Street Hughes into the 6th congressional race would seem to benefit Congressman Blackney. Mayor Boyesen of Flint, another Townsendsite has also entered and the two will divide the old age pension vote to such an extent that it will not be a deciding factor. Mr. Blackney has neither come out in favor of the Townsend plan or against it. In a talk given at Pinckney last December, he stated that he would be in favor of it if an adequate convincing plan of financing it could be worked out. With strong candidates in the race from both Genesee and Ingham counties, Livingston county will be called upon to cast the deciding vote as she did in 1934. Andrew Transue, prosecuting attorney from Genesee, will be the Democratic candidate. He is now serving his second term as prosecutor.

In a press interview given out last week, Gov. Fitzgerald and Attorney General Crowley again affirmed that it was up to county officers to enforce their own laws, and that this especially applied to gambling and slot machines. So this indicates that nothing is left of Harry Toy's much heralded slot machine and gambling cleanup of two years ago. This was ushered in at the time with a fanfare of trumpets, and the statement by Gov. Fitzgerald that he was 100 per cent behind Mr. Toy. Raids were made here and there and some slot machines seized. Danny Sullivan and Lefty Clark closed their deluxe gambling places on the Macomb-Wayne county line. In Clare county some 50 warrants were taken out. One case was tried which resulted in an acquittal and the others were all dismissed. Mr. Toy was elevated to the supreme court. His successor, Mr. Crowley, at once threw the slot machine problem back into the laps of the sheriffs and prosecutors. Sullivan and Clark again opened up for business and the slot machines came out of hiding. Gov. Fitzgerald says the state cannot police 83 counties. The average person could have told him that two years ago.

Pinckney seems to be getting a lot of unsavory publicity. The Black Legion seems to have selected its numerous lakes, creeks, etc. as a place in which to dispose of their victims. The reason seems to be that Davis, the Black Legion leader and Dean are familiar with this section. Lucius Doyle has rented boats to men for fishing on the Pinckney mill pond. Also they seem to have spent much time at Rush Lake. Their murder instincts are, however, beyond understanding. The thought that they would have a negro out here from Detroit just for the pleasure of finding out what it felt like to kill a nigger, is beyond comprehension.

The authorities have enough already against the Davis gang of Black Legionnaires to send them up for at least 1,000 years each, and the grand jury investigation is still in session. None of them have been indicted or bound over for trial yet. Still they are endeavoring to dig up more evidence against them. The quickest way would seem to be to try them for what they already have against them. However, the continued investigations are for the purpose of incriminating other people and to solve unsolved murders if possible.

The Detroit dailies gave considerable space to an interview with James Schermerhorn, former editor of The Detroit Times, in which he stated that, like Al Smith, he was taking a walk this fall from the Democratic party, after 60 years' membership. We question this and contend that he was never known as a bonafide member of the party but was always an irregular. Back in 1920, Henry Ford was the Democratic nominee for Senator against Truman Newberry, Republican. Newberry was accused of using huge sums of money to win the election. Schermerhorn was an enthusiastic supporter of Newberry all through his campaign. Newberry won by a small margin. In 1932 Woodbridge N. Ferris was the Democratic candidate for senator against Charles Townsend, the other Republican senator whose support of Newberry during the senatorial investigation into his campaign expenditures enabled him to keep his seat. Mr. Ferris campaigned almost solely on this issue and defeated Mr. Townsend. Steps were taken to again try Mr. Newberry when he resigned, and James Couzens of Detroit was appointed. James Schermerhorn supported Senator Townsend strongly throughout his campaign. Classing Mr. Schermerhorn as a staunch Democrat of 50 years' standing, is just plain bunk.

Bloody Civil War Rages in Spain

CIVIL war, desperate and bloody, broke out in Spain, and though the government in Madrid declared it was in control of the situation, such news as got through the censorship indicated that the struggle was by no means ended. On one side were the Fascists and royalists led by Gen. Francisco Franco; on the other were the loyal troops and the workers, Communists and Socialists. The rebels started the game in Spanish Morocco and the Canaries and were soon in control there. Then Franco, who is only forty-three years old but a dynamic character, crossed over to Algeciras, followed by the Foreign Legion and a lot of Moors, Moroccans and black African troops. After a sharp battle at La Linea, close to Gibraltar, these contingents began a march northward toward Seville and Cadiz. There was severe fighting in San Sebastian, where the American embassy is located in summer, and in other border towns. Malaga was reported to be in flames.

Commanders of the rebels asserted their aim was to "save the republic," to keep order and to destroy the Marxists. In Barcelona their attack was directed especially against Luis Companys, president of the Catalan parliament, who was said to be besieged in his offices.

Jose Maria Gil Robles, leader of the Catholic C. E. D. A. (Confederation of Autonomous Right Parties) fled to Biarritz, France. An aviator who escaped the rebels in Morocco declared Gil Robles had instigated the revolt.

Premier Santiago Casares Quiroga resigned in favor of Diego Martinez-Barrio, speaker of parliament, but the latter held the office only a few hours. Then Jose Giral, former minister of marine, formed a cabinet with General Pozas, who has the support of both the powerful Civil Guard and Republican elements of the army, as minister of war.

The rebels sent word to the government that unless it capitulated they would bomb Madrid from planes.

Olympic Torch Started to Berlin Games

IN OLYMPIA, Greece, scene of the first Olympic games, a torch was lighted by the rays of the sun and a Greek runner seized it and started it on a 12-day relay to the sports field in Berlin where the Olympic flame is to be lighted on August 1. Five thousand distinguished persons were selected to carry the torch, these including King Boris of Bulgaria, King Peter of Yugoslavia, and a long list of princes, statesmen and sportsmen. On the last leg it was to be borne by S. Loues of Greece, winner of the marathon in the games of 1896. A hundred thousand Hitler youths will accompany Loues in a triumphal parade to the stadium.

Five thousand torches to carry the flame were donated by the Krupp works, so each of the bearers will retain one as a souvenir.

Hot and Dry Spell Broken by Rains and Cool Winds

RELIEF for the drouth-stricken regions in the Middle West came with rains in many sections and cooling winds that sent the temperature down toward normal. However, it was too late to save the crops in many states, and prices of foodstuffs continued to advance. The farmers began to receive aid from the government in the form of cash, and no one could deny that they needed this help.

