

Pinckney Beats Hartland 6 to 0

Pinckney Wins Second Game on Schedule When Meyers Goes
Over For Touchdown in the Last Quarter. Game is Even Until the Last Five Minutes of Play.

Pinckney's high school football team beat Hartland 6 to 0 in the second game on the schedule last week when they trimmed Hartland at Hartland 6 to 0. The local team again suffered defeat and kicked whenever Hartland got anywhere near their goal line. This gave them an advantage as Singer's punts averaged better than those of Wyckoff, the Hartland kicker.

In this game Pinckney outgained Hartland, making 5 first downs to Hartland's 3. Ledwidge was Pinckney's best ground gainer, being successful
at both tackle plays and end runs.
In him Coach Skellern seems to have found a capable ball carrier.

The Pinckney line was reinforced by Capt. Sheehan at tackle and successfully repulsed every Hartland attack. All three of Hartland's first downs were the result of forward passes. This was about Hartland's only means of ground gaining. They completed three. In the second quarter Paul Singer intercepted one and ran it back some 20 yards. Pinckney made two more good gains and reached the twenty yard line. Here they got over anxious, failed to mix up their plays enough and lost the ball on downs.

No team had much advantage
after that until the last few minutes of the last quarter when Ledwidge reeled off a couple of long gains through tackle. However Pinckney drew a penalty when they reached the ten yard line and it was third down and 14 yards to go. Again Ledwidge was called on and he responded by carrying the ball within a foot of the goal line. Bill Meyers took it over on the next play but Sheehan missed his try for the extra point.

In this game Pinckney was forced to use a number of reserves. Floyd Haines, star end, was out with the mumps and Raymond Ellis replaced him at end. Ottwell, former Redford player, played half back and Capt.
Sheehan went to tackle replacing Howard Reed who was shifted to guard. Jack Hannett went in for laugh in the second quarter and played half the game. In the second half Paul Singer and Ottwell were hurt and replaced by Ed Miller and Bill Darrow. All these replacements failed to slow up the team and they were still going strong at the finish.

Again the boys appeared to be in fine condition and right on their toes every minute. Coach Skellern bringing them along slowly but steadily and they are developing nicely. As yet they have perfected few plays and in the two games played they have but tried a single forward pass. All their gains being by means of end runs and line play.

THE DONKEY BASE BALL GAME

The donkey base ball game took place here at the ball park Friday evening between teams led by Stanley Dinkel and Jack Reason. The game ended in a 3 to 3 tie. The donkeys bucked and kicked like bronchos and the players found it hard to stay mounted, being spilled some twenty times. Gerald Reason was a close second with 18 spills. Doc Clark took the longest dive from one, some 20 feet and landed on his head. Jake Haines finally rode Joe Louis, the black donkey after he had thrown all other riders. Jake got on way up behind his ears and hooked his heels together. He managed to stick although the donkey galloped all over the field in an attempt to dislodge him.
Clayton Johnson of Hamburg got around the bases and scored by his simple expedient of picking up his donkey and carrying it around with him. The game was under flood lights and was well attended.

Shooting Affair in Lyndon Township

Lyndon Farmer and Step-Son Stage
Gun Battle Thursday Night

Grant Kimmel, 69, and his stepson, John Sheets, 38, engaged in a gun battle at the Kimmel farm at Joslyn Lake, just over the line from Unadilla village in Lyndon township
last Thursday night and as a result both are in St. Joseph's Hospital, Ann Arbor with gunshot wounds. Kimmel married Sheets mother for his second wife, some twelve years ago and according to Sheets who is a Detroit policeman, with one citation for bravery, has not been treating her right.
There has been bad blood between Kimmel and Sheets for some time.
Thursday, Sheets visited Marie Peel, Washtenaw county friend of the court and complained that Kimmel was abusing his mother and younger sisters. The decision to remove them from the Kimmel home is said to have been made at that time.

Sheets went out to the Kimmel farm at Joslyn Lake and demanded that his mother and sisters leave with him. Kimmel's answer was to go up stairs after his gun. Sheets stood his ground and as Kimmel came down stairs both fired six times. Sheets was hit three times, in the chest, right leg, and skull. Kimmel through both arms and the mouth. Both were taken to Chelsea for first aid and then to St. Joseph's Hospital, Ann Arbor.
Kimmel said his trouble with Sheets had been of long standing and he expected this fight for years. Sheets was divorced from his wife, a stenographer
in the Wayne county prosecutor's office, two years ago. He has been on the police force since 1927 and his merit mark was for killing a burglar in 1931.

Sheets is no relation to the Sheets
family who formerly lived near Gregory, where he is now. He is informed by residents there. Grant Kimmel formerly lived near Dexter on the Charles Warner
farm, just this side of the Michigan Central viaduct where the green houses now stand. Then he was prominent in church affairs, being a member of the M. E. church board there.

MARTIN J. LAVAN, DEMOCRAT CANDIDATE FOR PROSECUTOR

In this issue will be found an advertisement ment which will be followed by others,
calling attention to the candidate for prosecuting attorney
on the Democrat ticket, Martin J. Lavan,
and soliciting the support of the voters in his behalf. Mr. Lavan states there should be full cooperation on the part of the prosecuting attorney's office with all other law enforcement agencies in the county and state
in cleaning up crime and the prosecuting
office should be conducted economically with due respect to efficiency.
The prosecutor handling his own cases without reliance on costly outside help.

Mr. Lavan is a young man of energy and ability and an ambition to serve as well as succeed and is well qualified by ability and experience for the important office of prosecuting attorney.
He has wide acquaintance and an extensive circle of friends through out the entire county.

He was graduated from the John Marshall School of Law in Cleveland, Ohio, in 1928, with the degree of bachelor of law. He has been a resident of Livingston county since 1930, being admitted in the circuit court of this state, in the federal courts and in the supreme court of the state, and his ability is recognized wherever he has appeared. He has his law offices in the City of Brighton and an extensive practice there and throughout the county, and is retained by the City of Brighton as its attorney.

Mr. Lavan is a taxpayer, is married and has two children. His many friends believe him well qualified for the office he seeks.

In announcing his candidacy some time ago Mr. Lavan stated: "I believe that the office of prosecuting attorney requires the services of an experienced lawyer, who will co-operate with other law enforcement officers in the enforcement of all the laws and I am convinced this can be done efficiently and economically without reliance on outside help."

DEMOCRAT COUNTY MEETING

The Democrats of this county held

Harry and Lorenzo Murphy and Louis Sheehan. Edward Frye, state chairman was present as also was Andrew Transue, candidate for congress and George Gundry of Flint, candidate for auditor general. Andrew Transue

Don VanWinkle, Charles Runciman, R. E. Barron and others. All were confident of victory in November. A man and woman chairman was appointed

Gardner.

Soil Conservation Checks Due Soon

Soil Conservation Payments Are Now
Now Underway to Farmers Who Signed Up

Maurice A. Doan, chairman of a state committee of the agricultural adjustment administration, told western Michigan farmers at a regional conference here that first soil conservation checks would be issued about December 1.
Doan said that farms are now being measured for compliance, and that the total payments to Michigan
could not be estimated until representative counties have been measured and applications for grants have been exhausted. Applications for measurement indicate, he said, that payments might exceed $6,000,000.

