

Supervisors Make Drastic Changes

County Board of Supervisors Puts Sheriff On Salary and Make Other Changes.

The Livingston county board of supervisors in annual fall session the week, made quite drastic changes in the office of sheriff. The office of sheriff was put on a straight salary of $10,000 per year, with no fees or mileage, and the sheriff must furnish his own car.

The salary of the undersheriff and two deputies was increased from $1,200 to $1,500 per year and the other deputies from $1,000 to $1,200 yearly. Clerk hire for the prosecutor was increased from $780 to $840 and the probate register's salary increased to $1,020. The salary of the courthouse janitor was increased from $900 to $1,000 per year.

The printing of the circuit court calendar was awarded to the Brighton Argus for 1937 and then to rotate to the other county papers.

The printing of the supervisors' proceedings is to be given to the Fowler Review for 1937 and to rotate among the other three papers. A resolution by Supervisor Heisel of Putnam, to let the printing of ballots for county elections to the lowest bidder was also adopted.

DAIRY BUSINESS INCREASES

A recent census release offers a bit of encouragement for the dairy industry here if production may be so classed. According to the census report Livingston County folks milked 2,000 more cows in 1934 than in 1929. They produced 545,000 gallons more of milk in '34 than '29, and 3,000 more pounds of butter. Milk and beef cattle over two years here increased from 10,007 to 13,378 in the same period. One fact might challenge these comparisons and that is that around 150 more farms reported in the 1931 census than reported in 1929.

The following is taken from the Livingston County Republican Press. Undoubtedly there has been a great increase in the dairy herds in the last three years. For several years before 1933 the dairy herds in this county were constantly dwindling due to the lack of market for milk. The Pinckney Creamery closed, so did the one at Howell, Chelsea, Dexter and many other places. Farmers found themselves without a market for their milk and consequently had to sell their cows. With so many dairy cattle thrown on the market the price went down and many good cows were sold for $30 or less. M. J. Reason of Pinckney shipped some 8 cars of milk cows to New York State and many other drovers did the same thing. When the city factories began to go at full blast again the demand for milk went back to normal and the farmers had a profitable year. Naturally this would show an increase.

M. there will be euchre playing and the election returns will be received via radio and telephone. The public is invited to attend this.

FOOTBALL GAME POSTPONED

On account of the further incursions by the mumps which laid most Pinckney warriors low, it was necessary to postpone the Pinckney high school game scheduled with Hartland for Friday until Nov. 13. This Friday Pinckney will play the Ann Arbor high school Reser at Wines Field, Ann Arbor. Pinckney won from this team 8 to 0 two weeks ago but the Ann Arbor bunch has improved and beat Manchester last week 7 to 0 by means of a 20 yard forward pass.

There were five children born to this couple, Mrs. Norma Noteware, Marshall; Marshall May of South Haven, Mrs. Maxine Gilliam, Kendallville, Indiana; Mrs. Marguerite Smith of Niles; Bruce May of Lansing, who with their families were here to visit their parents and attended the gathering at the church.

M. and Mrs. May received many nice gifts.

PROPERTY TAX AMENDMENT

We have received considerable literature in regard to the amendment abolishing the property tax and were even visited by a person campaigning for it. Nevertheless we are against it. While we do not think that real estate should be asked to pay all the costs of government still it should pay its share. It receives in the cities and villages, police and fire protection, improved roads, street lights and in the country other things in proportion. The 15 mill amendment reduced the real estate tax considerable. If this amendment passes another method of taxation would be imperative. An income tax has been voted down several times and probably would be again. For this reason we doubt that the best interests of the people would be served by the adoption of this amendment.

REPUBLICAN WOMEN'S RALLY

HONORED AT SHOWER

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Basil Cavanaugh in Fowlerville was the scene of a merry party last Friday evening when some fifty friends gathered at a miscellaneous shower honoring Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cavanaugh, whose marriage was an event of recent date. The party was given by Mr. and Mrs. Chester Simpson and Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Gallop. Bridge was enjoyed during the early hours of the evening, after which a delicious luncheon was served. Then the newly-weds opened the gift packages, displaying a large number of useful and beautiful household accessories, and a fine tribute to the esteem in which this young couple are held.

Mrs. Cavanaugh is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Darrow of Pinckney, and her many friends have extended to her and her husband their sincere wishes for a long and happy life together.

Hon. Frank Murphy Speaks at Howell

Large Attendance Greeted Hon. Frank
Murphy and Ed Shields at Howell Last Thursday.