Loss of life throughout the United States from the unprecedented heat wave exceeded 3,850, an all-time high.

Agronomists in Minnesota, Nebraska, Iowa, Illinois and Ohio expressed apprehension over the outlook for the corn crop unless general rains should develop rapidly. Arriving at Bismarck, N. D., to help co-ordinate drouth relief enterprises, Rexford G. Tugwell, resettlement administrator, was informed that approximately 60,000 farm families in the state were among the needy. A conference of state and federal officials in Bismarck developed a three-fold plan for the relief of dwellers in the desolated areas of the Dakotas, western Minnesota, eastern Montana and Wyoming. These included: Immediate advancement of money to needy families; repayable out of WPA earnings; granting of funds to farmers desiring to keep small livestock herds for the purchase of feed and subsistence to be repaid by work on WPA projects; loans and grants to owners of large scale cattle enterprises to cover the cost of shipping animals to other states for feeding.

Nazi Decrees in Danzig Crush Opposition

UNLESS the protests of Poland are effective, all opposition to Nazi power in the Free City of Danzig is due to be crushed. Dr. Arthur Karl Greiser, president of the Danzig senate, which is controlled by Nazis, has issued administrative decrees ordering:

1. Dissolution of any organization whose members, with knowledge of its executive board, spreads news "endangering the state interest."
2. Prohibition of review by the courts of police measures of a political nature, including those aimed at the right of assembly, the press, and free speech.
3. Prohibition of Jewish ritual slaughtering for food purposes.
4. Imposition of three month protective custody on persons declared to be "endangering the public peace."

Thus the city's constitution is virtually set aside, and the Poles especially, having extensive economic interests there, are indignant.

Doings of Townsends in Their Convention

AN ALLIANCE between Dr. Francis E. Townsend, Father Charles E. Coughlin and Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith in the interests of a third party was announced at the Townsendite convention in Cleveland, attended by 12,000 followers of the California doctor who advocates pensions of $200 per month for every person over sixty.

In an address before the convention, Father Coughlin bitterly denounced the present administration and President Roosevelt and called upon the delegates to follow Dr. Townsend in endorsing the candidacy of William Lemke for the presidency on the Union ticket.

Lemke himself appeared before the convention before it adjourned and made a speech in which he pledged himself to "stand four-square behind the old age pension movement" and denounced the present administration as "national lunacy." The delegates applauded the first statement, but otherwise were rather apathetic toward the Union party leader. Doctor Townsend made no plea for him but merely urged his followers to concentrate on the election of senators and congressmen.

Nanking Troops Take Control of Canton

REVOLT of the Cantonese against the Nanking government has collapsed and latest reports say government troops have entered Canton and taken over maintenance of peace and order. There was no opposition and the city was quiet.

Chen Chi-tang, the Canton war lord, deserted his followers and fled to Hongkong on a gunboat. There was a scramble to find Chen's alleged silver hoard, said to amount to many million dollars, but much of it is believed to be deposited in foreign banks.

The Nanking government gains possession of Kwantung province's fleet of more than 300 fighting planes, and also of extensive armaments. These latter include quantities of heavy artillery, field artillery and machine guns, nearly half a million rifles, numbers of anti-aircraft guns, tanks, the southwest's navy, two arsenals and one airplane factory.

Turkey Given Right to Rearm the Dardanelles

EIGHT signatories to the Lausanne post-war treaty have granted to Turkey the right to rearm the Dardanelles, and they, with Turkey, have signed a convention covering the matter. Only Japan made slight reservations because it is no longer a member of the League of Nations. The convention grants complete liberty to merchant marine passage through the straits in peacetime and wartime, even with Turkey at war, provided the commercial vessels do not assist the fighting powers.

The Russian navy is granted complete freedom in peacetime to leave and enter the Black sea through the straits, but nations outside will be subjected to limitations on passage of fighting ships through the channel.

During wartime belligerents will be prohibited from using the straits unless acting for the league.

Communist Campaign to Open on August 5

NATIONAL campaign headquarters of the Communist party have been opened in New York city and it is announced that Earl Browder, candidate for President, will start his speechmaking in Denver on August 5. From there he goes to Salt Lake City, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland, Ore., Seattle, Butte, Bismarck and Minneapolis. All his speeches will be broadcast.

James W. Ford, colored, the Communist party's candidate for vice president, will open his tour August 5 with an appearance in Scranton, Pa.

Attempt to Kill King Edward VIII of England

THE attempted assassination of King Edward VIII of England in London brought great alarm to the English speaking world. The attempt was made near Hyde Park and the monarch's life was saved by a woman bystander who grappled with the would-be assassin and wrested a pistol from him.

The king was returning to Buckingham palace from Hyde Park, where on horseback he had presented new colors to six battalions of the Grenadier, Coldstream and Scots guards.

In Paris, the celebration of France's national holiday, Bastille day, saw the Champs Elysees a scene of rioting with rightists and leftists in combat with each other and the police. The disorders began when leftists were returning from their own parade in the eastern section of the city.

Lewis and Others Are Summoned for Trial

IMMEDIATE splitting of the American Federation of Labor into two rival groups was averted by the action of the Federation's executive council in voting to bring to trial on August 3, the union leaders led by John L. Lewis on charges of "dual unionism." It had been reported earlier that the council had voted to suspend the 12 unions grouped as the Committee for Industrial Unionization.

The council's action was looked upon as a peace move in the crisis that threatens open warfare in the labor movement. It was precipitated by the drive to organize 500,000 workers in the steel industry into one big industrial union by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers and his followers.

The charges against the Lewis group include "competition as a rival organization with the A. F. of L.," fomenting an insurrection within the Federation; violation of contracts they have entered into with the Federation when granted their charters.

L. P. Ayers Predicts Big Business Improvement

PREDICTING 1936 will be the best business year since 1930 and "possibly since 1929," Colonel Leonard P. Ayers, economist of Cleveland, declared that statistics on all important business had shown substantial and "healthy increases" since the first of this year. Strikes, drouth and other difficulties have not affected increases in employment, markets and security exchanges, the economist said.

