Pinckney School Opened Tuesday

Large Attendance Fills Building to Overflowing. Football Practice Started Opening Day.

The Pinckney school opened Tuesday morning with a large attendance. Some of the rooms were not able to accommodate all of the pupils. While attendance has not yet been established it will undoubtedly be over 200 mark.

There was a change in the faculty. Miss Jessie Green, primary teacher who had signed to start her 46th consecutive year as teacher here was taken sick Monday and Tuesday morning tendered her resignation to the school board. The vacancy has not yet been filled. Mrs. J. P. Doyle was in charge there Tuesday and registered the pupils. We understand that the school board has an experienced and qualified kindergarten and primary teacher in view and expect to be able to hire her. Miss Green will be greatly missed. She has been a very efficient and successful teacher and has taught most of the fathers, mothers, and some of the grandparents of her present pupils.

Football practice started Tuesday afternoon. The first game will be played here Sept. 17 with Brighton. This gives Coach Seckel one week to whip a green team into shape. Capt. Howard Read is the only player who was a regular last year although Ed Meyer, Merlyn Lavey, Jack Hannett, Francis Shehan, Vincent Young and Glennon McClure had some experience last year. Pinckney plays Ann Arbor second team there October 15 and also has games with Hartland and Manchester.

REBEL CREAMERY MAKES IMPROVEMENTS

The Rebel Creamery Co. has just installed new improvements in their Pinckney creamery at a cost of $2000. These include a Brownell double press boiler with an automatic steamer. It has a 60 ft. smoke stack which practically eliminates smoke and soot. Thomas Rebel informs us this is the same kind of a boiler and heating system they have in their main plant at River Rouge. The boiler also gives steam and hot water for can washing. The Rebels started operations in Pinckney two years ago. Last year they purchased the creamery building of Messrs C. H. Kennedy and Lee Lavey.

JIM MORAN WINS

In the finals of the state amateur baseball tournament at Battle Creek Monday, Jim Moran, former Pinckney pitcher, now with the United Steel & Wire team relieved Pitcher Brown with the bases full. He struck out one batter and the man on third was nipped stealing home. This 9 to 8 victory puts Moran's team in the American Base Ball Congress which opens at Battle Creek on Sept. 16 in which teams from the nation compete.

FORD UNIT AT MILFORD

Continuing Henry Ford's program of building "little factories" in rural Michigan to form a closer union between farm and factory the Ford Motor Co. has begun construction of a carburetor manufacturing plant at Milford.

The new factory will be 200 by 60 feet in size. Many windows will be provided and there also will be spacious lawns and trees. Production is expected to begin next winter. All workmen, except a few technicians to be transferred from the Rouge plant will be from the nearby village and farms.

Power for the new machinery will come from two small hydro-electric generators producing nearly 450 horse power. One of the hydro stations will be supplied with water from a flume driving from Moore's Lake to the power house on the Huron river just below Milford.

There will also be an auxiliary unit of steam during the low water periods.

This is the 12th Ford factory. Valves are made at Northville, gauges at Waterford, generator cut-outs at Phoenix, tanks at Plymouth, drills at Newburg, dies and engravings at Nankin Mills, starters at Ypsilanti, electrodes at Dundee and soy bean products at Saline, all in Michigan.

Drive on Marihuana Dealers to Start

New Federal Law Going into Effect on October 1st Expected to Abate Drug Nuisance

Up to date the officers of the law have been handicapped in their drive against marihuana peddlers by the fact there was no severe penalty for traffickers in the drugs. A man arrested in Chicago with 600 marihuana cigarettes was only fined $25 and given 6 months in jail. Another caught with seven pounds of the drug only drew 6 months. The new law provides fines up to $2000 and prison sentences of five years. Many offenders will be turned over to the federal government for trial.

The drug is remarkably easy to grow and needs no cultivation. The marihuana peddler usually sows the drug broadcast in any secluded place and does not go near it until time to harvest it. Only the leaves are used. They were made into cigarettes that are called, "Mary Warners". Then they are given to persons who sell it. Chicago police arrested over 200 peddlers last year and so far this year 150. Many of these peddlers were taxi dancers in night club and dance halls and some were attendants in public and school wash rooms. Many lurked in the vicinity of the schools and sold to the students. It was the custom to give free cigarettes so as to stimulate the desire for them. Many students spent lunch money on these cigarettes.

A peculiarity about the users of marihuana or loco weed is that when they contact the habit they are eager to teach others to smoke them. The drug tends to poison the brain. Mrs. Elizabeth Bass, head of the narcotic division for the district of Chicago says the recent horrible and brutal sex crimes have been inspired by the use of this drug and it is also to be blamed for the increased ratio of juvenile crime by boys and girls.

King's Daughters

The Pinckney King's Daughters met in the church parlors. Delegates were appointed to the state convention to be held at Jackson Oct. 6-8. Mrs. Van, Clare Palmer, Winifred Graves and Lulu Lamb.

COMMUNICATION

San Pedro, Cal., Sept. 1, 1937. Paul, I don't know if you have ever been in Southern California or not but maybe I can mention a few interesting things about this particular part of the country.

The city of San Pedro lies on a peninsula which gives it the unusual feature of seeing the Pacific ocean by looking to the east.

It is a part of Los Angeles proper but has a separate post office and city government with a population of about 50,000 people. By the way Paul, Los Angeles is the biggest city in area in the world. We are 26 miles from the city proper and I believe it extends farther in other directions.

Across the harbor is Long Beach which is a very pretty city of about 150,000 people. Then to the north is Signal Hill, a smaller city, that contains the Signal Oil Fields which have been until recently the richest in the world.

Between Pedro and Long Beach at the north end of the Harbor is Wilmington. It is the big oil center and has a new field which has been developed since I came here and in that time has got to be the second largest producer in California. Ford also has a factory there.

I am inclosing a circular given out by the chamber of commerce which shows some views of the city.

Hoping you and yours are well I remain,

Walter Mowers.

P. S. Tell the fellows hello for me.

Masonic-O.E.S. Picnic Held Friday

Dexter and Pinckney Masonic and O. E. S. Groups Hold Enjoyable Event at Portage Lake last Friday

Although the joint picnic held by the Pinckney and Dexter Masonic & O. E. S. lodges was not as well attended as was anticipated still enthusiasm ran high and all present had a most enjoyable time. About 70 were present.

