

Results of the Monday ElectionBig Upset in Putnam Township and Republicans Win Supervisor, Clerk Treasurer and Three Constables Due to Democrat Split.

In the Putnam township election the Democrat majority of 30 was upset and the republicans won supervisor, clerk, treasurer, tied for highway commissioner and elected 3 out of 4 constables. Norman Reason who was elected treasurer on the Democrat ticket several times some years ago was a republican convert a year ago. He defeated Max Ledwidge for supervisor by 30 majority. Stanley Dimes won the office of clerk from Mrs. Lulu Darrow by 29. Mrs. Winifred Graves defeated R. J. Carr for treasurer by 13. John Connors and L. J. Henry tied for highway commissioner with 190 each. Wm. Jeffereys won the justiceship from Bert Dauter by 44. Bert Vandenberg won over Claude Soper for board of review by 20. Three Republican constables, Norman Millar, Irving Richardson and Edmund Haynes were elected and one Democrat, William Doyle.

The Democrat ticket evidently went down to defeat on purely local issues as the entire Democrat state ticket received majorities ranging from the 19 given to Arthur Erickson to the 37 given Murray Van Wagoner. The vote on the state ticket was 191 Democrat straight votes and 158 Republican straight votes.

In the township ticket it was a different story. Here there were 121 Republican straight and only 105 Democrat. The Democrats found this 16 Republican vote margin hard to overcome, especially for the first three offices. Also they failed to get the vote out. Last November 517 votes were cast here. Monday there were only 414. In Cadillac and Hamburg, on the other hand, more votes were cast Monday than last November. This shows that the Republican candidates worked much harder than their Democrat opponents.

The Democrat split seems to have started in the caucus where nearly 100 votes were cast and the Democrat supervisor who had held the office for 4 years was defeated for the nomination. Charges were made and in the closing days of the campaign it was apparent that the ticket would not receive the undivided support of the Democrats. Also the Democrat candidates were over confident and relying on the usual Democrat majority, made little effort to get the vote out.

DEMOCRATS WIN
6 OUT OF 9 OFFICES
ON STATE TICKET

On the state ticket the Democrats seem to have won 6 out of 9 offices. Their majorities range from the 90,000 one given VanWagoner to the 2,000 one given Mrs. Maselink. This morning only about 100 precincts were unreported and these are mostly northern districts which have been going Democratic. The big surprise was the defeat of Louis Fead by Thomas McAllister. The following is the nearly complete vote with but 105 precincts missing:

Supreme Court Justice
McAllister, D.	388,023
North, R.	382,729
McKenzie, D.	381,856
Fead, R.	381,543
State Highway Commissioner
VanWagoner, D.	437,414
Zeigler, R.	346,317
Regents of U. of M.
Shields, D.	385,225
Lynch, D.	380,655
Smith, R.	370,380
Murfin, R.	368,660
State Board of Education
Cody, R.	396,696
Nowak, D.	381,748
Mich. Board of Agriculture
Jakway, D.	377,771
Maselink, D.	374,358
Dane, R.	372,105
Wilson, R.	368,851

In the county the entire Republican state ticket were given their usual majorities. Ed. Shields, native son, even failed to get a majority, running 36 votes behind Murray Van Wagoner. VanWagoner received 2846 and Zeigler 3456; Shields got 2810 and Murfin 3491.

The no Sunday hunting amendment was adopted, receiving 3259 Yes votes to 2465 No votes.

The board of supervisors stands 18 Republican to 5 Democrats. This gives the Republicans a gain of one made in Isoco.

The following is the Putnam township vote:

State Ticket
McAllister, Democrat	216
North, Republican	178
McKenzie, Democrat	214
Fead, Republican	177
Regents of the U. of M.
Ed. Shields, Democrat	222

News of the State Legislature$10,694,730 Appropriation for State Hospitals Carries 93 to 1. Seven Other Measures Approved by the Senate.

The Stout measure providing $10,694,730 for the operation of the state hospitals carried the house by a vote of 93 to 1. Rep. Teachout of Flint cast the only vote against it. His reason he said was that the amount was not enough.

It provided $800,202 for operations of the state hospital commission in the first year of the biennium and $812,665 in the second; for the Kalamazoo State Hospital, $888,838 and $889,738; for the Pontiac State Hospital, $869,153 and $869,193; Traverse City State Hospitals, $761,372 and $763,872; Newberry State Hospital, $444,746; Ionia State Hospital, $304,314 and $299,314; Michigan Farm Colony for Epileptics at Wahjamega, $298,745 and $291,795; Michigan Home and Training School, Lapeer, $1,025,716 and $1,011,707; Michigan Home and Training School, Mt. Pleasant, $134,732 and $134,732; Michigan Children's Village $170,150 and $162,830.

A bill was introduced last week to abolish both the state administrative board and legislative council.

Reps. Elizabeth Beier and Verne Brown introduced a bill to create a new capitol building and grounds and plans for an executive mansion.

Rep. Swain's bill would permit township boards to loan money to school boards.

Rep. Ware would appropriate $70,000 to equip a sound car to advertise Michigan. Rep. Kircher would take from the sales tax enough funds to pay one-half the cost of drains constructed.

The Little occupational disease listing 31 diseases, was passed and goes to the house.

The Aldrich bill would fix Manistique as the site for a home for the feeble minded in the upper peninsula.

The Matthews bill prohibiting the counties from paying drain bonds out of the general funds passed the senate. Also the Burhans bill permitting grape growers to form associations and sell wine. Also the Post bill raising the upland game license to $15 south of townline 16. North it remains $5.

The Steele bill fixing a bounty of 15c on crows and 60c a dozen on their eggs and 10c each for sparrows, passed. The bill allowing deer hunting with bow and arrow was sent back to the committee.

It was necessary to repeal an act passed in 1895 before the University of Michigan could accept a $400,000,000 gift from the Rackham estate.

A measure by Rep. Peter R. Legg (D), Escanaba, would establish minimum salaries for school teachers $1,200 a school year for those holding both a life certificate and a degree; $1,100 for those holding a life certificate but no degree and $1,000 for those having no life certificate. The bill would withhold primary fund money from school districts violating its provisions.

On account of the election Monday, the legislature adjourned from Friday until Tuesday.

A hot session took place in the house Thursday when Wm. Lovett charged that Highway Commissioner VanWagoner was subsidizing the members of the legislature. This was denied and the legislators retaliated by ordering an investigation of Mr. Lovett's activities. He has acted as the representatives of manufacturers and industrialists before the legislature.

Wednesday the legislature is expected to fix a schedule of state salaries and fix a minimum of $90 per month.

The Hampton bill to prevent supervisors from holding any other office within the jurisdiction is on its third reading.

NOTICE

To the Voters of Putnam Township I wish to take this opportunity of thanking each and every one for my victory as Supervisor. I also promise to attend to my duties to the very best of my ability. Thanking you again, all of you.

Yours,
Norman Reason

CARD OF THANKS

King's Daughters
To Hold ConventionAnnual Event To Be Held At Marion Isoco Church on May 26.

The King's Daughters County Board met at the Dillway Restaurant in Pinckney, Wednesday, March 31, to make plans for the County Convention which is to be held May 26 at 10:00 with the Marion-Isoco circles acting as hostess.

Twenty-one members and guests enjoyed a three course luncheon at tables prettily decorated with spring flowers and the purple and white of the order.

The business meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Paul Kingsley of Brighton. Mrs. Harry Lee having charge of the devotions.

Committee reports were given and the convention committees appointed. Mrs. Herbert Palmer of Pinckney, chairman of Junior's of the County, disclosed plans for the Junior Convention which will be held at the Howell Presbyterian church Saturday, May 1 at 2:00. A film has been procured from Ann Arbor showing the Juniors just where their work goes. One of the main projects of the Juniors is making books and toys for U. of M. hospital children.

Each Junior circle will provide one number on the program and display any work being done. Election of officers will follow and refreshments will be served by the Howell Juniors who are preparing for about 100 guests. Livingston County is the only County to have a Junior Convention separate from the Senior Convention. Marion-Isoco Circle reported taking a program and treat to the County Farm on Easter Sunday which was enjoyed by all.

