

Manchester Wins Game 12 to 0

Pinckney Is Again Forced To Bow To
A Heavier Team. Only Pinckney
Keeps the Score Down

Manchester high school triumphed over Pinckney here last Friday by a score of 12 to 0. The visitors were much heavier than Pinckney, two of their backfield men weighing around 180 lbs. They did most of the ground gaining and Pinckney with its light line could not stop them. Manchester was at least four touchdowns better than Pinckney and if they had stuck to carrying the ball would have probably scored 24 points. After a gain on an end or line play they invariably tried forward passes unsuccessfully as the passes were nearly all grounded or knocked down by Pinckney.

No scores were made in the first half. Pinckney completed some short passes Myer to Young but not enough successive ones to get anywhere. The Manchester forwards broke through the Pinckney line and broke up their running game. Manchester got up to the Pinckney 20 yard line twice but failed to score.

Manchester scored a touchdown in the third quarter after Golas, the big Manchester back had made a series of gains through the Pinckney line. The last Manchester score came in this last quarter when Pinckney attempted to punt from their own 30 yard line on fourth down had the kick blocked. A forward pass put the ball on the ten yard line and Middlemies went over for the touchdown. Cushman failed on both attempts to dropkick the extra points.

Almost the entire game was played in Pinckney territory with Pinckney on the defensive. The Pinckney line is green and has had little experience in tackling. About two thirds of the tackles were made by Howard Read and Edill Myer, two backfield men. These two played a great game. Read caught several passes. Myer made the only gains for Pinckney by running with the ball. Again Pinckney played with only one substitution. Tel Bourbonnais playing a few minutes for Francis Shehan. On account of Morlin Lavey's indisposition Glen McClear played his first game of the season at guard.

A good crowd was present. The local boys fought hard but just could not hold the heavier visitors.

Pinckney plays the Ann Arbor high school reserve team at Wine's Field, Ann Arbor Friday. This team usually has plenty of beef and the boys are in for another hard game. In fact their schedule this year is probably one of the hardest they have ever had.

NOTES OF THE GAME

We understand that some of the co-eds have been offering kisses to the team members after touchdowns. That explains some of the excited efforts of the Pinckney team to score.

Well the Pinckney Yell Team swung into action for the first time. They did fairly well but could improve. Their leader should work out in the gym so she could pull off some athletic stunts to stimulate their yells.

We wonder why Edill chased this Manchester ball carrier over to where the co-eds were before making the tackle. It was hard on Gayle Mandes bicycle as Ed the Manchester back and his bicycle got all tangled up.

Gerald Vedder seems to have the most pep of all the substitute players. We saw him running up and down the sidelines repeatedly. We don't see what he carried the pail for.

As there is no school Friday a good sized delegation should be able to accompany the team to Ann Arbor.

Senator Conzens To Be Honored

Week of Oct. 17-23 Set Aside To Honor Late Senator Conzens

In honor of this late Senator Jas. Conzens, Michigan will set aside the week of October 17-23 in commemoration. Senator Conzens endowed a "Children's Fund of Michigan", giving the under privileged children of the state the health opportunities they could not otherwise enjoy.

In one suburban district with which we are familiar, a dental clinic was established where much work was done for these children, eyes were examined and glasses fitted; infected tonsils removed; and funds were allotted for shoes, underwear, clothing and a milk fund.

One little boy, who had suffered from very poor vision all his life, with a cataract on one eye and poor sight in the other, received treatment for removal of the cataract and expert attention was given to the other eye, giving him a chance to live a normal life. During one summer, aid was given this community to help build a playground for all children.

PHYSICIANS ARE NOTIFIED OF PRE-NUPITAL EXAMINATIONS

Physicians throughout the state have been notified of new duties imposed upon them by the pre-nuptial physical examination law which takes effect Oct. 29, 1937.

Letters outlining the responsibilities of doctors were sent out by Dr. C. C. Slemmons, state commissioner of health. Copies of the act and a list of approved laboratories for syphilis diagnosis were included.

Persons found to have venereal diseases and to be unable to obtain certificates may not marry. The test must be dated not more than 15 days before the marriage license is issued and county clerks are punishable if they issue such licenses without such certification. An additional five days wait is required after application for marriage license.

The test for syphilis is mandatory, and the test for gonorrhea is optional. The doctors may charge their regular fee for the examination but the state must offer the service without fee. Osteopaths are included in the term physician used in the act. Dr. Slemmons said.

KINGSLEY FARM HOME BURNS

The farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Kingsley on the Pinckney-Howell road near Chubb's Corners burned to the ground about 3:00 A. M. Sunday morning. Earlier in the evening the chimney had burned out but it was thought the blaze had been extinguished. The family were unable to save but few of their household goods. At the present time they are living with their daughter, Mrs. Edna Campbell Chubb's Corners.

It is reported that the mewing of the family cat aroused the family consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Kingsley, their two sons and a granddaughter and saved their lives.

FINED FOR CARRYING LOADED GUN IN AUTO

Thurman Wright, 49, of Detroit, paid a fine of $100 and $12.50 cost for carrying a loaded gun in his auto. His father-in-law, Richard Melvin of Milford paid a $10 fine and $6.85 in costs. The two were hunting pheasants when they were stopped by Conservation Officer Wilkinson. He found two loaded guns in the car. As he reached for them Wright struck him. Wilkinson handcuffed Wright and took him to the Oakland county jail. The next day he was taken before Justice Calkins at South Lyon and fined. Both guns were confiscated.

Philathea Notes

This is the week for our regular monthly meeting and we are assembling this Wednesday for an all day meeting in the church parlors to sew rags and piece quilts with pot-luck dinner at noon.

The Philathea Class was well represented at the Rally Day services on Sunday, about 20 either taking part in the program or seated together in the audience. We hope all of our guests for the day will become regular attendants. Mrs. Zuss, our efficient teacher, contributed the class number for the program, giving three readings. Incidentally we would note here that the other classes in the school made a splendid record and the program as a whole was much enjoyed. Rally Day is over but its inspiration should go with us throughout the year.

Next Sunday the lesson committee gives us the lesson from James 3:1-18 for study of the topic "Christian Speech and Conduct." It will be worth while to study our own standards in the light of this portion of scripture, so come.

