The love affairs of King Edward and Wallie Simpson drove about everything off the front pages of the papers last week, including President Roosevelt and the Spanish Civil war. This affair would seem more appropriate for a Hollywood date line than that of London. Mary Pickford's announcement of her third forthcoming marriage only got brief mention. Americans cannot understand the light in which the royal family is regarded in England. As far as service and government they would be better off without it. So it is not on this account it is highly regarded. It is as an upholder of British dignity, tradition and morals that it is cherished. In other words it is regarded as a model of perfection. It personifies the church, the state and the kingdom on which the sun never sets. To have an American commoner who has twice been divorced annex their king is just too much. The affair, it cannot be denied has a strong romantic tinge which even outdoes the early tale of Cinderella. This accounts for its great news value. King Edward, undoubtedly, has aroused more interest by this affair than any other king since King Henry, the 8th. What merry old monarch legalized all his marriages by means of the excommunications.

Despite all the talk and safeguards some 10 men lost their lives during this year. The cause of nearly all of these deaths was carelessness. Several were shot as they sat in their cars. All of this safety first crusade evidently does no good if it does not get to the persons by whom it is needed. More care in issuing licenses to irresponsible people might put down this fatality list.

In a list published last week the biggest donors to the recent presidential campaign are named. John D. Rockefeller Jr. was the largest donor to the Republican campaign fund, giving some $70,000. The Democrats were unable to match this, their biggest gaver being the former Donna Duke, now Mrs. James Cromwell. She gave $50,000. Another big donor was Alfred Sloan, president of the General Motors. He gave $50,000 to the Republican fund. Most of these donations were divided among several different states and organizations. The total contributions of the Rockefeller family to the U. S. P. were $103,000.

The Michigan Interscholastic also went on record last week against the proselytizing of high school athletes by colleges. The system now in use is when a school has a promising athlete for the colleges to offer him scholarships. The interscholastic would change this in having a school board out the scholarships. We doubt that they would succeed at all in this. The college scouts know who they want and will not be disposed to accept any one designated by the

Mrs. Simpson indirectly affected this country when the price of wheat collapsed due to inactivity in the Liverpool grain market with traders unwilling to risk commitments on account of uncertainty of the British wheat outlook. In other words Mrs.

Spinach Cup Cake

Take four cups of flour and put them in one cup . . . and add three spoons. Then stir until stiff, and when you're too stiff to stir, then you know you're stiff. Then rub in a little liniment. But, of course, it won't make the cake taste any better. Get some burnt almonds, but don't use them. Use eggs. Take six eggs . . . and if you haven't got any eggs, then only use five. Then separate the yolks from the whites, then get your spinach and separate the sand from the spinach, but save the sand. Then you roll it into little balls. When it's finished, it looks like hamburger . . . it tastes like spinach, but when you open it up it's cup cake.

ARE YOU ONLY A THREE-QUARTER WIFE?

THERE are certain things a woman has to put up with and be a good sport. Men, because they are men, can never understand a three-quarter wife—a wife who is all love and kindness three weeks in a month and a hell cat the rest of the time. No matter how your back aches no matter how loudly your nerves scream—don't take it out on your husband. For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age." Don't be a three-quarter wife, take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and Go "Smiling Through."

Buenos Aires Receives Mr. Roosevelt Warmly

AS THE cruiser Indianapolis and its convoy, the Chester, entered the harbor of Buenos Aires, a salute to President Roosevelt boomed from the guns of eleven warships, ten squadrons of airplanes wheeled overhead, and thousands of cheering citizens crowded the waterfront. Argentinians generally approve of Mr. Roosevelt's policies and he was welcomed to their capital as "a great benevolent dictator." They had planned to give him an elaborate reception, but it was toned down somewhat at his request. President Justo, who already had greeted the distinguished guest by wireless, met him at the dock and accompanied him to the American embassy. Then Mr. Roosevelt, Secretary of State Hull and members of the American delegation to the peace conference made a formal call at the government house.