The next meeting of the board will be Monday, May 10, and the committee on arrangements for the luncheon will Mrs. Eric Rylander and Mrs. John Ellis of Brighton.

The Livingston County Board was invited to attend the annual meeting of the Past President's Club which will be held at Chemung Tavern on Monday, April 26.

After a rising vote of thanks to Mrs. Dillway and Mrs. Palmer the meeting was adjourned.

SEVERAL THEFTS
IN THIS SECTION

Several thefts have been reported in this section of late. A man and woman drove into Earl Baughn's gravel pit at the Bluffs, Portage Lake, one day last week in the day time and took a scraper and harrow with tractor attachments from there. They were seen leaving with the implements tied to the car bumper and running board but had a bag tied over their license plates. The couple were young and had a sedan with red wheels. As this took place in Washtenaw county Sheriff Andries at Ann Arbor was notified.

Someone broke into the Messerschmidt farm recently and took about $75 worth of farming articles. The place is vacant as the family have been living in Pinckney this winter. Car tracks near the house could be seen. This farm was formerly the Koitz or Wm. Docking farm.

WILL REORGANIZE
TRI-COUNTY LEAGUE

Charles Davis of Hamburg, secretary-treasurer of the Tri-County base ball league informs us that he intends to call a meeting soon for the purpose of reorganizing that league. We understand that Pinckney, Howell, Fowlerville, Dexter Hamburg and possibly Saline or Manchester will be invited to attend this meeting and efforts will be made to get an Ann Arbor team into it and one from Chelsea. Hamburg won the title in this league last year and Pinckney finished second. There is considerable base ball talent here and Pinckney should again be able to put a good team in the field. The date and place of meeting will be announced later.

Passmore; Sts., Harold Chubb, Elton Bragg; Tyler, Earl Adams. The follow-up team will be directed by John Danman and W. B. Reader.

OLD AGE PENSION
SET-UP CHANGED

The old age pension organization has been changed and instead of each county having a separate organization the state has been divided into some 14 districts with a supervisor over each. Livingston County has been grouped with Washtenaw, Hillsdale, Lenawee and Monroe, and Miss Ruth Roosevelt placed in charge with offices in the County Bldg., at 120 N. Fourth St. Ann Arbor. She will have an assistant in the Ann Arbor office and also in each of the other counties. Two old age investigators will work out of the Ann Arbor office and handle the investigations in the five counties.

Case records of the 2,200 persons now receiving assistance will be re-investigated as one of the first steps and new budgets will be drafted and new allowances set up as a result of the investigator's report. The number of cases at the present time is as follows: Livingston 200, Washtenaw 500, Lenawee 600, Hillsdale 300 and Monroe 200.

Telephone Company
Extends Time ServiceMichigan Bell Telephone Co. to Extend Time Courtesy To All Their Patrons

Telephone time-of-day service, which has been supplied here and in Detroit and Grand Rapids by the Michigan Bell Telephone Company for many years, is to be extended to all of the company's exchanges throughout Michigan on April 10, according to C. S. Schaefer, manager in this area for the company.

Of late years, in the greater number of the cities and towns of the state, there has been no place people could call to ascertain the time, and officials of the Michigan Bell Company believe that extension of the service throughout its territory will be an appreciated addition to the service the company supplies.

Evening of the time service to all its exchanges is one of the many things the Michigan Bell Company has been doing for the purpose of broadening and improving telephone service in the interests of the public. Mr. Schaefer states, it is a policy of accepting and introducing improved equipment and methods of operation as they are found practicable, such as the speeding of both local and long distance service, and the reduction of long distance rates and of connection and other charges.

Engineers of the Michigan Bell Company anticipate there will be a daily average of upwards of 130,000 calls for the time-of-day after the state-wide inauguration of the service. In Detroit an average of 25,000 calls is reported daily, with 12,000 daily in Grand Rapids. It is estimated that the busiest hour will be between seven and eight o'clock in the morning and that the slowest morning usually is the very heaviest of the day. It is estimated that seven o'clock is the hour when a great many persons attempt to go to work, or anxious to get to work on time, or to get the children off to school, wish to check their time-pieces, and that the number is greater on Monday mornings because many persons neglect to check their clocks and watches over the week-end. Fewer calls are made for the time service on Saturdays than on the normal business days and fewer still on Sundays and holidays.

Between 9 o'clock until noon appears to be the second busiest hour of the day, perhaps because of many folks making lunch and other than appointments.

Another busy period is that from 4:00 p.m. until 5:30, when many people begin thinking about getting home or not a long home to dinner or about getting out to buy for the home. Time service is light throughout the dinner hour but between seven and eight it picks up once more, with a great many people making evening engagements or arranging to keep them. There continues some volume of calls until nine or ten, but not so great as during the earlier evening hours, of course, and there is a lessening number thereafter.

As five in the morning approaches the calls begin increasing in number with the rising of farm folks, the millman and others whose work takes them out in the early hours.

And so, beginning with April 10, whoever in any Michigan Bell Telephone exchange has access to a telephone, whether on farm or in city, in mansion or hotel, rich man or poor, child or adult, or what-not, will be able to obtain the time-of-day merely by calling "Central". For the paid "clockwatches" of the Michigan Bell Company will be ready and willing, every second of the day and every day of the year, to announce the time, upon request, supplying a dependable time service that most of Michigan's cities long have been without.

GORVAL GRAY IS CAPTURED

Gorval Gray, Livingston county's problem child, is again in the hands of the law being in jail at Carthage, Missouri, charged with a robbery there. Livingston county officers were so notified Monday and expect to go there to see if he will be turned over to them to stand trial in this county. It is not known if his companion, Arthur Simmons, is held or not. In the communication announcing his capture they asked if Simmons was also wanted.

Gray has had a long and checkered career here but has usually been able to get out of his difficulties. He was brought back from Oregon three years ago charged with burglary but was given a suspended sentence. Later he was held for taking articles from parked cars but again drew a suspended sentence. Last month he was arrested for taking $25 from the Holkins Lumber Co. office. While awaiting sentence he, in company with Arthur Simmons, escaped from the jail at Howell and made their getaway. Simmons has a long record of some 18 arrests. He was awaiting trial on charge of giving Wm. Dillway, Pinckney, a bum check and was wanted in other counties.

Current Comment

What do you think of these amendments the voter is required to pass upon every election. In Livingston county there was only one this year but Wayne county had no less than seven. It is impossible for the voter to be sufficiently informed on all these propositions to vote intelligently. Consequently most of them are following the rule of voting no on all propositions which they do not understand. In recent years few amendments have been adopted for this reason. The legislators are elected for the purpose of making the laws and have ample opportunity to become well informed on the measures proposed so why put this job of law making onto the voters.

The Rebel Creamery came to Pinckney in October 1935 for the purpose of establishing an outlet for the farmers milk in this section. The base and surplus plan was unpopular with the dairymen and for this reason Rebels bought on a straight weight basis. This earned them the enmity of all those neighboring creameries buying on the base and surplus plan and they threw numerous obstacles in the path of the Rebels when they were getting started here. However they stuck to it and in a few months time had their milk supply. Of late another attempt has been made to get their supply away from them and some have left, drawn by the increased prices offered by other creameries for new customers. The Rebels met with the dairy men at the Pinckney Community Hall last Thursday night and announced that they would pay them a 10c increase. This is 2c over the increase, which is so. We hope the dairymen will not let the competing companies pull the wool over their eyes. The Rebels are responsible for the milk prices here and if they allow this company to be put out of business prices will speedily drop again as they did before when there was no market at all for their milk.

Well what do you think about the weather to come this month? A farmer in here the other day told us to expect a cold, rainy, disagreeable April. This he claimed would be the result of the mild winter that we have experienced. Well perhaps and perhaps not. Michigan weather is mighty hard to gauge and one should expect anything. If this kind of weather comes we shall have to take it for as the late Mark Twain remarked "Everyone talks about the weather but none does anything about it."