Our sympathy goes out to the Kingsley family in the recent loss by fire of their home on the Howell road.

The church benevolence report for the year 1936-37 read at the annual meeting showed the total yet to raise on our quota before January is $24.32 exclusive of stamps and order fees. Since that time a gift of $5.00 has been gratefully received.

Soil Conservation Survey Underway

Farms to be Visited in Next Two Months and Soil Conservation Payments Computed.

During the next two week farmers in every township of the county will be visited by farm reporters working for the soil conservation program. The material collected at the time of visitation will be used in the county office to compute the area of the farm that is into conserving crops and the area that is into depleting or other types of land utilization. Therefore it is very imperative that the farm reporter collect the right data and get the general direction or description of your farm.

As these farms have been surveyed by an aerial survey, each section will have its own photograph and by the description turned in from the reporter your farm will be identified from this picture.

Some townships are farther advanced than others due to the time that the reporters were started in them. So far we have had the best co-operation in this work that we have had on any of the previous federal programs.

We believe that the operators will be farther ahead if they do not listen or try to find out exactly how much money they are going to draw because of this time I believe that it is utterly impossible to evaluate the amount of payment. During the past year this has been a bad point with many operators. It seems that they had been told exactly how much their farms would net them under the soil conservation program and in many cases this was just a guess. As soon as final computations are made in the office it will be possible for you to obtain the approximate payment that you are to receive.

FORD PLANS PROGRESSING

We are asked many times what about the Ford project for Pinckney, how it is progressing? Not much information is being given out by the Ford Co. or representatives but that all the property desired by Ford has been secured although the deeds have not yet been drawn up. Getting the deeds ready takes considerable time and when they are delivered to the Ford Co. there will probably be some action started here.

The people of this section have co-operated 100 percent with the Co. in this enterprise. The Pinckney Board of Commerce has held several meetings and raised about $400 by personal subscription among its members to buy out the property owners who asked more than Ford would give. Many of its members have contributed freely of their time and money to put this project across and have made several trips to different parts of the state to help buy this property needed by the Ford Co.

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT

At a social function in Howell last week the marriage of Miss Margaret Robb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. E. Robb, to Joseph Brady, son of Mr. and Mrs. Matt Brady was announced to take place in the near future.

CURRENT COMMENT

The recent theatre riot in Ann Arbor recalls the famous riot there some years ago in which the Star Theatre was completely wrecked. The jail was filled to overflowing with students arrested for this crime. However it came to nothing as all of the fines of the students were paid by a collection taken up among the students of the university.

President Roosevelt's Chicago speech advocating a moral quarantine to stop the Japan-Chinese war is hailed as a masterpiece by many of those who have been panicking him in the past. Among these are Col. Frank Knox, Republican vice presidential candidate and David Lawrence, columnist. This anti-war stuff is O. K. with us as long as it stays inside the moral boundaries but we are absolutely against any attempt to enforce peace by means of armed forces, battle ships etc. We think that this people as a whole are only slightly interested in the Chinese and Spanish franchises as they have too many problems of their own to consider and the lessons learned by the late world war are still fresh in their minds.

CURRENT Comment

The papers of the county are carrying articles pro and con in regard to the state electrical inspection law. We have not printed any such articles. A Howell electrician was arrested and convicted in justice court of violating the state electrical inspection law and has appealed his case to circuit court in an effort to have the law declared unconstitutional. One of the articles was inspired by him in order to work up sentiment in favor of his suit. The state inspector came back at him with the other letter. We understand that this case will be made a test case.

Warden Joel Meade of Jackson prison states that a majority of the county jails are filthy, stinking places unfit for the detention of prisoners. This is probably so as when the bureau of federal prisons a few years ago looked over the county jails they blacklisted 23 of them. We understand that the county jail at Howell was quoted as follows: On account of this federal prisoners can not be kept in it over 24 hours.

The most significant thing about the Detroit primary last week was the big vote cast by John O'Brien the C. I. O. candidate. He received 99,128 votes and John Smith, the Labor Federation candidate 68,827. Richard Reading, the other candidate received 157,954. He is a former member of the typographic union but is regarded as the conservative candidate. Strong efforts are being made to unite the C. I. O. and Federation of Labor vote. Judge O'Brien has been a leading Democrat of the state for years and Smith a lifelong Republican switched over to the Democrats and supported President Roosevelt for election last fall.

The Lansing State Journal is trying to start a bid to nominate Glen Frank for governor. The Republican ticket in this district is the person who was once president of Wisconsin University and lost his job when he tangled with the I. O. O. F. The Journal says it is a forgone conclusion that the Democrats will renominate Conner, Transue and thinks Frank would make a fine candidate for the C. O. P. We wonder what Bill Blackney of Flint thinks of this idea. However you can put it in your pipe and smoke it that Frank will not be the nominee as Mr. Blackney is too well versed in things political to permit such a thing to happen.

Times have changed and we read that Bishop Mooney of Detroit has sat down on Rev. Charles Coughlin and the latter has cancelled his series of radio broadcasts scheduled to start this month. The bishop recently censured Rev. Coughlin for not showing sufficient respect for President Roosevelt. Rev. Coughlin announced a reply to the bishop which the latter refused to let him make and the cancellations of the intended broadcasts followed. Rev. Coughlin's broadcasts were interesting at first and commanded nation-wide attention. Of late they have been too abusive and personal to merit consideration.

The 38 tent colony children near Royal Oak are still without school facilities as the Langhams school district has voted down a proposition to enlarge the school to provide facilities to educate them. It is now up to the superintendent of public instruction to act. According to the law and court decisions of the past it would seem that the district would be obligated to educate them.

Once more the Klu Klux Klan issue has failed to dent the New Deal. Last fall William Connery was elected to congress in the 7th Massachusetts district. He received 60 percent of the vote cast. He is a Catholic and the district is heavily of that faith. He died and his brother, James was elected to succeed him at a special election in which Judge Black and the Klan were stressed by his Republican opponent. James received 59.81 of the vote cast. On this basis President Roosevelt would still carry 48 states in an election were held today.