"More steel has been produced in the first half of 1936 than in all 1935," he pointed out. "A major factor in the increased steadiness of business has been well sustained employment among the factory workers making durable goods. Workers in the durable goods factories suffer most from lay-offs and shut-downs, but such has not been the case in the first half of this year and of last year."

Henry Ford Has Vision Concerning Foods

HENRY FORD, approaching his seventy-third birthday envisioned the eventual decline of farm animals as a source of the world's food and predicted that grains and other crops will largely be substituted for them.

"We can, I believe, get a more plentiful supply of food cheaper and better," he said, "by processing the products of the soil instead of asking cows and chickens to do it for us. In the future farm animals of all kinds will decline in numbers. We won't need them."

Army to Get Many New Fast Fighting Planes

PERFECTED plans of the War department for procurement of airplanes provide for the acquisition of 60 new fast fighting planes every month during the rest of this year. This has been made possible by the smooth functioning of a new purchasing plan started by Harry H. Woodring, assistant secretary of war.

Before the end of the year, 500 new planes will be ready for action, officials said. Plans have been made for the purchase of more than 900 planes of various types in 1937.

FROM AROUND MICHIGAN

Lapeer — A rural electrification program to add 600 miles of power lines in the Thumb is under way in Huron, Sanilac, Tuscola and Lapeer Counties.

East Tawas—Thousands of fish killed by the extreme heat and low water were removed from Tawas Lake. Pike suffered most, but many bass and perch were taken from the lake also.

Newberry—More than 100 persons were trapped temporarily in a forest fire north of here until a change in the direction of the wind permitted fire fighters to get the fire under control.

Lansing—Bids on $1,115,000 in road projects were asked by State Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagoner. The projects include pavement construction on trunk lines in Alcona, Gratiot, Montcalm, Newaygo and Roscommon Counties.

Flint—An airplane pilot, with an operating license only a week old, and his two passengers incurred only minor injuries when the plane in which they were riding struck high tension wires north of Flint. The plane fell 65 feet to the ground.

Detroit—A 48-year-old woman who began her driving career with a horse and buggy at the age of 3, and has driven automobiles 963,360 miles in the past 36 years without an accident or a traffic ticket, was selected as the safest driver in Michigan.

Escanaba—Ray Murphy, national commander of the American Legion, asserted that "the door of opportunity is wide open," for the Legion to earn "the priceless honor of being the greatest peace-time service organization our country ever has known."

Caro — During the period when the temperatures in Caro ranged upward to 108 degrees, Walter R. Ayre, proprietor of a chick hatchery here, went into his big incubator to keep cool. The temperature of the machine is maintained constantly at 98½ degrees.

Big Rapids—The hot, dry weather wilted zinnia plants—and thereby ruined this city's plans for a civic zinnia festival, with a queen and all that goes with such affairs. The Chamber of Commerce, sponsoring the proposed festival, said that 12,600 of the 29,000 zinnia plants in the city have been destroyed by the hot weather.

Lansing—Legal action against 18 oil producing companies of the Crystal Field was threatened by Milton P. Adams, executive secretary of the Stream Control Commission. The commission some time ago ordered 32 producing companies to cease polluting Michigan waters with brine from their wells. Only 14 have complied.

Dundee—Nine members of two Pennsylvania families were killed when the sedan in which they were riding was struck by a passenger train. The locomotive carried the car 75 feet to a high trestle and hurled the bodies of the victims 30 feet into the shallow water of the Raisin River. Wreckage of the automobile burst into flames and ignited ties of the bridge.

Mackinac Island — The horses which provide the chief means of transportation on this island must have treatment in accordance with their importance, the Mackinac Island State Park Commission decreed. To forestall further complaints of inhumane treatment of the horses, the commission has arranged for a state veterinarian to be stationed on the island for the remainder of the resort season.

Detroit—Fire of undetermined origin which destroyed the boys' dressing tent at the Belle Isle bathing beach proved a double calamity to 250 juvenile bathers. Not only did they lose their clothes but it was several hours before police and motorists were able to return them to their homes. With the river only a few feet away from the large tent, volunteer fire fighters on the beach found themselves without facilities to throw even a pail of water on the blazing tent.

Marquette—A Michigan "ghost town" is to walk again. The community of Big Bay, 30 miles northwest of Marquette, has received a new lease on life with the announcement that the Kerry and Hanson Flooring Co. of Grayling had purchased the mill, townsite and timber holdings of the Brunswick Lumber Co. and would operate them for eight or ten years. Big Bay had been considered "dead" for four years, along with many other former lumbering centers of the Upper Peninsula.

Lansing—The State Highway Department, in which stenographers have been fainting from the heat recently, computed the cost of moving last winter's snow from the State trunk line system. Accountants found that removal costs totaled $1,145,583, an average cost of $139.40 for each mile of trunk line highway. Officials recalled sub-zero temperatures and blizzards as they figured out that severe weather conditions last winter swelled the snow removal cost to $385,760 higher than in 1934-35.

Lansing—Democrats of Michigan will meet in Battle Creek Sept. 25 and 26 to choose their candidates for State offices.

Imlay City—A mother and her two-year-old son were killed and seven persons injured in an automobile crash near here.

Battle Creek—Operation of the A-B Stove Co. foundry, which has been idle for some time, has been resumed, giving employment to 100 men.

Munith — Members of the First United Brethren Church, four miles northeast of Munith, are celebrating the ninetieth anniversary of the founding of the church.

Pontiac—Randall Chapman, Lawrence Institute of Technology student, kept his glider in the air 40 minutes and reached an altitude of 4,000 feet, unofficially breaking a national and a state record.

Hastings—F. J. Bucknor, 60, of Barberton, O., dropped dead in a restaurant at Delta, soon after he was arrested by State Conservation Officers on charges of fishing under a license issued to his former wife.

Detroit—The number of criminal cases prosecuted in Wayne County during the first six months of 1936 totaled 12,098, a decrease of 3,516 over the second six months of 1935, according to Prosecutor McCrae's semi-annual report.

Sandusky—Moose roamed lower Michigan at a much later date than most persons believe. In 1856, a moose was killed in Worth Township, Sanilac County, and at about the same date another was killed in Maple Valley Township.