Next day, after a ride about the city, President Roosevelt attended the extraordinary session in the legislative palace to open the Pan-American peace conference which he initiated. A formal dinner for him at the government house and a reception for all conference delegates followed. The event of the third day was a luncheon at the American embassy in honor of President and Mrs. Justo. Then Mr. Roosevelt embarked and started on the return trip, with a brief stop scheduled for Montevideo, capital of Uruguay.

On his way south President Roosevelt stopped a few hours in Rio de Janeiro, where half a million citizens turned out in the rain to give him an enthusiastic welcome. President Vargas showed him the magnificent Brazilian capital, and he addressed an extraordinary session of the parliament with an eloquent plea to all peoples of the western continent to keep out of war and settle their problems with good will and understanding.

"Mystery Man" Zaharoff Dies in Monte Carlo

THE cause of world peace should be the gainer by the death of Sir Basil Zaharoff in Monte Carlo. Known as the "mystery man of Europe," he was for many years the master salesman of armaments and amassed an immense fortune in that and other business enterprises. Born in Odessa, Russia, of Greek parents, Zaharoff had all of Europe for his field of operations. He was knighted in England, became a citizen of France and married a Spanish duchess. He gave valuable aid to the Allies during the World war, founding chairs of aviation at Paris and Petrograd and presenting 25,000 pounds sterling to the British government for a similar purpose.

Litvinov Attacks Nazi Foes of Soviet Russia

WHAT Russia thinks of the Nazi leaders of Germany and their anti-communist pact with Japan was set forth in plain words by Foreign Minister Maxim Litvinov in an address before the all union congress of soviets in Moscow, Italy, which has just concluded a similar agreement with Tokyo, was included in his denunciations. Litvinov asserted that Germany and Japan were joined in a secret military alliance for the purpose of launching a war which would spread to all continents, and added that soviet Russia still stood irrevocably for peace. Said he: "Fascist countries make one challenge after another to peace-loving democratic states and we hope before long those states will stand up to them."

"The soviet union has no reason to change its position, which was and always will be—peace. It wants peace for itself and for all other countries."

"It wants no words—there has been too much talk—but action from others."

"The soviet union begs no one to be its partner. It does not ask for unions, alliances or combinations. The day will come when the Red army and navy will be forced to defend the Fatherland. Then they will show unprecedented courage and heroism and fighting ability."

"I am sure the soviet union will stand as a fortress against the filthy waves of a Fascist sea."

How well prepared Russia is for war if it comes was indicated by a report that her naval forces have increased 1,700 per cent since 1933, and that she soon will have 7,000 airplanes and 100,000 pilots. "If the German Fascists threaten our country, we owe them," declared Corps Commander Khrupin, assistant commander of the Red army air forces.

V. M. Molotov, president of the council of commissars, professed love for the German people but intense hate for their leaders, who, he said, "have well earned their appellation of 'modern cannibals.'"

Japan announced her intention to build as quickly as possible an army equal to that of Russia; and Minister of Marine Nagano said the Japanese navy also would be enlarged. Premier Leon Blum, saying that the international situation "never has been as serious or as dangerous in the last three months as it is now," declared pointedly that France, second only to soviet Russia, possessed the "most powerful military force in continental Europe."

Green Is Re-Elected by Federation of Labor

WILLIAM GREEN was re-elected president of the American Federation of Labor before the closing of the convention in Tampa. Secretary Frank Morrison and the 14 vice presidents also were chosen for another term. In his speech of acceptance Mr. Green made a renewed plea to John L. Lewis and his C. I. O. associates to "come back to our home and fight the common foe."

This the insurgents show no sign of doing. The 1937 convention was awarded to Denver. The convention refused to concur in four resolutions attacking the Supreme court. It instructed the executive council to have a bill for the six hour day and five day week introduced in congress and declared the 30 hour week to be the "paramount objective" of the A. F. of L.