In the section just past two candidates had the advantage of an excellent organization behind them and the other had to scratch for themselves as their party organizations apparently had no campaign funds, and conducted no great campaign. Murray Van Wagoner, the Democrat candidate for highway commissioner had his road and highway organization welded into an excellent machine and Eugene Elliott, also had a powerful organization composed of instructors and parent teacher associations. The keynote of his campaign was more funds for school, and more wages for school teachers. The results show whether they worked or not.

Well the base ball season is almost here and soon the boys will begin making trips to Detroit to see the Tigers. We have often wondered why, with the many amateur teams in this state and especially in the city of Detroit, where there is probably a thousand teams, why more big league players are not developed. However, you can almost count the big leaguers from Michigan on the fingers of one hand. The bulk of the big league players apparently have come from south of the Mason and Dixon line. There they have ample leisure to play ball and no money to do much else.

We see that Dayton Dean is still testifying in Wayne County courts against members of the Black Legion. Last week several members of this organization were convicted of attempting to assassinate Mayor Veljeine of Ecorse. Harvey Davis, Ervin Lee and John Bannerman, already convicted several times previously, were also witnesses. The above named will have to live several hundred years in order to serve all the sentences given them.

Gov. Hurley, of Mass. vetoed a bill passed to repeal the teacher's oath bill. This bill was passed in 1935 during the communistic hysteria when it was charged that many of the teaching profession had become Reds. Michigan also has such a law. Just what benefit this bill has proved to be is problematical as all teachers took the oath whether they believed in it or not in order to hold their jobs.

The students of the University of Michigan are said to be up in arms against the proposed bill in the legislature making it a felony to hitchhike. In order to combat it they are appealing to the 17 colleges in the state to aid them. Most students have no cars and in order to get to their homes they are obliged to hitchhike. This bill might make criminals out of most of us. We have had to hitchhike ourselves several times on account of running out of gas, etc.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be aching backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.

Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

NEWS from MICHIGAN

Hudsonville—Known to residents throughout the state, the Congregational church here was destroyed recently by fire. An historic landmark, the church was one of this community's oldest structures.

Ann Arbor—Production of an opera "The Bartered Bride," by Bedrich Smetana, and a mass campus song fest are included as features in the centennial celebration of the University of Michigan. June 14 to 19 has been set aside as a jubilee week and the entire program is to be handled by the students themselves.

Lansing—State inspectors have begun a campaign to trap operators of short-measure gasoline pumps. A motor car, equipped with a false tank and several sets of license plates, will tour the state. A two-man crew of the detective car will order five gallons of gasoline from a suspect, then summon another machine containing a measure, and check the sale then before the vendor.

Ann Arbor—Figures released recently show that one out of every eight University of Michigan graduates residing in the state is engaged in teaching. Of approximately 35,000 alumni in the state, 1,682 are on college or university faculties, while 2,913 are high school teachers or school superintendents. The alumni are scattered through 74 of Michigan's 83 counties, virtually state-wide coverage.

Bad Axe—Tradition was shattered here recently by Mrs. H. W. Pfaff, wife of a pioneer dentist. While the date of Carrie Nation's visit to this community has been lost to history, Mrs. Pfaff is the sole living resident who attended the lecture. She recalls that the villagers only laughed at the widely-known prohibitionist, and that the hatchet that saloon keepers feared was not used at Bad Axe, in the way that history has recorded its use in other parts of the country.

Port Huron—A new page was added to the unusual history of railroading recently, and the engineer of a Pere Marquette freight train joined the ranks of unsung heroes. It seems that the engineer spied an automobile stuck in the mud close to the tracks. The engineer stopped the train in short order, avoiding a collision, then threw a chain to the distressed driver. A pull, and the engine had lifted the car to the road again, and train and car both went on their respective ways.

Lansing—The moose crisis is over, reports Paul Hickie, chief mammalogist of the state conservation department. Hickie recently returned from Isle Royale, where he spent the winter "nursing" the island moose herd. In recent years the moose had increased to such numbers that food became scarce and famine stalked the island. Conservation men have trapped large numbers of the animals, shipped them over to more green and fertile pastures on the mainland, reducing the island herd to 200.

Pontiac—Mayor Victor E. Nelson, bronzed from a four-week southern vacation, found city affairs going smoothly on his return and so took time out to discuss 1937 baseball. Part of his vacation was spent at Lakeland, Florida, where the Detroit Tigers are training. Says Mayor Nelson, "That boy Auker, I've got a hunch he's going to have a good season. And if he does—well, I pick the Tigers, with Jake Wade, Bridges and Rowe rounding out the pitching staff. Right now, pitching is the only question mark."

Bozette City—The eighth annual smelt run got under way recently, with over 2000 sportsmen rewarded with heavy catches, many of them getting two to four bushels of smelt. With visitors from nearly all of the mid-western states, grinding news reel cameras and radio "mikes" the affair was pronounced the most successful in the history of the famous runs. An interesting fact was that morning dips showed a marked decrease in catches. Apparently the smelt are devotees of night life and are not early risers.

Kalamazoo—Latest air tragedy when a TWA plane crashed near Pittsburgh killing the 13 persons aboard, recently, brings forth the obituary of a local-born man. Lawrence Bohnet, pilot of the ill-fated ship, was born here 31 years ago. He graduated from the Western State Teachers College and the University of Michigan Engineering school before entering aviation at the naval air station at San Diego. Bohnet served with the United States battle fleet for a year, later joining the TWA staff.

Lansing—Substantial increases characterized appropriation bills for state prisons and correctional institutions, introduced in the state legislature recently. With schedules pointing to heavily increased expenditures, probably the highest in Michigan's history, attention is being directed to new revenue sources. Rep. John F. Hamilton, as a partial solution, at least, introduced a bill to boost the 3 per cent sales tax to 4 per cent for the period of one year, from June 30, 1937, to July 1, 1938.

Stomach Gas So Bad Seems To Hurt Heart

"The gas on my stomach was so bad I could not eat or sleep. Even my heart seemed to hurt. A friend suggested Adlerika. The first dose I took brought me relief. Now I eat as I wish, sleep fine and never feel better."
—Mrs. Jas. Miller.
Adlerika acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels while ordinary laxatives act on the lower bowel only. Adlerika gives your system a thorough cleansing, bringing out old, poisonous matter that you would not believe was in your system and that has been causing gas pains, sour stomach, nervousness and headaches for months.

Dr. H. L. Shosh, New York, reports: "In addition to intestinal cleansing, Adlerika greatly reduces bacteria and colon bacilli. Give your bowels a REAL cleansing with Adlerika and see how good you feel. Just one spoonful relieves GAS and stubborn constipation. At all Leading Druggists."

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK...

By Lemuel F. Parton

"Just a Poor Historian."

NEW YORK.—In 1933, Ambassador William E. Dodd protested to Chancellor Hitler against assaults on Americans who failed to give the Nazi salute. He made these representations quietly but emphatically. His protest was effective.

Being naturally calm and tactful, it is quite certain that he will not aggravate the present difficulty as his government calls Germany to account for press attacks on America. But he is not spineless and will not be merely a messenger boy.

He has disproved the assumption that an ambassador to a major power must be rich. "Just a poor historian," he lives simply and rides third class around Germany. He says this is a much better way of understanding Germany and knowing the people than attending state banquets—which he abhors.

The Germans like him and even forgive his belief in democracy, which he bluntly expresses when such expression seems pertinent. His doctor's degree was obtained at the University of Leipzig, and one of his best books was a biography of Thomas Jefferson, written in German. They have forgiven that, too.

Most of his thirty years as a historian was spent at the University of Chicago. When he was appointed ambassador in June, 1933, he smilingly expressed doubt about being a diplomat. "The trouble is that a historian has to tell the truth," he said. Two former ambassadors to Germany, Bancroft and White, were historians, but in less troubled times. He has spoken frankly, and has been only occasionally vilified, as when Julius Streicher, Germany's notorious anti-Semite, slurred his family on August 16, 1935.

A native of North Carolina, he keeps a little cottage down in the Blue Ridge mountains, and drives around in a worn little old car when he comes home. He likes out of doors and is usually sun-tanned. He is medium, somewhat athletic in stature, with a look of keen awareness and competence, which softens as he speaks—he is essentially a humanist.