A conference of southwestern Michigan committeemen was scheduled for Tuesday at Kalamazoo. Other meetings have been scheduled for Wednesday in Ann Arbor, Thursday
in Lapeer, Friday in Bay City, October 1 in Gaylord and October 2 in Cadillac.

Doan said that first checks probably would go to Mecosta county, where measurements have started. He said that from 70 to 90 percent of northern Michigan farmers have applied for measurements, with smaller percentages in lower Michigan counties.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY COMMITTEE CHOSEN

At a meeting at Howell Thursday night, the following Republican county committee was chosen. It is: Ross
Read, Pinckney, chairman; Fred Cronmewell, Howell, treasurer; and John McDonald, Howell, secretary.
This is the same committee who functioned
last year, except that Ross Read was appointed chairman to fill the vacancy caused by the death of John Strick, Brighton, who was chairman.
A committee man and woman
was also appointed from each township.
The Putnam committee is Ed
Parker and Mrs. W. C. Miller.

IS GIVEN HOUSE OF CORRECTION SENTENCE

James Shultz, 17, formerly of Pinckney was given 90 days in the House of Correction by Judge Yelland last week on a larceny charge. The boy made his home with different families here and worked for George Roche this summer. When he left he took a number of articles belonging to others. However they were recovered and no action was taken against him.
Later he was caught taking goods from the C. H. Kennedy store in this village. For this he was probationed for 3 years but immediately broke his probation by stealing Sheriff Fawcett's own gun from the pocket of his car. His description was broadcast and he was arrested by Ann Arbor police on the streets there with the gun in his possession. We understand that he also confessed to a number of other thefts, mostly from Pinckney and Howell stores.

FALL FESTIVAL IN OCTOBER

St. Joseph's Parish Gives Chevrolet Car.

You've all heard about the big Fall Festival at Howell by now. How do I know? Why, everywhere you go the people are talking about it. This affair is really going to be something big.

Last year people were heard to remark, after that Chicken dinner, that they never ate more in their lives. Why not break your own record this year?

With the air fairly reeking with election opinions right now it will certainly be fun to come Tuesday night, October 27, when the evening will be devoted to the politicians. I'm not going to miss it, you're not either are you?

GRAND DRAWING! What for?
The 1936 Chevrolet. Everyone is anxious to see who will be the lucky one.
Won't it be exciting when the names
are being drawn? Then — BANG!
Somebody drives off in a new car.
Think it over, friends.

Current Comment

The Wayne County Republican convention last week marked the final eclipse of Harry Toy from Wayne county politics. His arch enemy, Edward Barnard, was in complete control. He nominated Fred Dewey for chairman and Mrs. Louise Woodhouse for secretary and both were confirmed. Remnants of the Toy crowd disputed him a few times but they were leaderless and got nowhere.
Barnard also had himself appointed chairman of the resolutions committee
such was not the case two years ago.
Then in a rough and tumble fight
which Attorney Sid Erwin, of Howell,
a Barnard ally, got his leg broke
when he was thrown from the stage,
the Toy faction won a great victory.
This enabled Harry Toy to win the nomination from David Crowley for Attorney General. Mr. Crowley was Gov. Fitzgerald's choice. This prestige marked Toy as a leading candidate for governor in 1938. However things happened. Attorney General Toy started a state-wide cleanup of slot machines and gambling halls, it was claimed with Fitzgerald's blessing.
Clare county was supposed to be the first county to be mopped up.
Some 50 warrants were issued there.
The first case ended in an acquittal
and none of the others were ever tried, all charges finally being quashed.
Toy saw that he was in up to his neck and accepted an appointment to the state supreme court as the best way out. Relieved of Mr. Toy the governor appointed David Crowley, Attorney General and the first thing the later did was to toss the slot machine and gambling hall enforcement problem back into the laps of the sheriffs and prosecuting attorneys. So after a two years absence Edward Barnard is once more sunning in Wayne county Republican circles.

Duncan Moore and John Eccles
are now touring Michigan with a "Michigan Streaks" program. In their visit different cities in the state and ask passers-by for whom they expect to vote for president and governor and why. Up to date those who have tabulated the questions and answers state this novel state vote has a decided Roosevelt tinge. Cities visited so far are Flint, Grand Rapids, Saginaw, Charlotte, Marshall, Lansing, Adrian, Mt. Clemens and Port Huron.

At Lansing the poll was 17 to 8
for Roosevelt, at Adrian 17 to 9 for Roosevelt, Flint and Saginaw are about tied to have favored President Roosevelt. In these polls, taken at four or more and at the working places are inevitably the ones questioned. At the fair grounds it is the farmers. At Adrian, Wednesday night, a former was asked to give his reason for supporting Roosevelt. He said he preferred Roosevelt, $1.00 about to Huxford, 30c wheat. The Detroit Free Press ridicules this brand of and claims the Democrats are hanging up on Moore and Eccles.

Many would be legislators are wondering if the election of Luren D. Dickinson as Lieut. Gov. will mean another smokeless senate. During his last term as lieutenant governor in 1917, he had a law passed to prohibit smoking. It is still on the books. Mr. Dickinson vigorously enforced this law during his term. His successors however, did not. Since his nomination Mr. Dickinson has been asked if he would enforce the no-smoking law if elected. But he merely smiles and says nothing.

Both major parties make a great show of holding county and state conventions to nominate candidates for state offices. The bulk of candidates are nominated at the primaries and why is it necessary to hold a long drawn out convention to fill up the ticket is a question. The only plausible reason is that it is the only way in which the two political parties can be held together. The primaries tend to make independent voters so this relief of the old convention days is held to offset this. Of course it is mostly window dressing. The nominations are invariably made in smoke filled hotel rooms, the night before the conventions by the party bosses,
by the trading method and the delegates are offered an opportunity of voting for hand picked candidates.

Pinckneyites who have been keeping tabs on the Duncan Moore-John Eccles program have the following figures: Lansing, 17 for Roosevelt, 3 for Landon; Adrian, 13 for Roosevelt, 9 for Landon; Mt. Clemens, 21 for Roosevelt, 16 for Landon; Port Huron, 22 for Roosevelt, 20 for Landon; Saginaw, Roosevelt 11, Landon 6; Bay City, Roosevelt 25, Landon 10; Charlotte, Roosevelt 5, Landon 9; Battle Creek, Roosevelt 15, Landon 8; Flint, Roosevelt 16, Landon 2; Marshall, Roosevelt 7, Landon
12; Ypsilanti, Roosevelt 22, Landon
15; Monroe, Roosevelt 32, Landon 2.
These figures are significant and we doubt that the Democrats would be able to manipulate any such poll.
The working people who are not being polled by the Literary Digest are apparently strong for Roosevelt.

Roosevelt vs. Hearst on "Red Backing"

ASSERTIONS made by William Randolph Hearst and other opponents of the New Deal that the President "passively accepts" the support of the Communists have got under Mr. Roosevelt's skin. A statement issued through Stephen T. Early, his secretary, said:

"My attention has been called to a certain notorious newspaper owner to make it appear that the President passively accepts the support of alien organizations hostile to the American form of government."

"Such articles are conceived in malice and born of political spite. They are deliberately framed to give a false impression, in other words to 'frame' the American people."

