PROWLER GETS AWAY

Saturday evening a stranger about 40 years old entered several stores here and asked for clothing donations. He was fairly well dressed but appeared to be mentally unbalanced or under the influence of dope. The sheriff's office was called and Deputy Cass Clinton and Loren Bassett came over. The prowler also went to the home of Roy Reason and Lucius Doyle. At the Doyle home he was found hiding in the woodshed. When asked by Mr. Doyle what he wanted, he said clothing. However by the time the officers arrived he had disappeared and no trace of him could be found. On account of the desire for clothing the supposition was advanced that the man was an escaped convict and might have a companion for whom he wanted clothes to replace prison garb.

While here the officers investigated a number of gasoline thefts from cars parked outdoors. Several boys were caught siphoning gasoline from a car into their own Friday night but escaped before they could be identified.

Payments Are Awaiting Many

Many Payments Are Now Available for Persons Over 65 Years of Age

Thousands of dollars due to residents of Livingston County from the Social Security Board are unclaimed it was said today by R. W. Mayer, Manager of the Old Age Insurance in the Federal Building at Lansing.

We estimated more than 100 persons would file claims for lumpsum payments which are due them under the Social Security Act," Mr. Mayer said today.

For the entire calendar year of 1937 we estimated that at least this number would be entitled to these payments. But so far only 15 claims have been filed in Livingston county served by our Lansing office.

Any person who has attained the age of 65 years after working since January 1 in an occupation covered by the old age insurance portion of the Social Security Act is entitled to a payment of this sort. Mr. Mayer continued.

These payments are equal to 3 and one half per cent of the wages such workers have carried since the 1st of January. A similar payment will be made to the heirs of any person, regardless of age, who has died this year after having worked in occupations covered by the Social Security Act. As these workers have contributed only one per cent of their wages they are getting back 3 and one half times the sum they have actually paid into the Federal treasury. The same is true in the case of those who have died.

Our office is prepared to handle all claims of this sort and expert services are not required. We hope employers will call the attention of their workers to their right to apply for these lumpsum payments upon reaching the age of 65 years. Contributions to the old age insurance plan cease at that age and the claim should be filed, said Mr. Mayer.

FORD DEAL COMPLETED

Lee Lavey and Norman Reason were in Owosso Friday and purchased the Ledwidge flowage right for the Pinckney Board of Commerce. The board in turn will sell them to Henry Ford. Gerald McCleary, attorney conducted the negotiations for the Ledwidge family.

Special Session

By Congressman Andrew J. Transue

Farm Relief

In the second week of the special session of the 75th Congress farm relief bills were introduced in both the Senate House to aid the farmers of the United States in obtaining adequate prices in farm products. Simultaneously the White House issued a statement warning Congress not to exceed contemplated expenditures without providing additional revenue under the threat of a presidential veto. During the week the House held a 15 minute session on Thanksgiving and produced a Congressional Record of 4 pages including extensions of remarks in addition to proceedings of the brief session.

The immediate result of the introduction of agriculture bills was to stop a filibuster in the senate against the anti-frying bill. The House made immediate plans to discuss the farm bill for three entire days this week. House leaders readily acquiesced when several members requested more than two days that were originally allotted to the farm bill. Democratic Majority Leader Sam L. Rayburn of Texas declared that legislation of such importance should have the fullest debate to enable everyone who wishes to speak on the bill to have an opportunity to be heard before the House votes on the proposed legislation.

Wide Scope

Included in the crop control bills are provisions to regulate cotton, corn, wheat, tobacco and rice. The senate measure is considered more drastic than the companion bill introduced in the house with more severe penalties for sale of produce above the quota limits and a lower level of supplies necessary for the imposition of quotas. The house bill omits "parity" payments that are included in the Senate bill. In the wheat and corn sections that are particularly of interest to Michigan farmers the senate bill provides for voluntary acreage control if approved by two thirds of the voting growers with mandatory marketing quotas when supplies are more than ten per cent above normal; soil conservation and parity payments for co-operation, non-cooperators are subject to a loss of these grants and to a tax of 50 per cent of the parity price. Wheat and corn provisions are identical in the Senate.

In the House bill are provisions for wheat farmers including farmer-approved marketing quotas when increased yield and carryover total more than 25 per cent above parity of 15 cents a bushel for the sale of non-cooperators' excess. For corn and carryover exceed 15 per cent above normal; penalty tax of 15 cents a bushel for sale of above-quota production; acreage allotments and loans of from 55 per cent to 75 per cent of parity for storage of surplus production. Discrepancies in the bills being considered by the House and Senate will eventually be eliminated in conference.

Time Inadequate

Following conferences with the President before he started south for a nine day rest following his recent illness, Congressional leaders declared the present special session of Congress would not be long enough to permit tax revision. The President indicated he was ready for revision of laws taxing business as soon as Congress was ready to undertake the task. "It simply can't be done in the remaining three weeks of the session," Senate Majority Leader Alben Barkley said in a special message from the President was awaited by Congress this week as the executive and legislative divisions of the government were cooperating in every way to assist business and improve conditions throughout the nation.

Best Security

Critics of the administration challenged the policy of investing social security funds in government bonds during the week. Your Congressman asked them to point out a constructive alternative as a safe investment for the security funds. No constructive suggestion was forthcoming and none was offered. There was no answer to the question of what would be worth anything in the unlikely event that government bonds become

CURRENT

Senator Vandenberg got into the spotlight the past week along with Hoover and Landon and fired what was supposed to be an opening gun in his campaign for the presidency. W. K. Kellogg, commentator, calls his speech unimpressive in that he indulged in generalities and did not commit himself. It had a capitalistic tinge in that he favored repeal of the capital and surplus gains tax, amendment of social security and the Wagner Labor Bill, abandonment of the Wage and Hour Bill. He favored farm relief and soil conservation but did not state how. Senator Vandenberg seems to be pursuing the same course that he did in 1936. His caution may prove his undoing. He could have had the presidential nomination then but did not figure he had a chance so refused to be a candidate. If he does not take a definite stand his party may look elsewhere in 1940.