The failure of the League of Nations he regards as one of the tragedies of mankind. He has long been a torch bearer for the Wilsonian ideals, co-editor of "The Works of Woodrow Wilson," with Ray Stannard Baker. He is a former president of the American Historical association, highly distinguished and authoritative in his profession. He is sixty-seven years old.

"Too Many Nice Boys," president of Williams, says his college is getting too many "nice boys." It was in 1929 that Professor Robert E. Rogers of M. I. T. told his class that the thing to do was to "be a snob and marry the boss' daughter."

In 1934, he took it all back. A graduate might be a snob cum laude, but he was running an elevator just the same. Out in Minnesota, a college dean recently urged students to take postgraduate courses in refined speech, dress and decorum. It must be hard for the youngsters to decide what to be or do.

Dr. Dennett evidently doesn't suggest "rowdy" as the alternative of "nice." What he seems to have in mind is that Williams should draw more from the main democratic bloodstream, and not so much from the blue-blood arteries. He thinks the exclusive preparatory schools are funneling too many students into Williams.

The Admiralty Speaks.
SIR SAMUEL HOARE, British first lord of admiralty, defends his $500,000,000 naval plan and urges the United States to build right along with England—we are brothers. Already there is a yell over here that England is, as usual, trying to get us to pull her chestnuts out of the fire. But that's something for the editorial page.

Sir Samuel, with his high-pitched nasal voice, his long, sharp pedagogue's nose, his glassy eye, and his way of laying things on the line, is always good copy for the reporters.

Simultaneously, he broke the ill-lustrous and inquisitive nose, figure-skating, and was eased out as foreign minister because he was too realistic about Ethiopia. His comeback was amazing in its swiftness. In a few months, he headed the admiralty, and articulate and dominant tory England had swung to his view on Ethiopia.

His goldsmith ancestors founded Ye Olde Golden Bettle bank in the reign of Charles I. It is still owned by five Hoares, with one of them sleeping on the premises every night as their ancient charter requires. Sir Samuel, it is believed, never sleeps, with an eye never closed on the empire where the sun never sets.

Items of Interest to the Housewife

Making a Footstool—Do you know that you can make unique footstools out of the single spring seats of an old automobile? Cover the old seat with upholstery and attach castors at the four corners. This will give you a comfortable seat or footstool for your summer cottage.

Cooking Vegetables—A small piece of butter added to the water in which vegetables are to be cooked will prevent them from boiling over.

Flavoring Gravy—Half milk and half water makes the best colored and best flavored gravy.

Cocoa Egg Cake Filling—White of one egg; one cup icing sugar; two teaspoons cold water; four tablespoons cocoa; half teaspoon vanilla. Beat white of egg until stiff and dry. Mix cocoa and sugar, add cold water. Add gradually to egg white until thick enough to spread.

Suede Shoes—Rain spots can be removed from suede shoes by rubbing with fine emery board.

Ironing Shirts—Soft collars attached to shirts should be ironed on the right side first, then on the wrong side. This prevents wrinkling the collar.

Washing Embroidery—Do not wring embroidery after washing. Press out as much moisture as possible.

A Star for You

Some of the pleasantest remembrances are those when you didn't get even although you could. The normal mother is sure of one thing: Her children's affection.

Nearly all aliens judge America by New York, which it doesn't resemble in the least. Chesterton alone found that out by living at South Bend.

There never was an age that wasn't the age for young men with ability.

A woman writes a paper to read before her club and finds a lot of new reasons to believe in something she hadn't cared much about.

And So the World Can Read

Bad handwriting is generally due to a man being in too much of a hurry to say what he wants to. Go slow: the world can wait.

possible between the folds of a towel, then spread on a towel or blotter to dry, face up.

Worn Socks—Children very often get enormous holes in the heels of their socks. This is often due to the lining of the shoe which has worn rough. If the ragged bits are cut off and the inside of the shoe covered with adhesive tape, many a large "hole" will be prevented.

Baking Potatoes—Before putting potatoes in the baking-tin, stand them in boiling water for a few minutes, then drain on a clean cloth. They will cook more quickly and taste better.

Sausage and Fried Apples—Pan broil the required number of small sausages or cakes of sausage meat and as soon as the fat collects, add as many halved, cored and unpeeled apples as required, first dipping them in flour to which a little sugar has been added. Saute slowly until soft and browned. Place on a serving dish, with two small sausages on each half.

Boiling Cabbage—When you cook cabbage, put a small handful of breadcrumbs tied in muslin into the pan. The bread absorbs all the bitter juices and makes the vegetable more digestible. WNU Service.

WASHINGTON NEWSLETTER

By Congressman Andrew J. Transue
Sixth District, Michigan.

Congressional Cognizance

Congress took official cognizance of the sit-down strike last week as the Senate debated for two days without reaching a decision and the House of Representatives Rules Committee approved a resolution authorizing immediate investigation of sit-down strikes by a House Committee. The House will probably vote upon the resolution this week. The prolonged Senate debate started when an amendment was added to the coal industry regulation bill to ban sit-down strikes in the mines that will have the official code sanction. Coal miners have never used the sit-down strike method in any dispute with the mine owners over wages or contracts.

A senate gallery crowded beyond seating capacity provided the audience for the debate upon the sit-down strike. While many of the Senators said they opposed the sit-down strike method because it would eventually prove harmful to labor's best interests, they insisted the problem should be considered apart from the coal regulation.

An Eye Witness

Senator Prentiss Brown of Michigan urged the Senate to "let Michigan handle Michigan's affairs and this matter will subside sooner than if we attempt to interfere by advice without any power to enforce that advice by some action on the part of the Senate of the United States." He pointed out that Flint's State Senator William Palmer, has introduced a bill in the Michigan legislature to declare the sit-down strike illegal. "That is the attitude of the majority party, the Democratic party in Michigan," Senator Brown told the Senate.

Describing the meeting of automobile workers in Detroit, Senator Brown declared he was probably the only United States Senator in Cadillac Square and that the first thing he saw was the American Flag and the first thing he heard was a band playing the Star Spangled Banner. "I think Governor Frank Murphy has done an excellent job up to the present time," Senator Brown said. "He settled the General Motors strike and no man recalls reading in the newspapers that there was any bloodshed or any violence other than the seizure of property." The Senator praised the attitude of Senator Vandenberg in refraining from criticism of Gov. Murphy's negotiations.

Michigan Self Sufficiency

Not only were the galleries full and all of the standing room utilized but most of the Senatorial desks were occupied during the two day discussion. At the opening roll call 86 Senators were present. Only those unavoidably detained risked missing any part of the long argument that was described as the "most important debate since the war." Parliamentary efforts to switch the controversial question to a Committee failed and the Senate finally recessed to resume the debate this week.

Since 1794 when George Washington used Federal troops to quell the "Whiskey Rebellion" Federal troops have been sent into various states 19 times. These expeditions, which never included Michigan, were caused by labor, tax, slave and political disputes.

Court Issue Undecided

Earlier in the week the Supreme Court approved three important laws pertaining to minimum wages, collective bargaining for railroad employees and farm mortgage moratoriums. The minimum wage law for women, enacted by the State of Washington, was approved by the narrowest of margins in a five to four vote. The decision reversed a ruling of the same court that held the minimum wage law of the State of New York invalid by a five to four decision last year. Supporters of the President's court reform plan and opponents of the plan, insisted the three decisions helped their diametrically opposite opinions. The opponents argued that the decisions eliminated the necessity for a change now. The Presidential supporters contended the narrow margin and dependence upon the changed opinion of one Justice, gave further proof of the necessity of adding new members to the Supreme Court.

House Activities

The required 218 signatures were obtained last week to take the anti-lynching bill out of the Judiciary Committee. The petition sufficiency was realized two days before the Judiciary Committee began hearings on anti-lynching proposals. The organization Committee in charge of preparing legislation to achieve Government ownership of the 13 Federal Reserve banks, announced that 28 states are represented upon the steering Committee and the first meeting was one of the most enthusiastic in recent Congressional history. The initial bill will be drawn this week.