About 1000 people attended the big Democratic rally held at Howell. The meeting was held in the spacious high school gymnasium. Hon. Frank Murphy, Democratic candidate for Governor, was the guest of the evening and he delivered a most brilliant and a stirring address. He pointed out the Roosevelt administration when he had not brought prosperity out of depression and paid his respects to Mr. Roosevelt and Gov. Vandenberg and the New Deal. He pointed out that a Roosevelt Governor's philosophy during his entire term as Governor and the Governor he accused of having the credit for failing to campaign with banners of Democrats and opposing the New Deal. He pointed out that a Roosevelt Governor's philosophy during his entire term as Governor and the Governor he accused of having the credit for failing to campaign with banners of Democrats and opposing the New Deal.

Don Vandenberg, a candidate for Congress, introduced Hon. Frank Murphy. He pointed out that a Roosevelt Governor's philosophy during his entire term as Governor and the Governor he accused of having the credit for failing to campaign with banners of Democrats and opposing the New Deal. He pointed out that a Roosevelt Governor's philosophy during his entire term as Governor and the Governor he accused of having the credit for failing to campaign with banners of Democrats and opposing the New Deal.

Dr. William C. Dehan of Lansing, candidate for senator was then introduced. William E. Roth of Howell was then called on and responded to Murphy. He pointed out that a Roosevelt Governor's philosophy during his entire term as Governor and the Governor he accused of having the credit for failing to campaign with banners of Democrats and opposing the New Deal.

Martin Lavan introduced Hon. Edmund C. Shields, national committeeman from Michigan. He is a former Livingston county resident and always a popular speaker here. He told how President Roosevelt had replaced Herbert Hoover's sitting down policy with one of action which brought recovery out of depression. To those who harp on the national debt he said if this nation could spend twenty-seven billion dollars to wage a European war and then finance the European countries so that they could buy goods of us they ought to be able to spend eight or nine billion to keep the people of this country from starving to death. Mr. Shields was in Grand Rapids during both the Landon and Roosevelt visit and related a number of anecdotes concerning it. The most significant was that he stated a Washington correspondent for a Detroit paper visited him in his room. He was one of the 187 correspondents on the Landon special train. He told Mr. Shields that the 187 correspondents took a straw vote among themselves as to whom they thought would be elected president. The result according to the correspondent was 187 thought Roosevelt would be elected and only 2 for Governor Landon.

This ended the program during which all speakers were vigorously applauded.

TO THE PUBLIC

Word is being passed around that the office of Judge of Probate is to be a lay office. The Michigan Law does not say so.

Ex-Gov. William E. A. Cole, Junius Edgar, and Arthur Montague were all famous, not one a lawyer at the excellent Judge of Probate. Good judgment and fairness will bring success to any public official. One term (4 years) is all I am asking. Your vote November 3rd will be appreciated.

R. E. BARRON

ADOPT RULE BARRING BEER DEALERS

The grand lodge of Odd Fellows of Michigan at their convention at Bay City last week adopted a law barring beer dealers from membership in their lodges. This rule was approved by the judiciary committee and was vigorously opposed by the Detroit lodges in a minority report in which they stated it would deprive them of a large percent of their membership. A similar amendment was brought up at the Masonic grand lodge convention at Traverse City last May but killed by the jurisprudence committee who stated it was up to the lodges to judge the qualifications of their members.

Mrs. Don Swarthout and brother, Victor Bourbonnais spent the week in Chicago with Don Swarthout who is attending an embalmer's school.

Current Comment

In the death of Senator James Couzens this state lost one of their greatest men in public service. Even the Detroit Free Press which never had a good word for him during his life is now in their eulogy of him. Of course this reminds one of the statement made about the big financiers of Wall Street at the time of Theodore Roosevelt's death. It was said that they hated Teddy Roosevelt in his lifetime but loved him dead. Anyway Senator Couzens by his denunciations to the people in the way of monopolies, huge profits, stock exchange, corrected an unbalanced one on them and his memory will be perpetuated by them and not by any crocodile tears shed for him now by those who were his enemies during his life time.

A short time ago a Detroit paper offered a reward for information which would show proof of intimidation of voters by any party or group across Michigan or certain way out of it. We understand that many large factories and industrial concerns are paying ships in the pay envelopes of workers urging them to vote for Landon if they want prosperity. They are also urged to wear Landon buttons and all Roosevelt signs and stickers are taboo on their cars in the factory parking lot. Is this not the same kind of intimidation as the other?

Many people doubt that the speeches of Herbert Hoover and Al Smith are giving the Republican party much benefit. Hoover spends his time in trying to prove that it was not he, Landon for the depression of 1932. That is all water over the dam now. Al Smith is regarded as the mountain peak of the Liberty League and the opponents. Edmund Snodgrass said to Howell last week that every time these two speak, President Roosevelt gains twenty-thousand votes.