When Fred Janke, former high school star of Jackson, was elected Michigan captain for next year, the daily papers headed the announcement, "Bench Warmer Elected Capt." We hope that Fred has better luck next year and wins a regular berth. This year he spent most of the season on the bench. Capt. Rinaldi of this year's team also warmed the bench considerably. Hailed as one of the finest football players in the state he was out of the game with injuries nearly all of the 1936 season and did not come back as a starting regular this year until the last few games. We hope his bad luck is over.

As a special reward for their achievements in the ten day sale preceding Thanksgiving the Arbaugh store at Lansing gave turkeys to 60 of the employees. This awakens memories. The giving of turkeys at Thanksgiving or Christmas time was once a pretty general custom some 80 years ago or so. The Glacier Store Works at Chelsea which employed many men from this section adopted this custom for years. We know of many who received them and some of them may be readers of our paper. It is kind of bad that this custom has fallen into disuse. It gave employer and employee something in common.

Henry Ford in a press interview belittles the present slump as artificial and says no one may look at next year with any sign of uncertainty. It is just a pause before another climb. Two things contributing to it are politics and the stock market slump. The stock market has no permanent effect on business but it does on the state of mind of the person who plays it. It causes him to mistake his personal depression for a business depression. The auto industry expect a big season next year. Most of them have greatly increased their advertising quotas not only in the papers but in the magazines. We have this on good authority.

The saying that "Youth Will be Served" does not always work out. We read that a Mr. and Mrs. Guass walked from Ann Arbor to Dexter following their Thanksgiving dinner. They were not even tired by the effort. Mr. Guass is 61 and his wife 53. A dispatch from Grand Rapids still further beats this. It states that in Essex county, New Jersey, a walking contest was put on by the Walk for Health Club. 12 men and women set out to walk from Newark to Blairtown a distance of 68 miles. Just two men finished the race. An 18 year old high school student gave it up when just 12 miles from the goal. The other nine only walked 10 miles and quit. Now about the winners. Kircher, 62, who came in second was a retired mail carrier so walking was probably easy for him. But Paine, 53, the winner is a banker. This business did not tend to develop his legs. However both the winners lived before the auto era when men were forced to use their legs if they went anywhere. This constant exercise developed their legs to such an extent that today they can beat boys who should be in their prime but have never been used to walking any distance. How many generations will it be before we lose the use of our legs completely.

Improving Vegetables.—Sugar, added in the proportion of a fourth of a teaspoon to two cups of vegetables, will improve the flavor of cooked corn, beets, peas and lima beans.

Concerning Mirrors.—Never hang a mirror where it faces a glare of light. The back of the mirror should be protected so that no light or water could possibly enter.

Cleaning Brassware.—Brass ornaments should be put into hot soapy water to which soda has been added and scrubbed with a soft brush to remove any polish that may have stuck in previous cleanings. Finish off by rinsing with clean hot water and dry with a soft cloth.

National Topics Interpreted
By WILLIAM BRUCKART
NATIONAL PRESS BLDG. WASHINGTON, D. C.

Washington.—"The best laid plans of mice and men" will go off at a tangent, it seems, even when one political party is numerically in supreme control of the national government.

President Roosevelt called congress into extra session with very definite objectives outlined, and he repeated them in his regular message on the state of the Union. He wanted crop control legislation for relief of agriculture and he wanted wages and hours controlled by federal statute for the relief of labor. But congress, or a part of it, has turned out to be a balky mule. It has one foot out of the traces already and the driver is having a lot of trouble to keep the animal hitched.

The above is by way of saying that scores of Democratic members of the house and many senators with seats on the majority side have come back from a summer on the hustings quite convinced that it is not popular with the voters to be a rubber stamp. I do not mean by that statement that the President has lost control of his party machinery, or that he can not crack the whip and get things done; I mean that instead of having a few recalcitrants within his own party to deal with, he now has many, and members of congress are about like coyotes—their courage increases as their number increases.

It might be mentioned in passing that at least half a dozen Democratic members of the house have come back from home with plans to run for their party's nomination to the senate next year. The reason given by those with whom I have talked is almost the same in each instance. The incumbent senator who is up for re-election has been too much of a New Dealer. "Our people are calling for something besides rubber stamps." These potential senatorial candidates have records showing opposition to the President in some vitally important New Deal policies while supporting him wholeheartedly in other phases of his program.

No one can say how far this movement will get, but anyone who has observed congresses perform in other cases where the President was in his second term can not dismiss the circumstance as without significance. It is the usual practice for sitting members of the house and senate to stick close to the President, as party leader, in his first term—because they must seek re-election with his support. But now many of them regard President Roosevelt as through and they are starting early to make their record look good to the voters whom they will canvass next year.

These few paragraphs above must serve to introduce evidence of a much deeper fact. In many important places and among many powerful or influential men in congress one hears frequent references and observations to this effect: If Mr. Roosevelt is going to retain his control of the party and carry through on the propositions which he will make from time to time, he must cast aside a part, at least, of his radical advisers and the schemes they concoct.

As I related, the President outlined his objectives for the special session. Two or three years ago, they would have been received by the representatives and senators with loud acclaim, with ballyhoo. But in the first few weeks of the extra session, there has been just as much condemnation as there has been approval.

Nor can we overlook another phase of the situation. Not only have many of the men at the capitol declined to affirm the President's propositions; they have gone in the other direction. They have offered programs of their own. They are prepared to battle for them. In politics, that sort of a thing often has proved fatal to the plans of the man who then occupied the White House. It may not turn out that way this time but there are many observers who are sure the President is going to be forced into accepting some things he did not want or does not want just now.