A True Sentiment

That is a true sentiment which makes us feel that we do not love our country less, but more, because we have laid up in our minds the knowledge of other lands and other institutions, and other races, and have enkindled afresh within us the instinct of a common humanity, and of the universal beneficence of the Creator.

—Dean Stanley.

and do it the inexpensive way, too.

You can pay as high as you want for remedies claimed to relieve the pain of Rheumatism, Neuritis, Sciatica, etc. But the medicine so many doctors generally approve—the one used by thousands of families daily—is Bayer Aspirin—15¢ a dozen tablets—about 1¢ apiece.

Simply take 2 Bayer Aspirin tablets with a half glass of water. Repeat, if necessary, according to directions.

Usually this will ease such pain in a remarkably short time. For quick relief from such pain which exhausts you and keeps you awake at night—ask for genuine Bayer Aspirin.

WOMEN WHO HOLD THEIR MEN NEVER LET THEM KNOW

No matter how much your back aches and your nerves strain, your husband, because he is only a man, can never understand why you are so hard to live with one week in every month.

Too often the honeymoon expression is wrecked by the nagging tongue of a three-quarter wife. The wise woman never lets her husband know by outward sign that she is a victim of periodic pain.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Don't be discouraged with take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and go "Smiling Through."

SYNOPSIS

Brooke Rayburn visits the office of Jed Stewart, a lawyer, to discuss the terms of an estate she has inherited from Mrs. Mary Amanda Dane. Unwittingly she overhears Jed talking to Mark Trent, nephew of Mrs. Dane who has been disinherited. Mrs. Dane had lived at Lookout House, a bulky structure by the sea, built by her father and divided into two, for her and Mark's father. Brooke had been a fashion expert, and Mrs. Dane, a "shut-in," hearing her on the radio, had invited her to call and develop a deep affection for her. Mark disclosed that Mrs. Dane had threatened to disinherit him if he married Lola, from whom he is now divorced. He says he does not trust her and Clotilde Jacques, Mrs. Dane's servants. He says he is not interested in an offer of Brooke's to share the estate with him. Leaving her department store job, Brooke refuses an offer to "go stepping" with Jerry Field, a carefree young man who wants to marry her. At a family conference she learns she must live at Lookout House alone, since Lucette, her younger sister who is taking her job, her brother, Sam, a young playwright, and her mother plan to stay in the city. Jed and Mark are astounded when they hear from Mrs. Gregory, a family friend, that she had witnessed a hitherto unknown will with Henri and Clotilde two weeks before Mrs. Dane died. Brooke had arrived just as she was leaving. Jed suggests that Mark open his part of Lookout House, get friendly with Brooke and try to find out about the will. Jed agrees to stay with him. Mark accepts Brooke's invitation for a family Thanksgiving dinner at Lookout. Mrs. Rayburn announces on Thanksgiving eve that she has been invited to England. Sam and Lucette decide to move in with Brooke and Sam plans to produce a new play locally. After the Thanksgiving dinner Brooke tells Mark that little of Mrs. Dane's silver collection is left. Jerry Field and his sister Daphne drop in and announce they will be neighbors for the winter. Inspector Harrison of the local police visits Mark and is informed about the missing will and silver. As Harrison leaves, Lola arrives. She announces that she and her new husband, Bert Hunt, have started a neighborhood filing station. Mark almost makes a break about the missing will and Brooke is shocked. Returning home, she sees Lola talking covertly to Henri. "Mr. Micawber," Mrs. Dane's pet parrot, is missing. Henri is ugly and warns Brooke she had better like him and Clotilde. That night while the east of Sam's play is rehearsing and the Jacques are away, Mark shows Brooke the missing silver which he had found cached in an unused upper floor store room in his house. A black gloved hand pulls the key from the storeroom door.

"Jed stopped at your house for a minute, he'll be here pronto; the other actors—so-called—have gone home. I'll say I'm here early. After they'd walked through the first act, it was a choice between dismissing the cast or shooting them. I had a sane interval and decided not to shoot. I'm giving them tomorrow night off."

"Then I'll throw a party for the Rayburns and Fields at that new Supper club just opened in town. Give them a let-up from the play. What say, maestro?"

"Okay with me. It's darned good of you. Perhaps I have overworked them, but there is so little time before the performance." Sam sat up and ran his fingers through his hair. "With that so near, wouldn't you think those dumb-bells would know their parts? I ask you! Besides that, the leading man has walked out on us."

"It's tough. Can I help, Sam?" "Can you help? I'll say you can. 'Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their party.' Take the lead." He caught Trent's arm. "Be a good scout. Help a poor, distracted playwright-producer, will you? With you and the Crane woman in the leads, we'll make a two-star offering of it. That girl's good."

Sam's despair had changed to exultation. Mark Trent temporized: "How do you know I'm good?"

"How do those bozos out in Hollywood know an actor will be a wow on the screen sometimes before they give him a try-out? Something here, m'lud, something here." Sam tapped his broad brow, "tells me you'll be stopping the show."

"That same something couldn't tell you where I'm to get the time for a theatrical career, could it? All right, all right," Mark conceded in response to Sam's groan, "I'll take the part. Give me the sides and I'll try to know the lines at the next rehearsal."

Sam caught Brooke as she entered the room. He hugged her as he exulted:

"What d'you think, gal? Trent has signed up for 'Islands Arise'! Will he pack 'em in as the lead? I ask you!"

Jerry Field appeared at the door beating a huge spoon against a tin pan.

"First call for the dining car! First call—"

Sam held up his hand.

"Just a minute! We're all invited to dine and dance tomorrow by the new male lead in 'Islands Arise,' Mark Trent! Sam Rayburn announcing."

"You in the play, Mark?"

"How exciting!"

"Dinner and dance in the big city! What a break!"

Jerry Field interrupted the excited comments.

"Where are your gardenias, Brooke?"

His tone set Mark Trent's lips twitching. Under cover of lighting a cigarette, he caught the girl's furtive glance at the wastebasket. She put her hand to her shoulder.

"Why—why I must have dropped them."

"Where've you been?"

"Hi there, m'lud!" Sam's tone and manner were those of a stern parent guarding his offspring. "That isn't a topic for group discussion. We don't make people punch the time-clock in this family."

Jerry Field's face turned a bright and lively crimson; his voice and eyes were furious.