Richmond—John Nothoff, manager of a fox farm near here, says he owes his life to two police dogs. After he was overcome by heat and collapsed, his dogs dragged him into the shade and howled until neighbors came to his assistance.

Grayling—An Ohio school teacher brutally assaulted at a resort cabin in which she was spending her vacation, was in a critical condition in a Grayling hospital while officers investigated the attack and the subsequent drowning of the middle-aged operator of the resort.

Lansing—Lansing citizens will vote on a charter amendment providing half-pay pensions for members of the Police and Fire Departments. Under the proposal pensions would be paid policemen and firemen completing 25 years of service or who are totally disabled while on duty.

Lansing—School teachers lost in an attempt to have their salaries spread on a year-round basis. They now receive no pay checks during the summer vacation period. The board of education ruled the suggested change would increase clerical work and complicate the transfer of teachers from this to other cities.

Petoskey—Robert Fechner, national director of the Civilian Conservation Corps, envisions the organization as a permanent institution. The director, who is making a tour of the CCC camps in Michigan, expressed this belief in an address to CCC executive and army officers during a meeting at Camp Wolverine, near here.

Lansing—A pedigreed Duroc pig was honored with a life membership in the Lansing Optimist Club. The pig was a guest at the club's luncheon which opened a membership campaign. The distinguished porker will be rotated among members of the club. Each will have to provide it a home until he signs up a new member.

Allegan—All the lessons of transport, supply and tactics which the United States Army has learned since that morning in 1916 when Gen. John J. Pershing led his punitive expedition into Mexico will be reviewed in Western Michigan next month, when 24,000 regular and National Guard troops start their "big push" against Camp Custer.

Muskegon—Muskegon for the first time in 70 years of passenger ship service was the home port of a passenger-boat line. The Lake Michigan Lines Corp. established headquarters at the West Michigan Dock and Market Corp. The line operates ships to Milwaukee and Chicago. Its ships formerly were registered at Milwaukee and Manitowish.

Detroit—Doubling the amount of damages, Prosecutor Duncan C. McCrea filed a new $500,000 libel suit against the Times Publishing Co., publishers of the Detroit Times. McCrea's first declaration, asking $250,000, was dismissed recently by Circuit Judge Homer Ferguson on the grounds that it was too ambiguous and contained too much extraneous matter. The suit grows out of the publication of articles in the Times concerning McCrea and the Black Legion.

Flint—Genesee County farmers will not consider taking cattle from the drought areas through Government agencies, James R. Campbell, County agricultural agent, declared. He informed Governmental investigators that Genesee County could absorb 15 carloads of cattle and added restrictions as to quality and price. Local farmers learned their lesson in the 1934 drought, according to Campbell, when private operators culled western herds and left only scrub cattle for the Government shipments.

This is not magic from the Arabian Nights, but an actual fact—accomplished in your own kitchen by the simple process of stretching the linen in embroidery hoops and holding it under very hot running water. To make sure that the water is HOT at all times, I stand behind every hot water faucet in your home . . . day and night, summer and winter, year in and year out. I free you from all worry and responsibility. Once you enlist my services, your water heating problems are over.

"I bring you the luxury of abundant hot water for your home, heated automatically and without attention. When you want hot water, turn the faucet—and there is your hot water on tap. You need never again run up and down stairs to light a manually operated heater. Ended forever is the annoyance of waiting for water to get hot, the inconvenience and delay caused by having only lukewarm water in the pipes. I help make your housework easier and pleasanter, and save you time and labor.

TELEPHONES IN TRAILERS

Telephones in trailer coaches they've already appeared in Michigan's state parks and conservation authorities are wondering what next. The first telephone to be installed in a trailer coach has been in use at Mitchell State park near Cadillac. Installation was made for A. J. Coderstrom, a Cadillac resident and an employee of the telephone company. Trailer coaches with all their new specialized conveniences have been increasing steadily in number at Michigan's state parks, running as much as 50 percent of all tourist camps at William Mitchell State park, but so far Coderstrom's telephone is the first convenience of its kind provided.

AID WORK HORSE IN HOT WEATHER

Hudson of Michigan State College Staff Suggests Practices That Will Keep Animals in Harness During Summer.

Nineteen brief pointers, that range from horse care and veterinary bills for owners of work horses, have been compiled by Prof. P. S. Hudson of the animal husbandry department at Michigan State College. The pointers in these the proper feed and care. The information contained can be obtained by writing the Animal Husbandry Department at the college at East Lansing, or by contacting the county agricultural agent.

"Feed regularly," advises Hudson. "But do not feed grain when the horse is tired and hot. Fresh hay in the manger is sufficient until the animal has had a half hour to cool off. Water often, at least four or five times daily, but do not let an animal drink more than a pailful of 10 to 12 quarts when the horse first comes in from work if he is tired and very warm."

"Avoid sudden changes in feed from old to new grain or hay. Buttery or moldy feed causes colic and heaves. In general, feed one and one-half pounds of grain and one and one-half pounds of hay daily for each 100 pounds of weight. If moderate work is in schedule, a 1400 pound horse should have 15 pounds of grain and 17 pounds of hay."

"Horses should have salt available. Lick at all times in barn or pasture. Coughs and heaves should be avoided and kept clean to avoid sore shivers. Lift the collar frequently when the horse is working and wipe off the shoulders with the palm of the hand."

"As work decreases, the use of pasture may be increased. This will contribute to the health of the animal and reduce the cost of keeping him. Exercise is important, but if there is no place to turn out an animal, feed one pound of bran and six pounds of hay or potatoes to help keep the horse in condition."

WELFARE ROLLS REDUCED

That the public may be better informed as to the reduction of the case loads and administrative staffs of the State and County Emergency Relief Administration, we are printing reports compiled by the State and County Relief Commissions.

In our local county for the year ending June 30, 1936, the case load was reduced 57.7 percent while the administrative staff was reduced 60 percent. The per case cost was $3.25 in June, 1935 and $3.57 in June, 1936. This cost includes all investigations and certifications of persons eligible for WPA work and referrals for those who may be assisted by the Resettlement Administration, as well as the investigation of persons on the Emergency Relief rolls.

