Louis M. Nims Reports 3,098 Miles of Road Built in State Up to Sept. 15, 1936; Many Other Projects Shown.

State Administrator Louis M. Nims took stock Saturday of accomplishments of the works progress administration in Michigan and announced that highway and road construction and repair constituted principal work under the program.

The total of 4,098 miles of road built from the inauguration of the WPA program in the summer of 1935 through September 15, 1936, includes 2,443 miles of new construction and 1,655 miles of highways, roads and streets repaired or improved, according to Nims.

In addition, 7,056 culverts and 70 bridges were completed, principally after new construction and 35,183 steel signs were erected or repaired. A summary shows 2,209 drainage ditches and 153 other drainage work projects completed. Fourteen sewer treatment plants, having an aggregate capacity of 3,081,500 gallons per day, were built; seven pumping stations with a total capacity of 2,156,200 gallons per day completed; and more than 95 miles of water mains were laid and 3,967 service connections were made.

The WPA building program in the state resulted in construction of 930 buildings, of which 145 were new. Administrative, educational, institutional, and recreational buildings cover an area of 18,272,939 sq. ft. Dimensions of garages, airport hangars, warehouses and storage buildings total 8,831,257 cubic feet.

As part of the conservation program, 1,026 acres of trees were sprayed, 138 acres were planted with 104,812 trees and grubbing and clearing were carried on over 7,244 acres.

Women in sewing rooms completed 1,818,031 articles. Other women on WPA projects served 558,052 school lunches, gave medical, dental and nursing care to 37,846 persons and repaired 1,187,738 books and catalogued 142,590 volumes.

Distribution of surplus commodities made available to indigents 4,791 tons of food, 570,142 garments and 34,383 other items of necessity. Fifteen airplane landing fields were completed, seven of which were new, and 27 airport runways were either built or repaired.

Nims said similar programs carried on the CWA and FERA, which "resulted in accomplishments of comparative magnitude," are not included in the current summary.

News of the State Legislature

Senate Passes Palmer Bill Outlawing Sit-Down Strikes. House Passes $3,537,872.47 Deficiency Bill.

The senate passed the bill outlawing sit-down strikes last week. It was introduced by Senator Palmer, Flint Democrat. It now goes to the house where it may encounter some opposition but it is expected to pass.

The house passed and sent to the senate the deficiency bill amounting to $3,537,872.47. From this was re-imposed the $1,000,000 welfare appropriation. This amount it is understood will be embodied in a senate bill.

The bill sponsored by Senators Weadock and Duncel to divert part of the sales tax to the highway fund was also reported.

Rep. Herrick of Hubbardtown would give world war veterans a $2000 tax exemption. Rep. Murphy would make hairdresses or cosmeticians have their own case with their name on it to sterilize instruments.

Rep. Steele of Muskegon would include the oil and gas industries subject to pay check regulations. The bill calls for pay checks on the first and fifteenth of the month.

Rep. Watson of Capac would give the Interstate Commerce Commission Public Utilities authority to merge or consolidate railroads.

Rep. Root of Paw Paw would give the State Department of Agriculture authority to supervise inspection of vegetables and fruit for private companies. Unauthorized persons could not make inspections.

Senator Diggs of Detroit introduced a resolution condemning the importation of Mexican sugar beet workers.

The senate passed the bill permitting the hunting of deer and bear in Inosco and Newago counties with bow and arrow from Nov. 1 to 14.

The senate also passed the Matthews bill permitting administrators of estates to sell real estate without a court order providing a 20 percent payment was received, the balance to be paid in five years.

The senate has approved and sent to the house the bill which would repeal exemptions from jury service now granted teachers, ministers, certain railroad employees, physicians, dentists, firemen and members of the National Guard.

Compulsory physical examinations would be required of all couples seeking marriage licenses, if a bill introduced by Reps. Hamilton, Walsh and Buckley of Detroit passed. County clerks would be forbidden to issue licenses until a certificate of examination had been filed.

Gov. Murphy vetoed the bill adding the Lt. Governor and speaker of the house to the state administrative board on the opinion of Attorney General Starr it was unconstitutional. An amendment would be necessary which would have to be submitted to the people.

Rep. Snow, Jackson, will introduce a bill repealing all local acts forbidding Sunday hunting and making Sunday hunting state wide. The attorney general has ruled such a bill constitutional. A two-thirds vote will be necessary.

The house passed a bill permitting township school boards to elect their own officers. Now the electors do it. The Grange, the W. C. T. U. and other organizations met with the Gratiot County Ministerial Association, Monday to formulate plans to vote on local option in that county which would forbid the sale of liquor.

Local Lodges to Entertain Youth

The Local Masonic and Eastern Star Lodge Will Unit in a Youth Banquet. On Friday Evening, April 30. Evenings Entertainment to Consist of Program and Dance.

At the last grand lodge meeting at Traverse City last year, the resolution for a "Youth Movement" among the Masonic lodges of the state was adopted on motion of the Grand Master, Judge Neil Reid of Mt. Clemens. The manner of going about this was left to the individual lodges. At the recent past master's banquet here at which Judge Reid delivered the address he mentioned establishment of a "Molay" order, Father & Son Banquet, Fish Suppers, etc. In his address he mentioned the fact that when the average age of inmates of the prisons some ten years ago was 42 years it is at the present time, 22 years and that the impressionable age for youth was between the ages of 16 and 21 years.

At the last meeting of Livingston lodge it was voted to entertain the youth of the lodge and a committee was appointed, consisting of Percy Ellis, Roy Dillingham and John Marun, to confer with the Eastern Star and get them to join in the event. This committee was later enlarged by the addition of Ross Read, Lucius Wilson and Louis Wagoner. The O. E. S. order accepted and appointed a committee composed of Mrs. Alta Meyers, Mrs. Lucy Reason, Mrs. I. H. Lamb, Mrs. Edith Carr, Miss E. M. Martin and Mrs. Florence Braden to work with the committee of the Masonic lodge.

It was decided to hold a pot-luck banquet on Friday, April 30, to start at 7:00 P. M. Following this will be a program. Lucius Wilson will deliver an address to the boys and William Lamb will respond for them. The address to the girls will be made by Mrs. Alta Meyers and Miss Dorothy Ellis will respond. Following this the tables will be cleared away and the balance of the evening will be spent in dancing with plenty of old time dances for the older people. The Finlay Sisters of Fowlerville who have been paying at the Argentine dances all winter will furnish the music.

On account of the smallness of the hall the affair will be limited to Masons, Star, their sons and daughters and their guests. There will be no charge but a collection will be taken up to pay for the orchestra.

CIRCUIT COURT NEWS

Tuesday Judge Collins resumed the postponed March term. The docket was cleared in a hurry. The cases of Ernest Wellman and Frank Bernier of several years standing, was again postponed. They are charged with defrauding a widow woman in a stock deal. By continuously suspending sentence for some years it has been possible to collect some money from them. However, now Bernier has disappeared and cannot be found.

The following cases were put over to the next term: The People vs. Ralph Hall, appeal; People vs. Ralph Hadley, theft; People vs. John Bacon, negligent homicide; People vs. Ernest Pinkert, breaking and entering; People vs. R. B. Bennett, non-support, was continued and he was ordered to pay $7.50 per week for support of his child; Lester Gould, Louis Boyce and Herbert Sawyer had previously pled guilty to breaking and entering and were given a suspended sentence. The case of A. L. Bachman, charged with malicious destruction was dismissed. Floyd Shicks, charged with taking an auto was turned over to Washtenaw county for parole violation and was given two years in Ionia.

The case of Arthur Maitland, charged with issuing a check and then stopped payment on it was on trial Monday and they were still out Saturday noon. Prosecutor Bernier acted for The People and Hiram Smith represented Mr. Maitland. A default judgment for the plaintiff in the amount of $650.44 plus costs of $20 was given in the case of the First National Bank of Brighton vs. James Morgan and represented a note given by the defendant in 1933 with interest.