"I wasn't asking Brooke to punch the time-clock. I thought I might find the gardenias for her."

He stopped as Jed Stewart appeared on the threshold. He was tapping a gardenia against his lips.

"Run to earth, Mark. Who's the charmer who leaves a flower outside your door?"

CHAPTER VII

An hour later Jed Stewart slumped deeper into a crimson-cushioned chair in Mark Trent's library and demanded:

"How was I to know that Field had brought Brooke the gardenias? Didn't he look like a meat-axe though, when I barged into Lookout House waving that flower and giving the whole show away by telling where I picked it up? I'm the original village cut-up, I am." He lighted his pipe.

"It wasn't all my fault. I didn't know, did I, Mark, that you and she had been cruising round this house?"

"You didn't. I hadn't told you then that I had discovered Aunt Mary Amanda's silver parked in a storeroom. Decided to wait till I had the goods on someone, but I couldn't resist the temptation to show it to Brooke. You should have seen her eyes when she saw it piled on that table."

He poked the fire till orange and scarlet flames, shot with pale green, roared up the chimney and sent a tangy puff of wood smoke into the room.

"Started for the Sole Purpose of Chiseling Money Off Me, I suspect."

The sharp ring of the phone broke the silence.

"Trent speaking.—Lola! What do you want?—Not interested. If you like selling gas, sell it, only remember that the allowance stops.—Is she? Mrs. Gregory's word goes, here. You should have made sure of that before you set up shop.—What? What sort of paper?" Mark Trent looked at Jed Stewart who had come close and was moving his lips without making a sound. He nodded understanding. "I haven't rung off.—Yes, I heard what you said. I can't imagine how any paper you may have will interest me, but bring it here tomorrow at five.—Sure, I'll be alone.—Yes. Good-by."

Mark Trent cradled the telephone. He looked up at his friend.

"Lola has a 'paper' to sell me. She suggested that I have my check-book in hand tomorrow. What do you make of it?"

"If it is the 'paper' Mrs. Gregory witnessed, how could she get hold of it?"

"Henri?"

"She said he had written to her, didn't she? She's bringing it tomorrow afternoon! There's a catch in it somewhere. It sounds too easy. You don't think she'll back out at the last minute, do you, Mark?"

"Not if there is money in it. She said also that Mrs. Gregory was putting the filling-station out of business. It was started without a license. Started for the sole purpose of chiseling money off me, I suspect."

"Right as usual. What say we call this an evening? I'm due in court in the morning in my best Gentlemen of the Jury style; furthermore, we'll need our brains running wide open when Lola comes at five. She has a 'paper' to sell! Won't we feel cheap about our suspicions of Brooke if it proves to be the 'paper' we're after?"

"I stopped suspecting her some time ago. Shall we go up? We are getting provincial. If we were in town we'd be just beginning to go places. Toddle along. I'll put out the lights."

Mark banked the fire before he ran up the stairs. Jed Stewart yawned as he stood at his door.

"In spite of the late excitement, I'm sleepy. Nightie-night, Mark. I'll drop our problem into what the psychologists call the deep mind. Perhaps it will float to the top in the morning all nicely solved." He was whistling softly as he closed his bedroom door.

Mark crossed his dark room to the window. What a night! The sky was powdered with stars. The sparks of gold were like the lights in Brooke Rayburn's eyes when she was happy or thrilled, and she had been thrilled when she had heard of his plan to dine and dance in town.

He drew the gardenia from his pocket. Nothing beautiful about it now but the leaves. He didn't need a paper which Lola Hunt might produce to clear his mind of suspicion that Brooke had influenced his aunt in any way. He drew the flash light from his coat pocket. Lucky he had thought of it when he had taken Brooke to see the silver.

"Mark! Mark!"

Jed's voice? He laid the flower on the dresser before he opened the door. With the electric torch still in his hand he crossed the hall and knocked at Jed Stewart's door. He knocked again. Why didn't he answer? He flung open the door. A coat had been hung over the back of a chair. A shoe lay on the floor. Cold air was stirring the chintz hangings. Where did it come from?

The bath-room! Mark sprinted to the door and stopped in amazement. The window was wide open, but the air was strongly scented with perfume. The shower was dripping. Shaving materials were flung about as if hastily dropped.

He thrust his head out of the window. There were two ways to escape from the little balcony under it. Drop to the terrace, or through Lookout House. Had Jed and an intruder crashed in there? Brooke would be frightened. He'd follow them. He swung his leg over the sill.

"Stop!"

He went rigid in obedience to the hoarse warning, but only for an instant. Why was he perching like a dummy with the light from the room behind making him a perfect target for the person who had grunted? He moved his leg. No response to that from the balcony. Quickly he flashed his powerful light in the direction from which the sound had come. That would blind the person watching.

His eyes followed the light. In his amazement he lost his balance and pitched forward. At one corner of the railing, blinking and shivering in the glare, huddled the run-away green parrot.

Held up by a bird! He slid to the balcony. Reached for Mr. Micawber, grabbed him, flung him into the room behind him. He could hear the parrot squawking with fury as he closed the window.

"That seems to be that! Now, where's Jed?"

He peered over the railing. No uprisings on this balcony to slide down. The next one had iron tralises which connected it with the stone terrace. Had Jed entered Lookout House by the window? Who occupied the room of the next house which opened on it? He would investigate.

He tiptoed to the window, reduced the light in his torch before he flashed it over the glass. The shade was closely drawn and the sash locked. No one could have gone in there. Cracks of light were visible in the two rooms beyond where French windows opened on another balcony. Had Jed entered that lighted room? How could he get there? He was too stout to swing across. Could he himself do it?

He appraised the distance, stepped over, and swung. Cautionally he stepped over the rail and ripped his hands from the frosty iron.

With his heart drumming like an airplane motor he concentrated his attention on the window. A crack of light showed between the hangings. Whose room was it? Should he take a chance that it was Sam's or Brooke's and tap lightly?

A window was being opened cautiously. Where? He flattened himself against the house. Must be the end balcony outside the studio. He visualized the interior as he had seen it the day he had helped Jerry Field sketch in the tree trunks on the backdoor. Someone was crawling out! A man! He was sliding down an iron trellis like a monkey! Now he was running across the lawn bent double! He was entering the garage!