The affair was held at Newport at Portage Lake and a pot-luck dinner was served at which before and after some 30 gals. of lemonade were consumed.

Following this came the contests. In quoit pitching, Wm. Pidd of Dexter proved to be champion not losing a game. The tug of war between the Pinckney and Dexter lodges was hard fought but Dexter won.

Then the ladies put on a tug of war with 8 ladies from each lodge on a side. Again Dexter won. The rolling pin contest aroused much interest, some 20 ladies competing. Mrs. Alta Meyer, Pinckney, being eliminated. Mrs. Steinbach of Dexter got an early lead but in the final minutes of the contest, Mrs. Harlan Savory heaved Maggie Jigg's favorite weapon for a distance of 150 feet breaking all records as far as we know and winning the prize.

Edsel Meyer, Pinckney won the 100 yd. dash and Rose Mary Read the race for girls. In the fat man's race both Percy Ellis and Stanley Vaughn hit the spot at the same time. They were too tired to run off the tie.

In the potato race in which the potatoes had to be carried in a spoon one at a time, Mrs. Faith Peatt of Dexter won. The winner in the free-for-all race for ladies was Mrs. King of Dexter. In the kiddies race Waldron Vaughn of Dexter won. The youngsters had to run 25 yards and pick up peanies from the ground at the finish line.

The ball game ended the days events. A team captained by ye editor finished on the long end of a 14 to 6 score in a contest with one captained by Wm. Pidd of Dexter. An 82 year old recruit, named Henry King, carried all of the glory on the winning team however. In the 4th with the bases full he retired the 5th by a great catch of a line drive off the score board from the bat of Edsel Meyer. Coming up the next inning with the bases full he hit a two-bagger scoring all three runners. In fact Henry was the whole works.

Those present may be a little lame and sore from their unaccustomed exertions but they surely enjoyed themselves. If you don't believe us ask Mrs. Meyer who got a rope burn in the tug of war.

BARNS BURN AT DEXTER

The barns on the Dr. W. C. Wyllie farm caught fire Sunday morning and burned down with their contents. All the hay was lost. Threshing had been completed and by soaking the grain it was thought some could be saved. All the stock were in pasture except one calf that was slightly burned. The loss was partially covered by insurance. Dan Driver formerly of Pinckney is tenant on the farm.

Sparks from the burning building set fire to a barn on the Cliff Green farm nearly a mile away and destroyed that also.

JUST A STORY

And then there is the story told us the other day of an old fellow who had a reputation for being at least thrifty. He carried his money in a big wallet tied with a shoe string. He always tied the string in a hard knot. Noticing this one day a friend said, "Why don't you tie that in a bow knot? It would be much easier untied?" The old fellow smiled and said, "Well, I'll tell you. I tie it in a hard knot because a good many times it has taken me long enough to untie the knot to allow me another minute to think. In the extra minute, a good many times, I have changed my mind about making an investment I had decided to make. That shoe string has saved me a lot of money.

Manchester, Enterprise.

This has earned him numerous columns from the press friendly to conservatism. But this does his memory little good. The charges against him should be proved or withdrawn.

Current Comment

Senator Vandenberg in a speech last week advocated a law to take the profits out of war. However he did not go into it at any great length or state just how he would stop it. Wars are a great thing for some people. Every war this country has had has always made a lot of new millionaires. The Remington, Winchester and the Duponts business is making firearms and munitions of war. During the World War they could not make them fast enough and many other firms went into it. Delivery was the motto and the munition manufacturers were given what was called cost-plus contracts, that is they were allowed to set their own prices. Munition workers made $100 a week and sometimes more. According to reports they have been making big money recently by selling munitions and air planes to warring countries in the Far East.

For years past, in fact since the memory of man runneth not to the contrary, the 2 big political parties have been financed by those interested by the financial advantages to be derived by their success. This class included job holders or those who expected to get jobs, firms who expected to do business with the state etc. Of course there were a few who contributed because their father voted for Abe Lincoln etc. but these were few and far between. Of course this system caused scandals at times but has worked out fairly well. Now a new one has been devised. It is the collection of dues. The plan is to enroll all republicans and have them pay dues. This it is claimed, would give the party sufficient revenue to operate without soliciting funds from the industrialists and millionaires. We don't believe it will work. In the first place the average person doesn't like to pay dues. In the second place it will take a lot of work and cost a lot of money to collect them. Then what about the great number of independent votes who claim no allegiance to any party. No, the old way was much easier where one cash donation would equal 100 smaller ones.

On account of the increasing amount of traffic fatalities there is talk of reviving the speed limit on the highways. Years ago there were many speed laws. Some villages limited the speed in their limits to 10 miles an hour. There was also a law that when a motorist came to a frightened horse he must get out and lead it past his machine. Finally the auto came into general use and all restrictions were removed as to speed. Now it is the opinion of many that the speed limit should be restored.

Many people are wondering if thru traffic, consisting mostly of freight laden trucks is any benefit to a village or city. In the old horse and buggy days many cities and villages were laid out with a hub so that all vehicles had to pass thru the main section. When the day of the auto came this caused congestion and streets had to be widened and parallel roads built. Then the plan was adopted of detouring around the cities. This found the use of thru traffic as it enabled them to make better time. When US-12 was routed it was found to be some miles away from Chelsea. The village put up a fight and has succeeded in keeping the road from being finished. The road from Jackson is completed except for a few miles near Chelsea. The rest of the state is anxious to have the new road completed so the state will go into court and condemn the land necessary to finish the road.

It was bound to come. We notice that a motion picture theatre in Tifton, Ga. has secured an injunction against seven members of the Tifton Boogie Club for boogie of theatre ads. They have also started suit asking $10,000 damages. The Tifton Gazette is also a party to it as said paper published an adv. signed by members of the club. Here the radio seems to have the bulge on such organizations as boogie don't get you anywhere.