"The President does not want and does not welcome the vote or support of any individual or group taking orders from alien sources."

"This simple fact is, of course, obvious."

"The American people will not permit their attention to be diverted from real issues to fake issues which no patriotic, honorable, decent citizen would purposely inject into American affairs."

Mr. Hearst, who was in Amsterdam, promptly replied by cable, saying in part:

"The President has issued a statement through a secretary. He has not had the frankness to say to whom he refers in the statement. I think I am justified in assuming that I am the object of the statement, and that I may courteously endeavor to correct Mr. Roosevelt's misstatements and to set him right."

"Let me say that I have not stated at any time whether the President willingly or unwillingly received the support of the Karl Marx Socialists, the Frankfurter radicals, communists and anarchists, the Tugwell bolsheviks, and the Richberg revolutionists which constitute the bulk of his following."

"I have simply said and shown that he does receive the support of these enemies of the American system of government, and that he has done his best to deserve the support of all such disturbing and destructive elements."

Al Smith Will Make Some Anti-Roosevelt Speeches

SPECULATION concerning what part Al Smith would take in the Presidential campaign seems to be settled by the news that he will deliver several anti-Roosevelt addresses, the first probably in Carnegie hall in New York in October. He is reported to be making out his own program and planning talks also in Massachusetts and New Jersey. It is said neither the Republican party nor the American Liberty league will be sponsor for his appearances. Until Mr. Smith announces his intentions it will not be known whether or not he will advocate the election of Governor Landon.

Crop Insurance Pushed by the President

IMMEDIATE action toward putting in operation a two-fold crop insurance and drought prevention program was called for by President Roosevelt. It is designed to guard the farmers and the consumers against the danger of food shortages or price collapses. Two committees were named to work out legislation to be asked of the next congress.

Mr. Roosevelt named Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace chairman of a committee directed to "prepare a report and recommendations for legislation providing a plan of 'all risk' crop insurance," and suggested that the system provide for payment of premiums and insurance in commodities. This is in accord with Wallace's proposed plan under which farmers would put part of their crops of good years into a pool from which they could draw in lean years. It would serve, he believes, to keep surpluses from destroying the price structure in good years and provide an "insurance" against crop failures in other years.

Morris L. Cooke, rural electrification administrator, was named chairman of another committee to draft recommendations for a permanent land use program designed to avert drought emergencies in the great plains area.

The President suggested the crop insurance plan might be limited to one or two major crops at the start and that it should be formulated with the advice and assistance of national farm organization leaders so that it can be submitted to congress with their support.

Veterans of Two Wars Open Conventions

VETERANS of the World war and of the Civil war opened their annual gatherings, the American Legion in Cleveland and the Grand Army of the Republic in Washington. The Legionnaires, many thousands of them, started off with the dedication of the Peace Gardens in the Ohio city, for which soil had been brought from sacred shrines of foreign countries and the forty-eight states. National Commander Ray Murphy presided over an impressive ceremony and unveiled a memorial plaque bearing the inscription:

"These gardens, planned by men who know the horrors of war, were dedicated to the brotherhood of man and peace throughout the world."

Commander Murphy in his annual report said: "Whether our country shall be spared participation in another great international conflagration may well depend upon our courage as Legionnaires to stand up and demand that our government now take the steps which may save us, without the loss of honor—a sacrifice we are unwilling to make at any cost."

Only about nine hundred survivors of the Union army were able to attend the G. A. R. encampment, and many believe it will be the last to be held. The aged warriors, headed by Oley Nelson of Iowa, the national commander, began their proceedings with a service in Washington cathedral. The route of their parade was six blocks on Pennsylvania avenue, the scene of the grand review of the Union armies before President Andrew Johnson seventy-one years ago.

Virgin Islands Have New Federal Judge

GEORGE P. JONES of Minnesota, who has been serving as a special assistant to the attorney general of the United States since 1934, has been made judge of the federal district court for the Virgin Islands. This is a recess appointment by President Roosevelt and is subject to confirmation by the senate. Mr. Jones planned to leave for St. Thomas about October 1. He succeeds Judge Albert C. Levitt of Connecticut, who resigned August 1 because, as he alleged, the department of the interior interfered with the processes of his court.

The oath of office was administered to Mr. Jones in Washington by Ugo Carusi, executive assistant to Attorney General Cummings, in the presence of Mr. Cummings and a number of other officials.

McAlexander, "Rock of the Marine," Dies

MAJ. GEN. ULYSSES S. GRANT McALEXANDER, U. S. A., retired, who won fame in the World war as "The Rock of the Marine," died suddenly in his home in Portland, Ore., at the age of seventy-two.

The general won his appellation for his stand in stemming a terrific assault by the Germans in their final great offensive on the western front in July, 1918.

He was then colonel in command of the Thirty-eighth infantry, and at the most critical period of the German attack he was told by headquarters that he might fall back if he thought best. He replied positively: "I will hold my lines," and he did. It was the Germans who fell back.

Spanish Rebels Rush on Toward Madrid

SEVERAL columns of Spanish Fascists and Moorish legionnaires were reported to be making a determined drive toward Madrid under the direction of General Franco, and the loyalists were falling back at the rate of five miles a day.

The rebel garrison of the Alcazar in Toledo was still holding out though the government forces, after dynamiting part of the old fortress, made attacks with flaming gasoline. The defenders lost heavily but the survivors kept up their deadly machine gun fire and repulsed the charges of the loyalists. This heroic garrison had been holding the fort for nine weeks.

The American State department ordered the embassy in Madrid closed and warned all Americans still in the capital that they remained at their own risk. The consulate at Malaga also was closed and the consul took refuge in Gibraltar. Diplomats of 13 nations, who had gone to Saint Jean de Luz, France, rejected the Spanish government's demand that they return to Madrid.

Killings Pave the Way for Japan's Move Against China

PROBABLY Japan is about ready to proceed further with the subjugation of China, the latest excuses being the alleged murder of several Japanese nationals by Chinese. It was announced by the navy department in Tokyo that Japanese marines had been ordered to land at Hankow to protect the life and property of Japanese there, and that "the navy fears that it may be forced to resort to some defensive measures in the near future." The announcement added that the sincerity of the Nanking government in wanting to end anti-Japanese feeling in China was not dependable and hence protective measures were taken.

Havana Paper Dynamited; Four Persons Killed

FOUR persons were killed and two buildings wrecked by a dynamite blast that shook Havana, Cuba. The plant of the newspaper El Pais was destroyed, and only the quick work of the police saved that of the Diario de la Marina. Informed authorities expressed belief the explosion was planned by Spanish residents who became angry over publication of Spanish civil war news in the two newspapers.

The blast demolished a Catholic church near the El Pais building. Scores of suspects were arrested, many of them being members of the Spanish Socialist circle.

Defeat of Senator Couzens Pleases the Republicans

REPUBLICANS were highly gratified by the results of the Michigan primary election for two reasons: First, because three out of five persons who went to the polls asked for Republican ballots; second, because Senator James Couzens, a Republican who has openly declared that he is supporting President Roosevelt for re-election, lost his fight for re-nomination. Couzens, one of the wealthiest members of the senate, was badly defeated by former Gov. Wilbur M. Brucker, and there is more than a suspicion that he knew his fate beforehand. Brucker, who is only forty-two years old, has been in public life for almost twenty years. The Republicans re-nominated Frank D. Fitzgerald for the governorship.