Take the question of taxes, for instance. Rightly or wrongly, the President is being blamed for the current business depression and criticism of this sort is rolling up like a snowball going down hill. It is being said that two tax levies which were forced through congress are largely responsible. The tax on undivided profits of corporations and the capital gains tax are used as horrible examples of these unsound policies fostered by Mr. Roosevelt. Well, the President is responsible to the extent that he approved of them. They were the product, however, of some of the dozen or so peep-a-boo artists to whom the President frequently has listened as advisors.

I think it has been generally demonstrated that the two taxes in question have been ruinous, especially to the small business. It is equally true, I believe, that business must be given some consideration if it ever is to get on a sound basis again and that it ought to share attention of legislators with labor leaders even though business has fewer votes. In any event, the burdens which the New Deal admittedly has placed on business are serving as the springboard for a part of the Democratic majority. They can properly fight for these things—and easily be too busy to push the President's program through.

So the President's plans have gone astray. They may remain that way, or they may go even further, depending upon how long the backward slide of business continues. Of one thing, you may be sure. Partly through his own fault and partly through the fault of the type of advisors with which he has surrounded himself, Mr. Roosevelt does not have the confidence of as many members of the legislative branch as he formerly held.

It is a little early to attempt a report on prospects for the regular session of congress that convenes in January. Yet, since it is quite evident there will be nothing in the current extra session beyond crop control legislation—if even that—I believe we might look forward a bit. One of the things now evident is the position congress will take on relief for destitute and unemployed. I believe I see a battle coming in that direction.

It has been apparent during the last two years that congress was dissatisfied with the relief system built up by Secretary Ickes and the professional reliever, Harry Hopkins, works progress administrator. The requirements, especially for the Hopkins machine, have been met with what has come to be called "blank check" appropriations. That is, congress has passed a bill appropriating two billions or three billions or whatever was thought necessary by Mr. Hopkins. It was just as simple as that. Congress had no strings on the money, seldom was told a great deal of the details. It was money to feed and clothe the destitute.

Now, however, some observers think they detect a change. They believe they see signs that congress will put an end to the "blank check" method of handling relief. As far as anyone knows now, the President again will ask for a huge sum to be distributed for relief through Mr. Hopkins—and that is when the battle lines will form.

Congress, therefore, will be faced again with appropriation demands to provide food and clothing and likely the request for the funds will come from Mr. Roosevelt as heretofore—for a lump sum. If the number favoring the dose grows to any considerable extent, there may be a reversal of policy whether the President wants it that way or not. You see, in an election year (and all house members and 30-odd senators face election canvasses again next year) it is nice to be able to say to the voters that they are receiving something at the hands of their representative or their senator. The candidates can justify a break with the President easily, and with business sliding backward as is the case now, there will be plenty of relief needed for unemployed again. The voters can be told that they are being given charge of these relief expenditures and that they no longer will have to watch Washington bureaucrats waste the taxpayers' money. On the horizon, therefore, it is possible to see the line of cleavage between the New Deal and the old line Democrats leading to elimination of the dangerous lump-sum appropriation and a restoration of relief ministrations into the hands of local authorities.

There is one further consideration in the general relief situation that attracts attention. I think it is reasonable to assume that the far-flung relief machine which Mr. Hopkins has built up is permeated to the core with political appointments. It is only the usual political procedure and is not confined to the present national administration. Assuming, therefore, that there is such a political machine, it is hardly open to question that it is a Roosevelt machine. The picture then becomes clear: since numerous members of the house and senate want to control their own political destinies, they want control of the organizations for relief in their own jurisdictions. Further, if Mr. Roosevelt should want to seek a third term nomination, those Democrats who want to oppose him would be quite powerless if they had to sit idly by and witness Roosevelt delegates picked from their own stronghold.

Money for Relief
The late Matthew Astor Wilks was a great-grandson of John Jacob Astor. When they were married in 1909, in her mother's flat in Hoboken, Hetty Green was quoted by the newspapers as saying to the groom: "Matthew, you are sixty-five years old and you have the gout. Some day my girl is going to have $5,000 a day. I want to be sure that she is marrying a man who will help her take care of her money."

She has managed nicely. If her $160,000,000 is bringing 3 per cent, that's not $5,000 but $13,778.10 a day. For twenty-seven years she has lived in the house near Greenwich. Her husband died in 1926. Her fortune consists of many blocks of real estate in St. Louis, Boston and New York and railroad and other securities. She has no box at the opera, assumes no grandeur of the reigning dowager and lets Greenwich—highest per capita wealth in America—run itself without her aid. Her participation in public affairs consists mainly of her annual contribution to the Greenwich Firemen's association.

Area of Missouri
Missouri's 65,350 square miles or 41,824,000 acres comprise 2.28 per cent of the area of the United States.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK...

By Lemuel F. Parton

NEW YORK.—Oberlin M. Carter, eighty-one years old, again appeals to the Supreme court in his incessant fight of 39 years for re-admission to the army and the voiding of the court-martial verdict which sent him to prison for fraud. Powerful influence has backed the former captain and his friends call him "the American Dreyfus."

Capt. Carter Again Seeks Vindication
The case against him, on charges of fraud involving many millions, was one of the notorious scandals of the McKinley administration. He had been in charge of river and harbor reclamation at Savannah.

Handsome, gifted, of a distinguished family, Captain Carter was second in scholarship only to Robert E. Lee in all the history of West Point. A newspaper account of March, 1889, reveals him at Savannah just before the turn of his fortunes.

"Captain Carter was an exceedingly popular man in club circles and among his numerous female acquaintances. He was polished in his manner, exceedingly cordial to all and ran toward the rapid set. He was a very fashionable dresser."