During his lifetime the late Andrew Mellon was often referred to as a mal factor and at the time of his death a tax evasion charge, civil and criminal was still pending against him. In his will nearly all of his great wealth was left to charity, including a fine art center in the city of Washington.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes fail in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wise when you get these signs. Doan's Pills have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nationwide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

Washington Digest

National Topics Interpreted
By WILLIAM BRUCKART

Washington. — Political students and observers in Washington find themselves in a quandary concerning the objectives of the New Deal administration because of a series of late developments. Frankly, most students of politics have to confess their inability to fathom the various developments of recent weeks or to measure their significance.

I have written, heretofore, about the wide open split in the Democratic party and about the presidential moves to heal that split but, instead of the new developments being of a kind designed to heal wounds, they appear superficially at least to be doing directly the opposite thing. Confessing my own inability to understand the political strategy, if there be strategy, let me merely call attention to such things as:

The recent radio speech by Senator Guffey, Pennsylvania, Democrat, which thoroughly read out of the party such able men as Senators Wheeler of Montana, Burke of Nebraska and O'Mahoney of Wyoming.

The speech of Postmaster General Farley before the Young Democrats at their Indiana meeting, stating that there will be no reprisals against those Democrats who have seen fit or now see fit to object to parts of President Roosevelt's New Deal program.

The so-called harmony dinner of Democratic senators at a Washington hotel after the election of Senator Barkley of Kentucky as Democratic leader of the senate, and the absence of President Roosevelt from that meeting.

The renewal by President Roosevelt of his criticism of "Economic Royalists" in his speech in celebration of the birth of Virginia Dare, the first white child born in America, at Manteo, N. C.

The speech of Senator Guffey in New York declaring without equivocation that the Committee for Industrial Organization, headed by John L. Lewis, should provide a nucleus for an American Labor party. This party should have among its objectives the political destruction of any one who fails to carry through the New Deal policies or who opposes a program designed to make the court structure of the United States subservient to the President.

There are other phases, other circumstances that might be included in this list, but those enumerated serve to show the confusion that prevails. They present to me a wholly nonunderstandable and unexplainable hauling and filling—breathing hot and cold without a change of face.

There has been nothing of a purely political nature create quite so much of a stir in a long time as did the radio speech of Senator Guffey in which he called for defeat of all those who opposed the President's plan to reorganize the Supreme court of the United States by adding to it six justices of the President's own choosing. It was in this speech that Senator Guffey singled out Senators Wheeler, Burke and O'Mahoney for destruction. He did this because these three senators led the fight against the President's plan to pack the Supreme court. Senator Wheeler and Senator Burke conducted the fight on the floor of the senate; Senator O'Mahoney wrote the devastating report by which the senate judiciary committee advised the senate to kill the court packing bill.

Senator Guffey's speech was made at night. When the senate convened at noon the following day, Senator Wheeler took the floor and delivered one of the most vicious speeches of which he is known to be capable. It was excelled in bitterness only by the attack which came from Senator Burke. Senator O'Mahoney likewise made sure that the senate record revealed the feeling of those who were convinced the President had made a vital mistake in proposing the court reorganization.

I have heard these questions asked many times: What can the President gain by making Senator Guffey or any man of his type a spokesman for the administration? Further, can the President afford politically to strike at the very heart of the Democratic party by permitting even secretly the political destruction of such brilliant men as Wheeler, Burke and O'Mahoney?

The answer to those questions, as far as I can see it, or as far as I have been able to gather opinions on the point, must inevitably lead in the direction of a party purge. By that I mean, the President and his closest New Deal advisers must be seeking to drive out of the Democratic party, the machinery of which he controls, any and all Democrats who are unwilling to be one hundred per cent for the theories of economics and social reform which the New Dealers countenance. If that be true, and I repeat it is only an assumption, then the President evidently is hoping to create a class party, a radical party which can be made to include such outfits as the John L. Lewis following, the communists and half-baked nitwits who are opposed to the principle of individual employment, the accumulation of personal belongings and even the idea of owning homes by individuals, free from debt.

On the other hand I cannot convince myself that Mr. Roosevelt would make a political mistake of this gravity. For it would be a mistake in two ways, namely, a virtual destruction of the Democratic party and the blighting of any hope the President may have for being elected a third time. It is these combinations that make the whole situation so difficult to understand.

It may be that one result will be that Senator Wheeler or Senator Burke may find himself in a political situation where one or the other will be forced to seek the Democratic Presidential nomination in 1940. It is quite apparent now that the split in the party is going to cause a violent explosion in the next Democratic national convention. There is no way to avoid it. It may be added in the same breath that Mr. Roosevelt can go into that convention and force his own renomination because surely the Farley political machine cannot be dislodged unless the factional dispute spreads to the rank and file of Democrats throughout the country. This is to say that, having control of the party machine, Mr. Farley can muster the election of enough delegates to the party's national convention to assure the Roosevelt nomination, especially since Mr. Roosevelt demanded and obtained the repeal of the age-old Democratic rule that required a vote of two-thirds of all the sitting delegates before the convention nominates a candidate.

With further reference to Senator Guffey, Senator Barkley told the senate during the violent Wheeler-Burke-O'Mahoney attack that Senator Guffey had tendered his resignation as chairman of the Democratic senatorial committee a week previously. Senator Barkley's statement, however, was not accepted generally; it did not have the ring to make it convincing, nor did it appear to be anything more than an attempt by Senator Barkley to save Senator Guffey's face.

It may well be that the rupture in Democratic harmony will turn out to be a great issue as early as the 1938 congressional and senatorial elections. There are a number of senators who opposed the court packing bill and, therefore, fall within the Guffey castigation, who will be up for re-election next year. If the Guffey attack is followed up at all in the state organizations, those Democrats who opposed the President's will necessarily must defend themselves. The only way they can defend their course of action is by a counter attack on the President and those policies of his which the candidate for the senate opposed. I predicate my prediction of continuation of the row in 1938 on the statement made by Senator O'Mahoney in answer to the Guffey radio tirade. In that statement of position, Senator O'Mahoney stated, to quote a single paragraph:

"I would rather walk out of the door of this chamber and never return, than to surrender any honest convictions I have. I say to you, senators of the United States, so long as I am in this body I shall raise my voice and cast my vote as my conscience dictates and nobody, whether he comes from Pennsylvania or from New York or any other state, can tell me or the people of my state what I should or should not do."

