

Pinckney Team Opens at Milford

Local High School Foot Ball Team Opens Season This Week Friday. A Hard Game Expected

The local high school football team will open their season at Milford Friday of this week. Pinckney has not played this team in a couple of years. In the two previous games played back in the years when Lucius Wilson and Arnold Berquist were captains Milford won by means of an excellent forward pass attack and a first broken field runner, Atlee by name.

Pinckney's lineup has not yet been decided upon as a number of players have not yet been able to practice regularly with the team. So far they have lined up as follows: Ends, Vincent Young, Cy Atlee; Tackles, Abe Lincoln and Lloyd VanBlaricum; Guards, Martin Lavey and Bill Baughn; Center, Jack Harnett; Quarterback, Ed Myers; Backs, Francis Shehan, Howard Read, Capt. Keith Ledwidge and Joe Lysack. Others on the team are Gerald Vedder, Bobbie Martin, Earl Berquist, Russell Gardner, Glendon McClear and Charles Smith expect to carry out for the team later.

The complete schedule is as follows:

Sept. 24—Milford at Milford.
Oct. 1—Hartland at Hartland.
Oct. 8—Manchester at Pinckney.
Oct. 15—Ann Arbor at Ann Arbor.
Oct. 22—Romulus at Pinckney.
Oct. 29—Hartland at Pinckney.
Nov. 5—Ann Arbor at Pinckney.

Romulus is a new school on the Pinckney schedule which Pinckney high school teams have never before met. Not much is known of them except that they usually have a good basket ball team in the state tournament.

The opening game scheduled with Brighton to be played here last Friday had to be forfeited to Brighton as Pinckney had not had the required two weeks practice which a new high school interschool rule requires. In order to comply with this rule many schools, including Brighton held practice before school opened.

The high school athletic association is having a number of football programs printed and the funds raised by the sale of advertising and program will be used to defray the expenses of the team. These programs contain the names of the Pinckney players, the schedule and a place for the names of the opposing team. A different colored program will be sold before each game. The program will make interesting souvenirs in the years to come.

No teacher as yet been hired for the primary room and Mrs. Doyle is still in charge.

The twelfth grade of the Pinckney high school held a class meeting last Thursday, Sept. 16. The following class officers were elected:

President Mary Ottwell
Vice Pres. Vincent Young
Sec'y. Mary Hoisel
Treas. Howard Read

The Girl's Athletic Assoc. had a meeting Wednesday. They elected the following officers:

President Mary Hoisel
Vice Pres. June Amburgey
Sec'y. Victoria Moss
Treas. Rose Mary Read

The association will hold a dance the middle of October.

A telephone has been installed in the superintendent at the school.

The Junior Class has organized with the following officers:

President Victoria Kulbicki
Vice Pres. Glenmon McClear
Sec'y. Muriel McEachren
Treas. Lloyd VanBlaricum

MARRIAGE LICENSES

The following have applied for marriage licenses at the office of the County Clerk:

Chester Catlin, 21, Hartland, Helen Coffey, 26, Milford; Earl Ward, Jr., 31, Howell; Laura Brander, 19, Detroit; Charles Baker, 22, Dearborn; Samuel Grobense, 21, Howell; Charles Wong, 22, Fowlerville; Gladys Misher, 26, Cadillac; Jesse Black, 22, Brighton; Wilma Marie Cole, 20, Brighton; Frank Fowler, 33, Brighton; Myrtle Black, 49, Detroit; Fred Ludwig, 21, Van Wert, Ohio; Carolyn Sutton, 25, Detroit.

State Takes Over Road Maintenance

State Highway Dept. Will Take Over Maintenance of State Trunk-Line ROADS on Dec. 1

The state highway dept. will take over the maintenance of the state trunk lines in the following counties starting Dec. 1, 1937: Dickinson, Delta, Leelanau, Newaygo, Sanilac, St. Joseph, Branch, Livingston and Washtenaw. Garages will be built or leased in all the counties. In Livingston one will be built at Brighton and a sub-garage at Pinckney. In Washtenaw 1 at Ann Arbor and a sub-garage at Saline or Chelsea. This will make 50 counties out of 83 in which the trunklines have been taken over by the state; previously the county road commissions did the work on contract.

WALKED OUT ON BAR CONVENTION SPEAKER

Some 80 or more leading Democrats walked out of the state bar convention meeting at Ann Arbor last Friday when one, Rand, from Miss. launched into a scurrilous attack on President Roosevelt and the Democrat party in general. The convention was supposed to be non-partisan but it wasn't. The speaker started out by saying he was a Democrat but was against the New Deal and also against the Dirty Dealers who preceded the New Deal in power. He then stated the Democrat party had stumbled its nose at the Constitution and that President Roosevelt's Constitution address would probably prove his obituary. At this point Ben C. Hughes, a Detroit attorney got up, said he had listened to enough insults and walked out followed by John Lynch, regent of the University of Michigan. George Burke, dean of the Washtenaw county bar and chairman of the convention, Walter McKenzie, former assistant United States district attorney and Martin Lavan, Brighton, state central committeeman. We understand E. C. Shields and Don VanWinkle were not present. About 80 in all walked out whose names the state press who made little of the affair failed to print, except that of Hughes.

IS AWARDED HONOR

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Allen and son of Lansing, attended the National Air Show at Detroit Saturday and Sunday as guests of the Pennsylvania Central Air Transport Co. over whose lines they made the trip. This honor was conferred upon the Allen family because of Donald being named the winner of first prize in an essay contest sponsored by the Jury Rowe Co. of Lansing and open to Lansing pupils from 12 to 16 years of age. Mrs. Allen will be remembered as Edna Darrow of this place; and Donald who is a 7-B pupil in the Pottengill school was one of the youngest among one hundred eighty seven contestants. Local friends and relatives join in congratulations.

SPROUT-SOULE

Cards are out announcing the marriage of Miss Phyllis Sprout of Pinckney and Charles Soule of Fowlerville on Saturday, Sept. 11, 1937, at LaGrange, Indiana.

Miss Sprout was a graduate of the class of 1936 of Pinckney and has since had a position at the M. S. S. at Howell.

Mr. Soule was a graduate of the class of 1935 at Fowlerville and has a position with the Detroit Edison Co. They will live in Howell.

NATIONAL BIRTHDAY BALLS FOR THE PRESIDENT

A total of $1,090,779.23 was raised by the 3,800 President's Birthday Balls held in 1937 and by private donations for the relief of sufferers from infantile paralysis. Of this amount local communities retained 70 percent and 80 percent was sent to the national committee for presentation to the Warm Springs Foundation.

NO SUNDAY HUNTING LAW

The "No Hunting on Sunday" law goes into effect on Oct. 15, 1937. We understand two special deputy game wardens will be assigned to each township to enforce the law. Many have told us that they think the part of the law forbidding a farmer from hunting on his own farm unconstitutional. This has never been ruled on by the supreme court but in Monroe where a similar law is in force Judge Golden ruled it constitutional.