A stockholder of the General Motors has started suit to test the legality of bonuses totaling $500,000 paid to officers and directors of the General Motors out of earnings. He states that although large bonuses were received by the above named persons that stockholders between 1930 and 1935 only received $10 a share in dividends. He asked that these bonuses be returned and distributed to the stockholders. This suit has been filed in the United States District Court in Chicago.

Gen. Fitzgerald has denied an article printed in "Time" last week in which he is said to have stated that he was cutting himself loose from the Landon campaign and working for himself from now on. Also that Landon's Michigan visit had cost him 20,000 votes. He denies deserting Landon at Grand Rapids and relating a number of anecdotes concerning it. The most significant was that he stated a Washington correspondent for a Detroit paper visited him in his room. He was one of the 187 correspondents on the Landon special train. He told Mr. Shields that the 187 correspondents took a straw vote among themselves as to whom they thought would be elected president. The result according to the correspondent was 187 thought Roosevelt would be elected and only 2 for Governor Landon.

This ended the program during which all speakers were vigorously applauded.

The University of Michigan which has been trounced for three years in succession by a team from a smaller college in what was formerly a warm-up game is making excuses. All caused but the right one are given. According to the average person, the reason for the Michigan team's poor showing in recent years is they are letting all the star athletes get away from them and other schools are gobbling them up. Michigan State on the other hand seems to have been getting most of the high school stars of the state. A coach has his limitations and if he has not the material he can not mold a winning team and for the past several years Coach Kipke has had poor material to work with.

Why all this raving about the National Security Act. Every Michigan representative in Congress voted for it except one. Among its supporters were Senator Vandenberg. Now why has it suddenly become all wrong? The main objection they claim is that it will cut the working man's pay but as it only takes out one percent a week in most cases it would only amount to 35c. The rural mail carriers and the teachers in the schools have had a similar retirement fund for years and it works out nicely. Why would it wreck such damage when applied to the auto workers and other industries. It would certainly be welcome to them in times when work is slack and many are out of work. It would be a Godsend to those workers who have passed forty and are beginning to get gray around their temples. These are the ones the factories have been turning adrift by the thousands in recent years and replacing with younger men. I think the solicitude of industry is not for the working man but for themselves.

BEARISH

Election odds in New York climbed from 8 to 5 on Roosevelt to as high as 11 or 12 to 5 last week. Sentiment in financial circles has turned bearish on Republican chances for the third time.

Before the G. O. P. Cleveland convention, New York anti-new deal chiefs were steeped in optimism. Republican stock took a quick upward rush when Landon was nominated and the party appeared to be united and full of pep. Then came a gradual decline in optimism as flagrant weaknesses in the G. O. P. machine became apparent. Confidence revived as Landon began to "get his teeth into the campaign."

And now—due partly to internal friction in the New York State Republican organization, partly to the indications of a trend towards Roosevelt in recently reported polls, part-

WHERE DOES THIS LEAVE WILBUR?

Rev. Charles Coughlin addressed a large N. U. J. meeting at the state fair ground coliseum Saturday night. This occasion was enlivened by the event of Woody Hockaday, an escaped lunatic from Kansas who leaped upon the speakers platform, tore the head set from Rev. Coughlin and hit him with a bag of feathers which he proceeded to scatter around. He has performed stunts previously at public gatherings and will probably be returned to the Kansas asylum.

Gov. Fitzgerald attended this meeting. His car was wrecked near Howlandville but never-the-less he reached the meeting in time to appear on the platform and be presented by Rev. Coughlin as his endorsed candidate for governor. As he already had a candidate for United States Senator in the person of Louis Ward, his Washington representative this leaves Wilbur Brucker, the Republican candidate for senator out in the cold. However this minor detail does not seem to bother Gov. Fitzgerald at all who tried to persuade Brucker, not to run in the first place.

TRAPPING SEASON OPENS NOVEMBER 1

The first of the fall and winter trapping seasons open in Michigan November 1.

Beginning on that date and continuing to and including Jan. 31, it will be legal to trap opossum, skunk and badger throughout the state. The general game law imposes no day or season bag limit on trappers seeking these fur-bearers.

In the upper peninsula muskrat trappers may begin setting their traps for muskrat on Nov. 1. The muskrat season in the upper peninsula closes on November 30.

The open seasons on trapping muskrat and raccoon in the lower peninsula are staggered. They are as follows:

North of north line of Town 16 N and west of Saginaw bay from Nov. 15 to Dec. 15 inclusive on both raccoon and muskrat.

South of N. line of Town 16 and east of Saginaw bay, including the Thumb from Dec. 1 to Dec. 15, inclusive, on raccoon and from Dec. 1 to Dec. 31 inclusive on muskrat.