Contrast that statement with the following declaration by Senator Guffey in his radio speech:

"I was elected to the United States senate in 1934 because I assured the voters of Pennsylvania that it was my intention to support loyally and without wavering the program of the Chief Executive."

And in calling attention to that statement of subservience, Senator Burke of Nebraska declared:

"Pennsylvania may want that kind of representation in the senate, and, if they do, God bless them, let them have it; but to me it would seem that if the senate is to have that kind of representation, it might as well have a parrot in a cage in the secretary's office and bring it in when the senator's name is called and have him say, 'Yes, Mr. Roosevelt, count me for that, too.' That is not my idea of what a senator should do."

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK... By Lemuel F. Parton

NEW YORK.—The McIntyre and Heath partnership of 63 years is at an end with the death of James McIntyre, seventy-nine, at his home at Southampton, N. Y. As McIntyre died, Thomas K. Heath, eighty-four years old, lay suffering from paralysis unaware of his partner's demise. "Under the Gas Light," "Ingomar the Barbarian" and "The Black Crook" were played straight and never burlesqued in the flourishing days of McIntyre and Heath's "Georgia Minstrels," as were Chester A. Arthur's sideburns and Benjamin Harrison's fuzzy plug hat. Boys in short pants who tagged the parade, somewhere out on the kerosene circuit, have grown old and died since the 40 burnt-cork troubadours, stepping high in linen dusters, stirred new life in remote towns.

Their 63 years was not a record. Fox and Ward of Philadelphia were together, I believe, something over 70 years.

McIntyre and Heath, however, had a record in their 12,500 performances. They never missed a show, and gave 17 performances daily at the Omaha State fair in 1876. Appearing for the last time in New York in 1929, they said stage humor hadn't changed much. All they did in refurbishing their old jokes, said McIntyre, was to put in words like "airplane" and "prohibition" and "radio."

To such oldsters, much that seems glaringly modern was really old stuff. The first authentic syncope on the American stage was "The Rabbit Song," of jerky measure, with an accompanying hitch-kick, sung and danced by McIntyre in 1879. He said he got it from a former slave.

They appeared in dance halls, music halls, concert halls, variety theaters, vaudeville, burlesque, musical comedy, light opera, revues, extravaganzas, pantomime, comedies, drama and motion pictures.

They teamed up in San Antonio, Texas, May 12, 1874. They were in separate blackface song and dance acts on a vaudeville bill. Heath's partner became ill and they merged their acts. Their first show was stranded in Louisville. They paid no salaries, but gave Riley, the bandmaster, the bass drum. McIntyre got a job in a livery stable. They pulled the partnership together again and out of it came the Georgia minstrels. "Henney and Alexander" of "The Ham Tree" will be remembered until all who saw them have gone.

THIS administration helped many Harvard men to "rise and shine." Unhappily, two others come to grief at about the same time. Francis O. French, father-in-law of John Jacob Astor, who confesses bankruptcy, was Harvard classmate and buddy of Ernst Hanfstaengl, former piano player to Adolf Hitler. Herr Hanfstaengl ducked his nazi captors in Spain, as they were planning to drop him out of an airplane, and is now studying Germany in absentia.

The brief stock market slump of 1921 wrecked Mr. French, son of Amos Tuck French. When, trying for a comeback in 1923, he drove a taxicab, the papers spoofed him instead of giving him credit for his courage. All in all, he got a pretty rough deal.

The other taxi-drivers liked him. One of them showed me a copy of the "Taxi News," to which Mr. French had contributed an essay on democracy which wasn't half bad. But he made only $17 in about a month of driving.

Thereafter he sold overcoats on commission and now, at forty-eight, eases down into bankruptcy, owing a Chinese laundryman $1.48, this being one of several small liabilities.

SIR ROBERT CRAIGIE stopped several weeks in this country and visited Washington, en route to Japan as the newly appointed British ambassador.

He is Britain's naval expert. His previous visits have touched off much newspaper conjecture, in which his trip has been interpreted as a move by England to get America to police her interests in the Pacific and the Far East. All this, Sir Robert has suavely waved aside.

He served 14 years in the foreign office and three years ago became assistant secretary of state. He is the son of the late Admiral R. W. Craigie. He was chief naval expert of the foreign office, knighted in 1936.

Mrs. Craigie, who accompanies him, is an American. She was Pleasant Stovall, daughter of the late Pleasant A. Stovall, who was editor of the Savannah, Ga., Evening Press and minister to Switzerland.

Three Maids A-Sewing Go

LITTLE lady, it's time to say adieu, so long, good-by to that flimsy but faithful friend—your summer wardrobe. But don't fret, Milady, Sew-Your-Own is right on the job with sparkling new fashions for you; fashions that will make you forget the past and be remembered in the future. So let's not tarry: let's choose the style that's got the most sock for our particular figure and join this group that's going a-sewing!

Stadium Model.

Picture yourself in the trim-waisted little model at the left, if you would have an optimistic viewpoint and a head start on style this season. There's nothing younger than this topper with its dainty collar and cuffs, its snappy row of buttons and fetching pelum. The way it takes to the weightier fall fabrics is news, and equally intriguing is this fact: it's easy to sew!

Young 'n' Pretty.

Long slender lines of the princess variety make this the lucky number for your first autumn days. Of course you see it's a style to cut in at least two fabrics because it boasts utility plus beauty. If you're going to school you'll want it in acetate jersey or light-weight wool. Neat contrast is here, too, if you wish, in the collar, pocket flaps and buttons. (This is a simple eight-piece pattern.)

A Lift for You.

There's much ado about bodices this fall and unless you have a frock that carries a stylish one you won't feel right. Sew-Your-Own caters to this vogue in its new creation at the right. It is pencil slim and carefully styled to give you that chic young silhouette that distinguishes the lady of fashion. Make this handsome model of silk crepe, sheer wool or jersey and be fit for business or pleasure in town or country.

Pattern 1376 is designed for sizes 12 to 20 (30 to 40 bust). Size 14 requires 4 1/2 yards of 35-inch material.