League Council to Deal With Spanish War

SPAIN'S government appealed to the council of the League of Nations to deal with the menace to "peace and good will among nations" allegedly created by Italo-German recognition of the fascist rebel junta. Secretary J. A. C. Avelar thereupon convoked the council, though at this writing the date for the meeting is unsettled. It was believed Italy would refuse to attend the session; Germany is no longer a member of the league. French statesmen didn't approve the Spanish action, feeling that it complicated an already serious situation and could do no good.

Excitement over the torpedo attack on a loyal Spanish cruiser by a submarine which the Madrid government more than hinted was a German vessel was allayed by the report that the undersea boat was a Spanish submarine that had gone over to the rebel side.

Madrid was being continually hammered by rebel shells and bombs, and there was intense fighting daily in University City, the northwest section of the capital, where the insurgents had penetrated. The American embassy was closed on orders from Washington and Eric C. Wendelin, charge d'affaires, gave protection to those Americans who wished to go to Valencia to board a United States warship. The German and Italian embassies, abandoned by their staffs, were seized and sealed by the defense junta and a number of Fascist refugees were arrested in the former. Berlin scoffed at this action but Rome called it banditry.

Alleged Japanese Plan for Inner Mongolia

TROOPS of Suiyuan province in China recently captured the stronghold of Prince Teh Wang, rebel leader in Mongolia, and some secret documents seized there reveal a Japanese plot to set up an Inner Mongolian puppet state to be known as the Great Yuan empire. This would extend westward from Jehol to Sinkiang. The documents disclosed that Japan has already spent 50,000,000 Chinese dollars on this project and is prepared to spend about 400,000,000 more.

Military Revolt in Quito Is Speedily Suppressed

ONE regiment of the Ecuadorian army attempted to start a revolution in Quito, the capital, but the uprising was quickly crushed in a battle in which 30 were killed and 100 wounded. Persons were arrested, including Pedro Velasco Ibarra, former President Velasco, and several unidentified persons. The daily newspaper El Comercio and its director, Ricardo Amillo, was imprisoned.

Uncle Phil Says:

Seeing Happiness

Happiness is the gift of seeing the good things of life in such high relief that the rest is unimportant. When a man with an air as if it were natural to him to give orders is found, it isn't long before the meek put him in a position to do it.

Nature doesn't eliminate foolishness. Civilized man has to learn how, some day.

Faids arise from exaggerated personal pride and generally among people who have not a great deal to be proud of.

There is nothing thrilling about contentment; nothing dangerous, either.

A long answer turneth away anybody else who was going to ask a question.

Using Abilities

The art of being able to make good use of moderate abilities wins esteem, and confers more reputation than real merit.

If you have savage opinions, people will be hypocritical to you to keep on good terms.

Discuss your troubles with many and they will discuss them with the whole community.

The well-bred man keeps his beliefs out of his conversation.

When a boy gets up to his ears in love he is more careful about washing them.

Philosopher's Task

It is the work of a philosopher to be every day subduing passions and laying aside prejudices.

If you encounter a man who knows several secrets of his friends and doesn't tell them, that's the man to tie up to.

What men say when they are angry is either the blazing truth or very unreliable.

Cake icing will adhere better and stay soft and glossy if a little glycerin is added to the icing mixture.

Black marble clocks or ornaments will have a beautiful luster if rubbed with a soft cloth dampened with olive oil and then polished with a clean chamois.

Stains on the fingers from peeling apples, onions or other fruits can be removed by rubbing a crust of bread in the water. Wash after.

Lace curtains before being washed for the first time should be soaked for an hour or two in cold water to which two table-spoons of table salt have been added. This removes dressing in curtains and makes them much easier to launder.

White woodwork in the home can be kept clean by sponging with lukewarm suds of a pure, mild soap, then wiping dry. This does not harm the enameled surface.