Spring Fever
The advent of Spring and the fishing season turned Congressional thoughts to the probably adjournment date. Opinions of veteran Congressmen varied from June to November. Park officials announced the smudge pots saved the Cherry Blossoms.

F. & A. M. RESOLUTIONS
In memory of a brother of our order.

Whereas it being the will of The Divine Providence to remove our beloved brother George Sigler from our midst by the hand of death, and that the hearts of the brothers of the Masonic Lodge have been deeply moved thereby, and he having been a true and respected brother of our order, therefore be it.

Resolved: That Livingston Lodge No. 76 F. & A. M., Pinckney, drapes its Charter in mourning for sixty days and that we tender to the family our sincere sympathy in their bereavement, and that a copy of these resolutions be sent them.

CURIOUS NEW DISCOVERIES ABOUT PAIN

An article in The American Weekly with the April 11 issue of The Detroit Sunday Times discloses some scientific problems revealing why a giant can't feel any pain in his big feet; what makes a toothache so agonizing and why you can feel the pain when there's nothing to cause it and other facts about pain.

NOW DAILY! A SHORT STORY BY MARK HELLINGER

This new fiction feature in The Detroit Times will appeal to all the family. Hellinger is called "The Modern O. Henry", a title he deserves because of his talent for telling stories as vividly real, as publishing

SYMPTOMS OF THE BOOM PHASE

"Symptoms of the boom phase of recovery are multiplying," said Business Week. "Strikes, higher wages, higher prices, increasing productive activity, reports of record earnings, government efforts to curb security speculation, optimism punctured here and there with misgivings are making regular appearance on the business bill of fare."

Principal industrial headlines are being made by strikes and wage boosts. Union leaders are finding executives malleable and conciliatory for example, New England shoe plants recently acceded without question to a demand for a 15 per cent wage rise. The steel industry has likewise made friendly gestures to the CIO. Reason, according to the experts, is that practically all industry looks forward to booming business (steel and similar industries are anticipating large government contracts as part of our pending military buildup program) and would rather zoom wages than take a chance on plant shut downs when orders are multiplying.

Business briefs of interest follow:
OIL: Gasoline stocks are very high, but the industry is not worried because demand is substantially higher than last year—which was a good year.

MOTORS: Temporary elimination of strikes from this industry has boosted production to near-record peaks. The public's appetite for new cars in the low and medium priced groups seem insatiable.

AGRICULTURE: January farm cash income was 14 per cent above January, 1936. Outlook is good, with price increases imminent. This naturally cheers the big farm machinery makers.

RETAILING: Stores of all kinds are flooded with business. The magazine "Retailing" says that stores are planning big-scale modernization programs, are putting their money into new equipment instead of advertising.

The disturbing element in the world was thrown out when Hitler

By actual meter test: Here* is what electric cooking costs!

COST OF OPERATING AN ELECTRIC RANGE
Family of 4 $1.85 per month
 This figure is a 4-month's average (October, November, December and January) of actual cooking costs in families of four persons, at the rate of 2½ cents (net) per kw-hr. Special record meters were installed on these customers' ranges to determine actual cooking costs, and the figure above—about 1½-cent a meal a person—is the result. This is the AVERAGE of the cost figures obtained: Some of the actual costs were higher, some were lower. The cost of operating your range will vary with the amount of cooking done, and with the use of retained heat and the waterless cooking method.

* These latest figures on the cost of operating an electric range show an average of about ONE-HALF A CENT a meal a person. Actual meter tests were made in homes using electric ranges. The cost figure is obtained under everyday working conditions in ordinary kitchens... the ranges are used by women cooking meals daily for families of three, four and five people, or larger. In the survey, 5 well-known makes and 9 different models of electric ranges were included. These tests prove conclusively that electric cooking is not expensive. 10,000 of your neighbors chose electric cooking during the year 1936. SEE THE NEW ELECTRIC RANGES ON DISPLAY AT DEPARTMENT STORES, ELECTRICAL DEALERS, AND THE DETROIT EDISON COMPANY.

23 REASONS WHY! The McCormick-Deering Farm All Tractor Is by Far the Best Buy

The McCormick-Deering Farm All 12.

1. It is an economical tractor to operate.
2. It permits the operator to select the fuel most readily available. Can be equipped to use gasoline, kerosene, or No. 1 distillate.
3. No other tractor in its price or weight class has such a complete line of machines built expressly for use with it.
4. The F-12 has the "Quickest Attachable" machines on the market.
5. The McCormick-Deering F-12 is fitted with rawhide oil seals that seal the oil in and the dirt out.
6. It has replaceable cylinder sleeves — a feature pioneered by International Harvester.
7. The F-12 crankshaft is hardened by the new Tocco electrical hardening process, with file-hard bearing surfaces and other portions as tough and ductile as ever.
8. High-grade ball bearings are used throughout the transmission and final drive. There are 29 ball and roller bearings in the F-12.
9. A wide variation of treads is available, 4 1/2 in. to 79 in., with special rear axles available at slight extra cost to extend tread to 93 in.
10. The F-12 is regularly sold equipped for general farm work. An unusually wide variety of special equipment is available.
11. Power take-off is regular equipment. No general-purpose tractor is complete without power take-off.
12. Automatic steering brakes (patented) enable the operator to pivot the F-12 on either wheel, 7 ft. radius.
13. Convenient belt pulley. Ample large to hold a belt at normal tension.
14. The F-12 cooling fan is belt driven, a feature recognized by the entire automotive industry as most efficient.

15. The F-12 delivers 70 per cent of its engine power to the drawbar.

16. Highest grades of nickel-chromium alloy steel used in its gears.

17. A variable speed governor permits full-open throttle operation at any selected speed between 900 and 1400 R. P. M.

18. An unusually accessible engine, with all parts easily replaceable.

19. When desired, special transmissions can be supplied to give higher second and third speeds in rubber-tired tractors.

20. A Quick-Shift cultivator feature that is exclusively McCormick-Deering. It is found only in the F-12 and its big brothers, the F-20 and F-30.

21. A multi-cylinder valve-in-head engine, traditional with International Harvester. Recognized for its efficiency by automotive engineers.

22. Six thousand dealers and 86 factory branches are ready to render complete repairs service for the F-12. No other tractor is so well protected.

23. Farmall is built by the world's largest tractor builder, with more than 30 years of farm power experience.

When you go out to buy your new tractor, convince yourself that your choice gives you every advantage that is to be had. We will gladly give you complete information on any of the twelve wheel and crawler tractors in the McCormick-Deering line. All McCormick-Deering tractors can be bought on the EASY PURCHASE PLAN.

CONSERVATION NOTES

The mild winter has aided the partridges and it is claimed they will be much more plentiful this fall.

5000 fishermen used Houghton Lake during the past winter fishing season.

Nearly 53,000 acres of additional game lands will come into the possession of the state conservation department this year as a result of gifts and purchases.

The 31 day closed season on perch in Michigan Great Lakes which starts on April 15 applies only to commercial fishermen. Hook and line fishing is still permitted.

A hunter who accidentally shoots and injures another hunter must pay his hospital bill or forfeit his right to use a gun.

A total of 21 moose have now been trapped on Isle Royal for shipment to game reserves.

Dr. Don Caswell of Ames, Iowa, will succeed Donald Lamont, deceased, as manager of the state game farm at Mason.

A coyote can run at the rate of 40 miles an hour.

"Buy a conservation stamp" is the slogan in Kent County where 100 game stamps are selling stickers for 10c each for the benefit of the wild life fund and to combat pollution.

The department of conservation will construct a replica of the Tahquamenon Falls for the Muskegon Centennial in July.

Electric incubators are now being tried out at the Mason game farm in hatching Hungarian partridge eggs. They have proved successful with pheasant eggs.

The $50,000 appropriation received will make it possible to improve the conditions in the farm game area of Michigan.

In outlining the department's plan to better hunting conditions and to improve relations between sportsmen and farmers, game chief Ruhl said, that the following constituted the general objectives of the program:

1. Organization of all state-sponsored farm-game improvement projects into a single comprehensive program.

2. Promotion of more active cooperation between landowners, sportsmen and other agencies interested in farm game problems. Increased cooperation with Williamston Plan cooperative hunting exchanges where such are deemed desirable.