Pattern 1347 is designed for sizes 14 to 20 (32 to 42 bust). Size 16 requires 4 1/2 yards of 35 or 39-inch material. With long sleeves 5 1/2 yards plus 1/2 yard contrasting.

Pattern 1258 is designed for sizes 12 to 20 (30 to 38 bust). Size 14 requires 4 yards of 39-inch material, with long sleeves, plus 4 1/2 yards of braid to finish as pictured.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1020, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. Price of patterns, 15 cents (in coins) each.

Thought Wields Great Influence in Our Lives

Practically all the ills in life spring largely from our ignorance of the working of mental laws.

Most of us have no idea that thought has more to do with determining our conditions, with shaping our circumstances and environment, bringing us poverty or wealth, attaining our ideal or driving it from us, than any other thing.

Most human beings could be living in comfort and happiness, if they only knew the powers locked up in themselves and had learned the secret of using their minds to back up their efforts on the material plane.

We have all experienced what we call first impressions in making new acquaintances. We like a person at once or we dislike him. Often there is no reason for such a feeling. It can't be described. We simply react that way; we know that it is so.

It is like an electrical current passing between two persons. In one instance the current finds a favorable field or conductor in each of the individuals. There is a mutual feeling of liking. In the other case one or both persons do not receive the current favorably. And there is antagonism. Instead of electricity, can you picture emotional currents that are created when two persons meet for the first time. Some day we may discover that after all a form of human electricity is involved.

Whatever the cause, we do remember having "feelings" in such a situation, or later after knowing a person better. Now the point of concern to parents and teachers is the fact that exactly the same reaction is felt by children. But they don't curb their feelings. Adults try to get along together by overlooking defects in one another. Children give in; they quarrel, sulk, and even try to win a point by physical victory.

Thus, any cooperative project at school, any committee or club undertaking, is doomed to disruption unless the teacher is discerning and clever enough to discover these natural reactions and then to group children according to the capacity to get along well together.

What is the ultimate purpose of education? Dr. Ireland will discuss this next week.

GIVE YOUR HOME A LONGER LEASE ON LIFE!

After years of enforced neglect, surfaces which require the protection that good paint always gives—become dull and attention NOW. If you could examine the neglected wood or brick under a microscope, you'd instantly see what for is a scientific FACT—because neglected surfaces become porous and absorb moisture from the atmosphere, causing decay, outside, falling plaster and peeling wall paper inside.

One house that needs painting will down the dignity and "class" of an entire street. You owe it to yourself, your house and to your neighborhood to have this work done now.

In any event, why not get an estimate.

In One Direction

Borrowers and lenders require widely different services, yet their combined management works in one direction towards reduction of unemployment.

When the fund for the latter may be established new raw materials, facilities, labor, and tools required to accomplish the jobs thus created are traceable to the borrower. The depositor furnishes capital, and the bank brings the two together.

This bank welcomes all opportunities to be the third party in any "bankable" transaction that will help to relieve unemployment.

A GALA SERIAL!

OFFICIALS TO FRAME NEW DRIVER'S RULES

While the 1937 legislature investigated the Michigan State Police authorities with the responsibilities of framing new mental and physical exams for applicants for operators licenses the whole framework of examining and licensing will be worked out by representative enforcement officials of the state, plans indicate.

Early in September, Oscar G. Olander Commissioner of the Michigan State Police and other state police officials will meet with Department of State executives headed by Leon D. Case, Secretary of State to make the preliminary plans for revision of the present rules pertaining to examinations and licensing of automobile drivers. The executive committee of the state association of Police chiefs, the Sheriff's and Prosecuting Attorney will later be invited to attend conferences so that uniform practices may more quickly be put in to action throughout the state when they are perfect.

APPLES IN STATE LOAD TREES

Five Million extra bushels of extra apples on trees in Michigan this year present a problem for growers an opportunity for housewives to seek low-cost foods. Combined with a national crop of 10 million bushels of apples which are not greater than last year apples will be plentiful and low in price, it is pointed out by H. D. Hootman, of Michigan State College. Other committee members in the state of Michigan include Wesley Mawby, Grand Rapids; Carl Stemiele, L. H. Spicer, Arthur Seel, Edward Lyman, C. C. Taylor, Edward Payne, R. A. Buycer, R. L. Edwards, George Friday, and R. J. Marin.

When the national crop loomed larger, the state committee had a meeting. That was June 10 and the apple crop in the state seemed equal with that of last year. Then rains and other factors boomed the crop and the trees are loaded with fruit.

Hootman and others members of the committee are trying to stimulate increased uses for apples. Using them in cookery is recommended. Cider making is another process for using up the crop. Housewives also are urged to use apples in preserves and to can apple sauce for use during late winter and early spring months when storage supplies begin to dwindle.

PINCKNEY WINS FORFEIT

Pinckney won another game by a forfeit Sunday as Hamburg was able to put but 7 men on the field. Too many of their players were away for Labor Day. Hamburg borrowed two Pinckney players, LaBelle and Junior Baker and played a 7 inning practice game which they won 7 to 3. However, it does not count in the league standing. Harlo Haines failed to get warmed up sufficiently and Hamburg got 6 runs the first two innings before his curves got to working. Then he only allowed one run the last five innings. Buster kept Pinckney's 9 hits well scattered.

Next Sunday Pinckney will play at Saline. Players should plan to start for Saline at 1:00 P. M.

A few words to parents. Schools are again starting all over the country and thousands of children will be required to leave the protection of their homes to make daily trips back and forth to their places of instruction. In doing so it will be necessary for them to use their own judgement in crossing streets and walking on the highways. Eddie Cantor once said in one of his broadcasts, Drive Slowly-We Love Our Children. I sometimes wonder whether parents really do love their children. If they did, they would show more concern about their safety and conduct at crossings and on highways. Teach your children to cross streets only at regular crossings and to be careful when doing so. If it is necessary for your children to walk on a highway instruct them to walk on the left side of the road and step on if necessary. REMIND THEM DAILY

They WANT to serve you well

TELEPHONE SERVICE in Michigan is as fine as anywhere in the world. Several factors combine to make it so, but no factor is more important than this:

The sense of personal responsibility shown in the work of the 9500 men and women who furnish Michigan's telephone service.