Loans of department of conservation moving pictures for the year ending September 30 totalled 2,571, according to recently compiled records. The pictures were shown in various parts of the state by clubs, churches, schools to an aggregate attendance of 855,961 persons.

ONE BUCK - LAW

The one-buck law, which has helped to build up Michigan's deer herd to its present large size, will have been in effect 16 years during the open deer season this fall, according to conservation authorities here.

One of the principal worries of game men during this time has been the buck-to-deer ratio of the herd, but in spite of the heavy annual shooting of bucks, they say, the sex-ratio still appears quite safe.

On the basis of observations made by conservation men in the deer country during July and August of this year, it has been learned that the buck-to-deer ratio in the upper peninsula is about one buck for each two and one half does; in the lower peninsula, one buck for each three and a quarter does.

"This would seem a safe ratio," comments I. H. Bartlett of the game division. "Deer are polygamous and it is estimated that one buck will serve as many as 10 does during the mating season. If this is true and the sex ratio remains as reported, there seems little need of worry as far as the supply of bucks for breeding purposes is concerned. But as long as the one-buck law is in effect, the sex-ratio bears careful watching."

Safetygrams

The Safety Man

The human element in driving is the problem on our highways today. Construction of highways is constantly being improved, especially along safety lines.

The human element must be educated. The driver of a car must realize his responsibility. Schools, clubs, safety organizations, societies, and many other groups of people are trying desperately to install into the mind of every automobile driver that proper training in the handling of an automobile is necessary. It is easy to train the higher types of apes, cats, dogs and even lower animals to operate a car in a circus ring to the satisfaction of an audience, but it is sometimes humanly impossible to install into the minds of some drivers the absolute necessity for safe driving.

PROGRESS

When one looks up and down our streets it is with a certain feeling of pride. Many towns of our size have grown for several years and then stagnated. Howell is not one of these. The character of our citizens is such that it will not be content to sit back and watch the world go by. Since the introduction of the automobile a good deal has gone by, but due to our progressiveness we find a lot of the world stopping with us. One can mark the changes of the past year. The new Line store, new front, for Button Hardware, new Ford Garage, are but a few of the changes. Now a new Post Office building is under construction. Most of our streets are hard surfaced and all modern conveniences are available to every home. Our merchants believe that there is more business if one goes after it. Our farmers improve their herds for better milk production and purchase modern equipment for more efficient cultivation. Our manufacturers have kept us employed almost constantly even in the hardest times. We have worked together and the results speak for themselves.

PRELUDE

My name is Mary Avery. I am forty-six years old and a widow. I have lived all my life in the little harbor town of Satuit, Massachusetts, the scene of the famous Second Head murder. The old Avery house on Second Head has been my home for the twenty-five years that have elapsed since I married Mark Avery. It was on my place that the murder was committed. Because of that and for other reasons I have decided to write the whole story of that murder. I say the whole story because some of its details have never reached the newspapers. Those facts are buried deep in my memory and in that of one other person. I shall put this manuscript in my safe deposit box with instructions that it may not be opened until my death.

Murder in Satuit!
It seemed almost as fabulous as a communistic uprising among the flowers in an old-fashioned garden. And indeed when the murder occurred we, the citizens of Satuit, became almost as helpless as a gardener in the face of such a revolution. Thitherto, our equipment for handling crime had been meager. We had a police station, a chief of police, a few policemen, mainly engaged in traffic duty; everything in short but crime. Patrick O'Brien, our chief of police, who bore the leading part in solving the mystery, is of course a citizen of Satuit, known and loved by all of us. Indeed Patrick and I were graduated the same year from high school. Patrick was president of the class and I was treasurer. It was always a race between us two in the matter of marks. In the end Patrick won out and finished at the head of the class.

I have noticed that all mystery stories begin with a description of the crime; then of the locale. I, an amateur, am going to reverse that process. First of all, I am going to describe Second Head where the murder occurred. Second Head is one of four cliffs, rather unimaginatively named First, Second, Third and Fourth Head, which stretch east into Massachusetts Bay. To the west of Second Head runs a road, ending north at First Head and south at the Indian river which separates Second and Third Head. Beyond this road, to the west stretches broad marsh, penetrated at high tide by a tiny estuary from the harbor; and beyond the marsh the rest of the big township.

Roughly speaking, the houses on Second Head which are most intimately connected with this story lie in a big oval. The center of this big oval is a small oval—a kind of Common. Here a marble basin, filled with water, supports a colony of goldfish. Every family on Second Head pays a small fixed annual sum to keep this scrap of Common mowed and orderly. We adults call it The Egg. Successive generations of children have always called it Cat Park—although as far as I know, only a few cats ever sunned themselves there.