A decree of divorce was granted in the case of Christine vs. Bernard Schulthess, the case not being contested. The damage suit brought by Carlton Getzky against the Eastern Michigan Motor Buses was reported by the attorneys as settled out of court. Court resumed again Tuesday, April 13.

The Prairie Ramblers of Pinckney seem to be getting famous. Recently they were on the program at an entertainment given for the patients at the Michigan State Sanatorium. Last week they went to Brighton to play at the Ben Hur entertainment. They have reorganized and now consist of Jason, Marjorie, Howard and Jeanette Haines and Spencer Titus.

Last Friday night they were in Howell, playing at a banquet given by the Detroit Edison Co. for their employees.

PRAIRIE RAMBLERS IN DEMAND

The results of the recent spring election are still being analyzed. Many and devious are the conclusions. However, the press are all agreed that a great number of people were not sufficiently interested in the issues to go to the polls, as some 250,000 who voted last fall did not vote. It is to be doubted that the Supreme Court or sit-down strikes figured to any extent in the election. It is true that Genesee and Ingham counties, where sit-down strikes were waged, voted small Republican majorities. But Wayne county, where the bulk of the strikes were put on, was still Democratic by a large majority. As regards the supreme court issue it was heralded that victory for Justices Fead and North would constitute a repudiation of the Roosevelt reorganization measure. One was elected and one was defeated. Justice Fead, who is a great orator, was called upon to make several campaign speeches in which he lambasted the Roosevelt plan. Judge North made no speeches. It all boiled down amounts to the fact that the Democrats replaced five Republican office holders. Murray D. VanWagoner, running for re-election made a great showing. All of our exchanges carried headlines stating that he led the Democrat vote in their precinct. Even in Livingston county he finished ahead of Ed. Shields. Wonder what this county has against Ed. Shields that they snub him so? This is the second time they have refused one of their most famous sons, a majority.

The Detroit News says: Communism is the No. 1 propaganda word of the modern world, just as Socialism was 30 years ago. Leaders of dubious causes need only shout it loudly enough at an opponent to become convinced of their own righteousness. Recently there have been one or more horrible examples in this country. The case of Ray is not far different.

We have always refused to fall for the so-called communistic menace. Lucius Wilson once remarked that there are more people in Michigan with ingrown toe nails than there are communists. Communism only grows where there is ignorance and starvation and these conditions do not predominate here. We remember shortly after the World War the people were all a jitter over the communists. They did not know much about them and consequently this name was applied to everything objectionable. It became meaningless and was dropped from the language and it has been some years since we have seen it in print.

The No Sunday Hunting bill passed in this county by a small margin. It was defeated here by the voters. The argument in its favor was that city people flock here on Sunday, trespass, destroy property and destroy the game, thus depriving the residents of the county of that privilege. It seems to be forgotten that these same city people have purchased summer homes here and are a great source of the county's prosperity. The biggest fault with the bill we see is that it has started something. A No. Fishing on Sunday bill may follow. The same arguments can be used to support such a bill as were employed in the No. Sunday Hunting Law.

100 students from Morenci and Blenheim visited the Southern Michigan prison at Jackson last week. Their tour of the institution was suddenly terminated by Warden Joel Moore and they were ordered to leave. His reason was that what was intended as an educational tour was being turned into a Roman holiday and there were giggles, guffaw and during remarks were made to the prisoners. In a lecture he delivered to the students he said their unkind remarks only aroused bad feeling among the inmates and that girls should not be allowed to go through a prison where only men were confined. We have never understood why inmates of prisons should be viewed by the curious like lions or tigers in a zoo. Tours of the prisons were curtailed for a number of years except for responsible organizations and we did not know that the gates had been thrown open to the general public again.

We note that after some weeks of absence, Wally Simpson has made the front page again. This time it is owing to the fact that someone has poisoned her dog. It was a rather given her by the former King Edward and it died from a snake bite. He was rushed to a hospital at Tours, France, and the best doctors were called but in vain.

IS GIVEN JAIL SENTENCE

Louis Adaman, who came to stay at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sheehan a short time ago and accompanied with a suitcase of articles and a camera, belonging to the family, was arrested by Port Huron police and turned over to Livingston county officers. Saturday Justice Knapp sentenced him to 90 days in the county jail.

A Chinese Rule

Dr. Walter Williams used to tell about a speech he once made in a Chinese university, says the Independence (Mo.) Examiner. The Chinese writing is in symbols. At the back of the stage was a great blackboard and as the speaker proceeded the interpreter translated the speech into Chinese symbols on the blackboard. Dr. Williams noted that the interpreter stopped writing for most of his speech and at the conclusion asked, "How come?" The interpreter said blithely, "We only write down a speech when the speaker says something."

Don't Neglect Them!

Nature designed the kidneys to do a tremendous job. Their task is to keep the body free of poisons. The act of living—life—keeps the kidneys constantly working. When the kidneys fail to function as nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, nervous headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness around the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all the time.

Prevent, soothe or burning passage may be further evidence of kidney or bladder trouble.

The recognized and proper treatment for kidney trouble is to help the kidneys do their job. The only medicine that does this is Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are sold in every drug store. Look for the Doan's Pills logo on all drug stores.

DOAN'S PILLS

NEWS
from MICHIGAN

Quincy—A new mileage record was set here with the recent retirement of Arthur E. Rogers. Serving 32 years as mail carrier on route No. 1, he used four buggies and 14 automobiles to cover 297,500 miles on the route during that period.

Coral—Times marches on and the last blacksmith shop in this village is being torn down. Of historic fame, this smithy, built 60 years ago, housed the invention and patenting of the first garden seed drill in America by William Holcomb.

Marine City—Aftermath of being one of the season's first large ships to open navigation here, the 356-foot vessel "Fontana" on a recent trip ran out of the dredged channel and was grounded for seven hours. Lightly loaded, the ship suffered little damage.

Buchanan—Local merchants plan to pool surplus eggs with a Fort Wayne jobber to establish this city as a leading egg market in southwestern Michigan. Poultry men marketing their products here are promised a cent above current market prices.

St. Louis—The month of April marks the 30th anniversary of a change in legal procedure here. Remembered only by oldtimers, three decades ago local authorities held the term "drunk" to be undignified and ordered the word "intoxicated" substituted on all police records in cases where inebriation of the defendant was involved.

Holland—An ecclesiastical note was struck here recently, with the disclosure that the four highest ranking students of a total of 98, in the senior class at Hope College, were the sons of ministers. The class is one of the most brilliant in the history of the college, with 20 of its 98 members having an average of 90 or better.

Ypsilanti—Standing alone in possession of its name among cities of the United States, it would seem that Ypsilanti would be both easy to place and to remember. However, a recent survey by postal clerks brought to light some queer twists. Within a six-month observation period, 64 different spellings were noted on mail passing through the local postoffice.

Ludington—The adage that Michigan men make good was borne out again with the recent announcement that a former local newspaper man, R. Gordon Moffatt, is secretary and executive assistant to Dr. Allan Dafoe, of Dionne quintuplet fame. Born at St. Joseph, Moffatt came to Ludington in 1908. Two years later he became editor of the Lake County Star at Baldwin.

Old Mission—Robert Tompkins, local music teacher, believes that he has the largest band in Michigan composed entirely of rural school children. A year ago he had but half a dozen children enrolled. Now the organization numbers 70 and is growing rapidly. The band is widely known and last summer won first prize in its division at the national cherry festival held at Traverse City.

Lansing—Gov. Frank Murphy, in his role of automobile strike mediator, returned from a recent trip, carrying with him some first-hand information and views of sit-down strikes. Gov. Murphy was about to lunch in Detroit's Book-Cadillac Hotel. He had placed his order for a dish of shirred eggs and bacon with a waiter. The waiter took his order, glanced at the clock and drew back. "You can't have it, governor," said he. "We're going on strike now. You'd better leave."

Detroit—Latest New Yorkish and Palm Beach fad to strike the birthplace of the "gas buggy" is an announcement of the establishment of a "Society escort bureau" with a corps of 17 gigoles, a hand-picked crew of college men. According to the manager, any woman who wants to see the town and can pay the freight has only herself to blame if she remains lonely or has an unsatisfied itch for the bright lights of the night world. The nightly fee is six dollars, plus expenses.