Celebrated Golden Wedding Tuesday

Unadilla Couple Celebrate Their Golden Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bullis who live on M-36 about five miles west of Pinckney celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home last Tuesday. The event was observed on the same farm which Mr. Bullis's grandfather, Charles Bullis, took up from the government 103 years ago and where Mr. Bullis has spent his entire lifetime, since his birth there Sept. 23, 1861. He was the son of the late Charles Edward Bullis and Jane Carr Bullis. Mrs. Bullis was born on the Sharp homestead, three miles west of Gregory. Her parents were Fred and Christine Sharp. They came to the farm as bride and groom and cared for Mr. Bullis's parents until their death in 1901 and 1903. They have one son, Arthur, who with his wife and five daughters has lived in the double house on the farm.

Mr. Bullis has a brother, George, living near Pinckney and a sister, Mrs. Mary Montague at Flint. Three sisters are deceased. Mrs. Bullis has a brother, Harry and two sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Taylor and Mrs. Ellsworth at Stockbridge. Other sisters are Mrs. Hutson and Mrs. Joseph Bowen at Gregory and Mrs. Jane Ayrault of California.

A large number of relatives and friends called during the day.

WINANS LAKE CASE DECIDED

Judge Collins has handed down a decision in favor of the Winans Lake Hills Corp. and against Mrs. Eva Moon and sons. The original deeds of George Winans and George Hovey gave them title to all lands under the lake to high water mark. These deeds were purchased by the Winans Lake Hills Corp. The Moons claimed the right to go fishing and boating on the lake on the grounds they had enjoyed these rights for the past 40 years. Judge Collins ruled that they did not establish the legal element necessary as a user of the lake. Shields & Smith were attorney for Winans Hills and Dwyer & Dwyer for the Moons. This gives the corporation exclusive fishing rights on the lake.

NEW CAR MAKES TWO QUICK OCEAN TRIPS

One Detroit made automobile that traveled probably farther in shipment than it did under its own power, for the first year of its life, was recently turned up in the records of the D. of State at Lansing.

Late in 1936, a new 1937 model rolled off the assembly lines of a Detroit factory, to be shipped to Germany. There is was purchased and shortly thereafter, brought by its owner back to Detroit, his home.

Friedrich Hopfield, 2275 Calvert Avenue, Detroit bought the car at Koln-Solz, Germany, on Nov. 11, 1936. The unusual history of the car was revealed when the owner applied to Leon D. Case, Secretary of State for a Michigan title. Employees of the Department of state were hard pressed trying to read the German title. It was in the form of a pamphlet, voluminous with information—all in German.

See the new 1938 Buick now on display at the Charles A. Bryant Sales Room, Howell, Mich.

A fight is being made to stop the circulation of petitions for a referendum on the new welfare reorganization bill passed by the legislature. If sufficient signatures are secured it will tie up old age pension funds and unemployment insurance for one year as a vote on it cannot be taken until then. Supts. of the poor are said to be circulating these petitions in many places as the new law abolishes this job. In others paid circulators are receiving 2 cents per name.

What is the world coming to, According to press bulletins many high schools are finding difficulty in getting enough candidates out for football to round out a team. It was not thus in the old days. Then the coaches had to turn material away as there were no facilities for handling all of it. Many schools have had to drop football on account of a scarcity of material. In the Tri-County high school league Diamonds, Halett and Everett have dropped out for this reason. In base ball its the same way. Most teams carry players from 35 to 40 years old because there are no young players to replace them. To be a success in athletics hard and constant practice is necessary and good physical condition. This does not seem to appeal to the average student.

Over in Washtenaw county a short time ago a welfare family moved into a school district which maintained no school, there being no children of school age. They demanded transportation for their children to another district. This was refused. The case went into court and the district in which the family lived was ordered to pay the transportation charges, the judge ruling that the constitution guaranteed to every child an opportunity for an education. The same situation has cropped up in Royal Oak township. The county relief commission moved 18 welfare families there with 38 children. The school was too small to handle them and too deep in debt to provide additional facilities. So these 38 children have no place to go. Supt. of Instruction Elliott has been appealed to and is trying to work a solution.

Current

The much heralded New Deal test in the primary for mayor of New York City shows the New Deal still triumphant. Senator Copeland, Anti New Deal candidate assisted by Al Smith who bought a new brown derby for the occasion, his old one went into the ash can when he went over to the Liberty League, raved in vain about the iniquities of the New Deal. In the vote count Judge Mahoney, the New Deal candidate beat Copeland 2 to 1 and in the Republican primaries Mayor LaGuardia, a Roosevelt supporter beat him even worse. This election tends to show that this working people are still strong for President Roosevelt. Also that the KKK issue raised over Judge Black and stressed by Senator Copeland made no impression to speak of on the hundreds of Catholic, Jewish and negro voters of New York City.

Supt. H. T. Smith of Fowlerville high school in a letter in the Fowlerville Review last week warns high school graduates against fake correspondence schools. These schools usual claim is that their course is as good as a regular business course and much cheaper, that they will guarantee you a job. The books are usually sent by them to you COD. Many of these schools are frauds. Before you sign up with any you should get in touch with your school superintendent and ask for a letter to the superintendent of public instruction who will advise you regarding them.

If anything should cause the return of prohibition it will probably be the menace of drunk driving. Statistics show that one fifth of the traffic fatalities are caused by drunk drivers and apparently no headway is being made towards abating it. Many authorities are lax about the drinker at the wheel and only too willing to reduce a charge of drunken driving to one of disorderliness. The only result is to make drunk drivers believe they can get away with it and so they repeat the offense. When the drunken driver becomes a nuisance a Philander Knox; M. J. Reison vs. John Dime et al.; Wm. Abbey vs. John Pinckney; Russell Woodruff vs. Axel Dibble; George Richards vs. Arthur Mann.

Robert Conway, 24 year old, sex murderer of Anna Bracey of Chicago, admitted that addiction to marijuana cigarettes made him to commit the crime. His confession is corroborated by his wife. She says they got along all right until he became an addict to marijuana. Then he was so cruel she was compelled to leave him.

Washington Digest

National Topics Interpreted
By WILLIAM BRUCKART

Washington.—It always comes about that when a nation or an individual acts without thinking a problem through all of its angles, there is a fine mess at the end. There can be no surprise, therefore, in the mess confronting this nation over the policies and laws affecting the relations between labor and capital. The condition probably constitutes the worst mess of any we have seen in the last five years—and the end is not yet.

At the present time we find not only bitter strife between the old established American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization headed by John L. Lewis; a national labor relations board that cannot be described by any stretch of the imagination as being unbiased, and political leaders from President Roosevelt down the line are quite unable to determine what their position should be between the warring factions of labor. Meanwhile, we find employers wholly unable to deal with either faction successfully because of the interference of the labor relations board and the instability of responsible officials.