SYNOPSIS

Mary Avery, a widow who lives in the harbor town of Satuit, Mass., with two Negro maids, Sarah Darbe and Bessie Williams, writes a manuscript describing the famous Second Head murder, which occurred on her estate. Next to Mary live Mr. and Mrs. Peter Stow who every year give a summer masquerade party. One of the guests of this function is murdered. Nearby live Dr. and Mrs. Geary and their married daughter Edith and her husband Alfred Bray; Doctor Myron Marden and his step-granddaughter, Caro Prentiss, a beautiful young girl who was born in France. Next live Paul and Lora Eames and their daughter Molly. Molly was engaged to the murdered man, Ace Blaikie. She had been engaged to Walter Treadway, who had been the murdered man's secretary, but the engagement was suddenly broken and he had left town. Other neighbors are the Fairweather sisters, Flora, a hopeless invalid and Margaret. All but the latter two attended the masquerade. Mary's eight-year-old niece Sylvia Sard is visiting her for the summer. The wooded part of Mary's estate is called the Spinney. In it is a tiny log cabin. Near a stone wall is a tiny circular pond called the Merry Mere. This is the day of the masquerade and excitement is high. Mary decides to take Sylvia, who is an unusual observant child. Caro Prentiss and Molly Eames drop in during the afternoon. Soon Blaikie, Doctor Marden and Bruce Hexson, a friend of Ace's, arrive. Molly is impatient to leave and they all excuse themselves. At the party Sylvia identifies each of the masked guests as they arrive. Ace comes garbed as Julius Caesar. Molly Eames appears as a Snow Queen, accompanied by a man in armor whom Sylvia identifies as Walter Treadway. They dance together continuously. Caro Prentiss and Marden arrive dressed in Revolutionary costumes, the doctor wearing jeweled shoe buckles. When the guests unmask, Ace, Walter and Molly have disappeared. When Mary Avery leaves the party a little after two, neither Molly or Walter or Ace Blaikie had returned. Sarah Darbe confides to Mary that someone apparently had spent the night in the Little House and returns screaming. She has found Ace Blaikie stabbed to death in the Spinney. Mary summons Patrick O'Brien, chief of police, who had been a schoolmate of hers and Ace's. Her manuscript recalls early impressions of Ace—how he had been wealthy, the most popular boy in town, how he had gone to Paris to study medicine, became an aviator in the World War, returning to practice in Satuit, how he was recklessly generous and the principal in scores of love affairs. Bruce Hexson had come back from the war with Ace. He was a lawyer, a man of private means and had "got" religion, become a virtual recluse.

SUNDAY—Continued

Sarah's sobs died down. Suddenly she became her composed, quiet self. "I don't like to tell things about people," she explained quietly. "I never give away the secrets that my friends tell me and I always keep the white people's secrets. I haven't ever mentioned what I'm going to tell you but to one other person."

"Mrs. Avery, I suppose," Patrick said.

"Good guess, Patrick!" I put in.

"I told Mrs. Avery Saturday morning," Sarah said. Perfectly composed she told Patrick the story of her discoveries in the cabin.

Again Sarah burst into tears.

"Now, now, don't think about it any more. You go back to your work, Sarah, and don't give this another thought. You haven't got anybody into trouble. I knew who it was all the time."

"I would have told you, Patrick, what Sarah has just told you," I said after Sarah had disappeared. "You see I didn't think of it yesterday. The murder paralyzed my mind temporarily."

"Oh, I know you'd have told me," Patrick dismissed my explanation in an off-hand manner.

"Do you know yet how Ace came to go into my Spinney, Patrick?" I asked.

"Oh yes, I got that last night. He went there to meet Tony Torriano."

"The bootlegger!" I said.