Mark Trent crammed the electric torch into his pocket and swung a leg over the railing. He hitched along till his feet found an upright, went down hand over hand, his palms sticking painfully to the iron as he moved them.

From purple tree shadow to purple tree shadow he skulked. Near the garage he hid behind shrubs. The click of a lock! He held his breath as he listened. Who had been in the Lookout House garage at this time of night? Whoever it was, was leaving. He could hear cautious footsteps. An automobile starting! He strained his ears. It was speeding down the street toward the causeway. That didn't prove anything, it would be easy enough to turn into a side road and cut back. Was the man who had sneaked from the house driving? Had he stolen the car? Even so, he couldn't follow it, he must find out why he had entered the garage.

Home Heating Hints

By John Barclay Heating Expert

Proper Size Coal for Furnace Keeps Fuel Costs Down and Avoids "Ashpit Waste"

HOME-OWNERS can't possibly get maximum economy and efficiency from their heating plants unless they burn the proper size coal. While different sizes can be burned in most furnaces, don't underestimate the importance of using the size—or combination of sizes—best suited to your heater to produce the most heat for the least money.

The size of the firepot in your furnace will, under ordinary circumstances, indicate the most efficient size to use. With a firepot—or interior—24 inches in diameter and 16 inches deep, egg size is usually recommended; 18 to 23 inches diameter and 12 to 18 inches deep, stove or chestnut size; less than 16-inch diameter, chestnut size.

Local climate, position of furnace, size of chimney and house sometimes make it advisable to vary these sizes. To be sure of what size coal you use, I would suggest you have your dealer call and advise you which size, or sizes, will give you the greatest heat value at the most economical cost.

Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—constantly produces waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging headaches, persistent backache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out.

Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance.

The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. The Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Ask your doctor for complete catalogue. Doan's Pills. Sold at all drug stores.

Judge George Sample granted the People's Bank of Manchester a temporary injunction restraining Whitney Palmer from holding dances in his barn. The bank holds a mortgage on the barn and holding dances there would release the insurance company from all liability in case of fire.

Judge Jacobs of Sturgis sitting in the Washtenaw county circuit court at Ann Arbor last Friday denied the petition of Mr. and Mrs. Lindauer of Chelsea for an injunction to restrain the state highway dept. from taking possession of their land and building a part of U. S. 12 highway across their land, south of Chelsea. The judge ruled that the Lindauer's attorney had failed to cite any authority for the court to enjoin highway construction.

According to an associated press report Martin J. Lavan of Brighton may be a candidate for president of the Young Democrats of Michigan now holding their convention at Muskegon.

A lone bandit held up Mattie's Cafe in Leslie last Thursday so quietly that the patrons present were not aware a holdup had taken place until the bandit had left.

Mrs. Elizabeth Rice of Munith was sentenced to from 5 to 20 years in the Detroit house of correction in the circuit court at Jackson last Friday. Her husband is already serving a term for the same offense, which was arson in burning their dwelling.

John Thompson, Livingston county bandit who made an escape from the Mellus hospital, Brighton, in his pajamas while recovering from wounds received at the time of his capture, has been transferred from Jackson prison to Marquette as a desperate character. He recently got away from the prison but was caught.

State Highway Commissioner Morton Von Wagoner announces a detour on U. S. 23. It will start at the intersection with U. S. 16 and extend ten miles northwest of Brighton while U. S. 23 is being paved.

The Milford Orchards Co. of Milford sold 500 bushels of peaches for $500 and 500 bushels of peaches this year.

Harry Geiman, now past 60 years old, won his 13th base ball game of the season last Sunday when pitching for Northville he beat Farmington 1 to 1.

The contract for building the new Wayne postoffice has been let to Spence Bros. of Saginaw for $57,100.

Clede Cleveland, Fowlerville barber, has been appointed coroner to succeed Claude Rounsaville, deceased.

Howell high school won their 3rd straight football game last Friday when they defeated Fowlerville 26 to 14. A half holiday was declared and practically the entire school and band accompanied the Howell team to Fowlerville where the game was played.

Charles Runeman of Unadilla has been appointed to the state tax commission to succeed Max Buck of Brighton.

Miss Sue Barnes was elected the chairman of the Livingston County Womens Republican Club at a meeting held at Howell recently. The vice chairman are Mrs. Alta Myer, Mrs. Blanche Wilkinson, Mrs. Minnie Graves, Mrs. Alma Bullard, Mrs. W. H. Cansfield, secretary and Miss Hicks, treasurer.

The seniors of Brighton high school have been making yearly trips to Washington D. C. Now it is planned to let any pupil who desires go and a Washington Club has been formed to raise the expense money. Ralph Noble, 48, of Deerfield committed suicide by shooting himself with a shotgun one day last week.

I feel that it is important to issue a warning about carbon monoxide gas at this time. It might be a little early to talk about opening the windows of the car while it is running in the garage, but nevertheless it should be a timely warning.

As soon as cold weather sets in people often run the motor in the garage to warm it up before driving. Whenever you must do this be sure that the windows and doors (all of them) are wide open so that you will get proper amount of air. By running the motor in the average garage for a period of three minutes with the windows and doors open enough gas is formed to kill you.

The gas is very poisonous. You cannot see, smell, taste or feel it.

in your home that should be

Light Conditioned

KITCHEN LIGHTING—150 to 200 Watts

STUDY DESK—100 to 150 Watts

Bedside lighting, bathroom lighting, kitchen lighting, and lighting for a child's study table... these should receive careful consideration, because these are the places where eyes are used constantly on tasks that require close visual application. These are the places where abuse of the eyes through poor lighting may result in permanent injury. These are places in your home that should be LIGHT CONDITIONED. Compare the recommended lamp wattage with the lamp sizes at these four locations in your home. Sizes are total: There may be one lamp bulb or several.

Good lighting at the bedside can help to prevent eyestrain caused by reading in bed. Good lighting on either side of the bathroom mirror will greatly facilitate shaving and primping. Good lighting in the kitchen makes cooking, dishwashing, and other kitchen tasks easier. And most important of all, good lighting at the study desk will help to protect your child's eyes against eyestrain.