Next to me—a wide field bordered by high lilac hedges, intervening—live a childless couple, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Stow. I am very fond of the Stows. Peter is a painter and a good one. Mattie Stow is perhaps the plainest woman in God's world; she is also perhaps the nicest. Their house, an old one and a big one, its lower floor amplified by wide glassed-in piazzas adapted perfectly for the purpose of entertaining, is one of the most charming in Satuit. Every summer for twenty-five years, the Stows have given a masquerade. It is the social event of the season.

It was one of the guests of this year's masquerade who was murdered.

Next up the slant of Second Head toward the ocean—to the east—come two houses belonging to Doctor and Mrs. Geary. Doctor Geary is a surgeon with an office in Boston. The Gearys occupy the one nearest the ocean and their married daughter Edith and her husband, Alfred Bray, the one nearest the Stows. I have always known the Gearys and of course I have watched Edith grow up. I like them all, although none of them thrills me especially; at best they are a little innocuous. The blond Brays are an average happy young couple. Both the Gearys and the Brays went to the masquerade. Their first connection with the murder was when we called Doctor Geary after my maid, Sarah Darbe, found the body of the murdered man.

Next to the Gearys, and still on the ocean side, is the house occupied for the summer by Doctor Marden and his step-granddaughter. Big, very beautiful, more modern than the rest and hence naturally more convenient and infinitely less interesting, it looks forward onto a "moon-light" garden.

An interesting pair these: Doctor Myron Marden and his step-granddaughter. He, a widower, a middle-westerner by birth, has practiced in Paris for twenty-five years. Caro Prentiss, the step-granddaughter, was born in France, had never visited America before. Her mother had died soon after Caro was born.

Caro Prentiss is a new type in the Satuit garden of girls. She has had a continental education and she possesses the most beautiful type of continental manners. In conversation, she displays a kind of swift, wide-flung intelligence very different from that of our Satuit girls. Grandfather and granddaughter fitted admirably into our social life. Both went to the masquerade.

Next beyond the Howard house—wide hedged lawns separating them—is the Eames house. Equally with the Stows, I love the Eameses. Paul and Lora Eames went to school with me, and I am god-mother to their only child—Molly. Paul is one of our leading citizens, the president of our bank. Lora busies herself in every good work in the community. They are solid people; fine people. As for Molly—

The Eames house is a little like my own—old, what most people call "quaint," which, whatever else it may signify, certainly means inconvenient. It is at present the most popular house on the Head; for wherever Molly is, the young of her generation congregate. The main connection of the Eames family with the murder is that Molly Eames was engaged to the murdered man. Though why she was engaged to him constituted the most recent of Satuit's social mysteries—he was twenty-five years older than she. In addition, everybody in Satuit believed that Walter Treadway was the man whom Molly really loved. Walter Treadway had been for two years secretary to the murdered man. Molly had been engaged to Walter for six months. A year before the murder, the engagement was suddenly broken off and Walter left town; six months before the murder, Molly became engaged again—and to a man who was destined to be murdered. All three of the Eameses attended the masquerade.

Coming around the curve of the circle and down the slope of the Head, we reach the pretty little house of the Fair-weather sisters. Flora, the younger, is dying from cancer and Margaret, the older, nurses her with a passionate devotion. Naturally, neither was present at the Stow masquerade.

Coming still farther down the hill, we close the circle with my house, which separated from it by gardens, lawn, trees and road, overlooks the marsh; a big, old place, built in 1710 by my husband's first ancestor in the country—the original Mark Avery. It consists of what in the family we call the Old Place and the New Place.

The New Place is a little brick ell to the Old Place, quite modern and extremely convenient, to which I retire for the winter. I built it in the first year of my marriage. The New Place bears no part in this story for it is always closed during the summer; but many scenes of what was known as "the Satuit case" played themselves out in the Old Place. Inside, it follows on a largish scale the plan of many colonial houses—broad hall running from fan-lighted doorway past the fine broad staircase ending half-way down the width of the house. On one side of the hall is the library, on the other, a small living-room. Back of the hall and back of both these rooms, lies what was formerly the ample kitchen and is now my big living-room, stretching across the whole width of the house. Back of this—and now we are in the ell—are dining-room and kitchen. Upstairs is a colonial tale of big rooms and small. Broad screened-in piazzas augment both ends of the house.

Outside, the place is a little haphazard and complicated. But it is, I think, utterly charming. In front are a pair of gardens, one on each side of stepping-stones which lead to the front door, all surrounded by a white picket fence. Beyond that is smooth, velvet lawn running down to the stone wall which protects me from the road. To my right the driveway comes up past my side door, turns in a great loop, rejoins itself, so to speak, and flows back to the road. To my left is a small wood which I call the Spinney. My estate numbers a generous dozen acres and the Spinney takes up perhaps a half dozen of them.