"Yes. It seems that—Of course you know that for years Ace has been spending money like a drunken sailor. He's really been up against it lately. He hasn't paid Tony for months. He owed him three hundred dollars. Tony went over to the Blaikie house yesterday and I guess he staged a pretty good scene. Sam was cleaning silver in the butler's pantry and he could hear Tony storming way off there. He got frightened and came into the dining-room to listen. He said that Tony grew pretty violent in his threats. He heard Ace tell Tony to meet him about half-past ten in your Spinney, that he'd have the money for him then."

"And so you suspect—"

"Not a chance! Just think it over! I've known Tony all my life. He's all right. We went to school together. I've played tag, tops, marbles, baseball and football with him. Tony's as good as they come."

"Did you arrest him?"

"No, but I told him to stick around because I might have to arrest him. And he's sticking around."

"Who spent the night in my Little House?" I asked next.

"Walter Treadway," Pat answered. "I'm as sure as I can be that he did. Anyway he didn't go home that night. Somebody saw him and Molly motoring early yesterday morning."

"Sarah guessed that," I said after a while. "Our maids always know everything before we do."

Outside, a motor crunched on the driveway. In an instant Sarah appeared. "It's Miss Molly, Mrs. Avery," she announced, "and Mr. Treadway."

Before I could speak, "Tell them to come in!" Patrick said.

I had not seen Walter Treadway for over a year and yet I did not look at him for an instant. It was not the fact that Molly came through the door first that held my attention on her. It was something in Molly herself. It seems to me I had never seen her look so beautiful.

Molly swept into the room. "Good morning, Aunt Mary," she called buoyantly. "Good morning, Mr. O'Brien." Surprisingly she came over and kissed me. I had a feeling that she had intended in that sweep of the room to kiss Patrick too, but thought better of it.

Buoyancy in Molly! And Ace dead.

Patrick's answering "Good morning, Molly," came together with mine—like a chorus. Then, still like a chorus, we added, "Good morning, Walter!"

Walter Treadway's look had changed too.

I have known Walter Treadway all his life. Like the Stows and Eameses, the older Treadways are contemporaries and intimates. I always say that Walter is handsome; perhaps he is not really handsome; certainly he is interesting. He is very tall, very slim—blade-like. He has regular features and he has beautiful teeth. A quality in Walter's face always delights me; something gay, something—not so much mischievous as Puckish. As a young boy, he was extremely shy. That shyness disappeared, of course, with maturity; but even as a young man he was quiet and reticent. He had a charming sense of humor—quiet and reticent too and—well, I'll go back to that word—Puckish! Yes, Walter is handsome.

"He Said That Tony Grew Pretty Violent in His Threats."

As Molly looked different, Walter looked different. But his air showed a sternness—almost an austerity.

"Sit down children!" I ordered. What can I offer you at this hour of the morning?

"Coffee!" Molly answered promptly. "Your just famous coffee, Aunt Mary. Loads of it!"

I rang the bell. Sarah appeared. "Tell Bessie to make a big potful of coffee. And serve it in here."

"I'm glad you've come, Molly," Patrick began at once. "And you too, Walter. When I got to your place last night, Molly, your mother said that you'd gone home with one of the girls. She'd forgotten which one, so she couldn't get in touch with you. And your people, Walter, didn't even know that you'd been in Satuit. I told them that you'd spent one night at least in Mrs. Avery's Little House. That O. K.?"

"Yes," Walter replied without any hesitation. "I spent two nights there." After a pause he volunteered, "Thursday and Friday night. My apologies, Aunt Mary. I'm sure you understand."

"I do!" I answered.

Patrick made no comment on this by-play.

"But why," Walter went on in an inquiring voice, "did you want to see me?" "And why," Molly echoed in an indifferent one, "did you want to see me?"

"To get your—" Patrick was beginning.

A blade of intuition cut through me. "Oh you haven't heard!" I warned.

"Haven't heard what?" they both questioned.

"Oh Molly," I took it up, "Molly darling, we've got something frightful to tell you!"