The case in point and the incident that brings the situation immediately before the American people involves a comparatively small number of workers but it exposes all of the fallacies that have been allowed to become part of the law of the land through the labor relations act which was forced through congress by Senator Wagner, New York New Dealer, with Presidential support.

Late in August, the United States district court in Pennsylvania issued a decree that the National Electric Products corporation of Ambridge, Pa., must sign a wage contract with the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, an organization affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. The court ordered the action as a result of difficulties between the American Federation of Labor and the United Electrical Workers which is connected with the Committee for Industrial Organization. The manufacturing corporation had no alternative but to comply with the court order. If it did not do so, its officials faced jail sentences for contempt.

Within a week thereafter, along comes the national labor relations board with a ruling that the manufacturing corporation must sign a wage contract with the Committee for Industrial Organization union or be subjected to the penalties and punishment provided in the Wagner labor relations act. The board took this position with full knowledge of the federal court decree. It went so far, even, as to say that "the decree (of the court) is no bar to the instant proceeding under the national labor relations act or to the making of an order by the board under the terms of that act, that the respondent shall cease and desist from discriminating against the employees because they decline to join the brotherhood." In other words, the board took the position that the Wagner labor relations act was the supreme law of the land and the board, therefore, was the sole arbiter regardless of the court action.

I do not know anything about the merits of the workers' claim that the manufacturing company had mistreated workers, had fired men for union activities or had engaged in attempts to break up union organization. Those claims may be fully justified; indeed, the chances are that there was anti-union activity on the part of the corporation and that it should receive a legal kick in the pants for these things. But whatever that situation is, the fact remains that the national labor relations board consistently has horned into every controversy and, whether it means to be that way or not, its actions have been favorable to the Lewis Committee for Industrial Organization.

Further, among the most extreme of the New Dealers themselves, one frequently hears the observation that the labor relations board has given no consideration at all to the rights of the employer.

Of course, the board claims it is acting under strict construction of the law. Then it holds that congress intended it to take the place of the courts in deciding as between labor groups. It is to be remembered, however, that all members of the board are appointees of President Roosevelt and the presumption naturally follows that Mr. Roosevelt must approve of the board's policies. It is too much to suppose that the board would act against the wishes of the man who named its individual members.

All of these facts make it appear that instead of having a labor policy, we have on the statute books a law that has led us straight into the mess that I described at the beginning of this discussion. I am wondering when it can be or will be corrected. Superficially, the facts of the labor relations board history thus far make it appear that the members of that board are aligned with John L. Lewis and the tactics he has employed. If they are, and if President Roosevelt wants to protect trade unionism in this country, it seems to me he ought to get rid of the members of that board and name commissioners who can be fair between the two labor groups whether they want to consider the rights of those who pay the wages or not.

On top of the situation I have described comes a fresh outburst from John L. Lewis in the shape of a threat against those officially responsible for administration of federal affairs. In fact, few persons could have heard the Lewis Labor day radio speech without realizing that the shaggy haired C. I. O. leader was telling Mr. Roosevelt to refrain from placing any obstacle in the C. I. O. pathway. Some commentators went so far as to say that Mr. Lewis had slapped the President's face in that speech.

It will be recalled how some time ago the President told the newspaper correspondent in a press conference that he was taking no sides between the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O. The expression he used was a line from Shakespeare: "A plague on both your houses." I quote Mr. Lewis' reply to that remark: "It ill behoves one who has supped at labor's table and who has been sheltered in labor's house to curse with equal fervor and fine impartiality both labor and its adversaries when they become locked in deadly embrace."

Thus it becomes plain, I believe, that Mr. Lewis is determined to go forward with his labor problems into the depths of politics. From his $25,000 home in Alexandria, Va., Labor Leader Lewis directs the hundreds of subordinates, the reds and pinks, the whites and blacks, from which he apparently expects to develop a political organization strong enough to control this nation.

President Roosevelt is on another "inspection trip" of the nation. Before he left, he told the press that he wanted to see for himself what the New Deal had accomplished, explaining that there would be a few speeches, but that there would be more "intake than outgo" on the trip.

Washington political observers almost unanimously agreed, however, that the inspection trip had a much deeper purpose. They noted that the President was visiting various states from which there were members of the United States senate who had opposed the President's plan to increase the Supreme court by six appointees of his own choosing. Among these senators were Wheeler of Montana, Burke of Nebraska, Clark of Missouri, and O'Mahoney of Wyoming. They noted further that some representatives who had been outspoken in opposition to the court bill were privileged to have the President visit their home districts.

These political students arrived at the conclusion I have mentioned despite the declaration of Postmaster General Farley who, as chairman of the Democratic National committee, said that there would be no reprisals against senators and representatives who had opposed the court bill. Mr. Farley's promise of no reprisals came, however, after the now famous radio speech by Senator Guffey of Pennsylvania. Mr. Guffey is chairman of the Democratic senatorial committee which has the job of promoting election of Democratic candidates for the senate. When he said, therefore, that opponents of the court bill ought to be defeated and listed the names of a number of senators who should not be re-elected, it does seem that there may be a connection between the Guffey speech and Mr. Roosevelt's inspection trip. Some commentators have been uncouth enough to assert that the inspection trip by the President was for the purpose of determining whether it would be possible for the New Deal to obtain destruction of those Democrats who had disagreed with the White House.

Aside from the court bill, it seems entirely reasonable to suppose that Mr. Roosevelt desires to gain knowledge of the country's general temper. He has refrained from announcing whether he will call a special session of congress this fall to take up agricultural legislation, saying only that he will decide later. Secretary Wallace is very anxious that this shall happen. Officials of his department have been traveling by plane, train and motor through the country during the last two months in an effort to build up sentiment for the secretary's kind of farm legislation. They have been making these trips at taxpayers' expense, too.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK...

By Lemuel F. Parton

NEW YORK.—Possibly better than "horse and buggy" days would be "square-rigger" days as a phrase of poignant retrospect.

There was a touch of nostalgia in the amazingly expert press stories and beautiful pictures of the Newport getaway of the Conrad and the Seven Seas—the only seaworthy square-riggers left in America—on their recent race to Bermuda. Both boats have Diesel engines, for emergencies, but they stow all that, and it is perhaps a bit tactless to bring it up now. This is a machine age holiday.

With all its shortcomings, the power age does enable some people to make enough money to get away from it once in a while. Young G. Huntington Hartford, owner of the Conrad, is the inheritor of a $200,000,000 chain-store fortune. That's a good beginning for anyone who wants to voyage back into past epochs—whether his taste is for old houses, old prints, old ships, or even a horse and buggy. Simplicity comes high. Mr. Hartford spent $75,000 getting the Conrad in racing trim.