A grassy path runs from my left-hand piazza to the edge of the Spinney. There it becomes a broad gravel path, and pursuing a course irregularly oval, runs through the Spinney, curves upward and around and ends at my back door. In the Spinney, farther toward the ocean—not in sight from my house—is a tiny wooden log-cabin which we have always called the Little House. Years ago two of my nephews built the Little House. They sleep there by preference whenever they come to visit me; and entirely through sentiment I have always kept it in repair. The Spinney path runs past the Little House. Down near the stone wall, within sight of my house, there is a tiny pond. It is circular and no larger than a small room. Until I came here, everybody called it by its hereditary name—the covelet. But when my niece and nephew began to grow up about it, we decided that it should have a more agreeable name. Some of them had visited in Connecticut in a house situated on the Mad river. We adored the name. After long debate it was decided to call the pond the Merry Mere. The Merry Mere is fed from a spring in the hillside; it is perhaps three feet deep in the center. Near it is a big, gray lichened rock which, from time immemorial in the family, has been called Mud-Pie Rock.

Here I live all the year around; alone except for my maids Bessie Williams and Sarah Darbe, colored women who have been with me for years. At the time of the murder, my eight-year-old niece, Sylvia Sard, was visiting me. She spent most of her days playing on the shore of the Merry Mere with her little friend Nancy Burton. Both Sylvia and I went to the masquerade; and both my maids were helping that night in the Stow kitchen.

FRIDAY

As I have said, the Stow masquerade is an annual fete. The first summer after they were married, twenty-five years ago, Peter and Mattie sent out invitations for a masked party. It was so great a success that, thereafter, they gave one every year; ultimately it became the social event of the season. This success is in part due to the fact that Mattie and Peter take such pains to make it so. They leave no stone unturned to give the affair glow, gayety, gorgeousness—picturesque quality of every kind. The Stows themselves always say that the success of the party is due to the fact that we, the invited, take as much pains as they, the inviters, to make it so. We are, I am sure, as far as masquerades are concerned, a rather special group. We have always enjoyed dressing up. A dinner party will, at the request of the hostess, turn at the last moment into a costume affair. No one of us but has in the attic a trunk crammed with the costumes we have worn on such occasions. At house auctions, we bid feverishly on old clothes, hats, boots, shawls.

It is a point of honor to disguise ourselves from each other as thoroughly as possible. We keep an inviolable secrecy in regard to our plans. On the night of the masquerade, families separate to dress in alien households and to arrive at the Stow place at different times. Husbands fool wives and wives hoodwink husbands.

Household Questions

To polish a table that has become spoiled by hot dishes, apply a few drops of essence of peppermint with a clean cloth and rub briskly.

Never allow cold water to run into an aluminum pan while it is hot. If done repeatedly the rapid contraction of metal will cause pan to warp.

A teaspoonful vinegar beaten into boiled frosting when flavoring is added will keep it from being brittle or breaking when cut.

When whisk brooms have become worn, cut them down for sink brushes.

For Russian dressing, mix two tablespoons of chopped dill pickles, two tablespoons chopped ripe olives, two tablespoons chili sauce and one tablespoon of catchup to one-half cup of mayonnaise. Serve on lettuce or vegetable salads.

FORGOTTEN ELECTION LAWS

Did you know that it was illegal to make an election bet and in some states it is punished by the loss of the right to vote. Also it is against the law to furnish a vehicle to transport voters to the polls. These laws are still on the books in many states but are never enforced. The vehicle law was passed some years ago. In the old days before there was any registration or secret ballot system it was not uncommon for an ambitious candidate to arrive at the voting place with some fifty voters in a wagon and carry the election. This was the cause of this law being passed.

New York is one of the six states in which disfranchisement is the penalty for election betting. Others are Wisconsin, Wyoming, Oklahoma (if made to influence votes), Minnesota and Montana. Oklahoma and Minnesota also provide fines and imprisonment. Montana also provides election betting a "corrupt practice" if made to influence a vote.

Election laws in 22 states provide penalties for election betting, though loss of franchise is not involved.

Forfeiture of the amount wagered is frequently demanded. In Idaho the bet is forfeited to the city; the Pennsylvania bettor forfeits three times the amount of the wager plus $50; while Maryland loses his hand over the amount wagered and pay a fine in addition.

Eight states make election betting punishable by fine or imprisonment—Arizona, California, North Dakota, North Carolina, Utah, Illinois, Indiana, Idaho.