Molly's face turned to marble. "My mother!" she whispered.

"Not your mother!" I said swiftly. "Ace!"

"Ace?" Molly questioned. "He's dead?" She answered herself instantly. "Ace is dead!" Molly said this in a kind of solemn question, a kind of solemn statement. She stared at me.

I could not speak. I bowed my head.

"... dead ... dead!" Molly repeated. "Ace ... dead! Why how could Ace die? Ace was so full of life! Tell me what it is, Aunt Mary. He didn't kill himself? Tell me something! Tell me!"

She had arisen from her chair as she pleaded, came speeding like a blown flower, across the piazza to me. As swiftly, Walter followed her. He put his arm about her.

"He was murdered!" I could say it in no fuller phrase, or in fewer words.

"Murdered!" Molly screamed it. Walter pulled in a long hissing breath. His wide eyes, still on my face, he drew Molly close. She dropped her head to his shoulder; deadened her hysterics there.

Patrick swung in, "The body was found in Mrs. Avery's Spinney yesterday afternoon. He had been stabbed to death with the sword he wore at the masquerade. Doctor Geary says he died about midnight."

"My God!" Walter said in a stupefied tone.

"As long as you're here, Walter," Patrick went on steadily, "I want to ask you a few questions. Perhaps Molly'd like to lie down for a while."

Walter led her to a couch. He seated himself beside her. Molly's handkerchief went up to his face. She began to shake but in silence; no sobs came. Walter's arm went about her.

"I must warn you both first," Patrick said, "that anything you say now can be used later in evidence against you."

Walter looked with a fierce worship down into Molly's face. Molly looked with a tigerish worship up into his.

"Ask us anything you want!" they said in unison.

"You went to the masquerade, Walter," Patrick began, "in a knight's costume—armor—coat-of-mail—or whatever you call it?"

"Yes."

"What time did you get to the party?"

"On a little after ten, I should say."

"Did you dress in the Little House, Walter?"

"Yes."

"What time did you go to the Little House Friday night?"

"It was Saturday morning by the time I got there," Walter answered. "That is to say almost Saturday morning. It was just before sunrise."

Patrick made no comment on this.

"Was Molly at the party when you got here?"

"Yes."

"Did you dance with her often?"

"About a half dozen times."

"What time did you leave?"

"A little after eleven perhaps."

"Before the unmasking?"

"Yes."

"Did you go alone?"

"No."

"Who was with you?"

"Molly."

Patrick turned to Molly. "Then you two left the party some time after eleven?"

"Yes."

"What time did you get to the Stow house, Molly?"

"A little after ten."

"You left with Walter?"

"Yes."

"What did you do when you left the house?"

"We got into my runabout and drove about."

"Where did you drive?"

"Satuit, Marshland, Marshland Beach, Hanesbury, Hanesbury Beach and what have you."

Patrick turned his attention to Walter. "How long, Walter, would you say you were driving?"

"Well, we left the party—for the sake of easy arithmetic—let us say eleven. I was back in the Little House about five. That would make it six hours."

"Were you with him all that time, Molly?"

"Yes."

"Did you see Ace Blaikie at the party, Walter?"

"Yes."

"Did you speak with him?"

"No."

"Did you dance with Ace, Molly?"

"Yes—twice."

"Did you speak to him?"

"Not as Ace Blaikie. We talked as the characters we represented. He called me Ice Empress."

Patrick continued, "After you stopped riding around, Walter, where did you take Molly?"

"To the Marden house!"

"What road did you take?"

"Round to the beach and over the Head."

"In what room did you sleep in the Marden house, Molly?"

"I slept in the room with Caro Prentiss—a big chamber at the front with two beds."

"Did you wake her when you came in?"

"No. She was awake. She had just got in herself."

"Didn't she ask you where you'd been?"

"She didn't ask me, but I told her that I had been riding all night with Walter."