Phone for a survey of your lighting today. There is no charge for this service. Measure your light with the Sight Meter and see for yourself whether you have enough light in these four important places to assure safe, easy seeing.

Conservation Dept. Notes

The total number of visitors to the 55 Michigan state parks this year was 9,000,000. This is the highest since 1933.

Six additional conservation officers have been sent to the Saginaw Bay district to curb water fowl poachers. Arthur Shaw of Cheboygan was fined $100 for illegal possession of 1749 lbs. of fish taken from Potomac Bay.

The Kaufman Aero Service of Philadelphia has been awarded a contract to make an aerial survey of Michigan's copper country.

State game wardens have been assigned to 11 areas in Calhoun county, 245 acres in Huron county, 110 acres in Lapeer county, and 160 acres in Tyrone township, Livingston county donated by Ray W. Robinson.

Three new conservation officers have been appointed. They are Owen Sanderson, DuPont, 1st, Corman, son of Henry Corman of Northville, and Howard Johnson of Dearborn.

Because of an error in mailing all trapping licenses bearing serial numbers from 1 to 24,970 are being recalled. Anyone having any of these licenses are asked to return them to the place where they purchased them.

A report has come from Lansing of a doe which has raised quadruplet fawns.

Hunters should remember that the Michigan Game Commission is now accepting applications for the 1938-39 season. Applications should be made for the 1938-39 season.

Full fishing for rainbow trout in head trout is permitted to reach the lake as the water gets colder.

Michigan's largest fishing license is non-resident license, year, then any other state. The total is $14.00.

The Michigan Game Commission has been authorized to take care of the game in the state of Michigan. The Michigan Game Commission has been authorized to take care of the game in the state of Michigan.

Anyone who has a trap with a license this year instead of the combined hunting and trapping license.

The frog season ends on October 31.

The conservation department is considering reviving the game warden's outfit by adding hickory and white trees. Most of the old ones have been cut down in land clearing and road widening.

It is expected that the total number of oil well drilling permits this year will exceed the 1000 mark in the state. Already 750 have been issued.

Approximately 700 residents received a notice from the state of Michigan following the upland bird hunting season.

Special licenses for those who wish to hunt deer and hares have been issued. The season is from Nov. 1 to 14, 1937.

The conservation department will harvest millions of trout from the state's lakes. The first 20 days of the season are from Nov. 1 to 20, 1937.

About 700-800 birds have been banded at the Manistowic state game refuge. The birds are being banded for the purpose of research.

FAST TITLE SERVICE PROVIDED BY CASE

Time required to secure automobile titles from the Dept. of State has been shortened. The new regulations are still in effect.

The D. C. Case, secretary of state, has issued a notice to the public. The notice is to the public.

While the daily pack of 8,000 to 10,000 titles mailed out to applicants, has passed for this year, the handling of the current volume of from 2,000 to 3,000 titles daily has been greatly expedited by a change in working and bookkeeping procedure within the department.

In every case where correct applications for titles are received in Lansing, titles are mailed out the same day. About 20 percent of the applications are returned, however, for correction. The most frequent cause of failure is failure to use the $1 fee for transfer of title plates.

This fee is imposed by law, no titles will be transferred until plates are also re-registered in the names of the new owners of the cars involved. Case has directed. In previous years this collection was at times deferred until the new owner applied for his succeeding years license plates. Case points out the theory, however, that to transfer plates to the new owner, permits incorrect identification of the car until such transfer is made.

Everyday Cooking Miracles

BY VIRGINIA FRANCIS

Director Hotpoint Electric Cookery Institute

Soon there will be bright rows of fruits and jellies weighing down thousands of cupboard shelves, for the delightful aromas pervading the kitchens all over the land announce that preserving season is in full swing. And what homemaker doesn't glow with satisfaction as she thrill cooker kettle is practically a made-to-order safe and economical sterilizer. Just put 1 cup of water in the kettle and arrange jars or glasses upside down on the rack. Then turn switch to HIGH heat until steam flows freely from vent, continue on HIGH heat for 20 min-the surveys the colorful rows that bear witness to her cookery prowess. However, nice as jellies look when they stand in shining rows, it's still nicer to be confident that every glass of "jelly" is as good as it looks—clear, firm and flavorful. And you can be confident when you make your jellies on the modern electric range, for the precision temperatures so important in jelly-making can be obtained and maintained at the flick of a switch.

In jelly making there is no place for guesswork and if you follow the simplified method I have outlined, you will find that jelly making is no problem at all when made on the Hotpoint electric range. If you have never made jelly on your electric range, you will be delighted with the "coolness of it all," for the new flattened carad hugs the bottom of the pan so closely that less heat can escape into the kitchen.

Sterilizing Glasses

But before we proceed with our jelly making, we'll have to provide for sterilization of our jelly glasses, but that, too, has already been thought out for us. Your capacious utes. For quicker sterilization you can place the thrill cooker kettle on the giant speedy surface unit, proceeding as above.

Method for Jellies

1. Select ripe or slightly under-ripe fruit. (Apples, currants, grapes, plums, quinces, etc.) Wash, remove hulls, stems, etc.
2. Cut hard fruit into pieces without peeling or coring.
3. Add enough water to barely cover fruit; less for soft fruits.
4. Turn switch on HIGH heat until water begins to bubble, then turn to LOW heat.
5. When fruit is soft, drain through bag of muslin. (Do not squeeze. Allow several hours for juice to strain.)
6. Use a small quantity of juice, about 2 quarts.
7. Bring juice to boil on HIGH heat; skim.
8. Add equal quantity of sugar (1 cup sugar for each cup of juice) and continue cooking on HIGH heat.
9. To test jelly dip spoon into boiling liquid and when two drops fall off the spoon simultaneously, the juice will jelly. Temperature test: 220° F.
10. Pour into sterilized jelly glasses. Cool. Cover with melted paraffin. Label and store.