Their remarkable devotion to duty is an accepted fact. Time and again they have won public gratitude by their quick-witted, heroic conduct during flood, fire and storm. But their diligence is not limited to emergencies; it is carried on through every hour of every day—through all the routine necessary to maintain, without interruption, the high standards of the service.

Trained for their work, these men and women know how to do it well. Equally important, they really want to do it well.

Household Questions

Use for Old Shaving Brush—A discarded shaving brush makes a splendid blacklead brush, as it penetrates parts which are difficult to reach with an ordinary stove-brush.

For Boiled Ham—When boiling ham add a small teaspoonful of vinegar and a few cloves to the water. This will improve the flavor. If the ham is allowed to cool in the water in which it was boiled it will be moist and sweet.

Eggs and Mushrooms—Put 2 ounces of fresh butter into a stew-pan; break over it 4 fresh eggs, and add 3 spoonfuls chopped mushrooms, 1/2 teaspoonful salt, 1 saltspoonful ground white pepper. Stir the mixture with a wooden spoon over a clear fire until of a thickish consistency, and serve very hot on buttered toast.

Laundry Hint—Transfer marks left after a piece of embroidery is completed may be taken out before the article is squeezed through in warm water by rubbing gently with a piece of cotton wool moistened with methylated spirit.

Improving Cauliflower—Cauliflower is improved by being soaked in water to which a little lemon juice or vinegar has been added.

Picnic Steaks—Mince finely 1/2 pound tender steak, add 1/4 table-spoonful finely-chopped onion, 1 table-spoonful breadcrumbs, 1 beaten egg, 1/2 teaspoonful salt, 1/4 teaspoonful pepper. Knead the ingredients well together, shape into rounds about 1 inch thick, place on a greased baking dish with dabs of margarine on top, and bake in a moderate oven for about 20 minutes. When cool, wrap each in a lettuce leaf and pack in carton.

Ironing Linen Table Mats—Linen table mats edged with lace or crochet require special care in ironing. The mats should be pinned in the correct shape to the ironing sheet when wet, placing the pins close together where the lace joins the linen. Iron with the point of the iron and keep the mat pinned out till the lace is quite dry. Embroidered organdie mats should be ironed on the wrong side over a thick underfelt.

Conceited Beau Brummell—Beau Brummell (1778-1840), the master dandy of all time, was so idolized by the aristocracy of London as an arbiter of dress and manners that, eventually, he became unbearably conceited. One night he even ordered a duchess out of his house, during a reception, because her "dress was cut too low in the back." The gentleman's taste was so offended that he had to cover his eyes while she humbly backed out of the ballroom.—Collier's Weekly.

SYNOPSIS

Brooke Rayburn visits the office of Jed Stewart, a lawyer, to discuss the terms of an estate she has inherited from Mrs. Mary Amanda Dane. Unwittingly she overhears Jed talking to Mark Trent, nephew of Mrs. Dane who has been disinherited. Mrs. Dane had lived at Lookout House, a huge structure by the sea, built by her father and divided into two, for her and Mark's father. Brooke had been a fashion expert, and Mrs. Dane as "shut-in" hearing her on the radio, had invited her to call and developed a deep affection for her. Mark discloses that Mrs. Dane had threatened to disinherit him if he married Lola, from whom he was divorced. He says he does not trust Henri and Clotilde Jacques, Mrs. Dane's servants. He says he is not interested in an offer of Brooke's to share the estate with him. Leaving her department store job, Brooke makes an offer to "go stepping" with Jerry Field, a carefree young man who wants to marry her. At a family conference she learns she must live at Lookout House alone, since Lucette, her younger sister who is taking her job, has brother Sam, a young playwright, and her mother plan to stay in the city. Jed and Mark are astounded when they hear from Mrs. Gregory, a family friend, that she had witnessed a hitherto unknown will with Henri and Clotilde two weeks before Mrs. Dane died. Brooke had arrived just as she was leaving. Jed suggests that Mark open his part of Lookout House, get friendly with Brooke and try to find out about the will. Jed agrees to stay with him. Mark accepts Brooke's invitation for a family Thanksgiving dinner at Lookout. Mrs. Rayburn announces on Thanksgiving eve that she has been invited to England. Sam and Lucette decide to move in with Brooke and Sam plans to produce a new play locally. Jed, Mark that little of Mrs. Dane's silver collection is left. Jerry Field and his sister Daphne drop in and announce they will be neighbors for the winter.

"It must have been Mrs. Dane's friend Mrs. Gregory; they call her the Empress here. So she has called. That means, if she likes us, that we shall be admitted into the inner social circle. Jerry, I was so dazed by your appearance that I forgot to ask what you meant by that word 'neighbor'."

"Sure, we're neighbors. Daphne and I have taken a house here for the season."

"Season! What season?"

"This winter, of course. Didn't you say that many of the houses were to be kept open?"

"Yes. But why—?" Surprise crisped Brooke's voice.

"I've been waiting for years to paint snow. Found I could hire a house with a studio here. You don't mind, I hope?"

"Don't be foolish, Jerry. Of course I don't, only—"

"No matter what Brooke thinks, I'm all for it, Mr. Field," Lucette encouraged. "It will be grand to have someone kind of young in the neighborhood—and—Oh, Sam, two more recruits for the cast of your play! Line of applicants for parts will please form on the left."

"Play! What play? I adore dramatics." Daphne Field's voice and eyes were eager.

"We've been talking about producing Sam's comedy, 'Islands Arise,' for charity. Of course it's a terrific job. We always paint our own scenery."

"Hold! Jerry the boy artist will paint the scenery."—Field's enthusiasm cooled—"afraid my box of a studio wouldn't be big enough though."

"There is a large empty room on the second floor next to Lucette's. Couldn't decide just how to furnish it, so I've waited. We can use that. Won't it be grand, Sam?" Brooke explained and demanded in the same breath.

"Yeah, but what does that prove? How do I know whether the Field team can act, or whether they'll gum up the show?"

"Don't be a grouch, Master Rayburn," Lucette jibed. "You'd better page the family Lost and Found Department for your manners. I adore neighbors. I'm pleased purple that we are to have two such snappy ones."