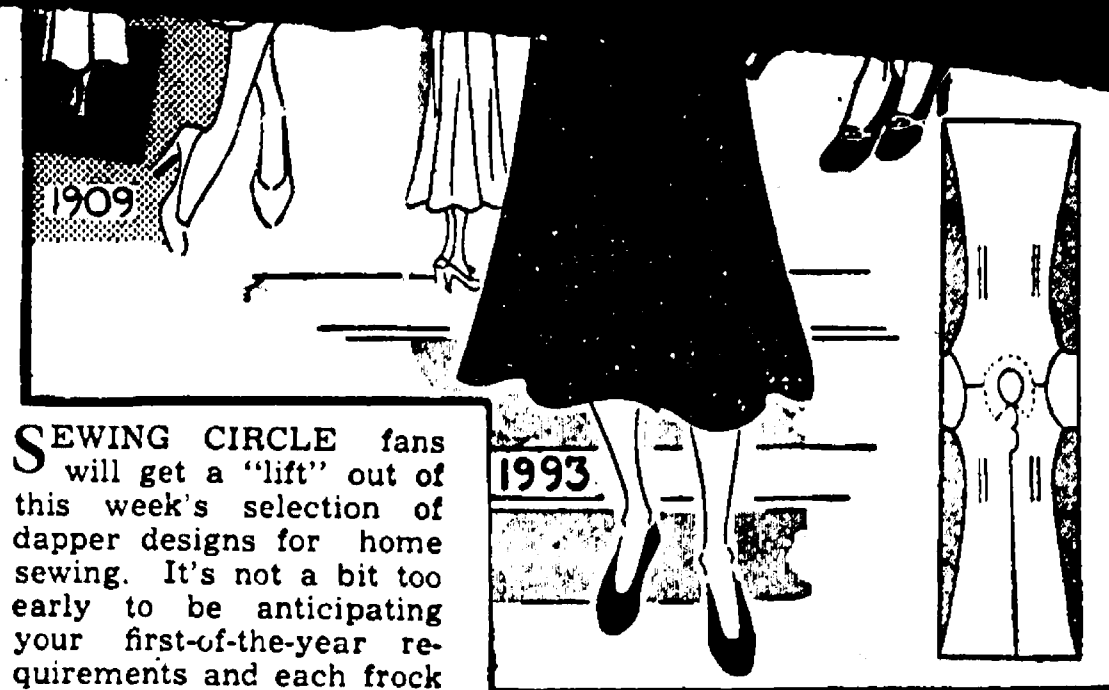

"Now"—Patrick's air became brisk—"we left you, Walter, at the Marden house. Tell me what you did then?"

"I walked straight down to the Little House. I cut across Cat Park and got onto the path just back of Mrs. Avery's house and continued on to the Little House."

"Took off your armor, first, I suppose," Patrick suggested.

"Yes. I had already taken off the cape and helmet and hood when I got into the runabout and put on a sweater. But I took the rest of it off then and went to sleep on the couch."

Our Present Need

THAT mankind is urgently in need of something, all will admit. But people differ when they come to analyze this need and prescribe the remedy. Some say that the need is for money; others, for better management and government; and still others, for shorter working hours and more leisure. The invalid's need is for health; the sinner's for goodness and peace; those who appear to be passing on for more abundant life. Humanity's diversified wants and desires make us think of the reply Martha received from Jesus (Luke 10:41, 42): "Martha, Martha, thou art careful and troubled about many things; but one thing is needful: and Mary hath chosen that good part, which shall not be taken away from her."

What is the one thing that is needful? Is it not Mary's spiritual adaptability and receptivity? Spiritual understanding is an absolute requisite if we are to escape the woes, injustices, and ills of sense. On page 151 of "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," Mary Baker Eddy has written, "Infinite Mind could not possibly create a remedy outside of itself, but creating, finite, human mind has an absolute need of something beyond itself for its redemption and healing."