Administrative staffs of the county emergency relief offices, exclusive of Wayne County, have been reduced in even greater proportion than the total case load during the fiscal year ending June 30, according to a report issued by George F. Granger, Assistant State Relief Administrator. The case load of 82 counties has dropped from a total of 109,543 in July, 1935, to 35,858 in June, 1936, a decrease of 67.3 percent. But the administrative staffs during the same period were cut by 68.5 percent.

With the inclusion of Wayne County, the case load dropped 62.9 percent and the administrative personnel 60.8 percent. The Wayne administrative staff has accounted for between 40 and 51 percent of all administrative employees during the 12-month period, and for 942 of the 1839 persons on the county payroll at the end of June.

The closeness with which administrative personnel reductions has followed case load reduction is remarkable, according to Mr. Granger, because the former usually involves considerable lag. "Summary dismissal of staff workers cannot occur simultaneously with a drop in the number of persons to be aided. Loyal and hard-working employees must be given adequate notice, particularly if they have been on the payroll for a considerable length of time. Many of them have earned vacation privileges to which they are entitled. In the light of these considerations, the counties have accomplished a praiseworthy task in cutting their staffs in approximately the same ratio as the relief rolls have been cut."

The average administrative staff numbered 34 per county, exclusive of Wayne, in July, 1935, the report further stated, and by June, 1936, the average staff had been reduced to 11 persons. The state office staff in the same period was cut from a peak of 170 persons in July to 77 persons in June, a 54.7 percent curtailment. The central office retrenchment has kept pace with that of the county offices since both at the peak employment in July and the low point in June there were approximately four state office workers for every 100 in the counties.

Theoretically, the drastic reduction in personnel has resulted in slightly more work for the remaining employees. In July, 1935, there were 3,850 cases for every 100 administrative employees; in June, 1936, there were 4,000.

Between July, 1935, and May 1936, administrative expenses were reduced 52 percent to a new low of $262,000 for the 83 county offices. If Wayne County is again excluded, however, the reduction amounts to 56.6 percent, bringing the total to a new low of $183,000 or an average of $1,822 per county per month to cover the cost of salaries, travel, rent and office expenses.

The administrative cost per case underwent a ninety-three cent rise during the 11-month period. In July, 1935, it was $2.73 and in May, 1936, it was $3.66.

"It must be borne in mind by those who expect a drop in the cost per case to accompany a drop in personnel, that it costs as much on a per capita basis for 500 persons to carry a load of 50,000 as for 1,000 to carry a load of 100,000. In fact, it even costs as much to administer a restricted budget," Mr. Granger said.

"The ratio of reduction is the same, and any further reduction in cost per case could be achieved only at the expense of inadequate investigation, inadequate records, and the hiring of returned staff workers at lower salaries."

"In the long run, inadequate investigation, while resulting in slightly less administrative cost, in reality increases the total cost of relief by allowing undeserving persons to remain on the relief rolls. It is a sound business policy at any time and under any circumstances to spend $70 to save $1,000. Likewise, it is sound policy to maintain a staff of persons trained for the profession they are practicing. It would be impossible to hire competent personnel at a scale less than ERA is paying at present. In 1934, when we had appreciably greater funds at our disposal, a survey of county administrative salaries disclosed that outside of Wayne County 70 percent of all county employees were receiving $80 a month or less and 37 percent were being paid $70 or less."

Despite any curtailment of personnel to meet a declining case load, Mr. Granger stated, certain key people, such as the administrator, the chief accountant, and the case work supervisor, must be retained. Consequently, cutting the staff means retrenching in the main, the lower paid workers, such as case investigators and clerks. Further, the same records must be compiled and the same accounting procedure must be adhered to whether a given county's case load is 2,000 or 600. There is no escape against reducing the cost per case, even though the total administrative expense has been more than cut in half, as is the actual case in ERA.

The slight rise in the administrative per case cost can be accounted for, he maintained, by the fact that the staff workers earn raises in pay from time to time, with certain definite and specified limits. Also, the additional clerical work involved in certifying relief clients for and accepting, transferring them to WPA jobs entailed an extra expense for a time.

"LOST" CAR TITLES FOUND IN CAPITOL

Twice a year many automobile owners discover they can't locate the titles to their cars. Write to the Secretary of State to complain they never received them—and find they have been held, for lack of proper address, for months or longer.

In the early part of every year, the "lost" title file may contain as many as 6,000 titles, returned by postal authorities to the capital because the addresses furnished by car owners aren't correct. When license plates are bought, owners miss their titles for the first time, complain about it, and thus Department of State officials learn corrected addresses, and forward the titles.

With the passage of the time after which 1936 license plates are sold at half price, a number of cars not previously on the highways this year, are being licensed, and titles in the "lost" file are being sought by their owners.

The number of "lost" titles is seldom less than 2,000.

Guy Grieve Announces Candidacy for Sheriff

Present Livingston County Coroner To Seek Republican Nomination For That Office at the Primaries on September 15.

Guy Grieve of Howell will be a candidate for the Republican nomination for sheriff at the primaries on September 15. He was elected coroner in 1932 and reelected in 1934. He formerly lived in Handy township where his family is well known. Coming to Howell, he opened a barber shop which he still operates.

During his four years as coroner,

He has given a very efficient and economical administration of that office and handled the majority of that kind of work in this county. Whenever possible, he has avoided calling an inquest and thus saved the county considerable money.

Mr. Grieve feels confident that if elected sheriff, economical methods can be applied to that office with a material saving in money to the county. He promises a fair and impartial enforcement of the laws, and an efficient business administration. If these methods appeal to you, he asks your support at the primaries on September 15, 1936.