Some anti-election betting laws go off at strange tangents. In Delaware and New Jersey the loser may recover the full amount wagered; in Florida it is apparently all right to gamble, but not on election day or the day before. That is punishable by fine. In Colorado a candidate may not bet with a voter; in South Dakota election bets may not be placed if the purpose is to challenge a voter when he reaches the polls.

Virginia makes it all very genteel by outlawing all bets over $5.

Besides disfranchisement, penalties range up to $1,000 or one year in prison.

Transportation of voters to polling places is likely to get campaign workers in trouble, too.

In Arizona, California, Michigan, Montana, North Dakota and Utah, the furnishing of money or conveyances to get voters to the polls is a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine or imprisonment. In Nevada the furnishing of a conveyance is a corrupt practice; Kansas and Arkansas prohibit transportation to polls, and Washington prohibits it if done to influence votes.

New Jersey, on the other hand, specifically permits transportation to the polls; an old New York State law permits the furnishing of not more than three "carriages" in any city election district, or six in other districts.

The Michigan law on the subject reads:

"Any person who shall hire any carriage or other conveyance, or cause the same to be done, for conveying voters, other than those physically unable to walk thereto, to any election or primary election, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor." The law allows a legitimate item of campaign expense any outlay "for conveying infirm or disabled voters to or from the polls."

ACCESSORIES PUT STAMP ON HOME

Proof that it is the little things that count is offered in the suggestion that the small articles in a room, such as books, flowers, vases and wall hangings, are the things which make one home different from another.

Proper color, usefulness and attractiveness in shape and beauty are the three tests to apply to such accessories, says Gertrude Reis, home furnishings expert at Michigan State College.

Most of the accessories should be genuine and not imitations. There are some exceptions for utility sake, says Miss Reis. These include the use of wooden candles in place of wax, paper pillows in place of fabric, or tin or paper flowers instead of real ones. Other imitations usually fail to express the finest and most sincere individuality in a home.

"Lamps are important as sources of light for reading and sewing. By the light they shed, lamps add to the cheer and interest of a room," Miss Reis comments. "Plain vases and plain light colored shades always are in good taste."

"Other added touches can be obtained by the gleam of polished metal such as brass or copper, the space giving effect of a well placed mirror and a richly colored cushion that repeats a color already used in a drapery."

Accessories often speak louder than furniture, Miss Reis concludes. Cleaning time is a good time in her opinion to look critically at the effects obtained in rooms. Some accessories can be packed away and others brought out for variety. Three tests she suggests for the articles include the questions, are they lovely in color, useful, beautiful in shape?

TRICKS OF THE MIND THAT MAKE US REALLY SICK

Professor Donald A. Laird, director of Colgate University's Psychological Laboratory, discusses, in the American Weekly with next Sunday's Detroit Times, the astonishing discovery that patients with definite symptoms of serious physical ailments are actually perfectly well in at least one out of four cases, and divulges rules for preventing such imagined, but nonetheless real, illnesses.

ATWOOD SEEKS EARLY AUTO PLATE SALES

In an effort to stimulate the sale of automobiles at the time when for years manufacturers have closed their plants to take inventory, Orville E. Atwood, Secretary of State, has written to proper officials of every state in the Union, notifying them that 1937 license plates were placed on sale October 21. He notified these officials that he would do all he could to cooperate with them, in the event they saw fit to release their 1937 plates early this year.

It is the belief of Atwood that labor in Michigan, as well as everywhere else in the nation where automobile or allied industries are located will be immeasurably benefitted by every move to overcome the seasonal slack in the automotive industry.

This is the second successive year in which motor vehicle license plates have been placed on sale on Oct. 21, Atwood pointed out when he set the date. It was made as early as practicable in order to aid the manufacturers in their drive to bring out models for fall trade. It was believed that with the placing of license plates for the succeeding year on sale coincidentally with the bringing out of new models, one factor of sales resistance would be overcome for the motor industry.

HE KEPT HIS WORD!

NO NEW TAXES . . .

NO NEW DEBTS . . .

... AND A BALANCED BUDGET!

Two years ago, Michigan was millions of dollars in the red. We were overburdened with taxes and debts. Fitzgerald promised us that, if elected, there would be no new taxes, no new debts—and a balanced budget. He kept his word! We have emerged, in two short years, with a state treasury showing over five million dollars balance! Think of this amazing achievement when you go to the polls on November 3rd!

VOTE REPUBLICAN
RE-ELECT
GOVERNOR FITZGERALD

REPUBLICAN STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE

LET'S LOOK AT THE FACTS

Stanley Berriman, Republican candidate for re-election to the office of Prosecuting Attorney respectfully calls the attention of the voters of Livingston County to certain facts in regard to the administration of the duties of his past term.