On the Democratic side Representative Prentiss M. Brown won the senatorial nomination against Louis B. Ward who was supported by Father Coughlin. For governor they chose Frank Murphy, high commissioner to the Philippines and former mayor of Detroit. Both Murphy and his defeated opponent, George Welsh, campaigned as Roosevelt supporters.

In the New Hampshire primaries Gov. H. Styles Bridges won the Republican senatorial nomination, ending the effort of former Senator George H. Moses to stage a comeback. The Democrats put up Representative William N. Rogers. Nominees for governor are Maj. Francis P. Murphy, Republican, and Amos N. Blandin, Democrat.

Massachusetts will have for senator either Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., Republican, or James M. Curley, how governor, Democrat. John W. Haigis, Republican, and Charles F. Hurley, Democrat, were nominated for the governorship.

The gubernatorial nominees in Wisconsin are: Gov. Philip La Follette, Progressive; Alexander Wiley, Republican, and Arthur W. Lueck, Democrat.

Savants Gather for the Harvard Tercentenary

IT IS pleasant to turn from war and politics and read of the doings at Cambridge, Mass., where Harvard university is celebrating the tercentenary of its founding.

In Sanders theater was held the academic reception for 554 scholars representing 502 universities, colleges and learned societies in every state of the Union and in forty foreign countries, and all of them wearing the caps, gowns and hoods signifying their various degrees of scholarship.

President James B. Conant greeted the guests, accepted their credentials and delivered a simple address of welcome. He noted that the assembly was an impressive demonstration of the solidarity of the academic world, and saw in the greetings of the delegates "the continued aspiration of mankind toward a universal fellowship based on human reason."

When the delegates were called up in the order of the age of the institutions they represented, first to respond was Prof. Saleh Hashem Attia of Al-Azhar university of Cairo, founded in 970. Then came the next oldest, the Regia university, Neglie Stuni Bologni, founded in the Tenth century, and represented by Prof. Carrado Gini. Third was the University of Paris, founded in the Eleventh century, whose representative was Dr. Cartan. Oxford, Cambridge and all the others followed, down to the youngest represented, the Academia Sinica of Nanking, China.

Golden Johannesburg

Pyramids of Dross at Johannesburg.

Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—W. U. Service.

THE Golden Jubilee of Johannesburg, Union of South Africa, is marked by the opening of the Empire Exhibition of South Africa. Two million visitors are expected as a minimum during the four months' duration of this, the first exhibition outside the British Isles purporting to reflect activities of the entire British Empire, which embraces about one-fourth of the entire earth's land area.

The Jubilee for Johannesburg is "golden" in more ways than one. In claiming a place among the world's most prosperous, this city needs only to mention that it is the center for the ten-billion-dollar gold industry of the Witwatersrand, discovered in 1886.

Thus Johannesburg is the city that gold built. Just fifty years ago George Walker, out for a stroll, accidentally stubbed his toe and kicked into a gold-bearing outcrop of what proved to be the main reef of the Witwatersrand. Here, shaped like a vast bowl imbedded face-upward, was a 70-mile stretch of gold-impregnated rock, now familiarly known as the Rand and surely one of the richest gold fields in the world.

Immediately, upon that treeless uninhabited no-man's-land there appeared a tawdry mining village of tents and covered wagons. Telegraph wires hummed and the village became a raw tin-shack town of 3,000 people.

The prevailing crude process of mining and treatment of ore lost half the gold worked. Yet who cared, since the Reef seemed inexhaustible? Supplies were teamed from 300 miles away. Yet who minded fancy prices? And, as to the water shortage, "All right; let's bring in champagne!"

Thus began the babyhood of Johannesburg, which is to-day, though a mere youth of fifty years, a giant in achievement. The largest African town south of Cairo and chief commercial plexus of the South African Union's hinterland, "Jo'burg" has a municipal area of nearly 82 square miles and some 300,000 people, or about half the population of the Reef, upon which rises this city built on gold.

Now a Cosmopolitan City

A town of such spectacular beginnings needs time to settle down to life's quieter realities. Today, 50 years young and quite used to having an annual $225,000,000 worth of gold dug up, so to speak, in its back yard, the City of the Reef presents the aspects of a well-rounded cosmopolitanism.

One might expect such fine public buildings as the Town Hall, the Law Courts, and the Stock Exchange. Few visitors, however, would anticipate the planned beauty of some of Johannesburg's suburbs, or the spaciousness of its parks and recreation fields, or its support of art, medical research, and of so impressive an academic seat as the Witwatersrand University.

It is reported that growth even within the past few years has accelerated, to keep time with the amazing boom in the value of gold. Tall buildings are taller and more frequent on the skyline of this South African metropolis—and still going up!

As for the city's play-hour aspects, one might mention innumerable clubs, race meets, sporting events, motor cars like peas in a pod, and as for motorcycles—watch your step! In off hours the City Built on Gold forgets its world-important mining interests in such relaxations as a quiet game of bowls on swards as smooth as gold greens. For Johannesburgers are one with Drake in their love of bowling greens and the very same game which tradition says the great Elizabethan was playing with the captains of his fleet when couriers brought news of the sighting of the Armada.

Mines of the Rand

Strangely impressive, as one approaches Johannesburg, are these miles upon miles of mine dumps surrounding the Witwatersrand gold fields and stretching across the vast plain like avenues of mammoth monuments. Indeed, South Africa also has its pyramids—pyramids of waste material, running into millions of tons of fine white sands, left from the gold-extracting processes. Their sloping sand-hued mounds suggest military fortifications on a scale the world has never known. The Witwatersrand mines present a unique sight. Above ground is a confusing mass of vats, trolleys, bins, trestles supporting pipes and machinery, dumps, headgears topped by cables and whirling wheels, and various structures of wood and iron. Workmen, who are "underground commuters," descend by "skip" (lift) into the interior at the speed of an express elevator for well over a mile into the depths of the earth.

Johannesburgers dig holes as grandiosely as Americans rear skyscrapers—more grandiosely. The shafts of the deepest mine on the Rand at present descend over 8,000 feet, approximately a mile and a half. Plans are under way for mining to the depth of 10,000 feet, nearly two miles.

A trip below the surface reveals to you a subterranean electric-lit town, with avenues and cross streets, where thousands of men are drilling and loading the gold-bearing conglomerate. It gives you the impression of cleanliness, neatness, and—thanks to the giant elevators—of a not-too-uncomfortable warmth.

You stay long enough to watch a surface hoist start off with a load weighing over nine tons which it will lift up that mile or more of shaft to the crushing and reduction plant in about two minutes. Then you too may ascend once more to what, measuring shafts by skyscrapers, the elevator operator might conceivably announce as "Two hundredth floor, last stop!"

What you have glimpsed is but a tiny corner of what is, in effect, a vast underground city, whose axes measures 70 miles, whose workers number over 300,000 and whose shafts, avenues, and streets exceed 4,000 miles, or approximately the length of the African continent.

Sports of the Natives

How to handle that grand total of 212,000 men, 90 per cent of them Bantu, who, either above ground or under it, work on the Rand?