Tecumseh—What is said to be a state record for efficiency has been set here by the volunteer fire department during the past 30 years. In that time, only one house and four barns have been destroyed by fire. Serving a population of nearly 2,500, the fire department numbers but 14 men, all employed in other businesses. One of their number is a paid driver. Speedy action is obtained by having an alarm system handled through the telephone operator, who sounds the siren, then calls each of the firemen.

Buchanan—Justice of the peace Lee Mathie has no use for the local jail. It seems that one of the last prisoners confined there tore up the plumbing, crawled through the hole into McCoy's creek and waded to liberty. Next, a drunk driver was placed in the jail to assure his sobriety the following day, when he was taken to St. Joseph for trial. All went well until Marshall Ed Mitchell went to collect his prisoner, found him in worse condition than before. Tramps had handed him a bottle through the bars.

WHO'S NEWS
THIS WEEK...

By Lemuel F. Parton

When Floods Subside

NEW YORK.—Two men in the news this week attest the fact that floods subside and wars end. It was only a few weeks ago that Churchill Downs was a dismal swamp. And now the Kentucky derby fanfare is on again, with the purse upped $50,000 and the durable Colonel Matt Winn taking bows for having lined up again all the truly illustrious three-year-olds in the country, flood or no flood.

Oh! Man River backs away, and there is assured a braver flare of silks and trumpets than ever before, as the pastures grow green again in Wall street and Kentucky.

This will be Colonel Winn's sixty-third Kentucky derby. He saw his first one in 1875, won by a little red horse called Aristides. He was a grocer's boy, watching the race from the tailboard of his employer's cart.

Being a romantic Irish lad, the excitement never stopped boiling. After that, he never could keep his mind on his groceries. He has had many a run-around in the racing business, but, at seventy-five, he isn't the least bit track-sore. As president of the Kentucky Jockey club and executive director of Churchill Downs, he rides recurrent floods like Noah and always finds dry land.

In 1907, the late James Butler opened the Empire City track, and the nabobs of racing hereabouts refused to recognize it. Mr. Butler signed up Colonel Winn to run it. In eight months it was given full recognition.

When Charles Evans Hughes squelched racing in New York state, Colonel Winn tried his fortune in racing and management at Juarez, Mexico, with unhappy results. He returned to Kentucky, where he just naturally belongs, and now he just about runs racing in Kentucky and Illinois. He is president of the American Turf association, which controls not only Churchill Downs, but also the tracks of Chicago and Laurel, Md.

The years paw at the Colonel's robust person the way the river paws at the track. So far, neither has won a decision. The Godolphin Arab, ancestor of all the Bangtails, was never more alive than the white haired Colonel Winn, with his genial, round face, up-tilted Irish nose and bright, twinkling eyes.

Proof the War is Over.

IT IS Dr. William R. Valentiner, curator of the Detroit Institute of Art, who provides this week's reminder that the war's over. As one of the most authoritative and highly respected art critics of the country, he passes as authentic the lost Rembrandt "Juno" portrait, which arrived in New York recently. Seventeen years ago, there was considerable public concern as to whether Dr. Valentiner should be allowed to return to this country. This writer dredged up a most intemperate editorial on that subject—Yellow with age and strangely unreal in the world of today.

Dr. Valentiner, frock-coated and dignified curator of decorative arts at the Metropolitan museum, had been in Germany when the war started. He remained to fight for Germany. He was an artilleryman, twice decorated.

He wrote happily to his confreres at the museum that his elevation to the rank of vice-sergeant major relieved him from currying his own horse. He resigned from the museum when we entered the war.

Before coming to America, he had attained distinction as a curator at the Hague and at the Royal museums of Berlin. He became one of the world authorities on Rembrandt.

He contends that, of the 175 supposed Rembrandts in the United States and Canada, only forty-eight are genuine—incidentally, worth $50,000,000, as "time and the river" roll on for 350 years.

Campos the Conqueror

A NOTHER Harvard man in the news—also in jail. The incarcerated Pedro Albizu Campos has been the spark plug, or main irritant, of the incipient revolution in Puerto Rico, flaring up again at San Juan with seven killed and fifty injured.

A wavy-haired mulatto with Valentino sideburns, pearl-button shoes and a Harvard degree, he has aspired to become the Henri Christophe of Latin America, spilling sesquipedalian words over eleven countries. His father was a Basque and his mother Spanish, Negro and Indian. He is frail in physique, of café con leche coloring, passionately intense and racked with patriotic fervor.

Last month, the nationalist party, leading the present agitation for independence, again elected him president. Several years ago, he started his movement with a black shirt army with wooden guns. His arrest and trial for sedition, with seven others last July, has kept Puerto Rico boiling ever since.

Smart, Flattering Dresses

MRS. DICK EVANS has come to town and brought Ann and Eddie LeRoy with her. She lives in Palm Beach in the wintertime and, of course, knows all about style. That's why she wears this director type frock that is both new and figure flattering. In the floral print she has chosen she is perfectly gowned for the parties that will be given for her in the home town. The kiddies are wearing the simple styles appropriate to childhood and therein their smartness lies.

Auntie Rose Sews, Too.

Little Ann is asking Auntie Rose if she makes her clothes too. "Sure enough, dear," comes the reply. "I made this percale for mornings and have a beauty in yellow crepe cut from the same pattern to wear to the Bid-or-Bi meetings."

"I'll bet you can sew fast, too, the way Mother does. It only took her two mornings to make Eddie's suit and my dress. Won't you help me with my doll clothes now?"

"Indeed I will, Ann, and then we will have some of those oatmeal cookies you like for lunch."

WASHINGTON NEWSLETTER

By Congressman Andrew J. Transue
Sixth District, Michigan.

Double Condemnation
While the Senate passed a two-fold resolution that condemned sit-down strikes along with industrial spy systems and the refusal of employers to allow workers to bargain collectively, the House of Representatives last week refused to approve a one-sided investigation of labor disputes. The Senate's concurrent resolution will be considered by the House Labor Committee this week.

By a vote of 75 to 3 the Senate declared sit-down strikes were illegal and at the same time disapproved industrial espionage that "breeds fear, suspicion and animosity, tends to cause strikes and is contrary to sound public policy, and it is likewise contrary to sound public policy for any employer to deny the right of collective bargaining, to foster company unions or engage in any other unfair labor practice as defined by the National Labor Relations Act." This resolution was passed after the Senate refused to attach a rider on the coal regulation bill to proscribe sit-down strikes where sit-down strikes have never been staged.

In a tumultuous session the House of Representatives rejected a resolution to set up a committee of investigation to consider, among other things, "the efforts made by local and state authorities to prevent such sit-down strikes." The majority objected to arbitrary regulations under which the bill was considered. No amendments were permitted on the resolutions and only one hour of debate was allowed for this important question, with the result that many Representatives with first hand information about the strike problem were unable to speak on the question. The resolution was tabled after the test vote was tabulated.

Conference Ordered
Quick action is anticipated in the disposition of the Guffey-Vinson bill to regulate the soft coal industry. Both House and Senate have passed coal regulation bills, but slight differences will require a joint conference to adjust the discrepancies. Among the changes suggested in this bill after the House of Representatives had voted approval, is the exemption of cooperatives and captive mines.

Welfare Costs
President Roosevelt will send his budget message to Congress this week. The message will reveal the estimated cost of relief to the nation during the ensuing year. Leaders of the Administration in the House and the Senate have expressed the hope that there will be no need for new taxes this year. This expectation is qualified with the reservation that no unforeseen appropriations would be approved.

Legal Preference
With the defeat of an anti-lynching measure introduced by Congressman Mitchell of Illinois the way was cleared for consideration this week on the Gavanan anti-lynching bill. This bill was forced out of Committee by 218 signatures of Representatives including your Congressman and most of the Michigan delegation in the House. Sponsors of anti-lynching legislation insisted that the Mitchell measure was a weakened and diluted compromise. Before defeating the Mitchell bill the House overruled a resolution to start an investigation of subversive activities in the United States.