One doesn't think of a demon squash player as a sailing man, but Mr. Hartford was a squash racquet wizard in his undergraduate days at Harvard, in the class of 1933. He is the only son of Mrs. Henrietta G. Hartford, of Newport and Charleston, getting about a lot, having a wonderful time and probably not "wishing you were here."

He takes a hand in all sorts of sports, and probably stirs more envy with this square-rigger race than in anything he has done or will do. He starts many an old gaffer dreaming he is out on the yardarm in a gale, and that—according to the Prophet Joel—is as it should be, providing the young men keep up with their visions.

Mr. Hartford bought the Conrad from Capt. Alan Villiers, Australian book sailor who sailed her all over the world in his literary argosy. She had settled down in the valhalla of old ships at Brooklyn when Mr. Hartford brought her to life again. The ship was built more than 50 years ago by the Danish government, which later used her as a training ship. Her proper name is the Georg Stage. She's a proud, staunch old ship, with two full suits of sails, decks of teak and two brass cannon on the poop deck. She is 100 feet 8 inches on the waterline.

BARON KONSTANTIN VON NEURATH, German foreign minister, asserts the right and intention of Germany to organize Nazi units abroad. The declaration comes at the peak of a drive by the reich to solidify and indoctrinate its minorities in all European countries and to unite Germans everywhere behind the national socialist regime.

In this activity, Herr von Neurath seems to have displaced the frenetic Rosenberg, of whom not much has been heard lately. The foreign minister is of the ancient Junker clan, close in with the monarchists and the army, of aristocratic feudal background, and his new ascendancy is interpreted by some observers as an indication of the increasing dominance of his allied groups, as against the newcomers who head the Nazi party.

He stems from pre-war Germany, a hefty, ruddy, stag-hunting aristocrat, of an ancient Wuerttemberg dynasty, with slicked gray hair and close-cropped gray mustache. He was a student of law, entering the consular service in 1900. Serving in many foreign capitals, he was ambassador to Rome from 1922 to 1930, and formed a warm friendship with Mussolini, whom he characterized as the ideal ruler. He dislikes public appearances and rarely makes a speech or grants an interview.

WHEN the President Hoover was hit by an airplane bomb, Admiral Harry E. Yarnell assumed emergency command of all American shipping in Far Eastern waters.

Since this isn't a real war, just what he can do about such random shooting isn't quite clear—there are no rules to govern the present situation—but, at any rate, he's riding herd on our ships and doing the best he can.

In the Boxer uprising, at the turn of the century, he was an ensign on the U. S. S. Yorktown. As America pursued her "manifest destiny," he hasn't missed any of the major excitements since then. Previously he had been in the Spanish-American war and the Philippine insurrection. He helped occupy Vera Cruz and he was an aide on the staff of Admiral Hugh Rodman when our ships were serving with the British grand fleet in the World war. He rose in the navy through his mastery of engineering techniques.

Striking Wools for Town, Campus

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

SMART clothes are alive with fabric interest this fall. The woollens that tailor to town and campus needs are especially intriguing and seeing that the first requisite of a perfect autumn wardrobe is a tailored outfit that will prove "first aid" no matter what apparel emergency may arise, here's telling you about the fascinating weaves that lead in fashion this season.

Tweeds especially have a lot of texture interest. They are nubbed and flecked in decorative weavings that capture your fancy at first sight. When you go tweed shopping, and of course you will if you are assembling a school-faring clothes collection, ask to see some of the new-season candlewick tweed, the latest herringbone weaves, smart diagonals, the houndstooth, tattersall, ropey plaid and sugar-leaf patterns, and you will feel, having seen these, that you have had a liberal education on the subject of tweeds at the very start.

The next thing is to decide on which tweed is the tweed you want most. To help you out we are suggesting a nubby beige tweed flecked with white such as makes the smart three-piece costume as shown to the left in the picture. Here is an outfit that is ideal for fall wear on campus or in town. It pretty near comes to being a whole wardrobe in itself. A suit that has a topcoat as has this is an economical buy no matter what it costs, for it takes care of the problem of an early fall coat since it can be worn as a separate wrap. Note its button-back revers, also the unpressed pleats running down from the slash pocket lines. The matching suit has a chic high lapel collar, triangular pockets and narrow leather belt. The skirt is cut straight and slims as a fashionable daytime skirt must be this season.

And we are not through talking about tweeds for we just must mention the especially lovely "winter pastels" that belong to the tweed family. More than likely you won't be able to resist them because of the fine shetland and other fine yarns used in the spinning. You can get novelty open weaves if you wish.

Very youthful and attractive for campus wear is the two-piece frock of sheer rabbit woolen centered in the group. The pleated-all-around skirt bespeaks "last word" vogue. You really must have a pleated wool skirt if you are going away to school to wear with your sweater, with your suede jacket, and with blouses galore. The wide shoulder line, high lapel collar and front-buttoned jacket closing are nice points but we've saved the nicest point to the last—those cunning little bows on the pockets! Now there's an idea that's going to send you right to the head of the class. Made of the very self-same material as the suit itself these bows add infinitely to the chic of this most attractive outfit and make it outstanding.

A luxurious natural wolf tuxedo collar runs the length of the topcoat of this stunning three-piece costume shown to the right. The tout ensemble is made of novelty woolen with a diagonal rib weave in deep brown flecked with beige. This outfit is entirely in line with the vogue this season that calls for lavishness of fur on suits and coats. The tuxedo effects are especially good this season. Handsome furs will be used unsparingly with care taken in achieving color blends that unify the costume.

Citing other fashionable wool weaves, there are the new coating fabrics that have long hair interspersed and tightly embedded in the texture, their sheer contrasting against the soft surface of the fabric. Tightly twisted boucle nubs are also decorative and colorful. Persian lamb cloth is a new fabric this season. For children's coats, a new chinchilla fabric in soft colors is important. Fleeces, both woven and knitted, are in demand. Suedes, velours and duvetynes are outstanding for dressy wear. For formal type costumes broadcloth is a leader.

DRAPE AND SHIRT

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

A perfect afternoon frock for the young girl is this style in spongy texture lightweight wool. The draped button-over neckline and the shirting at the bodice are very new and attractive. A narrow gold-colored belt accents the fitted waistline. The skirt is softly flared.

Double-Duty Capes

Enter the double-duty shoulder cape, which may be looped up over the wearer's head and used as a hood.

DAYTIME SKIRTS TO BE SHORT AND SLIM

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Short, slim and pencil-like is the dictum for daytime skirts. The accepted length for the suit skirt is from twelve to fifteen inches from the ground. Depends on how conservative you may be. Of a necessity these narrow skirts often have slashed hemlines. Daytime dresses hover about twelve to fourteen inches from floor.

For evening dresses the newest thing is the short-in-front hemline. In fact uneven hemlines are a most important styling detail. A few designers continue to favor the short full ballerina skirts for dance frocks. There are dinner gowns galore that are ankle length and sheathlike, for the most part in sleek black, many of which are enlivened with glittering touches.