SYNOPSIS

Jeb Braddon, young and fantastically successful broker of Chicago, is infatuated with Agnes Gleneth, beautiful daughter of a retired manufacturer. Rodney, a doctor, in love with Agnes, visits his brother, Jeb. Rod plans work at Rochester. Jeb suggests that he make a try for Agnes before leaving. In Rod there is a deeper, obstinate decency than in Jeb. Rod visits Agnes and tells her of his great desire, but realizes it can never be fulfilled. Agnes' mother is attempting to regain her husband's love. Agnes has disturbing doubts as to what attracts her father in New York. Jeb tells Agnes he is going to marry her, and together they view an apartment in Chicago. Jeb asks Agnes to set an early date, but she tells him she cannot marry him. When the agent, Mr. Colver, offers to show them a furnished apartment, Jeb asks Agnes to see it alone, saying he must return to his office. Agnes consents and Jeb leaves. A radio is blaring terrifically from one of the apartments. Colver taps upon the door, which is opened by a scantily clad girl, who draws Agnes into the room. Colver finds her husband, Charles Lorrie, fatally shot. He calls the police. Myrtle Lorrie asks Agnes to phone Cathal O'Mara, a lawyer, to come at once. Agnes does. The police take charge. O'Mara arrives. The officers are antagonistic to him. Agnes sides with O'Mara. Agnes is to be a witness at the coming trial. Cathal's grandfather and father had lost their lives in the line of duty as city firemen, and his grandmother, Winnie, has built her all around Cathal, who, being ambitious, had worked his way through law school. Thoughts of Agnes disturb Cathal. Mr. Lorrie had cast off the wife who had borne him his daughter, Myrtle, and after two years of wedded life she had killed him. The coroner's jury holds Myrtle to the grand jury. Agnes promises O'Mara to review the case with him. When Cathal calls Mrs. Gleneth asks questions regarding marital problems, in the hope that she might get a solution to her own problem.

"Than much that is done in a city," he replied to her.
"Where do you live?" Agnes asked him, with sudden directness.
"What am I, you mean—besides a criminal lawyer? I live now near Milwaukee avenue in the city; but I was born on Archer, as was my father."
"Your father, too?"
Cathal smiled. "I know why you ask. You wonder why I speak so, when it was my grandfather that came over, and he a lad. His father brought him in the steerage; and on another ship at sea at the time, was the girl the lad was to meet on Archer road and marry."
"Your grandmother?"
"The same. You'll see her at the trial. She comes to all I'm defending."
"Does your father too?"
"He's gone," said Cathal. "He was a city fireman, and his father before him. He—my grandfather—was one of the twenty that went to the top of the tower of the Cold Storage building, at the World's Fair, when it burned."

"He was one of them that died that day, as each of them did in line of duty, Miss Gleneth," said Cathal proudly. "And his son, my father, died like him, in line of duty for Chicago. That's my stake in the city, I mentioned. Who can have more? Would I sell it out by fixing taxes for clients for my living? I'll take the defense of Myrtle Lorrie, as I've taken others. . . . But it's my speech that still surprises you. It wouldn't if you knew Winnie."

"Winnie?" asked Agnes.
"The grandmother I mentioned. She might have come over sixty years ago. . . . Do you know Padraic Colum, the Irish poet and writer, who was over here on tour a few years ago?"

"I want to hear him speak," said Agnes, wondering what now was coming.
"So did I," said Cathal. "For they told me he'd been going through Ireland having repeated to him the last of the old Celtic tales that had never been printed. He was collecting them to write them all down. I told him he'd been wasting his time traveling. He should have come straight to Chicago, and he'd have heard them all—from Winnie. And I found, in fact, she had one he'd never heard from any other. The strange thing, it was always my favorite."

"You knew it?"
"Knew it? Wasn't I rocked and reared on them? And this I could never hear enough—the Green Bear of Babbler."

He was holding Agnes' memorandum of what Myrtle Lorrie had said and done, after having shot her husband, and suddenly aware of it he contrasted it to the matter in his mind, and smiled.

"The women, Miss Gleneth, used to be much more enduring," he said. "They certainly put up with more in those days."

"What days?"
"Of the old tales. Take her that loved the Green Bear of Babbler. The Green Bear was, of course, right, a prince, her true love," Cathal continued, "but hideously bewitched. But though he was in his horrible guise, she must recognize the soul of him, and seven long years must she follow him over the fiery mountain, though he might never so much as turn to look at her once. If she perseveres through the seven years, she breaks the spell; he's her prince; and she has him."

"Does she?" said Agnes.
"She does, through everything," He repeated:

"Green Bear of Babbler.
Turn, thou, and look to me:
Seven long years I've followed thee,
Over the fiery mountain."

He had gone. Agnes was lying with eyes closed on the chaise-longue in her bedroom, when she heard her sister's voice. "Bee went in first to see her mother, so Agnes had a few minutes more of dreamy reverie before her sister pushed her feet more to the side and sat down facing her. It was six o'clock.

"Your friend Myrtle's lawyer," said Bee, "seems to have queerly affected Mother."

"What did she say to you?"
"That perhaps we'd misunderstood your murderous little friend Myrtle. He certainly has done something else to Mother, too."

"Yes."

"What is it, Agnes?"
"I think she came to see somewhat differently why Father's doing—what he's probably doing, Bee."

The dark head, covered by its smart little toque, looked away. "All right. If he helped her. . . ."

The Dark One wandered to the window.

"Who's that? Jeb?"

"Might be," said Agnes, sitting up.

Jeb had had an exceptionally profitable day; and on no day, within recent memory, had business been bad. The market for stocks—ralls, industrial, utilities, oils, amusements—was soaring. Today it had been almost a runaway.

Bankers, merchants, clerks, barbers, bootblacks, shopgirls, dentists' assistants, hair-dressers, manicurists, elevator boys, street-sweepers—everybody young or old, enlightened or illiterate, capable or stupid, with millions or with a scraped-up dollar or two, was playing the market. And whatever their state of mind, or of body or soul, they were all making money.

Jeb was exultant. He had never been so right. He had made money not only for himself but every client for whom he traded and whom he advised. He had lived in a chorus of acclaim and gain all day.

He ran halfway upstairs to meet Agnes coming down.

"Glen, what a day! We can do anything we like—anything, when you say the word!" He caught her up on the landing. "Now, you'll say it? Why not? Oh, you little fool, why not? . . . That damned trial! We'll marry and come back for it. Or I'll get you out of it!"

"You can't, Jeb."

"Was that Irish shyster here?"

"Jeb!"

"Did you see the papers this afternoon? I've left them in the car. . . ."

They were downstairs together.

"Sweet-scented situation O'Mara's trying to profit on. Lorrie, it seems, was insured for two hundred thousand dollars—fifty of which he had left in the name of his first wife as beneficiary; but dear little Myrtle had seen that he had her written in as beneficiary for one hundred and fifty thousand."