"He generally appeared in three or four suits of clothes daily and never failed to don his evening suit for dinner. In the morning he wore his business suit, but by lunch time he appeared in his bicycle suit. After taking a spin about the principal streets of Savannah for a couple of hours, he next appeared in his driving suit. Late in the afternoon, he would appear in his riding suit."

"In the yachting season, he was far in the lead of other followers of the water. He had seven distinct ways of shaking hands."

The quick-change record, or the hand-shaking or something upped him to the job of helping man the teacups at the American embassy in London. As he prepared to leave Savannah, there were routs, assemblies, fetes and army blow-outs to honor him on his departure.

Seeing him off at the boat was Commander E. Gillette, a salty, weather-beaten old sea dog. Captain Carter's gush of affection embarrassed him. The captain insisted that the commander make use of his house.

The old commander was inclined to suspect over-generous persons.

Commander's Suspicions Are Aroused
He pondered the captain's conduct and then went to the office of the engineering corps.

On a map, he saw a retaining wall of masonry spotted up as having been built at a cost of $7,000,000.

Then he strolled down the river, looking for the wall. It wasn't there. He kept on exploring. He reported to the war office that $7,000,000 had been spent for nothing more than marks on paper.

THE courts awarded to Mrs. Matthew Astor Wilks, daughter of Hetty Green, the entire estate of her brother, the late Col. Edward H. R. Green, estimated as between $60,000,000 and $80,000,000. This, with a similar amount inherited from her mother, and the fortune bequeathed by her husband, makes her, according to all current estimates, the richest woman in the world.

She is much like her mother. Sixty-six years old, she lives in an unpretentious house on "Electric hill," in Greenwich, Conn., with a few servants and a ten-year-old collie dog named Prince—as did her mother in her later years. And like her mother, she does her own marketing, driving to town every day or two in a small car.

The late Matthew Astor Wilks was a great-grandson of John Jacob Astor. When they were married in 1909, in her mother's flat in Hoboken, Hetty Green was quoted by the newspapers as saying to the groom: "Matthew, you are sixty-five years old and you have the gout. Some day my girl is going to have $5,000 a day. I want to be sure that she is marrying a man who will help her take care of her money."

She has managed nicely. If her $160,000,000 is bringing 3 per cent, that's not $5,000 but $13,778.10 a day. For twenty-seven years she has lived in the house near Greenwich. Her husband died in 1926. Her fortune consists of many blocks of real estate in St. Louis, Boston and New York and railroad and other securities. She has no box at the opera, assumes no grandeur of the reigning dowager and lets Greenwich—highest per capita wealth in America—run itself without her aid. Her participation in public affairs consists mainly of her annual contribution to the Greenwich Firemen's association.

Area of Missouri
Missouri's 65,350 square miles or 41,824,000 acres comprise 2.28 per cent of the area of the United States.

HOW TO SEW

by Ruth Wyeth Spears

Thumbtack Your Draperies to a Board.

TO GIVE draperies the smartly tailored effect obtained by the professional decorator, a valance board must be used. A straight one by two inch board will be needed. A small finishing nail in the top of the window casing near each end and screw eyes placed near the top of the back of the valance board will hold it in place as shown at A. Both side drapes and valance may be thumbtacked to the board and then be quickly hung all at once by hooking the screw eyes over the finishing nails. Think of the advantage on cleaning day! Just lift board and all off the nails and take outside for dusting.

Tack the side drapes to the board first as at B, arranging fullness in flat pleats. In making the valance, allow enough material to fold around the ends of the board as at C; then tack it along the top, stretching it just enough so that it is perfectly smooth.

The valance shown here is made of glazed chintz and matches the glazed chintz border that faces the edges of the side drapes. The glass curtains may be hung just inside the window frame or to the bottom of the valance board.

Every Homemaker should have a copy of Mrs. Spears' new book, SEWING. Forty-eight pages of step-by-step directions for making slipcovers and dressing tables; restoring and upholstering chairs, couches; making curtains for every type of room and purpose. Making lampshades, rugs, ottomans and other useful articles for the home. Readers wishing a copy should send name and address, enclosing 25 cents, to Mrs. Spears, 210 South Desplains St., Chicago, Illinois.

On the Heels of Effort

The great high-road of human welfare lies along the old highway of steadfast well-doing; and they who are the most persistent, and work in the truest spirit, will invariably be the most successful; success treads on the heels of every right effort.—S. Smiles.

Uncle Phil Says:

Good Deed Is Never Lost

He who sows courtesy, reaps friendship; and he who plants kindness, gathers love.

The man whose faults are the kind everyone can talk openly about—and does—is generally beloved.

Nothing much comes of a man preserving his old love letters, but when a woman does, look out.

Despite Better Judgment

There is nothing in knowing what not to do, if you bullheadedly go ahead and do it, anyway.

If one hasn't much to lose, one can contemplate his misfortune with quite complacent philosophy.

The kind of charity that appeals to your heart is the kind that can be bestowed without hurting the feelings of the recipient.

Rockefeller had the genius for making money, but he could not impart the secret to anyone else, though he tried to in maxim and precept.

Of Her Own Making

Sometimes when a woman recklessly debunks her husband to his face, she breaks his spirit and finds she is linked to a worthless man.

He who goes with wolves learns to howl.

Everybody deserves some compliments. See that he gets them.

TWO NEW FORD V-8 CARS FOR 1938

THE DE LUXE

85 HORSEPOWER

DE LUXE FORD V-8... 112" wheelbase; 85-horsepower engine; Improved Easy-Action Safety Brakes; Center-Poise Ride; All-steel body; Mohair or Broadcloth upholstery; Walnut-finished trim; Twin horns, tail lights, sun visors; Clock; 600" black tires, white side-walls are extra; 8 body types; 6 colors.