The majority have high necklines with flattering short sleeves. However, in the practical daytime dresses long sleeves perfectly fitted, also bracelet sleeve lengths are featured.

Slide Fasteners Used

The Schiaparelli type of housecoat developed in flannel and fastening at the front with a patent slide fastener is popular.

Flaring Youth

For college girls and the very young, important collections include gored, flaring skirts and some which are pleated all around.

Add a Bluebird To Your Linen

Out across the tulips feathered friends the Bluebirds are so realistic when embroidered in dainty 10 to the inch cross stitch. See how prettily these bird motifs may be adapted either to border or corner various household accessories—breakfast sets, towels, scarfs or kitchen curtains. Tulips are in single stitch. Use gay floss. Pattern 1475 contains a transfer pattern of two motifs 6 1/2 by 8 1/2 inches; two motifs 5 by 9 1/2 inches; and four motifs 3 1/2 by 5 1/2 inches; color suggestions; illustrations of all stitches used; material requirements.

Send 15 cents in stamps or coins (coins preferred) for this pattern to The Sewing Circle Needlecraft Dept., 82 Eighth Ave., New York. Please write plainly your name, address and pattern number.

The Subconscious Mind

The expressions, conscious and subconscious mind, are well defined psychological terms. The subconscious mind may be defined as anything that is neither in the focus nor in the margin of the consciousness (that is, that does not receive attention and cannot be regarded as an actual experience of the moment) but which, nevertheless, must be assumed to be influencing the mind in some way.

HOW OFTEN CAN YOU KISS AND MAKE UP?

NEW husbands can understand why a wife should turn from a pleasant companion into a shrew for one whole week in every month. You can say "I'm sorry" and kiss and make up easier before marriage than after. If you're wise and if you want to hold your husband, you won't be a three-quarter wife.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature take up the system, thus lessening the discomfort from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three decades of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Don't be a three-quarter wife; take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and go "smiling through."

PINCKNEY LOSES FINAL GAME TO DEXTER

Four members of Pinckney's team had business elsewhere Sunday and as a result a patched up team was used against Dexter. This resulted in a lop-sided defeat by a 19 to 1 score. The Pinckney aggregation made eight bobbles and Harlo Haines got discouraged and tossed them over to Dexter. Pinckney outfield only caught one fly everything else going for home runs and triples. Dexter had a strong lineup, including Tillotson of the U. of M. and Bartling, Defrosia and Wacker of the Ypsi Normal.

In the other games Chelsta beat Saline and Hamburg won from Ann Arbor. Hamburg won in the first half of the season and Dexter in the last half. These two are supposed to play a three game series but we understand that Hamburg refuses to.

Conservation Dept.
Notes

The amended fishing laws forbid the taking of lake trout or white fish by hook or line during the closed season, in the great lakes. Lake trout is closed from October 1 to October 31 in Lakes Superior and Huron from Oct. 10 to Nov. 10 in Lake Michigan. Whitefish from Nov. 5 to Dec. 31 in Lake Michigan and from Nov. 1 to Dec 1 in Lakes Superior and the Huron.

25,095 acres of oil and gas leases were sold at the September auction sale. This is in Arenac, Bay, Clare, Crawford, Gladwin Midland and Rose common.

The murderous underwater attacks on children bathing in the new beach at Mt. Clemens have been solved. Several were bitten on the legs. Earl Goff, conservation officer suspected catfish. He set a night line of 40 hooks using old cheese as bait and caught two catfish weighing 4 and a half lbs. a piece.

The dept. has purchased a 200 gallon aerating fish tank for use on a pick-up truck to plant fish.

Crayfish are being reined by the hundredweight out of bluegill ponds for planting as food for game fish. They are about two inches long.

Trout fishermen report that there are still a few Michigan grayling left in the Otter river in Houghton.

A year around season on skunk became effective on Oct. 29 as this animal has been taken off the protected list.

Michigan delegates to the conference at Mexico have returned firmly convinced of Mexico's close cooperation.

Hunting for game birds and animals becomes legal in the upper peninsula on Oct. 1 and in the lower peninsula on Oct. 15.

NO HUNTING ON SUNDAY LAW

Effective Oct. 15

The New Law Forbidding Hunting on Sunday in Livingston County Adopted by the Voters of this County Last April Goes into Effect on October 15, 1937, and and I Have Been Ordered by the County Board of Supervisors to Enforce It. Under the Provisions of this Law No Property Owner Can Hunt on his Own Farm or Lands on Sunday. The Penalty for Violating the Law is a Fine, or Imprisonment or both at the Discretion of the judge.

SHIELDS-DRIVER WEDDING

Potting soils can be prepared before the trowl goes into action. A good garden loam of four parts can be mixed with one part of well rotted cow manure and one part of shredded peat. Also add a teaspoon of regular fertilizer.

The plant should not be in a draft for rapid circulation of air dries out the newly potted flowers.

Slowly down the aisle of St. Joseph's Catholic church, Dexter she walked in arm of her betrothed preceded by her sister. Edna Shields, as her bridesmaid, and Mr Gorman Kelly of Pinckney close friend of the groom, as best man.

The bride wore white antique satin in damask. A Charette Printess gown with high neck and modified leg of mutton sleeves well down over the hand, close fitting hip line and rounding gracefully to a modest train.

She wore a hat made of her gown material high off the face and draped with a circular veil over her face and falling to the shoulder line.

An orchid in natural color nestled in a bed of rose buds and ferns was her bouquet. Her jewels were pearls and rhinestone. The bridesmaid wore satin jacquard crepe in gold cut along the same lines, an interesting feature of her gown being a tiny peplum at the lowered waistline and a pleated dust ruffle in dark brown, a reminder of her mother's early days. She wore a brown velvet hat high in front and draped with a chinele dotted veil. A gold bracelet and brown kid gloves completed her ensemble.

The bride's mother wore black chiffon velvet with a shoulder bouquet of white gardenias.

The gowns were designed and executed by Miss Francis Shields, sister of the bride and recently from the Charette School of Costume Design at Hollywood California.

The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin White and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Clark of Pinckney; Mr. and Mrs. Norman White of Fenton; Dr. and Mrs. Chandler Blatchford of Battle Creek; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Driver of Notre Dame; Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Shields; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bates; Mr. and Mrs. John Hoey and Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson of Dexter; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Shields; Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Shields; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Belman; Misses Lulu and Ester Lutz; Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Baylis and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lohr of Ann Arbor, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Corner and Mrs. Catherine Belman, Detroit-Dexter Leader.

WISE GARDENERS BEAT FIRST FROST

Gardeners watching leaves turn brown are getting trowels in action to beat the time of Jack Frost with any specimen or house plants that are any worthwhile to nurse in the home.

A few pointers sounded by C. E. Wilson of the Michigan State College, may save grief for the man or woman gardener lacking in experience. Pointer first on the list is to limit the size of the catch.