Recreation—whether golf, tennis, bowls, swimming, or native dances—is universal, with inter-mine sport as a corollary. As to health and safety, each man regularly undergoes medical examination, first aid is taught to many thousands, while that cheery organ, The Reef, advises you on everything, from keeping fit to giving accident-prevention tips to American visitors in what is thought to be Americanese.

As to native recreation, the "boys" weekly war dance rivals a circus, a rodeo, and a football match combined. Here is a native compound disgorging its thousands of black Shangaans who are welcomed other thousands of black M'Chopis, the former tribe's invited guests. A pell-mell pageant of savage magnificence! All are superb in leopard skins, beads, head plumes, oxtail knee adornments.

Iron and Diamonds, Too

How explain the Reef? How was this treasure house built? In order to comprehend, we must imagine successive geologic cataclysms—molten rock being ejected from the interior of the earth; long-vanished seas rushing in to lay sediments thereon; then the sea's retirement, and in its place some great, prehistoric river sweeping through arid regions to deposit its granular gold among that three-mile depth of marine sediment.

But the Transvaal, like South Africa in general, is as varied in respect to treasure houses as was ancient Delphi, with its "treasuries." In the Pretoria region, and also near Rustenburg and in the "Bushveld Complex," there are apparently unlimited iron resources, while the last-named region promises to yield one of the greatest platinum deposits in the world.

And then there are the ever-cropping-up diamonds—one might almost say, those irrepressible South African diamonds. Really, one never knows where they will turn up next. And, just to illustrate how South African diamonds keep cropping up, here is a glimpse of the Lichtenburg alluvial diggings west of Johannesburg. Not ten years ago Lichtenburg was a tiny, willow-shaded Sleepy Hollow of a dorp—sleepy, perhaps dreaming, but certainly not of diamonds. But suddenly one day appeared some 25,000 men, who lined up for the official pistol shot, then rushed pell-mell to peg their claims on what had proved to be a diamond field fifteen miles long by five miles wide.

LEARN WHAT

room-wide light

MEANS WITH THE NEW THREE-LIGHT LAMP

DIFFUSING BOWL THROWS PART OF LIGHT TO CEILING
This lamp provides two kinds of light - direct and indirect. A diffusing bowl under the shade throws part of the light upward to the ceiling, and diffuses the downward light so that it is soft and restful. Harsh shadows are eliminated.

Old-fashioned lamps with dark shades and closed tops focused a small pool of bright light in one spot and left the rest of the room in murky shadow. Even when one sat directly under the lamp, the sharp contrast between the light and the surrounding darkness was trying on the eyes. All this has been changed with the modern new 3-light lamp.

A light shade with a light lining—open at both top and bottom—throws a great deal of light into the room. The lamp has a diffusing bowl under the shade, which throws part of the light upward to the ceiling, and this is reflected back and spread over a large area, eliminating harsh shadows and providing roomwide light. The bowl also diffuses the downward light, so that it is soft and pleasant, without glare.

The Sight Meter will show you instantly why this lamp is superior to your present lamps. To guard eyesight and make reading, writing, sewing and other seeing tasks easy and comfortable, choose a 3-light lamp for your living room. You will be amazed at the difference it makes!

1600 PHEASANTS

TO BE RELEASED

Sixteen hundred cock pheasants are being held in pens at the state game farm here for release as soon as the pheasant hunting season is over. The birds are all adults and will be "planted" in areas favorable to pheasants. The number of pheasants already released by state game men so far this year in proven areas totals 2,876.

ELECTION COVERAGE

PRaised BY ATWOOD

Praise for the manner in which newspapers and press associations have for year been "covering" elections in this state, has been voiced by Orville E. Atwood, Secretary of State and chairman of the State Board of Canvassers.

"I can't recall any instance in which the newspapers have been wrong in reporting the result of an election, no matter how many votes are cast in it, and generally we of the reading public have the story, more or less completely, within 24 hours after the polling places are closed," Atwood commented. He added: "Probably none of us fully appreciate the public service rendered by newspapers in this connection alone. Official canvasses of elections are generally not a matter of record until some weeks after a state-wide election."

Atwood's comment was voiced as he compared "unofficial" results of the Sept. 15 primary election, with "official" returns being filed in the Department of State by county boards of canvassers. Newspapers get their information by messenger, phone, telegram and in writing, in systems carefully planned in each office," the Secretary of State said, adding: "It has always been a matter of wonder to me that with all the rush and necessity for speed and accuracy, and all the possibility for errors, that our election results are reported as fully and quickly as they are. When papers report doubt as to the outcome of a race, everyone knows it's an unusually close one, or that some error has been made in giving unofficial figures to newspaper men in some locality."

DENIED HUNTING LICENSES

Because the courts have so ordered, 17 hunters in nine different counties of lower Michigan will be denied small-game hunting and trapping licenses during the open seasons of 1936-1937.

The hunting privilege was denied these individuals by magistrates before whom they were convicted of violations of the small-game laws. The state law says: "That any person convicted of a violation of any of the provisions of this act relating to small-game hunting and trapping shall not, if so ordered by the court, be eligible to secure and shall not secure a small-game hunting license during the remainder of the license year in which such person shall be so convicted and during the next succeeding license year."

The penalty was imposed on hunters in the following counties: Lenawee, five; Hillsdale, three; St. Clair, two; Wayne, two; Eaton, Branch, Lapeer, Washtenaw and Allegan, one each.

ABILITY TO PLAY

MARKS SUCCESS

How well a person young or old can work and associate with others is a true measure of his or her capabilities. This bit of philosophy is one used by Mrs. Lydia Lynde, Michigan State College extension specialist in child care, in suggesting that even children of pre-school age need planning recreation and mingling with others of their age.

Groups of mothers here and there in Michigan, she finds have solved part of the problem by setting up schedules and planning lunch menus so that the children are gathered up on mornings to spend the day at this home and then the next in groups of four or five. The extra time is appreciated by the mothers whose children are visiting, while the children benefit by learning how to be sociable.

"An abundance of material things is desirable," but happiness comes first," advises Mrs. Lynde. "Life at best is not so material as it is a matter of happy human relationships. Some farm families should take some of the emphasis they place on luxury efforts toward proper child development in growth and happiness, proper foods, clothing and companions."

As part of Michigan State College school of the air programs on station WKAR, Mrs. Lynde will present programs on the radio this winter on the subject "Understand Your Child." Enrollment may be made by sending in names to the Home Economics Extension Office, East Lansing, Mich. School dates for the subject will be Nov. 2, Dec. 7, Jan. 4, Feb. 1 March 1 and April 5.

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED

RESOLVED by the DEMOCRATS of Livingston County, in convention assembled at Howell on Sept. 21:

That we heartily endorse the Administration of President Roosevelt, and hail the accomplishments of the New Deal with its many ramifications; the CCC camps, an the efforts in behalf of the National Youth; the Home Owners Loan Corporation; the Federal Land Bank; the reduction of the rate of interest to farmers and home-owners on their indebtedness; the guaranty of deposits in banks; the transfer of the financial control from Wall Street to Washington; rural electrification; the construction of roads, the elimination of grade crossings; the recognition of the fact that the farmers and laboring men had a problem, and the effort to ameliorate their condition; and dozens of other measures that have been consummated; all tend to make this administration an outstanding one in the history of the American government. This has been accomplished without the sacrifice of the tenets of Democratic government.