Mark Trent straightened and flung the cigarette he had but a moment before lighted into the fire. He kept his eyes on Lucette as he announced:

"Newsflash! Not two new neighbors, but four, lady. I'm opening my house next week. Jed Stewart and I will keep bachelor hall there. My announcement doubtless lacks the romantic overtones of Field's, but we'll do our best to make you Rayburns neighbor-conscious."

In the freit library of his house, Mark Trent was perched on the corner of the large flat desk. As he filled his pipe he compared the old-fashioned air of dignified restfulness of the room with its deep chairs in the smoking-room manner, and its two-story book-lined walls, divided half way up by a gallery, with the charm of its twin on the other side of the brocade hanging which screened the door connecting the two houses.

Jed Stewart, lounging in a crimson leather chair, hands in his trousers pockets, legs outstretched, was staring at the blazing logs, watching the blue and yellow, copper and green tongues of flame flick at the chimney. The faint thunder of waves dashing against ledges, the ceaseless crying of sea gulls, stole through the heavy hangings drawn across the long windows. Impatiently he sat up.

"We've been here a week, Mark, and we are not the fraction of a degree nearer finding that last will and testament of Mary Amanda Dane's—if there is such a thing."

"And the silver; don't forget the silver, Jed. I can account for the will being lost—if there was one—but what has become of the silver? I've had it so much on my mind that I consulted Bill Harrison."

"Who's he?"

"The inspector in charge of police headquarters across the causeway. He's been on the force here since I was a small boy."

"What did he say about the silver?"

"He didn't say, he doesn't talk much. He asked a few questions about the Jacques and said he would drop in here this afternoon to take a look around. Mrs. Gregory is coming later—hope they don't meet—I asked her to have tea with us. Met her yesterday on the street, and she let it be known that her feelings were hurt that I had not invited her before. I—I asked her to bring Miss Rayburn."

Mark Trent slid from the desk and absentmindedly twirled a globe which showed the countries of the world as they had been before the Treaty of Versailles had remade the map of Europe.

"Do you think Brooke Rayburn suspects that we are here as amateur detectives, Jed?"

"Amateurs! We may be, but you've called in a professional on the job, haven't you? You can't tell what that girl thinks, but why should she suspect our reason for being here more than Field's, and one couldn't suspect that lad of ulterior motives. He always looks to me as if he were on the verge of kissing a lady's hand. Why didn't you accept the lead in Sam's comedy? It was offered to you, wasn't it?"

"It was, but long ago I outgrew dramatics. What do you think of 'Islands Arise'—that's the name of the play, isn't it?"

"That it will get a fair hearing, at least. The theater-going world isn't so cocky and hard-boiled as it was some years ago and it may appreciate Sam's ideas and ideals. You'd be a knock-out in the lead, fella."

"I wouldn't take part in the play if I were aching to act. I see the Rayburns as seldom as possible. Thanksgiving day when Brooke started to thank me for pulling her from under that car, I burned with shame when I remembered why I had accepted her invitation. I don't care for this spy stuff, even if I do believe that the girl by some hocus pocus hypnotized Aunt Mary Amanda."

"You show it. Getting to be the strong, silent type, aren't you, Mark? If you feel that way about her, why did you ask Mrs. Gregory to bring Brooke here this afternoon? You never have been fair to that girl. You started with the idea that she's crooked, and you're sticking to it like honey to a glass dish."

Trent blew a shrill whistle through his fingers. Stewart laughed.

"I get you, the stop signal. I'll toss her a posy, then I'll quit. I'm supposed to be stage manager of Sam's play, but I'd sure make a mess of it without Brooke as my property woman. She's executive and then some. She never forgets."

"When does the play come off?"

"First Thursday in January. Sam thought of New Year's eve but gave that up for fear he couldn't lure a producer away from New York festivities."

"That isn't far off. We'll have a grand celebration here for the cast and friends who come from town. We'll invite the neighbors to supper and dance after the show. Have you a speaking part?"

Mark Trent stopped speaking to stare at the ceiling. Had a door banged overhead, or had he imagined the sound? The servants, Taku and Kowa, were in the kitchen at this time of day; they wouldn't be on the third floor anyway, he had not had that opened up, plenty of room below for Jed and himself.

A man entered the room with a purposeful stride. He was ample of jowl, slightly opulent at waistline; he had the flinty eyes of an eagle who can stare straight at the sun. A sense of force was his outstanding characteristic.

"Here I am, Mark. That Jap outside wanted to bow me in, but I shoed him off." Inspector Bill Harrison's voice was surprisingly soft with a persuasive inflection.

"Glad you've come, Inspector. This is my friend Jed Stewart."

Inspector Harrison nodded. "How are you, Mr. Stewart. Does he know about the silver, Mark?" He lowered himself into a deep chair and accepted a cigar.

"Yes, he's staying here to help me—us solve the mystery."

"What else have you lost?"

"Why do you think we've lost anything else?"

"Would you two city guys come to this burg to stay just to find a lot of silverware?"

"It's more than mere silverware; the pieces are antiques of great value."

Inspector Harrison pulled himself from the enticing crimson depths to his feet.

"All right, Mark, have it your own way, but I ain't mkin' up in a case where folks are holding out on me."

I work best when the interested party works with me. Get that?"

Mark's laugh was quick and disarming.

"Hold everything, Bill Harrison; you can't walk out on us like that. Sit down again. Jed, tell him what Mrs. Gregory told us about the will she witnessed. You understand, Inspector, that there may be nothing to it—so it's off the record."

"Say, Mark, do you suppose I climbed up on the force by talking my head off? I play the rules. Spill it, Mr. Stewart."

Stewart repeated Mrs. Gregory's astonishing announcement that she had witnessed a will of Mary Amanda Dane's of a date later than the will allowed; told of the decision of Mark and himself to turn detectives and of their absolute success to date.

Inspector Bill Harrison blew a perfect smoke ring.

"Did Mrs. Gregory say there was anyone else present but Mrs. Dane and the other witnesses when she signed?"

"No."