THE STANDARD

60 OR 85 HORSEPOWER

STANDARD FORD V-8... 112" wheelbase; 85 or 60 horsepower engine; Improved Easy-Action Safety Brakes; Center-Poise Ride; All-steel body; Broadcloth or Mohair upholstery; Mohair extra in "60"; Mahogany-finished trim. One tail light, sun visor; Twin horns; 3 body types; 8 colors.

FORD offers two new cars for 1938—the Standard Ford V-8 and the De Luxe Ford V-8. They are different in appearance—but built to the same high standard of mechanical excellence—on the same chassis.

Because people liked our 1937 car so well, they bought more than of any other make. They liked its looks, its smooth performance, and the way it handled. We have improved on that car in the newly styled Standard Ford V-8.

But some folks wanted still more size and style, with the same Ford advantages. For them, we designed a new De Luxe line.

The De Luxe Ford V-8 Sedans are longer with more room, larger luggage space, and finer appointments all around.

De Luxe cars are equipped with the 85-horsepower engine only.

The Standard is even lower priced than the De Luxe. It has graceful new lines and well-tailored interiors—with a choice of engine sizes—85 or 60 horsepower.

Before Ford made V-type 8-cylinder engines available to every one, they were used only in expensive cars. Since then, four million Ford owners have learned the genuine enjoyment of driving an eight-cylinder car with all-around economy. The thrifty "60" engine, especially, makes possible in Standard models a very low first cost and equally low operating cost. With two distinct designs, two engine sizes and two price ranges, you'll find a 1938 Ford car to fit your needs exactly.

PRICES FOR CARS DELIVERED IN DETROIT—TAXES EXTRA

Standard Ford V-8 (60 hp.)—Coupe, $699; Tudor, $644; Fordor, $689. Standard Ford V-8 (85 hp.)—Coupe, $639; Tudor, $669; Fordor, $714. De Luxe Ford V-8 (85 hp. only)—Coupe, $689; Tudor, $729; Fordor, $774; Convertible Coupe, $774; Club Coupe, $769; Convertible Club Coupe, $864; Phaeton, $884; Convertible Sedan, $904.

Standard and De Luxe cars equipped with bumpers, bumper guards, spare wheel, tire, tube, tire lock and band, cigar lighter, twin horns, and headlight beam indicator on instrument panel, at no extra charge.

In addition, De Luxe cars are equipped with extra tail light, windshield wiper, sun visor; also de luxe steering wheel, glove compartment lock, clock, and chrome wheel bands, at no extra charge.

50,000 OF YOUR NEIGHBORS

YOU are shopping for a new kitchen stove and you look at two stoves, both the same price. One is an ordinary stove and one is an electric range. Which should you buy?

Outwardly, there is little difference in appearance. Both stoves are attractive, both have enamel finish, both are about the same size. Apparently, there is little to choose between them. YET THERE IS A BIG DIFFERENCE!

Electric cooking is the latest and most modern method of cooking. That is what appeals to most of the 10,000 families in and around Detroit who have switched to electric cooking during the past year. And today you can purchase an electric range for just about the same price you pay for an ordinary stove!

But in addition, an electric range gives you advantages you obtain in no other stove. It brings you CLEANLINESS, with pure heat from a glowing wire—heat as clean as sunlight. It brings you BETTER FLAVOR—the delicious natural flavor of meats and vegetables cooked in their own juices. It brings you healthful WATERLESS COOKING, with precious minerals and important food values sealed in, without requiring special waterless utensils. It brings you more LEISURE—extra hours of freedom away from the kitchen. And it brings you a bright, sparkling kitchen, with less frequent need for re-decorating, and practically no scouring of cooking utensils. It is a big time-saver—of your time!

Remember these ADDED FEATURES when you go shopping for a new stove. Remember that stoves may look alike, but you pay no more for a stove with these advantages of the electric range than you do for one without them. Buy wisely... choose an ELECTRIC range for your kitchen!

HOW WOULD YOU

DEFINE A

COMMERCIAL BANK?

The American Bankers Association in its recently issued Statement of Principles of Commercial Banking, defined a commercial bank as:

"A financial institution, chartered by the state or federal government primarily to receive deposits and provide for credit needs. It operates under specific laws, regulations and limitations which emphasize that the bank's primary obligation is to serve the public interest."

The officers and directors of banks wholeheartedly endorse this definition of the purpose and scope of a commercial bank. We, especially, believe that our primary obligation is "to serve the public interest." The reputation, prestige and success of our bank has been built on this foundation of public service. We believe that our future as a business organization and semi-public institution depends upon continuing adherence to this principle. Our constant goal is to render helpful service to the daily business life of this community.

Conservation Dept. Notes

Title papers for the 375 acre addition to the Algonac state park are now in the hands of the attorney general. This includes 2200 foot frontage on Lake St. Clair.

All deer hunters are asked to report their luck on cards attached to their licenses. This applies not only to those who got deer but to the ones who came back empty handed.

Oil and gas wells on state owned lands leased to operators have returned royalties, rentals and bonuses totaling $677,582.11 the present year. A two percent severance tax is also collected which is divided equally between the state, county and township. Revenue this year from this source is double that of last year when only $273,808.32 was collected.

There seems to be a shortage of claims in the state this year as only 272 clam digging licenses were taken out. In 1926-30 some 2400 licenses were issued annually. The clam shells are used in button making. The largest number of licenses are taken out in Ionia county.

Although only opened to hunting a year ago Lake county shows a larger deer population this year than last. A count shows 25 deer per sq. mile compared to 22.8 last year.

When the conservation commission meets in December the matter of establishing an experimental state game farm in the upper peninsula will be considered.

Seventy-five does and fawns killed by hunters were collected by conservation officers at Mio the first 4 days of the deer hunting season.