There have been up to the time of the writing of this article 647 prosecutions in Livingston County. Out of this number there have been 562 convictions, and no acquittals. Twenty-nine of these cases above were dismissed on payment of costs, twenty-five discharged on examination and thirty-one nolle prossed. From these cases the various Justice Courts and the Circuit Court of Livingston County have collected approximately $3,750.00 in fines and costs. Included in these cases were two murder cases of state and nation wide importance, namely, the Bommarito case and the Fretchette case.

As is customary in every county in the state and which fact is shown by the records and files in the office of the Attorney General, and as shown by records of previous Prosecuting Attorneys in this County in murder cases, your Prosecuting Attorney deemed it necessary to receive assistance. This assistance was given by the Attorney General and an Assistant Attorney General was sent by him to this county to aid your Prosecuting Attorney, and convictions were obtained in both cases and two dangerous men are back of bars where they should be.

It is important that the people of Livingston County know that the assistance received from the Attorney General's Office did not cost this county ONE CENT. It is of utmost importance also that the voters of Livingston County know that because their Prosecuting Attorney, in the Fretchette case, asked and received assistance from the Attorney General's Department, your Circuit Judge, Joseph H. Collins, and your Representative in the State Legislature, Charles P. Adams, and your County Clerk, John A. Hagman, were able to go to the State Administrative Board at Lansing with a Petition prepared by your Prosecuting Attorney and obtain the sum of $1880.00. The invoice voucher from the State of Michigan detailed what this said check was for reads as follows. "Claim filed by Livingston County through Stanley Berriman, Prosecuting Attorney, in the sum of $3,750.00 for expenses incurred in the case of people vs. Clarence Fretchette, convicted of murder in a trial held in Livingston County. Payment of one-half of the above cost in accordance with State Administrative Board Action under date of September 17, 1935." This payment was made possible by the fact that your Prosecuting Attorney called in an Assistant Attorney General to aid him in this case. This money would not have been paid to Livingston County except for the fact that your Prosecuting Attorney did call in an Assistant Attorney General.

Your Prosecuting Attorney has had in addition to the two murder cases, twenty-one felony cases before the Circuit Court. In these cases before the Circuit Court, expensive trials were avoided in every instance but one, by the fact that your Prosecuting Attorney prepared his cases so thoroughly and evidence was gathered and presented in such a painstaking manner that the defendants in criminal cases, even when advised by counsel have pled guilty, thus avoiding costly criminal trials.

The people of Livingston County are entitled to know that they have had an economical administration. It is true that in the Fretchette case and in the Bommarito case, counsel was appointed by the Circuit Court. These two defendants being without funds. This cannot be charged against the expense account of the Prosecuting Attorney. The facts show that your Prosecuting Attorney has not, during his term in office, hired or employed any outside or local counsel to perform or assist him in performing any of the duties of his office which it was possible for him to perform.

Your Prosecuting Attorney has refused to issue warrants on uninvestigated complaints. This is shown by the fact that the records show that on almost every warrant authorized by your Prosecuting Attorney, convictions were obtained and fines or jail sentences meted out either in the Justice Courts or in the Circuit Court. This record also proves that there has been full co-operation between your Prosecuting Attorney and all law enforcement officers.

Compare your Prosecuting Attorney's record with any Prosecuting Attorney in the State. Compare the cost of administration of his office. Ask your Circuit Judge, your County Treasurer, your County Clerk, your Supervisor. Check the records and files. Determine for yourself from all the facts whether or not you have had a good Prosecutor during the past two years. Mr. Berriman is satisfied that if you will do these things you will find that you have had a good Prosecuting Attorney and he earnestly solicits your continued confidence in him and earnestly urges you to give him your support and vote on November 3, 1936.

Re-elect Stanley Berriman, Prosecuting Attorney.

In presenting the Republican Candidate for Prosecuting Attorney, the Republican Party and the people of Livingston County should be proud of the record of their Prosecuting Attorney during his first term in office. This office during the past two years has had more work than ever before. Included in the great number of cases were two murder cases, one the Frochette case of nation wide interest and the other, the Bommarito case which attracted state wide attention. Convictions were obtained in both cases by your Prosecuting Attorney with the assistance of an Assistant Attorney General, which assistance cost the taxpayers of this county nothing.
Your Prosecuting Attorney has handled a number of complaints and he has always been courteous and attentive to all persons seeking the aid of his office. He has a record of no acquittals although his office has handled a large number of prosecutions.
The Republican Party respectfully calls the attention of the voters of Livingston County to the sterling qualities, excellent record and efficient administration of Stanley Berriman, Republican Candidate for the office of Prosecuting Attorney for Livingston County.