3. Expansion of department of conservation services to advise and assist groups and individual landowners interested in maintaining or increasing farm game, fur bearers or desirable wildlife species.

4. Exploration testing and application of new methods of servicing farm wildlife and those who use or enjoy its presence.

5. Employment of additional men necessary to carry on properly the expanded farm-game program.

TIME SAVERS AID IN CARE OF SICK

Illness in the home usually puts an extra drain on the time and energy of the homemaker. She needs to use as many devices as possible to make the care of the patient less tiring and less time consuming.

The patient should be in a single bed if possible because the home nurse can then work with the patient from both sides of the bed. Other hints suggested by Evelyn Bergstrand in the home management department of Michigan State College offer tips to save time and energy.

The bed should be raised to a height of about thirty six inches to eliminate stooping. The bed may be raised by placing a wooden box about eight inches high in each corner between the bed frame and the spring and wiring these boxes to the bedstead to prevent slipping. Another simple device for raising the bed is the use of wooden blocks about eight inches high. Make a small hollow in the center of the top of each block into which the leg is fitted securely. A bedside table is convenient for the articles needed in the care of the patient and means that unless the patient is very ill he or she often can reach a book or a drink. If one is not available it can be made easily by painting an orange crate and pasting oil cloth on the shelves so they may be cleaned easily. For the child patient a cloth pocket tied or pinned to the side of the bed and in which crayons, books and games may be kept, helps the patient amuse himself.

Trays save time and energy by reducing the number of trips to and from the bathroom or kitchen. An attractive meal tray can be made by painting a large cookie pan. Because so many small pieces of equipment are necessary for a patient's daily toilet care it is wise to keep them assembled. A small tray may be made from a painted shallow cake pan upon which may be placed the patient's soap, talcum, alcohol, comb tooth brush, mouth wash, tumbler and emesis basin.

Provide a door silencer on the sick room so the patient is not disturbed when you look to see if he is resting. A satisfactory one can be made from an old hot water bottle or inner tube. Measure the distance between the door knobs and add two inches to the length obtained. At either end of a three inch width of rubber cut a hole two-thirds the size of the door knob. Fasten the rubber band over the knob so it will cover the protruding ridge of the latch and the door will not bang.

NEW RECEIPT FORM DEvised BY CASE

A time and labor saver for the motoring public in its relations with the Department of State has been put into effect by Leon D. Case, Secretary of State.

In the past, when applications for license plates, operator's licenses or titles were incorrect or incomplete when received, they were returned with departmental checks for the sums sent.

Under the new system, every application will bear a cash register stamp as soon as received in Lansing showing the amount of money included. In the event any application must be returned to its maker, the receipt and acknowledgment of the fee is stamped on its face in non-negotiable form.

When the application has been corrected or a new one executed and returned along with the original one, the transaction is then completed, thus avoiding the possibility of money or checks being mislaid, or the applicant called upon to pay a duplicate fee.

Another year of statistics has been compiled. It is estimated that 38,500 people have been killed by automobiles.

The pity of this total is: Almost 50% of the people killed by automobiles were pedestrians. In spite of this, people still insist on jay walking at crossings, walking between intersections and stepping out from behind parked cars. These are dangerous practices and can be stopped only when each and every person becomes safety conscious to the point that he feels he should set an example for others.

Walk right, stop, look and listen.

SYNOPSIS

Jim Fielding, one of the "lost generation" who had left college in the depression and is unable to find a job, arrives at Glendale to visit his friends the MacPhersons. Mac had formerly been gardener at his late uncle's estate and now works for T. H. Vaughn of "Meadowbrook." Jim is tired of being supported by his married sister Kay. While he still can marry Lenore, an attractive divorcee who is in love with him and has an easy life because of her wealth, his mind rebels. Stopping at the village drug store for a sandwich, he meets Dolly, a pretty soda fountain girl. When he inquires about the Vaughns, she asks if he is a friend of "Cecily's." She also entrusts a message to Tommy, young son of the family and tells him how to reach the Vaughn estate. Approaching the house, Jim encounters a tomboyish little girl, fishing. She is startled and falls in the brook. Incensed at first, she discovers she liked Jim and he learns that she is Susan Vaughn. He discovers Cecily is her older sister. He sees Tommy, a youth of eighteen who imagines he is in love with Dolly. Jim explains his impetuous position to the MacPhersons. They tell him that Mr. Vaughn is recovering from a nervous breakdown and has been a widower since Sue was a little child. Mrs. MacPherson suggests that Mac give Jim a job as handyman. Jim goes for a walk to think it over and picks up a horse shoe. Soon Cecily, a lovely young girl, appears, riding a limping horse. Jim scolds her when he sees the animal has thrown a shoe. There is an angry scene. Jim's ire cools and he is intrigued as he thinks about her. He tells the MacPhersons he wants to stay and assumes his duties as handyman.

Silence again, presently MacPherson asked hesitantly, "Was there nothing left—of your uncle's fortune?"

"Very little. Only enough to take care of Uncle James and Aunt Emily. Incredible, isn't it?"

MacPherson did not reply at once. Unconscious of the revealing gesture, he polished his pipe against his nose. He and his conscience were grappling again. The strain of the conflict was visible in his lean face.

"Would you like the job here?" he asked at length. "I've the privilege of engaging whoever I please."

"Thank you," Jim answered. "I can't do that."

"It's no easy job. You'd earn your wages. Fifteen dollars and keep."

"At that figure I should be overpaid. No, I have definite plans for the future."

"As Bessie said, it would be something," MacPherson continued. "I appreciate that," Jim's voice was husky. He looked at his old friend and smiled, a crooked smile which did not reach his eyes.

"Well, do as you think best." MacPherson's hand touched Jim's arm for a moment. "If you want to stay, you can have the job. I must see to the men now. Supper in half an hour."

CHAPTER III

A plum-colored twilight lay over "Meadowbrook." Thunderheads were massed in the west blotting out the sunset. Streaks of saffron edged the churning billows of clouds. Thunder rumbled at intervals.

Jim, accompanied by the dog, walked about the grounds at the rear of the house. "Meadowbrook" had an ordered appearance, he thought, observing details with interest. The barn and garage, the low scattered out-buildings were freshly painted, incredibly white in the purple twilight. In the yard of a tenant house beyond the barn a child swung back and forth on a cross-barred gate. An older boy in blue dungarees followed the cows up the lane from the pasture.

The place was not pretentious. It was a glorified farm rather than an estate. The flower gardens at either side of the house were planted with simple sturdy things, larkspur and phlox, calendulas and poppies. There was, as far as Jim could see, only one small green-house.

MacPherson must have put his pride in his pocket when he accepted the position here. He had, obviously, little opportunity to use his skill as a gardener. Jim recalled the green-houses at "Whitehall," the masses of roses and carnations, the orchids and gardenias tended as carefully as infants.

Jim's eyes clouded thoughtfully. It seemed so short a time since he had wandered through the green-houses at "Whitehall," learning from MacPherson the names of the flowers and plants, learning geography, too, and the customs of other countries, cutting a bouquet of her favorite Russian violets for Aunt Emily, a dark red carnation for Uncle James to tuck in his coat lapel. So short a time. The crash, Uncle James' illness, was like a dream. Or perhaps "Whitehall" had been a dream.

Jim's thoughts turned to the Vaughns. He had a message for Tommy. And he had promised to mend the fishing-rod. He would be obliged to confide in MacPherson, ask him for varnish and twine.

The Vaughns' handy-man! Jim left the gravelled path, walked along the edge of a rose garden bordered with box and across the lawn at the foot of the terrace, his brief glimpse into the private life of the Vaughns gave him a rather clear idea of what he'd have been in for if he had followed Mrs. Mac's suggestion. He'd have needed the tact of a master diplomat, the strategy of a Sherlock Holmes, the disciplinary tactics of the United States marines. It seemed a great deal to expect for $15 a week.