The snow and rain the first four days of the hunting season gave Michigan the smallest forest fire loss this year in the states history. Only 14000 acres were burned over this year compared to 18000 the previous low record in 1935.

Hunters who went deep into the north woods to hunt this year were able to keep in touch with civilization by means of phone and radio service maintained by the conservation dept. in case of important messages. All who registered got this service. 500 registered at Baldwin and 100 at Roscommon.

No more moose will be live-trapped at Isle Royal this winter but a check will be kept on them to see how many withstand starvation.

LICENSE TEST FUNDS BEING ACCUMULATED

An indication of the sums various cities and counties of Michigan will eventually have for the purchase of equipment for the examination for operator's and chauffeurs' licenses, is given from collection records of the Department of State.

The 1937 legislature, in amending the motor vehicle licensing act stipulated that those portions of license fees refunded to local governments by the state, must be used for the enforcement of the provisions of the new licensing law. State Police and Department of State Officials, in cooperation with other agencies, are framing examination procedure in accordance with authority of the new law which went into effect July 20.

Local governments receive 15 cents from each operator's and chauffeurs' license issued by the state. These returns must be earmarked by local governments, for use as directed in the law's enforcement, the accumulation for this purpose beginning with the effective date of the licensing law amendments.

For the first ten months of this year, the state has returned a total of $87,770 to local governments. Some to some of the larger counties follow: Wayne, $24,327; Kent, $2,983; Oakland, $5,865; and Ingham, $2,815.

GAS DEALERS' BLANKS TO BE DISTRIBUTED

Registration blanks for wholesale gasoline dealers will be distributed by the Department of State shortly so as to avoid any possibility of delay in registration before the Jan. 1st, 1938 deadline. Blanks for retail dealers are available at the Department at present.

MYSTERY OF 'THE MURDER WITHOUT MOTIVE'

STILL TIME LEFT TO MAKE JELL

Most Michigan homes accustomed to homestyle jelly are well stocked up for winter months, yet there still remains time and supplies for restocking pantry shelves.

At least some of the suggestions of Miss Francis A. Starin, assistant professor of foods at the Michigan State College, indicate that bright looking preserves are still a possibility. Those who were away during summer months or households which have made unusual raids on the annual supply can find some solace in the possibility.

Simplicity is evident. According to Miss Starin, equal portions of the quince juice, apple juice and cranberry juice are enough to do the trick.

Twice as much water is added to the quinces as they must cook twice as long. After about 45 minutes of cooking these are to be strained. Two cups of water to the pound of cranberries is usual. Then you cook thoroughly in 15 to 20 minutes and then are to be strained. Equal amounts of the three juices then are to be heated to the boiling point and two cups of sugar added slowly for each three cups of juice. The usual jelly test of heavy drops of sheeting off a spoon can be used. The color should be about that of currant jelly pleasantly tart.

Some drivers of autos feel that they must drive a car that has more horsepower than other cars. They feel that they must sit behind the wheel and drive an auto as though it had 100 wild horses out in front of it running at random.

Under the hood of every auto are anywhere from 4 to 100 horses—docile and tame in the hands of some drivers, but wild and dangerous in the hands of others.

"Ride 'em Cowboy" may be a good cheer at a rodeo but "step on it" is poor advice to the person who takes a car out on a public highway that other people use.

Combine that horsepower with horse sense and drive an auto carefully.

The laughing tenderness of his voice twisted Brooke's heart unbearably. She tore her thoughts from him and watched her brother. She could see his lips move in unison with the lines spoken on the stage.

The curtain fell slowly on the minor climax of the first act. The setting and theme had been established and the characters presented. The audience applauded enthusiastically. From a hole in the curtain Brooke saw the New York producer go up the aisle. Would he return?

"Don't you dare go away, don't you dare!" she flung at his straight back.

"How did it go?" Sam's voice was hoarse.

"It's wonderful, Sam. Not an unnecessary word; every line was 'Forward march!' for your story. The acting is the best I've ever seen in an amateur performance."

"So what? Does it prove anything? They're all good except Daphne; she isn't getting her lines over. I hold my breath every time she opens her mouth. Isn't Trent great? He's the spark-plug of the cast. Wait till you see him in the crucial moment in the next act, when he thinks the girl he loves has double-crossed him."

Jerry Field appeared beside her dressed in leather jacket and knickers with a gun in his hand.

"How's it going, Brooke?"

"I can't see the stage, but from the response of those out front I'd say it was a hit. You're grand in that sports costume. You've made every point, Jerry."

"Thanks. That's because when I say a word of love to Lucette I'm saying it to you." He caught her hand and pressed his lips to it fervently.

"Please—don't, Jerry."

"You've said that too many times, sweet thing. After the play we'll have a reckoning—get me?"

"After the play," Brooke repeated the words to herself. So much was to happen that would change lives, after the play.

"Hey! Field! Field, come on!" Sam's whisper. Sam's beckoning hand. Brooke followed Jerry as far as the wings from which she could see him drop to a log on the stage, left center.

"Why don't you turn thumbs up and end the poor boy's torment?" asked a low voice behind her.

She turned quickly. Something in Mark Trent's voice made her furiously angry.

"That's quite a suggestion that I end 'the poor boy's torment.' I will, tonight."

"Don't do it until I change after the show. I want to drive you home, Brooke. There is something I must say to you."

Brooke felt the blood rush to her face and recede. Had Henri double-crossed her and told him about the will? Did Mark Trent think she intended to hide it? She wouldn't give him a chance to accuse her before she produced that paper locked in her desk. She said as steadily as she could with his eyes boring into her soul:

"Sorry. The minute the curtain falls, I shall dash to Lookout House to change into something snappy for the grand celebration. You wouldn't have me come to your grand party in this green knit, would you? Quick! Sam wants the wings cleared."