Direct Loans
The House Agriculture Committee last week favorably reported a substitute farm tenancy bill to provide $30,000,000 a year for five years to be loaned to tenants for the purchase of farms. The original bill had the same appropriation for the purpose of enabling the government to buy the land and then resell the farms to the tenants. The bill includes an additional $75,000,000 for each of the next two years for rehabilitation purposes and $70,000,000 to be spent over a four year span to allow the government to retire submarginal lands.

Popular Baby Books
One of the busiest places in Washington is the Government printing department which prints all government documents and publications. The department's best publication on the basis of popularity, is the book on "Infant Care" prepared by the Children's Bureau of the Labor department. More than 10,000,000 copies of this book, which is available to parents in the Sixth Congressional District of Michigan, have been printed.

A STILL FROZEN DESSERT THAT'S DIFFERENT

MARY is one of those clever homemakers who is always the first one in her community to introduce new ideas and new recipes. This time she is serving Still Frozen Cinnamon Apple Sauce. Wouldn't you like her recipe?

To 1½ cups hot sweetened apple sauce add 3 tablespoons red cinnamon candies and ¼ teaspoon salt; stir until candies are dissolved. Chill. Fold in 1 cup whipping cream (whipped) and 1 stiffly beaten egg white. Pour into freezing container of still ice cream freezer. Cover and pack with mixture of 3 parts chipped ice and 1 part salt, by volume. Cover freezer and place in ice refrigerator. Freeze approximately 1 hour, stirring occasionally. The quick-freezing (made possible by the ice and salt mixture) is the secret of making this velvety smooth-textured dessert.

COST OF OPERATING AN ELECTRIC RANGE

Family of 3

$1.70 per month

This figure is a 4-month's average (October, November, December and January) of actual cooking costs in families of three persons, at the rate of 2 1/4 cents (net) per kw-hr. Special record meters were installed on these customers' ranges to determine actual cooking costs, and the figure above — about 1/2-cent a person — is the result. This is the AVERAGE of the cost figures obtained. Some of the actual costs were higher, some were lower. The cost of operating your range will vary with the amount of cooking done, and with the use of retained heat and the waterless cooking method.

Electric Cooking is not expensive!

* These latest figures on the cost of operating an electric range show an average of about ONE-HALF A CENT a meal a person. Actual meter tests were made in homes using electric ranges. The cost figure is obtained under everyday working conditions in ordinary kitchens... the ranges are used by women cooking meals daily for families of three, four and five people, or larger. In the survey, 5 well-known makes and 9 different models of electric ranges were included. These tests prove conclusively that electric cooking is not expensive. 10,000 of your neighbors chose electric cooking during the year 1936. CONSERVATION NOTES

The conservation department has been busy enforcing the law which prohibits the cutting of timber on lands which are tax delinquent.

Because of more favorable moisture conditions in the Mackinac and Lake Superior forest reserves, the pine seeding planting program will be concentrated here. Between 6,000 and 7,000 acres will be planted.

The following will judge the 10,000 wildlife photographs submitted by the high school pupils of Michigan. Jack VanCoeveering, Detroit; Ben East, Grand Rapids; Walter Hastings, Howell; Mrs. Alice Erwin, Harbor Springs; Glen McDonald, Bay City.

Believing that the number of moose on Isle Royale will now be able to survive from now on, Paul Hickie, chief mammalogist of the conservation department will recommend suspension of live trapping activities. This herd which numbered 3,000 seven years ago has now dwindled to 300. This decrease was due to food shortage.

Seventy and bob cats will be sold at auction by this department on April 27.

The Buckeye oil field in Gladwin county is now Michigan's greatest producer. It is now running 18,000 barrels a day. The Porter-Yost field in Midland county is running 13,000 a day.

Another Long Lake has been removed from the list by changing the name of the one in White Lake township to Brendel.

Michigan now has over 200 fish and conservation clubs. A wild life rarity is observed in the 35,000 acre game reserve at Allegan. 15 male deer are still carrying their 1936 antlers.

High climbers cards will be given out this year by state fire towermen to visitors who climb the fire towers.

A moose has been reported for the first time in decades near Beaton Lake in Gogebic county.

For some time fishermen have complained of the small size of the trout in the Little Manistique river in Lake county. The department fenced off part of the stream with fine wire mesh and examined the trout. It was found that rainbow trout predominated and their average length was 4 1/2 inches larger than the trout taken in 1930. Also that most of them were young fish.

CASE AND GOVERNOR STRANGERS TO COME

The capitol, its officials and affairs of state generally, touch but lightly upon thousands of Michigan's residents, Leon D. Case, Secretary of State, is finding out.

The Department's mailing division has reported to him that letters addressed to previous Secretaries of State who held office as long as 20 years ago, are still being received. While old forms and printed envelopes mailed from out-state points explain some of these oddities, the majority of the letters are hand-addressed and mailed in Michigan.

The late Coleman C. Vaughn, Secretary of State from 1915 to 1920, is still addressed from time to time on official, routine matters. An average of five letters a day are received for Charles J. DeLand, who occupied that office from 1921 to 1926. John S. Haggerty, in office from 1927 to 1930, is still in office in the minds of some, and his successors prior to Mr. Case, hold over the others, letters indicate.

Such experience is not new for state departments, but even the Governor doesn't entirely escape. A record of some kind was recently established by a Michigan resident who sent a letter to Gov. Chase S. Osborn, who held that office from 1911 to 1913. It was examined by Gov. Frank Murphy's executive staff with considerable interest.

This lack of interest or attention to public matters and officials, is not confined to older people. During the recent Chrysler strike negotiations some students from Michigan, in institution of higher education, toured the capitol and heard, for the first time, of the strike parley and the sit-down strike which had brought it on.

TOUCHING OFF THE CRAZY STREAK IN PEOPLE

Professor Donald A. Laird, of Colgate University, explains, in The American Weekly, with the April 18 issue of The Detroit Sunday Times, how trivialities may arouse hidden manias in apparently normal people, driving them to irrational and often cruel acts.

Spirit of Service

A SERVICE that is vital to public welfare puts a special responsibility on those who supply it. Many workers recognize such an obligation. And they include the 8500 men and women behind your telephone in Michigan.

Time and again telephone employees have shown self-sacrifice in the public interest, have faced danger with courage and perseverance. The operator choosing to stay at her switchboard during fire or flood; the plant man maintaining circuits in a heavy storm—their devotion to duty has become a tradition.

Emergencies bring them to your attention, but their spirit of service is in effect day and night, week in and week out. They know the public importance of their work. And they do it well—with skill, promptness and courtesy.

Without that spirit, Michigan would not have the kind of service it is getting today—as fine telephone service as there is available anywhere in the world.

When making a dress, sew a piece of the material on the underneath side of the hem. Then if the dress ever needs a patch, one which matches the dress exactly will be available.

When making pie crust ahead of time, instead of leaving it in a lump, just roll it out and fit into pie pans. Then stack up the pastry-lined pans with wax paper between, and store in ice refrigerator. This enables one to make one-crust pies in record time.

Instead of spending a great deal of time peeling small potatoes, boil them with the skins on in salt water, then put them through a potato ricer. The skins stay in the ricer, so there is little waste and a lot of time is saved.

To make an attractive set of kitchen canisters, try this idea: save cans of various sizes that have lids and paint the lids and cans in contrasting colors to harmonize with your kitchen. Cut out designs in shape of teapot, sugar bowl, etc., and paste on the cans. Then shellac over the design.

A CHOCOLATE NUT COOKIE RECIPE that you'll want to try: Melt 2 ounces of unsweetened chocolate and 1/2 cup of shortening over low flame. Cool slightly. Add 1 cup of brown sugar and 1 well-beaten egg; mix thoroughly. Then mix and sift together 3 cups of flour, 2 teaspoons of baking powder, and 1/2 teaspoon salt and add alternately with 1/2 cup of milk. Add 1 cup broken nut meats. Then place in a modern ice refrigerator and reserve for future use. The mixture will not dry out or absorb odors in a modern ice refrigerator. When ready to bake, remove from refrigerator and drop by teaspoonfuls on ungreased baking sheet. Bake in a moderate oven (375°) for 15 minutes.