That we commend the candidacy of Hon. Frank Murphy for Governor, as the forerunner of an honest and economical administration of the affairs of the State of Michigan, bereft of petty controversies and peanut politics.

That we congratulate the people of the State of Michigan on the opportunity to elect Hon. Prentiss M. Brown to the office of United States Senator. In his two terms as Congressman from the eleventh district, he has endeavored himself to the people of Michigan as few men have been able to do in so brief a period. He is loved by his constituents, respected by his colleagues, and enjoys the confidence of the President. We commend him to the people of Michigan as a man of sterling worth and integrity, able, conscientious, fearless in his advocacy of the interest of the common people, the representative of no clique or faction. As such he stands in striking contrast to his opponent.

That we hail with delight the nomination of Andrew J. Transue of Flint for Representative in Congress from the Sixth District and pledge him and the loyalty and hearty support of the Democrats in Livingston County to the end that the Sixth District may again be represented in Congress by a man of the people, whose every heart beat is in sympathy with them, who is a true American, believing in American ideas, who knows what the fight is about, and knowing, dares to defend them.

We pledge a united front in the interest of the Democratic County ticket, and an honest effort to elect it.

I would like to add at this time some comments on the conduct of children in the matter of school bus transportation. They must be taught to heed the patrol, to obey the driver, and to observe classroom conduct in the bus.

Parents should instruct their children accordingly. Their manners must be taught to them by their teachers and every one of them should be so instructed that he knows what is expected of him.

Pupils should be on time in the morning to avoid delaying the bus; they should never stand in the road while waiting for the bus; they should not carry on unnecessary conversation with the driver of the bus; they should never throw waste paper or rubbish on the floor of the bus; they should never extend their arms or heads out the window; they should report to the driver at once any damage done to the bus.

Obey the driver of the bus, children! He is your guide and safety advisor while on the bus.

"Yes," said Agnes, losing breath. "Can you do something?" She caught his sleeve. "I don't know whom to turn to. Father can do no more just now; and Jeb—Mr. Braddon—Davis would be frantic if he helped him. But you can't put up money for him."

"I can't," admitted Cathal, "—not to any amount such as he will need. But that's not all there is to do."

"He got his capital by borrowing on his life insurance. I don't know how one does that; do you?"

"Yes—when's his birthday?"

"October 29. Why?"

"It was just something I wanted to know," said Cathal, and held out his hand. Here was his; he held it; and then he let go.

Cathal drove away with a calendar superimposed over the other excitement in his mind. Today was the twenty-fifth of May. So Davis Ayreforth's birthday was four days and five months away. That meant that in all probability he must make his heavy payments of life insurance premiums within four days. For life-insurance practice fixes the date upon which a man's age "changes" an even half-year—six months—before his birthday. Davis Ayreforth's age "changed," therefore, on the twenty-ninth of April; and on that date, undoubtedly, most of his insurance policies were written, and the premiums each year were due. But the companies, by common practice, extended date of payment by a month's "grace." So the final day for payment would be May 29—just four days off.

He Got His Capital by Borrowing on His Life Insurance.

Cathal drove to the city that night lost only at times in the delights of his dreams of her; with these, he was haunted by desperate eyes and men's bitten lips—Linsdale's and Ayreforth's.

Cathal did not forget Davis. He received on the twenty-eighth the full special reports which he had ordered from the commercial agencies, and further, a verbal report from his own investigator; and on the forenoon of the twenty-ninth, Cathal went to Davis' office.

Davis, after a time, sent out word he could not see Mr. O'Mara.

Cathal, standing, stared past the secretary who brought this message; he strode past her, then, and tried to turn the knob of Mr. Ayreforth's door. It did not turn. It was locked.

Perhaps, during his wait, Cathal unconsciously had prepared the plan which immediately he adopted. He had not expected exactly this situation; but he did not delay an instant. He went to the window of the outer office which adjoined the partition wall. It was open, and he stepped out upon the sill. A twin window, also open, was on the other side of the partition, with a step between their sills. Cathal caught the sash and made the step—and he was in Davis' office.

Only after he had entered did Davis seem to have heard him. Davis was sitting at his desk with pen in his hand over paper. He had been trying to write something.

He jerked about, dropping his pen. He saw O'Mara, and started to rise but he did not. His hand darted to an open drawer beside him, and came up with a pistol, which he lifted, not toward Cathal, but toward his own head.

Cathal caught him; and they fought for the pistol.

It was like grappling a madman. Cathal blocked his arm so that the hand with the pistol pointed off, but Cathal could not get the pistol away. Then suddenly the pistol dropped. It was on the floor; and for the moment, Cathal was outwitted. He thought he had won; and he let Davis go.

Davis fell back from him, and Cathal stooped for the pistol. And he had it safe, and had snapped the cartridges out, when he realized Davis was at the window—12 floors above the street.

There must be for a man still sane, mostly, a second's halt before self-destruction, and so again Cathal caught him.

He clutched him with both arms from behind, and bracing his feet below the window, he pulled Davis back into the room; and then Cathal took no more chances. He let go and regained his feet first; and as Davis stood up, Cathal swung with all his weight in the blow upon Davis' chin.

Davis dropped to the floor on his face.

The office people were pounding at the locked door and shouting for admittance.

"Is Mr. Remble there?" Cathal called through; and when the partner answered: "You come in; keep everybody else out," he unlocked the door, swung it enough to let Remble in, and bolted it once more.

Ken Remble stood gaping, his partner at his feet. The cartridges which Cathal had ejected were scattered on the floor.

"He shot himself!" Ken Remble whispered.

"No," said Cathal. "I took the gun away from him. He's knocked out; that's all."

"Who are you?"

"O'Mara. I'm a lawyer."

"Lawyer?"

"I came here as his friend."

"Oh... What's our move now?"

"Yours," said Cathal, "is to quiet your people. Tell them anything you please; and tell me later. I'll stay with him."

He was alone with Davis again behind the locked door.

Davis sat up dizzily. "What time is it?"

"Time?" said Cathal; and before he brought the desk clock into Davis' sight, he turned the hands. "It's after twelve, Ayreforth," he said. "It's two minutes after noon. Your insurance has expired."

"I didn't do it!" he broke down utterly. "I didn't do it—for her."

Cathal remained with him. In the office, until two o'clock, when he was able to communicate with Robert Glenelth in his office; and Glenelth came for the Dark One's husband and took him home.

That evening, when he arrived at the Linsdales', Cathal received a message to call Miss Glenelth. She would wait for him, Agnes told him, no matter how late it might be before he could come to the house.

It was Agnes who opened the door; and they were alone in the hall.

She spoke to Cathal so quietly that he asked: "He's all right?"

Agnes glanced toward the silent stairs. "Bee's trying to get him to sleep. He wanted to do it—for her."

She caught his hand. "What can I say to you?"

"Nothing," said Cathal, his hand burning from her touch. He wanted to turn his hand and clasp hers; he wanted—how he wanted to draw her to him! But he did not.

"But for you," she whispered, "but for you—" She closed her eyes, and could not finish. Then she looked up at him again. "We've shared some terrible things, you and I, Cathal O'Mara," she said.