She backed out, conscious of Mark Trent's disturbing presence close beside her.

"The music has stopped! There go the footlights!" She caught his sleeve, looked up and begged in an unsteady whisper:

"Do your best, Mark. This act will kill or make the play."

His lips were on hers so quickly that she had no chance to protest. He kissed her passionately, thoroughly; said in a husky whisper:

"Credit that to the silent policeman. Now, I'll play that part to the hilt."

Brooke tried to ignore her racing pulses. She mocked:

"I seem to be in the path of an emotional cyclone; first, Jerry Field; now you. I suppose Jed will be the next. Your cue! Quick! Quick!"

In an instant he was on the stage.

Brooke shut her eyes tight in an effort to steady a whirling world. Mark Trent's lips on hers had been like an electric current through her body. Every pulse, every nerve responded.

She listened. It was very still in front, a sort of hypnotized stillness. She could hear the voices on the stage, but she couldn't keep her mind on what they were saying. Even as she supplied properties, even as the actors made their entrances and exits she was thinking of Mark Trent's eyes as he had looked down into hers, was wondering what he wanted to tell her on the way home?

How Reyburnish! The incurable dramatic streak in the Reyburn temperament had been in the saddle when she had planned that.

CHAPTER XIII

As the curtain fell with dramatic slowness for the last time, the audience stood clapping and calling. As it rose again, Brooke saw the blond marcelle, second row center, make its way up the aisle followed by a man with sleek black hair. The producer and the manager! They had come back for the third. That must mean something. Were they leaving before speaking to Sam? He was on the stage now in the midst of the cast who had taken their bows; the arms of the women were heaped with flowers. He had put on coat and collar and tie but the white bow had gone rakish. He looked very young as he stood grinning boyishly and waiting for a chance to speak. His voice shook as he said:

"Thanks lots! Glad you liked it. Couldn't have put it across without their help." He indicated the men and girls around him on the stage, and the audience broke into thunderous applause. The curtain fell slowly.

Brooke's eyes were blinded by happy tears as she started for the dressing-room. She must get back to Lookout House to change for the party. The girls of the cast were going to Mark Trent's in the evening frocks they had worn in the last act. Leaving the wings, she collided with the marcelled blond. The New York producer! He was unaware of her murmured apology as he gesticulated and talked to his sleek-haired companion. She listened unashamedly and heard him say:

"It's got everything. Humor, suspense, moving simplicity, fidelity to ideals, and unflattering movement."

"Fit has it got box-office?"

"I'll gamble my last dollar on it. It's the old recipe for play-writing carried to perfection."

"Make 'em laugh; make 'em weep; make 'em wait.' Where'd you say that boy got his start?"

Brooke dodged acquaintances and strangers in evening clothes who were crowding on to the stage to greet the actors. In the dressing-room she slipped into her fur coat and ran downstairs to her town car parked near the rear entrance.

The snow was falling half-heartedly as if it had not quite decided if it were worth while to come down at all. She drove swiftly toward home. Mark Trent had asked her to plan his party, had told her to go the limit in preparations to make it a success.

"Go as far as you like with everything, only be sure that there is enough to eat and sufficient help. To have plenty is an obsession of mine."

There would be plenty and then some. Just before she left Lookout House for the Club theater, the caterer had arrived with his van and a horde of waiters. They had sounded like an army making camp.

Trent's Japanese cook came forward to open the door of the car when she arrived. Snow powdered his shoulders and cap. His eyes glittered in his swarthy face. His teeth gleamed as he ducked his head in a funny little bow. Brooke let down the window.

"I won't get out here, Taku. I'll run into our garage. All the space outside will be needed for the cars of the guests."

"You right, Mees. Thank you. Much big party, Kowa say."

Would there be room for Sam's coupe? Brooke wondered, as she drove into the garage. One corner had been filled with ice cream tubs. He could leave it outside, she decided. She shut off her engine and partially closed the door as she went out.

As she reached the dark hemlock behind the Other House, she lingered for an instant in its deep shadow. How still the world was. Snow fell as softly as if someone had slit open a pillow and shaken down its feathers. There was no near sound of surf tonight.

She shrank deeper into the purple gloom under the tree as two men came down the back steps from the kitchen—waiters, she knew by their clothing. Not more than five feet from her one of them stopped to light a cigarette. He growled:

"The boss can wait for them ice cream tubs till I get a smoke."

"Sure he can. Light up again and take a look at this."

A hand held a scrap of paper within the light of a match. The same voice said:

"It's the picture of the dame who said: 'He was a swell-dressed fella.' Guess I'll have to date her up."

The other man closed his hand over the match.

"You an' your dames! Forget 'em for tonight, or you'll crack up on this job. Come on!"

As Brooke dressed in her room, the words and suggestive laugh of the man who had produced the picture kept boiling up through her jubilation over Sam's success, through the inescapable memory of Mark Trent's eyes and voice as he had caught her in his arms.

She was adjusting a rhinestone, and synthetic emerald clip to the shoulder of her white satin frock when a thought forked through her mind like lightning. The amber and brown eyes of the looking-glass girl frowning back at her widened with amazement; her red lips moved.

"He said—he said—I'll have to date her up!"

In an instant she was on the floor beside her desk with a big manila envelope in her lap. She pulled out a bunch of clippings. She had it! The picture of a girl, Maggie Cassidy, and under it the caption:

"She said that the man she saw in the garage was a swell-dressed fella."

The waiter who had shown the other man the clipping was the Bath Crystal Bandit, the man she had recognized at the Supper club! He was the man who had tied up Hunt in the garage! He was also the murderer of Lola Hunt?

Why was the man in Mark Trent's house tonight? His pal had said: "Forget 'em, or you'll crack up on this job." What job? Something big must have tempted him to come so near the scene of his last hold-up, or had that newspaper headline stating that he was being followed to Canada made him feel secure?