If the baby tosses his toys on the floor just fasten these toys on strings and hang them on each side of his high chair just off the floor. Then change the toys frequently.

M-m-m! A Lemon Sherbert Recipe. Combine 1 1/2 cups of granulated sugar and 1 quart of water and boil for 5 minutes. Soak 1 tablespoon of gelatin in 2 tablespoons of cold water and dissolve in the hot syrup. Cool. Add 1/2 cup of lemon juice and a few drops of yellow food coloring. Pour mixture into freezing container of still ice cream freezer. Cover and surround with a mixture of chopped ice and salt (3 parts ice to 1 part salt, by volume). Cover freezer. Place in modern ice refrigerator. When partially frozen, make a meringue of 2 egg whites and 2 tablespoons of powdered sugar and add. Freeze about 1 hour. Stir at 15-minute intervals.

Cracked ice, in an ice bag or wrapped in a cloth, will often cure a headache when applied to the head, neck, or soles of the feet. Use manufactured ice, because it is frozen solidly and will last much longer than other ice.

You don't have to go around slipping on icy streets. To avoid this, stick some adhesive tape on the bottoms of your rubbers or galoshes.

Here's an "easy-to-do" idea that will give the small kiddies a treat. Make a batch of their favorite fudge and when it has been beaten just enough, drop spoonfuls of it on vanilla wafers. Then place an animal cracker, standing up, in the fudge on each wafer.

Many times in this column I have brought out the fact that courtesy is a very important item in the prevention of automobile accidents. Personally, I believe that through the practice of courtesy on the part of pedestrians and the automobile driver, 99 per cent of our accidents could be avoided.

these things occasionally but this was the first time I had personally had an opportunity to see it. The section of this driver not only built up good will towards the firm he represented, but he impressed me with the fact that courtesy will prevent accidents. Had he been reckless, careless, or had he taken seriously the fact that the "Go" sign was with him, this old lady might have been involved in an accident.

Courtesy builds good will—courtesy prevents accidents. Try it!

TONS OF FOODS EATEN BY COEDS

Palates and hunger were well satisfied, if the tons of food consumed in Mary Mayo women's dormitory dining room at Michigan State College can be used for a guide.

The 200 girls consumed 6,942 gallons of milk and 5,860 pounds of butter in addition to cream and ice cream supplied by the college dairy in the last school year. A survey was conducted by Mildred Jones, instructor in institution management at the college, to determine of the menus were containing sufficient variety and proper foods.

More than 30,000 oranges were supplemented with grapefruit and tangerines during the year. More than five tons of fresh vegetables other than potatoes went into kitchen, and fresh fruits were used in addition to canned supplies.

Potatoes had a total weight of 20,505 pounds. A little more than an egg a day meant orders for 4,035 fresh eggs. American cheese and cottage cheese, plus meat, fish and some poultry were additions to the diet. The menus, according to the survey, were ample as far as present knowledge of the nutrition needs of the average healthy adult are known.

Other foods included head lettuce, approximately one head of lettuce served each person each week. Whole grain cereal products were placed with refined cereal products on the tables and students eating in the dining rooms were encouraged to choose.

Beef served in meals weighed more than 5,300 pounds, pork more than 3,200 pounds, bananas more than 3,300 pounds and cabbage about the same amount. As for spinach, they ate more than 1,100 pounds of this vegetable purchased fresh and freshened their breath with 610 pounds of onions.

WATER SPOTS ON NEW SPRING CLOTHES

Among the all too familiar signs of spring are water spots and mud stains on new spring clothes. April raindrops are likely to leave their marks on silk frocks and coat linings while mud splashes may linger on skirts and hose, according to Eleanor Cramer, clothing specialist of Michigan State College.

Water spots have several causes. The water may dissolve the dressing in the silk fabric and float it out to the dry edge of the spot, leaving a ring. Or the water may shrink the fibers and make the part of the fabric that has been wet look different from the rest. Or the moisture may remove the luster on the fabric which was caused by pressing. Sometimes water spots will disappear if rubbed with a coin or fingernail or even with a piece of cloth, followed with pressing under a damp cloth or slightly dampened tissue paper. If the spot is caused simply by loss of luster, a good pressing may be the only treatment necessary.

Francis Battle of Howell was a patient at the McPherson Hospital, Howell last week. He twisted some ligaments in his leg.

Wealth and Fame

TO ONE looking out over a world of human endeavor, it may appear that the chief objective of men is to acquire material wealth and fame. While some may be striving to procure daily meals, others may seek to be heard by their neighbors, while others strive to be heard by nations. And because of erroneous mortal beliefs men often work strenuously for material wealth and fame, giving little thought to the gaining of genuine substance, that which alone sustains and prospers man.

To the materially minded, to darkened mortal sense, wealth and fame may mean merely perishable gold and personal glory, while to the spiritually enlightened they mean something far greater. They mean true substance and honor—imperishable, impersonal, and eternal. In either case, wealth and fame are two significant words.

Since God is infinite good, spiritual and eternal, can that which has only a material or temporal existence be truly good? If wealth is good, it must be of God; therefore, it is not material but spiritual, not temporal but eternal, not uncertain and perishable but certain and imperishable. Genuine wealth lies in spiritual understanding.

Did not Christ Jesus say (Matthew 6:33), "Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you"? And these words have a very simple meaning. They mean that if we seek to know and understand God aright, every human need will be abundantly met.

Now the word "fame" is defined, in part, by our dictionaries as "lofty (or exalted) reputation derived from great achievements." What achievements could be greater than healing the sick and raising the dead as did Jesus of Nazareth? Was it not surely a great achievement to feed five thousand with "but five loaves, and two fishes" at hand, and to have much food remaining after all had eaten. It is recorded that as Christ Jesus went about Galilee "healing all manner of sickness," "his fame went throughout all Syria" (Matthew 4:23, 24). No spiritual achievements can be greater than those of the master Christian.

The wealthiest, most famed, and most powerful individual ever to dwell among men was Christ Jesus, yet he possessed little of the world's riches. This, however, did not prevent him from meeting every human need, even for the multitudes who turned to him for help.

All will agree that power is resident in Truth. And we learn through Christian Science that God is Truth, and that God is substance. Hence, genuine substance, including wealth, honor, and potency, is purely spiritual; therefore eternal. The Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, Mary Baker Eddy, says in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" (p. 468), "Substance is that which is eternal and incapable of discord and decay." Jesus proved substance to be God, good; hence harmonious and permanent.

He who possesses a true understanding of God and of man's relationship to Him, and sincerely strives to live the divine precepts, is vastly richer than he who may have gained great worldly possessions or mere personal popularity, but does not know God. Solomon humbly sought first of all "an understanding heart" that he might "discern between good and bad" (I Kings 3:9). Solomon was wise, indeed, for the record continues, assuring us that God not only gave Solomon "an understanding heart," but "both riches, and honor." In his parable (Luke 12:16-21) Jesus tells of "a certain rich man" who believed he had "much goods laid up for many years," and decided to build greater storage facilities for his rapidly accumulating wealth; but "God said unto him, Thou fool, this night thy soul shall be required of thee; and the parable continues, 'So is he that layeth up treasure for himself, and is not rich toward God.'"

Mrs. Eddy wrote (The First Church of Christ, Scientist, and Miscellany, pp. 283, 284), "Lured by fame, pride, or gold, success is dangerous, but the choice of folly never fastens on the good or the great." Indeed, it is not sinful to express abundance or to be known and loved. Such achievements, however, should be the fruit of Christianly scientific demonstration, else one has a very uncertain claim to them. Whatever spiritual good one may acquire through his understanding of the Christ, Truth, is imperishable. As one gains true understanding he grows rich in genuine substance, including wealth and honor, health and joy, harmony and prosperity.—The Christian Science Monitor.