"Pot p the most desirable plants, but do not take in more than will have room in the house or that can be correctly."

Most potted plants should be potted up in as small a pot as the root system would allow. Fuchias and geraniums will go into five or six inch pots. The overlooking begonias can be divided up and the divisions planted in four inch containers.

A reflector lamp Means GOOD LIGHTING!

Make sure that the lamp you buy has the reflector under the shade and you need never worry about whether or not you will have good lighting. These reflector lamps are scientifically designed to assure easy, comfortable seeing.

Every reflector lamp has a translucent bowl under the shade to filter the light and remove glare. The bowl serves to diffuse the light and give good distribution both upward and downward. Part of the light is reflected to the ceiling to provide general illumination. The white lining of the shade is one of the features designed to give you the most light for the money. A reflector lamp furnishes a soft, restful light that enriches the color and beauty of a room and its furnishings, and provides scientific protection against glare and eyestrain.

There is a reflector lamp styled to your needs—priced to fit your pocketbook. See the wide assortment of these smart new lamps today.

What would you do in case you happened upon a serious auto accident and found one of several occupants bleeding profusely from cuts? Most people would rush to call an ambulance or a doctor, or hurry the injured to a hospital.

But, how about those precious moments when you are waiting for the doctor or are enroute to the hospital. Are you capable of administering first aid to stop the bleeding? Many many precious lives could have been saved if someone at the time of the accident had been familiar with the simple method of stopping bleeding by applying pressure with the finger at certain points on the body, depending upon the location of the injury.

One good thing about the Judge Black articles is that it crowded some of the foreign war news off the front pages of the newspapers. We believe the people are only mildly interested in these conflicts and will remain so unless by some chance we are involved. These countries are a long way off, and most of us will never see them. So our interest in them is similar to that in Caesar's Gallic wars or the battles of Napoleon Bonaparte.

One Ingredient of EVERY LOAN

Good character is the essence of every loan here, whether it be personal, commercial, or collateral with or without endorsement. Even if acceptable investments of double the amount of the loan were offered as security, the real basis for borrowing would be ability and willingness to repay—for no bank enjoys liquidating collateral to release "frozen" loans.

Hence the first consideration in making loans is the good character of the applicant. We consider ourselves fortunate in belonging to a community in which we are enabled to grant so many loans of all types—based on the integrity of our citizens and neighbors.

LABOR ROW SPLITS REPUBLICAN RALLY

The much heralded 'Declaration of Principals' was presented at the Republican rally at Bay City last Saturday and the plank in it relating to labor and condemning sit-downs and the lack of force used in settling them by Gov. Murphy split the convention wide open. So great was the difference of opinion on the issue that the entire declaration was tabled by a vote of 148 to 131. The entire declaration bore a strong resemblance to the recent speech of Harry Toy at Kalamazoo when he fired his opening gun in his campaign for governor. Edward Barnard, Wayne county boss and foe of Toy led the fight against it and made the motion to table it which carried. He said it would drive labor forever from the Republican party and give the Democrats something to shoot at. The state convention was the proper place to make platforms he said. Rep. Jesse Wolcott of Port Huron also objected to the declarations against sit-downs. Other planks objected to was one condemning seorjuzation of the welfare dept. and the one on Senator Vandenberg. Many did not think the senator was given enough praise. The action of the rally was regarded as a victory for the liberal element.

Barnard's act is said to have resulted from a personal encounter between Barnard and Vern Brown in the anteroom before the meeting in which they pushed each other around. This was caused by a hand bill, signed by Brown, warning the meeting Barnard must be stopped. It was on account of this that Barnard killed the declaration.

TO BLACKTOP 300 MILES OF ROADS PER YEAR

State Highway Commissioner Murray VonWagoner has worked out a program whereby he will blacktop 300 miles of state trunkline a year. Rids were opened last week on 16 projects totalling 122 miles. This program is to be financed by the $5,000,000 a year appropriation enacted by the legislature and Gov. Murphy. The funds will be expended on trunklines that are off the federal aid system. At the present time there are about 3,100 miles of gravel trunklines in the state.

SYNOPSIS

Brooke Rayburn visits the office of Jed Stewart, a lawyer, to discuss the terms of an estate she has inherited from Mrs. Mary Amanda Dane. Unwittingly she overhears Jed talking to Mark Trent, nephew of Mrs. Dane who has been disinherited. Mrs. Dane had lived at Lookout House, a huge structure by the sea, built by her father and divided into two, for her and Mark's father. Brooke had been a fashion expert, and Mrs. Dane, a "shut-in," hearing her on the part of Lookout House, had developed a deep affection for her. Mark discloses that Mrs. Dane had threatened to disinherit him if he married Lois, from whom he is now divorced. He says he does not trust Henri and Claude Jacques. Mrs. Dane's secretary, he says, is not interested in an offer of Brooke's to share the estate with him. Leaving her department store job, Brooke refuses an offer to "go shopping" with Jerry Field, a carefree young man who wants to marry her. At a family conference she learns she must live at Lookout House alone, since Lucette, her younger sister who is taking her job, her brother, Sam, a young playwright, and her mother plan to stay in the city. Jed and Mark are disappointed when they hear from Mrs. Gregory, a family friend, that she had witnessed a hit-and-run accident with Henri and Claude two weeks before Mrs. Dane died. Brooke had arrived just as she was leaving. Jed suggests that Mark open his part of Lookout House, but Brooke and Sam try to find out about the will. Jed agrees to stay with him. Mark accepts Brooke's invitation for a family Thanksgiving dinner at Lookout. Mrs. Rayburn announces on Thanksgiving eve that she has been invited to England. Sam and Lucette decide to move in with Brooke and Sam plans to produce a new play locally. After the Thanksgiving dinner Brooke tells Mark that little of Mrs. Dane's silver collection is left. Jerry Field and his sister Daphne drop in and announce they will be neighbors for the winter. Sam adds them to the cast of his play. Later Inspector Harrison of the local police visits Mark and is informed about the missing will and silver. As Harrison leaves, Lois arrives. She announces that she and her new husband, Bert Hunt, have started a neighborhood filing station. Mark almost makes a break about the missing will and Brooke is suspicious.

"You're a darling, Brooke. I appreciate now the color, and the sense of 'God's in His Heaven, all's right with the world' you brought into Mary Amanda Dane's life. I had intended to start a boycott against you and your family here because you had cut Mark out of his inheritance, but he asked me to be nice to you. I adore that boy. I would do anything for him. He lived in a nightmare of humiliation with a wife who came home night after night barely able to keep her feet. Why, why can't women realize that it's their privilege to keep up the standards of decency? He stood by her, though, and held his head high, and wouldn't allow his soul to be warped by the experience."