"The companies paid today the fifty thousand to the first wife whom he divorced; but they're holding up payment of the hundred and fifty to sweet little Myrtle. If she's cleared, by O'Mara, Myrtle gets the hundred and fifty thousand insurance as an additional reward for the shooting."

CHAPTER VI

Davis Ayreforth lay awake in the dark, with his wife asleep in the bed beside him. He was not happy; and he was trying to figure out what he could do differently in order to make Bee admire him.

She still loved him, he believed; for her let it be a proof of love that his wife physically did nothing, in respect to another man, to which he could take exception, and that Bee continued without complaint—indeed, only too complacently—to be his wife.

So Davis said to himself: "She loves me; she loves me. . . . But she admires Jeb more. . . . She doesn't admire me at all."

"It's because Jeb is making so much money," Davis argued with himself. "Money is all Jeb has that I haven't got."

"It's not more money she wants for herself, or for me or for the boys. But she wants me to make more money. . . . I've got to make more money—a lot of money, as much as Jeb Braddon. I can do it! He has nothing on me!"

Jeb, as every one knew, had made millions for himself. To such a star, Davis hitched the weak wagon of his abilities as he wrestled in the dark with his disappointments.

Davis' business was canning—a good business in Chicago, safe and steady, though never spectacular, and well suited to Davis, who was by nature a safe, steady person, though he tried not to appear so.

He was thirty-two, a cheerful, healthy, stocky man of medium height, thoughtful of others and tireless when he set out to do anything.

Yet it all seemed only to amuse his wife. Even his excellence in golf, which once she had admired, seemed almost to amuse her now. He did not understand why.

Millions now became the measure of a man. The old slow, conservative scale of progress was gone. Salary, dogged, dependable work, was nothing. A man went out, in these days, and made—millions!

Davis did not want to do it at all; he was, for himself, exactly suited. But Bee—his wife, the mother of his boys—believed Jeb the better man. Jeb thrilled her; her husband, though she "loved" him, bored her.

There was that fellow Collitt, who had come around to the office the other day with Ken Remble. They were forming a company for underwriting new investments, real-estate developments. There was millions in it, they said; millions!

They wanted him to become a partner and put about a hundred thousand into it. He'd thanked them and hardly thought of it.

Davis turned again with more hopefulness toward the dark head on the pillow of the other bed.

It was a month later that the resignation of Davis Ayreforth, as treasurer of a canning company, took effect, and he sold back to the officers of the company all his stock. Davis also sold sixty-five of his best bonds; for it happened that Collitt had somewhat under-estimated the new capital required, and so Davis put up, not one hundred, but a hundred and fifty thousand dollars.

But the firm of Collitt, Ayreforth and Remble was formed, and promptly promoted and marketed their first investment line.

Myrtle Lorrie, who now for over a month had been in jail, decided to invite Agnes to visit her.

Myrtle was not having much of a time. She was confined, of course, to the women's quarters of the jail, and therefore to the company of other girls and women awaiting trial. Most of them were accused of serious offenses; for they had not been admitted to bail.

Agnes, on the morning that Myrtle's massive arrival, had risen for breakfast with her father.

She, the Light One, and Bee, the Dark One always had had breakfast with him when they were children. He was never too hurried to joke with them; and he produced from his pockets surprises, on occasion, of thimble-

"I'm Not Marrying Jeb This Spring—
—or Summer, Father."

like things that inflated into bunnies and miraculous buds that needed only to float in a finger-bowl to flower. It was fun to have breakfast with Father.

Her mother so invariably had risen with him that Agnes never had pictured breakfast without them together until, last fall, her mother ceased to come down before her father left the house.

This signaled some decline in the relations of her parents which Agnes felt but did not let herself define.

"Talked with your mother about summer plans, Light One?" he suddenly demanded, one sunny morning.

"No. What are they, Father?"

"You're to make them."

"I? How?"

"Largely by what you do. There's the trial first, of course; but they're moving that along. Then what with you, Light One?"

"You mean about Jeb?"

"That's it."

"I'm not marrying Jeb this spring—or this summer, Father."

"Because of us?"

"I don't know why not, Father; oh, I don't know why not!"

He had to turn away.

Agnes saw the lawn and "their" shore of the lake that she loved, through the mist of tears.

What and who was she that counted with him more than her mother and her and all his memories here? What could she be to him, to mean so much?

Her father was thinking of that person, unknown to his daughter and scarcely more defined to his wife, but whom his wife had called "Cash."

"Cash!" What a name for her! It had been fastened upon her by his wife; and in this manner:

On Friday of last week, which was the first of the month, Beatrice Gleneth had gone to Chicago in the forenoon for shopping, and she was to remain in the city for the afternoon concert of the Chicago orchestra. For twenty-five years she had two sons which she had shared on special day throughout the years with her husband.

All Around the House

Always sweep rugs and carpets the way of the grain. Brushing against the grain roughens the surface and it tends to brush the dust in instead of out.

Partly cook cereal in a double boiler the night before; using and leave it on the back of the stove, being sure to cover well with water. It will be well cooked in the morning.

Four pounds of plums will make five pint jars of preserves.

Glass stoppers may be easily removed from bottles if a towel is dipped into boiling water and wrapped around the neck of bottle for a few minutes.

Cloths saturated with polishing liquids and stored away in closets often cause fires through spontaneous combustion. Store the cloths in covered tin or galvanized cans.

If you wish to avoid bean rust, do not pick beans when the dew is on them or after rain.

Sugar sprinkled over the tops of cookies or sponge cakes before putting them into the oven forms a sweet crust and makes a richer cookie.

Wash lettuce and place in refrigerator to get very cold before using in making salads. Crisp lettuce makes the best salad.

There Is Now
No Prince of Wales

The title of "Prince of Wales" disappeared when King George died recently and his son, Edward VIII succeeded him as sovereign. The Prince of Wales must be a son of the ruler of England and the new king, being a bachelor, there is no one to claim the title.