Mark Trent's answer was nothing short of explosive. The inspector's soft grudging laugh, in such marked contrast to his bird-of-prey eyes, brought guilty color to his face. It wasn't keeping back information not to tell that Brooke Rayburn had driven in that afternoon just as Mrs. Gregory had driven out from Lookout House, was it?

Inspector Bill Harrison rose. With a cigar tucked in one corner of his mouth, he nodded.

"I'll be going. Guess I've got all the dope. Don't give that Henri Jacques and his wife the idea that you've missed the silver. Let it drop out of their minds. When you have any news, come to headquarters, don't phone. That reminds me. Know anything about the people who've started the filling station here on the point?"

"No. But I understand that Henri Jacques is recommending them."

"Oh, he is? That Henri's just naturally helpful, ain't he? Well, I must get back." He added in his soft persuasive voice:

"Whenever you're ready to come across with the name of the other party who was in the neighborhood of Lookout House the day that last will of Mrs. Dane's was signed, Mark, I'm just across the causeway. I'll be seeing you."

"Don't go yet, Bill!"

He hadn't leave thinking that he and Jed were holding out on him, Mark realized.

Jed Stewart grabbed Mark's shoulder.

"Hold on, Mark. See who's here!"

Mark Trent turned. Surprise brought him to his feet, wiped the smile from his lips. That couldn't be Lola on the threshold! It was Hunt, her name was now, Lola Hunt, he must remember.

"Say, Mark, I'll be making my get-away."

He nodded response to Bill Harrison's mumble. Knew when he opened the door which led to the print room and vanished. Evidently the inspector didn't care to meet Lola. Who did? With the question Mark thrust his hands hard into his coat pockets and took a step forward.

"Well?"

The sound was more a growl than a word, he realized, as he looked steadily at the woman who had been his wife. Had been. At last he had come to think of her in the past tense. It had taken three years to accomplish that. The shame, the humiliation, the unbearable heartache he had suffered in the years they had lived together swept over him in a sickening tide. What did she want now? She was the type of woman who constantly and everlastingly wanted something. Wasn't he giving her enough? There had been no justice in his giving her anything, but when she had written him that her current husband was out of a job and that she was hungry, what could he do but make her an allowance till the man found work? Her clothing had a cheap smartness; the dark brilliance of her eyes was intensified by artificial shadows; her skin was thick and flushed; her short black hair needed trimming; her mouth drooped at the corners. She pouted lips which resembled nothing so much as a bloody smear.

"Don't stare at me as if I were a ghost from out a purple past, Mark. I told you Jap that I was an old friend, that I wanted to surprise you. I hate to keep the gentleman standing. Won't you ask me to sit down?"

Without waiting for an answer, she sank into the large chair before the fire.

"Still pals you two, aren't you? Funny how much longer friendship lasts between men than love between a man and woman. Mark, I came here to talk to you. Jed, you may go."

Mark Trent's hand closed on Stewart's arm with a grip which turned his nails white.

"Jed will stay and hear what you have to say. Surely we can have no secrets from the man who saw us through the divorce court."

She shrugged. "All right with me. I've nothing to lose. Thought you might object to having what I say get on the air."

"Methinks the lady is implying that I'm a gossip."

True Courage

WHAT is courage? Many people like to be considered brave, but there is a difference between mere physical bravery and true courage. Alexander Pope, the renowned English poet, gives his concept of a brave man in these words: "A brave man thinks no one his superior who does him an injury; for he has it then in his power to make himself superior to the other by forgiving it." Oftentimes it takes courage to forgive an injury, but if the sense of forgiveness should be overshadowed by a belief in one's own superiority, the act of forgiving could in no wise be termed courageous. It certainly would fall far short of the standard set by Christ Jesus, who said (Matthew 5:44), "Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you, and persecute you." This admonition calls for true courage, for it requires humility and selflessness to meet its requirements.

Christ Jesus was the most courageous man that ever walked the earth because he was the meekest and most selfless. Never did he hesitate to say or do what he knew to be right, and always his speech and actions were prompted by unselfed love. He rebuked sinners unhesitatingly, and he sacrificed his human sense of life to show them the way of salvation. His ministry of healing and teaching stands for all time as the scene of selfless devotion to sin-burdened and suffering humanity. He was absolutely convinced of the truth of all that he said and taught, and neither threats nor efforts to destroy him could swerve him from his convictions or make him fearful. He urged his followers to do as he did, and thereby earned the hatred of selfish materialists. He knew, however, that immeasurable blessings would flow to all who should courageously and understandingly obey his admonitions.

In the world today there are many millions of professed Christians, but alas, too much diversity of opinion concerning the teachings and works of the master Christian. Why should this be so when Jesus so clearly mapped out the course to be taken by his true followers? They were to do the works that he did—works of healing as well as regeneration; they were to practice self-denial; they were to promote love and peace throughout the world; and they were in all circumstances to put their trust, not in material things, but in God. And, said he (Matthew 7:20), "By their fruits"—their accomplishments along such lines—"ye shall know them."

Courage of the right sort is sorely needed in the world today, the moral courage to subdue self, to be humble, pure-minded, free from resentment, ready to return good for evil. Such courage is a rebuke to animal courage, of which there is a superfluity. Concerning this, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, Mary Baker Eddy, states in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" (pp. 28, 29): "There is too much animal courage in society and not sufficient moral courage. Christians must take up arms against error at home and abroad. They must grapple with sin in themselves and in others, and continue this warfare until they have finished their course. If they keep the faith, they will have the crown of rejoicing."

This much-to-be-desired crown should not be considered as something to be hoped for in some future existence, but as a joyous sense of harmony and spiritual dominion to be striven for and attained here and now. It requires real courage to win and wear this crown, courage to stand firmly on the side of Principle against selfish desires, and oftentimes against the scoffs of sinners.

There is nothing more ennobling than courageously forsaking material beliefs for spiritual understanding, for this transition requires humility and unselfed love. Also, it affords deep satisfaction to know that whatever is accomplished through courage, born of unselfed love, blesses not only the individuals directly concerned, but, in some degree, all mankind as well.—The Christian Science Monitor.

Mrs. Grace Bennett and Mrs. Kirk VanWinkle of Lansing were Tuesday dinner guests of Mrs. Wm. Mercer.