SYNOPSIS

Jim Fielding, one of the "lost generation" who had left college in the depression and is unable to find a job, arrives at Glendale to visit his friends the MacPhersons. Mac had formerly been gardener at his late uncle's estate and now works for T. E. Vaughn of "Meadowbrook." Jim is tired of being supported by his married sister Kay. While he still can marry Lenore, an attractive divorcee who is in love with him and have an easy life because of her wealth, his mind rebels. Stopping at the village drug store for a sandwich, he meets Dolly, a pretty soda fountain girl. When he inquires about the Vaughns, she asks if he is a friend of "Cecily's." She also entrusts a message to Tommy, young son of the family and tells him how to reach the Vaughn's estate. Approaching the house, Jim encounters a tomboyish little girl, fishing. She is startled and falls in the brook. Incensed at first, she discovers she liked Jim and he learns that she is Susan Vaughn. He discovers Cecily is her older sister. He sees Tommy, a youth of eighteen who imagines he is in love with Dolly. Jim explains his impecunious position to the MacPhersons. They tell him that Mr. Vaughn is a doctor, but from a nervous breakdown and has been a widower since Susan was a little child. Mrs. MacPherson suggests that Mac give Jim a job as handyman. Jim goes for a walk to think it over and picks up a horse shoe. Soon Cecily, a lovely young girl, appears, riding a limping horse. Jim scolds her when he sees the animal has thrown a shoe. There is an angry scene. Jim's ire cools and he is intrigued as he thinks about her. He tells the MacPhersons he wants to stay and assumes his duties as handyman.

He didn't learn a great deal, however, merely that the object of Cecily's interest was "artistic." That might mean anything, of course, though, later, he heard something about a summer theater and the word "bohemian" pronounced by Miss Parker with fastidious distaste. He learned, too, that Mr. Vaughn had forbidden Cecily to have anything to do with the undesirable young man under pain of penalties hinted but not detailed. He reviewed Dolly's references to a mythical rival in the light of the conversation he had overheard. Was the "that guy" to whom Dolly had scathingly alluded, the artistic young man whom Miss Parker had mentioned? "What Cecily sees in him?" Perhaps he'd better stop in at the drug-store.

He hadn't seen Dolly since the afternoon of his arrival. He hadn't delivered her message to Tommy. The storm breaking at twilight had canceled its importance. He had an idea that Dolly would not be offended by his negligence. His desultory acquaintance with Tommy convinced him that the affair with Dolly, if there was an affair, was important only to Tommy.

Dolly, however, bore no malice. When Jim went into the drug-store, one morning, to have a prescription filled for Mr. Vaughn, she greeted him with a jaunty, "Hello, Mr. Barrymore!"

Jim assumed an engaging air of contrition.

"No," he said with a slow, somewhat sheepish smile. "I'm the extra man in and about the house."

Dolly's eyes narrowed and crinkled.

"You're Jim," she said, returning his smile. "The new man out at the Vaughn's."

"How did you know?"

"Tommy told me." She perched on a stool behind the fountain, pert as Jim had remembered her, friendly, amusing. "It's funny," she continued, "the day you came in here, I thought you were a friend of the Vaughns. You looked—"

"I'd just had a hair-cut," Jim countered.

Dolly considered for a moment. Then she leaned toward him across the fountain and asked in a confidential undertone, "What's the idea, Mister? Is it a bet?"

Jim shook his head.

"Don't you read the papers? There's a depression," he said.

"Oh!" Her expression changed. "I'm sorry," she said slowly. "It's none of my business anyway."

Again her eyes glinted teasingly between thickly mascaraed lashes. "Are you a good hired man?" she asked.

"I'm improving," Jim replied. "And by the way, I'm indebted to you for the job."

"To me?"

"To you," Jim replied. "You sent me out to the Vaughn place with—What's his name? The speed demon with the sandy hair?"

"Herbert," she smiled.

"You're responsible. What are you going to do about it?"

"Must I do anything?"

"You must let me pay my debt, at least. What evenings are you free?"

"Mondays and Fridays—to you."

"Good! I'll arrange something."

She smiled. "Okay, Mister!"

"But what about Tommy?" Jim asked. "Perhaps I'll be risking my job."

"Oh, Tommy!" She grimaced laughingly. "Isn't he the man about town? He's cute, though," she added, "and useful sometimes. I can dodge Tommy. He thinks I spend my evenings reading."

Customers claimed her attention then.

Jim promised himself the pleasure of spending an evening with Dolly at some undetermined date in the immediate future. Meanwhile he devoted his attention to his assorted duties. He discovered, surprisingly, as he became accustomed to the vagaries of the household, that he was happy at "Meadowbrook."

telegrams, ranging from a mildly facetious "Come home all is forgiven" to persistent demands for information. He wrote her a letter, being careful to give her no idea of the nature of his position. She'd turn up sometime, of course.

He wrote to Lenore. The letter gave him a great deal of difficulty. He destroyed a quantity of stationery, sitting at MacPherson's desk in the living-room of the cottage. At intervals he swore.

Well, he had submitted to it, hadn't he? No use kidding himself. Lenore was attractive. He liked her. Then what? At any rate, he had no intention of making a definite break. This was a temporary arrangement. He would write of his position amusingly. Lenore would understand.

Would she? The question, recurring at intervals, was a source of annoyance to Jim. Lenore had glorified the memory of his youthful devotion during the years of her unhappy marriage. He'd never been able to tell her that his feeling for her had changed. She should have sensed the difference. Perhaps she had but wouldn't admit it. Women had a devastating capacity for deceiving themselves.

Oh, well! He wrote to her, finally. The letter was not satisfactory. It lacked entirely the touch he thought it should have. What was the difference? He probably wouldn't be permitted to remain at "Meadowbrook." When the Princess returned, that imperious young lady named Cecily, she'd probably see to it that he was discharged at once. That was why he thought of her at intervals, why he wondered when she was coming home.

He had no warning of her arrival. If he had gone to the garage that morning, he would have seen her roadster there between the sedan and the station wagon. He did not go to the garage. After breakfast, he went about his task of sweeping the terrace.

Jim thought of how pleasant the early morning was when one had become accustomed to rising at half past six. Birds were singing. Cobwebs sparkled on the grass. The wind was cool and fragrant.

The screen door opened and there she was, slender and trim in heavy cord jodhpurs and a shirt of whisp cream-colored silk. Jim glanced at her fleetingly from the far end of the terrace and hastily turned his back.

"Good morning!" she called in a clear gay voice.

Jim did not reply. He whistled loudly and made swishing sounds with the broom.

"Will you saddle 'Lady' for me?" she asked pleasantly. "I'll nip in and have some breakfast."

Jim felt that the request demanded a reply. He turned. She looked at him. For a moment her expression was puzzled. Then she recognized him.

"Oh!" she said, not quite so gaily. "It's the S. P. C. A.!"

"Good morning, Miss Cecily."

Jim's manner was deferential. He saw that her eyes were flashing. Good - by to independence, he thought. Good-by to "Meadowbrook."

When she spoke her voice was crisp and cool.

"I thought you were the stable man," she said. "He's been doing this. Who are you?"

"Jim," he replied, "the new extra man," and he couldn't resist adding, "in and about the house."

"Oh!" She appeared to deliberate for a moment.

She said nothing and turned toward the door.

Jim ventured a question. "Shall I saddle the mare for you?" he asked.

"No, thank you!" She stood at the door, her hands in her pockets, her chin lifted, her eyes flickering over Jim. "So you're the new man," she said at length. "You're more decorative than the last one. I wonder how long you'll stay!"

CHAPTER IV

The mental picture of his employer which Jim had drawn was correct in only one particular. He was querulous to an extreme. In other respects, however, Jim's imagination had erred. Mr. Vaughn, discounting the traces of recent illness, was a rather handsome man and not beyond the early fifties. He had graying dark hair, keen hazel eyes, attractive clear-cut features.