Incidentally, Edward VIII is the first bachelor king to occupy the British throne in 176 years. The last bachelor king was George III. However, George married during his reign. Since the time of William the Conqueror, there have been only two adult British rulers who remained unmarried throughout their reigns.—Capper's Weekly.

farmers living below the dam are against the draining. They are now cutting marsh hay and if the water was released the marshes would be flooded and the cutting would have to be discontinued. Fishing in the pond would also be spoiled for the summer.

Prosecutor Stanley Berriman and Sheriff Fawcett of this county joined the Detroit officials here Saturday and accompanied them on their investigations.

While here, the Detroit officers subpoenaed several persons to appear at Detroit, Tuesday when the five Black Legionaires will be arranged for the slaying of Silas Coleman.

Those subpoenaed are Edmund (Friday) Haines, who found the body of Coleman on May 26, 1935; Miss Joan Spears, who lives 1/4 mile from Nash's bridge and heard shots fired there on May 25 between 11:00 and 11:30 p. m.; Harold Hincey, who was fishing above the bridge that night and also heard shots; Former Deputy Sheriff Irvin Kennedy, who investigated the shooting and Dr. Hollis Sieler, who performed the autopsy and removed the bullets from the body of Coleman.

Saturday, Dayton Dean made another confession. He stated that Harvey Davis was the one who shot James Armour, an Ecorse negro on Feb. 15, 1935. This shooting was never explained. Armour was on his way home from work at the Ford Motor Co. In front of his home three men in an auto halted him. He ran up on the porch of his home as one of the men shot him in the spine. After a long siege he recovered in the hospital. He could give no explanation for the shooting. According to Dean's confession, he, Davis and Chas. Rouse went to Ecorse to kill Clarence Oliver, a negro campaigner for Mayor Wm. Voisine. They could not find him, so Davis shot the first negro who came along. This proved to be Armour. The confession appears to be substantiated, as ballistic experts have pronounced the bullet removed from Armour to have been fired from Davis' gun.

So far, at present, it looks as if the question whether there are any more Black Legion victims on the bottom of the Pinckney mill pond or not, will remain a mystery.

ANOTHER DROWNING SUNDAY

Harry Karr, 33, of 17333 Grand River Ave., Detroit, was drowned in Horseshoe Lake near Hamburg, Sunday. The body was recovered by divers from the office of Sheriff Andrus of Washtenaw County, about 40 minutes after it had gone down.

Harry Michaels, of 1928 Gladstone Ave., Detroit, said Karr went out in a boat with him, dived from it and did not reappear. A pulmotor was used unsuccessfully.

GEORGE JUDSON

The funeral of George Judson was held Monday at his home near Plainfield. He was 74 years old and had been in poor health for a number of years, since suffering a paralytic stroke. He lived in Pinckney some 30 years ago where he operated a threshing outfit.

In 1886 he married Rosa Ann Chappel. Seven children were born of whom six survive. They are Mrs. J. J. Richardson of Pontiac; Alice of Bay City; Mrs. Ed. Doven of Williamston; Mrs. James Allison of Fowlerville; Mrs. Clyde Buchanan of Stockbridge and Daisy of Ann Arbor.

PINCKNEY LOSES

Pinckney dropped a close game to Hamburg at the South Lyon Gala Day celebration last Friday by a score of 8 to 7. Don Searles pitched for Pinckney and was not in the best of form, Hamburg getting 13 hits off him. About half of these were on the 'scratch' order as Pinckney gave him very poor support, making errors at critical times.

Pinckney scored a run in the first inning on hits by Smith and Searles and a sacrifice by Ward, and two more in the second on a single by Maycock and doubles by Nelson and Culver. Hamburg, however, found Searles for five hits and four runs in this inning and led 4 to 3 up to the sixth inning when Pinckney tied the score as Pete Crocker singled and scored on Nelson's second two-base knock. Hamburg again took the lead in their half when they scored two runs. They also added another in the 8th when Haines dropped Spencer's fly and Burnstrom scored him with a triple. Pinckney tied the score in the 9th. Culver grounded out. Bob Smith tripled off Johnson, who had replaced Todd, the Hamburg starting pitcher; Ward was hit and stole second but Smith who tried to score from third on the short throw to second, was out at the plate. Searles singled to right, scoring Ward. Searles stole second. The throw got away from Lehr and Dilloway scored. Lehr's throw to home to get Dilloway was wild and Searles scored all the way from second. After a half hour argument he was sent back to third, but scored immediately on a wild pitch, tying the score. Dinkel struck out.

Harold Haines pitched the last of the 9th and Hamburg scored the winning run with one out. Johnson hit a fielded fly which both Ward and Dilloway started for, stopped, and it landed safe. Winkelhous hit a high one to left which also dropped safe. Perbst fanned; Bennett hit one through Ward and the ball game belonged to Hamburg. Johnson scored.

Much ill feeling was manifested between the two teams. In the 5th with the bases full, Searles tagged Lear coming in from third. The latter swung on Searles and in the mix-up Lear went down. State police separated them. There was considerable bickering all during the game.

Tommy Nelson of South Lyon played right field for Pinckney. He grabbed four flies and hit three successive throwers. He looks like a crack player.

WARRANTS ISSUED

IN BUS-TRACTOR ACCIDENT

Warrants have been issued by Justice Glen Yelland of Howell for the arrest of Stanley Cruik-shank of Detroit, bus driver, and Darrell Carr of Swanton, Ohio, tractor truck driver, who collided at the intersection of M-23 and US-16 near Brighton on July 14 last.

12 persons in the bus were injured and taken to a hospital. It is alleged that Carr ran a red light. As this is a misdemeanor, he cannot be extradited from Ohio on this charge.

Prosecutor Berriman and the state police staged a newspaper debate on the subject, the former claiming at the time of the accident when Carr was still in Michigan, the state police did not ask for any warrants. Lieut. Scavarda of the state police denied this.

LIVINGSTON COUNTY CROPS

With having followed by rains on the Fourth of July, Livingston County crops should reward the farmer with high quality and large yields. Factors outside of our community point to higher prices for all commodities.

Radio and news reports tell of general drought and extreme heat in the West and South. Even our neighbors in Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin are perilously near ruin, if rain holds off much longer.

These facts can mean only one thing economically. A shortage of hay and grains and other farm produce. Supply and demand operating as usual will bring the Livingston County Farmer a good price for his crops.