And yet, it might be amusing to stay—

What had inspired that idea? Amazement brought Jim to a momentary standstill. He discovered, surprisingly, that under his surface preoccupations the thought had remained in his mind. At least it would be a change. He was so everlastingly tired of his present existence. Impulse and instinct were in favor of the experiment. But he was through with impulse. He was going back to Long Island. He was going to marry Lenore.

The reluctance he felt alarmed him. Was no emotion permanent? He'd been so terribly in love with Lenore. How he had suffered when she told him that she was going to marry Frederic Ames! Kay had been a bridesmaid. She had given him an agonizing account of the wedding he had refused to attend. He had suffered in brooding silence. His noble grief had set him apart from commonplace mortals. Tristram and Isolde, Romeo and Juliet. Jim and Lenore.

He had thought that Lenore was the love of his life. What a state he'd been in when he learned, two years ago, that she was divorcing Freddy Ames and returning to her family in Roselyn. The sleepless nights he'd spent then! Despair had flavored with wormwood and gall his bright anticipations. He couldn't ask her to marry him. He was no longer his uncle's heir.

And then it hadn't mattered. The first time he saw Lenore again he realized that he did not love her. She hadn't changed disappointingly. She was as lovely looking as when he had first known her. The tragedy of an unhappy marriage had given her a new wistful expression. He simply did not love her. He had realized, with astonishment and poignant regret, that what he had considered the love of a lifetime was a boy's infatuation.

Jim's aimless course had brought him again to the drive. He walked between the double line of oaks and cedars down toward the bridge across the stream. The plum-colored dusk had deepened. The collic pressed close against Jim's legs, whimpering at recurring rumbles of thunder. Jock was terrified in a storm.

Jim was, at the moment, unaware of the dog's increasing fright. The problem of his immediate future absorbed his attention. And yet it wasn't a problem. He was going to marry Lenore. He knew that she loved him. And he was fond of her. Wasn't that enough?

The collic whimpered more sharply. The sound caught Jim's attention. He looked down. The dog had squatted on his haunches and was licking one of his front paws.

"What's the matter, old fellow?" he asked. He stooped to investigate and found that Jock had stepped on a horseshoe lying in the grass at the edge of the drive. One of the projecting nails had penetrated into the soft part of the paw. The injury was not serious. Jim gave the collic a reassuring pat and straightened, the horseshoe in his hand.

Here was luck! Jim examined the horseshoe. It had been cast recently, he thought, the iron had not rusted; the nails were all there. The shoe was small. It had been forged, he surmised, for a riding-horse, a lady's horse, almost certainly.

A sound scattered Jim's straying fancies, the unmistakable sound of hoof beats on the gravelled drive. Cinderella in search of her slipper, perhaps. He glanced down the driveway and whistled softly, his eyes lighting with pleasure.

The horse coming up the lane was a chestnut mare, small, spirited, beautifully proportioned. Jim loved horses. He stood watching the mare's approach in delight and admiration.

As the horse drew nearer, his expression changed. The mare was limping badly. He stepped out into the lane, only vaguely conscious of the fact that the rider was a girl. She saw him and tightened the reins. The mare came to a stop.

"What's the idea?" Jim asked sternly.

An amazed exclamation was his only reply. Jim scarcely glanced at the rider. His concern was for the animal. Jim glanced at the horse's hoofs, ignoring the girl in the saddle.

"I thought so!" he exclaimed. "She's thrown a shoe. No wonder she's limping!"

He looked at the girl directly. It was then that he really saw her, her long graceful legs in whipcord jodhpurs, her bright hair bound with a tortoise-shell bandeau, blown in curling tendrils against her cheeks, her sherry-colored eyes darkening with anger. Good Lord! This was "Cecily," of course. He'd blown off as though she'd been a stable-boy. But she deserved it. What would she say?

A flash of lightning streaked the purple dusk. The horse quivered. The collic whimpered softly.

The girl found her voice.

"Who are you?" she asked scornfully. "The National S. P. C. A.?" Jim swore vehemently under his breath. Spoiled brat! He'd be damned if he would apologize.

"I can't see a horse mistreated," he said, his voice quite as scornful as hers. "It's none of my business, of course, but freedom of speech is the right of an American citizen."

"And rudeness too, I suppose."

How lovely she was! Jim disliked her intensely but he was obliged to admit that obvious fact. It was beginning to rain.

"Here is your horse's lost shoe," he said, extending the symbol of good fortune. "I found it at the side of the drive."

She took the horse-shoe from him. For a moment their fingers touched. The rain was falling faster. Drops of moisture glittered on her lashes and in her short curling hair. Her features were exquisite. Her skin was the tawny pink and gold of an apricot in the sun.

"Thank you," she said disdainfully. Her hand, a slender hand with coral tipped nails, emerged from a pocket in her blouse. A coin spun through the air, fell on the drive at his feet. She glanced at him mockingly and flicked the leather tip of her crop. "If you care to know," she said, "I'd just discovered 'Lady' had lost a shoe, and was bringing her back." The mare turned and went on up the road.

Jim picked up the coin at his feet. It was a quarter, the form and substance of her retaliation. She had meant to be insulting. He deserved it, of course. She had spirit and she rode superbly. Those facts, too, he was obliged to admit.

His rage softened, dissolved, was gone. He realized, then, how very angry he'd been. It was stimulating to let go. He ran up the drive, delighting in the breaking fury of the storm, in the feeling of being alive again. He'd been a vegetable for so long. Why must he return to Long Island? Why couldn't he stay?

The idea was exciting. He burst into the cottage.

MacPherson glanced up from a newspaper.

"You've been in the storm, lad," he said. "I'll wager you're wet to the skin."

Jim proceeded directly to the matter nearest his heart. "Will you let me have a try at the job?" he demanded. He flipped the quarter into the air and caught it as it fell.

MacPherson shot him a quizzical glance from under his shaggy brows.

"What made you change your mind?" he asked. The boy had been up to something, he thought. Could it have been that—He'd heard Miss Cecily's horse clattering up the drive a few minutes ago—His pipe moved in an upward direction, paused, returned to the arm of the chair.

"The job is yours," he said. "Go up and change into some of my clothes. Supper is just about ready."

"Meadowbrook," during the first two weeks of Jim's servitude, was ruled by an invisible master. Thomas Huntley Vaughn, senior, convalescing from a nervous breakdown, was confined to his room. All that Jim knew of his employer was an impatient voice calling from the second floor, a bell buzzing incessantly, the irritated promptness with which the trained nurse answered any summons from the invalid's room, Miss Parker's nervous anxiety and repeated requests for silence.

Jim's duties were varied and, at times, confusing. He swept the terrace and the verandas in the morning and brought up the mail from the rural delivery box at the end of the drive. He drove to the village with marketing lists and washed the cars and picked vegetables in the garden. He assisted MacPherson about the grounds, learned to trim a hedge and spray for beetles and make neat edges along the borders of the lawn.

He enjoyed working out of doors, though he was frequently humiliated by his lack of skill and amazed at the intricacies involved in achieving apparently simple results. There was, he learned, a right and a wrong way to train a vine against a wall, to roll a tennis court, to thin and transplant a bed of tulips. MacPherson insisted upon the right way in every instance. He was a kindly but exacting superior and showed Jim no favoritism beyond a sympathetic patience with his blunders and an occasional word of encouragement.

"You're learning, lad," he said one afternoon, inspecting with approval the transplanted tulips.

But there were countless difficulties. MacPherson's authority, unfortunately, stopped short at the house and it was with the domestic arrangements that Jim was largely concerned. Life in the rambling stone house presented a marked contrast to the ordered routine of the farm.

Miss Parker, he learned, was, technically, Susan's governess. She was, at the moment, acting as housekeeper as well. She did her best to keep things running smoothly but her best was far from adequate. Tommy was difficult. Susan was a grubby little savage. Nora, the cook, disliked the country. Rose, the maid, a girl from the village engaged for the summer, was involved in a flirtation with one of the farmer's assistants and careless about her work. Miss Jones, the trained nurse, was supercilious and sensitive and demanded a great deal of service.

It was into this maelstrom of conflicting personalities that MacPherson delivered Jim. Nora summed up his dilemma the first time he entered the kitchen with a basket of vegetables from the garden.