Answers

1. There has never been a round-the-world airplane flight in that such a flight would require circling the globe at its greatest circumference, either along the equator or along a single degree of longitude.
2. It takes about 10 minutes.
3. The earth is encircled with more than 300,000 miles of submarine cables, 100,000,000 miles of telephone wires and 5,000,000 miles of telegraph cables.
4. Lebanon, in Eastern Smith county, Kan., is the nearest.
5. It is a substance which appears in many vegetable tissues as a constituent of the sap or cell wall. In making jellies its presence causes fruit juice to solidify.
6. Red fruits and vegetables bleach in contact with tin plate and foods with sulphur content discolor the can just as a cooked egg discolors a silver spoon. The stain is harmless but uninviting.
7. There are about 2,000,000,000 people on the earth, according to the 1930 estimates of the International Statistical Institute.
8. There are 6,189 registered hospitals in the United States. There are approximately 29,000 hotels.
9. In 1892 a fusion of industrial workers and farmers known as the Populist party, and roughly comparable to the Farmer-Labor party of today, mustered 1,027,000 popular votes and 22 electoral votes. The vote was about one-tenth of the total vote cast.

A MISTAKE TO WAIT

WHEN "ACID INDIGESTION" STARTS

CARRY YOUR ALKALIZER WITH YOU ALWAYS

The fastest way to "alkalize" is to carry your alkalizer with you. That's what thousands do now that genuine Phillips' comes in tiny, peppermint flavored tablets—in a flat tin for pocket or purse. Then you are always ready.

Use it this way. Take 2 Phillips' tablets—equal in "alkalizing" effect to 2 teaspoonsful of liquid Phillips' from the bottle. At once you feel "gas," nausea, "over-crowding" from hyper-acidity begin to ease. "Acid headaches," "acid breath," over-acid stomach are corrected at the source. This is the quick way to ease your own distress—avoid offense to others.

Washington Digest

National Topics Interpreted by William Bruckart

National Press Building Washington, D. C.

Washington.—It may be, as I have frequently been told, that the average person—Mr. John Q. Public—has very little interest in the doings of the federal reserve system. It may be true that the average citizen accepts the federal reserve banks as a thing apart and of little or no concern to him because they are so far removed and, further, because they indulge in what the demagogues used to call "high finance."

Whether my information is correct and regardless of the public concept of the federal reserve system, I am devoting some space this week to a discussion of certain developments in the federal reserve banking structure in an attempt to show the trend of money conditions in this country at the moment.

Lately, the federal reserve board of governors announced a revision of its regulations governing discounts and advances by federal reserve banks. Now, it may be said that these regulations affect only the banks that are members of the reserve system. That is true but it is not the whole truth because everything that the federal reserve board of governors and the federal reserve banks do affects you and me and everyone else whether we are little fellows and, therefore, unimportant individually, or whether we are trustees of great sums of money such as is the case with corporate presidents.

The board of governors, in the revision of its regulations, has made it possible—if not obligatory—for the reserve banks to take almost any kind of paper that is an evidence of debt. That is, the reserve banks are now empowered to receive from the member banks that paper upon which you and I borrow, any paper that shows that a citizen owes the bank money, and to give that bank money in exchange for the evidence of that debt.

Everyone, of course, is familiar with a note or a mortgage on a piece of real estate. Most people understand about installment paper which is simply a note providing for payment of the amount due over a period of months. But there are many other kinds of evidence of debt that is in frequent use among business men from the smallest storekeeper in a rural village to the greatest banker in the world. Under the regulations now operative in the federal reserve system there seems to be almost no paper which the local banker cannot send to the federal reserve bank and receive cash in exchange. Of course, that obligation must be paid off some time and the arrangement simply permits the federal reserve banks to carry the debt until its maturity.

All of this obviously sounds as though the federal reserve system is at last to be helpful to us little fellows. That is true. It is going to be helpful in increasing the number of us little fellows who get ourselves in debt. It is going to do that because it makes getting into debt easier.

I think no one should object to the reserve board regulations in all details. There must be credit given where credit is needed; that is to say when you prohibit borrowing money you choke off eighty-five per cent of all of the business done in the United States. Yet, credit is dangerous, a double-edged sword and must be handled with extreme caution by the borrowers as well as by the lenders. As we have seen from the inglorious debacle of 1929, there can be too much credit extended, and when I say that, I refer not only to loans by banks but the sale of goods, wares and merchandise that enter into everyday life. And, going a bit further on that line, there can be too much credit extended by the manufacturer and jobber to retail merchandising establishments just as easily as there can be too much credit extended by the retail merchants to you or to me. One can get into debt over his head just as easily by purchasing at retail or wholesale as by buying more land than we can afford to own or a home larger than we need.

So, a discussion of what the board of governors of the federal reserve system has done can lead in this instance only to a conclusion that danger flags are waving.

I do not want to exaggerate present conditions or signs as I see them. This is no time to become excited. There are, however, boundaries beyond which we cannot go in the matter of credit without facing another tailspin of the type of 1929. That is the thing I fear may result from an accumulation of federal policies of which the late action by the federal reserve board is only one.

It is perfectly human and natural for each one of us to aspire to better things, to have more of this world's goods for our enjoyment and to equip ourselves by way of greater resources for the future. We will do those things sometimes when we ought not to do them simply because the instruments are available and we do not stop to count the ultimate cost. To the extent, then, that the federal reserve board probably has made borrowing easier it has tempted a certain percentage of citizens, or will tempt them in the future.

The condition of easier debt that is now presented is, as I have said, only one of many temptations and inducements for getting into debt that has been offered by the Roosevelt policies. It is unnecessary to recount here how many pieces of legislation, how many executive and administrative rules have been made to permit citizens to use money that is not their own. They are almost numberless. The result has been, is, and will continue to be the creation of a lot of debt that will hang over us all for years to come.

The federal government itself has taken the lead in getting into debt. The latest Treasury statement shows that the United States government owes more than thirty-seven billion dollars. That amounts to $281.63 for every man, woman and child in the United States. Compare that with the national debt as of 1932 when it stood at $19,500,000,000 or a debt of $155.93 for every living person in the United States.

I do not know when, if ever, this gigantic national debt will be paid off. I think probably the American people with traditional tenacity will stick by the job and get it done some time, but I must refer to the job as a very slow process. It required twelve years after the World war debt reached its peak of twenty-six billion to reduce it by ten millions.