Brooke left her town car in the garage when she reached Lookout House. She was thoughtfully drawing off her gloves as she approached the garden door of her house. A stream of light laid a golden path on leafless shrubs and gravelled walk. A woman was at the door! A woman in a fox cape. Mrs. Hunt! Talking with Henri.

Brooke stepped into the purple shadow of a spruce. She could see and she could hear:

"If you keep a level head we can't lose, Henri."

The man's murmur was indistinct. He closed the door softly as the woman went down the steps. She flung a furtive look at the windows of the house before she vanished in the dusk.

"That seems to be that," Brooke said to herself, before she started around Mark Trent's house that she might enter her own front door unobserved by a possible watcher in the garden.

As she entered the living-room at Lookout House, she rang for Henri. The green parrot squawked, "Stop!" ruffled his feathers, and hopped up and down in his cage. She was standing near the fire, letter opener in hand, looking over the mail she had found on the desk when the butler entered.

"Did anyone call, Henri?"

"On the phone, Miss?"

"At the house."

Henri opened the door of the parrot's cage. Mr. Micawber hopped to his shoulder and began tweaking his ear.

"Never mind about the parrot, Henri. Answer my question."

"But I take him out like this for a walk around three times a day, Miss; the old madame wanted him to have a change of scene. Not a person called at this house. Were you expecting someone?"

"Yes, the lady who is to have charge of selling tickets for the play given that she might come this afternoon. Probably she couldn't make it. That's all."

Her eyes followed him as he left the room with the green bird muttering on his shoulder. Always she had distrusted the man of whom Mary Amanda Dane had been so fond. Why should he have lied to her about Mrs. Hunt's presence at the garden door of Lookout House? Because the woman was there to see him of course. With her thoughts still on Henri and his evasions, she slit one of the envelopes in her hand and drew out the letter it contained. All thought of the butler fled as she saw that the letterhead was that of the firm for which she had been fashion adviser.

ary, of course, and percentage on the sales of the frocks you model. We'll put on a fashion show later in the season. Society girls as mannequins. We'll open this year January first. Don't say "No" until you think it over. Come in and we'll give you more details. Celeste and the directors are all for you on the job.

Yours truly—

Brooke's face flushed as she read the letter. Of course she couldn't accept—some girl who needed the money should have the chance—but it was thrilling to know that she was wanted. Palm Beach. All sunshine and fragrance and flowers. What a contrast to this stern and rockbound coast with the pound of surf, the wall of the siren, and the cries of gulls, to which she was anchored for the present.

The contents of the letter glowed in her mind as she dressed for the evening. It was heart-warming to know that her hard work had been appreciated.

Not until later, as, snuggled in a big chair before the fire in the living-room, she waited for Lucette and Sam to change for dinner, did the memory of Mrs. Hunt's presence at the garden door recur to her. Now it surged to the top of her mind. With unseeing eyes on the green parrot back in his cage, she thought of the woman's warning to her, of her threat to Mark Trent—it had been a threat, in spite of that sugary "darling." What had she meant? What object could Henri have had in denying her presence?

"How Perfectly Grand!"

Why should the remembrance of the low voice declaring: "If you keep a level head we can't lose, Henri," send icy prickles crawling up her spine and coasting down?

Brooke thoughtfully smoothed the lace of her dinner frock, lace the very shade of the high lights in her hair. If this were a movie, there might be a trick cupboard in the green paneling in which the silver had been hidden, but there was nothing so exciting here. She had been at Lookout House when the walls and trim were painted.

"Calling car 51 Car 51 Car 51!" The frenzied call brought Brooke to her feet, set her heart thumping madly. Then she laughed as the parrot with a squawk preened his green and yellow feathers. She made a disdainful face at the chuckling bird.

"Mr. Micawber, sometime when you yell like that I'll forget that I'm a perfect lady and wring your neck, Sam, did you teach the parrot that police radio call?" she demanded, as her brother entered the room.

His eyes twinkled behind the lenses of his horn-rimmed spectacles. He pulled a piece of cracker from the pocket of his blue coat.

"Sure, I taught him. I've been at work on that bird ever since I came. Here, stout fellow!"

The parrot twisted his head completely round, blinked lidless eyes, before he nipped at the reward which Sam had thrust through the bars of his square cage.

"That bird's a peach, Brooke. You can teach him anything if you try hard enough. Boy, I wish I had him in the play. He'd show some of the stiff how to speak their lines."

"Who's the biggest problem?"

"Daphne Field. She's pretty enough but dumb. She'll stop the show, all right, but not because she's an actress. Here's a feed-part for the leading woman. She's one of those darn fool girls who go off their heads in a crisis—in real life, I mean, not in the play. Glad she's not in the lead. Laura Crane, who is, is good; she's got plenty on the ball."

"How is Jerry in his part?"

"Okay, but I don't like the man who is playing the male lead. He's a spotlight hog. I wish Mark Trent would take it. He's just the type and a natural. I think he's great—and—he's darn friendly, but—" Sam leaned against the mantel and faced his sister. "Have you ever thought that he is not particularly keen about the Rayburn family?" Brooke said thoughtfully:

"Would he be likely to be keen, as you express it, about a family which was spending money that he felt should be his? I think he has behaved decently."

"Who said he hadn't? I have a kind of feeling, that's all. He told Jed Stewart that we might take anything we liked from his house for stage setting. But all things considered, I'll be glad when the show is over; sometimes I think I've written a smash hit and sometimes that the play is just a lot of tripe. I daren't hope for one or two first-string critics to give me the low-down on it. Anyway, a manager who liked those two sketches I wrote for the Workshop is coming for the opening to give it the once-over, and he'll bring a New York producer."

"Really, Sam! How perfectly grand! We—"

"Hi! Soft pedal! Here comes Lucette. I don't want her to know that they'll be in front, it might rattle her."

There was the sound of running feet on the stairs, a gay voice singing. Lucette dashed into the room. Her black hair was silken; her thin frock was only a shade redder than her lips and cheeks and fingernails. She dropped to the rug in front of the fire, hugged her knees, and looked up at her sister.

"How soon do we eat, Brooke? I'm starving."

"Henri waits till he hears you tumble downstairs before he announces dinner. What kind of a day did you have?"

"Hectic. Every woman in the city apparently has gone sports-clothes minded. They've stopped boasting of the extreme age of their frocks and hats and have begun to spend real money. They are buying for themselves and for Christmas gifts in spite of the fact that prices are being stepped up. I should worry. I get a sliver of commission on my sales. The girl who has taken your place had just one of those days, today. Madame Celeste was on the warpath. I brought Jerry Field down in the car. He was a gob of gloom when he came in and you were not here. By the way, who do you think runs that new filling-station in the white cottage?"

"Mark Trent's ex-wife and her husband!"