"May we share more?"

The burning that had been in his hand was throughout his body. "Not more troubles, I mean!" he said. "Yet, may I have my part in putting them from you, if they are to come?"

Her hand was gone from him, but she was leading him out onto the terrace, where the lights from the house dimly shone. "Do you remember—the lightning?" timidly he asked.

"I remember everything we've done together," she replied with her honesty that excited him through.

He was keeping himself from her; carefully, he kept to himself; and she wanted him closer. When he did not move, she did.

"The times we've met," she heard him say, "could be packed in a day; do you know it?"

"I know it. What a day!"

"Do you live in it—ever?"

"Ever? Again and again, over and over! Do you?"

"Do I?" He could speak no further to her. He stood, keeping himself off as he had, searching her eyes in the dim light; but slowly, slowly his hands went to her.

She saw them and waited for them; but they stopped, and she seized his suddenly, and she clasped her fingers through his; and so, as he held to her, she held to him. And they felt each other quivering.

"So it's come to you too!" he whispered.

"Yes, Cathal O'Mara, it's come to me too."

Their fingers twisted together in glorious agony.

"But what can we do with it?"

"Do? What do you want to do?"

"Live in our kingdom; can we?"

"Our kingdom? Where?"

"Wherever you will be—with me—if you believe it."

"Believe what, Cathal?"

"That it's not the world of others that lovers live in; it's the kingdom of themselves alone."

"It may be a marvelous, movable kingdom. For it's wherever one finds the other. In the city to have it, you need but together to shut the door; or it may surprise you from no more than a meeting, unexpected, amid the crowd of the street."

"There, I've told you. But I know—I know it's in my fancy, only. With all the differences between us, can it ever be?"

CHAPTER XIII

Bee, not yet undressed, lay on the bed beside her husband. He had worn himself out; and the bromide which she had brought him had made him sleep at last; but she could not sleep.

A car drove away; and Bee crept from the room, closed the door carefully behind her, and waited at the top of the stairs. Agnes did not appear; and there was no sound below. "Agnes! Agnes!" Bee called cautiously; and for a moment she had the fear that her sister had driven away with O'Mara. "Agnes!"

Agnes turned from the door where she had stood since he left her. She heard Bee at last, and looked up and saw her.

She went slowly, almost as if with difficulty; and indeed, difficulties assailed her, but she did not feel them as her own. For herself, she felt no doubt at all. She was defiantly, exultingly sure—of herself, and of him.

"Agnes, what have you done?"

"Done!" said Agnes breathlessly. "What I'll never, never undo—whatever anybody says. Bee, I've told Cathal O'Mara I'll marry him."

Her sister seized her. "What? ... Agnes!"

"Yes," whispered Agnes. "I told him. That's what I did. But he fears I don't know what I mean. That's why he's gone away."

"What are you talking about? Come into my room," begged Bee, before she remembered Davis just beyond her door. "No; yours," said said to her sister; and Agnes followed her into her own room.

"Now, tell me," the Dark One commanded.

"For two weeks," said Agnes confusedly. "He means to stay away. We're not to see each other; he won't come here. He won't even call me."

"Why?"

"So I'll have the time to myself to be surer."

"Do you need to be surer?" Bee asked. "Look at me, Agnes! ... Oh, damn it, you've got it! You've got it! ... And I never had! And I've my third child within me."

"I've got him yet. I'm glad of that, you know. Don't you? ... He knows. I've made him know! ... He tried to kill himself—for me. ... But you, Agnes; you go ahead! To hell with everything else! Be happy—happy! Happy, I tell you!"

Daylight laid upon Agnes no dismay. Through hours after Bee had returned to Davis, Agnes lay awake; but she had slept at last, to rouse to objects that showed again their sharp edges, to glares and to shadows.

She shut her eyes again and curled to relieve the enjoyment of his arms about her for the moment before he had put her away from him—when, though he held her and she clung to him, his own faith had failed him. For he knew that it must be—it was, in some degree at least, the world of others that they must live in; and no desperate denials of his own, even though she joined in them, could screen that world away.

Jeb called up. And it was strange to talk to him and never to Cathal. Stranger still that he, and never Cathal, came to the house. But she kept herself from Jeb's hands.

Her father was involved again in Davis' affairs; and Jeb again—unknown to Davis, Agnes hoped—was helping him salvage something.

Every other day, it seemed, Cathal's name was in the papers; and always accorded the new respect; for he spoke of men accused, or about to be put on trial, who too recently had ruled.

Queerly and pleasantly, on unsummoned occasions through these long, listless days, she recollected everything he had said to her, from the very first, and with a clarity and completeness as if, at the time, she had memorized it. So, on one day—it was the ninth of the ordeal of the fourteen—she recalled how he had told her that his grandfather had died in the Cold Storage fire in the Fair of '33.

It had meant nothing to her; but now she inquired of it; and the next afternoon she was in the Tribune tower, asking to see the files of the paper for July, 1883. So there, upon the brittle and yellowed page, she read his name—Cathal Martin O'Mara; and she read what that Cathal O'Mara, nearly forty years ago, had dared and done, and how he had died. And his wife, who had been young then, had had to look on.

Winnie, that was Winnie, who had been at the trial!

Agnes went out to a taxi.

Winnie, on this afternoon, was home alone, as she often was, and especially on the afternoons of Tuesday and Friday, for then she baked. Bread, first, and next cakes.

She timed this baking to the school-bells which, at half-past three, would ring their release to the little girls and boys.

She stirred a great bowl of smooth golden batter, did Winnie, and she poured a scant half of it into the big round tin for the family cake. The bigger half, by far, Winnie turned into her tins of dozens of little cupcakes for the boys and girls. And for them, when they came, she had plenty of milk in the icebox.

She had quarts of it today—quarts beyond the family need. For these were bitter times for them about here, as well as for the rich, or them that had been rich.

So Winnie sat with her huge bowl in her aproned lap, stirring the batter smooth with her big wooden spoon, to be ready once more for the children—boys and girls; and was it strange that it was the little, bold, hungry boys in patched trousers and scuffed shoes who most caught at her heart?

FROM AROUND MICHIGAN

Bellaire—Work has been started here on the oil aggregate resurfacing of a two mile stretch on M-88 through Bellaire to the Antrim County infirmary, south of the village. The resurfacing is to be extended later.

Reading—This community will have a new municipal park completely equipped and landscaped as a result of a four to one vote cast in the recent primary. Four wooden store structures will be torn down to provide area for the new park.

Parma—An unusual form of uniting three churches under one roof is enjoying a marked success here. For the past 11 years, the Baptist, Presbyterian and Methodist Churches have held union services under the same roof but each denomination retains its own creed. The plan was adopted as a measure of economy.

Ionia—Steadily dropping population figures at Michigan Reformatory hit the lowest point last month since January, 1924. Figures were the same for both periods, 1,079 inmates. Auto thefts became the crime responsible for the most sentences last month with 118 men on the list. Robbery armed was the cause of 114 sentences.

Marion—Franklin, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Berry, had a narrow escape when the horse upon which he was riding from pasture became frightened and ran away, crashing into a fence and throwing the animal, breaking a blood vessel and killing it. Franklin jumped from the horse's back just before it struck the fence.