Jim found him settled in an arm chair in the living-room, one morning as he came in with the mail. Mr. Vaughn wore a dressing gown of maroon colored silk.

Mr. Vaughn glanced up from the magazine.

"Mail?" he asked briefly.

"Yes, sir."

"Here!" The voice was impatient. Jim walked across the room to the arm chair. Mr. Vaughn took the letters, ruffled through them, ran a searching glance over the table beside the chair.

"Where's the paper knife?" he asked irritably. "Where is Miss Parker?"

"Miss Parker is in the garden," Jim replied. "Shall I call her?"

"Never mind. Find the paper knife. Maybe it's on the desk."

The knife was on the desk.

"Would you like me to open the letters?" Jim asked when he had returned to the chair.

Mr. Vaughn glanced up at him. He was obviously surprised.

"If you please," he said, a shade more amiably.

"You're the new man, aren't you?"

"Yes, sir," Jim replied.

"MacPherson told me he had engaged one. What's your name?"

"Jim—Jim Fielding."

"How long have you been here?"

"Two weeks."

"That's usually the limit," Mr. Vaughn said dryly. "Getting on all right?"

"I think so."

"Good!" Mr. Vaughn's attention turned to the letters and Jim, feeling himself dismissed, went out of the room.

After the first morning, opening the letters for Mr. Vaughn became a part of the duties of the day. Mr. Vaughn frequently detained Jim for conversation.

In the course of time Jim received an unexpected promotion.

"Can you use a typewriter?" Mr. Vaughn asked one morning when the mail had been especially heavy.

"Not expertly, by any means," Jim replied. "I've made an attempt now and then."

"Have a try at it, will you? I'm not permitted to have a secretary from the office. Suppose we steal a march on the doctor."

Mr. Vaughn smiled with a conspirator's guile at Jim. "Let's see how it goes."

A movable office was established, in the game room on threatening days, in fair weather on the side veranda roofed thickly with vines.

Mr. Vaughn attempted to dictate slowly enough for Jim to take the letters in long-hand. The process was irksome.

"I think I could write without dictation," Jim suggested, "if you'll give me the information."

Mr. Vaughn glanced at him quickly, appraisingly. "No harm trying," he conceded.

The first letter was moderately successful.

"Hm! Not bad," Mr. Vaughn conceded.

So, for an hour or two each morning, Jim the extra man, became Jim the secretary. He judged that the letters he wrote were not extremely important. The real business of the financing corporation of which his employer was president, was transacted by the office in Philadelphia. This pretense of activity was merely a form of diversion.

Mr. Vaughn missed the office and the normal routine to which he was accustomed.

Mrs. MacPherson was delighted when Jim told her of his part-time promotion.

"You see!" she said, addressing her husband. "I told you Jim was smart. There's no telling what it may lead to."

Jim laughed and MacPherson said mildly, "Now, Bessie, don't start to romance."

Mrs. MacPherson bridled.

"Why not, I'd like to know?" she inquired of the gentlemen facing each other across a checker board in the living-room of the cottage.

"If Jim makes himself useful to Mr. Vaughn it may lead to a position."

Jim had no faith in Mrs. MacPherson's prophecy. He did not expect future advantages from his employer. When he thought of the future it was not in connection with "Meadowbrook." This was merely an interlude, a period of readjustment.

The part-time job had its points. The hours Jim spent with Mr. Vaughn relieved him from more menial duties.

In one respect, however, Mr. Vaughn amazed and puzzled Jim. His attitude toward his children was one of helpless bewilderment. Jim surmised that he had never before lived with them so closely and continuously as this summer when convalescence kept him a prisoner on the estate. He had no patience with Susan and Tommy. He approached Cecily warily as though she were a bomb likely to explode at any moment. There was no humor or understanding in his relationship with his family. He threatened and blustered to no effect and in rare moments of intimacy and affection was visibly ill at ease.

There was a knack, Jim thought, in getting along with children. The MacPhersons had it. Mr. Vaughn obviously, did not. The result was a series of conflicts which played havoc with the household.

Jordan tells me Tommy isn't studying," Mr. Vaughn said one morning. "Lazy young cub! If he doesn't work off those conditions he'll be a year behind his class. Why does he suppose I pay a tutor?"

Jim made no reply. He knew that none was expected. The attitude of an employer toward a familiar dependent was curious, he thought. You weren't a reasoning human being. You were an excuse for letting off steam.

Tommy was trying. Mr. Jordan, the rector in the village, was probably justified in making complaints. But blustering and threatening wasn't the way to manage the boy. Oh, well, it was none of his business.

Tranquillity was presently restored. Mr. Vaughn returned to the correspondence.

The tranquillity, however, was not of long duration. It was shattered by Tommy's unexpected appearance. Mr. Vaughn looked up from a blueprint showing the proposed addition to the stable. Jim applied himself to the typewriter keys.

"I Overslept," He Replied, Resting Upon His Spine.

Mr. Vaughn frowned at his son and heir.

"Why aren't you at Mr. Jordan's?" he asked sternly.

Tommy sank lower into the chair. "I overslept," he replied, resting upon his spine.

Mr. Vaughn rejected the bait.

"Aw, gee, Dad," Tommy protested. "Nobody could learn enough to suit him. I don't think dates are important, do you?"

"I'd advise you to learn some of them," Mr. Vaughn said crisply. "To assist you, I'll provide an alarm clock."

"Thanks," Tommy said amiably. "I certainly need one. Dad. Nobody ever bothers to call me."

"And," his father interrupted, "you can bring your books down here and study until luncheon. Jim will keep an eye on you. Until luncheon, Jim."

"Yes, sir," Jim replied, not very well pleased with the prospect of policing Tommy.

"Now go get your books, young man."

"All right." He retired with an air of offended dignity a little marred by stubbing his toe in a crack between the bricks. Mr. Vaughn glanced at Jim.

"What's the matter with the boy?" he said wearily.

"Growing pains," Jim smiled. "They aren't serious. He'll get over them after a while."

"I hope so," Mr. Vaughn looked harassed. "They've gotten out of hand. All of them," he continued irritably. "Cecily, Tommy, Susan."

The thought of his combined responsibilities seemed to overwhelm him. He was silent for an interval. Jim, too, was silent. Suddenly Mr. Vaughn thumped the table.

"They need discipline!" he said grimly. "It's time I took them in hand."

Jim found himself sympathizing with the children. He was too closely involved with the affairs of the Vaughn's to maintain a detached attitude toward the household. Detachment, in any situation, was impossible for Jim. His warm sympathies, his interest in people, his tendency to follow the impulse of the moment, forced him, involuntarily, to take sides. It was difficult to convey a surface impression of disinterested neutrality in the daily clashes between Mr. Vaughn and his family, especially difficult in the matter of a letter which Jim opened for his employer entirely by mistake.

The scene, once again, was the side veranda under the roof of vines. The time was the morning following the interview with Tommy. Jim sat before a typewriter waiting for Mr. Vaughn to conclude his leisurely perusal of the mail. A startled exclamation caught his attention. The exclamation was followed by a question, directed, presumably, at Jim.

AROUND the HOUSE

Items of Interest to the Housewife

A Mirror Brightens—Many housekeepers have found that a hanging mirror will often brighten up a dark corner.

To Remove a Tight Lid—Tie a piece of string round the tin two or three times, just below the lid; then push a pencil between the string and the tin, twist the pencil over, and the resulting pressure will release the lid.

Useful Velvet—If you are making anything of velvet do not throw away the pieces of material left over. Save them for using as polishers for your black-leaded stoves and for your shoes. You'll get a real mirror-like shine on both if you rub them with velvet after the usual polish has been applied.

Use Baking Sheets—Baking powder biscuits and cookies rise better and brown more evenly on baking sheets than they do in pans.

A Supper Special—One cup left-over cooked vegetables, four eggs, half-teaspoonful salt, dash of pepper, half-cup grated cheese. Break the eggs and beat the yolks and whites together. Stir in the vegetables. Add pepper and salt. Put in greased baking dish. Cover with grated cheese and bake in hot oven ten minutes.