A childlike willingness to allow omniscient Love to control all our thoughts would do much to eliminate the errors which occur in human calculations. Sometimes we are afraid to let go, lest we suffer from the result; but Soul cares for us with an ability far exceeding our present apprehension. The forces and capacities of immortal Life are always operating, and we should experience Love's benevolence more often if we would only exclude greed, envy, rivalry, and fear from our thought. We assume a sense of false and overburdening responsibility only to our own detriment; while self-immolation and a firm trust in God's government operate to establish order, concord, and success. Our first need is not so much for improved conditions as it is for a clear realization that infinite Mind has absolute control over every function, activity, and expression of real being; that this control exists here and now; that the only legitimate and real results of this divine government are harmony and good works, and that, therefore, if aught else claims to exist it is but superstitious.

Better human conditions are a result of this knowing, for spiritual understanding scientifically improves our human conditions and unfolds limitless expressions of goodness.

We need to cultivate spiritual sense, which lifts human consciousness above the errors of corporeal sense and discerns the divine and unchangeable facts of being. We need to understand that evil is nothing and nobody; that it has no intelligence or power, no influence, no avenue or medium through which to reach and disturb or injure us. We need to keep in mind that error is not an entity, but is simply an illusion, with no more influence or sway than we give it by our belief in it. Christian Science shows us conclusively that we are not the victims of so-called material laws, from which there is no escape, but rather that we are, in reality, the eternal children of the loving Father, who blesses, sustains, and maintains all that reflects Him. The fact must be learned that the creation of eternal Truth, the only creation there is, is wholly good; that spiritual law controls all real action, attraction, and power, and that every effect of this law is harmonious and necessary; and that man is the essential, spiritual, eternal manifestation of infinite Life.

It may be summed up that our present need is to acknowledge God, eternal Life, more in our human affairs, to obey the injunction, "Trust in the Lord with all thine heart; and lean not unto thine own understanding" (Proverbs 3:5). There is no other way to solve the problem of health and happiness, of production, of distribution, of economic equality. Only by acting in accordance with divine Principle can we maintain good works, overcome the false sense of overproduction and underproduction, and provide abundant human necessities for every individual. The recognition of Soul's presence and aliveness alone will destroy the human fear of lack, disease, and disaster, by revealing the unlimited, indestructible nature of substance and reality—of health and harmony. God provides His image, man, with all that is necessary for sustenance and harmonious continuity; and our need is spiritually to apprehend this fact and apply it in solving our human problems.—The Christian Science Monitor.

Analysis Shows Stronger Position

In a survey and analysis of earnings and expenses of state banks doing a commercial business, it is brought out that in a majority of states they have increased their earning ability during 1935. On the basis of data covering 1,928 banks in 48 states, the report says:

"The most significant fact to be pointed out is that new profits of state banks—after deducting charge-offs on loans, investments, etc., and adding recoveries—were shown in 87 of the 48 states which reported in 1935, in comparison with net profits in only 11 of the 38 states reporting in 1934. Measured in terms of dollars per each $100 of invested funds, net profits in 1935 ranged between $2.40 and $10 per $100, with 19 states showing profits of $1.00 or over, per $100; while in 1934 net profits did not exceed $1.20 per $100 and only three states showed profits of $1.00 or over."

The report contains voluminous tables showing the resources and liabilities of all classes of state chartered institutions and detailed analyses of earnings and expenses by states and of insured commercial state banks grouped by size of banks.

We have watched Christmas come and go for many years. The Spirit of the Season takes hold of everybody. We see the outward evidence of this spirit in giving to those we love and to our fellow men.

We have seen many find it an easy matter to find funds for purchase of gifts. To others it is a task. Those who find it easy are the ones with the thrift habit, the ones who add regularly to a Savings Account. We have also seen that it is the minority who are wise, at least in this matter.