"So you're the new man," she said, her bright blue eyes regarding him with interest and a sort of acid compassion. "Well, the Lord have mercy on you!"

He soon discovered that Nora, with reason, had invoked Divine assistance in his behalf.

"Nice people!" he remarked, talking over his first day on the job with the MacPhersons at supper. "I feel as though I've been in a nightmare most of the afternoon. Miss Parker gave me the marketing list so late that when I got back from the village the cook hadn't time to do the roast and was obliged to resort to salmon salad which, according to her own sworn statement, gives the nurse indigestion."

"I should think so!" Mrs. MacPherson remarked, serving stewed chicken and dumplings with an air of complacency not unmixed with scorn. "Salmon out of a can!"

"The cook threatened to leave, of course," Jim continued, "and was pacified only when Miss Parker made me promise to drive her in to the movies tonight."

"Susan fell off the roof of the barn," Jim continued between soothing attacks on the dumplings. "Tommy had an accident with the station-wagon last night. Are such things daily occurrences or were they arranged especially to make me feel at home?"

"They want taking in hand," Mrs. MacPherson said crisply, obviously referring to the Vaughns. "Discipline! That Miss Parker is no more than a fly in a hail-storm!"

MacPherson made no attempt to deny the statement. The conversation veered, momentarily, from the Vaughns. Half way through the cherry cobbler, however, Jim asked a question.

"Isn't there another Vaughn?" he inquired casually. "I thought you mentioned an older daughter."

MacPherson glanced at him quickly but Jim, with a bland and innocent expression, was pouring cream on the cobbler.

"Cecily," Mrs. MacPherson replied. "She's visiting friends."

"You see!" MacPherson appealed to Jim. "Sees all; knows all. Where is Miss Cecily, Bessie?"

"Cape May," Mrs. MacPherson snapped, justifying her husband's humorously expressed opinion of his wife. "It's a house-party," she added.

The house-party at Cape May extended well into Jim's second week at "Meadowbrook." The girl he had met in the drive was Cecily. He was sure of that. There were photographs of her scattered about the lower floor of the house.

The painting above the fireplace was more vivid. The artist had captured a suggestion of her coloring, the apricot bloom of her skin, her sherry colored eyes, her bright curling hair. But the artist had given her a gentle dreamy expression. Gentle expressions were charming, no doubt, and indicated a pleasant disposition, but Jim, when he glanced at the portrait, recalled the scornful glint in the red-brown eyes, the arrogant tilt of the rounded chin.

The house-party was a break for him, Jim reflected. If Cecily had discovered him filling wood-boxes the day after the encounter in the drive she would, no doubt, have ordered him off the place. By the time she returned, he reasoned, she would have forgotten the incident.

He learned, by devious means, a few scattered facts about Cecily. She dominated the household. "Since Miss Cecily isn't here, I suppose we can have corned-beef hash for luncheon," he heard Miss Parker remark to Nora as he waited, respectfully, hat in hand, to drive her to the village.

Cecily was popular. The telephone rang and cars filled with young people raced in and out of the drive. A large portion of the mail each day was addressed to her.

Cecily was interested in someone who did not meet with her father's approval. He could scarcely avoid hearing snatches of a conversation between Miss Parker and a friend from a neighboring estate.

From Perfectly Cut Patterns

"I'M GLAD I'm not on the serving committee this week," muses Mrs. Smith of Walnut street, as she takes stock of herself in the mirror preparatory to leaving for the church supper. "I look entirely too swell for me—why, I'm almost excited! I always knew surprise waists were becoming, but how becoming I never knew till now. That little deceptiveness is just what I need, and these sleeves are the most comfortable things! If about half our circle wore dresses like this it would be better for all concerned; so many of us have outgrown the tailored streamlined styles. Now, Mrs. White for instance—"

Enter an Admirer.

"Why Mother, you look de-lavely in that shade of blue! And you look real stylish, too—you ought to be going to a Coronation."

"Oh, I'd much prefer the church supper, dear. I'll be a somebody there in my new dress but at a Coronation I would be little potatoes. By the way, what did they say about your new jumper 'at school'?"

"Mother, I meant to tell you. Mary Jane and Betty are both going to coax their mothers to make one just like it. I said maybe you would loan them the pattern, would you?"

"Why of course. Did you tell them it took me only two afternoons to make yours including two blouses?"

Enter "The Duchess."

"Sis, you're pretty young to be talking about clothes so intelligently. When you get a figure that clothes really count on—ahem, like Yours Truly's for instance; then it might be different—oh Mother, how nice! I'm crazy about it. Gee, such smart lines! Remember, you promised to help me with a new party frock next week if I did well with this shirt-waister. I wish all dresses were as easy to sew and as swell to wear as this."

"Perfectly cut patterns spell success for any frock, Kay; your party dress is as good as made right now. But I must be on my way or I'll be more than fashionably late for the affair. Bye, bye—be good girls and see that Daddy gets something to eat."

The Patterns.

Pattern 1268 is for sizes 36 to 52. Size 38 requires 5 1/4 yards of 39 inch material.

Pattern 1996 is for sizes 6 to 14 years. Size 8 requires 1 1/4 yards of 39 inch material for the jumper and 1 1/4 yards for the blouse. Armscye and neck edges of jumper require 2 1/4 yards of 1 1/2 inch bias facing.

Pattern 1226 is for sizes 14 to 20 (32 to 42 bust). Size 16 requires 3 3/4 yards of 35 inch material.

WORKS IN DOCTOR'S OFFICE, KNEW WHAT WAS GOOD. She says, "EVERYTHING I ATE WOULD DIS-AGREE WITH ME. I KEPT LOSING ENERGY WOULD GET DIZZY."

Mary Price, 12067 Meyers Rd. works in doctors office, is another lady who praises New Scientific Extract of Herbs known as KOVON introduced by the PUF Company. Her statement—

"I would like to recommend Kovon to you. Everything I ate would disagree with me. My meals did not seem to do me any good and would not nourish my system as a result I kept losing my energy and finally got to where I was weak and worn out all the time. "What I did eat would sour in my stomach, gas would press on my heart and put me in so much pain that I would get dizzy all over. Then my nights were all shot to pieces as I had to get up to relieve my kidneys 4 or 5 times every night. With my general health almost wrecked and ruined I could not find anything to help me finally I got KOVON and it helped me from the start. It gave me a good appetite. "My meals agree with me and it has put a complete stop to the gas misery and awful bloating spells I used to have. I can even eat the acidity food and they agree with me. My meals are nourishing my system and I have ten times the energy I used to have. I have no dizzy spells anymore. KOVON acted on my kidneys and the sharp pains in the back have disappeared. It simply renovated my whole system and I want to publicly endorse it to all poor suffering people."

Are you troubled with feeling miserable and all run down with poisons in your system? Is your liver stuffed up with old black bile. Are you constipated? Do you have pains over your body, dizzy spells, headaches and a tired feeling?

KOVON has made hundreds of people ACT, LOOK and FEEL like different MEN and WOMEN. Go to your nearest drug store and get a bottle AT ONCE. To get you to use it use this coupon next 2 days and SAVE 25c.

NOTICE! The first 13 coupons brought in will receive FREE a 25c box of anti-pain cold and headache tablets.—Get this offer NOW. KOVON WILL REMOVE POISONS AND WASTE from YOUR BODY NEVER REMOVED BEFORE.

Philathea Notes

The regular meeting of the class for April is to be held with Mrs. A. E. VanSlaam on Wednesday afternoon, April 14. Please bring rugs and come prepared to sew for the Missionary rug.

We quote some true words of Rev. Savage, of Pontiac, concerning the Missionary activities of a congregation. "A church that will not 'go' will soon be 'gone.' Many of us must send a substitute instead of the literal acceptance of the command 'Go ye.' The church Benevolence treasurer is glad to acknowledge, in this connection, recent offerings from the Sunday school and the Y. P. S. C. E. Old Testament passages have been chosen for this quarter Church School lessons. For next Sunday the subject is: 'The Sin of Adam and Eve.' Genesis 3:2-15.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank the voters of Putnam Township for their courtesy extended to me at the election last Monday.

Stanley Dinkel