Stuffed Shoulder of Lamb—One shoulder of lamb, two tablespoons chopped onion, three tablespoons cooking fat, two cups soft bread crumbs, one teaspoon chopped mint, one tablespoon salt and one-eighth teaspoon pepper. Have the shoulder blade removed. This leaves a pocket for the stuffing. Wipe meat. Fry onion in fat, add bread crumbs, mint, celery leaves, salt and pepper. Mix well. Fill pocket with stuffing. Then roast.

Cleaning Paintwork—Glossy paintwork should never be washed with soap and water, as it usually leaves a smeary surface. A teaspoonful of turpentine in warm water will make the cleaning a simple matter and will not scratch the paint.

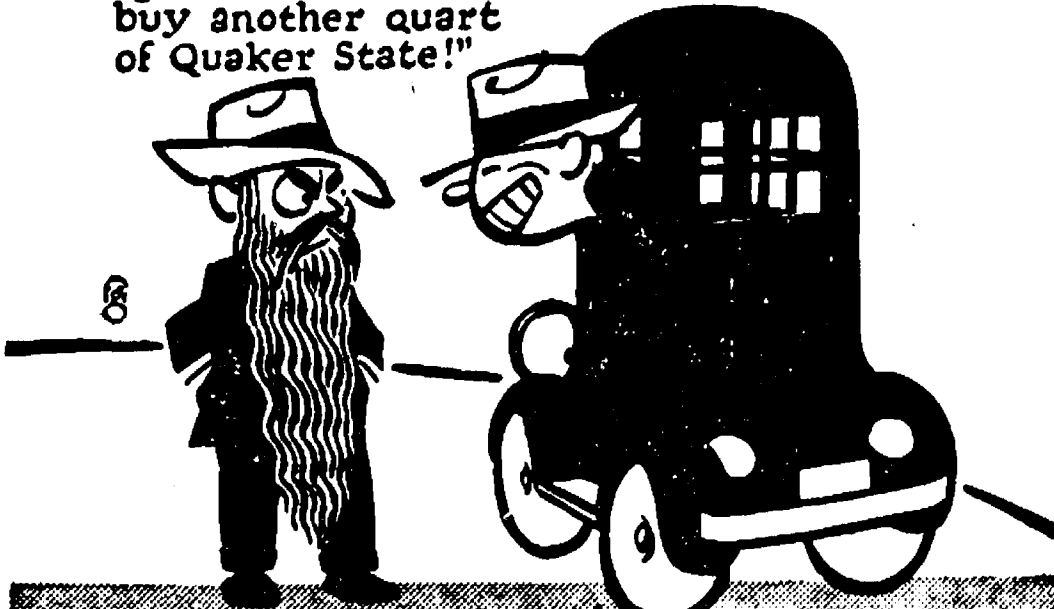

Removing Tea Stains—Tea and coffee stains can sometimes be removed from china cups by rubbing them with a damp cloth dipped in baking soda.

Shining Saucepans—Aluminum saucepans that have become discolored inside can be made to look like new by boiling in them water to which a tablespoonful of vinegar and some apple parings or lemon rinds have been added.

Removing Grease Stains—Grease stains can be removed from cement walks and porches with a poultice made by dissolving four ounces of trisodium phosphate in a gallon of water and mixing in whitening until a paste the consistency of mortar is obtained and plastering a layer of this over the stained area. When dry remove with a trowel or putty knife.

Pinckney School Notes

So far on account of cold weather and wet grounds the base ball squad has not been able to get much practice. They have worked out a little in the gym and on the school grounds. This year's team will have to start from scratch as it has been two years since the school had a team and that was composed of seniors and juniors. Billie Meyers is the only member of the squad who played on that team. Paul Singer has been working out as pitcher and seems to have considerable stuff. Jason Haines has a good assortment of curves, but will not be available as he is still in the grades. Edsel Meyers has been handling their delivery. The first game is with Dexter on April 28. This team should have an advantage as they have a veteran team.

The parts for the senior class have been given out. Merrill is the valedictorian and Joan Spears salutatorian. The former is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Merrill and the latter the daughter of Edward Spears.

The senior play will be presented on May 7 at the high school auditorium. The cast will be picked from the following: Alger Lee, Emmett Clark, Winston Baughn, Ed. Howell, Arline Thorpe, June Lamb, Rose Lupo, Lena Kulbicki, Marjorie Haines, and Russell Smith. The play chosen is "Bashful Mr. Bobs".

The motion picture machine with talking attachment has arrived and was tested out. It seems to be satisfactory.

The business men and friends have had several sessions of volleyball. They play Monday and Friday nights at 8:00 P. M. Anyone wishing to play is invited to come. Only games have been played so far but it is expected that a league will be formed this fall. Among those getting acquainted with game are Frank Bowers, Clarence Stackable, Lee Lavey, C. H. Kennedy, Wm. Jeffreys, Virgil Amburgey, M. E. Darrow, Kenneth and Roy Reason, Stanley Dinkel, Ye Editor, Donnie Spears, Hubert Ledwidge, Bob Smith, Bud Elloway, Francis Martin, Ralph Clinton and Floyd Haines. Lucius Wilson played Monday night, however, he is a veteran, having played two winters in Springfield, Ill.

Nelson Shehan was also a member of the last high school baseball team and was rated a good hitter.

The Girl's Athletic Association will give a dance at the high school gym on April 24th.

Don't forget the free picture show to be given at the high school auditorium on Saturday night.

PLAN SALVATION ARMY BENEFIT

The local Salvation Army Post is sponsoring a benefit program Saturday evening, April 17, at the Howell High School auditorium at which time a splendid musical program will be presented by the Windsor Songsters. The proceeds from the program will go to repair the present army quarters in Howell.

This group of about 35 musicians from Windsor, Ont., Canada is considered to be one of the finest groups of its kind and one of the best in Canada.

Besides rendering a number of stirring vocal selections there will be other interesting items, such as piano forte solos, instrumental solos of different nature, such as cornet, euphonium and bombardon solos, and other instrumental selections. Here again this group is outstanding, for at the "Army Congress" in Toronto different members of the brigade have been selected at various times to play solo items. Of special note is Bandsman Ed O'Connor, "Bombardon" or E flat bass horn soloist, who is rated as one of the best of his kind the world over in the Salvation Army. He will furnish an item at this Saturday night concert. His playing is superb in that he not only attempts, but very excellently renders, such numbers as are considered difficult for cornets which make it much harder for a bass horn.

The brigade itself will present a number of vocal group selections as well as duets.

Says Capt. Wiffrock, "About two months or so ago, thanks to the Men's Industrial Home and our headquarters in Detroit, we were able to redecorate our hall downstairs. We are hoping with what profit we realize from this program to also redecorate and repair our living quarters in the S. A. building upstairs. We are especially thinking of a leaky roof."

The tickets are 25c for adults and 15c for children 12 years and under. They may be obtained at all drug stores, the high school and anyone directly connected with the Salvation Army.

The Golden Rule

THE Golden Rule, so often quoted as a guide to right conduct, is stated in Matthew's account of Jesus' Sermon on the Mount in these words (7:12): "Therefore all things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them; for this is the law and the prophets." Jesus' reference to "the law and the prophets" shows clearly that he recognized the origin of this rule as a part of the Mosaic law and the teachings of the prophets.

In the twenty-second chapter of Matthew's Gospel is given the account of a lawyer who tried to entrap Jesus with the question, "Master, which is the great commandment in the law?" Quoting from the ancient writings with which he was so familiar, Jesus said, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind." Following this with the declaration: "This is the first and great commandment. And the second is like unto it, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."

Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, frequently refers to the Golden Rule, and sums up the right attitude in these words from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" (p. 518): "The rich in spirit help the poor in one grand brotherhood, all having the same Principle, or Father, and blessed is that man who seeth his brother's need and supplieth it, seeking his own in another's good."

Not always does it seem easy to obey the Golden Rule, for mortal mind may argue that it is useless for one to go out of his way to serve his neighbor. Yielding to selfishness, or the false sense of self, one may argue