Lansing—The recount applied for by Louis B. Ward, defeated candidate for the Democratic senatorial nomination, will be the first one under the vote recheck law passed by the 1935 session of the state legislature. The 1935 statute provides the recount will be made by county boards of canvassers under direction and supervision of the state board.

Kalamazoo—Dr. Dwight B. Waldo, president emeritus of Western State Teachers College, and two educators who have served under him for 32 years, were to be honored by the Michigan State Board of Education. Dr. Waldo is considered the only living college president to have organized two State educational institutions. He has headed Michigan teacher training institutions for 30 years.

Lansing—The National Park service credits the work of 1800 CCC enrollees with saving timber on Isle Royale from complete destruction by forest fires during August. The fires kept the CCC fire fighters in action for about a month and officials estimate that the boys spent 40,000 man-days in the battle and saved the greater part of the island timber as well as property of summer residents.

Ionia—"Oscar, Animated Thermostat" has changed jobs now that artificial heat has been installed in the home of Judge Dale K. Jepson here. Oscar is a pet alligator who used to grunt persistently when the fire went low on winter evenings. Now he changes color with the weather, turning a heavy dark brown when it is going to rain, according to his owner.

Jackson—One of the newest types of highway barricades for railroad crossings will be installed at US-127 and the valley division of the Michigan Central railroad, near here, for test purposes. The barricade, a steel gate, is countersunk in the pavement and rises as the flasher signals at the crossing operate. It rises only enough to cause a passing car to bump at first, then goes higher to block passage.

Omena—After four years in business here in the north woods, the Solle Book Shop has become a nationally known institution. The proprietor, Will Solle, retreated to the north country from Chicago's Michigan boulevard book shops when his health failed. Taking his 3000 volumes with him for company, he has since developed a business which nets him a comfortable living and a modest profit.

Empire—Udo Fisher, of Philadelphia, was acclaimed the winner of the principal trophy in the recent Mid-West soaring meet in which more than a score of glider pilots spent a total of 150 hours in the air. Art Schultz of Detroit took second place. A glider piloted by Ben Badenock of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology won first prize for performance. A ship entered by the Lawrence Institute of Technology, Detroit, took second place.

Roscommon—Northern Michigan porcupines are displaying strange appetites these days. At a deer hunters' camp in the Ogema state forest Thomas White, conservation officer of Roscommon county, found a porcupine busily engaged in eating an aluminum tea kettle that had been left by the hunters when they broke camp last fall. In the Pigeon river state forest porcupines gnawed off the glass insulators of the fire-tower telephone line. Traces of salt on the objects gnawed are believed to attract the porcupines.

COST OF RELIEF TO THE TAXPAYER

How much does the cost of relief in Michigan cost the Michigan taxpayer? For the average property owner in the state during July it amounted to 11 cents for every $1,000 of assessed valuation for the share the counties and local municipalities contributed, according to a statement from George F. Granger, Assistant Relief Administrator.

"However," Mr. Granger said, "during the first seven months of 1936, approximately 61 percent of all relief costs were borne by the state government through diversion of sales tax collections. Total relief costs for these seven months amounted to $13,222,772. The State paid $8,065,891 of this bill which amounted to 28 percent of the total sales tax collections. Consequently, in addition to the 11 cents paid by property owners for every $1,000 of assessed valuation for the local contribution to relief, eight mills out of every dollar spent by anyone in Michigan for commodity purchases went to pay for the state's share of the bill.

"Had local communities been forced to foot the entire bill the cost to property tax payers would have been increased by 145 percent, from 11 cents to 27 cents per $1,000 of assessed valuation.

"In some counties, of course, the actual cost to taxpayers was much less than the state average. In Monroe County, for example, it amounted to only $.02 per $1,000 in Eaton and in Calhoun $.08 in July.

SCHOOL EXPECTED TO OPEN HERE SOON

Although the new Pinckney school addition is completed, the date of its opening is still more or less in doubt, owing to the fact that the school has not as yet accepted the building. In several instances George Culbertson & Son, the general contractors, failed to follow specifications. The floor of the second story is three inches lower than that of the old building which it joins. This is to be fixed by extending the hall into the old building. A change order had to be signed to do this and up to date Culbertson & Son have shown no great haste to carry this out. The gymnasium floor was laid without a cork border on the east side to allow for expansion with the result that it buckled up in several places. This also Culbertson has not remedied. Much of the hardware for the building has not arrived. This includes locks and handles for the doors and cupboards etc. The hardware firms, due to a big rush of business are behind in their orders and these articles have not yet arrived. All the seats and desks for the new rooms have arrived and the lighting fixtures are ready and the new heating plant is practically installed. The only thing holding up the opening of the building is the ironing out of the differences between the contractors and the school board. When the former has remedied certain things so that the building will conform to the specifications, the building will be accepted by the board and will be ready for use.

IS ACCIDENTLY SHOT

While trying to shoot a cat which had gotten inside a partition in his home near Highland Lake, Tuesday night, Captain Gori, accidentally shot his wife in the right arm, below the elbow with a .32, when the bullet went through a 2 x 4 and sheetrock partition. Mrs. Gori was brought to the Pinckney Sanatorium where the bullet was removed.

AUTUMN DANCING PARTY

The St. Joseph's Social Club of Howell announces the first large dancing party of the season to be held at the parish hall October 6, Tuesday night, at 9:30, admission fifty cents each.

Floyd Snyder and his eleven piece orchestra from Detroit will furnish the music. Mr. Snyder is well known here, having played at a party last spring and also at the local J-Hop.

J. Nolan, salesman for Swift and Company, was badly hurt Tuesday afternoon when his car hit a tree east of the Brockmiller farm. He was brought to the Pinckney Sanatorium.

Over Sixty-Eight Years of Safe Banking A GAME

Almost everybody alive today has played some kind of game. It may have been baseball, football, tennis, golf, hockey or some game requiring cards. Whether it is baseball or "old maid", there is always a goal at which we aim.

Life is a game too and the goal varies with each individual. Regardless of the ultimate end of our game, we all look toward making things a little easier for us when we cannot be so active. In a sense this means money. The only way to obtain this goal is through a rigid and systematic savings plan. A Savings Account pays two per cent interest at the present time. Let us show you what happens to your dollars through a systematic plan of saving.

| Save per week | Interest 2% annually compounded semi | 10 years | 20 years | 30 years |
|---------------|--------------------------------------|----------|----------|----------|
| $2.50 | $1,829. | $2,943. | $4,912. | |
| 5.00 | 2,658. | 4,805. | 8,228. | |
| 10.00 | 5,316. | 9,610. | 16,456. | |
| 20.00 | 10,632. | 19,220. | 32,912. | |

| Total Actual Savings | 5.00 | 10.00 | 20.00 | 30.00 |
|----------------------|--------|--------|---------|---------|
| 2,400. | 4,800. | 9,600. | 14,400. | 28,800. |

These figures can be compared to some existing insurance plans. In doing it will be found that a straight Savings Account will yield more cash value at the completion of the plan. This is one way for each and everyone of us to establish our own social security. It is easily done at a cost which in the long run is negligible. Adopt a Savings plan which fits your income. All deposits insured by our membership in Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.