That reduction was more rapid than had ever been known before in any nation and it was made possible because of the prosperity which we enjoyed during those twelve years. It would seem, therefore, that we must consider not only a slowing down of individual debt making, but a sharp curtailment of national debt making as well. If we do not, a yawning cavern of unsounded depths awaits us.

Some weeks ago Mr. Roosevelt sent instructions to the various agencies of the government to save ten per cent out of the operations for the current fiscal year to help in balancing the budget. There were no ifs, nor ands, nor buts about President Roosevelt's instructions. The spending agencies were told simply to lay aside that ten per cent which, in the aggregate, would amount to around four hundred million dollars. The President said during a speech at the great Columbia river dam the other day that he hoped to balance the budget in the next fiscal year. Most other people hope that the President's hope is realized because Mr. Roosevelt has stated several times that the budget will be balanced "next year" and some of us are beginning to wonder whether his budget balancing statements are not like the statements which President Hoover made at the beginning of the depression. He said, you will remember, a number of times that "prosperity is just around the corner," a corner that still seems to be next year.

But Mr. Roosevelt must be commended and criticized at the same time for his budget balancing ideas. Mind you, no criticism can possibly be attached to the objective—a balanced budget. But commendation must give way to criticism on some of the things that are happening under the flat order for a reduction in spending.

Take this case for example: The National Park service, like other agencies, laid away ten per cent of its operations. This impounding of money happened to coincide with the greatest flock of visitors ever to enter the gates of the country's national play grounds. It costs money to police and protect the parks; it requires funds to provide for the comfort of the throngs of visitors to national parks. The result, in the case of several parks, was that they were forced to close their gates to visitors from a week to a month earlier than they usually do in the fall. Their money had run out.

Well, say you, what harm does that do? Simply this: Visitors to national parks, such as Yellowstone, for example, pay much more for entrance fees and the things they must buy while in the parks than it costs the government to maintain the parks. But that is the crux in this situation. The National Park service does not keep the money that is paid in by park visitors. Those funds are turned directly into the treasury as general revenue. The books of the National Park service, therefore, show only outgo.

The condition is, one, therefore, it seems to me, that almost warrants a statement that the policy is "penny wise and pound foolish."

AROUND the HOUSE Items of Interest to the Housewife

For That Nutty Flavor.—Try dropping a teaspoonful of peanut butter into each muffin pan before pouring in the batter. This gives the muffins a delicious nutty flavor.

Storing Linens.—In storing linens for a long period, it is better to roll them, as the material may be weakened by continued creasing.

Bananas as a Garnish.—Bananas make an attractive garnish when they are fluted. Peel bananas, score lengthwise with a fork, then slice crosswise.

Homemade Peanut Butter.—To make peanut butter at home, shell the peanuts, remove the red inner skins and grind the nut meats through a meat chopper, using a fine knife. Return to chopper and repeat until of the desired consistency. Salt slightly to taste.

Cleaning Woolen Clothes.—Dark woolen clothes which pick up lint easily are quickly cleaned by wetting a rubber sponge, then wringing it dry and sponging the garment.

Cleaning Brickwork.—Brickwork around the fireplace can be cleaned by scrubbing with any scouring powder with only enough water to form a thin paste. Follow by thorough rinsing.

Knit Those Patches.—Instead of darning large holes in men's or children's woolen underwear, knit a square large enough to cover the hole in stocking-stitch, using thin steel needles and fine wool, and sew it over the hole. It is neater than a darn and wears better.

Onion Fritters.—Boil 4 large onions until they will mash easily. Cook 2 ounces of rice, drain off the water, and allow to cool. Add 3 ounces of breadcrumbs, 1 teaspoonful sage, salt and pepper to taste, and 2 well-beaten eggs to the onions and rice. Divide into several portions, coat with egg and breadcrumbs, and cook in boiling fat until a light brown.

Egg Savories.—Boil some eggs hard. Halve them and mix the yolks with grated cheese, anchovy paste, or sardines. Add a little butter and seasoning. Fill the halves with the mixture and place on rounds of toast or fried bread. Put a slice of tomato between the egg and the toast.

To Freshen Salt Meat.—Put it into cold water, quickly bring to a boil, then let simmer.

Swank or Modesty of Kipling Undecided

John Shirley-Fox, the well-known British portrait painter, makes this contribution to the vast store of Kipling anecdotes: "In the early nineties, when Kipling's name was a household word wherever the English language went, some one took him to the British embassy in Paris. On being presented to the ambassador he remarked: 'You may know my name, Lord Dufferin; I am the son of Mr. Lockwood Kipling of Lahore.' Lord Dufferin told my father at the time he thought this reply either the biggest bit of swank or the most modest thing he had ever heard."

"Quotations"

A basis for wonder is the orderliness of nature.—Sir J. Arthur Thomson.

Thinking is one of the most unpopular amusements of the human race.—Nicholas Murray Butler.
A human being is a priceless thing—even when so encrusted with mire and sin as to be almost unrecognizable.—Rev. Edw. E. Pothier, S. J.

15,000 WOMEN IMPROVE THEIR SEWING

More than 15,000 women in 16 counties in the lower peninsula improved their sewing ability and made over some clothes that came from as far back as pre-depression days in projects sponsored last year by home economics extension of Michigan State College.

In a summary prepared by Miss Marjorie Eastman, clothing specialist, the work of the extension service indicated sewing is not due to become a lost art. In fact many rural women in Mich. are increasing their knowledge of proper style in clothing as well as those incidentals such as fixing collars, cuffs or buttons on shirts worn by the man of the house.

More than 3,100 of the women participated in frills. They learned how to make cartridge pleats, corded finishes, bound buttonholes and covered buckles.

Accessories, a word that modern motoring has made common, is also a clothing term. New accessories made by many women in the extension groups in the 16 counties totaled 6,306. These included envelope purses and neckwear. Better selection of gloves, shoes and costume jewelry was a part of the lessons in the community meetings.

Another fact emphasized by Miss Eastman included the slogan, "Better posture for better style." No elaborate routine of setting up exercises was practised, but the women were provided with simple suggestions and exercises which can be practised at home to improve both health and appearance.

Clothes today are simple to wear in comparison to the elaborate and heavy clothing of great grand mother's day, comments Miss Eastman.