What was he after? More jewels? "Get a peek at Mrs. Gregory out front, third row, center. She's blazing with jewels."

Jed Stewart's words answered Brooke's question as clearly as if whispered in her ear. The man had come for Mrs. Gregory's diamonds. She must notify the police! She snatched her hand from the telephone in its cradle on the desk. Not that. Wires had ears. She would go herself. Across the causeway. To Inspector Harrison at headquarters. She could go and be back before she was missed. Suppose she were stopped on the way! Where was Henri? Was he in on this? She must locate him before she left the house.

She caught up a green velvet wrap, stuffed some bills into her emerald satin bag. Pelted down the stairs into the living-room toward the bell. Stopped. Where was the parrot? He was not in his cage! Had he made another break for freedom? She looked between the gilded bars. What seemed to be merely a bunch of green feathers lay stiffly on the bottom.

"Well, if this isn't just one of those days!" she said aloud.

"Oh, Brooke!" Jerry Field called from the hall.

As she appeared in the doorway, he exclaimed:

"Of all the gorgeous creatures! You look like a million!"

"Jerry, drive me across the causeway, will you? Quick!"

"What's the matter?"

"I must go. Is your roadster here?"

"By the garage?"

Brooke's blood congealed. Suppose as they stepped into the car the two crook waiters should appear for a tub of ice cream? Would the men suspect her errand? Into her mind flashed her reply to Mark Trent:

"That's quite a suggestion that I end the poor boy's torment. I will, tonight."

What a thought for this crisis! What a thought!

"Wait a minute, Jerry! While I'm upstairs, set the parrot's cage in the back hall, please. I—I can't bear to have it here. You'll see why."

She raced up the stairs, charged into her bedroom, pulled a suitcase from the shelf. On the way down, she took the two lowest stairs in a jump. She thrust the case into Field's hand.

"What's the big idea?"

"Don't—ask—questions! Let's go!"

"You can't walk in the snow in those white satin sandals, you'll ruin the green heels!"

She pushed him toward the door. "Get going! Get going!"

"Well, I'll be darned! Come on."

Brooke felt the dampness between the straps of her sandals. It seemed miles to the garage. There was Jerry's roadster! A waiter was coming down the back steps. It might be the Bath Crystal Bandit! She called in a guarded voice to the Japanese who was directing parking, but loud enough for the man on the steps to hear:

"Taku! Put this suitcase in the rumble. And, Taku, if you see my brother, tell him—I—I can't bear to have him here. You'll see why."

In Step With Santa Claus

KEEPING up with the Joneses is easy—it's keeping up with Santa Claus that has Sew-Your-Own in stitches currently. We got a peek at his wares, though, and frankly we copied some of his artistry. (You can see for yourself there's a "Christmasy look" about today's trio of fashions.) And happily you can do more than look and wish—you can make them realities the easy way: just sew, sew, Sew-Your-Own!

Cute and Cozy.

Look your prettiest in leisure or on the job in the lusciously feminine house jacket (young sister to the house coat) above, left. Santa Claus has ordered thousands of these for feminine friends in his good graces and you know S. C. usually shows impeccable taste in gifts. In handsome silk crepe or very lightweight corduroy it is as cosy as a love seat before an open fire. Make it either in the short length (see inset) or regular dress length.

Feminine Flattery.

Polish yourself off in a brilliantly styled new frock for the holidays just ahead. Sew-Your-Own's newest success (above center) will be your success once you wear it in the public eye. It is most gifted in its distinctive design, below-waist slimmness, and all-of-a-piece simplicity. Make your version the very essence of chic in sheer wool or satin, in your most flattering color.

A Blouse or Two.

Tops in the fashion picture just now is that friendly little item—the blouse. A completely engaging one is shown here for women who sew. Wear it tucked in or peplum style. And here's a practical idea: you have a choice in sleeve lengths. For variety's sake, why not make the long sleeved model in silk crepe for dress; the short sleeved one in jersey for sports and all occasion wear? Pattern 1412 is designed for sizes 32 to 42. Size 34 requires 4 1/2

Home Heating Hints

By John Barclay
Heating Expert

IT DOESN'T pay to neglect your heating plant when you know you have a good fire but the heat is below par. You run up fuel bills and make for yourself a lot of trouble and worry which could be avoided.

There are literally dozens of things that make a "sick" furnace refuse to deliver sufficient heat, and unless you are familiar with heating plants, it will pay you to call in a competent furnace man.

For instance, the check damper may be placed wrong; the turn damper may be out of position; the regulator may need adjustment; there may be caked soot in the smoke-pipe or on the heating surfaces; radiators may be wrongly pitched; draft may be partially choked; a loose bolt or a rusty joint may be wasting heat.

Those are just a few of the common things that can keep a furnace from delivering enough heat. If you cannot locate the cause quickly and easily, don't take a chance on wasting fuel money. A service man will "spot" the trouble promptly and soon put your heating plant in comfortable, healthful, economical working order. Send for him immediately.

Increased by Advertising

In 1869 the per unit of population value of manufactured products in America amounted to $89.60. For the year 1929 the per unit of population value of manufactured products had increased to a total of $579.70. Advertising created the demand that called for the employment of three to four times the number of workers and reduced the cost of products to consumers.

Each year we approach Armistice Day with a sense of satisfaction and other peaceful year for America. In America we have always built for peace. Our highway development allows mobility of population. Our business transactions are for the most part done by credit. Mutual trust and confidence redound to our benefit. A steady growth in National wealth and a continued rise in our standard of living, are products of peace. Through peace we prosper through war we destroy our progress. In Europe density of population and lack of natural resources make for war, not so here. State boundaries do not make a different people nor do they prevent flow of natural resources.