CHAPTER VI

Brooke stood before the fire in the softly lighted living-room at Lookout House. Three days had passed since she had received the letter offering her the Palm Beach position, since she had heard that the Hunts were the proprietors of the filling-station she had been patronizing. She had refused promptly the business offer and had dropped it from her mind, but she couldn't forget the other. Sometimes she wondered if she would ever think of anything else. Questions were everlastingly popping up. Had Lola Hunt gone to Mark Trent's house to tell him about it, or had he known all ready? Why later had the woman been talking so confidentially to Henri at the garden door of Lookout House? What had she meant by: "If you keep a level head we can't lose, Henri"? What was behind that snapped off "wit" of Mark Trent's?

Why was she spending a moment's thought on Mark Trent's problems? Hadn't she plenty of her own? She frowned at the empty gilt cage. Where was Mr. Micawber? When she had come in this afternoon, Henri had been wringing his hands. He had gone completely French as he chattered, but she had gathered from the jargon that when he had stepped out on the lawn with the parrot on his shoulder, the door had banged behind him and the frightened bird had flown away. It wasn't that she cared for the parrot, she detested him, but Mrs. Dane had loved him and she felt as if she had broken faith with her benefactress.

"Wake up, sister!" Lucette prodded from the doorway. "Sam and I have been staring at you for three minutes, trying thought transference. Nothing doing. We couldn't penetrate your skull. You've been scowling as if addressing a hall full of women who refused to rally to your one-time battle-cry."

"Old age isn't necessary, it is nothing but a germ! Watch out that you don't pick it up!"

Brooke laughed. "I had no idea that the precepts of her elders made such an impression on our little sister, had you, Sam?"

"No. I—Where is Mr. Micawber?" Brooke told him.

"No kidding, what do you know about that! I'll bet Henri let him go."

"He wouldn't do that, Sam, though he should have known better than to go to the open door with him. Mrs. Dane wouldn't have the bird's wings clipped; of course he would fly when he got the chance. Henri takes all the care of him, thank heaven. I think he adores him, if he can adore anything. Curious, Mr. Micawber likes Henri and you; he doesn't try to conceal the fact that he dislikes Lucette and me. I'm really troubled about the parrot. He may be flying outside, and Mrs. Dane was so careful never to expose him to draughts. Who is calling, I wonder?" Brooke asked, as the butler passed in the hall on his way to the front door.

Vying for Your Favor

This frock, which is my weakness in plum-colored wool, was as easy to make as it is to wear.

"Later on I'm going to have a velvet version with short sleeves—these slim lines and elegant shoulders were just made for this queen of all fabrics—and evidently I go for things royal."

The Patterns.

Pattern 1348 is designed in sizes 12 to 20 (30 to 38 bust). Size 14 requires 4½ yards of 39-inch material, plus 1½ yards for contrast.

Pattern 1304 is designed for sizes 34 to 46. Size 38 requires 3½ yards of 35-inch material, plus ½ yard contrasting.

Pattern 1374 is designed for sizes 12 to 20 (30 to 38 bust). Size 14 requires 2½ yards of 54-inch material. With short sleeves, size 16 requires 4 yards of 39-inch material, plus ¼ yard for collar in contrast. To trim the collar requires 4½ yards of braid.

Household Questions

Cleaning Brass.—Never use vinegar to clean brass. Though it cleans at first, it soon causes tarnish. The proper materials for cleaning brass are oil and rottenstone.

Removing Tobacco Stains.—Tobacco stains may be removed from washable materials by moistening with lemon juice and bleaching in the sun.

Egg as Cleanser.—The yolk of egg may be used for removing mud, chocolate or coffee stains from any kind of material except velvet. Rub into the stain, wash off with warm soapy water, and rinse thoroughly.

Treating Dry Glue.—Vinegar added to dry glue will make the glue fit for use again.

Cheese and Tomato Salad.—Three ounces of cheese, two medium-sized tomatoes, seasoning, salad cream, lettuce leaves. Grate the cheese fine, then skin and chop up the tomatoes and mix to a paste with the cheese, adding seasoning to taste. Serve the mixture on individual plates, surrounding with lettuce leaves. Sprinkle the salads with a little finely grated cheese and decorate with small pieces of tomato.

THE NEW "REGULATED" HEAT!

.... WITH A DUO-THERM
OIL-BURNING CIRCULATING HEATER!

Here is a new kind of heat... heat that you can fully adjust to changing weather.

On mild days, you can turn your Duo-Therm down to a tiny, smoke-free flame. Cold days?—turn on all the heat you want!

A dial does the trick!

Just a mere turn of a dial gives you this "regulated" heat—just the amount of heat you want... when you want it! And that means—you don't need to burn oil at zero-speed on mild days. You can turn the heater down at night... you save oil!

Less waste... more heat!

A Duo-Therm doesn't "heat all outdoors" like heaters that burn with a high, pointed, wasteful flame. Duo-Therm burns with a slow, floating flame that licks lazily against the sides of the heater. It sends more heat into your home—and Duo-Therm has a special "waste-stopper" to keep heat from rushing up the chimney.

No ashes... no dirt... no noise!

Duo-Therm burns less expensive fuel oil. Burns silently. There is no odor. No smoke. No coal to shovel. No ashes. No soot to clean up. A cleaner home... a warmer home! Drop in today and see the new Duo-Therm... there are eight models... three beautiful finishes.

FARLEY TO GIVE ADDRESS

James A. Farley, Postmaster General of the United States will be the principal speaker at this annual banquet of the Ingham County Jefferson Club to be held at the Masonic Temple in Lansing, Thursday, September 30. It was announced Monday by Erban F. Baxton president of the club.

Postmaster General Farley is rated as one of the most prominent figures in national politics today, as well as a able executive and has to his credit the carrying of 48 states by the Democratic party in the national election last November. This is one of the few times that a cabinet officer has been prevailed upon to accept a speaking engagement in Michigan, and Baxton expects an overflow attendance. As one of the men closest to the administration of the Federal government, Farley's address is expected to outline and explain many of the policies that are being put into effect to aid in the recovery of the nation.

The Ingham County Jefferson Club long known as Central Michigan's strongest and most brilliant Democratic Club, in securing the Postmaster General for this purpose, is following its policy of presenting speakers that are only able and noted speakers. At the banquet last year the Club presented Daniel C. Roper, who sounded the keynote of the presidential campaign. Many were turned away from the doors due to lack of accommodations.

CROSS CURRENTS IN THE ISSUE

There are many cross currents in the resurrection of the Klan issue in politics. Anti-new dealers will of course try to capitalize the appointment of Klansman Hugo Black to the supreme court in every way they can.

This sort of thing reached a new high in absurdity last week in the New York city mayoralty campaign, when Candidate Copeland inferentially charged his Catholic rival, Mahoney, and his part-Jewish rival LaGuardia, with Klan sympathies because they have supported President Roosevelt who appointed Black.

Other klansmen, past or present, are holding offices under the new deal will be ferreted out and their shame cried from the housetops. And yet ironically the present day remnants of the Klan themselves almost unani-
